Thiokol's Jones, Taylor Head New Division Merger

Thiokol Chemical Corporation has announced the merger of the Bristol division into the Elktion division, and H. G. Jones, general manager of the Elktion group, will head consolidated operations.

D. M. Taylor, formerly head of Elktion's production department, has been named manager of Bristol operations for the Elktion division.

Both Jones and Taylor are residents of Newark.

Dr. H. W. Ritchey, president of Thiokol, said consolidation was based upon detailed studies of current business, product lines, and future business trends.

"The move," he said, "will result in more efficient operations and will strengthen Thiokol's technical capability and competitive position in defense products area."

According to Jones, Bristol operations specialize in design development, and production of ordnance and electro-mechanical devices for aerospace and defense industries.

"Their capability in these areas will," he said, "mesh particularly well with the solid propellant rocket activities of the Elktion plant."

Featured soloist will be M/Sgt. Frederick J. Erdman, cornetist with the United States Marine Band. Erdman has been a member of the band since 1955, and is one of the musicians chosen annually to play with the band on its nationwide tour.

Guest conductors for Friday night's concert will include two Newark school teachers—Philip Taylor and Ernest Wilder—and two Christiana High students—Charles Teasdale and JoAnn Brown.

Tickets may be purchased from any Christiana band member or at the door.

The 13th annual meeting of the Friends of the John Dickinson Mansion, Inc. will be held this Saturday at 4 p.m. in Dover at the Delaware Hall of Records. After the meeting, members and friends are invited to tour the mansion which will be open until 6 o'clock.

ARBOR—BIRD DAY

This Friday is Arbor and Bird Day, and Gov. Charles L. Terry has urged all Delaware schools and civic organizations "to hold appropriate exercises to stimulate mass consciousness and appreciation of the aesthetic, physical and economic value of tree and bird life."

Old Dover Days Turn Back Clocks To 18th Century

Visitors for Old Dover Days this Saturday and Sunday, will include members of the United States Senate Wives Club, according to Mrs. Oliver W. Farrow, chairman.

Mrs. John J. Williams indicated that a number of wives of U.S. Senators wanted to see the Dover area and its old homes and gardens.

According to Mrs. Farrow, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson may have been responsible for the decision on the part of the Senate wives.

In a recent national magazine article Mrs. Johnson was quoted as saying, "a lovely piece of preservation of an old city is Dover, Delaware — its wonderful village green, a lovely expanse of grass with its tree-shaded streets and old houses. You almost feel as though Thomas Jefferson might come strolling past."

Mrs. Farrow said this vision of Mrs. Johnson's will almost literally come true this Saturday and Sunday.

Citizens will don colonial garb; there will be dancing on the Green, and Revolutionary militarymen will appear in the garb of that period.

Horsemen will roam the streets as a symbol of Caesar Rodney's famous ride from Dover to Philadelphia in 1776.

There will be 25 homes, gardens and public buildings on view, Mrs. Farrow pointed out. Homes will be open Saturday 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Gov. and Mrs. Charles L. Terry, Jr., will receive guests in Legislative Hall at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Easter Lily Fall Blooms Proposed By Dr. Dunham

The Easter lilies gracing many homes at this time of year, can be made to bloom again in the fall if given proper care, according to Dr. Charles Dunham, University of Delaware horticulturist.

When all the blooms have wilted, leave the potted plant in a sunny window, but don't water it. After the plant dies down — in early May — it can be planted outside.

The bulb should be planted six to eight inches deep. In normal outdoor growing conditions, the lily should bloom again at the end of the summer, Dr. Dunham says.

"Please call for your luncheon reservations," Mrs. Robert T. Hall requests.

FRIENDS WORTH KNOWING

This is National Library Week. Its purpose is "To encourage lifetime reading habits and increase people's use of libraries."

Greater use of our libraries is a goal worthy of the most widespread support. Each of us should consider it a personal goal and one to be imparted to our children. The future will belong to those who possess the hard-won prize of knowledge.

Libraries have been established to serve practically every community as a result of individual philanthropy; as part of the facilities provided by local government bodies; or in connection with school systems.

