ALUMNI BANQUET

Old Delaware Men Dine At Wilmington Country Club

The members of the Alumni Association of Delaware College dined at the Wilmington Country Club on Saturday evening. Sixty-five of the sons of "Old Delaware" sat down to feast at 7:30 o'clock. The dinner was one of the most successful gatherings that this body has had for some time. These affairs are arranged, primarily, to bring the graduates of the institution together, that they may informally talk over matters pertaining to the alma mater. Following is the menu:

Cape May Salts.
Cress and Tomato Soup.
Olives, Radishes, Almonds.
Filet of Sole, Lobster Sauce.
Roast Young Turkey.
Cranberry Jelly, Potato Rissoles.
Green Peas, Combination Salad.
Roquefort and Camembert Cheese.
Assorted Ice Cream, Mixed Cakes.
Coffee.

Cigars. Cigarettes.
Congressman William H. Heald, a member of the class of '83, president of the association, presided and also acted as toastmaster. Chancellor Chas. M. Curtis, of the class of '77, was the principal speaker of the evening. He spoke on the subject, "Higher Education for Women in Delaware."

John G. Gray, class of '83, spoke of "Delaware College in 1883." He saw the need of building up the college, but thought that the secondary schools from which the students come, should be first built up.

J. Harvey Whitehead, who substituted on list of speakers for Judge Victor B. Woolley, class of '85, declared himself most decidedly against co-education.

Charles W. Bush, class of '03, talked interestingly on the college and its activities in 1903.

Dr. George W. Marshall, class of '74, completed the list of speakers. He told of the work of the legislative committee of the board of trustees.

College songs and yells were given and enlivened the speeches of the heavyweights. Professional seriousness was thrown aside and Delaware enthusiasm was the keynote.

Those present were:
Class '74—George W. Marshall, Francis J. Springer, L. P. Bush.
Class '75—W. C. Curtis, F. William Curtis, Thomas Davis.
Class '77—Charles Curtis, W. T. Lyndell.

Class '82—L. Leiser Ball.
Class '83—Wm. H. Heald, John G. Gray.

Delaware Society Of Baltimore

The Delaware Society of Baltimore, organized last June, held its first banquet in Baltimore last night. Jonathan K. Voshell, the president, was toastmaster, and responses were made by E. Judson Clark, president of the Ohio Society; J. Grove Fardeau, William C. Conwell, vice-president; Chas. C. Garrett, Harry M. Cosh, secretary. The date marked the one hundred and twenty-third anniversary of the ratification of the Federal Constitution by the State of Delaware.

Century Club News

The New Century Club met at the home of Mrs. Alfred Curtis last Monday afternoon, the entire time being given to the pleasures of the social hour. The ladies were delightfully entertained with music furnished by Wilmington talent, vocal selections being rendered by Miss Wales and instrumental music by Mrs. Jeffries. Dainty refreshments were served.

Lecture In M. E. Church

The lecture, "The Mistakes of Our Neighbors," by Dr. Watt, was postponed last Tuesday evening by the snow storm. It will be given Thursday evening, December 15th.

NEWS

Here and There

Did you read the account of the Alumni dinner? No reporters or outsiders present. It was a close communion affair.

The next subject that will be aired is that of Higher Education for Women in Delaware. In contradiction to the general belief, this does not necessarily mean co-education at Delaware College.

The children are having a busy time. Preparing for the Christmas entertainments, getting the good of the snow in sledding parties, and in attending to school, and all that to them stands for work, makes these December days full ones for the young folk.

The work of relaying the pipe at the West End of town has been completed.

The Wilmer E. Renshaw store changed hands last Tuesday. It is now in the hands of Willard Bradley.

When buying your "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year" seals, don't forget the Red Cross stamps for sale at this office.

While James Pennington, a well-known resident near Newark, was visiting a brother in Philadelphia, last week, a "colored" farm hand ransacked the house, took $75, and escaped.

Many Newarkers are making appointments and keeping engagements with "Old Kris" these days, and many little ones are declaring that they "will try to be good." That is the best that any of us can do.

We note the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, widow of the late William Smith of Iron Hill, on October 15, aged 83 years. Mrs. Smith was the mother of Mrs. R. J. Colbert, of South Newark.

A number of the Agricultural students at the College visited the corn show at Dover Friday and Saturday of last week.

Rev. W. H. Laird, of Christ Church, Wilmington, delivered an address before the Freshmen Class of Delaware College this morning.

Rev. Adrian VanOveren, the new pastor of First of Christiana and Christiana Presbyterian Churches, has moved into the manse at the West End of town.

The afternoon Bridge Club was entertained Tuesday afternoon by Miss Anna Hossinger.

The ladies' Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church invited the public to their meeting which was held this afternoon in the lecture room of the church. Miss Mariana Worden, of Philadelphia, who has worked among the mountain whites of the South, told of her experiences and their needs. Mrs. J. W. Cooch talked on Syria—the foreign topic for the day.

Plans are under way for a Christmas dance to be given in the Opera House on December 20th.

The sleighing is pronounced the best for years. The absence of drifts enabling one to choose with perfect freedom the road he shall take, makes it particularly enjoyable.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Alice M. Ferguson and Mr. G. H. Dayett, of Wilmington. Mr. Dayett is a graduate of Lehigh University and now employed as draftsman at the Edge Moor Iron Works.

Miss Ethel Campbell attended the wedding of Miss Beulah Dolson and Mr. Clifford McIntire, '09, at Mount Carmel, today.

The Bachelor Girls have postponed all club meetings until after Christmas.

Dr. Spooner, who is conducting services in the Presbyterian Church of Newark, has given several sermons illustrated by the use of the stereopticon. Probably the most impressive of these was the description of the Passion Play at Oberammergau, given last Saturday night. Dr. Spooner has seen the play and his description was particularly interesting.

The handsome hand-drawn table cover loaned off by Mrs. E. S. Avis last week was won by Mrs. C. B. Evans.

