Formal Acceptance Of Building By Local Board Of Education, Flag Raising And Other Ceremonies To Mark Program Here;
Expect Large Crowd

Formal dedication of the new public school building of the Newark special district will be held Saturday afternoon, November 21st.

The ceremonies have been held up for some months pending the completion of the lawn about the structure and the laying of pavements and driveways. Members of the local Board of Education have issued an invitation to all parents in the community and educational leaders throughout the State to be present at the exercises.

P. S. du Pont To Speak

Four addresses are scheduled to be made at the dedication, the principal speaker being Pierre S. du Pont, president of the Service Citizens of Delaware, whose efforts for a better public school system in Delaware has won him national prominence. Other speakers will be Dr. Joseph H. Odell, director of the Service Citizens, Dr. Walter Hullihen, president of the University; and Dr. H. V. Holloway, State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Messrs. du Pont and Odell also represent the Delaware School Auxiliary Association, whose generous gift made possible the erection of the Newark school. John S. Shaw, president of the Newark board, will preside at the dedication.

In addition to the speaking program, a flag raising ceremony in charge of the Junior Order United American Mechanics will be held on the school lawn later in the afternoon.

Gaylord won a cup for the best pen exhibited by members, while Franklin won a cup for his display of barred Plymouth Rocks. Other sweepstake winners were Amos Laquette of Newark, Carl Wilkman of Iron Hill and Lewis Urian of Dover.

PLAN MASS MEETING

A mammoth mass-meeting of students alumni and friends of the Delaware football team will be held at Old College next Wednesday at noon, to send the team off for their annual battle with Dickinson, at Carlisle, Pa.

SENIOR PLAY COMING

The Senior class at the High School have decided to present Booth Tarkington's "Clarence" as their play, to be held this winter in the Opera House. Misses Houston and Heiser are faculty members in charge.

THE SICK

Mrs. George Griffin, who has been poorly since last summer, was a recent patient at a Wilmington hospital, but is now convalescing at her home here.

School Flag Gift of Local Lodge

A feature of the dedication ceremonies at the new School here next Saturday will be the presentation of the School Flag by the members of the Newark chapter, Junior Order United American Mechanics. All members of the chapter are to form at the lodge room at 1:30 p. m., and will attend the exercises in a body.

The presentation of the Flag by the lodge carries forward one of its fundamental aims, that of fostering the widespread use of Old Glory in school and civic events of importance. A further evidence of the Junior Order's policy was seen on Armistice Day, when Newark streets were gay with the new standardized system of flag display, made possible by the energy of the Newark lodge.

LOCARNO CONFERENCE SUBJECT OF ADDRESS

Bryn Mawr Professor Talks to Students This Morning in Wolf Hall.

Professor Charles G. Fenwick, head of the Department of Economics and History at Bryn Mawr College, was the speaker this morning at the weekly meeting of the Senior and Junior classes of both colleges in Wolf Hall.

Professor Fenwick, an author of several important books on international law, gave a concise resume of the recent conference and explained the far-reaching influences of the pact between the various nations of Europe. His talk was greatly enjoyed by both the student bodies and a large number of faculty members who were in attendance. Professor George H. Ryden, chairman of the College Hour committee, introduced the speaker.

DELAWARE OYSTERS GIVEN FULL APPROVAL

Secretary Davis Says "I Never Suspected Anything Wrong With the Beds."

The following is a report from Dr. Arthur T. Davis, Secretary of the State Board of Health in Dover: Delaware oysters, as far as the beds in Delaware Bay are concerned, are O. K. according to the result of the analysis of the water covering the beds and the bivalves are concerned. The analysis was made at the laboratory of the State Board of Health at Dover.

"I never suspected that there was anything wrong with the beds," said Dr. Davis, "but the government Public Health Service sent H. L. Old, an associate engineer here to make the examination. Mr. Old obtained samples of both water and oysters from the beds in Delaware Bay and we made the tests here in Dover in our own laboratory. The results are all that we could hope for. While there was some pollution shown in the water, it was negligible as far as being a menace to health and there was no indication of any contamination from sewage pollution, which is always one of the greatest hazards in this connection."

New Road Is Open

Contractors have removed the gravel and water "seasoning" from the bed of the new Oglethorpe-Christiana road, which enters Newark on East Main street.

The new road, about five miles in length, provides a new outlet to New Castle and river points, cutting off several miles for Newark travelers. In addition, it benefits a host of farmers in the Oglethorpe section, providing them a paved outlet to two main highways, the du Pont Boulevard, and the Philadelphia-Baltimore pike, running through Newark.

D. E. O'Connell and Sons were the builders of the road for the county.

DOVER'S PROTEST THROWN OUT BY D. I. A. A.; NEWARK PLAYS GEORGETOWN FOR TITLE

At a special meeting of the Executive Committee of the Delaware Intercollegiate Athletic Association, held in Dover last night, Dover High's protest that the winning touchdown in their recent game with Newark was illegal, was ruled out unanimously, and Coach Nunn's warriors stand as finalists in the State Championship series.

Superintendent Owens accompanied the Newark coach to the meeting. The protest was read and a brief discussion followed, with Dover officials endeavoring to uphold their contentions. Coach Nunn stood pat on the written opinions of three major officials at the game.

It was decided at the meeting that the championship battle between Newark and Georgetown shall be played either at Milford or Dover, with the latter town holding the preference. The game will likely start at three o'clock Thanksgiving Day. Newark rooters are understood to have the Continental Band's services at the big game.

Night Well Attended; D. I. A. A.
Officers Elected

A Newark resident was accorded a place of distinction in State educational circles Friday last when Professor William A. Wilkinson was elected president of the State Teachers' Association, an organization comprising all public school instructors throughout the three counties. The election was held in Dover at the annual convention of the Association.

Professor Wilkinson has long been identified with educational matters in Delaware. Through his work as head of the Summer School for Teachers at the University, he has become personally acquainted with many of them and knows their problems as well as any man in the State. He is also prominently identified with the practice teaching program at the Women's College here. The election of Professor Wilkinson is known to be a popular one.

Other officers of the Association who were elected are: Vice-president, Q. H. Jump of Cesar Rodney School, Wyoming; Miss Ethel Gibson of Greenwood was named a director for three years.

The Delaware Intercollegiate Athletic Association also elected these officers for the ensuing year:

President, Prof. D. A. Petry, Millsboro; vice-president, Frank Barsby, Milford; secretary and treasurer, John Shilling; executive committee, New Castle county, H. E. Stahl, E. P. Rev. Gilfillan's Death Mourned By Local Folk

Former Resident Of Newark Dead In Wilmington After Short Illness;
Took Active Part In Town Affairs
While Pastor Of Nearby Church;
Funeral This Afternoon

Grim death again struck home and bore away a good friend of many Newark people Saturday evening, when Rev. Joel S. Gilfillan, former pastor of Head of Christiana Church here, succumbed to a short illness at his Wilmington home. Dr. Gilfillan was 71 years of age.

While the last few years of his life were spent in the city, Dr. Gilfillan spent a large part of his active life in Newark. He came here from Mays Landing, N. J., and was a resident of the community for about 15 years. During that period he took an interest in all vital affairs of the town. He was for several years a member of the school board.

Funeral This Afternoon

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 1:30 from his Van Buren street home and at Olivet Presbyterian Church, of which he was pastor at the time of his death. The services were in charge of Rev. A. W. Sonne, D. D., pastor of West Presbyterian Church, assisted by the Revs. Aquilla Webb, D. D., pastor of First-Central Presbyterian Church, and Chas. H. Bohner, of Hanover Presbyterian Church. A quartet composed of J. T. Clymer, H. W. Frazier, Mrs. I. M. Eaton and Miss Clara Kemon, sang.

The pall bearers were the Rev. S. Beattie Wylie, the Rev. T. S. Armstrong, the Rev. Samuel L. Irvine, the Rev. J. C. Russell, the Rev. John E. Blake and the Rev. N. F. Stahl. Interment was at Birmingham, Pa.

Had Many Interests

Dr. Gilfillan was born near Coatesville, Pa. He received his degree at Lafayette College, after a four-year course. Later he attended the Union Theological Seminary in New York, where he was graduated and later ordained. His degree of D. D. was obtained at Worcester College, a Western institution.

His first charge was at Dilworth.

ORGANIZE GUILD AT ST. THOMAS CHURCH

New Group Formed With
Mrs. S. J. Smith as Leader;
Committee Heads Elected.

A Women's Guild of the St. Thomas Episcopal parish here, was formed at a large meeting held Monday night in the Parish House. This organization supersedes, it is understood, the old Guild which carried on a number of years.

Mrs. Samuel J. Smith was elected president of the Guild. Other officers named are: vice-president, Mrs. Norris N. Wright; secretary, Mrs. R. O. Bauman, and treasurer, Miss Audrey Miller.