In our libraries on the pages of books and on microfilm and recordings, can be found the information and wisdom the human race has accumulated since the dawn of recorded history.

A friend is one who gives a helping hand when it is needed, and on this basis, our libraries hold friends of incomparable worth. They wait to lend us the wisdom of the ancient philosophers that we may apply it with proper consideration in our own lives.

They can unfold to us the healing arts of modern medicine; the wonders of space; the realms of physics, electronics, and mathematics.

And on problems of everyday life, they have useful and good advice to give us on practically any situation that we face.

These friends are the books on our library shelves. Let's get to know them better.

Group Hospital Service Returns 93.4 Cents Of $1

During 1964, Group Hospital Service earned 93.4 cents of every income dollar for care of members and reserves for their protection, Managing Director H. V. Maybee declared last week.

In the annual report of the Delaware Blue Cross-Blue Shield organization, Maybee said only 6.6 per cent of income was used for operating expenses.

Maybee also pointed out that a "join week" will be held May 3-7, and Delawareans who are not already members, will have opportunity to join the Blue Cross and Blue Shield plans for hospital-medical-surgical protection.

Mrs. Laura Kline Dies Last Sunday With Heart Attack

Mrs. Laura R. Kline, 75, widow of William A. Kline, died Sunday from a heart attack at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Mildred Sharp, 133 Courtney Street, Newark.

A life-long resident of Delaware, Mrs. Kline was the last survivor of 15 children.

She had made her home with another daughter, Mrs. Beatrice K. Whitman at 115 East Cleveland Avenue, Newark.

She is survived by her two daughters, three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at the R. T. Jones & Son Funeral Home.

Interment was in Salem Cemetery.

Edward G. Budd, Jr. Named To New Post As Chairman

The Budd Company has announced the election of Edward G. Budd, Jr., as chairman of the board, a new post, and of Philip W. Scott as president.

Budd, 63, started with the company as an apprentice in 1923, and has been president since 1946.

Scott, 53, joined the Budd Company in 1958 as a group vice-president, and had been executive vice-president since 1960.

Coverdale called for increasing the Newark Election Board from three to six members, with one to be stationed at each polling place.

Since a vote of but two board members is required to settle polling disputes, he said, it would be comparatively simple for a second member of the board to join the first.

He cited the three-member board, as an obsolete carry-over from the former three-district voting system.

Councilman Coverdale withdrew his motion for a six-member board after Grant explained the need for board members to be at the council office rather than at the polls during election day.

Concerning the appearance of voters' names in the registry—the factor in permitting the two former residents of the 2nd district to vote—Grant said that there was no way to remove these names until a person fails to vote for two consecutive years, or voluntarily changes registration.

Charles M. Eissner, a member of the Newark Election Board, said that he was present at the 2nd district polls from 5:30 to 7 p.m. and "no one said anything about any irregularity."

Coverdale asked Solicitor Clyde England if a penalty levied for voting out of a resident's district would prevent such instances, and England replied "we have penalties from larceny to murder, and they do not stop them."

Contracts were awarded for low bids to Robert C. Peoples of Wilmington for extending a sewer line on South Chapel Street at $7,863.75; to Westinghouse Electric Supply of Wilmington for city purchase of electric motors and conductors at $7,652; and to the Fisher Tank Co. of Chester, Pa. for installation of a 500,000-gal. water tank at the south well plant for $38,560.

This last award was made subject to explanation requested by Councilman Chittenden of the differential between the bid price and the budget figure of $28,000.

Kenneth W. Goff To Speak For Engineering Panelists

Dr. Kenneth W. Goff, head of the systems analysis section of the Leeds & Northrup Research & Development Center in North Wales, Pa., will speak on educational requirements for engineers to meet industry's changing needs, with a panel discussion at the University of Delaware, this Saturday.

The meeting in Sharp Laboratory at 1:30 p.m. is sponsored by the Middle Atlantic section of the American Society for Engineering Education.