Among the visitors brought to town by the sleighing were Samuel Paperson of Wilmington, ex-Sheriff Taylor, New Castle, Roland Smith, of Oxford, Henry Crossen of Hockessin, and Henry Mitchell, of Elkton.

Thomas Young has sold his horse Rex, No. 2151-4, to Roland Thompson of Hockessin.

Warner McNeal is cutting ice today.

"Director," owned and driven by Frank Taylor, has attracted much attention on the speedway. The horse was sold last evening to George Huber.

Johnson with "Eldiel" and "Prince March, Jr.," owned by Dickey, of Stanton, received considerable attention yesterday.

Messrs. Pilling and Morrison are familiar figures during the sleighing season.

Enthusiastic meetings were held yesterday in Wilmington by members of the M. E. Conference. The distinguished Bishops Anderson and Berry, were present, taking active parts in the program of the day.

Over 100 representatives of the Delaware State Grange were present at the opening of the 66th annual session in Dover, yesterday. Among those present from Newark are Dr. Hayward and Mr. John Nivin.

Interesting chalk talks are being given to the children at the Presbyterian Church by Dr. Spooner. The speaker draws as he talks making his points plain in a manner that appeals forcibly to the child. These meetings are held at 4 o'clock.

History Of The Red Cross Seal

Red Cross Christmas seals were first known as "charity stamps," when they were used for soldiers' relief funds in Boston during the Civil War.

This method of raising money was not followed in America for the generation following the war, although it was followed in many European countries. There are hundreds of types in use in the different parts of the world.

These seals were first used in the fight against tuberculosis in Norway and Sweden in 1904.

Owing to the interest of Jacob Riis, the Delaware Anti-Tuberculosis Association, headed by Miss Emily P. Bissell and the Red Cross Society of Delaware combined in issuing a tuberculosis stamp.

So successful was this campaign that nearly $3,000 was realized, and the next year, in 1908, the American Red Cross was induced to issue a national Red Cross tuberculosis stamp. From this sale, $185,000 was realized, that amount being almost doubled in 1909.

This year, for the first time, the sale is organized on a "comprehensive" basis, taking in all parts of the United States. A million for tuberculosis work is confidently expected.

60,000 of these stamps have been placed on sale throughout the United States. Let us all help in this worthy campaign.

The stamps are on sale at the office of the NEWARK POST.

Newark Trust To Cash P. O. Money Orders

This progressive banking institution announces that Newark will enjoy a convenience with respect to postoffice money orders.

Beginning Monday, December 12, money orders will pass through this bank the same as checks. The orders may be deposited in the bank and will be cashed by it the same as when cash is presented for payment.

The bank receives no compensation for the service, but it is done for the reason that it is a convenience for the depositors who have accounts with it and receive money orders.

The management makes the request that where possible the public take advantage of this convenience and deposit postoffice money orders in the bank. Any individual has the same privilege as a depositor.

The bank reserves the right the same as they do relative to cashing checks, to refuse payment if it has a suspicion that there is anything wrong with the money order or if the person presenting it is not known.

Harmony Grange Receives Prize At Corn Show

Harmony Grange held its regular meeting last evening, and quite a number of the members were present. It was election night, and the following were appointed to serve for the coming year:

Master, Wm. Naudain; Overseer, Robert M. Walker, Lecturer, Mrs. Leslie Walker; Chaplain, A. Frank Klair; Steward, Wm. Klair; Assistant Steward, Joseph Mitchell, Jr.; Secretary, Ellen H. Mitchell; Treasurer, Arnold Naudain, Jr.; Caretaker, M. Bertha Klair; Pomona, Mary Rubenane; Flora, Sara Brackin; Lady Assistant Steward, Mary Walker. Standing committee, W. P. Peach, Hervey Walker and A. Frank Klair.

Wm. Naudain reported that Harmony Grange received a cash prize of $5 and also a silver loving cup, for the best Grange exhibit of corn, exhibited at Dover at the State Corn Show, last week. Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Peach, Mr. Hervey Walker, and Mr. Henry C. Mitchell expected to attend State Grange, which is being held at Dover this week.

Is This Time Here?

Dr. Eugene H. Porter, New York Health Commissioner, in discussing the possibilities of fighting preventable diseases, said: "Though we have made remarkable progress in the last few years, there, blocking our way stand the troops of selfishness and ignorance. These are always the twin foes of progress. If a proposition is made to provide for proper sewage disposal or to install a protected water supply in a town, selfishness objects because of the tax, and ignorance objects because where brains are wanting no reigns."

Rummage Sale

The trustees of the M. E. Church will conduct a rummage sale in the store room formerly occupied by Mr. Heiser and later by Mr. Renshaw. It will begin on Thursday of this week. Many useful articles will be on sale. Come and examine the stock. Open afternoons and evenings.

Persons having contributions to make will kindly send the same to store room by Thursday noon, or notify the trustees and they will call for it.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

BY PHILLIPS BROOKS

"O little town of Bethlehem!
How still we see thee lie;
Above the deep and dreamless sleep
The silent stars go by;
Yet in thy dark streets shineth
The everlasting Light;
The hopes and fears of all the years
Are met in thee to-night.

"For Christ is born of Mary:
And gathered all above
While mortals sleep, the angels keep
Their watch of wondering love
O morning stars together
Proclaim the holy birth;
And praises sing to God the King,
And peace to men on earth.

"How silently, how silently,
The wondrous gift is given!
So God imparts to human hearts
The blessings of His heaven.
No ear may hear His coming,
But in this world of sin,
Where meek souls will receive His still,
The dear Christ enters in.

"O holy Child of Bethlehem,
Descend to us, we pray;
Cast out our sin and enter in,
Be born in us to-day.
We hear the Christmas angels
The great glad tidings tell;
O come to us, abide with us,
Our Lord Emmanuel."

