Omega in 1865.

The present chapter began as the local Alpha Sigma Delta Fraternity in 1948. After gaining campus recognition, the members of Alpha Sigma Delta petitioned the national and was installed as the Delaware Epsilon Rho Chapter on February 26th, 1949. Through the years this chapter has grown to be one of the leading fraternities on campus, both academically and socially.

Highlights of the two-day cele-bration will be the formal pledging of the class of '57, the initiation of three pledges into full brother-hood, a house-party and a banquet served by the Mothers' Club.

Ex-Residents Bid Farewell To Academy Street Dorms

ried out throughout the nation.

Shortly afterwards, in 1948, enrollment went back to normal, as less veterans came. The government, under the Lanham act, gave the barracks to the university to use as it saw fit. Then, as they were not needed for the veterans anymore, the girls occupied one of them while the others were used by the men undergraduate students. For the past three years, however, the dorms have been used exclusively by the girls.

Two points were made by hous-ing the freshmen girls in these dorms. First, the women's housing shortage was temporarily eased; and second, the State Legislature was shown the need for new women's dormitories.

The three Academy Street dormitories, Windsor, Eton and Hanover, will soon remain only as a memory in the minds of the students who have lived there. After eight years on campus, these temporary dorms are being torn down. They are of no more use now that Smythe Hall has been built.

The King's Row Dormitories, as the three barracks are called, will be completely demolished. Windsor has been torn down altogether and Eton is next. Anything worth salvaging from the dorms, such as furniture and any good lumber, will be stored temporarily in Hanover. As soon as this equipment can be disposed of, however, Hanover will also be razed.

The army barracks were brought here in 1946, at the end of World War II, when many veterans decided to take advantage of the G.I. Bill and come to college. There was such an influx of menthat college housing conditions became overcrowded; the colleges appealed to the government. To relieve the strain, the three barracks were brought up under the supervision of the federal government from Fort Miles, an army camp. Delaware was by no means the only university to receive these houses; it only took part in a program which was carried out throughout the nation.

Shortly afterwards, in 1948, enrollment went back to normal, as Scholarship Fund

It has been the custom in New Castle dormitory for the girls in residence there to raise money to support a foster child every year while school is in session. This year, however, the girls in New Castle decided to change the precedent and establish a scholarship to be given to a girl next year with funds raised as before. Judy Oliver was elected chairman of the scholarship committee with Mrs. Bullock, the house director in New Castle, as advisor. In October this committee met with Dean Collins to discuss plans for the scholarship and work out details. It was decided that goal for the scholarship should be $200, and that eligibility would not be limited to a Delaware girl. The scholarship will be awarded at the discretion of the university scholarship committee.

The money for the New Castle scholarship will be raised by the girls themselves. To date they have made over $100. One means of adding to the fund was to hold a food sale during exam week at the end of last semester. The net profit was $11. Another food sale is planned for the second week in March. At Christmas they utilized the Peanut Sister system of exchanging gifts to add to the fund. This year they decided to limit the amount to be spent on the presents to fifty cents and agreed to put fifty cents apiece into the scholarship fund, which increased it a great deal. From time to time the accumulated Coca Cola bottles in the dorm are returned for deposits. Further plans for earning money for the fund are in the making.

Art Gallery Holds Finnish Exhibition From March 1-21

An exhibition of Finnish Arts and Crafts, circulated by the American Federation of Arts, is being shown at the Art Gallery from March 1 to 21; it is open to the public during library hours. The exhibit is a sampling of the best of Finland's contemporary work. There are strange and beautiful shapes in glass and ceramics; vases and bowls that play with the light touching their surfaces and permeating their forms; stonewares that are heavy and solid or elegantly stretching. There are ceramic plates with surfaces representing maidens, cats, and mice, whimsical yet serious. Also there are large and decorative colored rugs with rich textures.

In recent years there has been increased awareness of the function of art as a means of internation all understanding. It is realized that a work of art created by a crafteman is not only a thing to behold but also a means of expression conveying thought just as does speech. This exhibition of Finninsh arts is more than a collection of objects, it is a mute interpreter of the spirit of Finland.

