Murder Charge Laid Against Alvin Downham

Elk Mills Youth Held Without Bail for Grand Jury by Coroner's Jury; Not Present at Inquest; Victim Bled Yesterday

STILL REFUSES TO TALK

"We, the jurors, find that Frank Edwin Yeamans came to his death January 18, 1926, by being struck on the head with an automobile jack in the hands of Alvin Downham, with deliberate intent to murder said Frank Edwin Yeamans on the Cedar road, between Elk Mills and Elkton, in Cecil County, Maryland; and we, the jurors, recommend that said Alvin Downham be held for the grand jury for Cecil County without bail."

The above verdict was given out at 10 o'clock Monday night in the Court House, Elkton, by a coroner's jury, following an inquest held by Cecil County authorities in the death of Edward Yeamans, North East man, whose body was found Saturday in a brook a mile from Elk Mills.

Downham was not present at the inquest. He is still confined in the Baltimore city jail, where he was taken the day of his arrest.

Twenty witnesses were called by the State during the inquest conducted by Coroner Howard Green. The testimony of all endeavored to hook up the movements of Downham on Monday, January 18, and the day following. From their versions, it was accepted that the murder occurred somewhere along the "Cedar" Road from Elkton to Elk Mills, about 4.45 Monday afternoon.

Damaging Testimony
Perhaps the most damaging testimony given was that from Leon Ellison, Newark constable. Ellison stated that Downham had said he would kill Yeamans if it took five years.

This statement was made, said Alvin, when he and Downham were discussing the death of the latter's father, which occurred when Yeamans' car ran him down some years ago. The driver was exonerated.

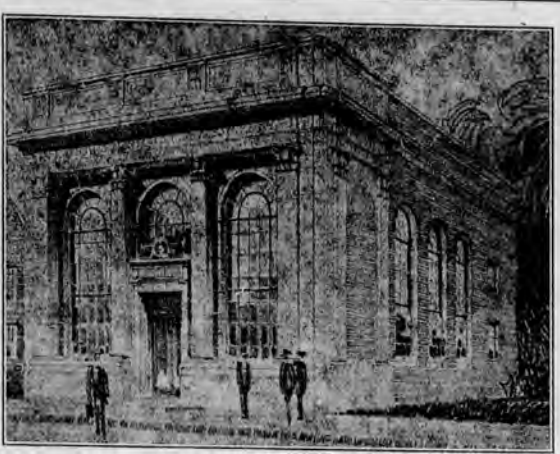

Downham worked with Ellison here for several months in the branch mill of the Elk Mills Silk Fabric Company, Delaware avenue.

Doctors Bates and McKnight reported the findings of the autopsy. Examination revealed that Yeaman's head was beaten with terrific blows from a jack. Six fractures of the skull resulted, any one of which, the doctors said, would cause death.

Refuses To Talk
Not once since his arrest last Wednesday as a suspect, has Downham given way to the constant prodding of state police and detectives. His attempts to prove an alibi for his movements Monday having failed by the discovery of Yeaman's body, he has since refused to answer questions. His family in Elk Mills are said to have abandoned him.

The funeral of Yeamans was held from his home in North East Monday afternoon. Rector Quinn, of the Episcopal Church there conducted the services, which were largely attended. The ice-coated body of Yeamans was found between Elk Mills and the Rockdale Road Saturday by three school boys who were lead to joining the posse searching in the woods by the reward of $250 offered by State's Attorney Clayton. Morton and Lawrence Jackson, sons of Howard Jackson, and their cousin, Taylor Jackson, of Stanley Jackson, all of Elk Mills, found the body. They were going over the ground which had been searched by several others before them when they noticed that the stalks of dead weeds had been snapped and lay to the ground. This intensified their search, and they soon came upon the body frozen in the gully.

NEW FARMERS TRUST HOME

Above is the architect's sketch of the new banking house for the Farmers Trust Company of Newark, now being erected on Main street, just west of Academy. The design strikes a new and attractive note in bank architecture, combining graceful treatment of the exterior with convenient space division inside. The structure is designed and being erected by the Tilghman-Moyer Co., of Allentown, Pennsylvania.

The building measures 42 feet front by 71 feet deep, contains one floor and a mezzanine, and is built of limestone and brick. The facade is enhanced by two attractive pillars and tall windows at each side of the entrance. Inside, a public space extended down the length of the bank, with offices on the left and teller's cages on the right. At the end of the foyer stands the built-in security vault of latest design. An attractive stairway in the rear leads to the mezzanine, where the directors' room and storage space is available. A number of private coupon rooms are provided, as is also a room for lady patrons.

Excavation for the building is nearly completed now. It is being done by F. W. Lovett, local contractor.

NEWARK BOYS PRIZE JUDGES

High School's Entry In State-Wide Contest Brings Bankers Cup Home

Three Newark boys, George Cook, Alec Zabenko and James Harkness, composing the High School's corn judging team, have won the Delaware State Bankers' Association cup for 1926 as a result of their work at Dover last week. Announcement of the award was made yesterday.

The team was coached by Horace A. Nunn, agricultural instructor at the school. They beat out Caesar Rodney for the cup by over ten points. Du Pont High School was third in the awards.

The Bankers' cup is placed in competition each year, the plan having originated in 1925 through efforts of J. E. Dougherty, of Newark, chairman, of the agricultural committee of the Association. Permanent possession of the cup can only be gained by winning it three times. This is the first leg for Newark.

The Harrington Company and the Robbins Hose Company, of Dover, were tied for honors during the first two weeks of the campaign.

The greatest leads were reported from rural New Castle county, where the Minquas Fire Company of Newport continues to head the list with a total of 2224 votes. The Five Points and Brandywine Hundred Fire Companies are tied for second place with 1194 votes and the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company, of Newark is third with 1124 votes.