World Loved Hymn Of Christmastide

As our Christmas day draws to a close, there comes a hush in the excitement of joy and merriment that forms a part of the earlier hours. The softened rays of twilight lengthen o'er the hearth, bringing to many a desire for the quieter and deeper pleasures of the day. In many families the sweetest hour of this sacred time is that which takes the form of the singing of Christmas carols—a practice that represents many of the happy memories of a bygone Christmas time.

Of all these songs, probably none appeal so to the heart as the tender "O Little Town of Bethlehem," written by Phillips Brooks—a man so fired with the spirit of love, helpfulness and sympathy toward his fellow men!

From 1861-1869 Phillips Brooks was the rector of Holy Trinity Church, Philadelphia.

In the early part of that pastorate he visited Europe and about Christmas-time, the Holy Land.

He went "to make acquaintance with the soul of that land where so much that is strange and memorable and forever beautiful has come to pass; to walk quietly and humbly, without much dispute or talk, in fellowship with the spirit that haunts those hills and vales, under the influence of that deep and lucid sky; to feel that ineffable charm which breathes from its mountains, meadows and streams." And he found just that—out-of-doors, beneath the stars.

In a Christmas letter to home he wrote: "We rode to the field where they say the shepherds saw the Star. As we passed, the shepherds were still keeping watch over their flocks, or leading them to the field."

It is not definitely known when the words of this hymn were written, but we may believe they began to sing themselves into the heart of the writer on this December ride.

We can picture him in some Christmas season that followed his return, sitting in his quiet study and musing over the picture presented by that little Eastern town overhung by the wonderful liquid stars. Then the words of this sacred poem must have surged over him, "filled with such fervent love and human longing" and gratitude to God for his greatest gift to a needy world.

The Sunday School of Holy Trinity was preparing for their Christmas entertainment when the completed poem was handed to the organist, Mr. Lewis H. Redner, who immediately composed the music to which these words have become so well-known.

Of words and music Mr. Redner said: "Neither Mr. Brooks nor myself ever thought the carol or the music to it would live beyond that Christmas of 1868."

Of widely different rating are the words of a recent writer: "Not since the angel song of 'Glory to God in the Highest, and on Earth, Peace, Good Will Toward Men,' echoed among the Judean hills when the Christ child came to earth, has been sung a more popular hymn than this exquisite carol, whose author gained his inspiration directly from the plains of Bethlehem."

Delightful Affair At "The Knoll"

In response to the call of their hostess, Miss Hurl, ten ladies assembled at "The Knoll" last evening to give a farewell surprise to Mrs. E. R. Wolfe, who leaves tomorrow for an absence of a year. Mrs. Wolfe will visit various parts of our own country en route for California, from which point she will sail, early in 1911, for Japan, to join her son, T. R. Wolfe, who has a position with an American firm in that place.

Supper was served to the ladies at small, beautifully arranged tables. Small suit cases and trunks, tagged "Japan," marked each guest's place. Gentlemen arrived at a later hour. After a pleasant evening refreshments were served. Toasts were responded to, and God-speeds and well wishes showered upon the traveller-to-be. The members of the party were Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Handy, Dr. and Mrs. H. Phelps, Mr. and Mrs. Delaware Clark, Dr. and Mrs. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Curtis, Prof. and Mrs. C. L. Penny, Dr. Harter and Miss Groff, Mr. L. L. Curtis and M. F. C. Clark.

Speed On Main Street

For years the leniency of the Council and the long straight stretch on Main street furnishing a splendid speedway, has made Newark famous for its sleighs.

The snow has come in sufficient quantity, without the annoyances of drifts, and the horsemen of the neighborhood are reveling in this sport of winter time.

The offer of a silver cup for the animal showing the most speed while the snow lasts has added zest to the sport.

The race that has attracted most interest is that between Della March, driven by Daniel Thompson, Prince Albert, H. Warner McNeal, and Cal-tico, Herman Tyson.

Monday evening found the contest at a tie both Della March and Prince Albert having won two heats. The tie is to be raced off this afternoon.

Later on Monday Mr. Tyson brought out Ellison, owned by Mr. William Smith, and won several exciting brushes.

Many visitors representing the surrounding neighborhood are expected to be both among the racers and spectators. Those expected to take part this afternoon are Lewis Dickey, Stanton, with Revenue, Roland Smith, of Oxford, with a new horse, record, 2:11 1-4. Clyde McLaughlin, Oxford, Knox; Roland Thompson, Rex, 2:14 1-4 and Lewis Seth, of Elk Mills, with Austin Burns, 2:14 1-4.

Note—(Since writing the above, reports have come saying the race for the cup did not take place this afternoon owing to business calling Mr. McNeal away.)

Miss Wright Entertains

Miss Elsie Wright delightfully entertained at her home last evening. The hours sped by to the accompaniment of Five Hundred.

The winners, Mrs. E. H. Cooper and Prof. C. A. Short were presented with a handsome hand-painted plate and a beautifully carved pencil, as reminders of their success.

Among the guests were Prof. and Mrs. C. L. Penny, Prof. and Mrs. C. O. Houghton, Prof. and Mrs. C. A. Short, Mr. and Mrs. John Pilling, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Bonham, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Jacobs, Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Neale, Misses Elizabeth Lindsay, Sara Cooch, Eleanor Harter, Norma Wright, Nellie and Edna Wilson, Cornelia Pilling, Edith Spencer.

Messrs. Daniel Thompson, L. Bonham, C. B. Evans, Sturgis, Tiffany, Kelley, Professors Syphard and Van G. Smith, Dr. Steel.

Council Held Special Meeting

A special meeting of Council was held on Saturday evening, December 10th, the purpose being to authorize a temporary loan of $500. This is expected to be liquidated before the end of the month.

The matter of leasing the electric light and water plant which was suggested at the last meeting was further discussed. On motion of Mr. Rose, a committee of three—one of whom was to be President of Council, was appointed to investigate the desirability of leasing the plant and make a full report at the next meeting.

