Council Announces "Clean-up" Days

Next Tuesday and Wednesday Chosen

East End Served the First Day West End the Second Day

Following the custom of previous years, Newark will observe "Clean up" days next Tuesday and Wednesday, May 31st and June 1. According to a statement issued by Mayor Eben B. Frazer yesterday, collections of rubbish will take place east of Academy Street on Tuesday, and west of that point on Wednesday. The wagons will start early in the morning. Citizens are urged to cooperate with the town authorities in this movement by placing the refuse on the sidewalks or within easy access.

Unusual activity has been manifest in property improvements, painting, laying of sidewalks, fixing of fences and other things tending toward beautification of property and of streets this spring. The town has never looked better and it is the intention of the town and of the citizens to put forth unusual effort next week to make these "clean up" days the most effective yet held.

Entertain County School Officials

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Medill entertained last Thursday at their home on South College Avenue, the members of the County School Board and their wives, the county supervisors and Superintendent Wilbur H. Jump and his wife.

HIGH SCHOOL BALL TEAM LANDS COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP

Will Compete for State Honors with Other County Champions

By administering defeat to the strong New Castle team yesterday, the Newark High School nine landed the baseball championship of the county. In an exciting 10-inning game played here yesterday the local aggregation won by a 5-4 score. This story puts the home team in line for the State championship with an excellent chance of landing the honor. The schedule for the State contests announced as follows:

May 28, Laurel vs. Smyrna, at Smyrna.

May 30, Smyrna vs. Newark, at Newark.

June 4, Newark vs. Laurel, at Laurel.

This last date is subject to change.

The game here on Monday, May 23, will commence promptly at 3.45, following the Memorial Day exercises.

GOV. DENNEY ANNOUNCES APPOINTMENT OF NEW JUDICIARY

U. S. Senator Wolcott Named as Chancellor

Governor William D. Denney, in Dover, yesterday, announced his selection of four members of the State judiciary to succeed the judges whose terms will expire June 15. The new judges to be appointed by the Governor for 12-year terms, according to his announcement are:

Chief Justice—James Pennewill, of Dover, the present Chief Justice.

Chancellor—Josiah O. Wolcott, of Dover, present United States Senator. He will succeed Chancellor Charles M. Curtis, of Wilmington.

Associate Judge, resident in Kent County—William Watson Harrington, of Dover. He will succeed Judge William H. Boyce.

Associate Judge, resident in Sussex County—Charles Sudler Richards, of Georgetown. He will succeed Judge Henry C. Conrad.

The terms of Judge Herbert L. Rice, Resident Judge in New Castle county, and of Judge T. Bayard Heisel, Associate Judge-at-large, have sometime to run. Judge Rice was appointed to serve until March 1, 1923, which is during Governor Denney's term, and Judge Heisel's appointment does not expire until October 14, 1926, during the term of the next Governor.

Secretary of State A. R. Benson made the announcement for the Governor, who had just returned to Dover from the Delmarva Press Association meeting, in Salisbury, Md. Secretary Benson said:

"I am requested by the Governor to announce that Chief Justice Pennewill will be reappointed; that Josiah O. Wolcott will be appointed Chancellor; that W. Watson Harrington will be appointed Resident Judge for Kent county, and that Charles Sudler Richards will be appointed Resident Judge for Sussex county."

Secretary Benson, in response to a question, said no time had been set for a special session of the Senate to act on these appointments, which require confirmation before the judges can assume their duties. It is believed the special session will be called for June 15.

Following confirmation and acceptance by Senator Wolcott will mean the appointment of U. S. Senator by the Governor to fill the unexpired term.

Wilmington discussion last evening brought out an array of names. In New Castle county, Colonel Henry A. du Pont, T. Coleman du Pont, Daniel O. Hastings and Charles Warner are mentioned as possibilities; in Kent county, Ex-Governor Pennewill, Secretary of State Benson, Ex-Senator Richardson, State Senator James F. Allee; in Sussex, Ex-Governor Townsend, Layton Grier and Ruby Vale.

The Dead Comes to Life

Much excitement prevailed in South Newark on Thursday by the report that a dead man had been found near the hedge on the extension of Academy Street near the high school baseball diamond. Many persons viewed the "remains" and while some notified the coroner and others the county constable, one more enterprising than the rest notified the undertaker. E. C. Wilson with characteristic promptness responded immediately. His willingness to do the last thing on earth for the unfortunate stranger was thwarted, however, by his speedy coming to life at sight of the undertaker.

The "dead" arose and with an "inside brother" twinkle in his pink tinted eyes indicated that he was "sleeping it off." With a hasty "requiescat in pace," Mr. Wilson and the more or less disappointed spectators let him finish it off according to long established custom.

Strawberry Festival at Fairview

There will be a strawberry festival held on the lawn of Fairview School on Monday evening, May 30th. The proceeds will be for Ebenezer Improvement fund.

Final plans for a fitting Memorial Day service were completed by the Veterans of Foreign Wars at a meeting held at Center Hall on Monday night. This organization will cooperate with the surviving members of the G. A. R. whose custom it has been to decorate the graves of their comrades in cemeteries adjacent to Newark. Welsh Tract, Ott's Chapel and Glasgow will be visited this year by a committee of Veterans who will assist Thomas A. Mullin and Charles Waters, G. A. R. representatives.

On Sunday morning, also in cooperation with the G. A. R., their commander, William Rupp, together with their vice-commander, will visit Ebenezer cemetery.

In the afternoon at 2 o'clock, they will take part in the annual Memorial Day Services conducted by the G. A. R. In the evening they will participate in a memorial ceremony in Wilmington.

