GOOD ROADS NEEDED FOR DEFENSE

Preparedness Program Blow Against Diversion

National preparedness cannot properly be efficiently coordinated without our highways being in the best possible condition. H. V. Daniel, secretary, Associated Petroleum Industries of Delaware, stated today.

As our national preparedness program swings into action, the eyes of industry and our advisors turn to our highway system, the most essential link of our great and vital transportation channels. The military value of a far-flung and adequately maintained system of highways, connecting industrial centers, airports, army posts, harbors and supply depots cannot be overestimated," Mr. Daniel declared.

There in Delaware, where much in the way of war materials will be produced or fabricated, it is most essential that our highways be properly maintained and that planned and approved expansion be carried on. Diversion of motor funds to purposes other than highway improvement, under current conditions, must be immediately curbed. Delaware's continued record of one diversion after another must be cleared for the future. A highway system that is now of greater national importance than ever before. Diversion of highway funds or their consolidation with other state revenues work to the distinct disadvantages of the continued maintenance and the orderly expansion of Delaware highways. Highway transportation, with its wide ramifications, has rendered a great service to Delaware business and industry and its usefulness must not be impaired if this state is to play an important part in the national preparedness program.

$100,000 INCREASE IN ASSESSMENTS

June 17 Set As Court Of Appeals Day

Substantial evidence of Newark's growth during the past twelve months was revealed by assessor Robert Motherrall's report of assessments for 1940 made to the Town Council this week. The 1940 Assessments showed an increase of approximately $100,000 over 1939 with about eighty percent of the increase attributed to residential property and twenty percent to business property. This is the greatest annual increase here in recent years.

The 1940 assessments of real estate, for taxing purposes, is now on display at Rhodes Drug Store. A court of appeals will be held at the Town Council office on Monday, June 17, between the hours of one and six o'clock in the afternoon.

All persons having objections to their assessments are invited to appear before the Court of Appeals and make their objections known.

NEW YORK CHILDREN TO VISIT NEWARK

Local Group Working In Cooperation With Tribune

A committee, headed by Mrs. Robert T. Jones, is cooperating with the New York Herald Tribune in carrying out the sixty-fourth annual "Fresh Air Fund" program sponsored for the benefit of New York's poor children. Local residents will take these children into their homes as guests for two weeks. If you take a child into your home, you may be giving him his first glimpse of what America is really like. Most of them are children of foreign-born parents and therefore it is likely to be his first contact with real American folks, American life, and American ideals. It will be your chance to show him that all people who live pleasantly and prosperously outside the slums are not his class enemies and are not eager to do him and his people injustice.

All children who are sent out by the Fund are given three medical examinations before leaving. In the 64 years of Fund activity there has never been a case of a "Fresh Aired" bringing contagious disease into a host's home. What the fund asks of the hosts is that he give a child between ages of 6 and 12 a home for two weeks. Take him or her into the home and make him feel a part of it. The fund does not ask for contributions. All expenses for the "Fresh Aired" trip to and from Newark are provided for. You give one of life's unfortunates a comfortable bed and three good meals a day. That's all.

The Newark committee consists of Mrs. T. F. Manns, Mrs. M. W. Hanson, Mrs. Bryon Rawson, Mrs. Edwin Ley, Miss Phoebe Steel, Mrs. Edward A. Curtis, Mrs. Jay Robinson and Mrs. R. W. Heim. If you want a "Fresh Aired" for two weeks, call any one on the committee for further details.

Ordnance Group Studies Defense

In order to enlist the cooperation of industrial leaders of the country to assist in national defense plans, the Gilmore-Plymouth motorlog took ordnance experts on an inspection tour of the U. S. Harbor Defenses as shown in pictorial layout above. Left, Lieut. L. H. Ripley examines the new type Garrand semi-automatic rifle. Above, right, Lieut. Col. C. A. Codd, executive secretary of the Army Ordnance Association confers with Col. Edward A. Stockton, commander of Los Angeles Harbor Defense and Earl B. Gilmore, gasoline official and president of Los Angeles Chapter of the ordnance group. Below, this 1940 Plymouth, by contrast, suggests the actual size of one of the giant 14-inch railway guns at Fort MacArthur.