The above officers with the following compose the executive committee: Mrs. Levi K. Bowen, Mrs. J. Pilling Wright and Mrs. Ernest Sanborn. Mrs. G. H. Code was elected chairman of the social service committee; Mrs. William E. Hayes, chairman of the membership committee, and Mrs. R. B. Mathews, chairman of the social committee.

With a steady stream of visitors threading the aisles between rows of pure bred chickens, ducks, pigeons, geese and turkeys, the annual Show of the Diamond State Poultry and Pigeon Association holds forth as the week's biggest event in Newark.

Over 800 birds are on display. There are big ones, little ones, all colors and breeds. The Armory has been attractively decorated for the exhibit. Symmetrical lines of pens house the birds. Feed men and equipment dealers hold forth in the corners. In the entrance a show case contains the collection of prize cups. Prizes totalling over $1000 have been awarded. Each pen bore its tag last evening, denoting how it fared in the judging.

Newton Cosh, of Vineland, N. J., judged the poultry yesterday afternoon. Mr. Cosh also commented on the excellent exhibit of birds. One white leghorn cock exhibited by Robert L. Cloud, of Wilmington, Mr. Cosh said was the best bird of that kind that he has ever seen. Mr. Cosh, a recognized poultry expert, is in demand throughout the country as a judge. He came to Newark direct from Canada where he was judge at a show. He was scheduled to give a talk and demonstration but was unable to do so as he had to leave as soon as he had completed the judging, for Los Angeles, California. He will remain on the western coast judging shows until about the first of the year.

This evening there will be a talk by Hoke S. Palmer, poultry specialist at the University of Delaware, and tomorrow evening James W. Wilson and Mr. Lannin, the show secretary, will give talks.

Samuel Little and W. E. Renshaw are local officers of the association who were active in putting on this big show and making most of the arrangements here for the show. Among the special features is the big exhibit of poultry by members of the 'Boys' and Girls' Clubs under the leadership of A. D. Cobb.

The present officers of the Diamond State Poultry and Pigeon Association who planned the show are: President, Lewis S. Fell, of Wilmington; secretary, Joseph H. Gould, of Wilmington; executive committee, James Wilson, N. J. Lannin, Elsmere; Wilmer E. Renshaw and Samuel Little, of Newark, and Robert L. Cloud, of Wilmington.

COLLEGE FAMILY ARE GUESTS NEXT WEEK

Plans have been completed for the annual Thanksgiving dinner to be tendered the students, faculty and staff of the two colleges next Tuesday evening. Separate dinners will be served at each institution.

Misses Marian Skewis and Ruth King are in charge of their respective affairs at the Men's and Women's Colleges. No stated programs have been arranged and there will be no speeches, it is reported. Miss Sharpless and Mr. Mannix, of the two student councils, will preside at the dinners. It is expected that the new men's glee club will offer their first concert at this time.

HIS SON MISSING

Youth Left West Grove in September
But Never Reached Home

T. J. Williams, Georgetown Md., reported recently that all efforts to find his son, who has been missing since September, have been fruitless. The father thinks he may have been hurt in an accident, and unable to make his identity known.

Mr. Williams gives this description: Thomas Hyland Williams, a boy 17 years old this March; about 5 feet 8 or 9 inches tall; weight, 145 to 150; light hair, gray eyes; big for his age; square built; left his brother's, near West Grove, Pa., latter part of September to come home; has disappeared and no trace of him can be found.

Quakers Shock Delaware 18-0; Loveland Stars

Haverford Soundly Trounces Blue and Gold Before Record Crowd Saturday; Biggest Upset of Year.

MIDDLETON BATTERS DEFENSE

A burly, well-drilled eleven came down from Haverford Saturday afternoon and took sweet revenge for a long series of defeats handed them by Delaware teams when they stung the Blue and Gold team, 18-0. It was Delaware's worst beating at the hands of their ancient rivals in many years.

Forstburg's team was a favorite to win handily. But that was before the game began. Nevertheless, a host of fans journeyed to Newark for the annual struggle and cheered long and loud for a Delaware victory. Save for a flash in the first quarter, the Blue Hen attack was a quiet thing all afternoon.

Baffled

At the opening whistle, Delaware swept down the field for what looked to be a sure score. Loveland, Hubert and Weggenman carried the ball to the ten-yard line. There they were stopped and the ball went to the invaders. A punt followed and the first chance was gone. Through this period the work of Loveland stood out prominently. This fast-stepping, shifty back had no trouble in weaving his way along for great gains after catching punts. His dashes around end kept the Blue and Gold supporters continually on edge. But he never quite got clear from his field. His prettiest run was an off-tackle slice in the first quarter. Getting through the line safely, he twisted along for ten yards, then reversed his field and tore down the side line in a clear field. He was pulled down, however, on the ten-yard line. There the offensive stopped.

Haverford Awakes

With the end of the first quarter, the game began to wobble to the Haverford cohorts.

Following a fumble on Haverford's 15-yard line early in the period, Haverford began an irresistible attack which swept straight up the field for 45 yards and the first touchdown. Middleton, the Red and Black's plunging full back, carried the ball practically every time. His bull-like lunges through the plucky Blue and Gold line were not to be denied. A 28-yard run through center and a 15-yard pass, Middleton to Fox, made the going a bit easier. Slowly Delaware was driven back to her goal line. From the one-foot line on fourth down, Middleton dove through for the score.

Between the halves, the spectators were kept in good spirits by a miniature circus act put on by a dozen Delaware seniors.

Loveland's Clever Work

When the second half started, hope still seemed very bright for Delaware but a death blow was dealt when Hubert's punt on the 35-yard line was blocked and Busselle picked the ball up on the run and dashed for a touchdown.

In the last quarter on another break Haverford made its third touchdown for Mitchell intercepted Rose's pass and was not stopped until he had crossed three chalk marks for a 30-yard advance putting the ball on the 5-yard line. Middleton took it over in two plays.

Loveland was the only man who could gain ground for Forstburg's clan, being particularly clever in running back punts, making several long runs. Lineup:

Card of Thanks

Deep appreciation is extended those who so kindly offered assistance during our recent bereavement.

Mrs. Mary E. Kershaw and Family.

"Roxy" Misses the Hunt

"Roxyanna," a pure bred English beagle, keen of nose and sturdy of heart, chafed all last week at the leash. Instinct told that hunting days were at hand, that bushes and brambles were to be explored, with the master's gun ready to help.

Saturday found her nosing imaginary trails near her home. Came a speeding car, and Roxy saw it too late. Not only her owner, J. Harvey Dickey, but all Elkton avenue, mourn her death.

One of the last letters written by the late William Jennings Bryan was a personal one to the Master of the National Grange, in which in vigorous terms, Mr. Bryan expressed his appreciation of the Grange as an organization of service to the farmers of America.

News Of Two Counties Gathered During Week For The Post Readers

GRANGERS GATHER AT UNION MEETING

Harmony Members Host to Many Visitors on Monday Evening.

Harmony Grange played host to visitors from four other granges in the county at a largely attended meeting Monday night at The Mermaid. Over 100 people were present, the granges represented were Union, West Brandywine, Diamond State and Delaware.

Among the informal talks given by visitors were those from Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Snyder, of Newport; Worthy Master Clark of West Brandywine, and R. G. Buckingham of Union. The latter gave a vivid description of a recent tour among battlefields over which he fought during the Civil War.

Among business matters brought up, were several resolutions designed to be presented at the next meeting of Pomona. It was announced that this affair will be held at West Brandywine Grange on December 3. The conferring of the fifth degree will take place at Newport on November 19, it was announced.

Entertainment

The lecturer's hour was the means of giving the big audience some very clever entertainment features. Among them were a solo by Miss Edna Murray, two recitations, one an original effort, by Miss Emily Mitchell and Mrs. Annie Denison, respectively; a dialogue by Miss Belle Chambers and Mrs. Annie Murray; two piano solos, one original, by Mrs. Harrington, and a playlet, "Harmony Junction," by four young men of Harmony Grange.

Refreshments were served at a late hour by the Hospitality Committee.

R. Perkins. Entrance was effected through a rear window, and then prying open the main doors, they made their escape. No information has been received as to the whereabouts of the thieves or the automobile.

LITTLE CHANGES IN TURKEY PRICES SEEN

Fifty Cents for Squab Turkeys Reported a Few Days Ago; Crop About Same as Last Year.

With but a week between now and Thanksgiving, the item that is proving the most interesting feature in the lives of those farmers who go in for raising chickens, ducks, geese and turkeys, is the price of the holiday market for his product.

Two weeks ago squab turkeys in Maryland were reported as selling at sixty cents a pound, but since then the price has fallen to below fifty cents. What it will be Saturday, when most of the turkeys, chickens, geese and ducks which have been raised this year will have been killed and dressed, ready for the Thanksgiving Day trade, is something no one can forecast.