The committee who will make this investigation stands—J. P. Wright, President, Howard Leak and D. C. Rose.

A Surprise Party

A surprise party was given Paul Rhodes on Tuesday evening, Dec. 13, in honor of his twelfth birthday.

The evening was spent in playing many games an dmusic. About 10 o'clock the guests were invited to the dining-room to enjoy some tastily arranged refreshments. In the center of the table was a large cake with twelve colored candles on it, which was very pretty. In obedience to the hands of the clock the guests reluctantly departed.

Among the invited were Mary Clancey, Esther Gimmel, Lauretta Gimmel, Mary Doyle, Florence Moore, Ernie Cornog, Ernest Cornog, Harry Herbener, Charlie Moore, David Clancey, Conrad Lewis, Raymond Fader,

Trees Along The Pennsylvania

The Pennsylvania Railroad Co., for its Delaware division is engaged in setting out 15,000 young pine and oak trees along its property, and a force of fifteen men is now engaged every day in this work at Gravel Pit, just south of Middletown. E. R. Marker, a farmer, has accepted the position of foreman for this work.

Eliminating Grade Crossings

Announcement has been made by the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. that its new station at Bristol, Pa., on the change of line which has just been made through that city, will be located on Prospect street, near Beaver Dam Road and between the latter and Jefferson street. The station building itself will be built on the street level. There will be stairways leading from the platforms on the street level to the platforms on the track level. Additional stairways will provide access to the platforms direct from the street.

The elimination of grade crossings on the Bristol improvement is in line with the policy adopted by the company several years ago to do away with all grade crossings on the New York division where other portion of the system including the Bristol improvement, the company has, since January 1st, 1902, eliminated 683 grade crossings on the lines of the system east of Pittsburgh and Erie. Between Jersey City and Philadelphia alone 86 grade crossings have been abolished in the past 10 years.

The completion of the Bristol work will represent one of the most important steps taken in the plan of the Atlantic Coast to eliminate grade crossings in important cities between New York and Washington. To accomplish this has involved the elevation or depression of tracks in Jersey City, Newark, Elizabeth, New Brunswick, Trenton, Bristol, Philadelphia, Chester, Wilmington, Baltimore and Washington.

JUDGE HASTINGS' RESIGNATION

THE resignation of Daniel O. Hastings, as Associate Judge is a matter of sincere regret to every well thinking citizen in the State.

No matter how well versed in the law, how old in the profession or how honored by the State, we doubt if any man ever sat on the bench, more popular and more respected by the bar and citizenship at large, than this young man.

In his short experience before the bar, in the political arena, as Secretary of State and as Judge, he has won the merited approval of all. Adverse to Delaware's usual ultra conservatism, he is one man who has come from another State, made good and been accepted.

The Governor will have to think seriously to find a man so well qualified and at the same time, one in whom will be placed that same confidence as has been this man's good fortune.

The Courts will lose a good judge, sane and true. But the bar will have added prestige and the State will have an active citizen who will do good work, and one in whom her citizenship will some day place still higher confidence and reward accordingly.

TO THE SANITARY COMMISSION

AT the suggestion of the Board of Health, the mayor appointed a commission of ten representative citizens to investigate the ways and means of installing a sewer system in this town. This committee has been known as the Sanitary Commission. Some time during August, the Commission met, and with business-like enthusiasm organized and set to work to make a serious and exhaustive study of conditions here and investigate sewer systems in other towns with the idea of securing data so as to decide what kind of plant was best suited to a town of our size under our conditions of growth, etc. Mr. S. J. Wright, who had been the first citizen actively to agitate this improvement, contributed what information he had gathered from a correspondence with a Sanitary Engineer. Mr. William Wilson volunteered to conduct a partial survey of the town or the use of the commission and as reference for any engineer that might be called in consultation. A trip was made to a plant in a New Jersey town and all who made this inspection were enthusiastic in its praise and expressed themselves as pleased with the system, thinking it admirably adapted to the needs and conditions here. The report given out at that time was that "as soon as the survey is complete, we can go ahead and in a short time be able to make report of our findings and recommendations for proper sewage disposal in this town."

It is our understanding that this survey is not yet complete. Mr. Wilson has been kept from this work by reason of extra county road work, which held previous claim to his attention.

Several members of the Commission seen this week, still say nothing can be done until the survey is complete.

This is, is not the point in question. If it is impossible for Mr. Wilson to complete the survey in the time specified, that in no wise relieves the Commission of its responsibility. Proceed without the survey. Or, if that be necessary to make satisfactory recommendations, and Mr. Wilson be unable to furnish it, get some one else. The question you have been given is a vital one, perhaps more so than any of us realize. There is no doubt in the minds of the majority but that a sewer will be installed during 1911. No one has dared to raise any serious objection. The point is that the town looks to you to make your report to Council with what recommendations you may have as a result of the information gathered. Then some definite plan can be projected, and with a decision as to the kind of system best suited to our needs, some expression as to the way the town shall pay for same will be forthcoming. Legislature meets next month, and it is certainly one some action be made and the matter be laid before the public. If it be carried out. Every club, organization and association should be erected and express their views. No later as soon as the report is filed given to the public that W. H. Brown, Secretary of the Board of Health will call a meeting where it will be discussed by the business men of the town.

This sewer is no faction, party or issue suggestion, but something that means all of us. "I DON'T CARE TO BE QUOTED" is not the proper attitude. In order that we may give an expression of opinion, let us have a letter in next week's people's column, giving your views on how we can best proceed.

And especially do we ask from the Sanitary Commission for a report of its work.

RAILROAD TRESPASSING

THE campaign against trespassing on the property of railroad companies is being pushed with much energy. It is highly probable that the coming legislature will be asked to pass more stringent laws against such trespassing to provide for an adequate penalty.

accidents to trespassers are of frequent occurrence. The other day three men were killed in a neighboring state while they were walking on railroad tracks. Another incident was that of a man who crawled under the safety gates and was run down by a train.