The local post will also place a wreath on the boulder to be placed on the college campus in honor of the service men of this county. Following the college exercises, the Veterans will assemble at Center Hall at 3.30, where they will be joined by the Anti-Aircraft Club, a post of Veterans from Wilmington, a post of Spanish War Veterans, the Private Thomas Cooper Ladies Auxiliary, Minnehaha Band and 40 or more school children. They will form in parade and march through the town as far as the brow of Quality Hill from which point they will be conducted in automobiles and trucks to Head of Christiana cemetery. Here with the aid of Rev. John MacMurray, pastor of the church, a memorial service will be conducted. This will consist of singing, an address by a prominent speaker, a salute by a firing squad, the decoration of the graves, and the sounding of "Taps."

FIRST COUNTY CLUB RALLY A BIG SUCCESS

Young Folk Give Fine Reports and Enjoy Hour of Fun

The first Club Rally of New Castle county was held in the Community House at Stanton on Tuesday, May 24, under the direction of Miss Agnes P. Medill, County Club Agent.

Over one hundred children representing twenty or more clubs were present from the communities of Newport, Stanton, Christiana, Salem, Glasgow, Welsh Tract, Harmony, Hockessin, McClellandsville, Talleyville and Marshallton.

Mr. Theodore T. Martin, State Club Leader, gave the club members a very interesting talk, emphasizing the fact that each club should stand for all progressive work in its community. Mrs. F. C. Snyder, of Newport, and Miss Katherine E. Woods, State Home Demonstration Agent, University of Delaware gave work in judging sewing and canning.

Each club represented gave a report or an outline of work accomplished during the past club year; the Junior Club of Newport giving a demonstration of a model club meeting, and the Christiana Club demonstrating the making of a kimono apron.

An exhibit of sewing from each club was on exhibition. Games and the singing of club songs under the leadership of Mr. F. K. Moore of Newport were thoroughly enjoyed. The County Club Agent presented each child with a four-leaf clover achievement pin used as an emblem by the thirty-three north-eastern states. Parents and other visitors present were highly gratified by the initiative and ability shown by the children.

School Children to Present "Robin Hood"

Eighth Grade Dramatizes Story

Will Stage Production in Red Men's Grove Tomorrow

In a setting such as Robin Hood himself would have chosen the students of the Eighth Grade under the direction of Miss Madge Nickerson, will present a dramatized version of his story tomorrow afternoon in Red Men's Grove.

The dramatization was done by the pupils themselves after reading the story. The costumes were designed and made by them and the setting chosen as one befitting the tale.

The principal characters will be taken as follows:

Robin Hood, Clarence Poole. Maid Marian, Agnes Frazer. Little John, Irvin Cornog. The King, George Chalmers. The Queen, Dorothy Blockson. The Sheriff, Clifford Moore. Much, the Miller's son, Clarence Whiteman. George-a-Green, Joseph Brown. Alan-a-Dale, James Harkness. Lady Catherine, Elsie Seydell. The Priest, James Malone.

In addition to these there are a number of courtiers and other characters. The courtiers are Richard Manns, Ralph Buckingham and Robert Strahorn. An admission of ten cents will be charged to children, and twenty cents to grown folks. The children have managed the arrangements for the production. Committees appointed a month or so ago have made attractive posters now on display in various store windows; they have sold tickets; and have interested their parents and friends in the affair which, judged by the enthusiasm of its backers, promises to be a success.

DRAMATIC CLUB SCORES HIT LAST NIGHT

Large Audience Enjoys Presentation of Unusual Plays

The spirit of the Orient, its weirdness and mystery, was artistically interpreted last night by the cast of the two dramas, "The Gods of the Mountain," by Lord Dunsany, and "Simoom," by A. Strindberg. Costume, voice, attitude, and gesture were cannily used to produce the desired effect and the lighting scheme materially aided these. Much of the comedy element was introduced in the first of these when the beggars posing as gods received offerings of choice food and drink from the terrorized citizens. Again when the real gods appeared with much noise and clatter and the pseudo gods were turned to stone, the audience thoroughly enjoyed the weird effect. The cast, Louise Jackson, Miriam Gordy, Miriam Carl, Marian Truax, Rose Roberts, Alice Ferguson, Grace Marvill, Louise Phillips, Kathrine Stevens and R. Van Pelt acquitted themselves with much credit to the Dramatic Club and to themselves.

Ethel Ferguson displayed unusual dramatic ability in her presentation of the character of Biska, an Arabian girl, and William Broughall, as a lieutenant of the Zouaves, depicted in a realistic manner the dramatic death of the deluded Frank.

Light and fanciful, the last of the group, "The Maker of Dreams," made a pleasing contrast to the other two. The attractive color effect produced in the setting brought forth a burst of applause from the audience at the raising of the curtain. The room in black and white with scarlet hangings, the cozy fireplace and tea table made just the proper setting for the dainty Pierrette, the irresponsible Pierrot and the whimsical maker of dreams. Miss Marian Truax made a charming Pierrette; Johnson Rowan, in the role of Pierrot scored a decisive hit, while Joseph Fairbanks played admirably the part of the genial manufacturer of dreams and successful matchmaker.

Wolf Hall was filled to capacity, many of the audience being Wilmingtonians.

The music was furnished by Miss Elizabeth McNeal, piano; Frances Worthington and Samuel Maroney, violin; Alvan Allen, mandolin, and H. Pyle, flute.

For The Homemaker's Eye

The coming of the warm weather when the auto picnic is a favorite and very pleasant method of serving the evening meal, brings to the housewife the necessity of providing sandwiches. In addition to the ever popular meat sandwich there are numerous sweet sandwiches that satisfy on a warm evening and make a welcome change. Here are a few of these.

Pineapple Sandwiches.

To 2 tablespoons of juice from a can of pineapple, add 1-2 teaspoon cornstarch and place in a saucepan over the fire. Let boil up for a moment, until the mixture thickens, then remove from fire and cool. When cold cream into this 1 tablespoon butter and 1-2 cup powdered sugar. Spread this thinly on crustless slices of white bread.

Orange.

Put 1 cup confectioners' sugar into a small bowl and add to it 2 tablespoons orange juice and 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Mix until smooth, then cream into it 1 heaping teaspoon butter. Spread on white or graham bread. Cut diamond-shape.

Banana.

