Engineers Spend Monday At College

Plans for Dormitory Improvements Becoming Definite

Engineers from the office of Day and Klauder, supervising architects for Delaware, spent Monday at Delaware College, taking measurements and looking preparatory to the drawing of the plans for the general alteration of the interior of the building. The Board of Trustees at a recent meeting adopted a resolution to the effect that $75,000 of the $500,000 gift to Delaware College should be used in renovating the old dormitory.

It is proposed to practically tear out the entire interior of this old structure and the work is to be started as soon as possible. It is to be made a sort of commons for the student body and the executive offices will also be located in this building when it is completed. The offices are now in recitation hall. The Philadelphia architects as soon as they receive a report from their engineers as to the measurements, etc., will start the work of preparing plans for the changes to the building.

The revised plans of the proposed $225,000 Science Hall were sent here on Saturday by the architects for any final suggestions by Dean Harry Hayward of the Agricultural Department, or any other members of the faculty who will have their headquarters in the proposed structure.

These plans were taken back to Philadelphia by the engineers from the Day and Klauder office and the work of getting up the specifications preparatory to asking for bids on the building will be started at once.

Actual work will be started as soon as the weather permits.

It is not likely that it will be necessary to raze any of the buildings facing South College avenue owned by the college to make room for Science Hall, as the site of the new buildings will be considerably back from these houses. Eventually, however, all these houses will come down but some of them may remain a year or so.

Supt. Pollard Returns

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Pollard, who have been visitors at the Panama Pacific Exposition, returned to Newark on December 6. Mr. Pollard, who is superintendent of the Egg Laying Competition being held on the College Farm, was the delegate from the State of Delaware to various poultry conventions and meetings held at the exposition. On Tuesday, December 7, Mr. Pollard went to New York to attend the Palace Poultry Show, and incidentally take his place in the receiving line at the debut into New York Society of Lady Eglantine, the world's record hen, developed in the last egg laying competition at Delaware College.

A movable school of horticulture will be held for one week in the Grange Hall in Camden, the latter part of January. It will be conducted by County Agent M. O. Pence, in co-operation with the State Board of Agriculture and the Department of Horticulture of the Delaware College Experiment Station.

On December 10, Professor C. A. McCue discussed with County Agent Pence the various orchard problems in and about Camden.

Dr. R. C. Reed of Delaware College, went to Cortland, N. Y., on December 10, to test a Holstein bull recently purchased by Woodlawn Farms, Wilmington.

MARKER PLACED ON GLASGOW ROAD

Along Route Of Old Frenchtown Railroad

A marker, showing where the famous old Frenchtown and New Castle railroad crossed the Glasgow road, was placed near the residence of Dr. Cann, last Saturday, by the Cooches' Bridge Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The interesting bit of local history has been brought to the attention of the public by Mrs. Lee Cooch, historian of the Chapter.

The old Frenchtown and New Castle railroad is notable in the history of travel in America, since it was the first upon which steam power was applied to the transportation of passengers.

The railroad, which was seventeen miles long, was located between Frenchtown on the Elk river, and New Castle on the Delaware. The railroad was finished in 1831. The tolls on the road were not to exceed three cents per ton per mile on freight, and the fare for the transportation of passengers was not to exceed twenty-five cents per passenger for the whole distance, and twelve and one-half cents for baggage not exceeding one hundred pounds. Horse-power was used on the road for about two years. One horse was attached to each car, and the horses were changed at Glasgow and the Bear, which were the two stations on the road.

The first locomotive steam engine was used in 1833. The engine, built in England, was named the "Delaware." It had been procured at great expense, and was put together with great difficulty. But when all this had been accomplished the company found their trouble had just begun, for they had no way of supplying the monster with water. Finally it was supplied with the indispensable fluid from the springs and wells along the road. Although the locomotive was several days in making the first trip, it soon covered the distance in about an hour. There were no grades and the time could have been reduced had not the speed been limited for fear of accidents.

The business of the road began to decline rapidly after the construction of the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore railroad. The bed of the old road is now under cultivation, the farmers having resumed the use of the land after the discontinuance of the road.

COLLEGE ATHLETES TO BE GIVEN BANQUET

Winners Of Letters And Numerals Announced

In recognition of their good work during the year in all lines of sport Delaware College athletes will be given a big banquet at the duPont Hotel, Wilmington, to be followed by a theatre party in a short time. The Athletic Council decided at a meeting last night to give the banquet but the exact date has not been selected although it will probably be before the Christmas holidays.

It has been the custom for the past two years to give the varsity and scrub football squad a banquet at the close of the football season. When the matter was brought up last night at the Council meeting, it developed that some of the athletes in the other sports thought that they should also be included. It was pointed out that it was the custom to give the varsity football men either sweaters or gold footballs while those who make their "D" in other sports receive nothing. After some discussion it was decided to invite in addition to the varsity and scrub football men all athletes in college who made their "D" in 1915 in either baseball, basketball or track. The managers of the baseball, basketball, and track teams for 1916 will also be included. It is expected that this will make a party of about fifty. The football "D" men will elect their 1916 captain at the banquet.