CONDUCTOR IS DEATH VICTIM

David B. Chalmers Instantly Killed by Passing Express

David B. Chalmers, 45 years old, of 2214 Jessup street, Wilmington, a conductor employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, was instantly killed early yesterday afternoon when he leaned from the steps of his caboose and was struck by a train proceeding in the opposite direction.

The accident happened about a mile north of Elkton, at the Big Elk bridge. Chalmers was the conductor in charge of freight train 5217 northbound. He is said to have been standing on the steps of the caboose and apparently leaned over toward the southbound track to look down the track as passenger express train 181, southbound, appeared. Mr. Chalmers' head was crushed and the body thrown from the caboose. His death was instantaneous. The body was taken charge of by Coroner Green, of Elkton. Mr. Chalmers went to work for the railroad as a brakeman in December, 1901. He was promoted to conductor in 1918. He was married and only his wife survives him.

Leaving For France

Professor George E. Brinton, assistant professor of French at the University, leaves Saturday from New York aboard "La France" of the French Line for Paris, where he will relieve Professor Kirkbride in charge of the Delaware Foreign Study group for the balance of their term. In Paris, he will rejoin Mrs. Brinton and their baby son who have been spending several months with her parents there.

FIRST SOCCER GAME

The first soccer team of the University of Delaware opened its season today when it went to Tome institute for the first game.

Coach "Duffy" Meyers has been coaching the team for the last three or four weeks, and he has now a squad of about forty men, almost as many as showed up for the football team.

That the Pennsylvania Railroad is seriously considering the abolishment of passenger service on the Newark-Delaware City branch has been learned during the past week.

W. Miller Wardrobe general superintendent of the Maryland Division, has the matter under advisement, and has already begun sounding out sentiment in this vicinity. Mr. Wardrobe bases his arguments on the fact that passenger traffic on the branch line is not sufficient to warrant continuance, since the trains are being run at a loss each day.

Protest Filed

Edward O. Cooch is said to be leading the fight for maintenance of the passenger trains. Nearly every resident along the line have added their voices to a protest. Through Mr. Cooch's efforts, the community at large has been informed of the proposed change.

In brief, the arguments against the removal of trains set forth that (1) it will seriously inconvenience a large number of residents in the lower county who depend on the road for commuting to Wilmington, via Newark, and to this town, and (2) that if the railroad authorities plan to carry the freight traffic as usual, some provision must be made for passengers. Opponents of the change admit that the passenger traffic may not be profitable, but point to possible substitution by gasoline coaches as a remedy. Hundreds of students of the University use the morning train from Porters to Newark on Mondays during the year. Curtailment would thus make it necessary for them to leave their down-state homes Sunday evening to make their classes here Monday.

Newark Joins In

President J. K. Johnston, of the Newark Chamber of Commerce said last night he had been informed of the railroad company's proposal. He has sent a letter to Mr. Wardrobe containing the Chamber's protest. The letter says in effect that Newark is one of the most prosperous towns in the State and that one of the strong talking points for its future is its railroad facilities, with the Delaware City branch as an important factor. It also states that removal of service would seriously handicap the movement of a great number of people.

President Pierce of Kenyon
College So States In Paris
Edition of N. Y. Herald

In the Paris edition of the New York Herald of December 24th last, appeared an interview with Dr. Pierce, president of Kenyon College, who had completed a survey of foreign study activities.

"I believe," said President Pierce, "there is need of study abroad as never before. Honor students, who must pass the ordeal of faculty approval, should be sent and they should come during their Junior or Senior year."

"The Delaware group system works well," continued Dr. Pierce, "and students who come here should be under some such supervision. There should be some sort of resident dean to check up on their work, to see that they are taking it seriously."

The Herald obtained the interview with the American college president as he was about to sail for this country aboard the "De Grasse." Kenyon College is said to be famous for its individual attention to the undergraduates.

New members of the Board of Directors will be elected and important matters of business will be brought before the members. One matter to be considered is the change in the name of the organization. When the Y. W. C. A. was started in the state, it was planned to have two organizations: the Northern District, which should cover New Castle and Kent Counties, and the Southern District, which should include Sussex County.

The Northern District was the first to be organized. As it progresses, it seemed that the whole state should be in one unit instead of two. The desire for Y. W. C. A. activities has been manifested by several communities in Sussex County and plans are being made to answer the requests during the next few months. The present title, "Northern District of Delaware," will therefore be inappropriate and the motion to eliminate the word "Northern" will be proposed for the consideration of the members at this meeting.

Welsh Tract

P-T. A. Meets

The Welsh Tract P-T. A. meeting was held Thursday, January 21st. Extracts were read about what Georgia, South Carolina and North Carolina are doing in the Adult Movement. The program was in charge of the Health Crusaders and consisted of singing, games, health songs, dramatization of Health Rainbow, repetition of memory work for month and a little play. The health posters were next exhibited by the children of the school. After the program the refreshment committee served ice cream and cake.

CONCERT AT UNION HALL

Red Men of Mill Creek Hundred To Donate Receipts to Fund For Dead Firemen's Families

Wawa Tribe, I. O. R. M., of Union in Mill Creek Hundred, have invited the Continental Fibre Company's band of Newark, to play a concert in Union Hall on Saturday night, January 30th. The bandmen have accepted and are arranging one of their attractive programs for the occasion.

Wawa Tribe, in this manner, is joining a number of other county groups in raising a fund for the relief of the families of Cranston Heights firemen who were killed two weeks ago at Marshallton when their truck turned over.

A large crowd is expected to attend the concert. Refreshments will be on sale at the hall.