Dean Of Education Discloses Masters Degree Exam Date

William O. Penrose, dean of the School of Education, has announced that the next examination for candidates for the degree of Master of Education will be held in Room 16, Robinson Hall, from 9:00 a. m. to 12:00 noon, Saturday, May 22, on the Newark campus day, May 22, on the Newark campus.

This comprehensive examination is given three times a year for students who have completed all or most of the course requirements leading to the degree of master of education. The purpose is to insure a continuation of high standards in connection with graduate work in education at the University of Delaware. It also serves as an opportunity for the students, who are Delaware teachers for the most part, to see their graduate work as a whole and to become more aware of the inter-relationship among courses.

The examination takes about 5 hours and is composed of both essay and objective questions. It is based on education and subject matter courses and serves as a culmination for all grauate and, in a sense, undergraduate study.

Review To Survey On Civil Defense

In a move to determine how effective has been the dispersal of Civil Defense information to students at the University of Delaware, the Review is organizing a survey in Civil Defense.

The questions, similar in nature to those distributed by the Federal Civil Defense Administration, are practical queries. A knowledge of these are invaluable in the advent of attack.

The survey should indicate whether or not the campus Civil Defense officials have adequately executed their task.

The graduates, representing more than 280 different colleges and universities, have undergone an intensive 4 month course in Naval Science similar to that presented to NROTC students at colleges throughout the nation. Completing well rounded courses in Engineering, Orientation, Naval Weapons, Seamanship, Navigation and Operations qualifies the new officer as a Junior Officer aboard any one of the Navy's floating or shore based commands.

After a short leave period, most of the new Ensigns will report directly to sea billets. However, many have been accepted in the Navy's Special Training Program. Approximately 98 officers have been ordered to Navy Flight School, Underwater Demolition, Salvage, Submarines and Explosive Ordnance Training.

The Sorority Question

One For The Girls

From various corners of south campus have come various comments and questions, both in favor and against the estab-lishment of sororities on the University of Delaware campus. This idea, not new to the Delaware campus, has been recently under discussion in the student government as well as among the students themselves.

In 1948 this same question was forcibly brought before the student body. At that time the matter was widely publicized through the Review and discussed, both in formal debates and in informal talks, within the student body. debates and in informal talks, within the student body

A faculty committee formed especially for the consideration of the sororities made an extensive report. On the basis of the quest, the committee concluded that he faculty were generally opposed to these groups. All six of the alumni chapters stood in opposition to the formation of sororities.

When matters between the two opposing factions finally came to a climax, a vote of the female student body was taken. Seventy-five per cent of the women voted against the estab-lishment of sororities on the University of Delaware campus.

lishment of sororities on the University of Delaware campus. Forty-three per cent, as opposed to the twenty-five per cent in favor of establishment, indicated that they would join sororities if these organizations were in existence previously.

At a meeting of an S. G. A. subcommittee held on Tuesday of this week, it was decided to investigate the actual interest toward sororities that exists at the present time. If there is sufficient interest to warrant such a move, a campus vote similar to that of 1949 will be taken in the future.

The future of sororities at Delaware in the immediate future rests, therefore, with the present women students. If interest is shown, the matter will be further investigated and finally brought to a vote.

How can interest be demonstrated? By having opinions and factual articles published in the Review Letters to the and factual articles published in the Review. Letters to the editor and editorials are both excellent forms of publicity, both for pro and con groups. Correspondence with national sororities is another means of indicating interest. Any rational means of displaying concern about the question will demonstrate that the situation is worthy of being reconsidered. W. G. D.

Hullihen Hall Named For President Holding Office For Twenty-Four Years

By LILI SMOLEROFF

By LILI SMOLEROFF

Hullihen Hall, known previously to 1951 as University Hall, was completed in 1940. It was constructed through the aid of government funds and donations by Howard Fletcher Brown, a member of the Board of Trustees at that time. The building is named after Walter Hullihen who was president of the university from 1920 until his death in 1944. This, incidentally, is the longest span of time any one man has occupied the office of presidency at the college.

the office of presidency at the college.