The report of Dr. Walter H. Steel, treasurer of the Council showed that the past football season was a success financially, there being a small balance after the payment of all bills.

Gasoline Ordinance Repealed By Council

At a special meeting of Council on Monday evening the gasoline ordinance passed recently, was repealed. The repeal affects the garage in that it permits the street pump and sale of gasoline on the public thoroughfare.

Objections to the ordinance by automobile owners is understood to be responsible for its repeal.

Thieves At Elkton Postoffice

Thieves entered the postoffice at Elkton, Md., on Tuesday evening, and made away with $20.45 worth of change and stamps. Postmaster Oliver Giles had taken the bulk of the money to his home earlier in the evening. The office was badly wrecked in the search for spoil.

"Prom" To Be Held In New Armory

At a meeting of the Junior Class of Delaware College yesterday it was decided to hold the Junior "Prom" on February 4th. For years this dance, which is the feature social event of the college year, has been held in the college gymnasium but the coming "Prom" will be held in the new Armory. The floor of the Armory building is twice as large as that of the gymnasium and as the latter floor has been very much crowded at the "Proms" of recent years, the change will be a welcome one. The Junior class is making elaborate arrangements for the dance.

Prof Grantham At Seaford

Professor A. E. Grantham, Agronomist at the Delaware College Experiment Station, will address the Parent-Teachers' Association of Seaford on Friday, December 17, in the series of extension lectures given by various members of the faculty of Delaware College. Professor Grantham's subject will be "The Country Gentleman."

Mr. J. A. Davis of Delaware College is testing several Holstein cows in the herd of Mr. J. C. Hastings, near Dover.

Lady Eglantine the Leading Chicken on Broadway

It is no use to get sore, we have got to admit it, Newark and Delaware College are on the map. Placed there, if you please, by one hen by the name of Lady Eglantine. It's hard luck, but facts. Seminary theses, foreign tongues, mathematical theories, bulls that give milk—all have attracted more or less scattered attention in their

State Corn Show Great Success

The Delaware State Corn Show, recently held in Seaford was successful in every way. The number of exhibits equalled that of the show held in Wilmington last year. As a whole, the show was better balanced than any previous one in that there were more exhibits of varieties of grain, grass, and legume seed. Another class open to the world, some of the notable exhibits were from the county in Indiana which has grown the prize winning corn shown at some of the National shows. Among the speakers were Dr. S. C. Mitchell, president of Delaware College, Professor A. E. Grantham, Agronomist of Delaware Experiment Station, Mr. Hugh Fergus, Extension Worker in Dairy Work, Professor Agee, Head of the Extension Department of New Jersey State College, Dr. H. A. Houston, former Director of the Indiana Experiment Station, and Professor Schmitz, Agronomist of the Maryland Experiment Station.

President Makes Appointment

President Wilson last Friday appointed Levi K. Bowen postmaster of Newark. Mr. Bowen, following his selection by the Democratic patrons of the office, at a special election held last month, had already received a temporary appointment and has been in charge of the office for several weeks.

Holiday Lights For Market Street

Wilmington's Broadway, Market street, will blaze with electric lights during the holiday season and the extra cost will be borne by merchants and the service company. Besides the lights now in use along the street lines of electric bulbs mixed with high powered colored lights will be strung from side to side from Front to Eleventh street. On the ornamental standards supporting the regular lamps shields will be suspended bearing the greeting, "Merry Xmas."

MUNICIPAL CHRISTMAS

Originators Systematize The Movement

"No new popular custom ever swept over this country quite so quickly as the idea of Community Christmas celebrations," says a writer in a recent number of "The Survey." The idea originated in New York when a mighty evergreen was set up in Madison square for the holiday season of 1912. From that example Municipal Christmas has become the order of the day in several hundred American cities, including almost all the greater population centers from farthest East to farthest West, and in many, many towns throughout the country. In order to help spread this bit of idealism broadcast the group of men and women who originated the idea have continued as a committee, to offer counsel and suggestions to any similar group who wish to inaugurate the custom elsewhere. Anyone who wants to see a real Community Christmas in his home town has been invited to address a letter, "Tree of Light, Station G, New York City," and a budget of suggestions is promptly forwarded.

This same idea which has proved so popular everywhere, is the one for which the committee of young women, mentioned in another column, are working this year. Their greatest difficulty, however, is in getting the people of the community to realize the significance of the plan. It is not a Methodist, a Presbyterian, or an Episcopalian party; it is not a New Century Club, a Firemen's, a Lodge's or any other association's party. It belongs to all, and all, if it is to serve its purpose, must work for its success. Let all of the town's organizations, and all of the town's people, help to create a real Christmas atmosphere, by co-operating by means of encouraging words and generous contributions—in making the plan a success. Christmas Cheer! It grows in the giving. May your share be increased a hundredfold.

