

Bob Hoffman To Coach Golds For 14th All-Star Grid Game

Newark High School Head Football Coach With 76-14-1 Record, Six Conference Titles, Named For Second Time As Chief Mentor For South In Annual All-Star Game

Bob Hoffman, whose Newark High Yellowjackets hold the current longest winning streak (33) in the state, has been named coach for the Gold team in the 14th annual All-Star High School Football Game to be played in Delaware Stadium on Saturday, Aug. 23, at 2 p.m. to benefit the Delaware Foundation for Retarded Children.

Hoffman was chosen by the Delaware Interscholastic Football Coaches Association.

No stranger to the contest which brings together the top graduated seniors from last fall's high school teams, Hoffman was head coach of the Golds in 1960 when they tied the Blue 6-6 and was an assistant coach for the 1965 game.

Hoffman, 39, will attempt to end a two-game winning streak by the Blues who lead 9-3-1 in the series. The 30 Gold players come from schools south of Wilmington's southern border.

Hoffman, a graduate of Gettysburg, succeeded Don Miller as Newark coach in time for the 1959 season. Since then, his Yellowjacket teams have had phenomenal success. They have won four Flight-A Blue Hen Conference championships and have tied for the title two other years.

Coach of the Year
In 1963, Hoffman was named Delaware Coach of the Year by DIFCA, and after the 1967 season was selected as District III High School Football Coach of the Year by the National High School Athletic Coaches Association.

Hoffman is a native of Prospect Park, Pa., where he captained the football team there from his senior position. He played one year of football at PMC and four at Gettysburg.

One of his most noteworthy achievements was in 1967 when Newark ended Middletown High's 53-game winning streak, which still stands as the longest ever in Delaware.

State Budget Cut Draws Resolution Of School Protest

Newark Board Of Education Cites Educational-TV Loss With Coming School Year

The Newark Board of Education has expressed concern over the cut in the state budget which has eliminated educational television for the 1969-70 school year.

Many curriculum offerings will be affected if the ETV budget is not reinstated. One of the most serious cuts, according to a board spokesman, would be loss of the fifth and sixth grade language program in Newark schools.

The Newark school board has expressed its concern in the form of a resolution sent to state legislators. The resolution reads:

WHEREAS the Newark school district has been making considerable use of educational television, including the teaching of French to 5th and 6th graders through TV with the aid of a floating elementary French teacher, and

WHEREAS the Newark school district has made a considerable investment in television sets and other television-related equipment, and

WHEREAS the state program has, in the opinion of administrators and teachers of the district, been improving each year.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the Newark Board of Education request that the state continue educational television in the State of Delaware be restored to the budget.

Beltway Approved By Citizens Group With Restrictions

Preservation Of Woods, Residential Land Urged With Routing Of Beltway

A new group, Citizens For A Better Beltway, met last Thursday night at the John R. Downes School, and agreed that Newark needs the proposed beltway, but that residential land, and wooded areas beside the Christina Creek be preserved.

As proposed in a preliminary study by the State Highway Department, the beltway would follow the general path of Chestnut Hill Road in the southern section, west to the middle of Arbour Park then swing northeast across Elkton Road, north along Christina Creek across Nottingham Road, between Fairfield and Covered Bridge Farms, and then east to Delaware 896.

According to Dick Bewick, assistant chief engineer for the State Highway Department, the project would cost about $15-million. Joseph Brown, president of the beltway group, called Thursday night's meeting an opportunity to learn about and discuss the proposed alignment.

Discussion centered on objections, although one person said he thought the proposed alignment was good — 17 years ago before the area the beltway would take was developed.

Bewick responded to one of the contentions — that the beltway would become another heavily commercialized Kirkwood Highway, by reporting the beltway would be of limited access similar to the northern section of Interstate 95, precluding adjacent development.

On other objections, Bewick and two Newark officials — City Manager Edward R. Stiff and Public Works Director Benjamin J. Campagna — are to study objections from residents of areas which the beltway would either skirt or cut through, concerning its effect on property values; realignment of Christina Creek and elimination of wooded space along its banks; and objections to a proposed overpass at South College Avenue would create a wall splitting the city; and concern for children to the west of the beltway in Timber Creek and Woodmore who are within walking distance of the Downes Elementary School.

Bewick said an overpass would be built there.

State Rep. John G.S. Billingsley, R-Newark, told the group that he would try to insure that Newark's wishes about the alignment are carried out and alternatives studied.

His wife Joan lives at 806 Dulan Road, Newark.

Jr. Broiler Prize Winners Include Local Youngsters

A Kent County 4-H'er is winner of 1969 junior broiler competition at the Delaware State Fairgrounds. Ten-year-old Kevin Baker earned first prize with seven birds weighing 33 pounds — an average of 4.71 pounds per bird.