MISSIONARY GUESTS

The Missionary Societies of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches here were guests this afternoon of the St. Thomas Auxiliary in the latter church. A large attendance is reported.

Elkton Legion Drive Climbs Up

Subscriptions to the fund for an American Legion Ambulance for Cecil county amounted to well over $2,000 at the close of last week, according to Sterling E. Dunbar, treasurer of the drive.

The goal for the Legionnaires is set at $5,000, with over two weeks to go. Subscriptions have come in from all parts of the county, and a few from adjacent states. That the movement has struck a popular chord is evidenced by the heavy advance contributions.

P-T. A. NEWS

North Star

Fifty members were reported at the meeting of North Star Community Club on Tuesday evening, January 19. After the opening exercises, papers were read on the lives of Robert E. Lee and of Benjamin Franklin, both of whose birthdays occur during the month of January. There was a discussion of the work that is being done to stamp illiteracy out of our state and the way to help in the campaign. The members are requested to bring valentines to exchange at the next meeting, on February 16.

Odesa

Odesa Home and School League held an interesting meeting on Friday, January 15, when the children gave a Health program, and the speaker was Mrs. Edna Upton, of the Delaware Anti-Tuberculosis Society, who told of the work that is being done through the state, especially of the Health Crusade that is being waged in the schools. Health posters made by the children of the intermediate grades were on display. In order to raise money for the league, an Elephant Social is planned for the next meeting. The members voted to have the secretary order soap and paper towels for the use of the pupils at school, and for further help in the health work, it was decided that two members should visit the school the first Wednesday of each month to weigh and measure the pupils on the new scales that have been purchased.

Political Pot Again Boils In Elkton; Many Flirt With Sheriff's Office Plum

Gentlemen, Heretofore Content With Their Lots Suddenly Blossom Forth As Real, Honest-To-Goodness Candidates--And Election Day Still Many Months Off

The mere fact that seven long months intervene between now and the date for the primaries hasn't kept the lid on the Cecil county political kettle, according to rumors now prevalent in Elkton.

In fact, according to our informant, dark horses, pale green horses, and plain out and out candidates are fluttering around today for all the world like ladies at a church supper. The arena is positively congested with office seekers.

The merits of the claims so far made can only be judged about eight months from now, but Elkton is talking politics, and the characters so far introduced might be interesting to those on "the outside looking in."

11 Hats, Count 'Em

At least eleven estimable gentlemen have the Law and Order complex. The office of Sheriff, hence, is being heavily lusted.

The lure of such a small office as county constable has little charm for the genial, robust Leland Ott; the "marriage mill" grinds too slow for James H. Short; farming is beginning to pull on E. Kirk Gifford; being Deputy Sheriff, says, Edward W. Crothers, is entirely too strenuous for a fat man; Richard Ott is a cattle dealer when he's not talking politics; and George C. Biddle would rather tote a tidy gun on his hip than "a hundred of corn" on his back.

All these gentlemen, mind you, have eyes glued on the Sheriff's office, and have modestly expressed their willingness to protect the weak and lowly—but not the bootleggers. The present incumbent, Jesse Pierson, is also said to have thrown his derby into the ring, as have the following last minute entries: George L. Ewing, Roland Kyle, James G. McVey, and Howard Vincent.

Four-Year Plum

By recent act of the Legislature, this office in Cecil county has been made a four-year post, thus establishing it as one of the most lucrative jobs on the pay roll. That this is true, can be evidenced by the number of pre-season entries in the "Sheriff's Handicap"—generally looked upon as the prize stake race next September.

But that's not all: Dame Rumor is a busy old soul these days. Lately she has been poking around the County Commissioners' sanctum in the court house. Two leaders from "down the county" near what E. Kirk Brown used to term, that "ungodly first district," have vaulted the fence and become avowed candidates. They are: James P. McCoy, of Cecilton, and William H. Johnson, of Chesapeake City.

Other county plums, scheduled to be picked next fall and distributed by the voters to deserving aspirants, are not as yet ripe enough to tell who have been admiring them. Madam Rumor, however, has her ear to the ground and it won't be long before more candidates are trotted out.

Meanwhile, veteran politicians in Elkton, according to our informant, say that blanket sheets will be needed to hold the names of candidates this year, unless the leaders of both parties get together, whip into line the straying bees and start making honey for their own particular heavyweights.

ELKTON GETS OFF TO FLYING START IN SUSQUEHANNA CAGE CIRCUIT

Company E Guardsmen Romp Away With Port Deposit Club in First Fracas of Newly Organized League; Deibert and Cleaves are Stars

Before a big crowd in the Elkton Armory Saturday night, the Company E five of that town won the first game in the new Susquehanna Basketball League, beating Port Deposit, 34-22.

The first half started right off with Elkton in the lead. The fast pace continued for many minutes, with Minster, W. Deibert and Preston bombarding the Rivermen's basket. The whirlwind attack brought the crowd to its feet. At half time Elkton had a commanding lead, with only two field goals scored against them.

The final frame saw Port Deposit tighten up and the Elkton offensive was stopped temporarily. The game once more became close enough for excitement. Elkton, however, was never seriously menaced, and galloped on to the final whistle without extending themselves.

"Jack" Deibert led the attack for Elkton, gathering in seven field goals. Jake Minster and Preston followed with four apiece. For Port Deposit, the work of Cleaves, said to be the Tome School coach, featured the play from their angle. The score:

INDEPENDENCE HALL GROUP

A modest group of Colonial buildings on Chestnut street, Philadelphia, in the heart of the financial district, will possibly claim more attention from visitors to the Sesquicentennial International Exposition this year than any other historical landmark about the city.