Committee Makes Announcement

The workers in charge of the Christmas treat to be given in the Newark Opera House on Friday afternoon, December 24th, wish to announce that the committee is in no way representative of any church or club in the town. It is a non-denominational and democratic movement to bring a bit of Christmas cheer to every child in the community. Every townsman with the Christmas spirit in his heart, is invited to share in the plan by giving. Contributions will be gladly received by the committee.

Elizabeth H. Grime, Chairman,
M. Elsie Wright,
Alice G. Kerr,
Eleanor Harter,
Marie Ritz,
Elizabeth Wright,
Edith Spencer.

The committee asks that the names of poor families in the community be forwarded to them by townspeople. It is their aim to see that all such receive a basket of substantial Christmas cheer.

Smallpox At The Workhouse

George Wilson of Dover brought to the Workhouse last Monday to serve ten days for trespassing on the railroad at Middletown, was suspected by Warden Crawford as having smallpox and Dr. W. H. Kraemer, the prison physician, found him so affected. All of the 500 inmates, the officials and the guards were at once vaccinated and Wilson was isolated. It was learned that he had spent some time in Wilmington before he was arrested and the Board of Health is seeking to learn where he stopped and from whom he caught the disease.

State Grange In Session At Dover

Grand Master Comments On Pertinent Topics

F. C. Bancroft, Master of the State Grange, in session in Dover, in his annual report of Grange activities throughout Delaware, given on Thursday, commented freely upon matters of current interest.

Education is one of the most prominent features of Grange work, and the force of this organization has been strongly felt during the past few years in Delaware. The expression relative to the Summer School is a happy verification of the recent action of the Board of Trustees in throwing the responsibility as expressly provided for in the law, with the president of Delaware College and the State Board of Education—thus preventing the injection of any local prejudice. The statement represents an opinion which has not heretofore been expressed publicly. Coming from the head of a State-wide organization, which is in closer touch, perhaps, with the situation, than any other class of our citizens, it will attract more than ordinary notice.

Excerpts from the report are given.

"The greatest source of wealth is agriculture, yet the producer is not securing the just share of the result of his labors. The recent opportunity we have had as your representatives to see more of our great possibilities, as well as to meet and talk with those from all parts of the country has convinced us more than ever of the necessity of giving more attention to the proper distribution and marketing of farm products to the end that producer and consumer may be brought in closer touch with each other.

Delaware College

"As an order we have reason to look with pride at work done along educational lines, but let us not weary in the good work until Delaware stands among the first States in the education of its future citizens. Delaware College for Women has exceeded our most sanguine expectations and already more dormitories have become necessary. Considering our population, the men's college will compare favorably with any of the agricultural colleges of the larger States, both as to attendance and quality of work done. Instead of the class in agriculture being made up of a mere handful, as was the case a few years back, it now numbers more than all other departments combined.

Agricultural Club Plans Celebration

The Agricultural Club of Delaware College will hold, on the evening of December 21 a social gathering which will be characterized by much that is novel in the way of entertaining. Although it is the members of the Agricultural club who will act as hosts at this affair, it is especially the editorial board of the Delaware Farmer which will furnish most of the entertaining.

The Delaware Farmer has had a successful existence. The December number is one of the most interesting which has been published. It contains two especially valuable articles on fertilizers, questions, one by Professor Firman Thompson, chemist of the Delaware Experiment Station, and the other by Dr. Penny, professor of Chemistry in Delaware College. In addition to these, there are instructive articles on handling weeds, on systems of laying out orchards, on rejuvenating old orchards, and on the varieties of apples and peaches for Delaware.

The County Agents have contributed to the number, giving reports of corn, soy beans, and cow pea variety tests, and of the club work being carried on among the school children. The home economics department contains some timely suggestions for Christmas and for the decoration of the dining room.

several special circles but this hen, under the care of this man Pollard, has placed the inquiry "Where is Delaware College" on every lip. Senators at Washington, actresses on Broadway, sensations on the Bowery, at the hot unch, in banquet hall, yes, even in German trenches, the story of Lady Eglantine is the topic of dis-

Palace Show. Nothing has ever equalled it since Bryan blew into the Bowery with his 16 to 1 performance.

We are not going to attempt a description. Just a few facts in which Delaware College was a background setting. Four mounted police, aside from a squad, was (continued on page 8)

HOW TO SAVE MONEY ON CORN FODDER

One great objection to the use of corn fodder has been the waste on account of the hard outer shell of the stalk, which prevented the cattle from getting to the succulent inside.

This has been overcome by the "PEERLESS FODDER SHREDDER" which does not grind the stalk, leaves and top into powder or chop into hard, sharp edged chunks, but crushes the entire stalk with heavy, blunt teeth, making every part valuable as food, easy to get at and leaving the waste in such a condition that it may be handled with a fork and used as litter.

We have a stock of these "SHEDDERS" on hand at No. 360 Maine Street.

