Two Newark Men Badly Injured When Truck Strikes Their Car

C. J. Wright And Charles Dyer Semi-Conscious From Fractured Skulls; Accident Yesterday Morning

OTHER DRIVER HELD

Two Newark men, C. J. Wright, who lives on Wilbur street, and Charles Dyer, who lives just east of the town, are in the Delaware Hospital, semi-conscious, and in a critical condition as a result of an automobile accident, which occurred yesterday morning at 7 o'clock at the intersection of the Basin road with the du Pont Boulevard. Wright is an elderly man, and Dyer, 32 years of age. They both have fractured skulls and were operated on yesterday afternoon. They were both riding in a car owned and operated by Dyer at the time the accident occurred.

Frank T. Barton, of Salisbury, Maryland, driver of a truck which struck Dyer's car is in the Workhouse at Greenbank awaiting bond. He was taken in custody by State Highway Officer Edward Carpenter and arraigned before Magistrate Gluckman, of Wilmington. Magistrate Gluckman set the bond at $5000, but later said that if a satisfactory bond was furnished, he would release him in $2000 bond. The truck was owned by Heath and Miclio, produce dealers of Salisbury, and Basil Heath, one of the firm, was riding with Barton. Neither Barton nor Heath were injured.

It was claimed by Barton that the car driven by Dyer failed to stop at the intersection, with the accident resulting. Dyer's auto was coming from the direction of Newport, on the Basin road, while the truck was proceeding south on the du Pont Boulevard. It is believed that Dyer intended going straight across Basin road.

"We were coming in from Philadelphia with an empty truck," Barton explained. "We were traveling at the rate of about 24 or 25 miles an hour and slowed up just before reaching the crossroad. I was familiar with an intersection at that point, and slowed down. The other car shot out from the right, the next thing I knew. I

Calendars Ready for Del. Egg Record Club

Poultrymen who have been keeping records on their flocks for the Delaware Farm Egg-Record Club, which is conducted by the Extension Department of the University of Delaware, will welcome the news that new calendars on which to begin another year's record are now ready. The Delaware Farm Egg-Record Club was started two years ago by the Poultry Specialist of the University of Delaware and is becoming more popular each year. The objects of the club are to make it more convenient for farmers to keep an accurate flock record, and to be able to compare his record with the high, low, and average of the state.

The calendar on which the records are kept has thirteen pages—an introductory page, and a page for each month in the year. On each page of the calendar is a space for keeping a daily egg and flock record, a seasonal illustration and some good timely information on poultry management. For example, on the November and April pages are complete accounts of the feed formulae and methods of feeding the layers and young stock at the poultry plant of the University of Delaware. The back of each page is ruled for keeping a record of expenses and receipts. Each monthly card gives the number of eggs per bird that the hens and pullets should lay each month.

Farmers who keep the calendar send to the Poultry Specialist at the end of each month a card giving the number of layers on hand and the number of eggs gathered that month. The Specialist then makes a summary of these reports and returns this together with a letter on some question of poultry management to each calendar keeper.

One of these calendars will be sent free to any farmer who will write to their County Agricultural Agent, or to H. S. Palmer, Extension Poultryman, Newark, Delaware. As the new year begins November 1, those wishing calendars should write for them at once.

Taxi Men Fight To Hold Nuptial Trade

Elkton Monopoly Threatened By Clerk; Company Seeks Injunction

The Elkton Taxi Company, up in arms at what they feel is interference with their monopoly, have filed a petition seeking an injunction to restrain S. Ralph Andrews, clerk of the Circuit Court for Cecil County, from interfering with couples procuring marriage licenses in Elkton. The petition was presented to Judge L. L. Wicks, Saturday.

The action is the result of the activities of C. Ellis Deibert, who was appointed a deputy clerk in charge of issuing marriage licenses in August, and began a war on the ministers who are affiliated with the taxi company, which has nearly ruined the business of the taxi men and the marrying parsons.

The signers of the petition, trading as the Taxi Company are William Cann, president; J. Alfred Taylor, James H. Short, Leland Ott and A. B. Atkinson. Their machines carry the wedding couples from the station to the Court House, thence to the home of a minister and back to the railroad station, and for some years have been taking their "trade" to ministers who do not have a church or congregation in Cecil county, but make a business of marrying couples in Elkton. Business was good until the time Deibert took charge of the office. It is now charged that after he would issue a license to a couple he

Hallowe'en Parties For Entire School

All Grades In Newark Schools Plan Programs; Exhibit At State Meeting; Education Week

That all school children should have the opportunity of having the fun of a real school party, the Newark School through its faculty and student association, has planned parties for every group in the school. The Primary School, grades 2 and 3, will have their party Thursday evening; the Elementary School, grades 4, 5 and 6, will have their party Friday afternoon, and the Junior High School, grades 7, 8 and 9, on Friday evening. The several committees on decoration, program, reception, music and refreshments have planned many interesting surprises. In order that the Hallowe'en decorations might be enjoyed throughout the week they were put into place in the school cafeteria and the school auditorium on Tuesday. The class-rooms are very appropriately decorated in the spirit of autumn and Hallowe'en.