Wilmington "Y" To Offer Art Exhibit On May 4-6

An art exhibit will be held at the Wilmington YWCA at 908 King Street, May 4-6, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. This exhibit will include paintings, sketches and sculpture of pupils and instructors from all YWCA centers in New Castle County.

Coffee will be served on the opening morning, Tuesday, May 4, at 10 a.m.

The public is invited to attend at any time during the three days. Some paintings will be for sale, Mrs. Harry Deppert reports.

Action on a request for extended water service on Ogletown Road was deferred despite City Manager J. Francis Neide's recommendation that such service be provided at a cost of $1,650 over prior plans.

Permissions for Rollins Broadcasting, Inc. and TeleSystems Corp. to install community antenna television service in Newark, was withheld pending a report supplementing that presented with the pros and cons of CATV by Neide last Monday, to include income for the city with CATV service.

Concerning the State Highway Department plan for two-way traffic on Elkton Road between Main Street and Delaware Avenue, Folson requested a "coordinated report" from the traffic consultant firm of Some paintings will be for sale, Mrs. Harry Deppert reports.

Director John J. Griesbaum, and the city manager. "We are not ready for a public meeting," he said regarding Neide's proposal.

Folsom said that a meeting for final review of the 1965 budget was scheduled for May 5, at 7:30 p.m., and requested typed presentation of the capital expenditure budget.

Concerning his opposition vote on last March 25, to employing counsel to defend city officials in the lawsuit levied by former local alderman Horace H. Best, Folsom stated that he would change his vote if the court rules in favor of municipal officials accused of slander.

"From what I know, I would pay for the defense," Councilman Wakefield said. "But I prefer the matter be tabled until I have opportunity to review the case."

Mayor Shields said "nothing was done privately—nothing was done outside of this room," concerning allegations made in the suit.

Chittenden urged that the city check into the Casho Mill Road area sidewalk situation preparatory to opening of the new school next fall, and Councilman Olan R. Thomas asked for report on the curbing program on Cleveland Avenue in response to queries from residents of the area.

Wakefield cited need for traffic control at the Park Place-South College Avenue intersection with the change in school boundaries presenting additional hazards for children at this crossing.

In this connection, a letter was read from Mrs. Craighill S. Burks, stressing danger from a "continuous flow of southbound traffic" and citing

Harvey B. Sheppard Dies At Age Of 80

Harvey B. Sheppard, 80, of 74 East Main Street, Newark, died Monday in Wilmington General Hospital, where he had been a patient 10 days. Mr. Sheppard was a native of Newark and a retired employee of Continental Diamond Fibre. He was a member of the Junior Order of American Mechanics and of the Knights of the Golden Eagles, Newark.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Ethel M. Dear, Smyrna, and a brother, Wilmer L. Sheppard of Newark.

Services will be held Friday at 2 p.m. at the R. T. Jones & Son Funeral Home, Newark, where friends may call tonight after 7.

Interment will be in Newark Cemetery.

George Hewitt, 47 Collapses At Home

George T. Hewitt, 47, of 1100 West Church Road, Newark, collapsed at his home early Monday morning and was pronounced dead on arrival at Wilmington General Hospital.

Born in Chestertown, Md., he had been employed at the Chrysler parts plant in Newark for 17 years.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Frances A. Hewitt; three sons, Arthur William, 18, a trainee at Great Lakes Naval Training Station, Ill., John Norris, 16, and Jerry Thomas, six and a daughter, Carol Joyce, 13, all at home; a brother, William of Elk Mills, Md., and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Biddle of Christiansburg, and another sister in Harrisburg, Pa.

Services were conducted this afternoon from the Robert T. Jones & Son Funeral Home, Newark.

Interment was in Head of Christiansburg Cemetery.

ing "at least" three automobile accidents in less than two months in this area during the hours immediately before or after school.

"I have difficulty understanding why other Newark children are afforded traffic protection which is not offered to these," Mrs. Burks wrote. "I do not consider the fact that relatively few children are required to make this crossing, reduces in any way the danger . . . it increases it as motorists are less inclined to be aware of a few children than of many."