Kevin, a member of the Peach Blossoms 4-H club, Farmington, was awarded the first place trophy and a $25 cash prize by Delaware Poultry Improvement Association President J. A. Correll.

Virginia Roberts, Bear, took fourth place and $10.

Fifth through 10th place winners include Janet Eastburn, Newark. Each took home $7.50 in prize money.

Winners from 11th thru 20th place included Arlette Lowe, Janice and James Clymer, Newark. Each received a $5 prize.

The junior broiler contest began March 21, when each contestant was given 50 chicks to grow to maturity. Birds were fed and cared for by the youngsters through May 14, when the seven best broilers from each flock were sent to Harrington for competition.

Judging was based on conformation, appearance, uniformity and weight.

Judges for the contest were Dr. Ernest Matthews, Salisbury, and Dr. Raymond C. Smith, University of Delaware.

The Delaware Junior Broiler program is an educational project sponsored annually by the Delaware Poultry Improvement Association and the University of Delaware Cooperative Extension Service.

Local AAUW Group Maintains Support Of Sex Education

Family Education Fails To Meet Present Needs; School Assistance Urged

With the controversy concerning family life education, the Newark branch, American Association of University Women, supports and reiterates the position taken by AAUW's Delaware Division a year ago.

"We support family life education, including sex education in a context of responsibility, and hope to see programs developed from kindergarten through 12th grade. Why? To quote former President Johnson 'The family is the cornerstone of our society. More than any other force it changes the attitudes, the hopes, the ambitions, and the values of the child. When the family collapses it is the children that are usually damaged. When it happens on a massive scale the community itself is crippled,'" the local AAUW states.

"The change from a primarily agricultural to an industrial and city; increasing urbanization of American life... have caused custom and change and stress for families; customary patterns of doing things are not always adequate for present needs.

"In former times, sex education was left to parents, and family attitudes were caught, not taught. We feel this is no longer good enough. "We have seen irresponsible charges of subversion hurled at developing programs across the country. We can only say that in Newark the people who have concerned themselves with developing the FLASE program could hardly be characterized as radicals trying to undermine the morals of America. The charges only contribute to an atmosphere of fear and ignorance.

"AAUW members will do what they can to encourage affirmative policies of the Newark board of education, and to discourage hastily prepared legislation that would undermine public confidence in elected school boards and professional teachers and administrators who plan our curriculum," the AAUW concludes.

SDS Group Banned On Local Campus As Insubordinate

Student Group Terminated As Campus Organization For Authority Disregard

The University of Delaware has banned the local three-year-old chapter of Students for a Democratic Society, from the Newark campus, announcing that the student group has refused to recognize authority of the school administration.

George M. Worrlow, vice-president of university relations, said Monday that the decision was made by joint action of President E. A. Trabandt and Dean Donald P. Hardy, vice-president of student affairs, after May 15 publication of an SDS letter, which said SDS refuses to recognize Trabandt or his subordinates as having "legitimate power."

Disclosure of the university move was made by Hardy, who sent letters to SDS members and other student organizations Friday. Hardy said the letter was a result of a week of consultations among university officials. It says in part:

"The office of student services has withdrawn approval of the chapter, and its status as a recognized organization has been terminated. The action has the effect of barring SDS from using campus facilities for its activities," Hardy said Sunday night.

SDS was established on the Newark campus in April, 1966.

Current advisors are members of the mathematics department, David Bellamy and Mike Hubbard.

Legality of the university move was challenged by Robert Graham, president of the Student Government Association, who called the decision "hasty and perhaps foolish."

In a statement issued Sunday, he predicted that unless the university administration reconsidered "it seems clear to me... the stage has been set for another Harvard, Dartmouth or Cornell right here in Delaware."

Graham said he was speaking for himself but that he felt his sentiments were echoed by many student senate members.

An open letter in the May 15, issue of the campus newspaper, the Review, led to the administration's ban on campus SDS activities, Hardy said.

The open letter was written by Marion Brooks, a student at the university and communications secretary of the SDS chapter.

Singled out by Hardy in his letter to Miss Brooks informing her of the ban on campus SDS activities, was part of a sentence contained in the letter printed in the newspaper and subsequently used in leaflets. It said: SDS "... will not recognize E. A. Trabandt or any of his subordinates as having any legitimate power in this university."

According to Hardy "this declaration voids that section of the constitution of the chapter which states that the chapter will operate within regulations of the University of Delaware."