The three story building is designed in Colonial style with white wood columns and trim and a green slate roof. It is identical to Brown Laboratory, except for a slight difference in the rear of the building.

The construction costs mounted to $325,000. In its original plans.

The construction costs mounted to $335,000. In its original plans, Hullihen Hall was to house not only the English, history, language, political science and philosophy departments, as it holds today, but also many others including the education, psychology, geology, mathematics and sociology offices.

At the beginning the building also served as a location for the Registrar's office and the Post Office.

President's Report IV:

More Time To Earn Less

Engineering excepted, there is perhaps no four year professional undergraduate curriculum which might ideally more wisely consider asking the student to invest more than the traditional four college years than the School of Education. Much of the present criticism of teachers arises from the too limited time available to develop subject matter competence, become broadly educated people and to know schools, teaching methods and children, too. This has led to attacks upon schools of education all over the United States. Fortunately, such attacks have not been made on our campus because the whole University faculty has some understanding of the problems involved in teacher education. The attackers have often resented the number of credit hours in professional pedagogy required of students to be The attackers have often resented the number of credit hours in professional pedagogy required of students to be certified to teach. Although they oftentimes know too little about what the pedagogs are doing, the critics decry the extent of this intrusion upon the time of the would-be teacher. How, they ask, can the student become the truly educated person the community rightfully expects the teacher to be? teacher to be?

The realities of the situation make one hesitate, even tentatively, to suggest lengthening the teacher training course because of the shortage of teachers which already exists. The shortage on the elementary level is a continuing crisis and it soon will be the same on the secondary school level. Then, too, the teacher is already spending more time preparing to earn less money than is required in any other trade or profession. It is in the compensation of teachers (comparatively, the State of Delaware is doing well in paying its teachers) that we will find the real answer to the teacher shorters. Good salaries, proper working condition teacher shortage. Good salaries, proper working conditions and community respect are the best means the world has ever found of inducing first-rate people in adequate numbers to enter any vocation and to continue in it over an extended

THE CAMPUS FORUM

Editors Note: This following material was written in the form of a letter to the editor. It does not indicate the philosophy of the Review staff, but serves, as the name infers, to voice opinions of members of the college community.

There is a special organization that has been a definite asset to the University of Delaware. Its members come to school three weeks early in the fall and work hard to get into condition. They put in very long hours of practice, and the result, this year, was an excellent season.

Many of these men are given partial or full scholarships, suposedly because they need help to pay for their education. This is understandable; good men make winning teams and good men usually get inducements. To keep the scholarships from being complete donations, outside of the seasonal requirements, jobs are assigned the men; jobs like washing dishes, waiting on tables and giving out parking tickets.

Unfortunately, most of this group is centrally located and when the season was finally over, they all got drunk and smoked big cigars. This is their business. But they returned to the dormitory quite late, made sleeping impossible, were generally obnoxious, broke furniture and burned several holes in the new furniture. This is no longer their business. Perhaps the coaches could suggest some way to release tension other than at the average student's expense. It isn't fair that the non-scholarship student should have to pay for both the existence of this group and the damage to the dormitories for which they are responsible. There were also a few rooms that had pictures taped all over the walls, but yet the occupants weren't charged. Why? Everyover the walls, but yet the occupants weren't charged. Why? Everyone else was.

During Christmas vacation the members of the various dormitories received a letter. In part it said, "More than two bushel baskets full of empty beer cans were collected around Sharp Hall, primarily on the east side of the building." There was a big beer-songfest the last night before vacation. The noise was easily heard in the neighboring buildings until 4 a.m. Where was the dormitory advisor, or has the administration started the policy of being a "good guy" and automatically looking the other way when something happens? If so, let everyone, fraternities and all, take advantage of it, not just a special few. There certainly seems to be a lot of effort put out to cover up some of the student adventures. Is this to make sure that the state appropriates the money for the university budget?

The Sigma Nu's, undisturbed by the relatively quiet fire sirens, were shaken from their berths by the alarm in the early hours of March.