According to the Bureau of Markets at Dover, the crop of turkeys this fall is about the same as last year. The past spring and summer was a splendid one for raising turkeys, as it was dry and the wet spells were few. This condition, prevailing at the time when the birds were young, resulted in practically all crops of young turkeys being saved.

A year ago the wet spell killed off many of the young turkeys and consequently the past summer, those farmers who suffered severely a year ago didn't go in much for raising turkeys. So that with the crop suffering so little the past summer, those who did raise turkeys will play to a raising market.

According to figures obtained by the Bureau of Markets, the price last year for turkeys was from 40 to 55 cents a pound, which is not a very flattering price when they have such a season as a year ago. But this year with a full crop the farmers stand a chance to do a trifle better.

FRANK SKILLMAN IS VICTIM OF PARALYSIS

Mr. Frank J. D. Skillman, aged 47 years, one of Elkton's well known barbers, died at his home on East Main street, on Monday night. Several years ago Mr. Skillman suffered a stroke of paralysis, but recovered sufficiently to resume his work. A short time ago, however, he was compelled to give up active work, but was at his shop at times during the day. He suffered a relapse and Monday night he died. Mr. Skillman is survived by his wife and several children. Funeral services will be held on Thursday morning in the Catholic Church at 9 o'clock, with interment in adjoining cemetery.

Goes To Rehoboth

It has been learned this week that Ralph Morgan, former proprietor of a radio and electrical supply store on Main street, Elkton, will shortly open a similar establishment at Rehoboth Beach, Delaware.

The former Morgan store has been managed by A. Victor Davis, of Elkton, for some months.

Maybe it would serve the purpose to abolish the War and Navy Department and just appoint Colonel Mitchell.—Chicago Evening Post.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

By the Governor of Delaware

WHEREAS, The Almighty Ruler of the Universe has established our nation in freedom and preserved our unity. He has shown favor unto our fathers and continued so to do unto our children. He has given us rich lands for our inheritance and entrusted great power to his people. He has protected us from our enemies and given us an honorable place among the nations and states. As American citizens we daily send up our prayers of thanksgiving and praise for these blessings which are continually being showered upon us, and

WHEREAS, it seems eminently proper that we should set apart a day in each year, as has been our custom and repair to our respective houses of worship and there render to the Giver of all Good for the bounteous blessings which he has bestowed upon us.

NOW THEREFORE, in accordance with the proclamation of the President of the United States, I, Robert P. Robinson, Governor of the State of Delaware, do designate Thursday, November 26, as Thanksgiving Day and do call upon the people of our State to lay aside their usual duties and take time to give thanks unto Almighty God for his blessings and ask strength to meet the problems of the coming year.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I, Robert P. Robinson, Governor of the State of Delaware, have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal to be affixed at Dover, the Fifth Day of November, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five, and in the year of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and fiftieth.

By the Governor,

ROBERT P. ROBINSON.

FANNIE S. HERRINGTON, Secretary of State.

A Sonnet Addressed To The Henlopen Light

No more will your now sightless eye glare red
Upon the everlasting restless wave;
'Tis tragic pun of Fate, or man, your grave
Should be the arms of Neptune—you who've led
So many others from just such a bed!
Your long and lonely life of serving all,
In calm or storm unflinching, must enthral
The man who thinks, with great and awful dread
When he looks on his own dark selfish way—
A poor comparison. And you're to go,
"Unhonored and unsung," out from the Aye
Of things into an everlasting No.
But thus too often is good work repaid:
The one who tries to shed a light, betrayed.

THE JOY OF WORK

This is the way a man feels when he likes his work, according to Colas Breugnon:

"There is one old chum that never goes back on me, my other self, my friend—my work. How good it is to stand before the bench with a tool in my hand and then saw and cut, plane, shave, carve, put in a peg, file, twist and turn the rough fine stuff, which resists yet yields—soft, smooth walnut, as soft to my fingers as fairy flesh; the rosy bodies or brown limbs of our wood-nymphs which the hatchet has stripped of their robe. There is no pleasure like the accurate hand, the clever big fingers which can turn out the most fragile works of art, no pleasure which rules over the forces of the world, and writes the ordered caprices of its right imagination on wood, iron, and stone. . . . To serve my art the elves of the sap push out the fair limbs of the trees, lengthen and fatten them until they are polished fit for my caresses. My hands are docile workmen, directed by their foreman, my old brain here, and he plays the game as I like it, for is he not my servant, too? Was ever man better served than I?"—Ex.

Educational Week Observed Throughout State; Urge Children To Stay In School Every Day

This is Education Week in Delaware.

From every angle, pressure is being brought to bear to urge an even larger attendance through the hundreds of school districts. Prominent men not in any way connected with the State Board of Education, are joining in the drive for better equipped boys and girls. In the schools proper, instructors are in the midst of daily programs designed to show the pupils the worth of a full secondary and high school education.

Enrollment

Taken as a whole, Educational Week supporters in Delaware this year have something to be exceptionally proud of because its the first time in the history of the State that the Department of Education has been able to eliminate provisional teachers, that is, teachers who are qualified to teach only in the emergency that teachers who possess certificates are not to be obtained.

During the year there were 39,037 students enrolled in the State of which 19,531 were boys and 19,503 were girls. This in itself is quite a remarkably advanced step because the girls used to always outnumber the boys.

Of this number, 14,706 were en-

NOVEL CLUB

On Tuesday evening, November 10, a slightly new form of social life appeared among the faculty of the University. It was the first meeting of the Novel Club, at the home of Professor and Mrs. R. W. Heim. The company assembled at seven-thirty. At eight o'clock, Professor Erwart Matthews, who teaches a course in the modern novel at the University, began the presentation of "Huge Walpole's 'Portrait of a Man With Red Hair.'" Professor Matthews summarized a large proportion of the book, but read intact the significant parts; in this manner he was able to complete the novel during the evening. At nine-thirty a breathing spell was permitted, during which Mrs. Heim served the club with some very pleasing refreshments.

Enthusiasm over the success of the plan is being vigorously expressed by the club members. Credit for this success is chiefly due Professor Matthews, whose evident taste in the choice of the book and whose pronounced ability at reading it made the evening a highly pleasant affair. Everyone is anticipating with impatience the next meeting of the club.

The officers of the club are: Professor E. C. Van Keuren, Mrs. R. W. Heim, and Mrs. T. A. Baker. The other members are: Professor R. W. Heim, Mrs. E. C. Van Keuren, Professor and Mrs. W. A. Wilkinson, Dr.

rolled in. Wilmington, and of the total enrollment 32,793 were white children and 6244 were colored.

The total enrollment in the State showed an increase of 464 of which the high schools claimed all but 24, another and very marked achievement, showing that instead of students dropping out of school when they had reached the high school age, as universally the custom, that the children were sticking to the job, being ambitious to get the most the school system in the upper grades provided. The high school enrollment was 14.3 per cent of the total state enrollment.

LOCAL MAN NAMED TO HEAD ODD FELLOWS

J. Harvey Dickey, of Newark, was this afternoon elected Grand Master of Delaware Odd Fellows at the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge, at Odd Fellows Hall, Wilmington.

Mr. Dickey, well known in lodge circles throughout the State, is a member of Unity Lodge, No. 41, I. O. O. F., of Stanton. He worked himself up through the minor offices of the Order, until last year he was elected Deputy Grand Master by a large plurality. He is extremely popular with his fellow-lodgemen and a bright year is predicted for him in his fraternal work.

At Odd Fellows Hall, Wilmington, this week, gathered several hundred members of the Order, visitors from nearby states and past officers to attend the two big annual sessions, the Grand Encampment, and the meeting of the Grand Lodge.

The Encampment went into session Tuesday and transacted many important business matters. William E. Manlove, of Milton, was elected Grand Patriarch at this meeting, succeeding Reginald Way, of Wilmington. A gain of twelve members over the past year was reported and the finances of the Encampment are in good shape.

This afternoon, the Grand Lodge met in the same hall, and elected there officers for the year. J. Harvey Dickey, of Newark, succeeded to the post of Grand Master, as is customary. He replaces L. G. Markel, of Harrington. The contest for Deputy Grand Master was not concluded as the Post goes to press, but indications point to the election of Mr. Croes, of Wilmington.

and Mrs. C. C. Palmer, Professor and Mrs. A. D. Cobb, Professor T. A. Baker, Professor H. V. Olsen, Professor E. C. Byam, Miss Marian Skewis, Miss Ruth King, and of course, Professor Erwart Matthews.

town, Pa., from where he went to California, where he had several pastorates. Returning East, he accepted a call to May's Landing, where he was pastor of a church for several years. From there he went to the Head of Christiana Church near Newark, where he served prior to going to Wilmington.