Third Party Seeks Franchise For Newark CA-TV Operation

Three Ordinances Slated For June 10, Final Readings For Award Of Cable Antenna TV Franchise; Councilmen To Register Desires For Zoning Revision Procedures

A third applicant for the local cable antenna television franchise was revealed last Tuesday night at the regular meeting of Newark City Council with 5-2 preliminary approval of a proposed ordinance scheduled for final reading on June 10, along with ordinances providing council choice between American Telecable Services, Inc., the newly announced competitor; CA-TV Newark, Inc., the first seeker; and Rollins Inc., of Atlanta, Ga. Councilmen William M. Coverdale and Olan R. Thomas opposed the first reading of the newly proposed ordinance, after Councilman Frank J. Osborne, Jr., urged its consideration for fair treatment; of all, and City Solicitor Clyde M. England, Jr., pointed out that the "amount of money concerned is greater to the city" with a six instead of five per cent return. England is to include American Telecable in his report on differences in municipal benefits offered by the three CA-TV franchise seekers.

Zoning Procedure
In a discussion on review and revision procedures for the proposed zoning ordinance, it was agreed to follow Councilman Arthur P. Mayer's plan that each councilman inform City Secretary Betty Jane Sills by next Tuesday of individual desires for procedure.

Councilman Coverdale said it was "ridiculous to discuss any revision of the zoning ordinance at this time" until zoning immunity of the university is established in court; that the city is not a municipal zoning, and pointed out that some 50 per cent of the land within the city is tax exempt.

Councilman John H. Fassnacht objected to Coverdale's stand, citing the "very comprehensive review" of the revised zoning proposal; that it was "badly needed in planning unit developments," and pointed out that the university case "could drag on a long time."

City Hall
Concerning the city hall site, Thomas opposed a proposal for city rental of a Main Street office building "because the voters approved a city hall."

Council approved a feasibility report on renovation of the New London Avenue School at a cost that, if approved, would be $500,000. B. Handoff opposed the 6-1 vote as "further delay" with the building.

Coverdale stated that an interested citizen had submitted plans indicating that by removing one wall of the existing building, 4,500-sq.-ft. of floor space would be available, and that the building was reported to be "structurally sound."

Pool Project
Appropriations of $4,468 and $1,300 for lifeguards and for site preparation and operation of two municipal pools were approved for the coming summer, and Assistant City Manager Philip Sowa advised that site preparation by the pool manufacturer would have cost the city $10,000 more per pool.

The second reading of a proposed ordinance, deferring, and levying assessments for extending Woodland Avenue from Poplar Avenue to Capitol Trail, was tabled as Thomas urged "that all assessments be waived" since the street was extended for the safety of all Lumbrook residents; that these residents not only did not request this street but opposed this street," and Coverdale added that "we certainly are in need of some adequate reformation of our assessment ordinance."

Action on adopting the BOCA Building Code with amendments was deferred, with a second reading of the proposed ordinance slated for June 3.

Arbour Park
Council approved the plat for Section VII of Arbour Park, with the requisite that the developer provide sidewalks in this section despite outcome of litigation concerning sidewalks in other sections of the development.

Solicitor England advised council to approve the plat because of risk involved with a lawsuit for costly delay and in the 4-3 vote of approval Coverdale, Mayer and Thomas opposed the proposal.

Action on the bid for improving Bellevue Road was deferred until the June 24, meeting because of the problem of equitable assessment with city property on one side of the road only.

Counting Calories? Try Weight Control With Summertime Ease, Expert Advises

Calorie counting? Weight control can be easier in the summer, says Marguerite Krackhardt, nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware.

In summer, fresh fruits and vegetables are at their flavor peak, yet they're low in calories.

Summertime is also a time for active outdoor sports that will burn up those excess calories for you. While you're enjoying yourself swimming or playing golf or tennis, you can be losing weight.

Miss Krackhardt says you can help control your weight by controlling the amount and kinds of food you eat or the amount of activity or both.

In any weight control program, plan a well-balanced diet around the four food groups: milk and dairy foods, meat, vegetables and fruits, and breads and cereals.

It will be easier if you choose the low-calorie foods in each group. For example, drink skim rather than whole or chocolate milk. And be sure to leave out such goodies as whipped cream, ice cream and butter or oleomargarine, which are full of calories.

Cottage cheese is a high protein, low calorie must for weight control.

Trim fat from meat before you cook it and don't fry—bake or broil. Fish and seafood are nutritious, low-calorie main dishes.

Since vegetables and fruits are fresh and flavorful, you'll need less butter and sugar to make them taste good.

Potatoes aren't really high in calories if you don't add gravy or butter or fry them in gobs of grease.

In the bread and cereal group, again choose the lower-calorie food. Cut out the already-sugared cereals; eat bread instead of sweet rolls or doughnuts.

Watch that spaghetti—just watch it—don't eat it. And choose breads and cereals that have been enriched with extra vitamins.

Miss Krackhardt also suggests cutting down on those activities that can lead to nibbling. Go swimming or catch up on gardening instead of watching television.

Drama Group Play "Goodby Charlie" Tickets For Sale

Tickets are on sale for the University Drama Group summer show "Goodby Charlie," scheduled for June 13-21 at 8:15 p.m. at Anderson's Barn on Old Paper Mill Road, Newark. Send a check with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Mrs. Betty Simmons, 207 Cheltenham Road, Newark.