Wakefield expressed approval of the condition of Haines Street and said "it can be black-topped now."

And Shields replied "You're chairman of the street committee. Get things going."

Councilman Wakefield urged that the city acquire "open spaces" for parkland while they can be purchased "cheaply," and Folsom explained that a comprehensive park plan had been prepared; that $25,000 had been allocated to purchase parkland in the College Park area, and that proposals had been presented for land purchase in the vicinity of Kershaw Street.

Wakefield praised City-Secretary-Treasurer Charles D. Long for "a wonderful job here," but urged change in the functional organizational chart which has Long "under the city manager yet controlled by council," Folsom and Wakefield are to confer on chart changes.

Chittenden suggested that the park program be submitted to the schools "so they will have some idea what we are doing," and citing telephone calls he has received concerning park progress, said "I do not object to the calls, but I do object to callers' ignorance on park plans."

Mayor Shields reported his intention to provide a Mayor's Trophy to be awarded at the Delaware Rose Society Show next Sept. 25, at the Newark New Century Club, and council approved a City of Newark Trophy for presentation.

Folsom announced that the finance committee would meet next Tuesday to review the annual municipal audit, and Thomas said that the utilities group would meet as early as possible next month.

Wakefield offered commendation for street-cleaning operations, but cited problems created by double parking on Main Street.

"What can we do about it?" he asked. And the mayor replied that it was an "administrative thing—get in touch with the city manager." And if this doesn't produce results, he advised calling Coverdale, chairman of the police committee. "Let him ride herd on it."

William B. Altman of the municipal bi-racial committee, urged council to adopt a resolution supporting the current Fair Housing Bill for enactment by the General Assembly, but Doehle and Coverdale demurred, expressing desire to "see the bill."

Shields observed that it was a "very cautious group here," and Altman said "I wouldn't like to get anyone in trouble with the law." Copies of the bill are to be provided for consideration at the next regular council meeting.

Council was informed by letter from Newark School Supt. Wilmer E. Shue, that the parking lot at the rear of the Administration Building, 83 East Main Street, will be closed to the public during construction work at the site.

Concerning Griesbaum's report on Arbour Park sidewalks, Folsom cited need for "consistency—not only Arbour Park," with sidewalk regulations. Action was deferred pending decision on the deannexation suit brought against the city by residents of the area.

Craven cited traffic count and population density as factors for sidewalk requirements.

William E. Craven, an Arbour Park resident in the audience, addressed council with "I would like to correct any erroneous impression . . . the Arbour Park Civic Association is not asking for exemption." He urged that the city "study the entire ordinance to see if it is too restrictive," and suggested "requirements for sidewalks would loom large in the question of annexation."

Craven cited traffic count and population density as factors for sidewalk requirements.

Dream Of Moving From City To Country Faces Sad Awakening Without Planning

With more industrial development, and the resulting residential development in Delaware, many people longingly look for an opportunity to get away from city congestion. A place in the country where they could produce some of their own food and enjoy country life seems to be a popular dream.

There are already more than 2,000 families in Delaware who could be considered part-time farmers—who work in the city but live on a few acres out of town, according to W. T. McAllister, farm management specialist at the University of Delaware.

In addition to this number, he says, there are a lot more people eager to move to a small farm who just haven't made the move yet.

A part-time farm can be an ideal place to bring up a family, but there are some factors that should get serious consideration before a couple decides to give up city life and move to the country, McAllister says. "Unless you have lived on a farm before, you will be starting a new way of life. If you make the wrong decision, you will be unhappy, and your work in the country will only be drudgery," he says.

"Besides, if you are planning to raise food to use yourself or to sell, your returns aren't likely to be up to your expectations because plants and animals thrive best under happy owners who give them watchful care."

Transportation costs and the amount of work it takes to maintain your "place in the country" are two of the major considerations, he says. The cost of transportation to work as well as to meetings, schools, shopping areas and recreation activities in town is likely to be higher, and perhaps an extra car will be necessary if public transportation is not convenient.

McAllister also cautions that farming—even on a small scale—is hard work.