But the list of similar accidents is very long, and the problem of how to lessen the death rate on the rails has become a serious matter with railway managers. Every year lists of men killed on the rails are given out, but when these lists are examined it is clear that a very large percentage of deaths are those of trespassers.

Of course the companies are not to blame. It is the thoughtless and careless persons themselves who are responsible for so many deaths. The only thing the companies can do is to warn trespassers, arrest them and safeguard their tracks.

The companies have begun a campaign of education, but as we have said, it will take many years before such a campaign will become effective. Habits of using railway tracks as public highways are difficult to break. The incoming Legislature could lend a hand and should do so to try to break up the practice. Such legislation would be more in the interest of protecting the public which judging by the large number of accidents, needs protection. It would be well therefore for the Legislature to consider this matter and pass a law which might do a great deal to keep people from the dangerous railroad tracks.

The truth of the above article, from the Evening Journal, is forcibly impressed upon the inhabitants of all communities by the dreadful accidents that fill the columns of the daily papers. Our own locality was shocked recently by the death of a man who, against the advice of the station men at the Pennsylvania depot, chose the short way to his destination, only to meet death along the way.

STATE ADVERTISING

WE have made frequent reference in these columns to the need of the next Legislature making provision for the establishment of a State Immigration Bureau and the appropriation of a fund to conduct the same.

The more we study the conditions prevailing in Delaware, and the more we become acquainted with the great good that such a bureau is doing in the several States that have adopted it, or something similar, the more we are convinced that such a bureau is exactly what we need in Delaware.

It is becoming generally conceded that the country needs more intensive and less extensive farming. In other words, with proper methods the farmer could produce just as much from fifty acres properly tilled as he can from one hundred acres under the present system. Obviously, then, the thing to do is to get enough good farmers to come to Delaware and buy some of the land that today is not producing much, if that it would produce with proper tillage. We know that this condition actually exists in many sections of this country, and they no doubt exist throughout the State. That such a move would do great things for this commonwealth is reasonably sure. The plan has worked wonderfully well in Missouri, the following reference to the same being taken from "Frontiers" of last week:

Missouri lands have increased in price the last year on a state-wide average from $3 to $4 an acre. The prospect is that this will be doubled and even quadrupled in a few years. The increase is attributed directly to advertising, in the report of Chief Commissioner John H. Curran, of the Missouri State Board of Immigration.

From the New York Evening World we clip the following:

"State advertising seems to be on the brink of a new and remarkable development. A number of States are taking lessons in advertising and are making more energetic use of what they learn. They are telling every one what wonderful farms and mines, and forests, what people, what cities, what institutions they have. They are trying to seduce the world and bring it within their gates."

"The phenomenon is undoubtedly a good one—particularly in view of the amount of city advertising that has been carried on the last few years. And this may be said without any intention of reflecting upon the efforts of the city advertisers. The cities may keep on advertising as much as they please, but the more they are advertised, the more should the country be advertised. State advertising is, in the main, country advertising. While the States that are attempting to draw attention to themselves have a good deal to say about their cities they have most to say about their natural resources, their wheat, corn, and cotton, their rice and alfalfa, their fruit and vegetables, their cattle, their gold and silver, coal and iron."—Delmar News.

A Chance For Everyone

An interesting demonstration of the Majestic Range is being given during this week at L. B. Jacob's store. The range is so constructed as to make use of all the power furnished by the fuel, thus enabling the required amount of work to be done with the supply of an unusually small amount of coal. The oven is air tight, so planned to do away with trouble of the housewife on boiling day. The oven door, which falls down, is arranged to bear the pressure of a great weight, also the grate, which may be pulled part way and the entire weight of the pan rested thereon without the slightest danger of tilting. Two men were seen to stand on the open door and lay extended grate, without any harmful result. The visitors to the store treated to steaming hot coffee, and piping hot fruit, fresh from the oven, by way of proof as to the stove's quality.

Services In St. Thomas Parish House

All week day and Sunday services will be held in St. Thomas' Parish House until further notice, as the church edifice is now undergoing extensive repairs and improvements. On next Friday there will be evening prayer in the Parish House at 4.30 and choir rehearsal at 7.30. Next Sunday service in the Parish House will be—Sunday School at 10, morning prayer, sermon and Holy Communion at 11. Evening prayer and address at 7.30.

Dig Snow Or Stay At Home

A letter has been sent out by James Wilson, county engineer for New Castle county, in which he warns all county road supervisors regarding expenditures for the removal of snow that the road may not be blocked. The permission of the county engineer must be secured before any work can be done.

Under the old system five years ago, $10,000 was spent in opening snow-blocked roads. At this time the fields went clear and only blocks existed here and there. During the heavy snow last winter the hundreds expended $7,027.38, and the county $2,500 in this work.

The letters sent to the supervisors read as follows:—

Wilmington, Del., Dec. 8, 1910.

"Dear Sir: The winter now being upon us, it seems timely that a word be written to you in regard to snow removal. With the increasing demand for better roads than those we have put up with in the past it is necessary that we consume every penny possible of the road tax for that purpose and one of the greatest savings can be made in the money spent for snow removal, money which after the snow has gone, has gone, also, leaving no permanent road improvement.

"If each of us in the country were to ensure a little inconvenience for a day or so and help clear the road we use without a charge for the same the snow expenditure would be reduced to a minimum. In large storms like that of last winter it was necessary to clear at least all the main leading roads, for not only were the roads completely blocked, but the fields also, but in most cases the storms are of short duration and the drifts only here and there, where it is generally possible to pass around them, through the adjoining fields without damage to the crops. Too many indiscriminate calls have been sent in for snow work, many of them long after the winter was over, when it was impossible to judge of their merits.

"The telephones are now so general throughout the country that all parts thereof can be reached in a few hours. Hereafter, therefore, do not begin any snow work until the storm has completely passed and then only after first communicating with this office.