Slice 2 bananas thinly and let these lie in 2 tablespoons lemon juice until the flavors are well blended—about one-half hour. Then place these banana slices between two crustless pieces of white or entire wheat bread which have been spread with 3 tablespoons thick cream mixed with 1 teaspoon honey. Press well together.

Chocolate.

Stir 1-2 tablespoons cocoa into 2 tablespoons hot water until smooth, then add 1-4 teaspoon vanilla extract and enough confectioners' sugar to make as thick as butter. Stir in 1-2 cup finely chopped walnut meats and spread this mixture on crustless slices of white bread.

Figs.

Remove the stems and chop the figs finely. To one-half cup of the chopped figs add 1-2 cup water. Cook in the upper part of a double boiler until a paste is formed, then turn into a bowl, add 1 heaping tablespoon powdered sugar and a few drops of lemon juice, and spread this on triangular pieces of stale, crustless white bread.

Stuffed Tomatoes

Eight small tomatoes, salt, 3 teaspoons butter, 6 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 3-4 cup soft, stale bread crumbs, 1-2 cup removed tomato pulp, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, few drops onion juice. Wipe and remove stem end of tomatoes. Take out seeds and most of pulp, sprinkle inside of tomatoes with salt, invert and let stand twenty minutes. Cook butter with green pepper five minutes. Add bread.

Seaports for the Middle West!

The project to open a waterway for ocean-going vessels from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic Ocean is again being actively promoted. The Middle Western States have growing organizations to study and push forward the most effective means for this waterway.

Steamers from Duluth and Chicago can now run to the Eastern end of Lake Erie. The Canadian Government is deepening the Welland Canal around Niagara Falls, which means that the route will be lengthened to the rapids of the St. Lawrence River.

An International Joint Commission representing the United States and Canada is about ready to consider a report on a plan for overcoming these rapids, "drowning them out" by a series of dams, with adequate locks. The expense of the new waterway would be borne jointly by this country and Canada.

If this waterway from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic Ocean should be accomplished, the next step would doubtless be connections by canal between the Great Lakes and the Mississippi, opening the waterway to the Gulf of Mexico.

The great commercial and military advantages of such an inland waterway will insure its completion some day. When that day comes wonderful steamer trips beginning at our own front door may tempt Delawareans. Steamers stopping at the new port of Wilmington would be making the round trip, up the Atlantic Coast to Newfoundland, through the St. Lawrence and the Great Lakes, down the Mississippi to the Gulf of Mexico, and back along the Atlantic Coast to Wilmington.

Educators Want U. S. Department of Education Excluded from Welfare Dept.

President Harding's proposal for a Federal Public Welfare Department with a cabinet member at its head, has not had smooth sailing since a bill for its creation has been introduced into both houses of Congress. The chief objection to the bill comes from educators, who claim that public education is of too great importance to be included in the merger with public welfare, public health, social science and all the government activities for soldiers, particularly as they claim that education would come out the little end of the horn in regard to appropriation. Representatives of the National Educational Association have made a special protest against any decrease in the amount of Federal aid rendered to the States by the United States Department of Education.

Better Facilities for Exporting Fruit

Specialists from the United States Department of Agriculture are studying prevailing transportation conditions with a view to finding some means for remedying the heavy losses which are being sustained in the present methods of handling export shipment of American apples, pears and other fruits.

In two important cargoes during the past season the loss was more than 50 per cent. Out of the 2,000,000 barrels of fruit exported yearly, it is estimated that more than 15 per cent is a total loss.

In order to make definite suggestions for improvement, experiments are planned for the beginning of the coming season which will entail investigation of the kind of containers being used, the culling of injured fruit at the packing house, the loading on the steamship, and the refrigeration or ventilation en route.

Preference for Soldiers

Senator Gooding of Idaho, the new Republican colleague of Senator Borah, would help the American soldiers who participated in the war against Germany by putting through Congress a bill to give preference right of employment on construction work on United States reclamation projects to honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines.

The Gooding measure provides:

"That not only men, but also women who served in the Army or Navy of the United States in the war with Germany and have been honorably separated or discharged therefrom or placed in the Regular Army or Naval Reserve shall have preference in employment upon such projects constructed by the United States Reclamation Service: Provided, That they are found to possess the capacity necessary for the proper discharge of such duties: Provided further, That the rights and benefits conferred by the bill shall not extend to any person who having been drafted for service under the provisions of the Selective Service Act shall have refused to render such service or to wear the uniform of such service of the United States."

THE USES OF EVIL.

There is some goodness in things evil. Would men observingly distill it out; For our bad neighbor makes us early stirrers;

Which is both helpful and good husbandry, Besides they are our outward consciences,

And preachers to us all; admonishing That we should dress us fairly for our end,

Thus we may gather honey from the weed, And make a moral of the devil himself.

—Shakespeare's "Henry V."

Americanism As Expressed by Franklin K. Lane

THE CLASSIC OF THE FLAG

This morning, as I passed into the Land Office, The Flag dropped me a most cordial salutation, and from its rippling folds I heard it say: "Good morning, Mr. Flag Maker."

"I beg your pardon, Old Glory," I said, "aren't you mistaken? I am not the President of the United States, nor a member of Congress, nor even a general in the army. I am only a Government clerk."

"I greet you again, Mr. Flag Maker," replied the gay voice, "I know you well. You are the man who worked in the swelter of yesterday straightening out the tangle of that farmer's homestead in Idaho, or perhaps you found the mistake in that Indian contract in Oklahoma, or helped to clear that patent for the hopeful inventor in New York, or pushed the opening of that new ditch in Colorado, or made that mine in Illinois more safe, or brought relief to the old soldier in Wyoming. No matter; whichever one of these beneficent individuals you may happen to be, I give you greeting, Mr. Flag Maker."

I was about to pass on, when The Flag stopped me with these words:

"Yesterday the President spoke a word that made happier the future of ten million peons in Mexico; but that act looms no larger on the flag than the struggle which the boy in Georgia is making to win the Corn Club prize this summer."