"Be sure your family is enthusiastic about the move—and that their enthusiasm isn't going to fade when they find how much time and effort it takes to do all the farming jobs. Remember, too, that the difference between what it costs to grow a hog and what it costs to buy pork at the store is not as great as you may think."

On the other hand, it is usually true that taxes or rent will be lower out of town, McAllister notes. "It is also possible to grow a lot of produce for home use and sale—and what you grow is better, tastier and fresher than what you can buy."

The size and location of a part-time farm are very important, McAllister points out. "Select your location carefully, considering such things as good soil, drainage, schools and the general appearance of farms around the community. If the other farms look prosperous, it is a good farming area—if they are being abandoned, be careful."

NHA Reactivates Two Committees 7-Mos. Dormant

The Newark Housing Authority reactivated its committees for policy and personnel last week after a municipal vote rejected a proposal to abrogate the city's contract with the federal Public Housing Administration, by 1961 to 740.

The committee to determine policies for admission and continued occupancy, scheduled a meeting for May 6, to bring these matters up to date after the seven-month lag.

Mrs. Joseph R. Perkins, NHA executive secretary, said that she received the first two requests to be placed on the waiting list for the proposed 78 units of public housing, the day after the housing program was upheld.

Several more requests have been filed since then, she said. The NHA plans to build 36 units on East Main Street and 42 on East Cleveland Avenue.

New Alfalfa Type Studied As Control For Weevil Plague

The alfalfa weevil may soon grip Delaware's alfalfa crop.

Current efforts to control this pest insect, range from conventional insecticides and biological controls to an elaborate flame thrower that roasts weevils and their eggs. All of these are cures that can only be used after the weevil has made its presence known, and all have problems. They are expensive, require special treatments and may not be completely effective.

Research is underway with biological control techniques, but most of these are in the very early stages, not ready for commercial use. U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists working with researchers at the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station, think they have the answer. It may be a few years, however, before they can prove it. Their solution is an ideal one—an alfalfa variety that is resistant to weevil damage. They believe they have one, an Algerian strain that resists egg-laying attempts by the alfalfa weevil. Scientists believe that if they can break up the life-cycle of the weevil by eliminating its nesting place, they can minimize the threat.

After careful study, the researchers learned that the alfalfa weevil will go somewhere else to lay its eggs when the Algerian alfalfa plant is the only local choice. With the most susceptible species, the weevils laid an average of 33.8 eggs per inch of stem. But with the Algerian alfalfa they laid only .03 eggs per inch of stem. With almost no eggs laid, obviously, there was no hatch and no alfalfa problem.

Dr. Dale Bray, entomologist at the University of Delaware, says this isn't a complete solution to the problem, only the first step.

The Algerian variety is not an acceptable commercial plant, and researchers are trying to transfer weevil resistance to commercial varieties.

Bray believes this transfer may be made with the result that the normal life cycle of the weevil would be disturbed, and the larval damage—even greater than adult weevil damage—avoided.

Although scientists don't know why the alfalfa weevil avoids the Algerian plant, they feel it has something to do with the stem. It doesn't seem to provide a suitable surface for egg-laying.

Ray Ciesinski's Unbeaten Yellowjackets Defeat Devils, Lions, Conrad In Track

Coach Ray Ciesinski's undefeated Yellowjackets walloped visiting Wilmington High School 86-31 yesterday afternoon in a dual track and field meet after defeating DeLaWarr away by the same top-heavy score on Monday. And Newark won over Conrad 37½-43½ at Woodcrest last Thursday.

Newark will compete in the Peninsula Relays at Wilmington's Baynard Stadium this Saturday at 7:30 p.m., and the Yellowjacket contenders for the Blue Hen Conference championship entertain William Penn here next Monday afternoon, with a dual meet scheduled for Wednesday at P. S. du Pont.

