Memorial Day Parade Sunday

WITH THE COOPERATION OF THE weather, the Newark community will honor military veterans with two days of events this week.

On Sunday, Delaware's largest Memorial Day Parade, honoring military and veterans steps off for a march down Main Street at 2 p.m. This event has been held annually in Newark since 1935.

Prior to the parade, the festivities start at 1 p.m. with a military service on the University of Delaware mall in front of Memorial Hall. Officials expected to attend include Mayor Hal Godwin, Governor Thomas Carper, and Commander Patricia Chmiel of the U.S. Navy. The theme for this year's parade is "Honoring World War II Women Veterans" and women from throughout Delaware will participate in the parade by riding in open cars and an antique trolley. (See related story page 8). Following a flyover by the Delaware Army Guard, 14 color guard units from all branches of the military as well as war veterans' groups will pro-

POLICE BLOTTER

Truck blaze

Newark Police are investigating the reckless burning of a 1994 Ford pick-up truck in the unit block of Wrangler Road on May 10 around 3 a.m. Police were called to the scene by a neighbor after the vehicle was discovered engulfed in flames. Fire fighters from Aetna Fire Company also responded to the scene. No injuries were reported.

Boy held up

A 13-year-old Newark youth told Newark Police he was held up at gunpoint while walking in the alleyway behind the 100 block of Madison Drive on May 9 around 10:15 p.m. The suspect, described as a black male, 5 feet, 7 inches, 140 to 150 pounds, with an approximately 1/2-inch Afro-type haircut and wide-bridged nose, wearing a black hooded sweatshirt, blue jeans and black boots, fled after taking the teen's wallet. No injuries were reported.

Shoplifting in K-Mart

On May 7 around 7 p.m. an 18-year-old Wilmington Man was observed attempting to shoplift a CD stereo at K-Mart in College Square Shopping Center. Jay Michael Ferrell Jr. was arrested after he removed the stereo from the box, put it under his jacket and tried to leave the store.

Partially-nude man reported in Galleria

Newark Police report that on May 4 around 6 p.m. an unknown male appeared naked from the waist down in the Gap store in the Galleria on Main Street. Described as scruffy, in his 30s, 6 feet tall, thin, with brown hair, wearing a green jacket with red hood, and jeans, the man took clothes to the fitting room where he undressed without closing the door. Store employees said this is the third time the same man has done this but he always leaves before police arrive.

Parties forced indoors

Newark Police spent the rainy weekend closing down loud parties around the city. Shortly after midnight on May 9, Steven Patrick Schneider, 18, was charged with hosting a loud party in an apartment on Lehigh Avenue. Around the same time, police charged Brian R. Richard, 22, Brandon Clark, 22, and Anthony J. Ripanti, 21, all of the unit block of Madison Drive, with a noise violation after finding a loud party with 50-60 guests. Around 2 a.m. the same morning, police charged William M. Cordivani, 21, with hosting a loud party on Prospect Avenue.

Shortly after midnight on May 10 police charged Robert E. Taylor, 20, with having loud music at a residence in the 100 block of South Chapel Street. Less than 10 minutes later, Joshua T. Hall, 20, was charged with a loud party on Patrick Henry Court. Between 3:45 and 4 a.m. that morning, police charged Richard A. Marsanico, 22, with disorderly premises after loud voices were heard from his residence on Elkton Road.

Cars sprayed with paint

Sometime between 11:30 a.m. on April 27 and 1 p.m. on April 28, unknown person(s) sprayed five vehicles with silver paint in the parking lot at 334 E. Main Street. Police are investigating.

Crimestoppers seek information on Newark arson case

Delaware Crime Stoppers and the Delaware Fire Marshall's office are requesting information on a major arson case in Newark.

On July 29, 1997, the warehouse of Furniture Solutions at 444 Albe Drive was totally consumed in flames. The Fire Marshall's office determined the fire was intentionally started by use of some type of flammable/combustible material.

Damage to the warehouse has been estimated at several hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Delaware Crime Stoppers will pay up to $1,000 for information that will solve this case. All callers remain anonymous.

Call 1-800-TIP-3333; cell phone users call *TIPS.

City advises renters of bulk trash collection

The city of Newark advises tenants of rental properties within the city that arrangements for the free collection of three bulk items can be made by calling the Public Works Department at 366-7045. These collections are made available to alleviate problems caused by old furniture and excessive trash that is abandoned by students as they leave for the summer.

Any pick-ups of more than three bulk items and/or items without scheduled appointments for pick-up will be collected on a fee basis. Scheduled pick-ups are available on a limited and first come/first serve basis. Items must be placed at the curb for pick-up no earlier than 6 p.m. the day prior to the scheduled collection.

Excessive refuse, defined as an area 3 feet x 3 feet x 4 feet, if piled, or a maximum of four 32-gallon containers, or items which would take more than two minutes of collection time for one person, will be collected on a fee basis.

Owners/managers of rental units, defined as a single-family residence or one-half of a duplex house, have been notified of this collection criteria and invoices for the collections will be forwarded to their attention. Students who are in doubt as to whether or not their collection will be on a fee basis can contact the Public Works Department at 366-7045.

County police address heroin dangers

New Castle County Police announced a new educational initiative to discuss the deadly consequences of heroin use, especially among youth.

According to the police, with the dramatic increase in purity levels and the extremely low cost, heroin is becoming the drug of choice for youth throughout New Castle County. For just $10, the cost of a movie and popcorn, teenagers can buy enough heroin to keep them high for a weekend.

Also, heroin no longer has to be injected, but can be inhaled through the nose. This removes the dangers and stigmas of needle use and has made heroin more appealing to first-time users.

Realizing that the public is uninformed about heroin use and that parents are often in denial that their child may be using this drug, the county police developed the new program.

The presentations by county police officers and paramedics will include actual photographs from heroin-related death scenes and an audio tape of a mother's frantic call to 9-1-1 after her 17-year-old son overdosed on heroin.

Sharing Senior Roll Call

New Castle County's innovative Senior Roll Call program is being evaluated by the Plymouth County Sheriff's Department in Massachusetts. Plymouth County hopes to be able to revise the program to fit their needs and more effectively serve the senior citizens in their jurisdiction.

The Senior Roll Call program, designed by the New Castle County Police Department in May of 1995, was modeled after a similar program in Minnesota. The automated system calls senior citizens daily to check on their welfare. The system is very effective in reaching seniors who are not very active or who do not have immediate family in the area. The computer calls each senior on the list at a predetermined time. If a client fails to answer the phone, an emergency call list is activated.

Ethics board declines to reopen case

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Newark Ethics Board took only ten minutes to decide they had heard enough regarding Shirley Tarrant's complaint against Mayor Hal Godwin.

Chairman Frank Forster Jr. said the sole reason for the hearing this week was to consider reopening the complaint which the same three-member board previously deliberated on two occasions.

According to Forster, attorney H. Alfred Tarrant Jr., representing his wife, asked to give oral argument on the Motion to Reopen. Forster noted that Godwin's attorney was prepared to argue as well, but the board declined to hear more testimony.

According to Tarrant's Motion, remarks by Godwin in a June 9, 1997, city council executive session were "startling new evidence" showing Godwin had not forgotten the lawsuit filed against him 17 years ago by Leslie Goldstein.

Tarrant argued this was the reason for Godwin's opposition to Goldstein's appointment to the Ethics Board in May 1997. Godwin also wrote a memo in April 1997 suggesting to other councilmembers that they look for "appointees who are politically neutral."

City council, including Godwin, ultimately approved Goldstein's appointment to the Ethics Board. She has not participated in any of the hearings in this matter.

On Tuesday, board member Dorothy Ross said she had read through everything in the case and didn't think anything had changed. "Whether or not Mr. Godwin did or did not remember the lawsuit, it was so long ago, I don't see that it has anything to do with the appointment of Leslie Goldstein," stated Ross. "It was not a current financial conflict."

Despite weather, school election turnout good

Schooley wins in landslide

Despite the miserable weather, turnout for the school board election in Christina District was actually above average.

Incumbent Theresa L. Schooley was the clear winner with 959 of the 1,186 votes cast. Some previous schools elections have seen turnouts in the double digits.

Moments after learning that she had captured more than 80 percent of the votes, the Newark resident said, "I'm delighted that even with all this rain, people still came out to vote."

Schooley, a former teacher and director of Kids Count, a foundation that measures the educational, social and physi-

Ross also failed to see discrimination in Godwin's discussion about Goldstein's political position.

Raymond Peters said he agreed with his fellow board member. "I read very carefully once again through the voluminous testimony," said Peters. "I tried very hard to be objective, as I have since the first phone call in this matter from Ms. Tarrant, and I don't see any startling new evidence here."

Peters added that, despite what she claimed, he believed Tarrant had opportunity to press her case and presented all the evidence she had. "If I thought she was not being treated fairly, I would have asked for more information," said Peters.

In agreeing not to reopen the complaint, Forster said there was no evidence presented that Godwin opposed Goldstein's appointment because she sued him 17 years ago. "I don't even remember that he stated he was opposed to Ms. Goldstein's appointment," said Forster. "The appointment was deleted from the (council) agenda at one meeting, and after lots of discussion at the next meeting, (councilmember Anthony) Felicia said he had no objection to tabling the decision."

Forster also said that Godwin's concerns about Goldstein's political activities, stated in a memo to other councilmembers, were "not a basis for action but just an opinion."

Forster concluded nothing had changed as a result of the evidence revealed in the executive session minutes and there was no reason to reopen the case.

City council voted to make the minutes from the June 1997 executive session public on March 23 following the Court's decision in a lawsuit filed against the city by then councilmember Nancy Turner. Tarrant sent her Motion to Reopen to the ethics board ten days later.

Turner is currently seeking to have the city pay $19,046 in legal fees and costs she incurred in bringing the lawsuit.

cal well-being of children, was referring to the 12-day period of bad weather that challenged voters to show up at the polls.