"Yesterday the Congress spoke a word which will open the door of Alaska; but a mother in Michigan worked from sunrise until far into the night, to give her boy an education. She, too, is making the flag."

"Yesterday we made a new law to prevent financial panics, and yesterday, maybe a school teacher in Ohio taught his first letters to a boy who will one day write a song that will give cheer to millions of our race. We are all making the flag."

"But," I said impatiently, "these people were only working!"

Then came a great shout from The Flag:

"The work that we do is the making of the flag."

"I am not the flag; not at all. I am but its shadow."

"I am whatever you make me, nothing more."

"I am your belief in yourself, your dream of what a People may become."

"I live a changing life, a life of moods and passions, of heart breaks and tired muscles."

"Sometimes I am strong with pride, when men do an honest work, fitting the rails together truly."

"Sometimes I droop, for then purpose has gone from me, and cynically I play the coward."

"Sometimes I am loud, garish, and full of that ego that blasts judgment."

"But always, I am all that you hope to be, and have the courage to try for."

"I am song and fear, struggle and panic, and ennobling hope."

"I am the day's work of the weakest man, and the largest dream of the most daring."

"I am the Constitution and the courts, statutes and the statute makers, soldier and drayman, drayman and street sweep, cook, counselor, and clerk."

"I am the battle of yesterday, and the mistake of tomorrow."

"I am the mystery of the men who do without knowing why."

"I am the clutch of an idea, and the reasoned purpose of resolution."

"I am no more than what you believe me to be and I am all that you believe I can be."

"I am what you make me, nothing more."

"I swing before your eyes as a bright gleam of color, a symbol of yourself, the pictured suggestion of that big thing which makes this nation. My stars and my stripes are your dream and your labors. They are bright with cheer, brilliant with courage, firm with faith, because you have made them so out of your hearts. For you are the makers of the flag and it is well that you glory in the making."

Our nationalism, intense, stable and of the fighting kind, is a part of the machinery through which we are working to make all men our debtors. Our national purpose is to transmute days of dreary work into happier lives—for ourselves first and for all others in their time. This is the large view, the idealistic view, if you please, of America's mission. It is the subconscious philosophy of all our history—our wars, our public school system, our conservation schemes, our enterprise.

This greater America is not to be the flimsy product of a nation's fancy, the day dream of a monumental national ego. It is to be as substantial as hard thought and hard work can make it, a thing of good roads, ships and railroads, well-fertilized farms and well-organized industry, regulated rivers put to use, and schools and schools and schools, and laboratories and more laboratories! War has taught England and France much, one thing perhaps above all others, how all important in this day is the man who has the new kind of savoir faire. If we are to meet the full rivalry of the world, we must rest chance for success upon our ability to produce men who, in character, in trained capacities, and in radio-active imagination will outmatch those whom they are to meet. This new America, as the old, will contribute to the world raw products with most generous hand. But the ultimate resource of the Nation is not that which lies within the ground but that which vibrates in man's brain. Therefore out of the struggle and torture that we shall pass through, and the reverses and triumph that we shall meet, there should evolve the conception of America as the centre of the world's thought, an America that will give that leadership and direction to the scientific, literary and social thought of the world, that we pride ourselves we have recently given to its political thought. Our status in this war gives us a place of moral ascendancy from which if we are great enough to be humble we can become real masters of men, conquerors of the invisible kingdom of man's mind.

Fixing It Up for New P. M.'S

There are 52,332 postmasters in the country, of whom 39,433 are in the fourth class, and these are protected by the civil service. There are also 700 postmasters in offices of the first class; 2,617 of the second class; and 9,582 of the third class. President Harding has issued an order which says that "obviously these officers are business agencies of the government in legal purposes and should become so in fact." The process of appointment for these places, upon expiration of the terms of those holding offices, "shall be made from one of the three highest eligibles," says the President, who also states: "This order applies to all present incumbents of post-offices whose terms have expired and will apply to all incumbents as their present terms expire."

There should be plenty of comfort in that for "the man who won the election last fall."

ASKS SCHOOLS TO CELEBRATE MEMORIAL DAY

State Commissioner Urges Cooperation with Local Army Posts

In a recent letter to superintendents and principals, State Commissioner of Education Arthur R. Spaid calls their attention to Memorial Day, and asks that they hold a simple celebration on that day.

He says: "According to Rule 4, under School Holidays, adopted by the State Board of Education, teachers are urged to emphasize the importance of these days with appropriate exercises in the schools."

"For Memorial Day the idea should be for the Superintendent or Principal to plan a program in cooperation with any local G. A. R., United States-Spanish war veterans or veterans of the World War. It is desirable that some member from one of these Posts, if there is one in your neighborhood, should be invited to make a short address to the children at the school and that the children should gather flowers and march to the cemetery and decorate the graves at the time the soldiers hold their exercises, if there is any local organization to conduct such exercises."

Otherwise, it is recommended that immediately after the morning recess, an appropriate program shall be carried out, after which the flowers brought from the children's homes should be placed upon the graves of soldiers in the neighboring cemeteries, by the pupils under the direction of the teachers. The children may then be dismissed for the day.

"It is the wish of the State Board of Education that the day be observed in a quiet, dignified way, and that the children shall be under the supervision of their teachers until the exercises have been concluded at the cemetery."

"No Superintendent or Principal has permission to dismiss school for the day, and it is his duty to direct the exercises himself. He may, or may not, call upon some suitable person to address the children on this occasion. Long speeches concerning the war should not be tolerated. The day should teach peace, rather than war. Almost any soldier who has had experience on a battlefield can tell a simple story which will be enjoyed by the children. Cooperation on the part of the school authorities with the local Army posts will make the occasion impressive and a success."