He was a tireless worker for the Church. In addition to his regular pastorates in this district, he was active in the affairs of the Presbytery, in evangelical work, and aided in the building up of many small rural churches throughout Delaware and Maryland.

Perhaps his best-loved hobby was the culture of bees. In this avocation, he was considered an authority. During the years when the Delaware State Fair was in the ascendancy, Dr. Gilfillan carried on bee demonstrations nearly every year. He delighted in teaching visitors how to handle them. The Delaware State Experiment Station located here, often sent him as their special representative to confer with bee-keepers throughout the peninsula. He was also the author of several articles on bees which found their way to national publications.

Dr. and Mrs. Gilfillan entered into the social life of Newark, and were widely known and liked by the residents in general.

At the time of his death he was moderator of the Delaware City Presbyterian Church, and prominently identified with the New Castle Presbytery.

Dr. Gilfillan is survived by his widow, and two sons, Earl, a veterinary surgeon in Galena, Md., and LaMartine, residing in Glenolden, Pa.

Widow Of Former Faculty Member Here Leads Drive For Health Among School Children

One of the features of the teachers' convention at Dover late last week was the poster display arranged for Modern Health Crusade in Delaware Schools.

At the head of the movement is Mrs. Edna Palmer Upton, widow of Raymond M. Upton, former director of the Rehabilitation Unit at the University and well known to Newark people. Mr. and Mrs. Upton resided here following their marriage and up until Mr. Upton's tragic death at Chesapeake Haven in June, 1923.

Starting this month, fifteen thousand children attending the public schools of this State in the grades began their tests to become a Modern Health Crusader. The Delaware Anti-Tuberculosis Society, which is back of the movement, having obtained the approval of the State Board of Education, is now sewing the seed for a harvest of thousands of boys and girls in improved personal hygiene and the simpler habits that make for good health.

Fortunately the teachers in many public schools have already gotten their pupils started in ways that will mean longer lives and forever free from tubercular taint, because habits formed in the youth are continued, usually, in later life.

Each child who undertakes the Modern Health Crusade test must for twelve weeks from the time of starting maintain the standards set up by doing 54 or more of the Health Chores. Each child keeps its own chart and thus is placed upon its honor to accomplish the task set for them. Upon the completion of the twelve weeks, the child is given a beautiful button and a certificate from the Anti-Tuberculosis Society and through attaining this, is given the title of "Squire" after days of old, when knights and squires battled for the right.

The chores which the children are called upon to do are right ways of living, eating, drinking and sleeping. To see that their personal hygiene is above complaint by having clean necks, hands and faces, sleeping with the windows open, drinking no tea or coffee but milk that is free from tubercular taint or else has been pasteurized, and avoiding those articles of food that are injurious, with enough exercise each day to make them healthier.

Mrs. Upton will visit and explain the plans wherever they are not now known and assist the teachers in every way to make Modern Health Crusaders of every child in the grades.

House Parties Held

Two large fraternity house parties enlivened college circles Saturday night.

At the Sigma Phi Epsilon house on Main street, two score students and guests attended a dance. The patronesses were Mrs. H. E. Tiffany, Mrs.

The Chafing Dish

by Neil Farmer

Modern youth has labored with so powerful an impetuosity and succeeded with so tremendous a success in his pathetically voracious struggle to maintain a position always ahead of the age in which he is living that, not only has he accomplished his purpose—he has gone farther—he has succeeded so well in getting "ahead of the times" that he is behind them.

The modern youth has tried so hysterically to get ahead of the present age in ideas and fads that he has almost "lapped" that of which he has been attempting to keep in front. Instead of leading the present age he is following it.

Modern youth has started out to run the long-distance race of life at top speed, as if he were sprinting a short dash. He has gone around the historical circle with such swiftness that he has run into the decrepit past before it has had an opportunity to stagger across the finishing line.

The young people of today have run so far in front of the influence of their preceding generation that they are galloping with, not the living civilization of today, but with the ghosts of the barbarism of the world's yesterdays.

To my feeble eyesight, the unguinous sheik does not appear to be a new milestone on the road of progress. He reminds me more of Johnson's biographer—Boswell—that's it—like Boswell would have appeared if he had ever tried to disguise himself as Cellini.

However, the present younger generation is a caducous one. It resembles its predecessors in that respect, at least. But, in the meantime, the youth of today, by attempting to be super-maturely mature, are missing their youngness.

For youth is, after all, but "a second of glamor, of romance, of potency—a flicker of sunshine which momentarily gilds a writhing wave, and then vanishes." The day is swiftly followed by the night.

But then, if every dog has his day, I suppose one should not begrudge the sheik and flapper their nights.

At least ten men have already lost their lives in the construction of the Philadelphia-Camden bridge.

Ten human beings, who formerly laughed, wept, cursed, kissed women, and who perhaps prayed, have abruptly been forced to cease all. Ten living bits of humanity have been fed into the maw of "Progress."

If you have read "The Confessions of a Young Man," you doubtless can picture George Moore gazing solemnly up at the graceful span of steel over the Delaware River on a moonlit midnight and murmuring, "Why that's too cheap, much too cheap."

I think that it would be a splendid act for the circulation manager of this paper to send each week from five to ten copies of THE NEWARK POST to each of the Wilmington hospitals for the ward patients.

One would think that the Wilmington newspapers would make a practice of doing this. But they don't.

However, all the newspapers in this vicinity would appear regularly in the wards if the editors could see just once the pleasure with which the ward patients peruse the occasional paper that does happen to come their way, how it is passed from bed to bed, how it is scanned as eagerly as if it were the most thrilling novel ever penned, how it brings a smile to a face that has almost forgotten how to smile, how it causes pain to pass from consciousness for a brief period of golden rest.

A newspaper is sometimes a potent tonic.

The surest method to attain to prominence is to die.

Then your home-town newspaper tells how "another prominent citizen passed away last week potiy oo xxre a good time was had by all."

"IT'S NO GOOD—Throw It Out to the Chickens!"

That used to be the universal practice. Try the chickens as a last resort. And they wondered why the eggs were scarce. There's a science in the successful raising of poultry, no matter how small the flock. But it only takes common sense to realize the value of good feeds. Dayett Laying Mash and Dayett Growing Mash are two mighty popular types among nearby poultrymen.

DELAWARE'S CROP REPORT

Estimated Yields for 1925 Throughout State Given by Expert This Week

The following report issued today by G. L. Morgan, Agricultural Statistician for Delaware, shows preliminary estimates of yield and production for this year's crops with comparative figures for preceding years. The past season as a whole was unfavorable for all crops, wheat and rye. Corn is the best crop for the past several years. The yield of wheat and rye was slightly above the ten-year average. The potato crop is the poorest harvested in Delaware since 1921. All hay was short this season, due to dry weather and fruit was damaged in the spring by frost.

Corn

The preliminary estimate of the average yield of corn this season was 66 bushels per acre and the total production 6,624,000 bushels, as compared with 4,727,000 bushels last year and 5,935,000 bushels the average production for the past five years. Eighty-eight per cent of this year's crop was estimated to be of a merchantable quality as compared with 86 per cent last year and 86 per cent the average quality for the past ten years. It is estimated that 2 per cent of last year's corn crop still remains on farm, as compared with 3.5 per cent last year and 2.7 per cent the average stocks on farms for the past ten years on November 1.

White Potatoes

The preliminary estimate of the average yield per acre of this season's crop was 63 bushels and the total production 504,000 bushels as compared with 819,000 bushels last year and 828,000 bushels the average production for the past five years. The quality of this season's crop was about 78 per cent of a normal, as compared with 89 per cent last year and 88 per cent the average quality for the past ten years. It is estimated that 60 per cent of this year's crop was grown for market, as compared with 60 per cent last year and 60 per cent the average grown for market for the past five years.

Sweet Potatoes

The preliminary estimate of the average yield per acre of this season's crop is 125 bushels and the production 1,375,000 bushels, as compared with 1,300,000 bushels last year and 1,215,000 bushels the average production for the past five years. The quality of this season's crop was about 82 per cent of a normal and the demand 93 per cent of a normal, making the potential farm labor supply 88.2 per cent of a normal, as compared with 88.3 per cent the October 1 potential and 78.7 per cent, the potential supply on November 1, 1924.

ity of this season's crop was about 88 per cent of a normal as compared with 90 per cent last year and 90 per cent the average quality for the past ten years. It is estimated that 82 per cent of this year's crop was grown for market as compared with 82 per cent last year and 81 per cent the five-year average.

Other Crops

LOCAL EXPERTS TALK TO AG INSTRUCTORS

Two-Day Session Held In Dover In Connection With Teachers' Association.

The two-day conference of high school teachers of agriculture which was held at Dover in connection with the State Teachers' Association meetings, concluded on Friday afternoon with a very interesting and profitable session, at which Dean McCue, Dr. C. C. Palmer, and Prof. George L. Schuster of the University of Delaware, made addresses.