The Newark School is planning an exhibit of its school work at the Delaware State Education Association meeting at Milford on November 10 and 11. The Newark School has always been represented in this exhibit and this year plans to surpass its former achievements in that every subject and grade will be represented to show the progress from the first grade through to the twelfth. This exhibit will be placed in the school after its return from Milford.

American Education Week

American Education Week, which has been set for November 7 to 14, will be observed in the Newark School from November 3 to 9, due to the fact that the Delaware Education Association, of which the Newark School is a part, has its meeting on the tenth and the eleventh.

Quoting Professor Brinser, Superintendent of Schools:

"The keynote of the week will be an attempt to have a deeper understanding on the part of everyone of the part the public school has played."

Mathews Chosen Head Of Del. Poultry Ass'n

Poultry Tour Attracts Large Crowd; Dr. Ackert Speaker At Banquet

The second annual poultry tour and convention of the Delaware State Poultry Association was held October 19th and 20th. In spite of the bad weather about 50 car loads of poultrymen joined the tour on the first day and about 75 or 80 cars loads on the second day. During the two days eight farms and the Milford egg-laying contest were visited. The tour was devoted chiefly to a study of problems of feeding, housing and yarding the birds, and the control of internal parasites.

Those who were not acquainted with conditions in the Dagsboro and Lord Baltimore Hundreds were surprised to see to what extent the poultry industry has developed there. Mr. Long, of Dagsboro, whose farm was visited the second day pointed out that between his home and Frankford, a distance of one mile, there are 10,000 White Leghorn hens. This, he said, is a fair example of what exists on almost every road in Southeastern Sussex county.

The tour culminated in a banquet served by the Milford Grange in Grange Hall, and this was followed

REV. D. W. JACOBS

ASKED TO RETURN

The third quarterly conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church of this town was held last Tuesday evening, October 18, in the Sunday School room of the church. Dr. J. W. Colona, district superintendent, presided. The reports of the pastor and the officials of the various church organizations showed the work of the church to be in excellent condition. Much favorable comment has been received concerning the improvements which have been made to the interior of the church. The finance committee of improvements reports that almost enough money is in hand to meet the bills.

The pastor, Reverend D. W. Jacobs, was heartily and unanimously invited remain with the church for the ensuing year.

Newark Needlework Guild Exhibit

The annual business meeting of the Newark Branch of the Needlework Guild of America will be held tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock at the home of the president, Mrs. Charles B. Evans, on North College avenue. At four o'clock the public is invited to see the exhibit of garments and linens which the Guild has collected for this year.

The Newark Guild numbers eleven directors, each of whom is pledged to interest eleven members, one who will give money, and ten who will give at least two new garments or pieces of household linen each year. These one hundred and fifty women collect by each November three hundred or more pieces, all of which is given to needy persons in this town. The Guild co-operates with the Child Welfare Commission and with the Red Cross in the discriminating distribution of the articles of clothing and linen, and find need for every piece that is donated. The collection usually consists of warm underwear, sleeping garments, stockings, pillow-cases, sheets and towels.

Houghton was elected president of the association to succeed Dr. Johnson, resigned. Miss Alice Leak was elected secretary and S. J. Turner was re-elected treasurer. It was voted to change the business year from January 1 to January 1, instead of from October to October, as the business year has been. On January 1, the annual contributions from organizations and individuals will be asked for.

The members of the Visiting Nurses' Association Board are: Mrs. Houghton, Miss Leak, Mr. Turner, Mrs. Bonham, Miss Elsie Wright, Dr. Rhodes and D. A. McClintock. The physicians of the town have been asked to meet with the board. The Association is financed by the Continental Fibre Company, the National Vulcanized Fibre Company, the Curtis Paper Mill, by the Equitable Life Insurance Company of Washington, D. C., and the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company of New York, by several lodges of the town, the Century Club, the State Board of Health, and interested individuals. ### ENGLISHMAN SPEAKS ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

John W. Doorly, C. B., C. S. B., of London, spoke Saturday night in the Christian Science Church, Wilmington, on "Christian Science, the Revelation of God's Presence and Power." During his talk, Mr. Doorly, a member of the board of lecturers of the Mother Church, Boston, said:

"The Christian Scientist starts all reasoning from the fundamental fact that there is one infinite cause, God. He admits no other or secondary cause. He declares, 'The Lord our God is one Lord.' He also knows that this one and only cause, God, is infinitely available to His creation and that He is infinitely understandable. The Christian Scientist absolutely refuses the suggestion that God is far off, that He is a mystical being, or even that He is difficult to know."

"Christian Science does teach that God, as a whole, can never be included in any one's thought, because He is infinite and infinity can never be included in anything. Mrs. Eddy has written (Science and Health, p. 517): 'Even eternity can never reveal the whole of God, since there is no limit to infinity or to its reflections.'"

"Christian Science teaches therefore that God's nature must and can be understood, and that through this spiritual understanding of His nature we are knowing God aright. The correctness of this teaching can be overwhelmingly substantiated from the Scriptures. The Christian Scientist, consequently, is not engaged in the attempt to cognize some far-off mystical being through his physical senses, for he knows that 'no man hath seen God at any time.'