The buildings, known as the Independence Hall group, include Independence Hall, the central unit, with Congress Hall on the left and old City Hall on the right, the latter two of slightly later date. Together they form a symmetrical group illustrative of the changing phases of early American architecture. Independence Square, a vest pocket park in the background, is crisscrossed with pavements lined with rest benches.

Independence Hall and its wings were designed and built by Andrew Hamilton, a Philadelphia barrister. He was a member of the Provincial Assembly of Pennsylvania, and was one of the committee of three appointed by that body to select a site and put up a building to house the Assembly. In the spring of 1732 ground was broken and the building begun.

"A new great Bell," weighing 2030 pounds, with this motto: "Proclaim Liberty throughout the land unto all the inhabitants thereof," was placed in position in the steeple of Independence Hall in 1753, and a clock was put in the tower in 1759.

While the constructive work of Andrew Hamilton embraced only Independence Hall, he had recognized that the city and country would require better accommodations and he had created a trust in the two pieces of ground bounding it on which now stand Congress Hall and the old City Hall.

Congress Hall was completed in 1791. The three together have a frontage on Chestnut street of 396 feet and were, at the time of their completion, the largest building unit for State purposes in America.

Among the more interesting events which have taken place in the historic structures are Washington's acceptance of his appointment as General of the Continental Army on June 16, 1775; the declaration of the colonies that they were and of right ought to be free and independent states, on July 4, 1776; the signing of the Articles of Confederation and perpetual union between the states by eight states, on July 9, 1778; the reception of Lafayette upon his visit to Philadelphia in 1824; the tolling of the Liberty Bell upon the death of John Marshall, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, on July 8, 1835 and its subsequent cracking; the inauguration of Washington for his second term as President of the United States, on March 4, 1793.

Seaford Girl Outdistances Boys In Competition For Judging Cup

The champion Corn Club Boy of Delaware is a girl, and the big silver trophy cup presented annually by the Delaware Corn Growers' Association to the champion corn club judge of the State, accustomed for several years to rest among the athletic trophies, guns and fishing tackle of former masculine holders will now occupy the place of honor on the boudoir table of Irene Tarr, of Seaford.

Announcement of the results of the Sixth Annual Corn Judging Contest for 4-H Club members, held during the State Corn Show at Dover last week, were made today by State Lender of County Agents, A. D. Cobb, and show that Irene Tarr made the highest average score in competition with 22 boys from the three counties of Delaware.

Irene made a total score of 370 points out of a possible 400. George Cook, holder of many honors as a Corn Club member and Newark Agricultural High School student, was close second, with a score of 363 points. Burnham Simpson, of Housatonic, holder of the cup three years ago, placed third with a score of 352. Lawrence Meredith, Greenwood, holder of the cup for the last two years, was off form, and dropped to 18th place in the competition.

The fact that the average score of all the contestants was 310 points out of a possible perfect score of 400 indicates that competition was very close and that the club members had received careful training in corn judging, from their County Club Agents and local leaders.

A Farm Girl

Irene Tarr, the new champion, is a real farm girl. For two years she has been the only Corn Club girl in Delaware, and during those two years she has made the boys look to their laurels. Irene plants, cultivates and harvests her own corn on the farm of her father, Albert N. Tarr, near Flowers School, west of Seaford. She also takes an interest in the livestock on the farm and owns a fine Holstein cow.

At the State Corn Show last year Irene won second prize on her exhibit of ten ears of white corn and this year won fourth place in the same class. At the Kent-Sussex Fair in 1924, she won first premium on her entry in the agricultural parade, and at the same fair last July she was a member of the corn judging team which won first place and a free scholarship to the Junior Short Course at the University of Delaware in August.

Father Interested

Much of the success which Irene has had in her corn growing work is due to the interest shown by her father. Mr. Tarr is one of Sussex county's most successful corn growers, and acts as local leader for the Flowers Corn Club which includes in its membership several boys of his neighborhood. Ellis Tull, a member of this club, placed fourth in the judging contest at Dover.

According to Mr. Cobb, the holding of these contests does much to stimulate the interest of farm boys and girls in crop production.

"Practice in corn judging trains these young folks to recognize and select seed corn of high productive ability," said Mr. Cobb. "During the last five years our corn club members have had an average production of 55 bushels of corn per acre which is about 25 bushels above the average farm production for the state over the same period. Much of this increased production is due to the selection and use of better seed corn as their records do not indicate that the methods of cultivation and fertilization are much different from the general practice."

NOSE BATTERED

William Terrell of Elkton suffered a broken nose one night recently, when his car collided with another machine in Elkton. The accident occurred during a particularly heavy fog, which is believed to have been a factor in the collision.

WEEDS HELP BIRDS

The weeds whose tops stick above the snow in winter serve a number of uses, says Nature Magazine. They help their own kind and they help the birds who feed upon their fruits and seeds. Among the common weed tops are those of pigweed and of milkweed.

Surplus Lands And Better Markets Key To Peninsula's Future, Says G. Layton Grier

Speaking Before Conference Of Del-Mar-Via Association Friday, Milford Man Urges Lower Delaware To Get Into Line

Sounding a call for Sussex and Kent counties to tie up with the plan to publicize the Eastern Shore throughout the country, Dr. G. Layton Grier, of Milford, brought to light a number of interesting points in discussing the situation with respect to lower Delaware.

In his judgment, Delaware and the Shore can raise anything in the way of crops now being raised in the middle west; land is plentiful, and short crops are showing a neat profit each year. His address was aimed particularly in explaining to his hearers just what the new Eastern Shore Association embraces; what it proposes to do and how.