Wages and Prices

It is evident that wages and prices are enemies. The Shipping Board has a lot of wage troubles upon its hands, and a controversy has developed into a strike against the government. The Shipping Board finds that the high freight rates are ruining shipping, and they claim that lower wages are necessary if rates to shippers are to be reduced. The condition which the government faces is identical to that which individuals encounter in every walk of life. It is the same thing with the railroads and the industrial plants. All government statistics show that prices are gradually coming down. Still President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor has issued a threatening statement as to the dire results that may be expected if wages of working people are lowered. Mr. Gompers says that the capitalists are in control of the situation at the present time, but he is sure that this will not last long. Mr. Gompers is as thoroughly "irreconcilable" in the belief that wages cannot be reduced as is Judge Gary of the Steel Trust, that they will be. The stubborn resistance of both of these great leaders reminds one of the case of the prisoner who was being visited by his lawyer. The latter said comfortingly: "Why they can't put you in jail." "Don't you think they can't?" replied the prisoner, "I have been here already nearly twenty-four hours waiting for you to come to tell me that they can't lock me up."

UNCHANGED

Time flies; Fear dies; so also Doubt and Pain,
Of friends we thought so true, how few remain!
'Tis like a pictured scene that passes on
Before one's eyes, and soon forever is gone,
Then, in the silent moments we can see
The joys that were, but never more may be.
The vanished hours—the happy days long sped—
We linger with them as with loved ones dead.
Consoling thought, that, 'spite man's wrong or blame,
God's Love and Mercy are for us the same!

Synthetic Flavors May Oust Real Fruit

There is danger that we may soon forget the taste of fruit and flavors in general. In the last few years chemistry has made marvelous progress in manufacturing synthetic flavors. It is much cheaper to manufacture the flavor of a peach or an orange than to grow the real original fruit. Since we eat preserved fruits oftener than the real fruit, we are in danger of acquiring an artificial flavor. Another generation, it is prophesied, will object to the flavor of a peach or a pear as being unnatural. An interesting test has recently been made by analyzing strawberry jam. It was found to contain apples synthetically flavored, while the seeds when analyzed turned out to be clover.

A Cheerful Person Always Welcome

A cheerful person is always welcome. Cheerfulness acts as a tonic. It absorbs the gloom off of every day life, and casts a sort of radiance on the most monotonous surroundings. How can you ever forget the kindly neighbor, who was always ready with the pleasant word? How you missed her when she was gone! Even if the mornings were cold, or the days scorching hot, she always had time to say a few cheerful words. If you failed in any undertaking, she could pat you on the back, and with an ever cheering word give you new courage to start over again. She knew just when to come, and when to go, and was never a bore. Her smiles dried the tears, and made sorrow seem lighter. The children loved her, because she was ever ready to answer their countless questions. She knew each one by name, knew their friends, their school affairs, and was interested in their play. "It was such fun," as one little fellow remarked, "to talk to her 'cause she was just like us, just like a boy, and wasn't stuck up like most girls. Why she'd talk to you anywhere, even if she was with a crowd; she always knew us."

Yes, she always knew her friends, young and old. She never passed them without the kindly greeting, or the sunny smile for which she was noted. To her it was no effort to cast sunshine around; but she never knew how deep a place she had carved for herself in the hearts of those who were fortunate enough to come in contact with her. Only on the final day, when all will be brought to an account, when the good deeds will be weighed with the bad, will she know the value of the cheerful words which she scattered around.

Lesson from Salisbury

There may be more hustling and progressive towns than Salisbury in the East but we do not know where they are. There may be Rotary Clubs and Chambers of Commerce with more initiative and go but we have never met them.

Last Monday the Delmarva Press Association and the Maryland Press Association met at Salisbury in its annual spring session. We were entertained by the Rotarians and the Chamber of Commerce.

Met at the station by the Rotary, lunch at the Hotel, auto trip through the berry section, truck belt, ship yards, Allen's farms, Jackson's Dairy and resident sections of that Peninsula city.

Then the Business Men took us in charge. A dinner, Eastern Sho' dinner! We have had them before, have enjoyed them and suffered—but this—Maryland fried chicken, soft crabs, biscuits, hot bread, berries. "See Naples and die" is commonplace. Rather be entertained at Salisbury and live.

Governors Ritchie and Denney were there, thanking the press and appealing for aid and cooperation. Newspaper men when in convention are some speed artists but at Salisbury they followed panting to keep the pace set by representatives of those peninsula citizens. Talk of the Southern Colonel, huh! Deliberate, gracious and graceful—well, he has got a move on. He is still Southern in all the social graces but as a business man, he is no longer the Colonial gentleman but the American business man, full of the spirit usually attributed to the West. He's a booster, a live wire. There was no mint julep of the old days but everybody was full of "Pep," a kind of Home Brew they have discovered down there. The intoxication was not for the revelry of the occasion. These men are practical. Their boasts are not of the banquet type. For instance—the Chamber of Commerce has organized an Exchange for the sale of Farm Products. A thousand members with this object see that the Farmer gets the top price for his products. The farmer brings his berries, canteloupes or cucumbers to the Exchange. The buyers are there and bona fide for they must prove financial rating and reference before being admitted. The products are graded and auctioned to the high dollar—all conducted in the interest of the farmer. He gets the very peak price. And what happens? He is interested in Salisbury and her business. He deals there. He cooperates. He advocates good roads. It's no philanthropy—just American business in the modern way. The town urges roads out in remote districts to develop new territory and creates more business. Salisbury is thriving because of the surrounding trade. They get it by helping the farmer. (Wilmington, take notice).

In all, the newspaper men had a rattling good time and came away with a keener appreciation for the Grand Old Peninsula and its possibilities. And they are wonderful—Salisbury men say so. They know.

Stand Permits

If a farmer applies to sell products in King street market, must issue a permit for him to do so. Deputy Judge Lynn made the above ruling yesterday in the case of W. P. Hicks, who had been arrested for occupying spaces along King street market without a permit. Hicks was dismissed. The case excited a great deal of attention among farmers and others.