Renee O'Leary is beginning to worry whether her role in "Goodby Charlie," the George Axelrod comedy, might not leave her scared for life. She plays a former lady-killer reincarnated as a shapely girl and is required to slouch rather than walk, sprawl rather than sit; flick cigar ashes about, and down drinks like a roughneck sailor.

At first rehearsals, she found all this difficult. But now she feels right at home in the part and wonders if she will ever be able to behave like a lady again.

In addition to Mrs. O'Leary as Charlie, the cast will include John Mingus, Lynne Wolfe, Fraser Jones, Marian Sargeant, Emory Whaley, and Hal Moore.

Howard A. Kuscher is directing, and Merritt Goodell is production manager.

Impromptu Party For the Gardeners
HORDES of winter-weary Americans are now going the mundane weekend pursuits to spend long hours with new companions; rakes, insect sprays, lawn seed and mulch.

Green-thumb enthusiasts well may be our finest citizens—industrious, dedicated and able to stick with it despite monumental odds. So guard them well.

Why not reward the weekend gardener at your house with a piping hot bowl of bouillon or French onion soup served at day's end? If you are going to be involved in the planting yourself, prepare the robust refreshment the night before and then serve it from your party-sized coffee maker.

Since the number of backyard gardeners is legion, chances are you'll find your neighbors devoting themselves to the weeds and wisteria, too, so why not turn the pick-me-up snack into an impromptu party?

The soup will prove a good brace as the chill of dusk descends. A big plate of cold cuts, rolls and butter, and plenty of potato chips will complete the preparations for the light meal.

CHURCH SUPPER SLATED FOR NEXT THURSDAY

Mrs. William Perry is general chairman for the annual chicken salad-strawberry cake supper sponsored annually by Old St. James Episcopal Church near Stanton, which will be served next Thursday from 4:30 to 7 p.m. in the parish house. Mrs. Edgar Wayne is co-chairman.

Dining room hostess will be Mrs. Robert Cathcart, with Mrs. Edward Udinski, co-hostess.

Jane Terranova is in charge of waitresses. Table decorations will be arranged by Mrs. Ernest Gioso.

The fancy work table will be supervised by Mrs. Harold Mitchell and Mrs. Harold Seer, with Mrs. Mary Wilson in charge of the cake table.

Mrs. Reese Parker is handling tickets, with William Norris, ticket chairman at the door.

Mrs. Alfred Ellis is publicity chairman.

Lois Heinel is kitchen chairman; Harry White, dishwashing chairman, and Alfred Killermann, in charge of cleanup.

I didn't join the Peace Corps for the greatest reasons. Not what you'd call altruism.

If you want to know, I joined because I had this idea of doing something I wasn't supposed to do. I mean, go far away. See things. Expand my mind. That stuff.

What I was supposed to do was marry a split-level house. I never exactly intended to teach.

Maybe what I really am is, different. And maybe I wouldn't ever have married a split-level house. Maybe.

But I couldn't give up after college. I wasn't ready, if you could say that. I joined the Peace Corps and I went to Sinoe, Liberia.

It was so wild and new and, you know, definitely scary. A small plane with no landing field. People packing my gear on their heads, like a safari.

But then the Hollywood part of it comes to an end. It ends, I think, when you can't wash your hands when you want to. Or go to a nice john.

Or you feel tired when you go to bed. A nice tired. I never worked before. Really worked.

And then something different starts. I taught kids. I taught teachers. Me. I went home with them.

I'd sit and we'd all worry about something. A pickup truck with a busted fuel pump. Could I get some American lipstick. Maybe mention that a woman wouldn't have to have a million kids if she didn't want to. Malaria.

Then the next day I'd think I was just a teacher. Except there'd be fried plantain for breakfast.

And you get a magazine. And you think about America. Martin Luther King. And you don't know. I never seriously thought I would change the world. Does anyone believe it any more?

Then I came back. And I'm a teacher. And I've been seeing this guy, Ronnie. He's a teacher. We teach at P.S. 201. It's in Harlem.

CARL S. RANKIN

"He smiled when mother told him we were coming home," son Bruce Rankin said. "He wasn't afraid to die, and he had a good, full life."

Carl S. Rankin, who passed away last Saturday at 78, met the inevitable with all the fearlessness he displayed throughout a long, challenging, fine career. A devoted husband and father, his smile at the news that his two boys were on their way to his bedside, was most demonstrative of the deep affection he had for his sons, and of his calm courage.

Teacher, engineer, administrator and volunteer civic leader, Carl S. Rankin indeed led "a good, full life," and he served his City of Newark as its able mayor and as a fine councilman.