Prominent Delawareans from all over the two lower counties attended the meeting in Georgetown at which Dr. Grier spoke. During the conference, plans were made for the raising of a Sussex county fund to pool with those from a dozen other Shore counties with which it is hoped that the Peninsula will be brought to the attention of the nation during the next year or two.

In the course of his address, Dr. Grier said, in part:

"We have gathered here as the representatives of the industrial, commercial, financial, resort and agricultural interests in our various communities. We will have served the purposes of the call by which we were convened when we have determined the place which Sussex county will take in the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association; and have given evidence concerning the measure of support we are willing to give to a program in which we are vitally concerned.

"We are all of us, I believe, familiar with the aims and purposes of this association. But, permit me once again to call them to your attention.

The purposes of the Association are, in general, these:

"To promote the migration of people and flow of capital into all of the counties on the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula and to keep them both when they come.

"To advertise and publicize the Peninsula, its lands, resources, opportunities and products.

"To develop and encourage its industries, to create an increased demand for its lands, to expand its markets at home and abroad, to promote its resorts and tourist possibilities and in general to make the Peninsula a better place in which to live and increasingly profitable place in which to do business.

On Retail Basis

"Up to the present time we have been intermittently engaged in promoting the migration of people and the flow of capital into the Peninsula on what I might term a retail basis. Individuals and firms have indulged in limited advertising and publicity campaigns. Our various communities have, from time to time, endeavored to carry their case to the country. But these campaigns have never been national in their scope, and they have not been continuous. None of our communities have had the talent or the funds with which adequately to exploit themselves. As a result, the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula as a whole has failed to offer its natural resources and opportunities as advantageously as other communities—many of them less fortunately situated than ours.

"We can advertise and publicize the opportunities and resources which we have for sale; the Association can bring prospective purchasers to Georgetown or to Milford or Delmar; as it can place the inquiries received from people in all parts of the country in the hands of individuals and firms in every part of Sussex county, just as those inquiries are placed in the hands of individuals and firms in other counties. But after that the rest of the story must be told in the terms of local initiative. When, therefore the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association begins to function we betide the community which is without effective local organization. One of the aims of the Association is to assist local communities in securing and maintaining effective organization.

"Not only Sussex county but the State of Delaware as a whole has a stake in the Association's program. Delaware has a land area of approximately 1,516,000 acres. In 1850 76 per cent of this land was in farms and 80 per cent was listed as improved. In 1920 75 per cent was in farms and 89 per cent was listed as improved. So far as developed acreage is concerned, Delaware has practically stood still for seventy years. True, there has been an increase in the value of the crops produced even though in the case of Sussex county the land under cultivation has actually decreased from 258,000 acres in 1910 to 266,000 in 1920.

Potential Resources

Of the 1,516,000 acres of land in the state, 944,511 were tilled after one fashion or another in 1920. That leaves it with 572,289 acres of land which are undeveloped. Now, out of 944,511 acres which we can classify as comprising our present tillable area, less than one-half is intensively cultivated. Delaware, therefore, unquestionably has a tremendous potential resource not only in her undeveloped land but likewise in the large farm areas which are from every point of view ideally adapted for one man farms.

"While I am not a farm expert, I believe that we can raise everything in Delaware that can be raised in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska or Michigan. Besides, we can grow a lot of things that those states can not. When I look at the statistics which record the fact that there are fewer farmers in Iowa, Indiana, Kansas, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska and Ohio than there were ten years ago, I am driven to wonder whether a great many of those in the Middle West who have moved off of the land into the towns would not have actually located in Delaware if they had known what we had to offer them.

First Problem

"So the first big problem which the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association will undertake is that of helping us here in Sussex county to advertise our surplus lands at fair prices to people who can use them. We need more families on the soil in Delaware because Delaware soil can support more families. More families mean more money in the banks, more business for the merchants, better prices for land, more general prosperity everywhere,—more available labor for our young industries.

"The Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association will, as a proper part of its functioning, advertise and publicize the resort possibilities of our Peninsula. It will tell of the Peninsula's miles of ocean front, of its bays and the inland rivers. Delaware in general, and Sussex in particular, must be in a position to capitalize its attractive and healthy stretches of river, bay and ocean fronts.

"When inquiries come to the Association our various communities must find themselves in a ready position to reply to the questions asked, showing that they have the very things the questioners want.

"The fourteen counties on the Peninsula constitute an economic unit. They are bound together not by any volunteer act upon the part of anyone. They were created by God Almighty as a unit. Therefore, it is particularly true that every county on the Peninsula benefits by reason of the prosperity of any other county. So while the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association has a message for Sussex county, it likewise has a message for those prosperous districts to the north of us. In fact I can well believe that our friends in New Castle are watching the progress of the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association with a growing interest. For they, in a peculiar way, share in our good fortune, just as they are afflicted by our misfortune.

"The Peninsula of Florida has its Jacksonville. The Del-Mar-Va Peninsula has its Wilmington. And Wilmington and Jacksonville perform a similar economic function. Both are at the neck of the bottle; both are world ports; both of them are distributing centers; both of them profit by reason of a prosperous and busy agricultural and industrial hinterland.

"More business on the Peninsula means more business for Wilmington.

"Delaware has had the benefit of a leadership that has revolutionized its road and school systems. We who are assembled here can, if we will, make our contribution to the leadership through which we secure our rightful industrial and agricultural heritage.

"And if in this endeavor we are to be presently successful, we must realize that the three counties in Delaware are economically irrevocably joined with the eleven other counties comprising the Eastern Shore territory of the States of Maryland and Virginia.

"These eleven other counties are taking their place in the column. "Gentlemen of the conference, let us march with them."

DELAWARE MAN GETS NEW HONOR

Cornelius Tilghman, who was recently awarded the Rhodes Scholarship from this State, has received another pleasing honor. He has just received word from the authorities at Oxford that he has been accorded Senior standing, which in effect means that he may enter without test or examination.