CHRISTMAS MEANS COMMUNITY

Contrary to the spirit of the season, there seems to be considerable discussion over the community Christmas Tree. This is, we are convinced, due entirely to a misunderstanding. As mentioned in another column, it is not officially the event of any one institution or organization. Presbyterian, Methodist, Catholic, Episcopalian—it represents no single one. Lodge, Firemen, New Century Club, Card Club? No, none of these. It is all these and more—it is the Community. To be fostered by anyone of these tends toward appearance of charity. And with Christmas, Charity has nothing to do.

For Christmas and the Community what happier idea can you conceive. So far as we know no institution or organization has made any contribution toward making the event possible. Personally, we hope none will. Sentiment, which may be excused at this season, prompts that contributions be made individually. Old Kris is adverse to publicity and credit for good deeds. He belongs to neither club nor party. We wager, if we could get him to express himself he would say:

"I represent the Community. So will our tree."

Our Advertisers

We wish to call attention to our advertisers. Locally, Newark is better equipped to furnish the needs of this community than ever before. During the past year, Main street has assumed a real mercantile air. The window displays, creating so much favorable comment, tell only a small part of the story. Personal inspection prompts us to commend our advertisers to our readers.

Several years ago we started a slogan "If you can't get it in Newark, buy in Wilmington." This idea is gradually getting hold of the people. The package deliveries from Philadelphia are doomed to go. With shocking exceptions you can get what you want in Wilmington. The qualities are equal to the Chestnut street fads and at prices much more reasonable. Our Wilmington Advertisers are leaders and we can commend them to your attention. Our advertising material is edited the same as any other department. We have just recently refused space in our publication that would necessitate a supplement to our regular run every week.

Don't Be So Serious

For the benefit of the elect, curious, ignorant, cranks, et al, let us explain the presence of the two flags flying at the top of the new printing plant.

For the college professors who did not know whether it was the flag of a nation or our personal colors, let us say it is the national colors of Italy—not of France as wagged on.

The significance of the Flags is simply this—an Italian working on the building asked permission to fly his old flag, asking, let me assure you, for the Stars and Stripes at the same time. And we said "Yes." Why shouldn't we? It has no political significance nor does it express any opinion on international complications. No flag of any nation will be refused. The storm on Monday prevented the flying of the Irish colors, in honor of another honest workman, loyal to America but still, thank God, a lover of the "ould sod." French Swiss, Holland, or German flags, so long as they represent the best in those nations, are welcome.

The flags floating are no "violent violation" of neutrality as locally expressed,—no, not nearly so violent as the President's Message to Congress.

They, in no sense, express our opinion on the war. If such was our intention, we would haul down every flag in the war,—the Allies' with just the same force as the German. To our mind those armies, drenching Europe with blood, ill represents the ideals of their flag. But enough. Suffice to say to our friends and off-keyed citizens, in response to repeated warnings, that we are no more afraid that some European crack will blow the building up, than some local crank. Don't take the world so serious.

STATE GRANGE IN SESSION

Summer School

Removed from the stigma of self interest, our summer schools are becoming more popular and are attracting those from other States, and under the new school law, passed by the last general assembly, we hope to see high schools within the reach of every boy and girl in the State; in fact, several districts have already voted decidedly on this course by an almost unanimous vote.

"Delaware College has been wonderfully favored the past season in gifts of buildings, land and cash, amounting to nearly three-quarters of a million of dollars. This will be a wonderful help just at the present time. Though the donor or donors requested their names withheld, they should know that the gift is duly appreciated by all good citizens."

OBSERVATIONS

"Good morning," said a stranger to us some mornings ago as we walked up to the new plant. Comments on the weather led to a discussion of the building. Assuming a somewhat superior air, our stranger asked, "Will you tell me what this is?" Scenting something interesting, we casually replied, "A printing plant, I believe." With that he proceeded, "Oh, that man Johnson, do you know him?" "Slightly, at times," we said. That set the pace. "I don't know him, but have read some of his tirades and I know several people in Newark who do know him. They tell me that he doesn't know half the time whether he is going or coming. Mr. — (you know him, no doubt); we nodded; "Well, he says that the man is a perfect nuisance. Now this thing here, the idea of this for a printing plant. The location, and this freak building, why it shows the man is off. I understand he uses sweat shop methods, simply drives his men. I shall watch this escapade started here." And so shall we.

An Italian, working as stone-mason, is an artist. Yes, you laugh. But he lays stone, whistles Italian operas, talks of architecture as "frozen music," loves an arch, is inspired by a square. Just a stone mason! In the old country a stone mason means something. Talking of buildings in Firenze, Venezia, Napoli, he casually inquired if we went to opera. Our friend has a season ticket at Philadelphia—and we call ourselves cultured! This man, why he's only a stone mason. Yet he knows his San Pietro, Doges, Pisa, has seen Cologne, Notre Dame, and easily stumps us in History, Paintings, Architecture and Music—why he lays stone to music. In that old stone tower, a man who loves his work, has, we hope, left some of the music of his soul.

A stone mason can be an artist.

Miss Mary E. Rich, professor of Education at the Women's College, addressed the community December 3. Her talk on "The Value of the Parent-Teachers' Association" met with an enthusiastic response.