Schooley's challengers, Jane M. Kurz, a nursing instructor at Delaware State College, received 140 votes, while MBNA credit manager Dean S. Alfano received only 87.

Schooley, as well as Brenda C. Phillips of Wilmington, Spring W. Davidson of Newark, and Charles M. Mullin of Bear, who were all unopposed, will be sworn in for their new five-year terms at the July school board meeting.

Only 346 people went to the polls in the Colonial School District where incumbent Bobby Benjamin received 214 votes and newcomer Sandra H. Smithers received 132 votes.

Homeschooling continues to grow

Education becomes a lifestyle

By PATRICIA KOLY

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Homeschooling educates a small but consistently growing number of children in Delaware. Approximately 1,600 children in Delaware and about 1.3 million children across the nation are homeschooled.

Chestnut Valley resident Robin Johnston has been homeschooling her three children, Nathan, 18, Michael, 17, and Anna, 15, for the past 11 years. Johnston said one of the advantages to homeschooling is being able to reinforce family values.

According to Johnston, homeschooled children avoid physical threats to safety and disruptive behavior, and receive limited exposure to "the negative type of socialization" such as sex, drugs and alcohol found in outside schools.

Roger and Ginny Watkins of Cooches Bridge Farms have six children: Jeremy, 17; Bethany, 15; Deanna, 13; Nate, 11; Gabrielle, 8; and Meredith, 6.

The Watkins family has been homeschooling since 1985. "We started back in the days when there were only a handful of homeschoolers," said Ginny Watkins.

The two mothers and teachers agreed that homeschooling is a full-time commitment. "You're deluding yourself," Johnston said, "if you think the kids will work unattended."

Ginny Watkins said seeing her children do well firsthand is rewarding. Her son Jeremy was accepted into the honors program at the University of Delaware after scoring 1350 on his SAT test.

Jeremy Watkins said the main difference between attending a traditional school and homeschooling is that you need more self-discipline to be successful.

"You have to do it yourself — be resourceful in finding answers," he said.

Deanna Watkins said some people have the impression that homeschooled kids are undersocialized, but she said attending services at Pike Creek Valley Baptist Church and participating in several youth groups gives them plenty of social opportunity.

One enterprising Hockessin homeschooler, Aaron Bradford, 14, gathered about 80 of his homeschooled friends and coordinated a reenactment of the Battle of the Sunken Road on May 2. The Civil War presentation, complete with cannon demonstration and Medic Corps nurses to care for the "wounded and dying," was held at The Bible Fellowship Church on Old Baltimore Pike. Aaron said coordinating this event helped the students learn about administrative duties, and taught both students and parents about the Civil War.

Johnston recommends getting tied into a "home education school" for accountability, resources and modeling. The voluntary cooperatives can provide help with the administrative side of homeschooling, such as recordkeeping and monitoring performance to ensure families fulfill state law requirements.

Ginny Watkins said parents who homeschool must be willing to learn along with their children. "It's a lifestyle," she said.

Newark residents Ginny and Roger Watkins with daughter Meredith, 6. The Watkins have been homeschooling all six of their children since 1985.

"Homeschooling parents need a lot of self-discipline, a lot of motivation and a serious interest in education."

Homeschooling is legal in Delaware if satisfactory evidence of "regular and thorough instruction" is proved.

Homeschoolers can provide proof under the supervision of the superintendent of the school district in which they reside. If this method is chosen, the parents should contact their superintendent to receive additional information about curriculum and other requirements.

Parents can also enroll their child in one of the home education schools. Each such school has its own enrollment criteria, record-keeping requirements and fees.

The Tri-State Homeschool Network, a support group for homeschoolers, provides an information packet to newcomers that is available by writing to P.O. Box 7193, Newark, Del. 19714-7193.

Christina School District revises School Choice guidelines

By PATRICIA KOLY

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Following action in the State Legislature, the Christina District School Board has adopted changes in the School Choice guidelines.

Among the changes are new application due dates, early termination of Choice permission in cases of frequent violations of the Student Code of Conduct and/or the district attendance policy, and allowance for the pro-ration of funds for out-of-district Choice students in the event of mid-year termination.

According to assistant school superintendent Franklin Rishel, recommendations for the changes came from the school districts.

The Choice application deadline for grades 1-12 has been changed from January 10 to the second Wednesday in January, and the application deadline for kindergarten from the first Wednesday in May to the first day of the school year.

Prior to the specified application deadlines, districts must make criteria for School Choice acceptance available in writing.

Late School Choice applications for kindergarten students will be considered if submitted before the beginning of the school year. All Choice applications will be considered late when submitted for good cause exceptions.

A student's enrollment in a district other than their residence can now be terminated early on the grounds of specified disruptive behavior with the approval of both districts. Early termination also may occur when the daycare arrangements which prompted the Choice application are materially changed by the provider, and when the district of residence, the receiving district and the parents of the pupil all agree.

The district of residence, the receiving district, and a new district of enrollment will now be able to arrange a pro-ratio of student funding in the event of a mid-year termination of a Choice enrollment.

Deborah Lutz, supervisor of School Choice for the Christina District, said funds any school receives per child is based on enrollment as of Sept. 30. "The allowance for a pro-ration of funds is so that schools can 'settle up' with one another," Lutz said, "if a child in a choice school relocates for reasons such as change of residence, parental job change, daycare arrangements or guardianship."

Lutz said the settlement would be done once annually and would involve only the local portion of funds. She was unsure of the exact amount of local money each school receives per student.

College Funding Needs

For many parents, the thought of providing funds for a child's college education seems intimidating, to say the least. You may have purchased life insurance when your child was born and as your needs increased.

It's important to realize that the earlier you begin saving for your children's education, the better. If you decide to make the cash accumulation vehicle life insurance, it should be purchased before the child begins school.

One of the principal economic purposes of life insurance is to grow capital. All conventional investment vehicles serve the same purpose, but the unique feature of life insurance is that it assures a desired accumulation at a specific, but uncertain, time; namely at the time of the insured's death. No other investment makes such a guarantee.

Advantages of using life insurance to fund college education vary with the age of the child and the type of policy purchased. Two of the benefits of life insurance are:

- Cash values that in most cases provide instant availability to cash using policy loans. The interest rate for policy loans is known in advance and is usually lower than loan rates from other traditional loan sources.
- Death benefit proceeds from life insurance policies usually are not subject to federal income taxes.

Space problem forces Brader to use trailers

the motion, calling the decision a "negative precedent."

Brenda Phillips, another board member from Wilmington, agreed with Evans. "This is part of a litany of reasons for not using space in (Wilmington) schools," said Phillips. "Both suburban and city parents would like their children in local schools."

Phillips added that she is guardian for a child who went to Brader. "And if she missed the bus, I had to drive to Brader," Phillips said. "I'm concerned about the city schools."

Brader Elementary faces a severe space shortage due to increasing student enrollment, and parents appealed to the board at their Jan. 13 meeting to resolve the problem. School board members promised to look into the issue.

Several parents attended this week's meeting to voice their support of the portable classrooms. "I was under the impression the portables were a 'done deal,'" said Kathy Wolfe, mother of a Brader first-grader.

During discussion at the April 21 school board meeting, board members questioned whether the installation of the three portable trailers needed formal approval by the school board.

According to assistant superintendent Franklin A. Rishel, a board vote was indicated because his research revealed that the board did take action in March 1989 to grant approval to lease a maximum of six portable classrooms for use during the 1989-90 school year.

Approximate cost to lease the three portable classroom units (six classrooms) for a two-year period for use at Brader is estimated to be $167,000.

Dr. Capes Riley, assistant superintendent for planning and facility management, previously said the Christina administration made the recommendation for portable classrooms at Brader when adequate space in the community could not be found.

law. "They can come back and ask for gasoline at some future date, but they have to go through the entire process again to get county approval."

WaWa's attorney Larry Tarabicos pointed out that the company could put in gas pumps now without asking permission. "It is unlikely to be done in the next 10 years, but you never know what could happen," Tarabicos said.

Venezky said the expansion plan was filed prior to Jan. 1, 1998, when the new Unified Development Code took effect. "But even though it is not subject to the new code planning process, it does have to comply with requirements under the UDC for stormwater management, landscaping and open space," Venezky said.

According to Tarabicos, WaWa seeks rezoning to add commercial land and expand existing parking. "As part of the expansion, we're adding stockade fencing and opaque buffer landscaping between adjacent residences and the property," said Tarabicos.

"The project engineer complained to me about all the stormwater and landscaping he had to add because of the UDC," said Venezky gleefully.

In addition to preserving a stand of existing trees, WaWa is putting in house," said Tarabicos. "We have already talked about the possibility of moving it to another lot rather than demolishing it if it's historically important."

According to Robert Thomas of the Newark Historical Society, Everett Johnson, founder of the Newark Post and the Press of Kells, lived in the white house in the early 1900s. Johnson's daughter, Marjorie Johnson Tilghman, said her family's home stood on a 50-acre farm called The Crossways.

Venezky said WaWa has been very considerate of the neighborhood and maintained the site in the past. "That's a good sign for this expansion," she said.

Tarabicos said the company plans to leave the open space in "meadow" but they're open to suggestion. "We'll keep it maintained but we're flexible as to what's done there."

ceed down Main Street.

According to Parade project manager Bob Mark, there should be plenty of sound and glory. "The U.S. Coast Guard Training Center Band is back in the parade for the first time in five years," said Mark, referring to one of seven bands in this year's lineup.

The award-winning Randolph-Macon Academy 91st Virginia Air Force Jr. ROTC Band will be performing in Newark for the first time and the Smyrna Citizens Hose Company Band is back for the second time. Bands from Glasgow, Christiana, Avon Grove, and Newark high schools will also perform.

Young people from Vision Quest in Chambersburg, Pa., beauty pageant winners, cub scouts, and clowns reflect the diverse ages and interests of those coming to celebrate.