RED CROSS PLEADS CAUSE OF HELPLESS CHILDREN

Asks Assistance of Americans For Worthy Cause

Many branches and auxiliaries of the Delaware Chapter of the American Red Cross have pledged their willingness to assist in the clothing appeal that has come from Europe. In response to the letters sent out this week by Mrs. Willard Hall Porter, chairman of the Delaware Chapter of the American Red Cross, several branches will reorganize early next week and will begin the work on the layettes and garments for the children of Europe. The supplies which will be made and sent abroad will go to the countries of Eastern Europe and also relief will be given to the children of the Russian refugees scattered throughout the European continent. No Red Cross supplies are being sent to Germany, as the Friends Society is working there.

Headquarters for the Delaware work have been established in Old Town Hall, Market street near Sixth, Wilmington. Here garments may be shipped when completed and the material will also be distributed to all that care to aid in this work. The headquarters will be used as a receiving and distributing station. A few sewing machines have been established there so that women who find it more convenient to work in town than at home need not hesitate for the want of facilities.

There is work for every one, as eleven million children need clothes, and one million layettes will be needed this summer to save the lives of the expected little ones. No patterns are used in making the garments, as each one is to make her own choice in constructing the clothing. All asked is that every woman in Delaware will do her part in helping the Red Cross with this child welfare work for Europe.

In addition to the garments which have to be sewed there is requested articles of wool, such as sweaters, shawls, and socks for the children. At the Old Town Hall there is a great deal of wool, to be given free to all persons who will assist with this work. It is suggested that as summer is coming on and vacations will be enjoyed, that many knitters in the State will take some of this wool to knit into little garments on their holiday period.

Children's Bureau Asks for Continuance of Support

The Children's Bureau of Delaware wants to thank all the people and societies who have given so generously to help continue its work for another year. There is another kind of help that we have received that is perhaps even more needed than money. Several people have offered to take into their homes, children whose fathers have lost their work because of the hard times. One woman, who has only a small income but a nice home, boarded a little boy who, because of his nervous condition, needed special diet and sympathetic care. His father lost his position and could no longer pay for him, so she offered to keep this child free until he secures another position.

We have another family of little children, a sister and two brothers under 11 years of age, whose mother is dead and whose father has been boarding them for two years in homes found by the Children's Bureau. The father, who is a steady worker and who has spent all his money on his little family, was laid off for the summer with almost no notice.

The Children's Bureau is sure there share the generous family who will of these little ones with one or more and will find a friend for the summer for the others so they will not have to be separated. Any one interested can write or call at 207 Church Building, Wilmington, or telephone 4808.

WILMINGTON ALUMNI HAVE LUNCHEON

Dr. Hullihen Addresses Alumni at Noon Gathering

The Wilmington Chapter of the University of Delaware Alumni Association held its first luncheon last Wednesday at noon, in parlors A and B of the Hotel du Pont. About fifty persons attended, and the meeting was very enthusiastic. College yells heard in the days of yore on the old Delaware Campus were reborn and reverberated through the halls of the hotel. There was plenty of music and good victuals in addition.

The feature of the gathering was the talk given by Dr. Hullihen, who outlined a few of the changes to occur around the University in the near future. He is extremely anxious for a new library, or an enlargement of the old one, and stated that plans will soon be laid for the necessary construction. In addition, Dr. Hullihen complimented the Wilmington organization on its many activities and declared that the chapter could and would be of much value to its mother institution.

A divergence was offered when every man and woman present was asked to stand up and give his or her name, class, and present occupation. This miniature "third degree" disclosed the fact that classes from 1875 to 1920 were represented, a fact worthy of gratification on the part of all interested in Old Delaware. A singular disclosure in addition resulted. A family of three including father, mother and son, all of whom had been graduated from the college, was present. The father, Thomas Davis, was graduated in 1875. He was followed a year later by Mrs. Davis. The son, J. Rankin Davis, was a member of the class of 1911. Another anomaly in the careers of these three is the fact that they were all taught by Dr. Theodore Wolf, former professor of chemistry at the college.

A very important meeting of the Wilmington Chapter will take place tonight at the Hotel du Pont. At this meeting, the committees on Scholarships, Athletics, and Membership will make official reports.

Delaware Review.

No Change in Canning Outlook

The canning crops situation in Delaware, as well as in neighboring states, seems to be in the same situation as was reported in the previous issue of these columns. The growing of most of these crops including peas, tomatoes and corn is at a standstill due to the market situation with respect to canned goods. Canners are contracting for very little if anything and the prices offered are so far below what the farmer feels will be necessary to meet cost of production that he in turn will grow few such crops.

Canners have refused to deal with the New York State Association of cannery crop growers. They are offering to those outside the association $50 to $60 for peas, and about $12 for tomatoes. The State Association is asking $76 for peas, $17 for tomatoes and $18 for Country Gentleman corn. Neither the canners or growers are inclined to budge from their present position.

The same situation is found in New Jersey and about the same in Maryland.

UNIVERSITY PROGRAM ARRANGED

Dr. Phelps of Yale to be Commencement Orator

The commencement program for the Class of '21 appears very attractive and worthy of Old Delaware. Particularly are we fortunate in being able to have Dr. William Lyon Phelps for the speaker on Commencement Day. Dr. Phelps is Lampson Professor at Yale and is a noted teacher of English. He is widely known in literary circles, having contributed many books of his own writing, and having been a respected critic of others. With his wide scope of knowledge, particularly along educational lines, he will undoubtedly contribute a talk to the graduating class that will interest them directly and convey some invaluable thoughts to them. A member of the University faculty who has heard Dr. Phelps speak recently says that, in his opinion, he is without question the best speaker he has ever heard. This complimentary remark coming from a dependable source is sufficient to assure us that we are extremely fortunate in having Dr. Phelps with us on Commencement Day.