"Yours very truly,

"James Wilson."

Well Expended Effort Of The Delaware Child Labor Committee

A meeting of the Delaware Child Labor Committee was held last Thursday evening in the lecture room of the Wilmington Y. M. C. A. The investigations of the committee give us some facts which may prove astonishing and should bring us to a realization of the importance of this work.

Good points of the present law:

1. In agreement with the compulsory education law, no children can go to work until they are fourteen years of age, except in domestic service and in agriculture.

2. Before becoming wage-earners, children must procure "working papers," which certify that they have a rudimentary education.

3. No children are allowed to work at night until they are sixteen.

4. A "Factory Inspector" is employed to report on the sanitary condition of the establishments where children between 14 and 16 years are employed.

Defects in the Present Law—1. Occupations which are physically and morally healthful should be allowed out of school hours and during vacations to children over 10.

2. Street trades in the case of children should be carefully restricted.

3. The present "age certificate" is worthless, depending only upon the sworn affidavit of parent or guardian. It should be based upon transcripts of birth certificates, certificates of baptism or passports, confirmed by school records, as is required in nineteen other States.

4. Dangerous occupations should be prohibited as in seventeen other States.

5. Boys under 16 and girls under 18 should not be allowed to work more than eight hours in a day. Such laws have been passed in eight other States.

6. Children should not be allowed to work at the same time attend

Fitting Pupils For Life

The Necessity Of Teaching Then How To Be Practical

(Published by request.)

To the Editor of the Public Ledger:

Sir—Our new school code is much discussed, but the substitution of industrial teachers for janitors does not seem to have been considered. Yet housekeeping, sanitation, cleanliness, order, or the lack of them, touch all lives, as books do not. Every child would find it most useful to know how to make and keep a house or a room clean and healthy, to get the most heat out of a ton or a bucketful of coal with the least waste. Yet this knowledge is not common, as dirty, ill-smelling, over or under-heated homes around us sadly show. The care of our schoolhouses gives opportunity for training for these universal needs and we throw it away on janitors, whose work is not seldom an object lesson in slovenliness.

Knowing how to read is desirable, but not so important as knowing how to live. All our citizens must live somehow. Should not our schools teach the fundamentals of healthful living and by the daily practice which all can understand? Should not the pupils know how to serve their neighbors, at need, and so serve the city which trains them? Do we not teach them to serve only themselves, to "get on," even at the expense of their neighbors? Can we expect good citizenship with such training? The Germans say: "Whatever you would have in the life of a people put into the schools." Do we put training for service into our curriculum?

Teacher And Parent

(Reprinted.)
The lot of the district school teacher, like that of the policeman, is often far from happy. The modern theory of "moral suasion" has supplanted the black strap and the birch rod, and whereas Ichabod Crane formerly laid about him with impunity and terrorized juvenile insurgency with the mere prospect of flagellation, he is now compelled by school boards and public opinion to spare the rod and still effect educational miracles of sweetness and light, even with cross-grained unruly children.

The case of a teacher at a crossroads school not far from Lancaster suggests the pointed moral of Kipling's couplet about the beasts of the jungle:

"Oppress not the cubs of the stranger,
But hail them as sister and brother;
For though they be little and fussy,
It maybe the bear is their mother."

Mr. Musser, the pedagogic in question, had the temerity to estimate one of his pupils for some misdemeanor. The father of the lad seized a gun, rushed into the schoolroom blaspheming, and declared that he would kill the teacher. The vituperate parent was held in $500 bail for the threatened assassination; then the excitement simmered down, and it ended in the comparatively trivial penalty of $15 for using loud and lurid profanity in the presence of the children.

The teacher who is at odds with the parents of the children he strives to teach can hardly hope to get results that are worth while; and parents who foment the insurrectionary spirit of the child at school are undoing the teacher's work by assisting in the subversion of discipline. Next to the father and the mother, the teacher should be the best friend of childhood; and satisfactory results are only attainable when parent and teacher cooperate for the good of the child.—Public Ledger.

Compiling Facts In Regard To The School Law

Superintendent Brumbaugh, of Philadelphia, Thursday entertained a special commission on eight educators from Delaware, who were appointed by the Legislature of this State to investigate the question of preparing new and efficient school legislation, looking to the reorganization of the school system of the State.

The commission was in Philadelphia Thursday to discuss the proposed new Pennsylvania school code with Philadelphia educators and to consider the adoption of many of its provisions for the State of Delaware.

The visitors expressed themselves as very favorably impressed with the Pennsylvania code and especially favored the sections providing for the State Board of Education, separate system of finances, adequate training of teachers, minimum wage limit for teachers and State medical inspection of schools.

The commission was entertained by Dr. Brumbaugh at luncheon at the University Club.

BRIBERY QUESTION

most lieutenants of Willard Saulsbury, Jr., went from this city to Dover with instructions to kill off the candidacy of Willard Saulsbury, Jr., and they did it. The result was that Kent county lost the congressional nomination and that it went to Robert C. White of Sussex county. The understanding is that Willard Saulsbury, Jr., and his friends were not particularly to White, but that they accepted him as the best instrument they could obtain for the destruction of Willard Saulsbury's candidacy. That Willard Saulsbury and his friends resented keenly this action by Willard Saulsbury, Jr., and his friends was made manifest later to the election returns from Kent county and also in the editorial columns of Willard Saulsbury's newspaper. In other words, the Willard Saulsbury Democrats knifed the Willard Saulsbury ticket in numbers sufficient to defeat it, and with the Senatorial aspirations of Willard Saulsbury, Jr. The "dry" Democrats, who feared White, also played a part in that result.