A gentleman of the old school, to use a trite but fitting phrase with its reference to all fine qualities of a man, Mr. Rankin brooked no compromise with principle, and was unswerving in his efforts to do what he believed was right in his personal life, as a soldier, in education and in business, and as an elected city official. He accomplished much for the many, many persons concerned.

As a reporter, attendance at meetings of Newark City Council represents a lot of extra work, but we are grateful for such assignments. Without them, we would have been denied the privilege of knowing Carl Rankin with real affection.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

May 25, 1969

Dear Sir:
To my dear friends from the City of Newark:

Thank you kindly, with humility, for the response you gave to the program "In Memoriam" presented by the Newark special school district, and special thanks to Philip A. Toman and Host Nelson Freidly. This letter to the editor is being sent because of all the phone calls I received.

The last letter from "Butch," who gave his life for our land was indeed so moving and stirring that I with my gathered friends, shared tears. Butch, you died for the preservation of what we hold so dear. May we all remember and understand the final message you sent us.

The presentation of "In Memoriam, 1969" was outstanding. The choir and bands were at their best. We thank you children for honoring with words and music the men who went ahead. Some made the ultimate sacrifice, others got in the most dangerous corners and came back safely from these big crusades.

The poem "In Normandy When Breezes Blow" read so stirring by Mr. Freidly on WNRK will again make a second publication. My editor told me so.

Thank you kindly,
John Sadot.

We wish to thank all the citizens of Newark for their generous response on Poppy Days. This enables the VFW to carry on with their hospital work and help widows of veterans.

We also want to thank the men of VFW Post 475 and its Thomas Cooper Auxiliary for selling the poppies.

A special thank you to Avon, Chrysler and the Budd Co. for allowing us to sell on their property. Greatfully,

Henry Anderson

You know, I have the feeling that when some Delaware people think of vacation, they kind of look right past what's in their own backyards. That's natural, I guess. But it's too bad. Because this state of ours is just jam-packed with things to see and do.

For instance, is history your thing? The Strand in New Castle holds some of the best preserved early American homes and public buildings. Or cast an admiring eye at the Old State House in Dover.

Nature-enthusiasts? The swift flow of the Brandywine Creek fosters beauty enough along its banks to captivate anyone.

For hunting—or just watching—wildlife abounds at Bombay Hook in Smyrna.

For resort lovers, Sussex County is a bonanza. The famous Rehoboth and Bethany beaches, among others, have been delighting water-sport buffs for years.

Get a kick out of country fairs? Don't miss the State Fair at Harrington... draws thousands of out-of-staters as well as Delawareans.

And on and on. Delaware's alive with things to do and see. This summer, try it on for size, why don't you?

Children's Foot Health Stressed During Foot Health Week

The living room floor might be a safe place for youngsters learning to walk, but it is not so good for their feet, says a Chicago podiatrist, stressing the importance of foot health for children during Foot Health Week, May 9-16.

In fact, walking on flat, unobstructed surfaces could be largely responsible for pigeon-toed and slow-footed gait in children, according to Dr. Phil R. Brachman, professor of podiatric medicine and director of the Department of Orthopedics at the Illinois College of Podiatric Medicine in Chicago.

The varied terrain which tended to develop early all muscles of the locomotor system has been covered up and smoothed over with linoleum, sidewalks, asphalt and other flat surfaces of "civilized" society, Dr. Brachman asserted.

This civilization, he said, has actually gotten to the point where parents possibly should use some type of restraining device for all infants and young children to train them in walking.

"By using such restraining devices on a temporary basis, we can coordinate the pattern of severe intoeing and outtoeing, and we can create better balance for those children who lack proper coordination," Dr. Brachman suggested.

A persistent coordination problem which hampers a child learning to walk often may be traced back to peculiar crawling patterns in the pre-walking phase, the podiatrist continued.

"The parents of a child who crawls backward or sideways think it cute," he said, "but there may be some obstruction in the development of the motor system that makes it necessary for the infant to move about in this manner."

"When a child crawls properly, he develops the muscular pattern which enables him to walk. Children should crawl normally," Dr. Brachman said, "anywhere between the fifth and ninth months with the walking phase beginning between the 12th and 14th months."

"Children who take an additional month or two before they begin to walk should be the subject of an examination in most instances," Dr. Brachman concluded. "However, if the child is still not walking by the 18th month, an examination should be conducted to determine why walking has been delayed."

Gary Hayman, Pedro Swann, Bob Tucker To Play College Ball, Hoffman Advises

Bob Hoffman, coach of Newark's Blue Hen Conference Yellowjacket football champions, has announced that All-Staters Gary Hayman, Pedro Swann and Bob Tucker are going to play college football next fall.

Hayman is going to attend Penn State; Swann, Delaware State; and Tucker, the University of Maryland. Hayman, a 6-2, 190-pound end, was runner-up to Swann in scoring with 13 points on 16 touchdowns, passes, 35 extra points and one field goal.