Mr. Tilghman, it will be remembered, was a graduate at the University here last June. He has been in study at Yale Graduate School this year. Upon hearing this news from Oxford and his accorded standing for admission, he returned to Delaware last week.

FLOOD PERIL STILL ALARMS

Port Deposit Folk Ready At Instant's Notice To Move Belongings

Recent word from Port Deposit, Md., indicates that ice is still jammed in the river off that town and householders have prepared for any emergency that may arise. Valuables are packed and ready for quick evacuation. Meanwhile, old rivermen are waiting for the present cold snap to pass over before they can prophesy future movements of the huge floes.

When the northwest gale swept down the Susquehanna valley Thursday night it was accompanied by a sudden drop in temperature that solidified the ice gorge in the river and made it a solid barrier across the stream with just enough vents to accommodate the normal flow of water.

The immediate danger of a flood at Port Deposit has passed, but it might be written "postponed on account of cold weather," for the safety of the town seems assured for only a short while. The situation is worse that it was Friday. Then it was thought the river would be clear of ice before Sunday, but the change in weather created a more critical condition.

Ice from both the north and west branches was expected to reach this town about daybreak Saturday morning. Big cakes had been passing over the Holtwood dam of the Pennsylvania Water and Power Company, twenty-two miles up the river, keeping the citizens in a state of alarm. Many of those living on the west side of Main street moved their furniture to the upper floors of their homes and kept watch during the night hours.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas, We cross the "Mystic River" one by one; and

Whereas, The relentless boatman has invaded our Church Society and transported our beloved Brother and co-laborer in Christ, Custis W. Johnson, to the better shore. Therefore,

Resolved, That we, the members of Salem M. E. Church and Sunday School, do herewith present this token of our heart-felt sympathy and love to his widow and family, commending them to the loving care of Jesus, our Savior, in whom we trust, until we all meet Him on the shore of the land celestial, close to the throne of God.

Further Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the press for publication.

Newark's fast-going Guardmen added Milford to their long list of victims Friday night in the downstate town, when they emerged easy winners in a well-attended game, 39-16.

Bland and Smith led the attack for the locals, and scored at will throughout the game. Milford fought hard, but could never get up within reach of the visitors. The lineup against the Sussex Countians proved to be one of the best scoring combinations evolved this season. The score:

BLUE AND GOLD BEATEN AGAIN

Haverford's Fast Team Does the Trick In Exciting Battle Friday Night, Score 27-21

Haverford College's fast court machine added Delaware University quintet to its list of victims Friday night, the Main Line passers emerging victorious by the score of 27 to 21.

The game was the fastest played at Haverford this season. Haverford took the lead soon after the start of hostilities, never to be headed, and Dealer threatened time after time to overtake them.

At half time the Haverford team was out in front by a 12 to 10 count. Close guarding featured the work of both teams in the opening session.

In the final period Haverford unleashed a fine passing attack which Delaware was unable to fathom. Melchoir, Logan and Garrett played splendid ball for the victors during the final 20 minutes of play.

The ground within 20 yards of where the body was found had been all gone over. It was about 60 feet from a little frequented road, the banks of the gully being discernible from it through the trees, although the body could not be seen.

"Lieutenant Ray was of the opinion that the body was carried or dragged from a machine which would have had to stop about 200 yards from a house in that neighborhood.

"The body was found within a short distance of where Harry Downham, father of the accused man, was killed when struck by an automobile driven by Yeomans, the murdered man.

"Lieutenant Ray, who saw the body, said that the back of the head was battered in, and that the nose appeared as if it had been broken. Yeomans' neck appeared as if he had been strangled. Lieutenant Ray de-

Beacom College Quintet Surprise
Schoolboys In Friday's Game;
Girls Team Wins Opener

Beacom College trounced Coach Nunn's High School passers in the Hanover Gym, Wilmington, Friday night last, in a way that surprised the followers of the local defenders of the faith. The score was 29-16.

Beacom took the lead early in the game and gradually drew away from Newark. They enjoyed a comfortable margin of points most of the way.

Chalmers and his mates stuck along gamely. The inability to hit the net on seemingly easy shots, however, took a lot of sting out of their attack. Furthermore, the second half grew rough as time went on, resulting, in the opinion of many, in destruction of the Newark passing game. The otherwise heavy scoring local team was held to five field goals by Wright, Taylor and Griffith. Boyer and Jackson were the bright lights for Beacom during the evening.

The score:

Girls Squeeze Victory

In the preliminary game between Newark and Beacom girls, the spectators were treated to as fast a contest as has been seen for many a day.

Both teams were well stocked with star players and the score remained practically even most of the way. One field goal and a foul was the slender margin of victory.

Misses Pauline Robinson and Chalmers played their usual aggressive game at forward. The Newark guards also came in for praise for their sturdy defensive play against two admittedly deadly forwards, Jackson and Hindman. The score:

Beacom	Newark
Jackson, forward	P. Robinson
Hindman, forward	Chalmers

clared, but this could have been caused by the ice, he said, later.

"The appearance of the body fits with the theory of the officers, who, after Yeomans' bloodstained car was found in Newark, were of the opinion that the driver had been murdered by being beaten over the head with an auto-jack, which was found covered with blood in the abandoned car. The officers had also offered the opinion that the body would be found somewhere close to Elk Mills.

Earlier Events

Yeomans had been engaged last Monday by Downham and Frank Stewart, also of Elk Mills, to drive them to Elkton. Stewart was taken to the hospital to have an injured finger treated, and later was driven home in another taxicab. Downham, in his first statement to the officers, said that he and Yeomans had waited for Stewart. The officers also learned that Downham and Yeomans had been seen later in the afternoon on the same day in the car near Elk Mills.