Following the parade, a memorial service will take place at the reviewing stand at Academy and Main streets, after which trophies will be presented.

Tomorrow on Armed Forces Day, the 61st New York Volunteer

Infantry is holding a Civil War encampment at White Clay Creek State Park. Members of the troop will demonstrate musketry, drill, and camp life throughout the day from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Park fees are in effect but viewing the encampment is presented free by the Newark Parks and Recreation Department.

Saturday night, the 287th Delaware Army Band presents a free concert from 6 to 8 p.m. in the Academy Building parking lot on Academy Street. The city of Newark Memorial Day Committee promises plenty of toe-tapping, big band and pops music from the 18-member band.

Committee member Linda Burns said Veterans in World War II military dress would also be present. "We encourage people attending to dress in uniform, too," said Burns.

Parade organizers said Delaware Avenue will be closed to traffic on Sunday starting at 12:30 p.m. South College Avenue will be closed at West Park Place.

In case of inclement weather on Sunday, announcements about the parade will be made on major radio stations no later than noon.

Library plans discussed at meeting

► LIBRARY, from 1

Gordon is willing to move forward sooner. County councilmember Karen Venezky said this is because in recent years the Newark Library has become the second most heavily used in the county.

Gordon's proposal would add to both ends of the existing library, and would include room for storage, meeting rooms, and a multi-purpose room that would seat about 100 people.

The purpose of this week's meeting was to decide whether to go ahead with that plan or wait and build a larger extension in back of the library which would involve acquiring more properties. "That would not be any larger," said Venezky, "but would be more costly because properties would have to be purchased and demolished."

Neither Neal nor Venezky had information about costs or funding. "But if we don't expand now, we won't see expansion in my lifetime," said Neal.

Four property owners in attendance from George Reed Village whose properties lie directly behind the library were eager to sell their land to the county. Neal said that the county executive already had started negotiations for one of the properties.

Friends at Monday's meeting said they liked the idea of an expansion but were reluctant to give approval to any plan before having more information about the alternatives. Other possible options like a second story or moving to a new location were also suggested.

Venezky said input is also needed from the city of Newark to determine whether either plan would be acceptable, including parking and increased access to the site.

Some members complained that few people from the community were there to give input because the meeting was not publicized.

Neal said planning for any expansion is in a very early stage and that many more people need to examine both plans. "We've got a lot of folks who know a lot more about this than you or I, that need to look at this," said Neal, referring to city of Newark officials, architects and the Department of Transportation.

According to Venezky, she and a representative from the Friends will meet with the county executive to get further information about his proposal and another public meeting will be held at a future date.

No clear decision was reached regarding the expansion.

What is the plan?

PLANS TO EXPAND THE Newark Library, which barely came to public attention this week, were very welcome news.

The present library is cramped for space and inadequately-illuminated. According to one former librarian at the site, the original design for the present building called for the book shelves in the adult section to run across the room so the windows would provide additional light. Instead, they were run lengthwise so librarians can see what the patrons are up to as they browse.

There is no meeting room except the central area of the library itself, already overwhelmed with patrons, book stacks, computer terminals, and the circulation desk.

Many people who use the library would be delighted to have some input in its future if information and the opportunity were made available.

A meeting held at the Newark Senior Center on Monday night by the Friends of the Newark Free Library to consider two possible options was not publicized and only attended by 12 people. Several weeks of trying to obtain the expansion plans from New Castle County's Department of Community Services, which we understand now directs the libraries, resulted in the information that the Friends were the only people who could answer questions.

Friends president Jim Neal said he discussed the plans with the county executive but Neal could not give details, estimated times of construction, or costs for different options. Nor did Neal know if anyone had talked to city and state officials about building permits and traffic access for expanded facilities. Nor did anyone explain whether any of the cost would come from the local community.

Is this any way to build a county library system?

If public input is really welcome and desired, and only one set of proposals exist, then perhaps setting up a display with detailed information in the library itself would be a good idea. Library patrons could examine it for a period of time and then a public meeting could be advertised for comments.

Details about costs and time frames for building would also help when considering whether to proceed now or later. County officials with answers to questions about the funding and plans on which the public is supposed to be given a choice would be most welcome.

We feel sure there are more than a dozen people in Newark who would like to know what's coming at the community's library — before the bulldozers arrive.

EDUCATIONAL PERSPECTIVES

What's the Buzz?

By JACK BARTLEY

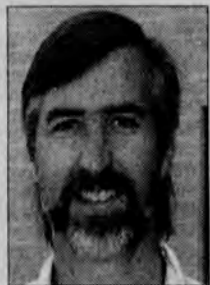

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

THE CHRISTINA SCHOOL DISTRICT is on the cutting edge of technology, or so the rhetoric goes. For that matter, it seems that EVERY school district that acquires computers is suddenly on the "cutting edge" of technology. Unfortunately, in the Christina School District, we seem to be on the edge of a can opener, ready to open a can or worms, instead of being on the cutting edge of a nice, sharp butcher's knife, ready to cut the meat for former State Superintendent Forgione's "educational sandwich."

When Dr. Metts was District Superintendent, a search began for a reputable computer company with which to do business. It would be big business, indeed, with thousands of computers to be purchased and many thousands of dollars to be spent. Reputable companies were found, such as Gateway, Dell and Compaq. Unfortunately, none of these was selected. Politicians and voters who defeat referenda have declared that school districts must obtain products and services under a bidding system where the basic operating premise is, "If it is cheaper, it must be better!" So, computers were bought from a company that pieced them together from garage sale materials such as an old Toro lawn mower, a Smith Corona keyboard, rusty Erector sets, and the occasional Muntz television for a monitor. This process took so long that by the time the schools had them installed, the cutting edge, 100 MHz machines were already bargain bin material at Best Buy.

The computers worked, most of them, for a short time. Unfortunately, the District's cutting edge has now begun to open the can of worms. For instance, the computer in my classroom will, at random, suddenly start to make grinding noises. It is looking for its "A" drive, and it will not do anything else until I help find it. It reminds me of the giant flower in "A Little Shop of Horrors" screaming, "Feed me! Feed me!" because if I stick a disk in the drive slot, it munches on it for awhile, stops making the noise, and lets me proceed with my work.

Bartley

The computer malfunction situation is magnified in school libraries or computer labs where many computers are in continuous use throughout the day. The Christina School District simply does not have the technological support personnel to maintain the machines. The District does not have enough personnel to maintain the machines even if they had been purchased from Gateway or Dell. The machines were put in place, and then essentially left to fend for themselves.

It reminds me of an old Steve Allen "Man On The Street" routine. Steve, as a reporter, is assigned to interview the "Man On The Street" and ask people about their hobbies. He first encounters Tom Poston, who says his hobby is bee keeping. Steve says, "Oh, how interesting! Do you have a farm or hives in your back yard?"

OUT OF THE ATTIC

Local clean-up forces face a problem in rubbish-dumping

As the first Clean-Up Day dawned this morning, Newark town officials were still wrestling with the Wilbur Street rubbish controversy. Recent developments point to an informal state of war between the town and persons responsible for the throwing of all manner of refuse down a ravine in that section, and said ravine being distinctly within the town limits.

It appears that the officials cannot pin any one person down and hold him responsible for the dire state of affairs. Residents of the street blame each other and outsiders, too. Officer Lewis suggests that he arrest the entire street thereby finding the culprits.

A famous pitcher found

Bill McAvoy and I went over to the hotel for lunch. And who do you suppose keeps that hotel? Victor Willis, the old Boston-Pittsburgh pitching star of other days, no less.

Newark is the old home town of the tall and famous pitcher, and when his big league day was done, he went back home and took over this hotel.

Chick Frazer, the Pittsburgh scout, was there, and Willis introduced him to McAvoy.

Post to sink 'bicen' capsule

With plans for Newark's bicentennial celebration in full swing, who's had time to consider what will remain for future generations to share?

The Weekly Post for one. Currently the Post is engaged in efforts to see that a little bit of 1976 in Newark can be shared in 2076.

The contribution is a "time capsule" to be placed underground on July 1, at the site of the old Academy Building on Main and Academy streets.

Glasgow High track

The old adage "success breeds success" is very prevalent on Glasgow High's track team this spring. The Dragon thinclads finished cinder action last week with a dual meet record of 7-0. With only three dual meets remaining before regional and state championship competition commences on May 22, the Dragons are in the enviable position of facing an unbeaten season.

Glasgow was scheduled to participate in the Dover Relays this past weekend prior to hosting Middletown on Monday and visiting Howard on Wednesday.

Those dual meets will conclude the Flight B Blue Hen Conference season for Glasgow.

City Council to contest Delmarva rate hike

Newark residents may find their monthly electric bills increasing by about $4.34 as of June 1, though city officials will contest the rate hike that comes courtesy of Delmarva Power and Light.

For properties other than residences, the overall increase will be 4.87 percent. Most prominently affected by the rate hike will be the University of Delaware, which will have about $32,000 tacked on to their $640,000 monthly bill.

Whitcraft's shut out leads Wizards to win

David Whitcraft doesn't mind shootouts, especially when he's holding the gun and it's in front of 3,100 people.

Whitcraft, a former All American goalkeeper for the University of Delaware, stopped two shots in an overtime shootout and preserved the Delaware Wizards 1-0 victory Saturday over the Connecticut Wolves in a U.S. Interregional Soccer League game at Glasgow High.

CSX safety upgrade agreement on hold

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

An agreement with CSX Corporation for safety upgrades and improvements for railroad crossings in Newark is on hold because of aesthetic concerns.

"I hate that concrete fence at the cemetery," said District 6 councilmember Gerald Grant. "On a small tract like the cemetery it's going to be really imposing."

Grant referred to part of the agreement in which CSX would pay $50,000 of the $70,000 needed to extend a concrete wall to North Chapel Street along the CSX right-of-way near Fraser Field and the Newark Cemetery.

"There are a significant number of students crossing over the tracks," said city planning director Roy Lopata, explaining the reason for the substantial structure. "We're concerned, and the railroad is concerned, because fences get cut all the time."