Gary, who caught 43 passes for 818 yards, didn't play as a sophomore because of a broken leg, but as a junior was second team All-State. "He was considering Brandeis because of basketball, but picked Penn State and he has an excellent scholarship," Hoffman said. "The scholarship is good for as long as it takes him to graduate. The schools will cut you loose after four years, whether or not you have completed enough work to get your degree."

Swann 170-pound halfback at 5-6, had feelers from several schools in the Midwest, including Kansas and Nebraska.

"But he chose Delaware State, mainly because it is close to home," said Hoffman. "Besides he'll be able to play varsity in his freshman year and I think he's looking forward to that. I know Arnold Jeter, the coach down there, was delighted to get him."

Swann was the leading scorer in the state last year with 134 points on 22 touchdowns and two extra points. His teammates voted him their most valuable player.

Tucker, a 185-pound quarterback, at 6-2, may be one of the most sought-after schoolboy athletes in Delaware.

While fishing for trout with the fleet out of Bowers some mile offshore from Big Stone Beach last Saturday afternoon, we missed the red and black drum that had moved into Delaware Bay and were providing some sort of cardiac contest for more fortunate fishermen from Mississippian Light to the Roosevelt Inlet.

Charles R. "Bus" Humphreys, skipper of the outboard-powered, pounding, wallowing whaler from which a trio, with Carroll W. Mumford, set out late Saturday morning from Bill Faulkner's wharf and the Delaware Game and Fish Commission public ramp at Bowers, called last Monday night to announce — with a break or two in his voice from real emotion — to announce that the drum had been gobbling up big clams just down the bay and inshore from our stand where we were taking occasional spike sea trout with trips of squid.

"A fellow here at work," Bus said of his Chestnut Run place of DuPont employment, "caught a 60-lb. red drum, and many of the boats were coming ashore towing black and red drum from 30 to 60-lbs. — didn't have room in the boats for the rest of the catch."

And he had good reason to sound strained. With Frank Moorshead, a brother-in-law and sterling sportsman from Philadelphia, Bus had recently returned from Oyster on the Chesapeake Bay's Eastern Shore of Virginia. After a full quest for black drum and channel bass that should have been there at that time of the year. And that was a long, tough trip.

Anyway, Messrs. Moorshead and Humphreys are planning to give the Delaware Bay a going-over this Friday — and if the drum are still there, some of those burly black and red cousins of the clam-crushing clan are in for some real — and reel — attention.

Last Saturday morning, we were greeted by Bill and Mrs. Faulkner at their Bowers wharf, and Bill looked was indeed after a recent round of surgery — hospitalization happily hindering him only after the bowling season.

But the Wilmington waterman, who leaves town for his Delaware Bay enterprises after a winter's hibernation, is a good bet to resemble a blue-eyed, teakwood-tanned buccaneer of the Spanish Main before many more weeks slip by.

Following Bill Faulkner's directions for a change, we headed south-east down the bay with the whaler backing up the test of every wave, and Carroll Mumford's frown became more intense as he strained eyes for the distant Bowers fishing fleet.

With real relief, we came up with the fleet at last, and trout were coming aboard at all quarters.

First with the test of the ebb, a notoriously poor time to catch anything in Delaware Bay, from personal experience — we began catching trout — gray or common weakfish — and "common" is a misnomer, if ever, after last year's fishing.

Bus Humphreys caught 16 of the 20 trout, and added insult to injury by boating double-headed.

With the turn of the tide, the fleet moved within a half-mile of shore, and we followed Bill Faulkner's Phyllis K. in some grays, pending by a real pro. But time was running out on the skipper with a wedding party due back in Wilmington, and we headed back to Bowers as the fish began to hit again — and the last boat we passed contained a pair of happy anglers each busily engaged in fighting a trout.

On Sunday afternoon after a round of fillet mignon, lobster and hospitality at Donald Ross' Delaware Park press party, we journeyed down to Lum's Pond to wind up a perfect day, with the fresh-water channel bass.

With a half-and-half mixture of flour and yellow cornmeal boiled briefly for cementing purposes, and flavored with sugar and vanilla extract, we ran into almost immediate action.

A pair of carp picked up baits simultaneously, and one started east toward the Delaware River, while the other headed west for Rt. 896. The westbound carp was hooked on a light flyrod, and the other on a light spinning rod.

The carp on the flyrod didn't have a chance — like a snowshoe rabbit fighting a snare set from a springy sapling — and we whipped him to a standstill while Mr. Mumford was still losing line to the east-bound carp some quarter-mile away. But both were beached — a pair of nine-pounders and tough fish on light tackle.

We caught two more of about the same size — and missed a dozen strikes — the last with our last bit of dough.