Charlie Hayman and Pat Walker were double winners for Big Ray's Yellowjackets in the triumph over Wilmington's Red Devils. Hayman won the 100 in 10.1 flat followed by teammate Arthur Wright with a 10.1 second place finish, and it was Hayman and Wright as the one-two punch in the 220. Walker won the 120-high hurdles in 15.6, and won the discus with teammate Bill Murphy taking second. Steve Moore and Murphy were one-two with the shot, and Dick Kelley and Chris Ward took first and second in the pole vault.

The annual game and fish hearing will be held this Friday at Capital Grange Hall, Dover, and all sportsmen are urged to participate in this forum.

"Good hunting and fishing in Delaware depends upon sound wildlife management and interested, well-informed sportsmen and landowners," Norm Wilder stresses.

"Wildlife populations are never static—increasing or decreasing each year. So with each new breeding season, sound decisions must be made on the size harvest for each of our game species," Delaware's wildlife conservation director added.

"Don't sit home and complain or complain hunting and fishing in the First State—attend the 11th annual public hearing this Friday at 8:00 p.m. in Dover," Delaware's conservation chief concluded.

Ducks were flying in a cold north-easter over the Red Lion marshes last Saturday afternoon—wood ducks, pintails, mallards and black ducks, along with those early-bird blue-winged teal that buzz happily save over Delaware in the fall migration before the first legal shot is fired—as a trio of teen-age carp fishermen splashed off through the mud with bow, line, and arrow.

The tide was low in Red Lion Run, and a few big carp were swirling in the shallows, their copper-clad backs and golden tails reminiscent of the far famed prize channel bass or red drum of the surf. And this resemblance may well have stirred the emotions of Outdoor Writer Arnold J. "Channel Bass" Stewart, the Ocarokee Duck.

While young Phil Gibbs, Tommy Worrell, and Billy dosed through the marsh mud with a fishing bow and out of sight and sound around a wooded ridge that sloped into the Red Lion wetlands, the adult selected a bit of dry grassland beside a deep pool in the stream, and from a slightly fly rod, fished a plain hook threaded with yellow canned corn kernels on the bottom beneath a small float.

And for a cold hour, the bobber failed to dimple the surface of Red Lion Run in response to anything more than an occasional cast and a hook into something that surged strongly against line straining from a whipping wand.

Bluewinged teal sped by close enough for the observer to see the white crescent on the beautifully tinted feathered head of the tiny drakes, and a pair of big waterfowl, a drake mallard in his colorful full-dress suit accompanied by a white-winged black duck—dropped their landing gear and planed into the marsh across a stream from us, where they waddled off amid the winter-crushed reeds.

And then the bobber began to move behind a rippling V across the pool, and a twitch of the rod sank the hook into something that surged strongly against line straining from a whipping wand.

The Redskins scored an unearned run on a wild pitch to break the tie and win in the fifth with the bases loaded.

Christiania plays away at Wilmington High this Friday, and is host to P. S. du Pont next Tuesday.

Parade Marshal

Former world heavyweight champion, Jack Dempsey, one of the most popular sports figures of all time will be the grand marshal of the feature parade of the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival in Winchester, Va., on April 30, at 1:30 p.m.

The "Manassa Mauler," acquired his nickname in his youth from the town of Manassa, Colo., where he was born as William Harrison Dempsey in 1895.

The ninth child and fifth son of Hyrum and Cecilia Smoot Dempsey, his maternal grandparents were Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Smoot of Tazewell, Va.

His father was a native of Logan County, W. Va., where his father before him had been a big landowner. On the strength of selling some coal and timber land, the Dempseys trekked west in 1880, settling in Colorado. The Dempseys, unaccustomed to ranch life, had trouble and hardships followed.

After a long hard road upward in the boxing world, Dempsey defeated Jess Willard in 1919 to gain the world's heavyweight title which he held until 1926 when he lost the crown to Gene Tunney.

Proprietor of Jack Dempsey's New York restaurant, he has two daughters — Mrs. Joan O'Flaherty of Van Nuys, and Mrs. Barbara McMillan, of Santa Monica, Calif., and seven granddaughters.

More than 150,000 persons are expected for the Apple Blossom festival parade for which Dempsey will be the grand marshal.