"He is, however, engaged in ceaselessly striving for a practical, demonstrable understanding of God's true nature, of His ever-presence and infinite power, which will deliver from the mythology of materiality."

"MODERNIZING" THE BIBLE

New translations of the Bible multiply. That is not surprising in view of the universal interest in this collection of Jewish and early Christian literature and its record as a continuing "best seller." The latest announced is by two American and two Canadian scholars. Its merits cannot be judged, of course, in advance of publication. But the statement that the "Hebrew verbosity" of the King James version has been cut out, and that "modern colloquialisms" have been substituted for its stately English is not reassuring. Questions of accuracy have dictated many changes in the familiar text. They have an importance for theologians. But the ordinary reader is not much interested in these. Whatever theories of inspiration he may hold, the literary quality of the translation remains of great importance.

The English version of 1611 supplanted others—notably that of 1549—which had their own merits; but none since has really supplanted it. The scholars of King James's day stated that greater accuracy was one of their aims; and for this reason many phrases of great beauty in the 1549 version were eliminated, as anyone who studies the passages from it still retained in the Book of Common Prayer may see. Nevertheless, these translators gave the language one of its classics; and, after all these years, to revise it is like revising Shakespeare. "Modern colloquialisms" are particularly offensive, whether from the point of view of religious or literary associations.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

"ALL ABOARD"

A rare comedy carnival is in store for audiences who witness Johnny Hines' latest First National Picture, "All Aboard," which comes to the Hanark Theatre next week, for the comedian has surrounded himself with an exceptional array of funmakers to keep the comedy action going at a fast and furious pace. Edna Murphy is seen in the leading feminine role, and others appearing prominently are Dot Farley, Babe Landon, Frank Hagney, Sojin, Fred Kelsey, James Leonard, Henry Barrows, George Reed, Buster Brodie and Eddie Dennis.

Mary Smith, colored, of Conowingo, will spend her next 90 days in the House of Correction on the charge of welding a butcher knife recklessly at her place of employment.

R. E. Williams, of Elkton, who was charged by Rural Officer Bowen, of Richardson Park, with operating a car while intoxicated, was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the Workhouse by Magistrate Lister of that place. He drove his car in a zig-zag manner along the highway. Williams, who pleaded to be dismissed, said his wife and six children would suffer if he went to jail.

Luther Campbell, of Rising Sun, who pleaded guilty in the United States District Court in Baltimore, Wednesday, to illegal making and possessing liquor was given three months in jail. Hassell Burton and Posey Sumpter were arrested when Campbell's place was raided, but Campbell testified he alone was guilty. Sumpter was found guilty of having articles designed for making liquor in his possession, and fined $250. Burton was found not guilty.

Mrs. Belle Taylor Doyle gave a talk on Fall styles before the Cecil County Homemakers Clubs at the Church House in Elkton on Tuesday.

Negro Is Shot Over 50 Cents

In a dispute over 50 cents, Price Graves, negro, is a patient at Union Hospital, Elkton, suffering a gun shot wound in the stomach and Thomas Holland, negro, is wanted by the police. The men had an argument over the coin when it is alleged that Holland went to his home, procured a revolver, shot Graves, then made his escape before the police arrived. Graves' condition is said to be serious. Both were employed as taxi drivers.

up the trial of Louis Thomas, colored, charged with criminal assault upon Mrs. Elizabeth Radcliffe, of Kent Island. The case was removed to Elkton for trial from the Queen Anne's County Court, and was set for trial during the early part of the month, but was postponed on account of the absence of a witness for the defense. Former Senator J. H. C. Legg, of Centerville, chief counsel for the accused, at that time announced the case would be tried before the court, instead of a jury. It is alleged that the assault took place last March. The Radcliffes and Thomas resided on Kent Island, their homes being separated by a small creek. The woman charges that she was lured to the Negro's home on the pretext that Thomas' wife was critically ill and wanted help. It is alleged that the missing witness for the defendant will testify altogether different. Thomas has been in the Baltimore city jail since the alleged assault.

Workman Is Killed Under Freight Car

W. H. Wilhelm, aged about 60 years, who resided between Elkton and Childs, was killed Monday morning about 11 o'clock by cars on the branch line of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, running from Childs to Providence. His head was severed from the body. Wilhelm was employed at the Marley paper mill, near Childs, and in company with two other men had been engaged in loading a couple of freight cars, standing on a siding, with finished paper. They had just finished that particular job and gotten out of the car, when a shifting engine and several cars ran in on the siding, striking the cars which Wilhelm and his fellow workmen had just finished loading, with great force. The unfortunate man, who was on the track at the time, was struck by the head car, knocked down and the wheels passed over his neck. Beside a wife, Wilhelm is survived by several children. Coroner Howard W. Green, of Elkton, took charge of the body and will hold an inquest Wednesday night.

OCTOBER 26, 1927

ROOSEVELT

He was found faithful over a few things and he was made ruler over many; he cut his own trail clean and straight and millions followed him toward the light.