Rushing officially came to an end at the Sigma Nu house on Safurday might with a fine house party. Bob Waples, Tom Hopkins and Pat Morris, entertainers for the evening, enlivened the event appreciably.

After two hectic weeks of rush-ing, the brothers of Sigma Nu have resolved to remove the dust from the bookshelf and spend more time on the scholastic aspect of college.
As an indication of the amount of back work, two brothers, Al Temple and Frank Pettyjohn, remarked that "the stars will always shine, but we'll never smile again."

A CAMPUS-TO-CAREER CASE HISTORY

Bos Wilson works on a "breadboard" circuit, studying the electrical properties of a carrier system.

My first assignment assignment Bell Labs"

Fresh out of school, Bob Wilson, '53, was put to work on a Transistor project at Bell Laboratories. He explains why he never had time to be awed.

(Reading Time: 39 seconds)

"In some ways it was hard to believe. I had received my B.E.E. at the University of Delaware in June, 1953, and a week later I was working in the worldfamous Bell Laboratories.

"But I didn't have time to be awed because they put me right to work. They gave me responsibility fast.

"My group was working on the experimental application of transistors to carrier systems. My assignment was the electrical design of a variolosser for the compressor and for the expandor to be located in the terminals.

"The supervision I received and the equipment I had were tops. I quickly discovered that I had to rely on my ingenuity as much as on the college courses I had taken. Perhaps that's one reason for the great new discoveries continually turned out by the Labs.

'Now, I'm in the Communication Development Training Program, continuing my technical education and learning what all the Laboratories sections do and how their work is integrated.

"In a year I'll be back working with the group with which I started."

Assuming responsibility fast is a common experience among the engineering, physical science, arts and social science, and business administration graduates who join the Bell System. Student Turnbow's unusual method of obtaining knowledge was first applied to his course in Russian. "I read two thousand Russian vocabulary words into the machine, then gave the English meaning to each," he reported. "Results were so successful that I started reading notes from all my courses into the device.

"I remember how my fellow students laughed when I told them about 'sleep-learning,' "he remarked. "But when I started tossing around five syllable vocabulary words, formulas, dates and complete passages from Shakespeare, they changed their attitude."

armed—climbed aboard our plane as soon as it landed in Leningrad airport.

A senior lieutenant of the Red army marched forward in the plane and looked quizzically at the seven American students dressed in strange furry caps and coats. He raised his right hand in salute and addressed four or five sentences in Russian to the other passengers.

Then he turned to us and said in English, "Passports." After we had showed him our visas, the other five soldiers stepped aside to let us leave the plane.

We stepped into the chilly, three-above-zero weather and were met by a young, English-speaking official of Intourist, the official Russian travel agency. He welcomed us to the Soviet Union and told us we would be met in Moscow by other Intourist representatives.

But the warmth of his reception didn't erase the apprehension we had when the six soldiers boarded our aircraft. The strange welcome was but the first of many unusual situations we were to encounter. During the next 22 days in the USSR we were to travel more than

USSR, we were to travel more than 5,000 miles by air, train and car. We were to talk to students in their schools, workers in their factories, farmers in their homes and directors and managers in their offices. During that time we detected absolutely no feeling of hostility to us personally.

Early in our trip, one of the two interpreters who travelled with us throughout the country asked us why we had come to Russia. We told him the answer was simple. Early last fall a few American college editors met at a student press convention (the ACP conference in Chicago) and decided they wanted to see this country, so little understood in the United States.

We applied to the Soviet embassy in Washington for visas, and within three weeks Moscow granted permission. The American state department issued passports Dec. 23, and on Christmas day we boarded a plane for Russia.

Students at Stalin University in Tbilisi asked us who was paying for the trip. When we told them we financed the trip ourselves, one blue-eyed coed said in perfect English, "Ooh, you must be very rich." "Bourgeosie," shouted a black-haired lad.

Nelson Announces Opening Of Spring Football Practice

Monday, March 8 will mark a return of football to the campus of the University of Delaware, as Coach Dave Nelson opens spring practice sessions for his Fighting Blue Hens.