Seen Driving Taxicab

Nothing more was seen of Yeomans until his body was discovered, but it is reported that Downham was seen later driving around in the taxicab.

Downham and Yeomans are said to have been seen drinking together on Monday afternoon, and at 6 o'clock that evening, Downham is said to have been seen driving Yeomans' car in Elkton. The car was found abandoned Tuesday afternoon in Newark.

The Megary February Sale Will Be Here Thursday!

And that's good news to a lot of folks who are planning new home furnishings.

Experience has taught many of our friends that a Megary sale with its reductions is well worth waiting for. And there's many a home that's better and more comfortably furnished today because of a Megary sale.

Again there is absolute confidence in a Megary Sale and pride in telling their friends—"It came from Megary's"—for that always implies that it MUST be good.

Of course the stocks are complete and the prices suited to the most of us.

For instance the Bedroom Suites range from $150.00 to $675.00 with an unusually large variety from $200.00 to $300.00.

The Livingroom Suites begin as low as $150.00 and up to $600.00.

The Diningroom Suites will start at $240.00 for ten pieces and up to $700.00.

And the February discounts?

They're not tremendous, price-smashing, incredible ones—in fact they're apparently rather modest. The discounts in most cases is ten per cent—and in some instances more.

BUT IT IS A REAL HONEST-TO-GOODNESS DISCOUNT ON REAL WORTH-WHILE FURNITURE.

Naturally you want to buy your furnishings as low priced as possible and save.

BUT KEEP IN MIND YOU'RE BUYING FURNITURE—NOT DISCOUNTS.

AND ALL THE DISCOUNTS IN THE WORLD NEVER MADE A POOR PIECE OF FURNITURE GOOD.

Regardless of where you finally buy your furniture you'll be better satisfied if you see this big stock and compare.

And your visit may mean a better furnished, more comfortable and most important—a less expensive home.

While your selection at the end of the sale will be almost as large as now—there are always some special values that are not duplicated, so an early visit is of course the best.

The February prices will be on all the merchandise—Furniture and Rugs and Draperies and China—Thursday morning.

THERE'S A LOT OF YOUNG FOLKS WHO WOULD FURNISH NEW HOMES AND A LOT OF OLDER FOLKS WHO WOULD REFURNISH THEIR PRESENT ONE BUT FOR THE IMMEDIATE DAMAGE TO THEIR BANK ACCOUNT.

YOU CAN EASILY AND QUIETLY ARRANGE TO DIS-TRIBUTE THE COST OF YOUR HOME FURNISHINGS
OVER A NUMBER OF MONTHLY PAYMENTS WITHOUT ANY RED TAPE—ANNOYANCE OR CHARGES WHAT-

WOULD YOU RATHER WAIT AND WAIT AND WAIT

The Chafing Dish

by Neil Farmer

When one picks up one of the better class of magazines today and does not find an article concerning itself with some phase of "higher education" in the United States, one wonders if one has not an old number in one's hands. Never has there been such a flood of criticism directed at our colleges as there is today. For the past two years the American university has been constantly told what is wrong with it. The criticism has come from all sources: from persons in no way associated with the American college and from persons very closely connected with the institution. College professors and newspaper editors, college students and retired business men, playwrights, wheelwrights, novelists, comedians, street-car conductors and lawyers have all had something to say on the subject.

There has been criticism of methods and aims of our colleges previous to 1924. But there has never been so much at one time as now. Back before our grandfathers were enjoying the Civil War, now and then a current magazine would appear with an article bewailing the fact that the American college cherished no true intellectual ideal. But on the whole these essays were rare and little more than a sort of sensational display of radicalism, by which the editor hoped to give his readers a "thrill."

However, today the situation is different. An honest-to-goodness educational revolution is in the offing.

Some years back, when college presidents and college professors were human beings, students enjoyed study. Inspired by their classroom meetings, they formed debating clubs, literary societies, and all sorts of such mentally stimulating associations. Today, however, they turn to football, basketball, baseball, the Charleston, bridge, and the "movies" as an escape from the unpleasant memory of the classroom.

But these diversions do not provide intellectual satisfaction. Neither does the classroom. The undergraduates squirm, and smoulder with indignation, and sometimes a flame shoots up from the mass. Each time that the average professor breathes forth his textbook platitudes he fans the coals.

And the situation is serious; for it is not just confined to one particular locality.

College students all over the country are decidedly restless. The slogan "What's wrong with education" is being cried everywhere—not always in those words, which appear to be the invention of the boys on the staff of the University of Delaware Review, but in words which mean always the same thing.

The American college has been following closely in the tracks of our great industrial organizations. It has become a highly mechanized institution, where every school, every department, every professor has become a machine, a wheel, or a cog. There has been no provision for the individual as such. Rather a study is made of a large group of students; a mathematical average is deducted; and a program for mass education is formulated. Such a method appears very neat, concise, and businesslike in theory; but in actual practice it is the most destructive one possible.

No two college students are alike. Some provisions have to be made for what are known, in psychology, as "individual differences." A college graduate cannot be manufactured in the same fashion as a paper-clip. An American youth needs as much careful training to attain to a successful life as a billy-goat does to be a success on the stage. The comparison is far from ideal, despite the fact that a great many parents may seem to see many traits that the goat and their offspring have in common.

To get to the heart of the matter, one must begin at the top and work down—like digging a well. Of course, this method is absolutely opposed to the standardized American idea of starting at the bottom and working up; but it is the only way in this case.