Grant acknowledged people crossing the tracks were a problem. "I shortcut the railroad for 20 years in various stages of mind," said Grant, "but a solid concrete wall, eight feet tall, will be a monstrosity."

Parties to the agreement include CSX, the city of Newark, the University of Delaware, and the Newark Methodist Cemetery. Cemetery owner Norris P. Wright has granted an easement for the wall and will be responsible for its future maintenance.

"Mr. Wright said maintenance would include letting vines and bushes grow over the fence and letting it go back to nature," said Lopata. "It will be more attractive over time."

Councilmember Thomas Wampler suggested tabling the agreement until the rest of council could go out and look at the fence site. "If (Grant) is full of hot air, we'll come back and vote on it," said Wampler.

CSX also agreed to install and maintain "no trespassing" signs near at-grade crossings, upgrade the warning devices, if approved by DelDOT, at the North College Avenue crossing, develop a joint safety awareness program for the University community with $25,000 contributed by CSX, and work with Newark and University police to reduce trespassing and develop emergency plans in the event of an accident on the railroad right-of-way.

The state has agreed to pay the remaining $20,000 for the proposed fence and the University has already repaired gaps in existing CSX fencing near Elkton Road.

Lopata said the agreement arose because CSX was obligated to address potential safety concerns at highway/rail at-grade crossings in local communities as part of the acquisition proceedings of CSX and Norfolk Southern railroads with Conrail operations.

What's the buzz?

Tom replies, "No, I keep them in my closet."

Flustered, Steve asks, "But isn't that dangerous. Don't they get out?"

Tom says, "No, I keep them in a jar."

"Well, you must at least put holes in the jar."

"No. No holes."

"But, but... they'll die!"

Tom replies, matter-of-factly, "Hey, it's just a hobby!"

Our computers are the district's hobby, and they're suffocating right now.

If school districts plan to be "on the cutting edge" of technology, there needs to be support for the technology. There should be a trained technician in every high school and middle school, and there should be a trained technician for clusters of every three or four elementary schools, depending on how many computers are in use. It is not cheap, but unless the hardware and the supporting software are maintained properly with trained personnel and money for upgrades, schools would be better off putting their resources towards other forms of educational enhancements or reducing class size.

WITH THE recent news that the bald eagle may be taken off the endangered species list, I think we can all breathe a little sigh of relief. None of us can single-handedly create the environment that bald eagles need to have in order to survive, but almost all of us can do something right in our own back yards that help wildlife. Wildlife adds to our enjoyment of our world. Whether it's colorful butterflies, squirrels skittering across the lawn or insects being chased down by birds in the backyard, wildlife helps keep us connected to the natural world. Wildlife helps keep nature in balance, but we in turn must do our part to keep wildlife as part of our world.

Occasionally I'll sit on the back deck and watch the goings on in my backyard. It takes a few minutes of concentration, but once you tune out the everyday noises and distractions around you, an amazing world comes into focus. My yard is wooded, and is populated by squirrels, rabbits and any number of species of birds. Three bird feeders and a birdbath add to make my yard an attractive stopover point for all sorts of wildlife. All wildlife need four things to survive: food, water, cover and a place to raise young. Taken together, these four things are called habitat. Sometimes when we build new homes, roads or shopping centers, habitat is destroyed and wildlife is displaced, but with some careful consideration wildlife and people can live side by side. Wildlife need year round food. This spring when buying plants for the yard, give consideration to those plants that have nuts, edible seeds or fruit. Hummingbirds, insects and butterflies like nectar rich flowering plants. Even if you live in an apartment, hanging baskets with cosmos, zinnias and marigolds will attract more than you would think. Water is critical for wildlife. A small birdbath or even a shallow pan under a bush will usually suffice. Cover is something that is also critical for the survival of wildlife, but in our zeal to be neat we sometimes neglect. Plants are great cover in the spring and summer, but also consider rock and woodpiles, hollow logs, ground cover and evergreens. Animals need places to hide, feed and nest. The most difficult element to create for most homeowners is a safe place for wildlife to raise young. Dense plantings often suffice, but nest cavities in trees, fences and under outbuildings are often all that's needed. And don't forget about that old standby, the birdhouse. Attracting wildlife is a year-

Who Answered the Call to Serve

MARY PARKINS

DOROTHY MARKERT

GLADYS WATKINS

By Patricia A. Koly

World War II devastated and changed the life of millions of people, but for some Newark women, military service meant the chance to do things they never would have done in civilian life.

Marion Geesaman of Ogletown Road, active in the service from 1944 to 1946, said she was able to drive a dump truck and provide transportation for visiting entertainers. "Those of us in motor transport felt like the elite," Geesaman said.

Geesaman was in the Marine Corps and served in Quantico, Va., after training at Camp Lejeune in North Carolina. "I hauled everything from flowers to that stuff from the post's stables that helped the flowers grow," she recalled.

A teacher at Newark High School when the war started, Dorothy Markert said she joined the Army out of curiosity, not patriotism. "I could not imagine how so many people from such diverse backgrounds could work together and get along," Markert said.

The East Chestnut Hill Road resident served in the machine records unit for almost three years, and was stationed in Dallas, Texas, Paris, France, and Frankford, Germany.

One of her responsibilities was tracking the soldier population in different areas on a computer. "It was the first IBM unit I ever saw," Markert said, referring to then-new technology.

Gladys Watkins of Brookside served in the Army Nurse Corps as a second lieutenant, and was stationed at the San Marcos Air Force Base in Texas. She and Markert became lifelong friends when Markert was her algebra teacher at Newark High.

"President Roosevelt gave the call (for volunteers) on the same day I graduated from nursing class," said Watkins who joined immediately with about 14 of her classmates.

"It was such a joy to see the boys 'repaired' and sent home," Watkins said of her service. "Some of them went home without a leg, but at least they were able to return to civilian life."

Jane Steele of Newark wishes she had joined the Marines instead of the Navy. "The uniforms were cuter," joked Steele, who served as a WAVE (Women Accepted as Volunteers for Emergency Service) from 1943 to 1945.

The South College Avenue resident decided to join when her husband enlisted in the Army. Her duties as a storekeeper, third class, at the Philadelphia Navy Yard included stowing and issuing supplies, material and equipment used in the Navy.

Nottingham Green resident Mary Parkins was in the Army Nurse Corps for two years, serving in Fort Meade, Md.

Parkins worried she had made a mistake when she war was declared, but said she has never regretted her war time service. "I enjoyed working with the soldiers very much."

Nellie D. Johnson Lindell of Sherwood Forest also served as a second lieutenant in the Army Nurse Corps for two years. Stationed in Camp Rucker, Ala., Fort Jackson, S.C., and Rome, Ga., she remembers being in the service as a "wonderful experience."

On Sunday, these and other local women veterans will be honored with a ride on the Delaware Shuttle Express trolley as part of the Newark Memorial Day Parade.

Warm weather brings Outdoors and Longwood Gardens

IT'S HARD TO BELIEVE that I am writing a column about summer! Am I rushing the season? A glance at the calendar says no, but still...

I can console myself that the column is really about warm weather activities which begin next Saturday and that may do something to assuage my calendaphobia.

Outdoors at Longwood Gardens moves into full swing next Saturday as the 15 week celebration of flowers, fountains and music opens. There will be half hour illuminated fountain displays every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evening at 9:15 p.m. from May to July and at 9 p.m. in August. The events are usually preceded by delightful one hour garden concerts and those concerts, under the very capable Performing Arts Coordinator Priscilla J. Johnson, are my topic today. They are held in many locations around the magnificent gardens of the former home of Pierre S. du Pont on US Route 1 in Kennett Square, Pennsylvania.

These concerts feature outstanding professional talent and the best in local talent as well. With rare exceptions, the concerts are free of any extra charge. You may just enjoy them with your Longwood Gardens visit. There are concerts for all musical tastes, classical, folk, jazz, blue grass, country, etc.

An interesting concert is set for Thursday, June 18, at 7:30 p.m. in the Rose Arbor of the gardens and features Pan's Fancy a duo of Edwin George and Karen Meyers. Their program, "All in a Garden Green," will feature performances of music from 1450 to 1800 on recorders, lutes, bagpipes and hurdy-gurdy. Their photo in one of the more relaxed moments of a renaissance concert appears with my column today.

The 75 piece West Chester Band under Joseph E. Mango will present a concert called "Bach to Bernstein" in the Open Air Theater on June 11 at 7:30 p.m., the starting time of all the concerts in the series. The 2,080 seat theater under the stars will resound with music from across the years ranging from the classical period to Broadway.

Kat Yn't Seil from the Netherlands will perform on the Conservatory Terrace June 23. They will present traditional and contemporary Dutch and Frisian songs about the sea and the boats that sail them. The first word in the group's name, Kat, refers to the action of pulling up a boat's mainsail. Their program is called "The Dutch Connection."

A Pops Concert is set for the Open Air Theater on June 6 and is called "Broadway Bound." Theatrical performers will offer music, dance and even audience involvement and they trace the history of Broadway music from the early years to today's show stoppers.

There will be two editions of Longwood's very popular Family Ice Cream Concerts during the month of June. Both will be held in the large Open Air Theater. On June 13, The Dutton Family of Utah, parents Dean and Sheila and children ranging from 14 to 22 years of age, will offer a program including works for violin, guitar, bass, viola, banjo, mandolin, keyboard, harmonica and drums. This versatile family has won many honors including a performance of the 1994 theme song for the UN's Year of the Family. And, of course, ice cream cones will be sold for added family fun.

The other Family Ice Cream Concert is set for June 30, this one beginning at 7:00 p.m. It features John Kelleher and his wild assortments of hats. His programs have messages of self-esteem, positive behavior, environmental concerns and substance abuse awareness. He combines his talents of musician, comedian and educator to produce programs filled with fun, laughter, music and learning. Not a bad combination for a family night out. Ice cream? Certainly!