Those carp had enough roe in them to provide a sturdy stocking of this undesirable water hog in every millpond and estuary on the Delmarva Peninsula — and then some — and their removal from Lum's Pond will provide resident bass, pickerel, bluegills and perch with a bit more oxygen and less silt in water that harbors far too many of these rooting imports.

Delaware Athletes Set School Record For 101 Victories

Delaware's varsity athletic teams established a school record with 101 victories during the recently completed 1968-69 season.

The Blue Hens had a record of 45-24 in five sports this spring, a 652 winning percentage.

The record number of wins was paced by the Middle Atlantic Conference championship golf team's 15-1 record and the baseball team's 15-9 mark.

The successful spring season boosted the Blue Hens' record for the year to 101-55-2 for an overall winning percentage of .646 on the year.

The three fall sports squads had a record of 26-10-1, including an 8-3 record by the MAC championship football team.

Four winter teams were 30-21-3. The previous high win total for one year was 96 in 1967-68.

On a percentage basis, Delaware's best campaign was 1961-62 when the Hens won 69.6 per cent of their contests with a 90-39-1 record.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day More Turcotts Coming

It is possible, but not likely, that a race could be run in which all jockeys would be named Valenzuela. At last count there were nine of the clan listed, the best known perhaps being Kelo's old friend Emmet (Milo) Valenzuela. The Smiths of course could fill a bigger race but not much; there are eleven Smiths listed in the American Racing Manual. Now there are the Canadian Turcotts, three of them riding and three more waiting in the wings.

The former lumberjack (I), Ron and his brother Noel are well known as successful jockeys on both sides of the border and now, under the aegis of and contract to Pat Remillard, a former star race rider, is young Rudolph Leonide Turcotte. Young Rudy

'There're Off' To Sound At Delaware Park With 61-Day Meet Opening This Friday

That old familiar cry of thoroughbred racing devotees — "They're off!" — will resound at Delaware Park this Friday when the Memorial Day program ushers in the 61-day of sport will carry through Saturday, Aug. 9, continuous except for Sundays and one dark Tuesday on June 3.

First race post time will again be 1:30 with nine-race cards including daily double wagering on the first two races, and quinellas on the fifth and ninth contests.

An all-time record stakes program is scheduled for the spacious "big time" track in a country setting, which has operated since 1937 with only one break — in 1943, because of World War II.

The 17 major races will have total added monies of $502,500. These include 13 stakes on the flat, and four jumping features — three for steeplechasers and one for hurdlers.

The "chase and hurdles season" begins June 23, and continues through July 11, excepting Saturday's and Friday, July 4.

Friday's holiday program features the $20,000-added, five-furlong Poly Drummond Stakes for juvenile fillies, to be followed on Saturday with top billing of the $25,000-added Brandywine Turf Handicap for grass specialists traveling one mile and a sixteenth.

The season continues through September with outdoor field matches scheduled every Sunday at 3 p.m. and doubleheaders in the outdoor arena every Wednesday at 8 p.m.

George A. Weymouth, continuing as president for his 13th season, has stated that the new practice field is expected to be playable during tournament time in August.

Also featured will be traditional Scottish meal and athletic competition, and a variety of exhibits and demonstrations.

The day-long event will be held at Fair Hill, four miles west of Newark.

Competition starts at 9 a.m. and awards will be presented at 5 p.m. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

There's Action A-Plenty In Weeds by Tom Andrews Remember the last time you were out on the water on a dead-end, blistering-hot day? The early-morning action probably persisted a bit later than usual. And before you knew it, your watch said it was 11 a.m. and you realized it had been 30 minutes or more since your last nibble or strike.

So you just packed up your gear and went in for lunch — right? Well, I'm afraid that's what most of us do, and as a result, we lose hours of potentially great fishing time out of our too-few summer days.

Many long years ago, I used to advise fishermen to knock off fishing midday hours in hot weather. But that was before my "Weedbed Education" was complete!

That's a better way! First, let's assume you have spotted the weeds in that favorite lake, or that a local angler can lead them out to you. Next, you've got to have a weedless Silver Minnow and pork rind in your tackle box.

Matter of fact, there ought to be two of these spoons — one silver and one purple — and some purple or black pork as well as white rind, frogs, or rubber skirts.

Move to the outer edge of the weedbed and anchor to get absolute control of the lure. Snap on a silver-finished Silver Minnow and a white pork strip.

Now cast inshore a couple of dozen times; let the lure sink to parallel to the shore. Let your spoon sink, but don't begin the retrieve. Count to 10 first, then start an extremely slow retrieve.

Turn the reel handle only a few times, then stop. Repeat the count, and once more move the lure.

This is the secret to weedless, productive weedbed fishing! That Silver Minnow, even though it's the best weedless lure I've ever used, can't work miracles if it's ripped through the weeds with a hell-for-leather retrieve.

So if many casts fail to bring aunker out of his weedbed den, dig your purple Silver Minnow and a purple or black pork rind out of the tackle box. Then cast and retrieve as we've suggested, and watch for action!