He was frail; he made himself a tower of strength. He was timid; he made himself a lion of courage. He was a dreamer; he became one of the great doers of all time.

Men put their trust in him; women found a champion in him; kings stood in awe of him, but children made him their playmate.

He broke a nation's slumber with his cry, and it rose up.

He touched the eyes of the blind men with a flame that gave them vision. Souls became swords through him; swords became servants of God.

He was loyal to his country and he exacted loyalty; he loved many lands, but he loved his own land best.

He was terrible in battle but tender to the weak; joyous and tireless, being free from self-pity; clean with a cleanness that cleansed the air like a gale.

His courtesy knew no wealth, no class; his friendship, no creed or color or race. His courage stood every onslaught of savage beast and ruthless man, of loneliness, of victory, of defeat. His mind was eager, his heart was true, his body and spirit, defiant of obstacles, ready to meet what might come.

*He fought injustice and tyranny; bore sorrow gallantly; loved all nature, bleak spaces and hardy companions, hazardous adventure and the zest of battle. Wherever he went he carried his own pack; and in the uttermost parts of the earth
he kept his conscience for his guide.—Hermann

would insert the name of a minister.
On the blank form which is filled out as a marriage license is a line for the insertion of the name of the clergyman who is to perform the ceremony.
Clerks heretofore have left this line blank to be filled in by the clergyman himself.

Deibert asks applicants what religion they belong to and fills in the name of the clergyman of that denomination and directs the couple to the address. In many cases the taxi drivers would be dismissed at the clerk's office and the prospective wedding couple would then walk to the residence of one of the ministers stationed with a charge in the town.

The taxi company first had an injunction issued against Mr. Deibert but finding it faulty, Henry A. Warburton, counsel for the company, had the papers withdrawn and one issued against Mr. Andrews. The company alleges that it is illegal to interfere or attempt to influence in any manner those who appear for a marriage license.

Mr. Andrews has, according to law, 10 days within which to file his answer. If the petition is granted by Judge Wickes, the signers will be required to give bond before argument will be heard.

exclusively through county and city Chambers of Commerce or Boards of Trade.

The business public in the counties representing the central section of the Peninsula has already voted overwhelmingly in favor of continuing the Association for the three year period beginning January 1, 1928. In addition, the two Virginia counties of Accomac and Northampton, comprising the Southern section of the Peninsula have again decided to cast their lot with the Del-Mar-Va Association in meeting their marketing, advertising, publicity, transportation and general development problems.

The basic question submitted to the five central counties and which has also been passed upon by the two Virginia counties was whether or not the Association should be continued. As the vote in respect to the question was decided affirmatively and as present members of the Association from all of the fourteen counties voted on October 14 to continue the organization, the Northern counties are not asked to record their verdict on this subject.

"The question of continuance," said Dr. G. Layton Grier, President of the Association, "has been passed upon. The Association is going ahead. What we are asking the Northern counties is whether they desire to be in or out of the Economic Union which the Association as a whole will constitute upon completion of its refinancing program, which has already begun."

In order to present the facts and questions in the simplest way, Chairman Brown of the inter-county referendum committee has requested the Association to frame a number of statements embodying in a general way its record of work and its future program. Upon the basis of these statements the committee will ask the questions which the business leaders in the Northern counties are requested to answer. The ballots will go out accompanied by return envelopes addressed to Chairman Brown at Centreville.

The ballots will go to a general list comprising at least two thousand names.

In this connection Harvey J. Hill, Executive Vice-President of the Association, calls attention to erroneous statements made regarding the referendum in the Central section. It has been alleged that ballots were sent out only to members of the Association or to those known to be prejudiced in the Association's favor. "This," says Mr. Hill, "is manifestly untrue. The Association only has 152 members in the Central section, which cast more than 600 votes in favor of continuance. The Association had no way of knowing the attitude of members until they declared themselves. Statements to the effect that the Association has conducted or is conducting a referendum on the basis of fixed lists are as malicious as they are untrue."

ENTERTAINED BOOSTERS

Mrs. Marguerite Balling entertained the A. O. U. W. Boosters Club at her home on Academy street, Thursday. At the business meeting, with Miss Edith Jackson in the chair, it was decided to hold a masked dance and card party on the evening of Thursday, November 3, in the Century Club. Other activities for the fall and winter were also discussed. It was announced that the membership contest would close after the next meeting of Anchor Lodge, which will be held tomorrow evening. The Blue are holding a slight lead.

A feature of the social part of the evening was an amusing sketch given by Misses Edith Jackson and Elizabeth Lindell. Music, cards and dancing were enjoyed. Mrs. Balling served refreshments, and the club then adjourned. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Elizabeth Lindell.

"It has been truthfully said that that nation is greatest which puts the child first in its thinking, in its statecraft, in its business and in its ideals of conduct. It is further true that the community or the nation that has the highest regard and interest for childhood will lead all others in health, intelligence, morality, efficiency and happiness; and will reach the greatest height of community and national prosperity, both in the material sense and in the spiritual sense. Our community moves forward through its children."