AMERICAN industry's full cooperation in current problems of national defense was revealed in a recent inspection tour by Plymouth caravan, to witness a demonstration of powerful U. S. coast defense armament at Fort MacArthur for experts of the Army Ordnance Association.

With public interest in this country shifting toward the Pacific Coast, a special Gilmore-Plymouth party of ordnance officials visited coast defense units now set up for the protection of Los Angeles Harbor. Earl B. Gilmore, noted gasoline executive, is president of the Los Angeles Chapter of the Ordnance Association.

Ordinarily the public is not permitted to view all sections of the fort, but usual restrictions were lifted for the Gilmore-Plymouth group in order that the ordnance men might see the army veterans in action with modern equipment.

Newspictures were limited, however, by strict army censorship to the approved illustrations herewith, which show artillery units quickly spotting "enemy" aircraft and displaying one of the fort's mammoth 14-inch railway guns. The mere concussion of a single discharge of these giant weapons has been known to lift a nearby enlisted man's hat five feet straight up into the air.

The Western unit of the civilian ordnance group has a regular Army officer on its staff, and for months he has been inspecting Southern California industrial plants and carrying on a program of education, so that all the industrial resources of this section could swing into action in any emergency.

THE STOREKEEPERS

Those of us who are past middle age can remember when the kindly neighbor whose job it was to sell us the necessities of life was known as the storekeeper. The name was quite appropriate. He bought a stock of goods, hung out a sign, sometimes, and waited for his neighbors and friends to drop in and buy.

Later on, his son inherited the business, if it had not gone to the wall, adopted a slightly more aggressive attitude toward the securing of trade, and called himself a merchant. Here and there a venturesome soul began to really study business methods and actually plan for greater volume and a wider trade radius. Some became real business men and reaped rich rewards.

Later still, the department store and mail order house came into existence, followed by the chain stores.

In spite of these revolutionary developments, however, thousands of independent merchants are making money today. They are doing it through adopting scientific methods of buying and selling, through the employment of systematic accounting, through a study of their customers' requirements, and through advertising.

But a great many spurn such new-fangled ideas, and stay in the rut in which their forefathers ran their course. They are headed for bankruptcy and don't know why. But to anyone with a fundamental knowledge of modern business practices the reason is plain. These failures are not business men, nor even merchants—they are only storekeepers.

THE TROJAN HORSE

War dispatches lately have contained numerous references to "the Trojan horse," in connection with the planting of spies and disguised troops in countries marked for invasion by Germany. Groups of Nazis or Nazi sympathizers have thus been organized in virtually all parts of the world.

The original Trojan horse was a huge wooden one, hollow inside, and capable of holding several soldiers. Its story is told of the ancient and perhaps legendary war between the Greeks and the people of Troy, about 1200 years before Christ.

After the Greeks had besieged Troy for about ten years in an effort to obtain the release of Helen, wife of Menelaus, who had been abducted by Paris, son of the Trojan king, the city was finally overcome by means of a clever stratagem.

Pretending to abandon the siege, the Greeks left the wooden horse outside the walls and withdrew. The Trojans brought the horse inside as a trophy of war. That night, when the city was asleep, the Greeks came out of the horse and opened the gates, allowing the Greek army to enter. Before the Trojans could organize resistance, the city was looted and burned.

Whether mythical or real, the Trojan horse has been for centuries the symbol of deception and treachery, and its story is told in classic epics, notably the Iliad of Homer. It contains a warning for nations of today, as many of them are now beginning to realize.

TELLING THE PUBLIC

In recent years the great business enterprises of the nation have more and more adopted the policy of telling the public interesting facts concerning the problems which confront their respective industries, and the means adopted to solve them, not only in their own interest, but in the interest of the public as well.