For reasons that fish alone seem to understand, the combination of a dark lure and trailer on a hot, bright day seem somehow irresistible.

Klinger, Yates Top Bob Hannah's Hens For Past Season

Dave Klinger and Dave Yates dominated final 1968 Delaware baseball statistics.

Yates, a junior from Wilmington, who played both second base and centerfield for the Blue Hens this spring, ranks high in the national collegiate statistics with a .444 batting average. A speedster, Yates stole 19 bases in 21 attempts and set Delaware records with 44 hits and 31 runs scored.

An All-Middle Atlantic Conference selection, Yates was awarded the Pope Lutz Memorial Award as Delaware's outstanding baseball player at last week's annual athletic banquet.

Klinger, a junior from Woodbury Heights, N.J., ranks among national leaders in both runs batted in (37) and triples (nine). The left-handed hitting right fielder batted .371 and had five home runs and three doubles. His nine triples set a Delaware record.

Klinger was voted the most valuable player in the MAC by conference coaches, joining Yates and Rick Hale on the first team.

Yates, Klinger and Hale are three of five players with batting averages over .300 for the Blue Hens, who batted .315 as a team.

Willy Miranda, a junior from Baltimore, who alternated with Ron Klein as the Hens' shortstop, matched Klinger's .371 average.

Co-Captain Hale, the only senior on the team, hit a solid .333 as the Hens first baseman and left-fielder Bruce Fad, a junior from Ft. Washington, Pa., had a .341 average and was second in home runs with four.

Jim Robinson, a junior third baseman and the other Hens captain, and a .289 average this season. Robinson and Fad tied for third in runs batted in with 20 behind Klinger's 37 and Yates' 21.

"We hit a ton," says Blue Hen Coach Bob Hannah, "but our pitching was inconsistent and erratic. I felt before the season started that pitching would be one of our strong suits, but it broke down too often."

Sophomore Righthander Doug Hopper posted the top won-loss record and earned run average among regular pitchers. The former William Penn High athlete was 5-1 with a 2.34 earned run average.

Delaware completed its season with a 15-9 record and high hopes for 1970.

"We will have everybody coming back from this year's team except Rick Hale," Hannah notes. "If we can get some pitching, we should have another good team next year."

The 15-9 finish boosted Hannah's record to 62-46 in five years as head coach at his alma mater.

Scottish Games Scheduled June 7 At Fair Hill, Md. The Eastern U.S. Pipe Band Championship and the International Open Sheep Dog Trials will be part of the eighth annual Delaware Scottish Games on Saturday, June 7.

Also featured will be traditional Scottish meal and athletic competition, and a variety of exhibits and demonstrations.

The day-long event will be held at Fair Hill, four miles west of Newark.

Coach Ray Ciesinski's Yellowjackets Tie For BHC 2nd, Beating 3rd Place Vikings

The Yellowjacket track and field squad of Coach Ray Ciesinski defeated Christiana Coach Jim DiStefano's visiting Vikings 64-58 last Monday afternoon to provide Newark a 7-2 second place tie with Pleasant in winding up the Blue Hen Conference A. Flight season.

Christiana finished in a third place three-way tie with 5-4 Conrad and Dickinson.

Randy McDonald's first place 46-2 toss of the shot, with Chris Dunn taking third, clinched Newark's victory over Christiana, as Viking Bob Jester won second place.

Len Savage won the high and low hurdles for the Yellowjackets in 15.2 and 21.1, and Randy Glines was a two-time winner for the Vikings, taking the 100 in 10.5 and the 220 in 23.4.

Christiana's Curt Payne was second to Savage over the 120-yd. hurdles with Gary Hobday finishing third; and Viking Cordovano was second to Glines in the 100, followed by Marc Strauss of Newark.

Bob Thurman won the mile for the Yellowjackets in 4:51.3, followed by Fred Neal of Christiana and Newark's Ron Brooks.

Viking Chandler won the 440 in 53.1, followed by teammates Harold Reisinger and John Flickinger with Christiana's sweep of the long sprint.

Payne was second to Savage over the 180-yd. hurdles, with Newark's Bob O'Brien third; and Christiana's Fred Neal won the 880 in 2:09 followed by teammate Flickinger and Newark's Fred Kitson.

Savage was second to Glines in the 220, with Cordovano finishing in third place; and Newark's John Rolfe won the two-mile endurance test in 10:32, followed by Christiana's Roy Bastien and Green.

DiStefano's team of Bruce Ryser, Montgomery, B. Flickinger and Reisinger won the mile relay in 3:39.05, but Newark swept the discus with John Hrycak's toss of 132-6, followed by Robinson and Dunn.

Bruce Weber won the pole vault for Newark at 10-6, with Eric Mayer, May 29, 1969