Again, there is no extra charge for these concerts and there are many more than I have mentioned in my column. ## Keep the wild in your world round job, but few of us doubt that it's worth it.

► OUTLOOK, from 8

There's just something incredibly beautiful and soothing about watching a cardinal at the bird feeder during a winter snow or ruby-throated hummingbird flitting around the garden in search of nectar. It really doesn't take much in the way of time or money to keep the wild in your world. With enough care and consideration, Newark can turn into a wildlife friendly home for more than the occasional stray cougar.

By James C. McLaren

A rabid Raccoon
Howled up at the moon
As he filled helpless creatures with fright.
Likely victims were happy
That though Raccoon was sappy,
His bark was much worse than his bite.

A disgruntled mail carrier
Found his walks a sad barrier
That hastened his way to retard.
He was stamped as quite grim,
Letter-perfectly prim;
Yet, he turned out to be quite a card.

What did a cemetery worker say when told a spooky joke?
"I don't dig it."

Why would a tipsy coal miner dislike law studies?
Because one can't serve miners at the bar.

Sadness is seldom helpful in one's quest for renewal.

Folks who step callously on caterpillars reveal an evil in their souls.

Author's note:

Lunacies like these have been inflicted on my poor wife, children and colleagues for years. They have been greeted by both groans and guffaws — the latter, perhaps, to pacify the punster and offset a further barrage. To its victims, punning can be seen as a disease, since any laughter, however sparse, can be contagious. I hope Post readers will tackle this word-play nonsense with zest, thereby assuring them Eternal Joy and a letter from Ed McMahon.

COMMUNITY

Arts Alliance expands

The Newark Arts Alliance has opened their Art Warehouse behind the Newark Food Co-op and East End Cafe in Unit 16 at 280 E. Main St. The space will be used for a darkroom, photography classes, and other art workshops. For information call the Alliance at 731-5801.

Weather hampers mosquito control

This winter's above normal rainfall coupled with warm temperatures earlier this spring has mosquito populations booming in areas near flooded woodlands and wetlands. In addition, mosquitoes seek cover during cooler temperatures, which often shields them from the effects of pesticides.

The Division of Fish and Wildlife has employed the use of two ground foggers in Kent and Sussex counties and is also considering using aircraft to treat areas with the highest mosquito populations. Temperatures must be above 60 degrees with winds five miles per hour or less for optimum results.

Coming home in a public space

If you see someone sawing off a broken branch from a tree, mowing grass or planting flowers in a tub, you probably don't think anything about it. We see people working like this around their homes all the time, especially at this time of the year. If anything, you may be reminded of outside chores of your own that need doing.

But what do you think when you go down Newark's Main Street and you see yardwork taking place? If you take note of a cherrypicker raised level to one of the sidewalk trees, you may wonder what's going on or who's at work until you see the pruned branches on the sidewalk and "City of Newark" on the truck.

But what about the individual you see pushing a mower across the lawn or shoveling mulch around the shrubbery of one of the churches on the street? Or what about the people you might see putting in plants along the walkway of the Christina School District Building or laying out flower pots on the steps of buildings and in the entryways to shops or planting flowers in the big whiskey barrels on the sidewalks up and down Main Street?

Of course many of these people are paid by the city or by institutions and businesses up and down the street, but many of the people you see kneeling around the tree squares planting or bending over the flower tubs are volunteers. The work they all do makes Main Street a more beautiful place.

And why are so many people working to make this happen? Is it just to please customers or window-shoppers, motorists passing through or to maintain a good public image? Or does it go deeper than that, perhaps down to one of our great needs, the one we seldom speak of and don't always honor, which is our need for a space we share in common.

This space we call our public space. In Newark we call it — Main Street. And when we pay people to keep the grass trimmed in our Main Street lawns and edge the walkways with peat moss, and when the volunteers fill the tubs with flowers and come back again and again to pick out the trash, and water, and replant for the different seasons — aren't we saying: This is our space, to share, and we are worth having this beauty to share.

The Newark Arts Alliance, which has received funds from the city to maintain plantings in the Main Street flower tubs, is looking for volunteers to help take care of the tubs. For more information, please call Terry Foreman, 731-5801, or David Robertson, 368-7158.

Clark keeps Chapel Street Theatre going

By WENDY RUSS

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Peter Clark thinks he knows why The Chapel Street Players, long popular in Newark, have performed to the record attendance at this year's performances.

"We've been doing better plays better," said Clark, president and five-year volunteer with the community theater group. "We are now riding the crest of a successful wave."

Like Chapel Street's many other volunteers, Clark has contributed his time and skills in a variety of ways. Some of his important "roles" have included electrician, set builder, lighting designer, and facilities manager. When needed, he has also worked on drains, raised funds, and filed zoning appeals with the city.

"In a volunteer organization, you need to allow people to do what they want to do," he explains. "I happen to like fixing up the building."

The Delaware native relocated to Newark from the Philadelphia area in 1980. Now retired, Clark volunteered with the organization because he "needed something to preserve my sanity."

Clark had not been involved with theater since high school, and he makes it clear that he is neither an actor nor a director. Instead, his work takes place behind the scenes, which suits him well. "There is immediate gratification in every show," he said. "I get to solve a lot of problems."

Up in the lighting booth is just one of the places Peter Clark can be found at the Chapel Street Theater.

Some of these problems result from the fact that the theater, located at 27 North Chapel Street, was not built as a theater at all. The building started out as a church, and this presents some unique challenges for lighting and staging.

There is no space either above or at the sides of the stage for lighting apparatus. Sets have to be constructed to compensate for this lack of "wing" space at the sides, and tight production budgets are always an issue. "There's a great pleasure in buying fresh lumber and reusing it until it's ground into sawdust," Clark said. "We recycle everything."

Clark relies on his resourcefulness and his ability to find creative solutions. His sense of satisfaction in his work is evident when he talks about how he has found a solution to some tricky problem.

The biggest challenge for Clark and his fellow volunteers is keeping the theater viable. Attracting very talented actors, directors, and production people has helped enormously, according to Clark. Most live in Newark or just outside it, making the theater a community asset.

Plans for the future include the addition of a handicapped-accessible rest room, a new sign on the front of the theater (pending approval), and an exciting line-up of plays for next season.

And although he claims he is not an actor, Clark will be taking the stage this June, in a play written by theater board member Scott F. Mason. Clark will play himself in the summer fund-raiser titled "Murder on Cue."

To get involved in Chapel Street Players, call 368-2041. For details on shows, call the box office at 368-2248.

THE EDGE

WE ARE closing in on the end of the spring season. In between rain drops during the past 40 days and 40 nights of rain, there has been some excellent high school action. Local teams will vie for state championships in softball, boys track, girls track, baseball and girls lacrosse. Hopefully, the weather will clear up just in time to have some great state playoffs.

UP: To Hodgson Vot-tech for establishing a lacrosse program. The team has done a great job in its first year.

DOWN: To New Castle County for cutting the successful wrestling and field hockey camps that have run during the summer at William Penn High.

Boys take commanding lead at county track meet

By STEVE WESTRICK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

GLASGOW BOYS WERE dominant at the 56th annual New Castle County Track and Field championship meet, Saturday at Baynard Stadium.

Even the constant rain, which postponed most of the field events, couldn't stop the Dragon runners as they posted 114 team points, to all but seal the county title. After the track events, Salesianum stood in second place, 95 points, Newark tied for fourth, 29, St. Mark's eighth 15, and Christiana ninth, 13.

"My hat's off to all the kids, not just from my team, but from all the teams, for competing today," Glasgow coach Mervin Spence said. "We could have had a lot of injuries and dropped baton, but we didn't have any of them."

The Dragon's relay teams led the way, placing first or second in all four relays. Glasgow's 4x100 relay team, consisting of Joe Swift, Isaac Allen, Gary Payne and Vince Giles, destroyed the competition by running 44.36. The next fastest time was Salesianum at 45.71.

Glasgow's 4x200 team of Swift, Brian Miller, Darius Crawley, and Marlon Weir recorded a time of 1:32.63 to win the event.

Glasgow's 4x400 and 4x800 teams both placed second behind Salesianum's foursome. Weir, a member of the 4x800 team felt the conditions held them back.

"Due to the unseasonable conditions I don't think we ran our best," Weir said. "This track really isn't conducive to the 4x800. I think if we have a good practice this week and get ready we can win [the 4x800] at the state meet."

Joe Swift won the 100 meters with a time of 11.16. Newark's Brandon McLennon took third in the event, 11.29.

Dragon Darius Crawley fell just short in a tight race against Jeff Hobbs in the 400 meters. Hobbs' time was 51.38, while Crawley ran a 51.88.

"[Crawley] hasn't been really pushed this year. He has been running around a 52," Spence said. "The time was probably a product of the competition. I think he is just starting to peak right now."

In girls action, Glasgow had 59 points, after Saturday, placing them second.

The 4x100 team of Lashanda

Simpson, Lakisha Mayo, Delsie Dickerson, and Taneesha Matthews, gave the powerful William Penn team a tight competition for first place in the event. Glasgow's time of 50.97, was just short of the Colonials 50.78.

"That was their best run of the year," Glasgow girls coach Art Madric said. "They've been working on cleaning up passing the baton. We've been playing around with different inserts in that line up, but I think we have the right combination now."

Mayo said the rain did not affect the team much.

"At practice, if it's drizzling we will practice on passing the baton," she said.

Individually, Mayo won the 300 meter hurdles, 45.91, and took third in the 100 meter hurdles, 15.21.

Other local athletes to place in the top three, include: Brian Miller, Glasgow, second 110 meter hurdles, and 300 meter hurdles; Vincent Giles, Glasgow, second 200 meters; Quinn Martin, Christiana, third 400 meters; Clarion Ridge, Newark, third 800 meters; Fawad Nisar, Glasgow, third 1,600 meters; Pat Riley, St. Mark's, won the 3,200 meters.