Dean McCue explained how the Agricultural College can best help the high school teacher of agriculture, emphasizing in very emphatic terms the need for high school teachers to keep abreast of the times in the field of agriculture, which can only be done by keeping in close touch with the work that the Experimental Farm is doing. He also pointed out the need for closer co-operation between the teachers of agriculture and the Extension representatives who are working on rural problems. Other ways in which the high school teacher can secure help from the College of Agriculture is to make frequent visits to the College when help in any field of endeavor is needed, and by using the College publications containing experimental data to supplement the regular text books used.

Dr. C. C. Palmer stressed the importance of using preventive measures in combating poultry diseases. His address dealt primarily with the prominent poultry diseases of economic importance in Delaware and gave many valuable recommendations and suggestions with reference to the treatment of the diseases when once detected in the poultry flock.

Prof. Schuster explained the rules and regulations which will govern the Delaware State Corn Show, which will be held in January at Dover, and stated under what conditions the various premiums have been offered. He also called attention to the three silver cups which are open to the boys taking agriculture in the high schools, and urged that each high school put on a local contest in order to determine the best judges to represent the school at the Dover show.

New Century Club

The program at the Newark New Century Club, Monday afternoon, was in charge of Mrs. Alex Cobb, chairman of the Education Committee of the club. She first read Governor Robinson's proclamation in regard to "Education Week," then she called upon Mrs. T. F. Manns, State Chairman of Education, to announce the program of educational work that she would like the Women's Clubs all over the state to undertake this year. She asked, first, that the Clubs co-operate with the Parent-Teacher Associations, in their effort to wipe out illiteracy. (This is a part of the program of the National Federation of Women's Clubs); that when it is feasible to urge the public to put at least one woman on every school board; that our State Club stand with the general Federation in their effort to add a Secretary of Education to the President's Cabinet; that we foster kindergartens; that we keep on working for a better school plan for the whole State of Delaware; and that we strive to secure better pay for teachers and the best trained teachers possible.

Mrs. Cobb said she had interviewed the managers of the motion picture houses to ask them if they could not plan to put on good pictures, Friday night, suitable for school children.

The principal speaker of the afternoon was Miss Burnett, State Director of Adult Education. She gave a most interesting account of what has been done in the Americanization Schools for the foreign-born in the past six years. These people have been most appreciative and the results very gratifying. There is still a need for this kind of work and it will be continued. The new phase of the work is to establish schools for our native born adults who have had little or no opportunity for education.

It is the intention of the State Department of Education to open one of these adult schools in Newark in January. We citizens of this community are asked to do all we can to bring this opportunity to the attention of those who can profit by it.

Delightful music played by Mrs. William Holton and Mrs. George Dutton was also a feature of the afternoon.

Mrs. William Evans offered to loan her piano to the club so that in the future ensemble music will be possible. The club gratefully accepted her generous offer.

Signed by the Secretary.

WOMEN'S COLLEGE
NOTES

(Written for The Post)

Memorial services were held on Armistice Day in Chapel, Dean Robinson presiding. Miss Robinson spoke feelingly of the tombs of unknown soldiers that she had visited abroad and of the devotion to those shrines that increases as the years go by. Miss Anne Ritz sang "Are We Forgotten?" Miss Keeley of the English Department, read some of Vachel Lindsay's poems. A silent prayer by the student body concluded a short but most impressive service.

Permanent class officers for the freshman class have been elected as follows: President, Rosalie Steele; vice-president, Edith Nunn; secretary, Virginia Smith; treasurer, Edith Passmore.

Two forms of excitement prevailed at Women's College last week—tests of varying degrees of terror and inter-class games. On Wednesday the Juniors and the Seniors played hockey, with a resulting score of 2 to 0 in favor of the Seniors. The game was peppy and the cheering, led by Georgia Wiggins and Beulah Thompson, dressed as sailors, was the finest we have had this year. The sale of hot dogs gave the hour even more of a holiday tone. The fun was carried into the dining-room where song after song enlivened the dinner hour. Those playing were: Seniors, Chipman, Ewing, Rodney, Sharpless, Kreuger, Francis, Davis, Tyler, Callaway, Yearsley and Stengle; Juniors, Ady, Jefferson, Bassett, Brooks, Hutt, Butler, Jones, Hurst, Wilson, Coleman, and Keithley.

On Saturday morning at eleven o'clock, Sophomores and Seniors played for the championship in hockey. The Sophomores were victorious, 2 to 0. Those playing on the Senior team were the same as in Wednesday's game. Sophomores: Burke, Johnson, Holton, Miller, Warner, Steele, Marshall, Campbell, Higgins, Murray, Goldstein, Reynolds.

The Senior-Faculty game in hockey is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at four o'clock.

The Sophomore volleyball team has been posted as follows: Mary Beauchamp, Mildred Bennett, Marjorie Cameron, Peg Connor, Frances Goldstein, Kitty Horton, Edith Jackson, Hazel Malcolm, Grace Smedley, Bonnie Walker, Ruth Larter, and Martha Vandever.

Mary Frances, Elizabeth Crooks, Margaret Nunn, Devona Keithley, Nancy Jones and Mildred Webb represented the Women's College at the Conference of Christian Associations which was held in Baltimore last Saturday and Sunday. The purpose of the conference was a discussion of the World Court and delegates were present from colleges and universities of Delaware, Maryland, and the District of Columbia. Similar groups were in conference in different cities of the United States at the same time.

Virginia Smith led Vespers on Sunday evening and the speaker for the evening was Mr. Hackett, who was at one time treasurer for the Christian Endeavor Associations of Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia, and who is now connected with Christian Endeavor work in the city of Wilmington.

Katharine Ady and Martha Baer attended the football game and dances at the University of Maryland last week-end.

Mrs. Jeff. Pool, of Wilmington, entertained at dinner last Friday evening in honor of her sisters, Misses Elizabeth and Margaret Brady. The other guests were: Ruth Larter, Mary Jeffries, Marjorie Johnson, and Hattie McCabe, all fellow-students of the Misses Brady at Women's College.

Week-end visitors seen at Women's College were: Charlotte Dayett, Blanche Workman, Louise Alexander, Blanche Wooten, Dorothy Hobbs, Nellie Hill, Bessie Wooten, Louise Beck, Mrs. Humes Grier, Mrs. Edward Murphy, and Elizabeth Elliot.

Dean Robinson attended the installation of Dr. Henry Thomas Moore, the new president of Skidmore College, at Saratoga Springs, last Monday.

NEW SCHOOL TO BE FORMALLY DEDICATED NEXT SATURDAY

Pierre S. du Pont, president of the Service Citizens of Delaware, and foremost benefactor of Delaware schools, will speak at the dedication program to be held at the new building next Saturday afternoon. With Mr. du Pont on the list of speakers will be Dr. Walter Hüllihen, president of the University; Dr. Joseph H. Odell, director of the Service Citizens, and Dr. H. V. Holloway, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

NEWARK GIRL'S LETTERS FROM FRANCE

Concluding Installment of Letters Written by Miss Kathryn Hubert, a Member of the Delaware Foreign Study Group at Oancy

Nancy, France, August 13, 1925.
... The Toussaints are quite nice. I am quite satisfied with my home here. Of course, it's a little bit inconvenient to study by lamp light and wash out of a china basin, but Abraham Lincoln did worse things than that, so I guess I can stand it for a while. I haven't had a real, honest-to-goodness bath since we left the boat. Of course, I get hot water and can take sponge baths, but I'd surely like a real bath in a real tub once again.

The trip to Verdun two weeks ago was quite interesting, but we surely had terrible weather. It rained when we left here on Saturday at 6:30 in the morning and it was still raining when we got back at 11:00 Sunday night. We never go anywhere without carrying umbrellas. It seems so stupid to me to start out with a camera in one hand and an umbrella in the other, yet we do this on every trip. We walked over the battle fields at Verdun. There are still plenty of souvenirs of the war. In

OAK GROVE LOSES
BOND ISSUE FIGHT

Measure To Insure Better
Quarters for Children Defeated Saturday, 404 to 161.

Residents of Oak Grove between Newark and Wilmington, defeated on Saturday a proposal to bond the school district for $60,000 for a new school. The defeat was the second administered to the measure in two years. Charges and counter-charges were reported rife after the balloting. It was one of the most hotly contested elections ever held in the community.

A Wilmington paper reports as follows:

"When the vote was announced, the school room in which the election was held, was filled with school children, many of whom are compelled to attend classes in the school basement five days a week.

These children as well as many of the parents who remained after the polls closed, expressed themselves in no uncertain terms. The parents charged the political leaders of the district had defeated the measure as they did in the spring of 1924.

The measure was defeated by a vote of 161 for and 404 votes against, a total vote of 565 being cast. The voting population of the school district is estimated at 1287.