This trend toward taking the public into their confidence and frankly talking things over with their patrons has been particularly noticeable in the case of the railroads, which have told their story, principally in paid newspaper advertising, with a view to friendly cooperation with the communities they serve.

An interesting case in point is that of the Illinois Central, which for 20 years has continuously carried its messages of good will to its vast territory through advertisements at least once each month in nearly 500 daily and weekly newspapers published in cities and towns which are located on its farflung lines.

In a recent statement, President J. L. Beven, of the I. C., expressed satisfaction with the friendly response to this policy, which will be continued. This, he says, indicates "our amply demonstrated belief in the good will to be gained through local newspaper advertising."

To boost attendance in his church, Rev. A. M. Butterfield of Lawrence, Mass., ran this ad in a newspaper: "Wanted: Church members to occupy some of the empty seats and assume some responsibility. Reward in heaven."

Fire Chief Fred Kirkpatrick of Poplar Bluff, Mo., attended a school for firemen in Memphis. During his absence his house burned down.

A Newark, N. J., finance director received this note from Archie Miller: "Please send me a tax bill. I'm earning good money, my children are being educated in the public schools, and it's my duty to help maintain them."

Although he is only four years old, Eugene Crain of Memphis has false teeth. They were made for him by a dentist who found it necessary to extract his teeth because of infections which had set in.

FOOD for THOUGHT

By Charlotte Spencer.

Make Every Day Child Health Day

Are your children strong? Do they have frequent colds? Are they too thin or too fat? Do they eat well balanced meals at regular hours? Do they sleep well? Are their teeth in good condition?

Summer time is perhaps the best time of the year to make an active effort to overcome any bad health habits or physical defects. Children have a chance to play in the sun. Colds are less common. Fruits and vegetables are abundant and cheap.

If your child is not in as good a physical condition as you wish, have him examined by a doctor and find out what you can do about it.

State Board of Health pre-school examinations are being held throughout the state. If you have a child who is entering school next fall find out when examinations will be held at your school. Take the child for a physical and dental examination. The physician, nurse, and dental hygienist will discuss with you what to do about any defects which they find.

If your child is suffering from poor nutrition, find out what is causing it. Perhaps you are not providing him with the right kind of foods from which to choose. Are you able to supply him with plenty of milk, vegetables, fruits, and eggs? Have you thought about a garden to help with the year round supply of fruits and vegetables? Do you use eggs now when they are cheap even if you can't use them so liberally at other seasons when they are more expensive? Do you know the economical sources of milk in your community? Do you use cheese frequently?

If your child suffers from poor nutrition because he does not choose to eat good food, perhaps your methods of persuasion are at fault. Perhaps you give him too much attention when he does not eat and bribe him to eat more. Perhaps he gets too much candy and sweets between meals and so has no appetite for meals.

Child Health Day has been valuable if it has made you conscious of the health needs of your children, and if you have found out how these needs are being met. But is not enough to consider child health on one day only. Help make every day Child Health Day.

HYDRAULIC BRAKES

AND THEN SOME!

"I made a quick sale the other day. A fellow I consider one of the best drivers in town came in to look at one of my Fords. He's on the road a lot—drives about 30,000 miles a year—and for several years he's owned cars of other makes.

"Looks pretty nice," he told me. "How does it drive?" We got in and he took the wheel. "That's a smooth engine," he said, after a couple of blocks. "And it's got the stuff. But I don't care so much about driving fast. What I want is —"

He didn't finish, because just then a little girl fell off her bicycle right in front of us. We had about twenty feet to stop in and made it with a yard to spare. No jerk. No squeal.

My friend wiped his forehead with his handkerchief. "Well," he grinned, "I was going to say what I wanted was good brakes. I don't need to say it now. These Ford hydraulics are the best brakes on any car at any price!"