Girls action: Lynn Harris, Christiana, second 100 meter; Danielle Bailey, Christiana, third 100 meter; Jennifer Chamberlain, Glasgow, third 400 meters; Taneesha Matthews, Glasgow, third 300 meter hurdles; Sarah Conway, St. Mark's, third 800 meters.

Christiana nine knocks off Newark

Vikings eye winning season

By STEVE WESTRICK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Christiana which has hovered near the bottom of Flight A for most the season, is suddenly emerging as a contestant in the tight conference race.

The Viking's recent victories over two of the conferences better teams, Brandywine and Newark, has his team thinking playoffs, Christiana coach Paul Schurbert said.

"We're 6-8 now. We seem to roll in three or four [wins or losses at a time]," he said. "Hopefully we can take [this winning streak] to the end. If we win out we'll have ten wins, that probably gets us in the tournament, and that is our ultimate goal."

Christiana defeated Newark 6-4, on May 7, to give the team a winning record in the conference at 6-5. Presently, William Penn leads Flight A with a 8-3 record. Additionally, three other teams have winning records in the conference: Brandywine 7-4, A.I. Dupont —, and Newark 6-4.

Against Newark, Viking Ronnie Nickle pitched six complete innings allowing only two hits. He had a no-hitter for five complete innings before running into control problems, and was charged with all four runs.

Nickle, who struck out six Yellowjackets, walked the bases loaded to start the seventh inning. The walks brought the tying run to the plate and forced Schurbert to pull Nickle for Jim Murphy.

Murphy walked the first batter he faced allowing a run to score. With the bases still loaded and Newark trailing

Newark, St. Mark's are tourney bound

DESPITE THE RAIN THAT wreaked havoc on the girls high school soccer schedule the past week, St. Mark's and Newark appear to be headed to the 12-team state tournament that begins Wednesday.

Glasgow, meanwhile, even if it finishes with nine wins, may be left high and dry and have to watch from the stands. The Dragons had eight wins before its season-ender Wednesday against Delcastle.

The selections, which are based on wins and bonus points for strength of schedule, will be made Sunday. The top four seeded teams will get first-round byes.

Christiana's tournament hopes were gone weeks ago, as the Vikings had posted a 3-10 mark as of Tuesday.

St. Mark's (10-1-1) had games against Middletown on Wednesday and Dickinson on Thursday. The Spartans were tentatively scheduled to meet powerhouse Ursuline on Saturday.

SOCCER

The Spartans' season has been fueled by a defense that has allowed only four goals.

St. Mark's have shut out nine opponents.

Two years ago, the Spartans allowed four goals in 16 games, but St. Mark's coach Tom DeMatteis said this year's schedule is tougher than in '96.

Sophomore Ashley Dilworth leads the team offensively with 15 goals and six assists. Senior Cheryl Besosa, who missed four games in April with an injury, has seven goals.

Should Newark win its last two games against doormats Brandywine and Wilmington, they would finish 10-4-2 after starting the season 0-2-1.

LAKISHA MAYO - GLASGOW HIGH

By STEVE WESTRICK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

EVEN THE RAIN COULDN'T slow down Glasgow's Lakisha Mayo at the New Castle County Track and Field championships. Mayo won the 300 meter hurdles, took third in the 100 meter hurdles and ran the second leg of the Dragon's second place 4x100 relay team. That team fell just short of beating the powerful William Penn foursome.

Glasgow coach Art Madric said this is the first year Mayo has performed in the 300 meter hurdles.

Mayo ran a 45.91 to beat out Ursuline's Betsy Lazzeri, 46.46, and teammate Taneesha Matthews, 48.60, to win the event.

"Despite the conditions, this was the best time [in 300 hurdles] she has so far this year," Madric said.

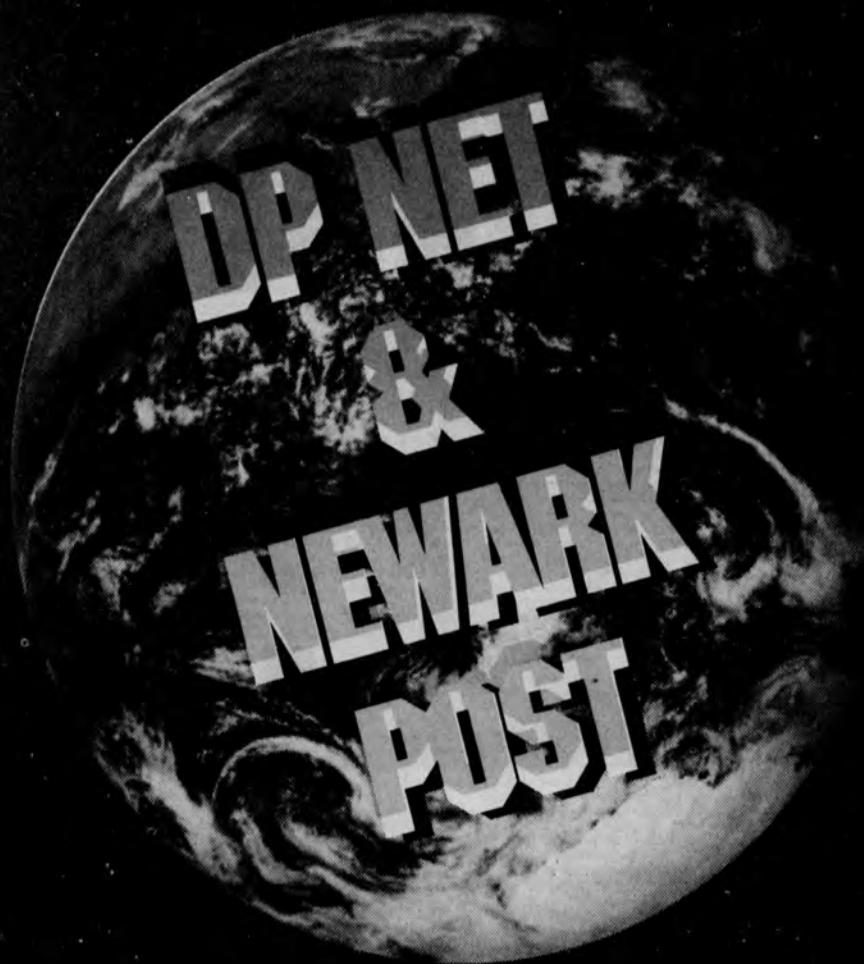

Before the 300 hurdles, Mayo ran a 15.21 in the 100 meter hurdles. That time placed her third, just behind Lazzeri, 15.19, and Delcastle's Rhondale Jones, 14.79, who won 11 county titles in four years.

"I felt good. I felt strong. And I just wanted to get out of the rain," Mayo said of her performances.

Despite her impressive times, Mayo said she can run better. She said her confidence is high going into the state tournament this weekend.

"I'm striving to be a state champion," she said. "I feel I can win both the 100 and 300 hurdles [at the state tournament]."

UD baseball team goes after NCAA bid

The University of Delaware baseball team moved up a notch in the latest Collegiate Baseball Magazine's Division I baseball poll this week.

The Blue Hens, 40-8 on the season and the top seed in this week's America East tournament, are ranked No. 24.

The four-team, double-elimination tournament got underway Thursday with second-seeded Northeastern playing third-seeded Vermont and Delaware playing fourth-seeded Hofstra.

There are three games scheduled Friday (noon, 3:30 and 7:30 p.m.). The championship game is slated for Saturday at noon with the "if" game to follow.

The winner of the America

East tournament receives an automatic berth in the NCAA tournament, starting May 21. The first round of the NCAA Tournament will be played at eight campus sites with four teams competing at each.

The eight sites will be Clemson University, University of Miami, Florida State, University of Florida, LSU, Wichita State, Texas A&M and Stanford.

Delaware is led by the nation's leading home run hitter Kevin Mench (St. Mark's) and pitcher Matt Phillips (Seaford), who has won 22 straight decisions. Phillips is four wins away from tying the NCAA record for consecutive pitching victories.

Soltes elected captain of Blue Hen football team

Senior defensive tackle Bryan Soltes, a three-year starter and leader of an experienced defensive front, has been named the captain of the 1998 University of Delaware football team.

Soltes, a 6-4, 265 pound physical education major from Dumont, N.J., was selected from a vote of team members. He becomes just the second solo captain of the Blue Hens since the 1989 season.

"The response from the team was similar to last year with Dorrell Green," said Delaware coach Tubby Raymond. "Almost every player mentioned him. He is quite mature and well respected by both the team and the coaching staff. What impresses me is that he expresses himself so well and I think he will do an outstanding job of expressing the opinions of the team."

A starter since his freshman season, Soltes has played in 36 career games with 25 starts, including 15 straight since the 1996 season. A fifth-year senior, he owns career totals of 113 tackles, four sacks and one interception. Last season he recorded a career-high 69 tackles, including seven for losses and two sacks.

Soltes was one of college football's most inspiring stories in 1996. After starting four games as a true freshman in 1994, he was forced to sit out the entire 1995 season after undergoing brain surgery a month before the season. The surgery was performed to remove a blood vessel abnormality from the surface of the brain that caused a seizure a week prior to preseason practice. He returned to action in 1996 and started seven games for a team that advanced to the NCAA I-AA playoffs.

"He has always demonstrated strong leadership abilities," said Raymond. "He is a fine player who also happens to be an exceptional leader. We almost lost him a few years ago and naturally that caused a flat spot in his progress as a player. But he recovered and has become the player he is capable of being."

Soltes is one of three starters returning from a unit that helped the Blue Hens post a school-record 43 sacks for 298 yards last season.

Delaware, which posted a 12-2 record last fall and advanced to the NCAA I-AA semifinals before losing in the final seconds to McNeese State, opens its 107th season Sept. 5 against Massachusetts.

The Hens, ranked third in the final I-AA poll last season, have advanced to post-season play six times in the last seven years.

by only two runs, Murphy struck out one batter and got the next to hit into a double play to end the game.