"The opponents of the bond measure pressed into service ten or more automobiles and from the time the polls opened at 1 o'clock until the last vote was cast at 8 o'clock, these machines were in constant use."

one field we saw two Italians taking apart unexploded shells. They are dangerous things. Our guides kept yelling to us to be careful of them. The shells, I mean.

There's one bad feature about most of these trips. We take them with the University students—all nationalities, but mostly Poles and Czechs. They are a terrible lot, I think, and so do the rest of our group. One Polish woman carried a human bone from the battle fields at Verdun, as a souvenir. Some people got old rusty and broken helmets and swords. We saw whole forests that had been destroyed by war. There are lots of trees or parts of trees standing, but all torn by shells. There are lots and lots of shell holes to be seen. A good many are so deep that they are filled with water now and have reed growing in them.

We saw the Trench of the Bayonets, where quite a few soldiers were buried alive. They were standing with their guns pointing upward, just ready to go over the top, when a lot of dirt covered them. They weren't discovered for quite a time afterward—an aviator saw them as he was passing over and investigated. Of course, they were mostly unknown, so they were left buried there. An American named Rand had a statue built over them so that souvenir seekers would not try to take the bayonets, etc.

We saw quite a few cemeteries, the citadel at Verdun, several old forts, the remains of the Cathedral and other buildings. The Cathedral is being rebuilt now. We attended mass there the Sunday we were at Verdun. I have pictures of all these things to show you but had best keep them till I come home. They are too large for ordinary mail, and postage is too expensive otherwise.

At dinner the Saturday night in Verdun, someone suggested that we sing national anthems. We sang the Star Spangled Banner first. Then came the Polish, Danish, English, French, Czech anthems. There were also a few Welsh, Scotch, Swiss, one Hindu there; but not enough to sing an anthem.

Do rush along those Newark "Posts," and if you have any of the old copies, the ones I've missed seeing, I wish you'd send them along. Also please send me any clippings of interest from the other papers. I want to know something about America when it's time for me to come back.

Paris, October 14, 1925.

Everybody thinks we'd get more out of this year if we spent it in a smaller city. But, of course, in education one must consider the operas, plays, etc., and Paris is the only place possible in this respect. 'Tis true, there are too many distractions here. It takes an awful effort to really apply one's self, but we are supposed to have exceptional will powers.

Monsieur Granger changes all the money for me. He goes to his bank every day; so it's no trouble at all. The rate of exchange is quite favorable now. Most of the time at Nancy we were only getting about F 20.30 or F 20.50 for the dollar. Now the rate of exchange is between F 21.60 and F 21.75. It has gone up quite a bit this week.

I've been having rather a nice time since I'm in Paris. My Polish friend, Mr. Motz, has been showing me about a bit. He and his cousin took me to the Exposition one night, and to Versailles Sunday. The Exposition is wonderful to see at night. The lighting effects are extremely good, and there are some beautiful fountains fixed up in and along the Seine. At night the fountains play, and the lights continually change in them. Versailles was wonderful Sunday.

TAX COLLECTIONS IN DELAWARE CONSISTENTLY
LOW INDICATES REPORT BY P. S. DU PONT

Interesting facts were brought to light a few days ago in a report of filing fee collections in the State over a period of the last four years by Tax Commissioner P. S. du Pont. The appended table shows the relative collection percentages in the three counties and the city of Wilmington.

Sussex county leads the list of counties with only a 14 per cent decrease in 1924 collections over 1921 collections. Rural New Castle is second, Kent third and the city of Wilmington last.

The comparisons shown by the following table were all for the periods from January 1 to October 31 in each of the four years. These figures are as follows:

	COMPARISON OF FILING FEES PAID				Percentage 1924 Col- lections Com- pared With
	1921	1922	1923	1924
City of Wilmington	50,662	35,927	33,576	31,164	62%

SESQUICENTENNIAL
HISTORY
SKETCHES

The one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence will be observed by the Sesquicentennial International Exposition, which opens at Philadelphia, June 1, 1926.

HISTORIC CHRIST CHURCH IN PHILADELPHIA

Old Christ Church, on Second street below Arch street, Philadelphia, has heard the prayers of America's first patriots beseeching freedom from tyranny. Visitors to the Sesquicentennial International Exposition next year will scarcely find a landmark of more historical significance.

Construction of the ancient sanctuary, which is of pure Colonial architecture, was begun in 1727. Discussion regarding an environment conducive to worship must have abounded, for many alterations were made, and it was only after the pulpit was moved twice, the gallery enlarged, the seats altered, and the twenty-four branch chandelier hung, that the body of the church was completed in 1744. The pillars alone seem to have been made of adamant.

Funds for a steeple and bells were raised by means of a lottery. The latter would indicate a more broad-minded attitude on the part of our forefathers toward funding expenses than is the custom of the 20th century vestrymen. There can be no doubt that it was oversubscribed since Benjamin Franklin was one of its managers. The tower and steeple were completed in 1753-54, and a chime of eight bells, costing five hundred pounds, was imported.

The old pulpit of 1770, the prayer desks made from the original high desk, and the old communion table below the altar, remain to this day. The font, at which Bishop White, Francis Hopkinson, and a long list of worthies were baptized, was replaced in 1879 by one which was the gift of Jonathan Gosteloup. The beautiful silver bowl, weighing over sixty-three ounces, presented by Colonel Robert Quarry of the British Army in 1712, is still used.

It is the general impression that Washington, during his sojourn in Philadelphia, was a regular attendant at Christ Church. However, it appears from the correspondence of Bishop White with Colonel Mercer that the General was at one time a worshipper at St. Peter's. Says Bishop White: "He was an antipode to those who are in the habit of changing the places of their attendance."

Many distinguished men were buried under the floor of Christ Church, including Bishop White and his brother-in-law, Robert Morris. In the burying ground at the southeast corner of Fifth and Arch streets were buried Franklin and his wife, Deborah; General James Irvine, Major William Jackson, the Rev. Bird Wilson, Peyton Randolph, president of the First Continental Congress, and Francis Hopkinson.

The Rev. Jacob Duche, a gentleman with Tory proclivities, shepherded the illustrious Christ Church flock during the stirring period of 1776. On the Fourth of July, after the reading of the Declaration, he permitted the bells of the church to chime merrily, becoming, for the moment, a patriot. Later he wrote his famous letter to Washington, in which he states that he insisted upon using the prayer for the royal family till the last moment, though threatened with violence; but that on the Declaration of Independence, not being able to consult his spiritual superior, he called his vestry together and solemnly put the question, whether they thought it best for the congregations to close the churches or to continue the services without using the petitions for the royal family. The vestry promptly decided: "The Honorable Continental Congress, having resolved to declare the American Colonies to be free and independent States: it will be proper to omit these petitions."

Verily, the clerical conscience was salved with opportunism.

BURKE ENJOYS A
VARIED CAREER

Baritone Coming Here This Week, Relates Experiences.

Edmund Burke, the breezy, good-humored Irish-Canadian baritone, who sings here Friday evening in Wolf Hall, has been an internationally prominent figure in the musical world for some time now. This country welcomed him back after a sojourn in Europe as a leading member of the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, London, as they remembered him with enthusiasm as a member of the Melba-Kubelik Concert Company in 1923.

Mr. Burke was born in Canada of Irish parents, went in for law, taking his arts and law course at McGill University, Montreal. Even in his university days, however, Mr. Burke could not keep away from music, notwithstanding that his professor threatened to "plough" him, and so he blossomed forth as the conductor of the Glee Club.

"Yes, I began pretty early," he admits, genially. "I sang in a church choir when I was only eight years old—went in as the smallest boy-soprano and came out as the biggest basso." He is over six feet tall. Following his graduation from McGill he went to London to study at the Royal College of Music, and from there went to France, where he worked like a Trojan in order that his French might be taken for pure native, and soon got an engagement at Montpelier to sing leading baritone roles.

"This was invaluable experience," he relates. "They throw you into the work there, just as one might throw a man into water and tell him he must swim. The audiences in that part of the world are very enthusiastic, they cheer a man or hiss him. There is no uncertainty about the success one is making. Sometimes, they become extremely demonstrative; one night I remember they had to turn a hose on an audience in order to get them out of the theatre after they had started to throw the benches around and rip things up generally."

COLLEGE MEN AMUSE
IN ANNUAL FROLIC

Freshmen Parade; Visiting
"Charleston" Experts; Faculty Impersonations Are Feature.

What with 200 Freshmen in all manner of costumes parading behind the college band, cheers which swept the length and breadth of Main street, and a number of clever "skits" in Old College, the Newark townfolk had a glimpse Friday night of the college man run rampant.

The occasion was the annual Parade and Smoker held prior to the Haverford gridiron battle.

The Frosh began their march shortly after seven o'clock, journeying up and down Main street and as far south as the Women's College. Then followed the awarding of several prizes, the skits and the concluding pep meeting.