It has been charged that the liquor interests in this city and county sent out Kent and Sussex counties a fund of $18,000 to be used in an effort to elect to the Legislature men who would vote for bills providing for the submission of the local option question to the voters in those two counties. When it became known that that $18,000 had been placed in the hands of Democratic leaders in those two counties and that the money was being used to further the election of certain Democratic candidates for the State Senate and the House, many "dry" Democrats refused to stand for such a deal and cast their votes for Republican candidates who were known to be free from the taint of liquor broods. Another fact that caused Democrats who are in favor of Kent and Sussex counties remaining dry to leave their party for the time being was the close working alliance between former U. S. Senator Richard R. Kenney and former Representative Alexander M. Daley, of Dover. Kenney always has been allied with the liquor interests to a greater or lesser degree and that an other alliance not to the liking of Democratic voters in Delaware have had much to do with the decline of his political fortunes. Heretofore Daley has been allied closely with the anti-liquor forces in this State and has been at the head and front of the anti-liquor movement. This year, however, Kenney and Daley worked hand-in-glove in Kent county for the success of the Democratic ticket. When the "dry" Democrats learned of this unnatural alliance and were informed that the liquor interests had sent $18,000 into Kent and Sussex counties in behalf of the Saulsbury ticket they refused longer to follow the leadership of Daley and took refuge in the Republican camp. Other Democrats followed them there when it became known that the Democratic organization was loading the "dry" counties in the State with whiskey and holding out inducements to the white "hoater" vote which resulted later in 75 per cent. of that vote going to the Democrats.

"The fact that Saulsbury had for allies in this campaign soured and disgruntled Republicans, among them former United States Senator J. Frank Allee and former Secretary of State Caleb B. Layton also served to stiffen the Republican organization and to bring to it Democrats of independent thought and action, who resented being parties to such a game of treachery and party disloyalty and ingratitude. It is admitted here that that alliance cost the Republicans seats in the Delaware Legislature. The party will receive ample compensation for such loss, because Allee and Layton now are so far outside the Republican lines that they never can return or take with them into the camp of the enemy more than a handful of their former party friends. In fact, Allee made the long and everlasting journey two years ago, and this year was elected as a Republican pariah who had become a Democrat. When Layton and others manifested signs of Republican disloyalty and treachery to the organization, there were thousands of Republicans who did not hesitate to say that it would be well for them to advance, write the record of that treachery on the election returns, and then read them out of the Republican party. It was felt that the organization could deal with such men far better without than within the party lines. As the situation now stands, the Republican party has won the fight against both the Democrats and the Republican Arnolds, and the party leaders are well satisfied with the result."

Georgetown, Del., Dec. 11.—Robert C. Houston of this town, president of the Anti-Bribery League of the State of Delaware, issued a statement today which shows that he does not regard the present Democratic cry of bribery against the Republicans as coming from a source that is untainted by corrupt practices at elections. He also makes it clear it is not his purpose to permit the Democrats to use the Anti-Bribery League to bolster up the Congressional contest of Robert C. White, Democrat, against Representative William H. Heald, Republican. Discussing the election recently held, and the results attending it, he said:

"Sussex county is naturally a Republican county. While the Democrats claim that it was in years past normally Democratic, and while the elections disclosed the fact that it went Democratic by substantial majorities, yet this is largely accounted for by the fact that in the days of such Democratic victories a large number of Republican voters were disqualified by the old denunciate laws passed and maintained by the Democratic party. As soon as the Republican party was able to qualify this vote, which was done in 1892, I guess, Sussex county at once became a doubtful county and soon was in the Republican column."

"That there has been in Sussex county a large venal vote there is no doubt. Part of this vote so considered has been the colored vote amounting to about two thousand in the county. In this connection it must be borne in mind that this is a Republican vote. When Republican money is plentiful they are remembered, when not they vote the Republican ticket just the same. The rest of the venal vote really has no politics, but for years no doubt voted the Republican ticket. It is an accepted fact that in years gone by the influence used was that of money by the Republicans in the last two campaigns, however there has been a change in this vote and in the last election there is no doubt that a large majority of these venal voters voted the Democratic ticket. In Georgetown hundred it is a fact that at least two-thirds of what is known as the purchasable vote voted the Democratic ticket in the last election."

"It is well to keep this in mind in analyzing the arguments of the Democrats. If this venal vote, as has been proclaimed by the Democratic party for the last ten years, has been voting the Republican ticket, and voting it for money, why, especially in this campaign, has it voted the Democratic ticket? There was no campaign of publicity carried on to any extent by the Democratic party in the political contests this fall. There was no argument that the Democrats advanced would appeal to this venal class of voters. Remembering that the colored venal vote will and does vote the Republican ticket without money; remembering also that the venal white vote, because of the association in years past, could be considered naturally a Republican vote, the only logical explanation of the change on the latter vote to the Democratic party in the last campaign is that the same influence which has always controlled the white venal voter in the county controlled them in this election, but from the Democratic side. As a matter of fact, men who have never been known to vote except for money, have voted the Democratic ticket in this district the last two campaigns."

The Anti-Bribery League was organized primarily at least, with the idea that the respective parties should be induced, of their own volition, to refrain from the use of money for the purchase of votes. This the Democratic organization seemed ready to do as soon as the league was organized. In fact, so general was this Democratic acquiescence that I felt the success of the movement was in danger from giving it rather a Democratic or partisan shading. This, no doubt, was largely influenced by the belief on the part of Democrats, generally, that abolition of the use of money would work to the advantage of the Democratic party. I have been more and more convinced of this fact in the last four years. A number of prominent and leading Democrats and Republicans are heartily and honestly in favor of preventing in every way possible the use of money by either party. Of course their conviction in this matter grows out of their conception of the real duties of citizenship and the absolute necessity of keeping the electorate pure and untainted. But this argument appeals to a very few, and the league has felt that the fear of the law, which is the deterrent after all in most of crimes, was the only way to bring the righteousness of bribery home to the consciousness of the venal voter. That is the line of attack that has been pursued. Of course anyone acquainted with legal procedure can realize how almost impossible it is to secure sufficient evidence to convict. If one man undertakes to bribe another, or if one man offers to sell to another, and no one else is made of procedure, if the one or the other complains against the other, the only witnesses to the contract are the two parties, both of whom are guilty under the law. If the accused denies the accusation it leaves the evidence of the complaint unsupported. So you can readily understand how next to impossible it is to secure sufficient evidence necessary in a court of law to secure conviction. We have spent a good deal of money hunting up the evidence wherever there have been complaints."