PRIZES AWARDED AT
WOMEN'S COLLEGEW. C. T. U. Originates Contest

The Assembly Room at the Women's College was filled with an appreciative audience last Saturday evening, the occasion of the first annual contest for prizes offered by the W. C. T. U. of the State of Delaware, for the best essays on a subject relating to temperance. Miss Amelia P. Leichter, graduate of the Wilmington High School, and a Freshman at the Women's College, received the first prize of $15.00. Miss Leichter's subject was "The Substitute for the Saloon." The second prize of $10.00 was won by Miss Thera Twitchell of Trenton, N. J., also a student of the Freshman class, on the subject, "The Value of Co-operation." Essays were read by Susan Kern, of Milford, Anna Scott of Milford, and Helen Barkley of Elsmere.

The contest was given under the auspices of the English department of the Women's College. The judges were John J. Hayes of Wilmington, Dr. E. V. Vaughn, head of the history department of Delaware College and Edward Cooch of Newark. Dr. Rowan, pastor of the Newark Presbyterian Church and formerly head of the psychology department of the college presided over the meeting. The judges gave their decision after a conference of fifteen minutes.

Teaching Better Farming
With The Movies

Enter the "movies" into the agricultural progress of the country. The last word in better farming work is that the "flickers" are to be utilized to teach farmers the value and results of crop rotation, use of fertilizers, methods of caring for crops and harvesting. A movement is on foot to bring out 50 films for the use throughout the Central States.

Christmas Spirit Abroad

HAPPY HOURS SPENT IN GIFT

"Have you seen the sunbonnet work bags?" Molly's face fairly beamed with enthusiasm, as she declared, "They are quite the most attractive little gifts I have seen this year."

Once again she rummaged through her scrap box, adding, "I intend to make at least three of them. I know you'll want one," she addressed to her friend, and soon the girls were at work on Molly's latest inspiration.

First they took white card, about the weight of a government postal card, and cut four pieces in exact size, three and one-fourth inches long, and two and five-eighths inches wide. On one side of the cards the sharp corner was rounded off, in the shape of an old fashioned boarded sun-bonnet. Pieces of dresden ribbon—a white ground with a pink flower—were cut about a half inch larger than the cards, all around. These were used to cover each of the cards, stretching the silk tight and firm by means of long stitches from opposite ends on the under side of the cards. On one covered card several pieces of flannel were feather-stitched, to make a needle-book. This with a second piece of covered card was whipped together with tiny stitches. The two other pieces were likewise whipped together. On the second pair, however, the girls whipped in with the boards two strips of pink baby ribbon, running across the narrow width of the cards. Into these straps they stuck small pairs of scissors which Molly had purchased from the ten cent store.

The boards by now had become the visors for a sunbonnet. By making them double, and whipping together, both sides were neatly finished. In the joining they had also inserted and whipped between the boards, bits of ribbon like that used for the scissor straps, just at the curve of the boards, for strings. The four boards had now become two, and these were in turn whipped together along the narrower side of the straight edges.

For the back of the bonnet the girls each took a piece of taffeta, a soft silvery gray. They cut the strip seven and one-half inches by seven and one-quarter. The lower corners on the narrower dimension were rounded. A casing with an inch heading was run along the narrower straight edge, in the very center of which Molly directed her friend to work and eyelet. Starting from either end, the same kind of ribbon as used previously was run to the eyelet. The ends (at the starting point) were tacked firm, with the hem, which was run around the other three sides of the silk.

After the piece was hemmed, it was gathered on the rounded portion (leaving straight a margin of about two and one-half inches on either side.) The string was drawn, to make the back fit the long straight side of the already completed boards, and the back whipped neatly on. The ribbon in the casing on the bottom was drawn, and tied in a bow in the center of the back.

As fittings for the little bag formed by the hood of the bonnet, Molly produced a box of tiny spool of silk. "Where did you find them?" the friend exclaimed.

"I had a search," Molly laughed "but I finally traced them at the notion counter of Woolworth's five and ten cent store. They are called 'Midgits' and contain four yards of Heminway's sewing silk,—all for five cents per dozen." The girls chose the spools that harmonized most prettily with the colors of the bag, and put two in each. Next, Molly produced white celluloid thimbles, and after dropping one in each, pronounced the bags finished.

"Here's a little gray bonnet With a pink ribbon on it" she wrote on the card she stuck between the boards of the gift.

WORKING TO PREVENT FUTURE WAREx-president Taft Sends Letter To Wilmington Chamber Of Commerce

A letter has been received by Colonel J. J. Satterthwaite, president of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, from ex-President Taft, asking the people of Wilmington—and Delaware—to co-operate in an effort to create sentiment among business men in favor of a rational plan for world peace, to be worked out through international agreement after peace has been declared in Europe.

Arguing that the recurrence of such a conflict as now rages in Europe ought if possible, to be prevented, Mr. Taft in his letter urges the members of the organization to co-operate in an effort to mould public opinion both in this country and abroad, in favor of a league of the great powers, who shall agree not to go to war in any case until the question has been passed upon judicially, the nations agreeing also to use their joint military and economic forces against any nation refusing to keep the pact.