Among the real features of the evening were Bonsall's Extraordinary and Accomplished Troupe of Charleston Dancers, consisting of twelve Negro boys of tender years. Such amazing steps of that famous dance were never seen in Old College. The dark skin entertainers brought down the house.

Then came Pat Leahy and Hyman Yanowitz, who conducted a "College Hour" to the intense delight of the assembled throng. Dr. Hüllihen, Dean Robinson, Dr. Sypher and Major Underwood all came under the glare of their inimitable impersonation.

Givan, Hesselburg and Clark, hobo jazz artists, produced an original act which was encored several times.

D. Tremaine, of Dover, submitted the prize song and was awarded $5.00. Those who spoke at the smoker were Captain Kramer, Coach Forstburg, "Red" Owens, "Dutch" Hauber, old grad, Dick Cole, old grad Ed Murphy, former football manager, and several others.

Jimmy Mannix, president of the student council, presided, and Messrs. Sypher, Patterson and Keorber of the Faculty were judges who awarded the prizes.

First we visited the chateau of Louis XIV. It proved quite what I expected a palace to be like. Then we walked around the lakes, fountains, etc., and finally saw the Grand and the Petit Triangulaire. They were closed. All museums and things close at 4.30, so I will have to take another trip to see the things I was unable to see. We also saw the gardens of Marie Antoinette. We walked miles and miles, and then didn't see all there was to be seen. The flowers there are the most wonderful I've ever seen. And you should see the trees. You can find nearly every color of the rainbow in their leaves—all sorts of shades of purple, red, yellow, orange. I should have liked very much to have been Marie Antoinette.

Some of the girls have been out to Longchamp, a big race course the other side of the Bois de Boulogne. I hope to go sometime soon. . . . From what I've heard, the betting is carried on in pretty much the same way as in America. They only have one kind of race there, however. There is a special track for the steeplechase. . . . There was a political strike of taxis, trolleys, and buses here Monday. Just a 24 hour strike, and it failed. It only covered certain areas, but it was a nuisance. Ruth, Ed, and I were down town, and couldn't get back. We searched everywhere for a taxi, and finally had to come in the Metro (subway). I was never in a worse jam in my life.

Enjoyed the opera very much Saturday night. Between acts everyone promenades in what is called the Foyer. All the nobility, rich, etc., of Paris are there. The Opera Building is quite the most wonderful thing I've seen. With all these wonderful people, the gorgeous clothes, the lights, the mirrors, etc., it seemed a veritable Fairyland.

PLAYHOUSE

The coming of "No, No, Nanette," opening for one week at the Playhouse, Wilmington, next Monday night, November 23, will be admittedly the high spot of the theatrical season. With blasé New York still in a rush for seats for this extraordinarily successful and popular musical play, whose fame has swept around the world. With a solid year in Chicago to its credit, and with a two-year run predicted for London where it is still the rage after many months, "No, No, Nanette" stands unrivalled in all the long history of the English-speaking stage. That Wilmington will give this new Frazee hit a memorable welcome is evidenced by the overwhelming demand for seats. Mail orders have broken all records and the advance sale has been unprecedented. So it is the part of wisdom to go to the box office early or risk disappointment.

Not in many seasons, we are told, has a musical comedy so fully satisfied all requirements. The book, by Frank Mandel and Otto Harbach, is said to be the most legitimately humorous work of its kind in a generation, because it tells a definite and substantial story, with scene after scene of unbounded hilarity, developing not merely from the antics of clever actors but through the laughable complications and situations that arise naturally from its plot.

CHARLESTOWN FOLK WANT BRIDGE OPENED

Structure Destroyed By Fire Last Summer Subject of Petition.

Many residents and property owners of Charlestown and vicinity have petitioned the State Roads Commission to have the overhead span, known as Heisler's bridge, which crosses the tracks of the Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington railroad, just north of the town of Charlestown, rebuilt.

The bridge was destroyed by fire last June, and since then traffic has been compelled to go to the upper end of the village or go over a grade crossing on the outskirts of Charlestown.

The Roads Commission is said to declare it the duty of the Pennsylvania Railroad to rebuild the bridge, and it has threatened to bring suit to compel such action. The railroad company denies liability.

FARM STATISTICS

Delaware Has Over 10,000 Farms, According To Census

Delaware has 10,257 farms, according to a survey made by the United States Department of Commerce. This is an increase of 117 over the number in this State five years ago or in 1920. When a survey was made in 1920 it was found that Delaware had a total of 10,140 farms. The increase in the past five years is 1/2 per cent.

The State of Maryland has 48,997 farms the department of Commerce report shows. This is an increase of 1,089 in five years. In 1920 Maryland had 47,908 farms. The increase in this State has been 2.3 per cent.

A farm for census purposes is all the land, which is directly farmed by one person, either by his own labor alone or with the assistance of members of his household or hired employees. When a landowner has one or more tenants, renters, croppers, or managers, the land operated by each is considered a "farm."

Those places where the motor-car is displacing the locomotive have not up to this time included the crossing. —Detroit News.

Y. W. C. A. COMMENCES DRIVE FOR BUDGET

$3000 To Be Raised in Rural Sections Comprising North- ern District.

The drive for $3000 to meet their budget was launched Monday by the Northern District of the Y. W. C. A.

The chief activity of the Rural "Y," as it is termed, is work with girls and young women, organizing Girls' Reserve Clubs and Business Girls' Clubs.

Several of the towns where the "Y" is represented have headquarters of their own, as in New Castle, Townsend and Dover. In other parts of the state they meet in school houses. The state headquarters is in Middletown. Miss Martha Good is the District Secretary.

The camp, which is located near Dagsboro, was completed in July. The total attendance for the seven weeks was 279. The organization owns fifteen and one-third acres, on which a large lodge has been constructed. It is located on the Indian River, and is an excellent spot for bathing and other summer sports. The lodge is in the midst of a large pine and oak grove.

Requests for new organizations have come from St. Georges, Smyrna and Delmar. It is expected that a special worker will be secured in February to organize. There are now over 300 members of girls' clubs and 500 women members.

The Board of Directors consists of the following: Mrs. W. W. Harrington, Mrs. James H. Hughes and Mrs. Henry Ridgely, of Dover; Dean W. J. Robinson, of the Women's College, University of Delaware; Mrs. D. W. Stevens, Mrs. Clarence Pool, Middletown; Mrs. W. Harmon Reynolds, Townsend; Mrs. Mattie Townsend, Mrs. H. C. Hitchens, Wyoming; Mrs. Harry Smith, Leipsic; Mrs. Paul King, Claymont; Mrs. George Mullin, Marshallton.

The Grange in a Pennsylvania county has for several months past been conducting a spelling contest, pitting against each other the various subordinate Granges and then bringing together the local winners for a big county tryout, awarding suitable prizes.

"The Floating Show" Begins Its Winter Cruise Among Bay Landings.
How The Pioneer, Adams, Began The Custom Eleven Years Ago

The old time melodrama, if you will pardon the paradox, is ever new, whether it be played to bejeweled ladies in Mezzanine boxes or from the creaking boards of the Grange Hall.

This fall marks the eleventh annual launching of another institution of the delightful Eastern Shore country—the floating playhouse. It is of this custom, and its founder, James Adams, that a story has been written for the Saturday Evening Post.

In part, the story goes thus: "The clover patch of the show boats today is Chesapeake Bay and the rivers that flow into it, where the James Adams Floating Theatre has foisted without competition for eleven years, playing week stands at little landings of half a dozen houses. Adams and his wife originally were circus performers with an aerial act. Later he was a partner of Johnny J. Jones, now 'king of the carnival world,' owning one of the largest outdoor shows in the world. Jones is several times a millionaire and Adams is somewhere in the vicinity, but the latter had to sell his home a few years ago to pay the debts of a busted circus. After the circus disaster he put on a two-car ten-cent vaudeville tent show in the South. It was the first time vaudeville had been shown at so low a price and he made a small fortune. His success was so spectacular, in fact, that each year the bulk of his company left him and started rival ten-cent shows until the golden goose was cooked.

"About this time the show played Huntington, West Virginia, where Adams saw his first show boat.

"That looks like trouping as is trouping," he told Mrs. Adams, and the following season, as he played the South Atlantic Coast, he hung around the docks in his spare moments and talked with seamen and fishermen of the feasibility of a show boat in salt water. Some said yes, some said no, and others hedged, but Mr. Adams' decision was yes. He bought his timber standing in the forests of South Carolina, great beams long enough to run the full length of his hull without splicing. A shipyard at Little Washington, N. C., built the hull for him of heavy thirty-two foot planks across the bottom, a skin four inches thick, and drift bolted every two feet with twenty-seven-inch bolts. Such construction saved the boat five years ago in a northeaster off Tangier Island. It strained at its anchors for fourteen hours, flying distress signals, and waves breaking over the roof of the theatre. A fisherman crept out from the lee of the island to the rescue, but lost its wheel and had to run for it, and no help reached them until the storm had spent its fury and help no longer was needed.