I guess he's right. They're big and modern. They're easy-acting, sure and smooth, protected from damage. The parking brake holds, even if you're on a hill with a rear wheel jacked up. If you like power to stop as well as to go, let me give you a demonstration ride in a Ford V-8.

"THE COACH IS Dead, Long Live the Coach," if you'll forgive our distortion of a famous old cry in order to reflect the thought parading around in the brains of most University of Delaware alumni and Blue and Gold followers.

Human beings, especially in the sporting world, are fickle even in their vest moments and the new mentor, Bill Murray, will receive as warm a welcome as Steve Grenda did two years ago when he replaced Lyle Clark.

Unfortunately, only a minute fraction of the picture is painted in a team's won and lost column. Nothing is said about months of planning new formations, plays, measures of defense and a thousand and one details that prey on a coach's mind, not only during the football season but through twelve months of the year.

UNFORTUNATELY A COACH'S success or failure is written in a column of figures at the end of the year. There's no compromise. Makes no difference whether a game is lost by two points or twenty-two, it's defeat and defeat has been a familiar but unpopular element.

We've never been one of Steve Grenda's critics and the vigor with which he pursued his tasks would have silenced many more had they been familiar with the work done on Frazer Field throughout the week.

Perhaps he devoted a little too much energy to turning out a football team, but football today is a business, a fact that has certainly been established by the recent course of events.

That his work yielded poor results can be traced to a situation only too familiar to most of you fans who have seen a parade of coaches march through the University of Delaware, pausing only long enough to work their hearts out and then feel the brutal toe of alumni opinion.

RUMORS HAVE IT THAT THE SITUATION will be changed according to the new mentor's own dictates. If this is true, he, unlike the others, can claim success or accept defeat on his own terms.

A man who has been around the University even longer than Steve will also be pushed out in the cold with the new regime.

And when you look over the faculty list, you'll find that few professors know and can teach their subjects as well as Ed Bardo who has directed the physical education course for several years.

A graduate of Springfield College, Ed set up a standard that if met by a student, more than qualified him for a phys-ed teaching or coaching post. He was a favorite with most of the students, kept the courses completely modern, and carried on the work with a determination to always keep it on the upgrade.

While Newark's entry in the New Castle County League has moved up to within a half game of the pace-setting Worth Steel nine, a lack of interest on the part of local diamond fans, however, has placed the team behind the financial eight-ball.

According to Jack Edmanson, manager of the contingent, collections for the first three games failed to reach the $300 mark while the take at last night's Worth Steel conflict set a new high of $420.

How about shaking loose a little bit of that extra change (if you've got any after visiting Delaware Park) and lend a little support to a team that's turning out to be a real pennant contender.

WHILE GEORGE (CRISCO) ANDERSON will again be favored to top the Newark Country Club championship, this year's should bring forth increasing competition for the long hitting linksmen who has ruled the roost for the past three years.

Winning the local crown is becoming a matter of habit with George, who by now probably feels no more pressure in a title round than in a practice session, but whatever the pride and joy of the Anderson household does this year, he's already made history at the Newark club.

Whether he comes through for his fourth win or not, he's stacked up a record that future local linksmen will find tough to equal while improving on the mark seems almost fantastic.

MRS. HYDE WINS NET CONTEST

Scoring a surprise victory over Mrs. Bellinger by a 7-5, 6-4 count, Mrs. George Hyde moved into the second round of the women's tennis tournament. Byes were drawn by Miss Mary Lou Gaffney, defending champion, Mrs. Robert J. Boyd, Mrs. Walter Wilson, and Miss Mary Lee Schuster, runner-up in the 1939 tournament.

In other first-round matches, Miss Ann Chalmers will meet Mrs. Barton Mackey, Miss Elizabeth Worrall will match strokes with Miss Hanna Mader, and Miss Mary Bradford will face Miss Wills Dawson.

Second-round matches that have developed thus far are Miss Gaffney vs. Mrs. Hyde and Mrs. Boyd vs. Mrs. Wilson.