Mr. Taft refers particularly to the referendum of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America on the report of that body's special committee on "Economic Results on the War and American Business." This referendum will come up shortly for consideration on the part of the business men who are members of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Taft's request is made at this time, it was explained yesterday, in view of the fact that the referendum in question outlines a plan for world peace, almost identical with that contained in the proposals of the League to Enforce Peace, which was organized by Mr. Taft, President A. Lawrence Lowell, of Harvard University, and other men of nationwide prominence at Philadelphia in Independence Hall last June. Mr. Taft is president of the league.

Motor Vehicle Delivery Service

"Motor vehicle service was authorized under the joint resolution extending postal appropriations of 1915 for the fiscal year 1916," says Postmaster General the pay of rural carriers who furnish and maintain their own motor vehicles and who serve routes not less than 50 miles in length may be fixed at not exceeding $1800 a year. Under this provision 671 automobile routes have now been authorized at the date of this report, of which 438 are in successful operation. The remainder of the authorized motor vehicles routes will go into operation at varying dates in the near future.

"The automobile is being introduced only after recommendation by postmasters or inspectors in localities where road and weather conditions will admit of using motor vehicles at least nine months of the year.

"The success of the revision of rural routes thus far made, and of the automobile service in the majority of localities where it has been introduced, has been fully demonstrated. Wherever the automobile service has been established and given a fair working trial it is furnishing equal or better facilities than before."

A Bit Of Local History

In a paper recently read by A. B. Carey, alumnus of Delaware College, before the Delaware Historical Society of Wilmington, the writer gives us the following bit of local history. Speaking of the treatment accorded the Tories, the writer says, "Many were compelled to recant. We will give one case as being typical of a number we have collected. The Reverend Norman Edwards of White Clay Creek Church, near Newark, Delaware, signed the following recantation:

"Whereas, I have sometime since, made use of rash and imprudent expressions with respect to the conduct of my fellow-countrymen, who are now engaged in a noble and patriotic struggle for the liberties of America against the arbitrary measures of the British ministry, which conduct has justly raised their resentment against me, I now confess that I have spoken wrongly, for which I am sorry and ask forgiveness of the public, and I do promise that for the future I will conduct myself in such a manner as to avoid giving offense, and at the same time, in justice to myself, declare that I am a friend to the present measures pursued by the friends of American liberty and do heartily approve of them, and, so far as in my power, will endeavor to promote them."

Thrown Out Of Team

While trying to control his horse which had become frightened on Main street, Middletown, on Saturday, Charles T. Deakne, a well-known farmer of the Odessa section, lost his balance and was thrown out of his wagon upon the hard roadbed. He was dazed when picked up and was taken into the Adams Express office, nearby. Dr. Beal found several gashes on Mr. Deakne's scalp, which were closed with stitches, and he was taken to his home where he is recovering.

Two Corn Thieves Caught

State Detective Frank McCoy on Friday arrested Jesse Ponzo, and his nephew, Wilmer Redding, both colored, charged with stealing corn from a field on William B. Biggs' farm at Armstrong's Corner near Middletown. The theft occurred about two weeks previously and the two negroes were seen driving a wagon full out of the field by C. S. Ellison, Jr., about 10 o'clock at night as he was bound homeward. Redding was arrested first and admitted his guilt but said Ponzo had forced him to help carry off the corn. Ponzo when caught offered to pay for the corn. Both were held for Court and sent to the Workhouse, in default of bail.

Met Death On Ducking Trip

While Howard O. Armstrong, aged 60 and his son, Howard P., aged 34, of 114 West Twenty-fourth street, Wilmington, were on their way, in the latter's motor launch Signet, to ducking flats along the Delaware, on Saturday night, an explosion occurred on the craft about eight miles north of Woodland Beach causing the drowning of the son and the serious burning of the father. The son went into the launch cabin to fill a gasoline stove and his father who was steering told him to put all lights out, which was done, but the stove was probably overheated and an explosion followed. The father rushed from the wheel to the cabin and heard a faint call from the river. He rushed back to the wheel and called his son, but heard no reply. He then fought and controlled the flames and beached the launch in a swamp near the mouth of Smyrna River. He walked two miles through the marsh to a farmhouse where he was given help and was driven nine miles to Smyrna where his burns were dressed. He boarded a train at Clayton at 6 a. m. on Sunday and reached home where he was reported resting easily. Young Armstrong was superintendent of the Harris Marine Engine Company in Wilmington. It is supposed that he was blown overboard or jumped into the river when crazed with pain from his burns.

Willard S. Dickerson, Jr., of Ellendale, husked 100 bushels of corn, tied up the fodder and rounded up the corn in piles in eight hours. His friends proclaim him the champion husker.

High School Notes

Last Friday afternoon the students of Newark High School were given an unexpected but delightful treat, when Mr. Farnham gave a lecture on the habits and customs of the people of the Orient. He exhibited one-hundred or more curios picked up in his travels, some of which were over four and five thousand years old.