Everyone should be looking forward expectantly to the Alumni Reunion on Saturday, June 11, when the old "grads," interesting in a thousand and one ways, will again assemble on the campus of their Alma Mater. Special arrangements are being made to entertain a large number of the alumni. Dr. Hullihen has an extremely attractive proposition to unfold to them, and

TO EXONERATE DR. McELMOYLE

General Assembly Will Clear "Marrying Parson" on Technicality

Winona Lake, Ind., May 25.—The Rev. John McElmoyle, Maryland's "marrying" pastor, will be exonerated of the charges of conducting a "Gretna Green" in his parsonage at Elkton, and other charges that have been pending, it was forecast here today.

Dr. McElmoyle was "invited" to resign from his pulpit at Elkton several years ago following a protest that he was indiscriminately marrying "all comers" from neighboring states and also on other charges preferred to the Presbytery of New Castle, Del., by men in his congregation opposed to his church administration.

Information among members of the Presbyterian General Assembly, whose judicial committee has reviewed the case here, is that he will be cleared on a technicality.

The court will hold, it is said, that he was not given sufficient notice to leave after Presbytery "suggested" that he resign as pastor at Elkton.

The court, it is believed, will also hold that the charges against him are insufficient, inasmuch as a majority of his congregation stood by him in subsequent clashes.

Dr. McElmoyle is still preaching at Elkton, he having retained his pastorate pending an appeal.

The decision of the court will be given to the Assembly today after which it will be up to 1000 commissioners attending the church meeting to approve or disapprove the findings of the supreme court of Presbyterianism.—From Evening Journal.

JUDGMENT

Mine are no envious thoughts of those Whose rank or wealth exceeds my own—
A king will topple from a throne,
And wealth is transient as a rose.

Not lasting good in rank or gain
Save where they prove the instrument
Of higher things the Maker meant
That we His creatures should attain.

When we at the dread Judgment Seat
In fear and trembling shall appear,
Shall sordid things we garner here
The Godhead's strict requirements meet?

No! we must answer—every one—
For every talent God has given,
What each one has availed to Heaven,
Not what the mundane power they've won.

And greed's fine sophistries are vain
With Him the Searcher of the heart;
No judgment won by legal art
At this Tribunal it will gain.

Reflect you who the poor exploit!
List as the half-fed children plead
For the full sustenance they need
To tread the world's rough paths aright.

Of more intrinsic worth than gold
The consciousness of duty done,
And trophies of a triumph won,
For you that consciousness will hold.
James C. Melody.

Will Try Hubam in Delaware

Three samples of annual white blooming sweet clover have been secured from the Iowa Experiment Station and will be distributed in the three counties of Delaware. This clover, now called Hubam Clover, was discovered by Prof. Hughes of the Iowa Experiment Station in 1916, and it has since been found growing wild in Alabama. If this clover proves as successful in Delaware as it has in Iowa it will mean the addition of another very useful and quick growing legume to the farmers of our State.

This clover when seeded in the spring will make a growth of four to six feet in about four months time, whereas ordinary red clover will make a growth of five inches, and the biennial white clover, a growth of about fourteen inches. In other words, a crop of seed or a crop of hay can be produced the first year from seeding, which is not true of any other clover in this class.

In view of the fact that this clover is a very fine soil improver, it should be used very generally for plowing down and as a cover crop. These demonstration tests will be followed up this year and at the end of the season we hope to make a report of the growth of this crop in Delaware and whether it can be recommended for more general distribution.—Farm Bureau News.

"THE VANISHING

on Value of Amateur Theatricals

Many a pleased spectator of that excellent historical pantomime presented by boys and girls of the New Castle county schools a few days ago must have asked himself, on the way home, whether entertainments like this do not answer better than sermons, rules and resolutions some of the anxious questions put regarding modern young people and their good times. For it is not among school-children only that you can secure this eager co-operation in getting up festivities of the right sort. The younger set in every town or city will work their fingers off, once you win their interest, as war work proved a thousand times over. They, like the children, are natural lovers of theatricals, and they might better be putting on their own than watching the Turkish bath dramas to which they are supposed to be addicted. Once enlist that abounding enthusiasm, those buoyant spirits, in pageants or folk dances, athletic meets or charity operettas, and you are confident of the enterprise's success. But if these delighted qualities of youth are given no scope in wholesome fashion, then enter the ungraceful shimmy, the unviewable movie.

The small artistes had much more fun presenting their own costumed pictures than they could have had by sitting through an entertainment provided for them. Right there, perhaps is one of the roots of that "wildness" which has been the theme for such gloomy preaching and penning lately. We buy all our pleasure. Commercial amusement, accessible as never before, and irresistibly advertised, robs young people of the healthy faculties which they developed when they had to devise their own good times and put them through. The cheap dance hall and theatre are valuable in many ways, but there are certain qualities which they indubitably kill. One doesn't amuse himself when it is such a simple matter to be amused. It is not surprising that, after several years of this administered gaiety, originality and spontaneity should grow a bit feeble and have to be stimulated by cigarettes unnumbered, vulgar shows and savage music. They've had no exercise. After all, wildness today is made very simple and convenient.

Even at summer camps, where primitive liberty is supposed to reign, the fun is carefully arranged and ordered in advance. Nothing is got up on the spur of the moment, putting local talent on its mettle. The present generation is the restive product of the committee. They are satiated with effortless entertainment. They hate to be helped to play. Their power of amusing themselves is gone. Always excepting the athletes, the younger set is neurotic and therefore pitiable. And the vanished corn-cob doll is the symbol of a lost race of self-reliant children.

But given a chance to do something with their own hands and wits, what a transformation! They rise to the occasion, become eager and busy and ingenious, even as Nature intended. That pleasant spectacle on Joe Frazer Field, last week, ought to be duplicated in spirit the State over. Beyond its rural sphere it suggested methods for the painless reformation of America's wild younger set.—Delaware Star.

War Memorial on Side of Mountain

Stone Mountain, twelve miles east of the city of Atlanta, has been the inspiration for a remarkable piece of rock sculpture which is being designed as a memorial to the Confederate armies of the Civil War.