"The citizens of a community are the stockholders in America's greatest corporation, its public school. American Education Week aims to acquaint the citizen with the active work of the schools, with their ideals, their achievements, their problems, and their needs. Every program has this in mind for the week. What an excellent community achievement it would be for the Town of Newark if this would be an actual 'visit your school and teacher week.'"

Those from Newark who entered the contest were Miss Edna Murray and Kennedy Fell. The radio committee vote was to count 40 per cent; that of the radio audience, 60 per cent. The two fortunate singers from Delaware will be sent to the district audition at Atlantic City some time in November. A great deal of enthusiasm has been manifested in the contest. The Newark singers have received a great deal of praise, and Newark friends are anxiously awaiting the decision of the votes.

Barton stated that he could not judge the speed of the Dyer car, but believed that it was traveling fast. He claimed that if the other vehicle would have stopped or slowed down, no collision would have occurred.

Besides Heath and Barton, there were two boys in the rear of the truck. They had asked for a "lift" from Philadelphia. Their names are unknown, and they were not taken into custody, as they did not witness the accident.

Glass on the truck was shattered, and Heath narrowly escaped cuts. Only a sheepskin coat which reached above his head prevented injury.

Both the injured men were unconscious after the accident. Barton, who became very nervous, due to the mishap, aided in placing the men in a passing truck which rushed them to the Delaware Hospital. He was greatly concerned over the condition of the men, and expressed hope that they both recover.

Founder's Day Will Celebrate Thirteenth Anniversary Of The Women's College

Mrs. Gilbreth, who will speak at Wolf Hall in the afternoon, has had an interesting career. She was born in Oakland, California, in 1878. She received the degree of Litt. D. at the University of California, her M. A. degree from the same university; and the degree of Ph. D. from Brown University in 1915. She was married to Frank Gilbreth on October 19, 1904, and is the mother of twelve children. In collaboration with her husband she wrote "Time, Study, and Fatigue." Since her husband's death, Mrs. Gilbreth has been president of Gilbreth, Inc., Consulting Engineers in Management. She has written many magazine articles and the following books: "Psychology of Management," "Applied Notion Study," and "Notion Study for the Handicapped." Her home is in Montclair, New Jersey.

Each year Founder's Day draws a larger crowd of interested parents and friends and is a season of re-joicing for those who have worked all of these years for the college. Looking back through the files of The Newark Post, the history of the institution is clearly outlined from the first small meetings of committees that voiced the need of the college and the belief in its success through the years of building and achievement.

On February 3, 1912, Professor Haywary, then dean of the Agricultural Department of Delaware College addressed representatives from the State Grange, the Committee of Fifty College Women, and the Delaware State Federation of Women's Clubs in the New Century Club Room in Wilmington on the subject "A Delaware College for Women." As a result of the meeting a committee of three was suggested to visit women's departments of other colleges, to make plans and procure estimates so as to have a definite proposition to lay before the trustees of Delaware College and to put before the next legislature.

Resolutions reviewing the intent of the meeting were adopted and directed sent to the Board of Trustees. They expressed appreciation for the college trustees' suggestion to have a committee appointed to confer with others interested in the matter of an affiliated college and assuring the trustees of the loyalty and support of the meeting in furthering the project.

In the official report of the Delaware State Federation of Women's Clubs in 1912, we read that 1573 women belonging to 17 clubs in the State pledged themselves to work for an Affiliated College for Women in Delaware. At the annual meeting of the Federation such men as George W. Twitmyer, of Wilmington, president of the State Board of Education, Professor H. Hayward, of Delaware College, also a member of the board; President Harter, of Delaware College; Superintendent Carroll, of Kent schools; Superintendent Hardesty, of Sussex schools, and Dr. George E. Reed, for twenty-two years president of Dickinson College, made addresses in favor of the project. A plan proposed by Professor Hayward and Mrs. A. D. Warner, chairman of the committee on education, was discussed and thought feasible.

During the early winter of 1912-1913, the subject of the Affiliated College was frequently discussed in newspaper editorials, in Grange meetings and by friends. Opposition to the idea became unpopular. But there was some opposition in the State Legislature to the bill providing for the college. The bill, in amended form, was passed during the session of the legislature of 1913, and higher education for the women of Delaware was assured.

The Affiliated College Commission held its first meeting in Dover on April 7, 1913. The commission included Governor Charles R. Miller, president pro tem of the Senate Marshall, speaker of the House Holcomb, Dr. George Twitmyer, Samuel J. Wright and Mrs. A. D. Warner. On the next Monday the commission met in Newark, visiting properties and looking over sites.

During the summer of the same year a site was selected and the prize for plans and suggestions for the two buildings (Residence and Science Halls) was awarded to Brown and Whitehead in August.