FORMER DUKE ATHLETE TO TAKE OVER GRID REINS

William Murray Replaces Steve Grenda At University Of Delaware; Given Five-Year Contract; To Have Charge Of Phys-Ed Program

William Murray, former Duke athlete and for the past nine years athletic director at the Children's Home, Winston-Salem, has been given a five-year football coaching contract at the University of Delaware, it was announced following the annual board of trustees meeting last Saturday. He succeeds Steve Grenda, grid mentor since 1938, who has been granted a year's leave of absence with full salary.

At the Children's Home Murray compiled impressive records with his teams. In football he won 69 games, lost nine and tied three and for the past four years his varsity teams have been recognized as outstanding in North Carolina. His basketball teams won 123 games, while losing only 36 while in baseball they have scored 74 victories against 26 defeats.

While at Duke, Murray participated in varsity football and track and was an All-Southern football player in 1930. He was voted the most valuable Duke player in his senior year, was graduated with an A.B. degree in history and economics. He is 32 years old, married, and has three daughters. Because of Murray's wide experience in intramural direction, Delaware will widen its scope in this respect. Abandonment of the physical education department was also announced and Edward C. Bardo has been relieved of the chair. The popular swimming and track mentor received a two-year leave of absence.

The department was organized six years ago by Dr. George (Buck) Wharton, former Penn athlete and coach, but it has been found impractical under the present setup.

No more students will be accepted for the course, although those already enrolled will be allowed to compete. Football players hoping to qualify as coaches will not be affected, however. They will be able to elect enough courses in physical education to make the credits.

As director of athletics, Murray will head a department consisting of the graduate manager of athletics and two instructors.

WORTH STEEL DOWNED
Newark pulled up to within a half game of Worth Steel last night when the locals defeated the New Castle County League Leaders, 6-1, on the Continental Field.

With Reggie Conway limiting the visitors to six scattered hits, the Newark diamondmen touched Bill Heal for 13 safeties, including a double, to score runs in the first, second, and sixth frames. Worth Steel's lone tally came in the final inning.

The locals will make their next home appearance next Thursday when St. Ann's, sixth in the loop standing, will furnish the opposition.

JACKETS FINISH SEASON

Six Wins Are Recorded With Three Defeats

Led by Henry Brooks' stick work, the Newark High School baseball team completed its season in grand style with a record of six conquests against three defeats. The schedule was closed last week with an easy triumph over Smyrna.

In pacing the Jackets at the plate, Brooks hit opposing pitchers at a 412 rate, closely followed by Charlie Weldon with 407. Dick Thorpe won third honors by rapping out an impressive 375 mark while Norman Brooks and Wally Dunsmore tied for fourth honors with 333.

Other averages were: Albert Aiken, 299; Henry Dayett, 260; Tommy Griffin, 243; Robert McCormick, 200, and Arnold Wells, 143. Those who failed to hit safely were: Bob Sheaffer, Frank Dunn, Charlie Cochran, Angelo Cataldi, and Harry Wilson.

H. Brooks also led the long-distance hitting with three doubles, a triple and two circuit clouts, while brother Norman accounted for three two-base blows and a home run. Dayett cracked out a double and a round-tripper, while Weldon, Wells, Thorpe, and Griffin each drove out a double. The Jackets hit for a total of 22 extra bases.

Lettermen announced by Coach Ralph (Irish) O'Connell are: N. Brooks, H. Brooks, Weldon, Wells, Thorpe, Aiken, Dayett, Wilson, Dunn, McCormick, Griffin, Cataldi, and Manager Frank Balling.

LOCAL DIAMONDMEN RAP OUT 9-1 WIN BEHIND WRIGHT

Elmhurst Limited To Three Hits As Newark Outfit Pounces On Nonie For 10 Safeties; Open Scoring In First; Hosts Tally Only Run In Second

Collecting a total of ten hits behind Tommy Wright's three hit hurling, Newark moved into undisputed possession of second place in the New Castle County League Tuesday night when the locals turned in a 9-1 victory over Elmhurst on the latter's diamond.