At this point, on the north side of the mountain, a vertical cliff of smooth gray granite lifts itself from a level plain, 1000 feet in the air, and extends for more than a quarter of a mile. On this gigantic piece of rock are to be carved in relief the figures of a thousand soldiers, conspicuous among them to be a group of mountain men led by Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson. Each figure will be fifty feet high, and none will stand lower than 200 feet from the ground, so that the whole design will be within view from as great a distance as five miles.

Mr. Gutzon Borglum, the famous sculptor, who designed the statue of Lincoln, recently unveiled in Newark, N. J., has general charge of the work.

From an engineering standpoint, the undertaking involves interesting difficulties. Steel cables, dropped from the top of the cliff, supplemented by horizontal cables connected with them, will support cages, in which the men who do the carving will conduct their operations.

FORD PRODUCING 4000 CARS A DAY*Production Greater Now Than Year

Ford is building cars at full speed. And, according to an official statement from the factory at Detroit, the demand for Ford cars and trucks still exceeds the output, despite the fact that a new high level of production has been reached.

By the first of May the figures representing daily production were in the neighborhood of 4,000 a day, so the May schedule was set at 101,135 cars and trucks, not including the output of the Ford Canadian plant or any of the foreign assembling plants. The output mounted daily; May 12th brought forth 4092, the greatest number that have been produced in one day so far this year. Since the month has 25 working days, present indications point to a new high record.

A comparison of Ford production figures for 1920 and 1921 discloses the fact that for April, 1921, the output was greater by 34,514 than for the corresponding month of a year ago. The output for May will probably overshadow May, 1920, by between fifteen and twenty thousand cars and trucks.

Approximately 43,000 men are at work in the Detroit plant of the Ford Motor Company. The factory is operating on full time, six days a week and three shifts a day.

"We were never in a better condition than we are right now," said Henry Ford, recently.

DEPENDABLE

"How old are you?" asked the judge of a woman witness.

"Thirty," she replied.

"Thirty!" exclaimed the judge. I have heard you give that same age in this court for three years."

"Yes," returned the witness, "I am not one of those persons whosay one thing today and another thing to-morrow."

Better Service from the Weather Man

What is considered an important advance in weather forecasting by radio will begin June first through the cooperation of the United States Weather Bureau and the Navy. A special radio bulletin is to be issued broadcast from the naval station at Arlington, Virginia, each morning at 10.30 o'clock, Sundays and holidays. Full instructions are being prepared for those who wish to take advantage of the new weather bulletins. Information can be secured from the U. S. Naval Station at Arlington. Here's a chance for our amateur wireless operators to become very popular with the fair sex this summer by forecasting the weather for outdoor functions and giving timely warning of thunder-showers.

Welsh Tract Carnival

Welsh Tract School has given a series of entertainments during the past winter, which were very pleasant and instructive, all of which were free.

Mrs. Hill had staged for last Friday evening a festival to raise money for the various school activities. The Continental Band and her many Newark friends volunteered their services to assist in making the affair a grand success.

Every one went to work with such good will that the little festival proved to be a carnival. There were probably over six hundred people present and the gross receipts of the evening were $238.

Mrs. Hill has shown herself to be a masterhand in the management of these social gatherings and has won the hearty good will of the people of the section.

On behalf of the School Commissioners and the people of the section, I desire to thank the Band for the very excellent music furnished, and the many Newark friends for their generous aid and good will.

Afraid to Face Your Banker?

Slowly the old man entered the bank and stood for a moment nervously tapping the rail by the vice-president's desk.

For a week he had dreaded this interview. Night after night he had worked over his financial statement, but now as he faced the ordeal he knew that the paper he held in his hand was a sorry mess of figures that he could not prove.

It seemed to him that bankers wanted to know a lot of fussy details that no man could be expected to answer off hand and he hated to go through all that—it seemed like a million questions to him.

The trouble with this man, and so many others in the same boat with him, is that he has never had his eyes opened to the need of getting more figure facts about his business. He thinks the cost of making daily records would eat up all his profits and he needs to be shown that on the contrary he would make more money if he had them.

Most successful men in business today have learned that clear, accurate, detailed records of all the departments and operations of their business are the best assurance of success.

Machine methods of figuring and mechanical aids in bookkeeping and record keeping have simplified these operations so that it is no longer necessary to carry a heavy bookkeeping expense to get the necessary facts.

With a Burroughs figuring machine an inexperienced clerk can work out automatically all the figure problems of business transactions as: adding sales and charge slips, footing all sorts of figure columns, proving postings, taking trial balances, checking invoices, distributing sales by clerks or departments, totaling weights and quantities and so on.

Telephone the nearest Burroughs office and ask them to show you the type of machine you need and how to get the facts about your business.

MARKET REPORTS NOW BY WIRELESS

"Q. S. T." New Radio Call Brings Farmers to Phone

"Q. S. T." which means, "everybody listen," is the new radio call to all stations having wireless stations to be ready to receive the daily radio market reports gotten out by the U. S. Bureau of Markets from Washington, D. C. Before announcing the plan to the public the Radio-Market-gram of 400 to 600 words in length has been tested out for three months over a radius of 200 miles.

Plans are under way to receive these reports in each of the three counties of Delaware, possibly at Newark, through the College radio; at Dover, by the Collegiate Institute or through Gilbert Cosden; and at Lewes, through the U. S. Naval station. Through organization of farmers they can now 'phone from headquarters to their nearest wireless station and receive the latest market reports "hot off the bat" as it were.

Although our fruit crop is practically lost this year, it will be well to test this scheme out and be in shape for next year's crops.

Measuring the Breath

A highly complicated instrument has been devised which measures the air we breathe with absolute accuracy. A hose is attached to the mouth by a mouthpiece much the same as those used in the gas masks in the war, and the air which passes in and out of the lungs is indicated by a delicate instrument. Even the temperature and barometric pressure of a room are taken into consideration. Tests are made with this instrument while a person is lying down, without exerting any energy, and while he is exercising, or using a typewriter or some every day occupation. The instrument makes it possible for the first time to measure exactly how much air one consumes in performing a certain piece of work.