In the Post of December 17, 1913, we find that the dean for the new college has been chosen and her academic record is given thus: "She entered the Battle Creek, Michigan, public schools at the age of nine and was graduated from the High School at sixteen. She taught at Battle Creek one year as a supply and two years each in grades 2, 6, and 8. She then entered Michigan State Normal College and was graduated in 1892, taking the oratorical prize, and became critic teacher in the Training Department there for the following three years. In 1899 she was graduated from the University of Michigan. At this time Miss Robinson was offered charge of the Science Department at Mount Pleasant, Michigan, Normal School and also a position in Japan, but decided to sacrifice salary and go to Vassar College as laboratory assistant to Dr. Frank R. Lillie, now head of the Department of Zoology at Chicago. This decision was made in order to gain time for study.

Miss Robinson's work at Vassar grew from that of laboratory assistant in biology to assistant professor of botany. She has had experience in administrative work, having had charge of freshmen living off the campus or charge of a dormitory during the greater part of the time spent at Vassar.

In 1904 Miss Robinson took the degree of Master of Arts at Columbia University and in 1912 the degree of Doctor of Philosophy at the same university. She was also one of two women, with twenty-one men, to receive the honorary degree of the Michigan State Normal College at its sixtieth anniversary and first granting of honorary degrees in 1912.

Dr. Robinson's summers have been spent in study and travel, including work at the Tropical Research Station of New York, the Botanical Garden in Jamaica, West Indies, in Berlin, Germany, and at field work in the Hawaiian Islands. During the summer of 1912 she acted as dean of women at the University of Wisconsin.

In the same issue of the Post we find that "work began this afternoon on the Affiliated College and will be continued right through the winter."

On October 10, 1914, a crowd of notables and distinguished guests gathered to witness the inauguration of Dr. Samuel Chiles Mitchell, as president of Delaware College, the dedication of the new Women's College and the installation as dean of Dr. Winifred J. Robinson. The number who attended was estimated as thirty-five hundred. Judge Charles M. Curtis presided at the exercises in the morning; Governor Miller presided at the corner-stone laying.

The resident faculty of Women's College during the first year of its existence numbered five persons: Dean Robinson, Miss M. V. Caudell, head of the Home Economics Department, Miss Mary E. Rich, professor of Education, Miss Gertrude Brady, assistant professor in English, and Miss Alfreda Mossop, director of Physical Education. Professors from Delaware College assisted. The entering class in 1914 numbered 48 girls. It is known as the Pioneer Class and there is no more loyal group of the alumnae than this class. The names of the members of the first class to enter Women's College were:

Martha L. Allmond, Alma Beatrice Appleby, Thelma Bachrach, Helen S. Barkley, Helen G. Baylis, Helen R. Brown, Marian S. Campbell, Rebecca P. Churchman, Ruth Clendaniel, Edna Coale, Margaret P. Cook, Beatrice M. Crossmore, Elizabeth Dawson, Margaret R. Dunn, Elizabeth W. Eggert, Eleanor E. Fader, Mildred L. Ferguson, Emily B. Frazer, Anna E. Galaher, Ethel C. Grieves, Lillian A. Groves, Virginia M. Harrington, Olive F. Heiser, Irma R. Jaquette, Alice Jefferies, Regina Kurtz, Mary E. Leddenham, Margaret H. Lum, Harriett N. Miller, Edith A. McDougle, Ethel McCarns, Margaret D. Postles, Mary R. Pratt, Alice B. Ruth, Anna O. Saville, Catherine T. Schunder, Lura Shorb, Alice M. Smedley, Viola E. Smith, Myrtle M. Steele, Hilda H. Stevens, Isabel Stott, Anna C. Thompson, Jeanne L. Underhill, Mary L. Van Dyke, Mary N. Walker, Ada G. Willim, Margaret T. Wilson.

Those who entered as special students were:

Mrs. H. L. Bonham, Florence Butler, Mrs. E. W. Cooch, Elinor T. Harter, Mrs. W. E. Holton, Mrs. L. B. Jacobs, Mrs. Everett C. Johnson, Anna Kennelley, Audrey E. Miller, Mrs. S. C. Mitchell, Alice Myatt, Anna Pennington, and Elizabeth Wright.

Many of the rooms in Residence Hall were furnished by the different Women's Clubs of the State and gifts of books and furniture for the first floor rooms were received. The Women's College Commission was unflinching in its efforts to assist the faculty in equipping the college buildings, which at that time included Residence and Science Hall.

From that time we find frequent notices of the growth of the college, of the interest of the State Legislature, of the activities of the student body, and of the work of the alumnae. At the present time, only an action of the board of trustees limits the enrollment each year to 320 students and the class-rooms are over-crowded. To those of us who look back, it does not seem possible that only thirteen years ago, there was no such institution, and that but for its conception and building a thousand Delaware young women might not have had the advantages of an higher education.

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA CO.

Now Comes Indian Summer

"Pleasant weather. The Indian Summer is here. Frosty nights." When Major Ebenezer Denny, spare of words and spare of form, made that entry in his diary, dried his goose quill pen, closed the windows tightly "to keep out the night air," and climbed into his ponderous New England bed the evening of October 13, 1794, he wrote meteorological history.