"I felt real strong today," Nickle said of his pitching performance. "I try to get my fastball over the outside of the plate and set up with the curve. I got tired at the end and got in some trouble."

Despite coming in with the bases loaded and no outs, Nickle said he felt confident Murphy would get the save and preserve his win.

Nickle helped himself offensively in the first inning. After Murphy reached on an error, Nickle blasted a Dave Lewis fastball over the head of Newark's left fielder. The shot would end up as a two RBI home run.

"I was setting on the fast ball," Nickle said. "[Lewis] threw me a change up the pitch before. I was ready for a fastball and he threw it on the next pitch and I hit it with the fat part of the bat."

Later in the first, with two outs, designated hitter Sung Yoon reached base on an error. Rob Hines followed with a double into left/center, scoring the run.

"We had a horrible first inning today," Newark coach Curt Bedford said. "You can't give them three runs like that," he said referring to the two errors.

Lewis took the loss. He went five innings, being charged with five runs off six hits and a walk.

Mets 19, Cardinals 6 — Ryan McVey pitched a four-inning complete game and Cara Maggioli had three hits to help the Mets to the victory.

Royals 9, Mets 6 — J.P. Aniska sparked the Royals offensively with two runs scored and an RBI. Brian Kruelle chipped in a single and double. Ryan McVey scored twice to pace the Mets attack.

Royals 13, Pirates 1 — The Royals were led by the strong pitching of Nathan Thomson, Zachery Dayton and Michael Carr. Hunter Payne scored twice. J.T. Bowman pitched three strong innings for the Pirates.

Bingham, Thomas Barr. Jonathan Malgire, Bobby Henderson and Phil Marton the Red Sox came from behind to beat the Twins in the fifth inning. Frank House, Danny Johnson and Callahan combined to pitch a three hitter in the win.

A's 3, Orioles 2 — Ryan Ohliger went all six innings striking out 18 batters to record a win for the A's. The Orioles had a chance to tie in the sixth inning, but couldn't get a runner in from third. Pat Genua, Andrew Thomson and Ohliger had hits for the A's. James Tidwell led the Orioles with two hits.

Braves 9, Orioles 0 — Steven Slacum and Joey Matterer combined to pitch a no-hitter for the Braves. Randy Von Steuben preserved the no-hitter by making a diving catch. Danny Ryan, Pat McVey, Justin White and Slacum had two hits each for the Braves.

Cubs 16, Indians 8 — The Cubs got their first win of the season. Devin Beaden and Dave Solan led the charge by recording three hits each. Adam Couden hit a home run and Brennan McKane had two hits in a losing cause for the Indians.

Red Sox 7, Pirates 3 — Danny Johnson and Lou Bingham combined to throw a three hitter for the victories Red Sox. Frank Houser and Pete Callahan each had two hits in a winning effort.

Hodgson builds foundation for its new lacrosse program

Eagles net eight wins in first season

By STEVE WESTRICK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

For years the only Silver Eagles to strap on shoulder pads were members of the football team. Now, however, Hodgson has a new sport in boys' lacrosse.

The team is coached by Nick Mattola, a culinary arts teacher at Hodgson, who has been assistant lacrosse coach at Mt. Pleasant for the last five years.

Mattola, a member of the first Delaware all-state lacrosse team while playing at Brandywine High, was offered the head coaching job at Mt. Pleasant this year.

Mt. Pleasant has an established varsity program in lacrosse, while Hodgson has been playing a junior-varsity schedule this year. Still, Mattola said he could not pass up the opportunity to develop a program at his home school.

To get started Mattola held a general recruitment meeting. Forty students showed up for the meeting, 24 of them stayed with the program.

Of the 24 players, only two, Sam Swank and Jason Zeitler, had extensive lacrosse experience.

Despite the lack of experience Mattola had a plan for success, teach in layers.

"I find when you give things in small doses it's easier to absorb," he said. "First I tried to put the kids in positions where they could do well. Then I set up lines and taught the to create a strong tradition of lacrosse. This attitude has already spread to his players.

"It feels good to be part of the first ever team at the school," said Chris Muntz, who along with Swank and Zeitler are team captains. "It's not just about winning right now, it's about creating a strong foundation. The main thing is to earn respect from everybody. We have to prove we're not a joke, that we're strong and building for the future."

According to Mattola, boys' lacrosse will become a varsity sport next year. The Hodgson players believe they will be ready as all 24 players will be back. In addition 19 of the 24 players are underclassmen, meaning the team should have plenty of experience in a few years.

To help Mattola build a winning tradition, Hodgson head wrestling coach, Jerry Lamey has joined the team as an assistant coach. Since becoming head wrestling coach 10 years ago, Lamey has transformed a mediocre program into a state powerhouse.

Mattola feels that Lamey, who also is an assistant football coach and gym teacher, can help the team by recruiting more athletes and bring a winning attitude to the coaching ranks.

basic fundamentals.

"We learned line drills, how to catch and throw properly. For the first couple of weeks we took baby steps. Looking back I think we were progressing slowly but at a good pace."

Mattola's strategy paid off. After 10 games, Hodgson has a record of 8-2, including victories over Polytech and Wilmington Charter.

Mattola said his ultimate goal is

Glasgow softball earns Flight A crown

One title down and one to go.

The Glasgow High softball team knocked off Brandywine 9-3 last week to clinch at least a tie for the Blue Hen Conference Flight A championship. The Dragons (14-2 overall, 11-1 Flight A) needed just one win in their last two games (against William Penn or Delcastle) to win the crown outright.

After a stretch of struggling (but still winning) offensively, Glasgow erupted for 20 runs in its two victories during the week. It couldn't have come at a better time as the beginning of the state tournament looms.

"It was another good win," said Glasgow coach Larry Walker. "They're all big at this point. But this puts us in position to win the conference outright."

Walker feels as optimistic about his team as he has all season.

"I really think we've played with some spirit in the last couple of games," he said. "We didn't have that earlier in the year."

"I know our team had a little get together over the weekend and I think it really brought them together. You can see a difference on the field."

The Dragons jumped on the defending conference champions early, scoring four runs in the first inning.

Jamie Sassaman and Julie

Van Deusen each had hits and scored in the inning. Kirsty Lloyd and Lisa Scanlon also scored during the rally.

Scanlon also hit a triple to left field in the third inning and later scored on a wild pitch to stretch Glasgow's lead to 5-2.

Glasgow broke the game open with four runs in the fourth inning. Lloyd, Sassaman and Kristin Nau all had hits and scored in the inning. Van Deusen and Dawn Broderdorp each had runs-batted-in. Stacey Watson, who walked, also scored during the rally.

In all the winners banged out 10 hits.

"We hit the ball well," Walker said. "Up and down the lineup we had some big hits."

While the offense was clicking, Van Deusen pitched a three-hitter.

After this weekend's prom, the experienced Dragons will gear up for a run at the state tournament.

"This is the time of the year to be peaking," said Walker, whose team lost a first round game last year to Caravel. "I think we're a lot more team oriented right now, instead of a bunch of individuals. I think that will help us."

The 16-team state tournament begins Wednesday with eight games at the higher seeded teams' fields. The state championship game is scheduled for May 30.

Glasgow's Nau earns scholarship award

Glasgow High's Kristin Nau was one of the recipients of the Delaware Women's Alliance for Sport and Fitness scholarship awards.

Nau, a senior who owns a 3.8 grade-point-average, was recognized for her outstanding play in volleyball, basketball and softball. She was also the 1997 Newark Post Athlete of the Year.

In addition to being a captain in all three sports she was named an All-Conference performer in all three. She has also been an All-State volleyball player for two years and was named the state player of the year by two different organizations this past fall.

In addition, Nau has been a first-team All-State softball player in each of her first three high school seasons.

She has also received the DSSAA Scholar Athlete of the Year award and is involved in National Honor Society, Student Government, school and community service.

Kristin will play softball and attend school at St. Joseph's University next year. Other state winners included Michelle Belt of Dover, Sarah Cline of Laurel, Christine McHale of Indian River, Nancy Sheets of Woodbridge, Tiffany Stewart of Delcastle, Jaclyn Warrington of Cape Henlopen and Tabitha White of Smyrna.

Three St. Mark's wrestlers earn college scholarships

Kelly to wrestle at Lehigh University

By STEVE WESTRICK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Three of St. Mark's eight state champion wrestlers have declared to continue wrestling at the Division I level in college.

Bruce Kelly, a four time Delaware state champion, will attend Lehigh University in Bethlehem, Pa. While two time heavyweight state champion, John Testa will attend Clarion (Pa.) University and 160-pound state champion Justin Jackson will go to Bloomsburg (Pa.) University.

"Bruce Kelly was looking for a good academic school as well as a good wrestling program," St. Mark's coach Steve Bastianelli said.

Kelly, who amassed a career record of 145-15, giving the most ever wins for a state wrestler, got a full scholarship to Lehigh.

Bastianelli also wrestled at Lehigh in the '70s. However, Bastianelli said he did not try to influence Kelly's decision.

"It doesn't have anything to do with my alma mater," he said. "There are some programs and coaches that are real shady. I tell the parents when they're looking at programs which I feel are shady. I never tell them not to go there, but I say make sure you have everything in writing.

"[Bruce] was talking to other schools. However, I think he knew for a while he wanted to go to [Lehigh] it was just the right combination for him."

Bastianelli feels that all three colleges, Lehigh, Bloomsburg and Clarion, have solid, respectable wrestling programs.

Testa was being recruited by Division I powerhouse Penn St., but chose Clarion instead. Testa will receive a near-full scholarship.

Testa was state Lineman of the Year in football and could try to play both sports at the college level. A feat that Bastianelli said would be very difficult but not impossible.

Clarion University wrestling coach Ken Nellis was pleased to land Testa.

"John was at the top of our list," he said. "Not only did we need to recruit in the top weight classes, but we felt he was one of the premier heavyweights coming out of high school this year."