Newark H. S. Defeats Elkton H. S.

Newark High School opened its basketball season at Elkton last Friday night. The game was characterized by roughness all the way thru. The Newark boys were a little slow in getting started owing to the fact that they have had no practice on a floor. For a short time in the second half Dunbar of Elkton showed a sudden burst of speed and dropped in five field goals in about five minutes. This was the only time there was any doubt as to the results of the game. R. Dunbar and Shafer starred for Elkton while Fader and Lewis did the best floor work for Newark. Final score: Newark, 25; Elkton, 15.

Individuality In Industry

On Monday evening, December 13, Robert B. Wolf, class of 1896, spoke in the Oratory on "Individuality in Industry."

The speaker endeavored to point out a practical method of applying to industrial life the fundamental principle that individuality is a necessary complement of all creative activity.

He began by first showing some of the defects of the present industrial organizations (especially the larger corporations), pointing out briefly the forces which combine to produce these conditions. There were some few constructive suggestions in the first part of his address, inserted, however, merely to emphasize the weakness of the present system.

The second part of the address was entirely constructive in nature and was an attempt to define what is meant by individuality. In order to do this, the author uses as his illustration the highest known development of individuality on this planet, namely, the human body, and made an analysis of the various elements which enter into relationship with each other to produce the unity from which the personality emerges.

Quite naturally a description of the human nervous system must be given in order to show the controlling mechanism through which the individual directs his activities. This was done.

1st. By showing analytically that every movement of the physical body is controlled through the nervous system.

2d. Continuing the analysis by describing the three great divisions of the nervous system, and

3d. By a synthetic argument which indicates the wonderful grouping of the nerves into one great system in which each part performs its own peculiar function (illustrating the highest type of specialization) but with constant relationship to the good of the whole.

After pointing out that human progress has been made possible only through the development of the nervous system, with its consequent unifying and memorizing powers, the author indicated the necessity of establishing a similar system in industrial organizations. He pointed out that the reason for this conclusion is obvious, when it is recognized that any organization must make progress as a unit and unless this unity can be established and perfected progress in the development of the particular art it represents will be extremely slow.

In other words, the organization as a whole must develop into a conscious individuality, capable of specializing the generic laws which it is using in order to turn out the finished product.

It is not enough for each individual in the plant to act in this conscious manner, for unless these individual activities are all guided in one resultant direction, which is toward the perfection of the plant output, there can be no great improvement in the methods used and there is little hope of increasing the efficiency of operation.

Finally the speaker pointed out how the only real method of developing plant unity is in paying the greatest amount of attention to the development of the personality of the individuals making up the organization; stimulating them to creative efforts, by allowing freedom of choice and action and an opportunity to express, in the direction best suited to their natural fitness, what they most enjoy doing.

This naturally implies an educational system built upon the broadest lines and calling for a high grade of intelligent leadership throughout. This being provided, there will be no trouble in securing respectful attention from those receiving instruction.

It is the unification of all these forces, however, to give individuality to the organization, that was the main theme of the address; and he pointed out a practical method by which the principles outlined can be applied,—a method, in fact, which is already in operation in the largest industrial concerns of its kind in the country.

Railroad Official Addresses Students

Mr. Elisha Lee, general superintendent of the P. B. & W. railroad company, lectured in the College Oratory on December 4 on "Some General Observations of a Railroad Operating Official."

In beginning his lecture Mr. Lee said: "There is no business in the world in which a man is judged more on the results he achieves than in the railroad business."

When you report to your boss on the job, he does not ask you 'Why you did' or 'Why you didn't,' but 'Did you or did you not?'

Mr. Lee gave many reminiscences of his early railroad career. He told also of the demagogues who try to gain favor with the people by denouncing railroad officials as possessed of the spirit of the devil. He continued: "As far as the railroads are concerned, these demagogues evidently get their ideas mainly from reading snatches of reports of investigating committees, commissions, and courts. Why you might as well expect to get a proper understanding of the health of a city by the study of the sick brought into a hospital as to try to get a correct knowledge of the workings of the railroads by a cursory study of the reports of investigating committees."

Mr. Lee stated further that the railroads had been suffering from much unwise legislation before the beginning of the European war and that, as soon as the war ended, these troubles would return. The labor troubles was another serious problem to both the railroads and the public. Of this he said: "Adjustment of working conditions has been considered a matter of private concern affecting both employer and employee. Yet the railway provides a service which is a necessity of the entire people, and the interruption of this service would prove to be a national calamity."

In concluding his address, Mr. Lee said: "The labor question is a question, however, that is not only taxing the brains of the officials, but is also uppermost in the minds of many of the rank and file, and we are all endeavoring seriously to find an adjustment fair and equitable to all parties concerned."