First, a group of men who know little about education but a great deal about material success are selected to be trustees of a college. These men, recalling how a progressive business organization is built up, hire an organizer, an executive, to be president of the college. The president, in turn, carefully picks out an assortment of professors who will work with the organization. And then, before one hardly realizes what it is all about, there is constructed an organization which would be a credit to Cyrus Curtis.

The students boil and bubble. But the trustees drop in for their annual inspection and have the new buildings pointed out to them and hear the balance sheets read, and go away satisfied with their splendid work.

What is needed is not a collection of machine-made Ph. D.'s carefully reined in by an executive, but a group of inspiring personalities with some freedom. An uninteresting teacher will "kill" any scholar's interest and make the student hate that which he formerly loved. What makes the undergraduates restless is the lack of the human element in education.

Rehoboth Plans Improvement For Coming Season

New Golf Club, Better Lighting And Additional Cottages Included In Attractions For Visitors

With the electric lighting problem solved, the golf course ready for play, a modern hotel in prospect, home building by the dozen, and the last link in the highway from Wilmington via Milford and Five Points completed, a new Rehoboth will greet what promises to be the greatest season in its history.

Away back in the 60's, when Camp-meetings were the very popular thing among the Methodists, Rehoboth, with its beautiful woodland setting, a place where the "Ocean waves and pine woods meet," was selected by the Methodists of the peninsula as a site for a popular camp-meeting resort that would equal in attractiveness the site at Ocean Grove selected by the New Jersey folks for their great camp-meeting assembly. Along in the 70's the "Rehoboth Beach Camp-meeting Association of the Methodist Episcopal Church" was organized and purchased what was known as the Dale Martin farm (the present Rehoboth) and laid it out into building lots and sold "leases" all of which carried conditions restricting the occupancy for purely residential purposes.

The old association ran along for many years and Rehoboth made a slow, tedious growth. However, the town was incorporated in the early 90's and the old association went out of existence.

Owing to poor transportation facilities and the distance from great centers it seemed difficult to create the interest in Rehoboth which its wonderful beach and natural surroundings entitled it to and the summer population consisted principally of a few old families from Baltimore, Washington and Wilmington.

It was recognized as a safe and sane place for the wife and children; quiet and peaceful with a good safe bathing beach, but there was nothing to attract the holiday crowds or excursionists.

Many of the older politicians will recall the old "Douglass House" located about a mile south of Rehoboth proper. It was the scene of all the principal pre-election pow wows. This hotel was burned several years ago, as was the "Bright House," which later was quite a large hotel in its day and the burning of these two larger hotels left only the "Henlopen" at the north end of the Beach. It is still the largest hotel at Rehoboth. The Bellhaven is the next in size, while there have been quite a number of private boarding houses in recent years.

The electric light situation at Re-

WICOMICO LEADS

With annual pledges totalling $16,435 in hand Wicomico County is not only within striking distance of the quota it has pledged toward the support of the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association, but the indications are that it will be able to roll up an over subscription.

The Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association, which is being organized for the purpose of advertising and publicizing all of the fourteen counties on the Peninsula, is conducting a Membership Campaign by means of which it is attempting to secure an annual fund of $100,000. Wicomico, at its recent county conference, pledged itself to raise one-sixth of the entire annual fund desired or $16,666. The indications are that when the final reports are in, pledges obtained in that county will be in excess of $18,000.

Rehoboth has been taken care of by the Commissions granting the franchise to the Eastern Shore Gas and Electric Company which will connect the town by cable with its main power plant at Laurel.

The Golf Club will have its course built and ready for play this coming season. The transfer of the lands from Rehoboth Heights Development Company to the Rehoboth Golf Club took place this week. H. L. Camson, of Bridgeville, the president, and J. Reese White, of Millsboro, the treasurer of the club, promise to make a charming club house out of the old Homestead farmhouse which is delightfully situated on a knoll overlooking the links.

Church Notes

Twenty-three young ladies of the Women's Home Missionary Society met around a well laden supper table in the Lecture Hall on last Monday evening. A fine spirit of fellowship prevailed, and after having done justice to the good things provided they proceeded to business. One item of general interest was their decision to stage a play entitled, "Sophronias Wedding," which will be given about the first of March. The proceeds will be for the Building Fund.

The Survey Committee met on last

Monday evening for a further discussion of the new buildings. Ground will be broken in the spring for one or more units. A special committee of five was formed to study new buildings in the course of erection.

THE PLAYHOUSE

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE ENJOYED BLACKSTONE

During his Washington engagement, Blackstone, the world travelled magician, was called to the White House to entertain President Coolidge and a distinguished company assembled for the occasion. "A good time was had by all present." A dyed-in-the-wool, (Schedule K) Senator remarked after the entertainment, that the Democrats should nominate Blackstone for the Presidency as he, Blackstone, could fool all the people all the time.

Blackstone's Washington engagement was made interesting from a far different angle. At another theatre, less than two blocks away, Thurston, the magician, was filling an engagement, and the rivalry of the two necromancers, was the subject of much newspaper space. Blackstone is the originator of the "Vanishing Horse" and other illusions being used by Thurston. He was not slow in making this fact known.

FIELD'S MINSTRELS

This year marks the 39th edition of the Al. G. Field Minstrels, which will be presented at the Playhouse, Wilmington, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, February 4, 5 and 6, with matinee on Saturday, and it marks thirty-nine years of following the principles of Al. G. Field, the Dean of American Minstrelsy—principles that have led to success.

And the men of the Field Minstrels feel the respect and honor due to "Uncle Al," as they call him. There is never a performance given of the Field minstrels that does not include in it somewhere, the picture of the founder of the organization. And his picture, which has taken the place of "Uncle Al" himself since his death, does not fail to draw a hearty round of applause, for every minstrel lover knows what he means to the profession.