Clarion has been the destination for several former St. Mark's wrestlers, including Sheldon Thomas, who became the first person from Delaware to win a NCAA championship.

Nellis said St. Mark's has a solid program and that Bastianelli does a good job of preparing kids for the college level.

Jackson, who was runner-up in the national high school championships, chose Bloomsburg over Drexel, Lehigh and Binghamton University (N.Y.).

"Justin Jackson is a very motivated individual," Bastianelli said. "I think with Justin it was a situation of you wanting to be wanted. He had some interest, but when he made that great move at Nationals some more interest picked up. Bloomsburg wanted Justin all along and that was a major factor."

Another St. Mark's wrestler looking to extend his career to college is 112 pound state champion L.A. Collier.

Because college weight classes will add seven pounds starting next season, the lowest weight will be 125. For that reason, Nellis said Collier will have to add weight and probably wouldn't be ready to wrestle for a year or two.

Still, Nellis is interested in getting Collier to walk on at Clarion.

"What I like most about L.A. is he is open minded and willing to work to put on the weight he needs," Nellis said.

In other signing news:

Hodgson wrestlers Bryan May and Aaron Jester will attend Williamson Trade School in Media Pa., to wrestle. Williamson competes in the National Junior College division. Last year, Williamson's wrestling team finished tenth in the country in that division.

Girls soccer teams prep for playoffs

► SOCCER, from 17

Midfielder Jill Cope, who missed half the season with an injury, has eight goals and three assists, while Lindsey McKernan has six goals.

Newark coach Hugh Mitchell singled out the play of junior Amy Hunt and senior Chrissy Wample for their outstanding defensive play at fullback this season.

Mitchell also cited the play of sophomore Sara Barnhouse and junior Erin Bastien for their play at midfield.

"They really did a good job in Jill's absence," Mitchell said.

The Yellowjackets were also left pondering how much better they would have been with sophomore Claire Poynton and senior Joanna Hall.

Poynton, a forward/midfielder who was Newark's second-leading scorer last season, missed this season with a knee injury. She will have surgery on the knee next week.

Hall, a midfielder, also missed the entire season. She returned from a leg injury only to come down with mononucleosis.

Glasgow, which finished 7-7-2 last season and missed the tournament, beat Christiana 5-1 on Monday. Katie LaSchomb had two goals and an assist, while Stephanie Ogburn and Jill Biggs each had a goal and an assist. Renee Kutys also scored.

Peggy Harrington scored for Christiana.

"We are right on the bubble. Our strength of schedule should help," Glasgow coach Bob Bussiere said of his team's tournament chances.

"You look back on that schedule and you wish you had a few of them back," Bussiere said. "We missed a few players for a couple of the losses. Laschomb was in a national biology contest in New Mexico (vs. Concord, a 5-3 loss).

"Two seniors were missing for an Easter week trip. We lost both of those games. You look back and wonder.

"I'm a little disappointed. I was really hoping for an 11-win season."

For Christiana coach John Kendall, he's hoping this year will be a learning experience for next season. He will lose only two starters.

Junior Tori Guilfoyle scored eight of the Vikings' 12 goals this season. Christiana had allowed 37 goals in 13 games.

"Hopefully they'll come back with a more positive attitude, a more winning attitude," Kendall said. "I don't think they want to go through this again."

St. Mark's High honors its seniors

St. Mark's High honored its senior athletes at the school's 26th annual Sports Banquet recently.

In addition to varsity letters being presented to 135 seniors, the outstanding senior athlete awards were given.

The Dorothy Valencia Sportsmanship Award went to Bruce Kelly and Sarah Weir; the Kim Vavala Christian Athlete Award was presented to Katie Lemon; the Spartan Spirit Award went to Justin Dougherty; the Rev. James T. Delaney Scholar Athlete Award was given to Steven Abrahams and Katie Lemon and the Bishop Michael Hyle Outstanding Athlete Award went to John Testa and Leigh-Ann Hlywak.

KSC Lightning win

The Kirkwood Lightning's

under-13 team defeated the Glyndon Fireballs 5-2.

Lindsay Strickland scored two goals while Alexis Fredrick, Alicia Roberts and Paige Guilfoyle scored once each.

Sonrisa Lewis provided an assist. Danielle Unflat and Lewis contributed with strong midfield play. Janette Terry earned the win in goal.

The win improved the Lightning's record to 4-0-2.

Low maintenance fuels the popularity of EIFS

All siding materials need periodic maintenance if they are to perform properly and remain attractive. To prevent moisture penetration, it is important to periodically check sealants around windows, doors and other potential moisture entry points, and to make sure that flashings, gutters and downspouts function correctly.

Exterior Installation and Finish Systems (EIFS), consisting of polystyrene or similar foam insulation board, a base coat reinforced by fiberglass mesh and an acrylic-based finish coat, are a recent option for property owners.

Below is a comparison of maintenance requirements for five types of siding. It shows one of the reasons why EIFS continue to grow in popularity.

Brick

Dirt should be removed from smooth surfaces with a scouring powder and a stiff bristle brush. An oxalic acid-ammonium bifluoride solution coupled with pressured steam cleaning is recommended for buildings with smooth hard brick, or brick with glazed surfaces. Permanently elastic sealant should be added to contact areas between the brickwork and other materials if sealants are missing or deteriorated. Also, hairline cracks in the mortar joints should be sealed with grout. Bricks on older homes should be re-pointed periodically. Also, windows should be checked occasionally to ensure that the caulk is providing an adequate seal.

Masonite

Loose and cracked caulk must be replaced with a high quality exterior acrylic latex caulk or equivalent. If the paint is in good condition, it may simply need to be cleaned with water and a mild detergent. If the paint is cracked or flaking, it must be removed, and the surface wire-brushed, cleaned, primed and repainted with two coats of quality paint.

Cedar shingles

Dirt or mildew can be removed by scrubbing the surface with a solution consisting of three ounces of trisodium phosphate, 1 ounce of detergent, 1 quart of five percent sodium hypochlorite and three quarts of warm water. The surface should then be rinsed thoroughly with fresh water. Moss can be controlled by spraying or brushing the siding with a 10 percent solution of zinc sulfate, or a solution of household bleach mixed in a ratio of one part bleach to

Deaton McCue & Co. sale of B. F. Rich facility

Deaton McCue & Co. announced the sale of the B. F. Rich facility located in the Stanton Industrial Park. The 4.63-acre facility was purchased by Bell's Supply Co., a wholesale/retail plumbing supply center. Bell's Supply was represented by I. G. Cleaver of Bellevue Realty. According to Mitch Berkowitz of Deaton McCue, "This is B. F. Rich's final phase in the relocation of their window manufacturing company to Harmony Road in Newark."

Vella Re/Max award

Michele Vella, a local realtor and Newark resident, has been awarded with 100 % Club recognition for 1997. Vella joined Re/Max Associates in Jan. 1997. She has

B.F. Rich ribbon cutting on Ruthar Dr.

B. F. Rich recently held a ribbon cutting for a new 120,000 sq. ft. facility on Ruthar Drive off Route 273. B.F. Rich Co. Inc. is a vinyl window and door company serving the replacement market. Founded in 1957, it has been in its previous location since 1965. The company had outgrown its previous building and, in recent years, has had frequent problems with flooding. The move to the new building was supported by the Delaware Economic Development Office. The company currently employs more than 150 people, and future growth of more than 20 employees is expected in the new facility over the next year.

Patterson-Schwartz congratulates sales associates

Patterson-Schwartz Real Estate congratulated the following Newark center sales associates, each of whom had sales of at least four units or $500,000 in March: Marie Adair, Mike Arant, Bob Bouwkamp, Luke Burtell, Shirl Cassidy/Karen Parker Propst, Jim Darden, Todd Ladutko, Bill Lyons Jr., Sharyn Nesnow, Ralph Orendorf, Chris Reed, Jack Teague, Jim Venema, Linda Ward, and Wayne West.

Local realtor honored

Robert Methvin, of Patterson Schwartz Real Estate in Newark, has been awarded the designation Real Estate Innovator by Realty Electronics Publishing.

The REI designation is given to real estate professionals who offer extraordinary service to home sellers. Methvin provides home sellers with a powerful extra service called Talking House. Talking House allows the home-buying public to get instant information about a home for sale over their car radio.

More than 10,000 agents nationwide have been awarded the REI designation. There are approximately 725,000 members of the National Association of Realtors in the U.S.

For additional information, contact Methvin at 239-3000.

MAIN STREET PLANTING

Terry Foreman (left) and Debbie Hegedus are among the Newark Arts Alliance members who took on the project of adding colorful plantings to the wooden barrels along Main Street and at the Newark Shopping Center. As a finishing touch, each barrel also contains a decorated, house-shaped wooden sign made by students at Sterck School for the Deaf.

EIFS popularity grows

► EIFS, from 24

four parts water. If the stain is badly faded, or peeling and flaking, the siding should be power-washed. One or two coats of a quality stain should then be applied.

Vinyl

A heavy rain or spray from a garden hose will wash away most surface dirt. A soft cloth or ordinary long-handled soft bristle brush may be required to remove any remaining dirt. More difficult stains may require a mildly abrasive cleaner, although aggressive cleaning agents should be avoided. If mildew is present, a bleach solution (one part bleach to four parts water) should be applied. If the siding is faded, stained or discolored, it should be painted with a top-quality, 100 percent acrylic latex house paint.

EIFS

Unlike wood and other siding materials, EIFS rarely need painting.

Their 100 percent acrylic binders enable them to resist fading, chalking and yellowing. EIFS also have excellent resistance to dirt, mildew and mold. Surface dirt can easily be washed off with a standard garden, or high-pressure hose. For mildew stains, a mixture of one part bleach to four parts of water should be applied with a soft, bristle brush. Never use acid-based cleaners or solvents (mineral spirits, paint thinners, etc.) to clean an EIFS surface.