"What about whiskey in Sussex county, in the recent election?" Mr. Houston was asked.

"I understand that at Bridgeville one Democratic candidate dispensed whiskey from a barrel, so that it was almost as free as water. The conditions in this district on the Democratic side were apparently much the same. In fact it is rumored here that whiskey was given by the Democrats to some voters by the gallon. The same general condition, judging from reports which have come to me, existed in all the towns in a large degree. Whether the Democrats used money or not, it is certain they used lots of whiskey. If they used it as an inducement to influence a man's vote, there is no doubt in my mind they are just as guilty under our bribery laws as if money had been used. Rumors are brought from different districts that some Democratic workers openly paid for votes. You understand of course, that those cases have not yet been investigated fully to ascertain if proper evidence can be secured to justify prosecution, but it will be done."

Around Town

Who ever heard of a Town stopping to catch up?

Things said by citizens:—

"Newark is noted for taxes and investigating Committees."

"I have no complaint with the town or any of its institutions."

"Hill 'Sparklets' not been scared off, the town would have done something."

"There is nothing worthy or note except increased taxes."

"Thank goodness, my name does not appear in the death notices—I mean as member of Board of Trade."

"Newark is growing faster than any town in the county."

"The Council did the proper thing in advocating higher rates for light and water."

"Lense the plant, or give it away."

"I opposed selling the plant, but never again."

"Of course, I am in favor of the sewer. The man who isn't, has sense enough to keep his mouth shut."

"Did the sewer commission fall in?"

"What is the difference between this council and the previous one?" "Why none—one's out and the other is in that's all."

"I love my Board of Health, but oh, you Sewer Commission!"

(By request.)

We heard at our door one storm-wind night

A scratching 'twas faint and small,

And we said, "Tis only the wind at the latch."

For we heard no ring or call;

"Twas only the wind that rattled the latch,

And surely that was all!"

We turned to our books and the lamp and the fire.

"God pity the poor!" we said;

"Tis a terrible night to be forlorn, ill-housed and uncomfited."

But, oh, next morn on our own door-sill,

Lay a poor little tramp dog—dead!

—E. A. Lente.

The above called forth a "That Reminds Me" from one of our citizens, who has proven himself to be truly,

"the dog's friend."

Several years ago, when walking down the main street toward the Postoffice, a poor shivering little dog

HERRIN IS WRITING THE COMMENTS OF THE OLD MAN AROUND TOWN. PLAIN, CRUDE, BLUNT, KIND, HAPPY AND CONTENTED—WITH A SHAKE OF THE HEAD—HE TELLS THINGS IN HIS OWN WAY.

raised appealing eyes to the pedestrian.

The man stooped to pet the creature and found that a weight was tied to its tail.

He took his knife and cut the twine, then turned to scold the peeping boys who were in hiding nearby.

The dog immediately proceeded to repay his debt of gratitude according to the laws of canine etiquette. He followed his benefactor to his home.

Later in the evening a scratching at the door of the home attracted the attention of those inside. The "tramp" was brought in and fed, then invited to go on his way.

The next morning Mr. A— had to take an eight mile drive. His four-footed friend awaited him and showed only signs of joyful anticipation at the sight of the team and delightedly followed all the way. After all the man's business had been completed and he returned to the team, he found the dog mounting guard upon the seat.

At the man's appearance he regretfully climbed down and resigned all claims to responsibility. He reached the stable before the team, seemingly entirely satisfied with his day's journey.

The second day Mr. A— went to Baltimore. As before the dog could not be persuaded to stay home. The last his new master saw the puppy was racing along barking furiously at the train. Upon his return late that night, just as he stepped upon the platform, a cold nose touched his hand. The station agent met him with the inquiry, "Is that you dog? It's about the strangest thing of that kind I've ever seen. It has stayed around here all day watching the northbound trains. We've all been interested to see if his master would come from that section. When the noise announced the coming of a train, the dog's interest seemed to depend upon the direction it was taking. If the train were bound for the south, he only deigned it sleepy blink; if it came from the south, he carefully examined each passenger with quick movements, allowing none to escape."

The master accompanied his pet and greeting to the dog with—Well, I'll declare. Who can gainsay such a thing as dog's intelligence?"

I am still at the same pace ready to serve you with notions at the least prices. Call and see me. 360 Main street.

MARSHALLTON BRIEFS

Snow has meant everything in this vicinity and prospects are good at present for a white Christmas. Sledding is fine and every day after school hours the hills are thronged with a merry crowd of girls and boys enjoying the sport. Sledding also is good and many are taking advantage of it. Reasons Why The Great Majestic You Should Buy

- 1st. It has the reputation of being the best range money can buy.
- 2d. It not only has the reputation but IS the best range made and we will prove this to you if you will let us.
- 3d. It is constructed of malleable iron, material you can't beat and of charcoal iron, material that resists rust 300 per cent greater than steel, is riveted together airtight. No heat escapes or cold air enters the range, thus uses very little fuel to do perfect work.
- 4th. The reservoir alone is worth the price of range over any other reservoir made. It boils 15 gallons of water; is heated like a tea kettle, with pocket against left hand lining, and is moveable and sets on a frame, hence cannot wear out. When water gets too hot it can be moved away from fire.

Majestic ranges use less fuel; heat more water—and heat hotter; costs practically nothing for repairs; lasts three times as long; bakes better, easier to keep clean and give better satisfaction than any other range on the market. If you know positively that the above statements are true, wouldn't you buy Majestic at once?

Come in Demonstration Week and We'll Prove It to You.