That the Major was familiar with the term "Indian Summer" is as plain as if he had written: "I ate some doughnuts and drank a glass of cider before retiring." And probably every other resident of New England, New York and the country over would have called the period Indian Summer, just as did their grandfathers before them. But, so far as is known, nowhere, prior to that date, in all the records, pamphlets, letters or histories of early America is there any mention of the year's choicest gem.

However, the Revolutionary veteran who today probably would be described as "knowing his stuff" was not strictly accurate—although perhaps an early Fall in that long ago year did bring an early Indian Summer. Indian Summer, according to most authorities, rarely comes as early as the middle of October in any part of the United States.

Chronologically, Indian Summer should occur between Halloween, on October 31, and St. Martin's Day, November 15. The season, however, is coy and unreliable; its advent cannot be definitely fixed as one fixes that of a feast day. When the giants, Summer and Winter, have battled for supremacy and the latter has fallen but is ready to resume after either a long or a short count, Indian Summer is here. Not the warm, golden days of early October when world series bleacher fans discard their coats under the sometimes rather hot rays of a "Summer hang-over."

Toward the latter part of October, weeks after we have read the headline: "First Snow on Mount Marcy," when the Great Lakes' Autumn toll of shipwrecks has grown apace; when coastguard cutters are busy from Cape Cod to Diamond Shoals; when violent rains have swept all northern forests bare, we give up. "Winter's right on us," we say despairingly. Gone are the ideal days of golf, of motoring in comfort, of most out-door activities except football and hunting. There is nothing left with a "kick" in it. Chill, raw winds, dun-colored clouds and scurrying flocks of birds add the final touch. "Another Winter will never find me here," about 90 per cent of us mentally resolve.

But hold! There comes a day—a succession of days, maybe six or even a dozen—after we have settled down for the Winter, when (around November 1) a different kind of weather prevails than any experienced during the Spring, Summer and Autumn. There is something mysterious and weird about it, despite its bland and mellow glory—half-hazy days, with the sun shining like an orange red ball through an otherwise clear sky and in rich, blood-red sunsets.

"Smoke from forest fires," we are told.

But the Ojibway Indian knows better. "It's smoke from the pipe of Nanahbozhoo," says he.

Just before Nanahbozhoo, the Indian god, falls asleep for the Winter, like the farmer or other mere earthly mortals, he looks over his affairs, the aborigine explains. Seating himself on his throne at the North Pole, the great god of the Ojibways lights up his pipe—containing enough tobacco, maybe, to last a week or ten days—and begins looking over the affairs and transactions of his people for the past season. The smoke from his pipe that floats over all the world causes the purplish, dreamy haze and unforgettable sunsets of Indian Summer.

The red men themselves never referred to the aftermath of the Summer and Autumn as Indian Summer. That was the white man's name for it. To the Indian it meant a period of activity. When the soft, mellow days came the Indians—having lived since springtime along the shores of lakes and rivers, where they fished and planted crops—gathered the last of their maize and wild rice. Their dried fish were packed up. Snares and traps were assembled. Before the break-up of good weather the Indians had dispersed to all parts of the country for their Winter trapping.

The origin of the name, Indian Summer, like the mysterious season itself, is vague. Some old American writers say the white settlers always prepared for the final Indian attack when the good weather of early November came, following October storms. The name, "Indian Summer," therefore, was applied to the season and was intended to convey the idea of unreliability and deceitfulness. Through lack of understanding and suspicion on both sides, perhaps, few of the Colonists of New England had any faith in the Indian.

"Gather your Indian corn before it gets down and the heavy rains come," was an old Indian Summer warning. Everything is made snug and tight on the Northern farm in Indian Summer. The farmer can count on no more such weather for the balance of the year.

A good Indian Summer meant a good corn crop the next year, the New England farmer believed. In the Mohawk Valley and the back country of New York and New England, where a few Indian traditions survive, older residents still believe it.

A man who has observed the customs and manners of country people, especially in different parts of the United States, says that the beautiful weather of Indian Summer is a great promoter of sectional pride and love for one's own region. Nature has blessed the particular section with a season of rare weather, seems to be the general belief.

"This weather couldn't be equaled anywhere else," a Mohawk Valley man told the traveler, as he looked proudly down upon the historic, silvery stream, one Indian Summer day.

A Virginia fisherman sat watching his drying nets on the scented dunes of Cape Henry a few weeks before Thanksgiving. "Tell me where you can beat this weather!" he demanded of the visitor with eyes on the sister lighthouse of Cape Charles.

Frank L. Stanton, who generally saw nature with the eyes of Wordsworth and had the rare faculty of using the right word when he did, wrote:

"Injun Summer suites me, soft night and stilly day;

"And I could keep on dreamin' till I dreamed my life away."

Stanton, however, wrote of the Georgia Indian Summer that lasts for weeks.

Down in the Attakapas of Louisiana, where long-horned cattle still feed on the lush grass as in the days of Jackson and Lafitte, a Creole planter was asked: "Where do the people enjoy the most beautiful Indian Summer weather?" It was explained to the planter that Indian Summer is the equivalent of St. Martin's Summer, the only name he or his ancestors ever heard for it. He looked at his interrogator curiously, his blue eyes twinkling.