The Little Admiral announced today that drills will be held five times each week for four consecutive weeks, with Saturdays the main practice day for the varsity candidates. At the present time, no scrimmages with other teams have been scheduled, although such arrangements might be made if enough players report. No previous letter winners will be asked to participate in the drills, nor will varsity athletes in spring sports be asked to attend. Transfer students and candidates up from the freshman squad will receive the most attention during the four week period. Coach Nelson indicated that the greatest need of the Delaware team would be at the ends and in the backfield. All of the Blue Hens first line backs return, including Little All-American quarterback Don Miller; Captain Dan Ford, fullback; and halfbacks Jimmy Flynn and Jimmy Zaiser. Depth of sound material is lacking, however, and the coaches will be on the lookout for men to fill this important need. Lacrosse Victory Over Swarthmore Ends Box Season

Lacrosse has really begun to go in full swing since last Monday when Coach Milt Roberts started his stickmen practicing for the field lacrosse season. The teams will practice every afternoon out on the soccer field.

The team closed a very successful box lacrosse season last Saturday by defeating the Red and White of Swarthmore to the tune of 18-14. This, by the way, is the first box lacrosse victory in the last seven years. During these seven years the Blue Hens have played Rutgers, Princeton and Swarthmore. Outstanding performances were turned in by cocaptains Boyd Cook and George Chaloupka. Goals were made by Wayne Kirklin, Jack Wiberg, Dick Knoll and Ronald Haines. Pat Morris, Delaware's All-American goalie, and Dick Garrett both played great games.

Coach Roberts is now placing emphasis on our first field games which will be played home on March 29 with M. I. T. Three freshman games are scheduled, and all interested freshmen should come out to practice, along with anyone else who wishes a little exercise and knowledge of a great game. The schedule follows:

Blue Chick Matmen Secure First Undefeated Record

Coach "Whitey" Burnham's Blue Chick matmen, who completed their season two weeks ago, turned in the first freshman undefeated wrestling record since wrestling was started in 1943.

The Blue Chicks swept past their four opponents on the schedule and downed the Johns Hopkins frosh mat squad in a post season match. Impressive victories were registered over Haverford JV's, 26-8; Swarthmore JV's, 32-0; and St. Andrew's, 24-6. The Chicks' closest margin was a 20-18 victory over Bainbridge Naval Prep School.

Winning squad boasted perfect records. They were Jim Horn in 123 lb. class, 4-0; Bob Hall in the 124 livision, 1-0; and Jerry weight division, 1-0; and Jerry weight division, 1-0; and Jerry weight division, 3-0.

Since the last column was pub-lished many things have been haplished many things have been happening on the south end of campus. First of all, a successful badminton tournament has been completed for the first time in a long while. Credit for this can be given to Loretta Wagner who managed the tournament. When all matches were played, Marilyn Mayo and June Andres were crowned doubles champions while Fran Jorgensen was crowned singles champion. gensen w champion.

The second occurrence was the completion of the volleyball tournament. Finishing first, second and third places respectively were Turvey, Sussex and Smythe Jrs. Looks like the administration has split up a very good volleyball team, doesn't it? Audrey Butler can be attributed with managing this very successful tournament.

Since the semester opened, the basketball teams have been practicing steadily in the gym. Last week saw the first games of the tournament being played with the largest turnout yet. Two leagues or divisions have been designated; there will be a winning team from each division. If you missed signing up for your dorm team, come on out and give the girls support. The teams are really good, and you won't be disappointed if you do.

Baseball Practice Shows Progress

The 1954 edition of the Delaware baseball nine under the tutelage of sophomore mentor Bob Siemen has shown extremely favorable progress with almost a month before their opening game. Favored by mild weather, Siemen has been able to look at many of this years hopefuls.

In current drills, Sieman has been working with Bob Trivits behind the plate, sophomore Andy Wagner at first, co-captain Bill Annonio at second, Lou Romognoli at short and Bob Hooper at third. In the outfield the Delaware pilot has considered Tom Redfield, speedy Jim Zaiser and Gary Buckwalter.