Work Of Delaware Artist Comes To Wilmington

The additional collection of Howard Pyle pictures will be purchased by the Wilmington Society of the Fine Arts from Charles Scribner's Sons, for $3,000 and will be added to the existing collection as soon as the money is at hand for payment. The society has $500 left over from the sum subscribed for the original collection, and subscriptions have come in from members of the society making the sum on hand amount to $2,050, and as other members of the society have promised subscriptions it is expected that the money will soon be collected.

This collection, comprised about 30 pens and inks, and between 30 and 40 black and white drawings in oils, the subjects being illustrations for "Robin Hood," "Hugh Wynne," "The Garden Behind the Moon," and other stories, will make the Howard Pyle collection entirely comprehensive, and representative of every period of the artist's work. Charles Scribner's Sons had intended putting the pictures up for public sale, but fortunately gave the Fine Arts Society the option on them, with the very splendid result that they are now to be possessed by the city where Howard Pyle lived and worked.

Suit For Control Of Millions

Philip F. duPont of Merion, Pa., on Thursday in the United States District Court in Wilmington, filed suit against Pierre S. duPont and the directors of E. I. duPont de Nemours & Company. The action involves the dissolution of the du Pont Securities Company, chartered for holding the stock of the old powder concern purchased from T. Coleman du Pont, and the restraining of payment of dividends on the stock until the matter is decided in Court. Judge Bradford made the subpoena issued in the case returnable December 28. The stockholders are chiefly concerned over the payment of the 30 per cent dividend on du Pont Common stock expected today (Dec. 15). Up to Friday no order had been issued that would hold up the dividend. The common stock since the purchase of T. C. duPont's holdings has increased from $15,000, 000 to upwards of $65,000,000 in value. P. F. duPont, the plaintiff, seeks to have the duPont Securities Company return T. C. du Pont's holdings to the Powder Company at the price at which they were purchased plus any expense incurred by the transaction, but not at the present market value of the stock. A total of $15, 192,450 was paid for T. C. du Pont's holdings. A statement was issued in New York on Thursday to the effect that P. F. du Pont's suit in no way involves the business of the company or its management. It was declared to be merely an attempt on the part of a stockholder to assert some claim in a stock transaction between stockholders, although the company itself declined to purchase the stock at the time it was offered for sale.

First Trip Out Of Sussex

Charles E. Dodd, aged 60 years, a farmer living near Harbeson, recently took his first trip out of Sussex county when he went with friends in an automobile to visit a married daughter in Wilmington. The fine farms in Kent and New Castle counties along the route surprised him greatly and the sights seen in Wilmington excited his wonder.

required to keep away the crowds on the trip from The Walton to Broad street station. A Pullman car was reserved for The Lady, her guests and photographers. Movie men were in action at every change. Hailed at the $100,000 she arrived in New York. Met by the manager of Hotel Imperial and party. Escorted to hotel with brass bands. Click, click, click, photographers busy at every turn, reporters from every New York Daily, forgot for the hour that the Philadelphia North American was the promoter of this Utility Idea of Poultry. "Get a story—anything, everything" were the orders. "All the space you want."

Surrounded by Artists, Theatre Folk, Stock Brokers, Men Around Town, Lady Eglantine was placed at the desk and actually registered. (Pen attached to foot). A flash light—and surrounded by palms and flowers she was placed in the lobby of the hotel, guarded by two 6-footer cops.

The next morning at the show, "Lady Eglantine the World Champion" who made her record here at Delaware College, under the care of Pollard. Mr. Pollard, who represented Delaware College, was naturally a hero, too. Inquiries, how, when and where, put us all on the map.

Then the Banquet given by the Hotel—one hundred and fifty guests sat down to do honor to this Champion Bird—and reports have it that it was some banquet, such as Ford would probably give the Kaiser on signing a Peace treaty. Closer to it in comparison perhaps, a lunch given by the Munition Manufacturers to the Allies.

The attendance at the show was a record breaker in spite of the fact it is the Fanciers' Party.

The serious part of this story is this—Mr. Pollard, who represented the College, was invited to make an address. Never before has a Utility Poultry man been invited to speak at this Fanciers' Show during all of its twenty-seven annual conventions. The Utility Bird and Show Bird have always been at odds and only in recent years has the producer gained recognition. Pollard is an authority—yes, actually now, a recognized National Authority on Poultry Raising from the Utility Standpoint. At the New York Show Mr. Pollard had the proof of his theory.

This, and being the official representative of the College, where the contest was staged, brought attention to the institution as no other event could possibly do.

Not amiss here, perhaps, to mention the North American, through and by whom the contest was staged here. Their force of publicity, as only a metropolitan daily can give, has been a wonderful advantage in furthering the industry of practical poultry keeping. They with local and State officials are to be congratulated by us at home. At least when they have been the means of placing us so conspicuously in the public eye.

Late despatch—

This morning's paper announced the fact that a diamond-studded gold ankle circlet has been presented to Lady Eglantine by the Poultry Association of Philadelphia. No chicken's ankle before the footlights will dazzle the Lady She will probably back the fad of a few years ago when the jewelry was transferred to the hosiery department. Already she has appeared on the local dance programs as The Lady Eglantine Set.