DOUGLASS STARTS IN U.S. OPEN

Local Pro Breaks Newark Record In Test Round

Newark is well represented in the U. S. open championship which started today at Cleveland by Davey Douglass, professional at the local country club who proved he is in top form last week by shooting a six-under-par 65 to break the course record.

Par (out) ... 5 3 4 4 3 5 4 3 4—35
Douglass ... 4 3 4 4 3 4 4 2 4—32
Par (in) ... 5 3 3 5 3 4 5 4 4—36—71
Douglass ... 4 3 3 4 4 5 3 3—33—85

Douglass card with par:
Slated to defend his championship for the fourth consecutive year, George (Crisco) Anderson gunned out a two-under-par 69 on Sunday in preparation for the qualifying round scheduled to start on Saturday.

While competition is expected to increase this year, Anderson will be favored to repeat over such contenders as B. F. (Sank) Richards, Bob Stewart, Roland Wollaston, and Eddie Anderson, a University of Delaware star.

Sixteen golfers will vie for the championship honors with the defeated sixteen slated to meet for consolation honors.

Manager Jack Edmanson's charge had little trouble in taking the measure of Bill Nonie who went the long route on the mound for the hosts as they pounded out four doubles and three triples in a gunning wage started in the first inning.
Edmanson, after opening the game with a single, was promptly driven across the plate when Freddie Mitchell doubled into deep right field and another run scored when Bill Wier crashed through with a one-base hit.
The march of runs was on and the locals countered once in the second and fourth, three times in the third and wound up the scoring in the eighth with a two-marker spurge.
Elmhurst scored its only run in the second when Bob Andrews batted stole second and third, and then edged the plate when Jim Eckerd grounded out. Only two other safeties were puffed up by Wright, a double by Edmanson in the fourth and another by Roy Melvin in the fifth.
Newark's big frame came to the sixth when three runs crossed the plate. Charlie Weldon opened the inning with a double, Eddy (Moose) Morgan walked, and just before Wright was hit by a pitched ball, Weldon was hit by a pitched ball, Weldon tripled, however, to drive in three runs. Edmanson fouled out to first and Mitchell drew a pass. Conway sank scoring Brown, but, with two men on base, Paul Whiteman grounded for the third out.
Edmanson, with three safeties in trips to the plate, was the hitting star for the locals while Mitchell collected two hits and a walk in four times. Andrews, with two of his three hits, led the stick work for the Elmhurst.

STARS TO RACE AT LANGHORNE JUNE 16

Winners Of Memorial Day Grinds Mailed Entry Blanks

Winners and speed stars of Memorial Day races throughout the county, including the big Indianapolis race, will gather at Langhorne Speedway on Sunday, June 16, for a try at the prize of the final distance and fastest lap car racing program of the season.

Entry blanks have been mailed to ten money winners of the Hoosier race: Shaw, Mays, Rose, Horn, Swanson, Hansen, Wearne, Swanson and LeBeque and Promoter taking the money. It is confident that a large percentage of the ten as well as other chauffeurs who stood out but failed to finish in the money will be in the Langhorne June 16 list.

The 100-mile, first to be held on the track's fastest mile speedway in a half-mile race, will be the feature event of a combination sprint and endurance card which is expected to draw many of the past Langhorne winners, most recent of whom is Ted Horn, winner of the May 12 meet and fourth money man of Indianapolis.

Another Hoosier place man is Mauri Rose, third position. Rose is also a past Langhorne winner, having chalked up one of the most sensational victories in the colorful history of the track's County bowl, a blanket finish which found Rose edging out Ben Horn and Billy Winn.