Hen Grapplers Compete In Middle Atlantic Meet

Both Boyd and Stallone scored pins against Drexel and decisions against the Bisons. Stallone's pin via his double arm bar special was the fastest for a Hen this season—53 seconds. Theta Chi Swimmers Win Intramural Championship

Led by "Sam" Krussman, who set two new intramural records and Bob Brubaker, winner of the 50 yard freestyle, Theta Chi's 1954 swimming team won the intramural championship breaking Sigma Nu's 14-year record.

Tom Bratton did more than a yeoman's job for Sigma Nu as he won the 200-yard freestyle and came in second in the hundred "Gorgeous George" Comegys (Sigma Nu) along with Krussman was a double winner. He butterflied his way to win in the breaststroke and turned in a neat win in diving.

Hens End Court Season Against Drexel Dragons

Delaware's courtmen kept moving last week and in doing so upped their record to 8 and 12. They seem to have gotten their shooting eyes back again as the offensive punch went up markedly.

On Wednesday night they walloped Haverford by an 86-68 count, closing with a 25 point outburst. Jim Kinch had 21, with Pete Kelleher turning in a standout performance, collecting 17. Jack Waddington with 14, and Frank White with 11 completed the double figure scoring for the Hens. The team as a whole made an exceptional 48% of their shots, with Jim Kinch getting 8 for 11.

Tonight the Hen track squad will travel to Baltimore where they will participate in the 175th Infantry meet.

Although they are entered among talented and experienced competition, the wearers of the Blue and Gold are expected to be tough to beat. The probable Delaware entries are:

The Armchair Umpire

BY CHARLES WILLIS

This week concludes only a fair overall winter sports season. Not including this week's swimming meet and two basketball contests, the winter sports log reads 16 wins, 18 losses and 2 ties for a 444 percentage. Swimming has been the big winner this season with a 8-01 record. Basketball and wrestling, however, bring the over-all rating down with 8-12 and 1-6-1 records, respectively.

Intramural sports are actively in the spotlight now. Sigma Nu currently leads the fraternity point standings with 309 points, closely trailed by Kappa Alpha with 301 points and Sigma Phi Epsilon with 228 points. Last week the IBC's won the school intramural basketball title by edging past Kappa Alpha, 32-30. Johnny Obeig's set shot, with four seconds remaining, provided the winning margin. On Monday night Theta Chi won the intramural swimming championship by defeating Sigma Nu. This was the first year since 1939 that the "snakes" haven't won the title. Wrestling and volleyball are slated to begin this week.

Coach Fred Emmerson's golf squad is slated to begin its schedule on April 27, and Roy Rylander's tennis squad will begin on the same date. Veteran Bob Waples will lead the linksmen this year, and Frank White will again captain the tennis squad. Although Ken Steer's track squad didn't fare too well last Saturday in Baltimore, the mostly green squad should improve with more seasoning. Sig Ep will be favored to retain their intramural volleyball crown Their lineup includes such giants as Kinch, White, Kelleher and Tulley.

Spring sports schedules for all varsity and freshman teams have been approved by the Athletic Council of the University of Delaware. No less than 61 varsity and nine freshman events have been listed for the months from March through May, in addition to several championship and special contests.

Twenty-four baseball games for the Blue Hen varsity nine under Coach Bob Siemen have already been announced. The team will open its campaign on April 1 on Frazer Field against Yale.

course, are the major obstacles to overcome.

The varsity tennis team will once again be coached by Curtis R. Rylander, with Frank White acting as captain. Eleven matches have been arranged for the racket squad, which should improve its record of last season.

Considerable attention will be directed to the 1954 track team under the guidance of Coaches Ken Steers and Harry Rawstrom. The cindermen were undefeated last year and have run their victory string to nine, extending from the early part of the 1952 season. Although some top performers from last season have been lost, it is expected that the Blue Hens will once again assemble a powerful, well-balanced squad.

To date, only nine freshman contests have been listed, but others may be added as scheduling opportunities are presented.