"Mr. Adams drew the plans for and oversaw the building of the theatre and superstructure. The boat is 122 feet long, with a thirty-four-foot beam, and draws only fourteen inches of water. Except for its much sturdier construction, it is not unlike its fresh-water cousins. The theatre auditorium is thirty by eighty feet, lower floor, balcony and boxes. The stage opening is nineteen feet across. Each spring a scenic artist comes aboard for four weeks and paints a full set of scenery, the sets and drops are all reversible. When not in use the property furniture is stored on an elevated platform at the back of the stage, the other props labeled and stored around the stage walls in cubby holes. Mr. and Mrs. Adams' quarters and those of Charles N. Hunter and his wife are over the box office, business office and lobby at the bow. There are eight other living-room-dressing-rooms at the stern, back of the rear wall of the stage. The dining room, kitchen and cook's quarters are beneath the stage, the entrance through the orchestra pit.

"Mr. Hunter has been with the boat from the first. He is stage manager, director and player, and brother-in-law of Mr. Adams. His wife, Miss Beulah Adams, 'The Mary Pickford of the Chesapeake,' leading woman for eight years, is a baby sister of the proprietor. Having added largely to their profits from the floating theatre by dealings in Philadelphia real estate, Mr. and Mrs. Adams have spent little time on the boat in recent years. When they do appear it usually is on their private yacht, and the business end has been delegated to Selba Adams, a brother.

"In its early years the Adams built up business by a shrewd scheme. At every stop a list of motor-car owners was obtained from the local garages, and a complimentary ticket mailed to each owner. The recipients came, bringing with them carloads of others who paid their way in. Now the boat has no advance man and no longer even bothers to bill the county. One five-dollar ad in the county newspaper, ten dollars if there are two, is the advertising expense. There is no callopie, no beating of drums, no band concerts or parades. Playing the same territory year after year without competition, there is no need for it. There are more towns on the route than the boat can play in a season. The dates are given to those that turn out consistently in the largest numbers. Two nights of poor business and the town is dropped as a franchise is transferred in a baseball league. The boat has a record of defeating three mayors on a higher-license issue, since then there has been no trouble about license fees.

The Adamsons, the Hunters and the leader of the orchestra carry motor cars abroad in which they dash off to cities a hundred miles away when and as they like. On Labor Day Sunday they were to have motored from Port Royal, Virginia, that week's date, over the mountains to the caverns of Luray, ninety miles distant, but at dawn one of the two tugs went aground on a bar in the Rappahannock coming up from Tappahannock. They did not get off until flood tide that afternoon, docking at Port Royal after dark.

Club, which has been re-organized by Miss Richardson, will be held this evening at seven o'clock in the assembly room of Sussex Hall. A large number of the students from the French classes and several members of the faculty comprise this club and meet in order to converse in the French language.

A number of students are planning to take advantage of the opportunity to hear the recital by Edmund Burke on Friday evening in Wolf Hall. Mr. Burke, bass-baritone and a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company, has been secured for the Newark recital by the Newark Music Society.

Saturday promises to be a delightful day on the social calendar of the Women's College. Those girls who are associated on the "Review" staff have arranged a tea-dansant to be given from four until six o'clock, for the benefit of the "Review." Merrel Pyle will pour tea and the following girls will serve: Linda Bassett, Nancy Jones, Katharine Ady, Louise Turner, Elizabeth Brady, Lillian Loose, Christine Baker, and Hattie McCabe. The first Open Night of the year will be held on Saturday evening in the Hilarium. The patronesses will be: Miss Allen, Miss Taylor, Miss Parker, and Miss Eloise Rodney. Those who are assisting Miss Rodney in arranging the affair are: Sallie Calloway, Tacy Hurst, and Margaret Satterfield.

This One-Profit •• Unit-Built Studebaker

offers you 3 major advantages in Quality, Price and Protected Investment

THE average man on the street today knows that through more efficient manufacture, standardization of parts, etc., all makers offer him more for his money than ever before.

All makers claim greater things for their product — and can prove them. All makers rest their case on more economical manufacturing due to quantity production under modern efficiency methods. All cars are fair value but there is a best value.

Few motor car "manufacturers" have foundries, forges, etc., to make their own engines—yet one-fourth of the cost of an automobile is in the engine. Even fewer build their own bodies—yet one-third of the cost of a car is in the body.

Only two makers have adequate facilities for making all bodies, engines, clutches, gear sets, springs, differentials, steering gears, axles, gray iron castings and drop forgings: Ford in the low-price field and Studebaker in the fine-car field.

One-Profit Value

Because of its unique manufacturing facilities, Studebaker eliminates profits which all other quality car manufacturers must pay to outside parts or body makers. Savings effected in this way run to hundreds of dollars on some models. Thus Studebaker is able to use finest steels, finest woods, finest engineering and superlative workmanship in its cars; then to add costly extras . . . and still charge no more than competing cars.

Unit-Built Construction

One-Profit facilities result, too, in Unit-Built construction. In cars designed and built as units. The hundreds of parts used in a Studebaker car are Studebaker. They function together as a unit, resulting in longer life, greater riding comfort and higher resale value for you. Scores of thousands of miles of excess transportation thus are built into Studebaker cars. Records of more than one hundred thousand miles are not uncommon.

And "No-Yearly-Models"

As a natural outgrowth of those two factors, a third great advantage to the buyer is attained . . . "No-Yearly-Models." Because all phases of manufacture are directly under Studebaker control, Studebaker cars are constantly kept up-to-date. Improvements are continually made—not saved up for spectacular annual announcements which make cars artificially obsolete. Resale values are thus stabilized. As an example of the value One-Profit manufacture makes possible, see the Studebaker Standard Six Sedan.

Studebaker's Lowest Priced Sedan—but all quality

THE fine Studebaker Standard Six Sedan illustrated below is a real four-door sedan. It is upholstered in genuine wool cloth. Carpets are wool. Windows are real plate glass.

The equipment includes an 8-day clock, gasoline gauge, ash receiver, rear-vision mirror, stop light, dome light, safety lighting control on steering wheel, automatic windshield cleaner, coincidental lock to steering gear and ignition controlled by same key operating door and spare-tire locks, and full-size balloon tires. All instruments are grouped under glass on a silver-faced dial set in a beautiful walnut finished panel.

But the most important superiorities of this Sedan are concealed within the framework of the body and in the chassis.

Body pillars, for instance, are of northern white ash, cross-members of hard maple. We pay a premium for steels of extra toughness.

Run the engine—the most powerful in any car of its size and weight, according to the rating of the N. A. C. C. and the Society of Automotive Engineers. The motor is not built for excessive speed, but rather for smooth, trouble-free service at 5 to 55 miles an hour. It is built for a long, quiet life—not for spectacular stunts.

We will gladly demonstrate this car and finance its purchase on Studebaker's fair and liberal Budget Payment Plan.

REWIRING OLD HOME

The old home has been lived in, presumably. Each room has its associations and uses, making it really a simpler matter to rewire an old home than it is to wire up a new residence not yet broken-in to the daily activity of the household. That is, if the objective is primarily to secure for the old house the comforts and conveniences of electric service and not simply to replace the obsolete lighting system at a minimum expense and perhaps introduce an electric appliance or two. On that basis the transformation can be accomplished more effectively than an un-lived-in home can be planned—i. e., from the point of view of electrical comfort.

The objective must not be confused, however, for there is little or no economy in attempting to save money by skimping on the wiring. Approach the problem boldly and disregard the handicap of the plastered walls and ceilings and the flooring in place, for the shortcomings of the old home are known and a clear idea should be had of what transformation is needed for securing the utmost in comfort and convenience. True, the walls, ceiling and floors are in place, but they can be removed in spots, if necessary, and wires can be fished and drawn with surprisingly little damage—easily repaired—to existing structures. Exposed conduit that is not at all objectionable in appearance can be used, where permitted, and the wiring operation carried forward both expeditiously and at little greater cost than it could be before the walls and floors were finished.

Rewiring an old home should be considered a straight wiring undertaking. Just as qualified electricians can carry forward their work, while a house is being erected, without serious inconvenience to other workmen, so can they carry forward the wiring of an old building without greatly interfering with the comfort of the household. If the old home is unoccupied, so much the better, for the necessary redecoration will readily absorb the small additional expense of repairing the damage occasioned by the wiring work.

If the question of expense carries much weight, it will prove a far better investment to make a good—that is, complete—wiring job and economize on fixtures and fittings than it would be to skimp on the wiring and install costlier lighting equipment and omit any convenience or switch outlets. The latter, both receptacles and control equipment, should be installed generously.