Although Horn garnered the big money at the last Langhorne meet, he had to put up a stiff argument against the advances of two other early entrants for the coming 100-mile classic, Brett Saylor and Joie Chitwood, in addition to Tony Willman, who set the pace until his car balked.

Hankinson recently designated a "Big Ten," adding the names of Bill Halland, Vic Nauman, Walt Brown and Eddy Ruesch to the established stars, Chitwood, Saylor, Horn, Sall, Willman and Light.

Although the main event is but twice as long as the former Langhorne 50-mile features, fatigue and strain on men and machines triple the danger of the grueling test of the nation's fastest and foremost drivers in the final and most colorful of the east's long distance races.

BOHEMIA FIELD MASS TO BE HELD ON SUNDAY

Large Crowd
Is Expected
To Attend
Annual Affair

Preparations have been completed for the annual Military Field Mass at Old Bohemia near Warwick, Md., on Sunday at 11 a.m., E.S.T., in commemoration of the 25th anniversary of this venerable edifice. The historic church whose real title is St. Francis Xavier, named in honor of the great missionary saint of the Indies, enjoys the distinction of being the oldest Catholic church on the Eastern Shore of Maryland and the earliest site of Georgetown University, the pioneer in the field of Catholic education in the United States.

The Most Rev. Edmond J. Fitzmaurice, D.D., bishop of Wilmington, will be the presiding prelate, at the solemn mass, which will be celebrated by the Rev. John M. Donohue, chaplain of St. James' Rectory, Reboold, assisted by the Rev. John M. Walsh, pastor of St. Denis' Church at Galena, Md., as deacon and the Rev. Adelbert Mai, S.D.S., from the Salvatorian Mission House at Elkton, Md., as sub-deacon. Francis Tierney, James Reese, and Kenneth Harbridge, clerical students at St. Charles' College, Catonsville, Md., will act as masters of ceremonies.

The minor offices of the mass will be in charge of the seminarians from the Novitiate of St. Francis de Sales at Childs, Md.

The sermon at the field mass will be delivered by the Rev. Joseph Sweeney, assistant rector of St. Ann's Church, Wilmington.

At the conclusion of the mass, benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament will be given by Bishop Fitzmaurice.

A detachment of soldiers from the First Engineers at Fort DuPont will participate in the military ceremonies of the mass.

A musical program has been arranged and will be sung by the Catholic Choristers of Wilmington under the direction of George Finnian.

The Boy Scouts from the various groups in the parishes at Wilmington have indicated their intention to attend.

Preceding the field mass the firemen's band from Middletown will give a concert.

TESTS SHOW NEW WAY TO CURE GRASS

A way of farming as old as farming itself is briefly explained in the new book "Let's make hay when the sun shines."

M. W. Goodwin, assistant chemist at the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station, has for the past two years been conducting tests on clipping and drying young leafy grasses. In a recently-published 24-page Experiment Station bulletin entitled, "The Effect of Clipping and Drying Immature Grasses on Their Yield and Chemical Composition," Goodwin explains how he made several cuttings of young grasses and then dried the grasses in a two-tray batch dryer. When baled, the dried grass retained its original green color. This artificial curing of young grasses increased the annual average yield as compared to sun-cured hay.

"We have found," states Goodwin, "that frequent clipping of the immature grasses increases the average yield of protein 40 to 60 per cent over that recovered by the usual haymaking procedure. One of the questions on our minds when we started the experiment was whether or not carotene, the main-filled substance found in pastures, would be lost during the drying process. But when we took the samples from the dryer and those from the field-cured hay into the laboratory we found that more than five times as much carotene is preserved through artificial drying than through natural drying in the field. It's true that of the dried product was stored in bales there was a rapid loss of carotene during the first few months of storage, but the final product still contained ten times as much carotene as that found in the field hay at the time it was baled."

"This study indicates that it is possible to produce in Delaware yields of high protein, high-carotene and low-fibre livestock feed from grass and clover mixtures and that it can be preserved by artificial drying followed by storage in bales."