"Why right here, of course," he replied. "Indian Summer, as you call it, begins in November and lasts until April."—New York Times.

The ideal condition for raising chickens is on open range—without yards. Fences greatly increase the labor cost—as well as the cost of equipment and maintenance. When open range is not practical it's best to raise them in one large yard or field—a field fenced to keep the chickens in and the dogs and rodents out.

Delaware-St. Johns Fight Scoreless Tie

St. Johns Threatens Delaware Goal, Glasser's Playing Feature of Game

As the sun dropped between the West goal posts on Frazer Field, Saturday afternoon, the Delaware and St. Johns football teams gave each other a cheer after fighting to a standstill in a scoreless tie. A steady Delaware line had saved the day when a fast, smooth-functioning St. Johns backfield had threatened the Blue and Gold goal line on several occasions.

The game offered some spectacular football. As it opened, it seemed that St. Johns was going to give Delaware a dose of its own medicine as the first two plays were passes. These failing, the Marylanders tried a place kick, which fell short. Delaware took the ball and soon kicked. Coach Rothrock had his team using the huddle system again. St. Johns, when they recovered the ball, revealed a hard running backfield that had good interference and knew how to follow it. They made some good gains around end with well masked plays. Delaware's rushes at the line gained yardage mainly due to the holes that the line was opening.

Delaware had the edge in the second quarter and it seemed for a time that they would score. "Ace" Taylor, shifty Blue and Gold halfback, was finding holes in the St. Johns line and whisking through them for steady gains, when an injury to his ankle sent him from the field. He had just run through tackle and, dodging the secondary defense, gone fifteen yards when he was injured. A little later Creamer intercepted a St. Johns pass and ran it back 25 yards. While they were deep in the enemy territory Delaware could not put it over and the period ended scoreless.

Things looked bad for a time in the third period. Flynn, playing safety man for Delaware, did a Snodgrass with a punt and a St. Johns man scooped it up and ran it across the line. However, the ball was ruled out and the touchdown did not count. Stimulated by the break, the St. Johns backs tore into the Delaware line with a fury that seemed good for a score, but about this time Glasser threw away his headgear and went in and stopped them.

St. Johns had the edge again in the last quarter and forced the ball to Delaware's ten-yard line. The Delaware line stopped them and the game ended with the ball in midfield.

The Delaware line played a great game and its defensive work saved the Blue and Gold from defeat. Glasser, acting captain, was easily the star of the game. He took care of every play that came at his end and was behind the line time after time to break up St. Johns plays before they got started.

The backfield played brilliant football in spots but is not as yet coordinated to play effectively as a unit. Creamer's kicking was as usual above par, two of his punts sailing for sixty yards. Taylor, who is new to the game, seems to have football instinct and uses his eyes as well as his feet. He was going great guns when he was taken out.

One of the most interesting things developed by Saturday's game was that the old-fashioned nightshirt is still in vogue in collegiate circles. This Saturday, Delaware will play Johns Hopkins at Baltimore.

We've Put New Prices on Some Fine Bedroom Suites!

And these new prices are lower by many dollars than the ones of a week ago.

We found a number of very desirable suites that were discontinued patterns—and a number of others that were the last of our stock—our floor samples.

Now—note some of these suites, and particularly the reductions.

A suite in Burl American Walnut Veneers with drawer fronts of maple, black striped, has a full-sized bow bed, a three-mirror vanity, a man's chest and bureau. Formerly $250.00, it is now $175.00 the suite.

A dull finish suite, American Walnut Veneers, has a bow bed, full size, big three-mirror vanity, roomy chest and five-drawer bureau. Formerly $260.00, it is now $165.00 the suite.

A suite in French Walnut Veneers and gum, dustproof and with mahogany interiors, has a full size bow bed, roomy dresser, full three-mirror vanity and double-door wardrobe. Formerly $260.00, it is now marked $160.00 the suite.

A fine suite in Burl Walnut Veneers and gum has an unusual toilet table, full size bed, chest and bureau. Formerly $355.00, it is now $250.00.

An unusual suite is of the Early American period and made in maple, in a dull, rich finish. The bed is of post design—there's a big, roomy chest, an 8-legged toilet table and a swell-front dresser with mitre-cut mirrors and a chair and bench in denim to match. Formerly $450.00, it is now $295.00 the suite.

Another Early American suite is in fine Burl Walnut Veneers with heavy, stockilybuilt dresser, toilet table and chest and a fine post bed, with chair and bench to match. Formerly $550.00, it is now marked $235.00 the suite of six pieces.

A distinctive suite—Early American period—is of wavy maple veneers with mahogany top. The bed is of the low foot-board style and there is a chair and bench to match. Formerly $400.00, it is now $300.00.

A straight-line walnut veneered suite, has maple drawer fronts with a semi-vanity dresser and chair and bench to match. Formerly $350.00, it is now $250.00 the suite of six pieces.

An enameled suite in parchment—hand-painted, has a bureau, toilet table, chiffonette, twin beds, night stand and chair and bench, and is from one of the finest makers. Formerly $800.00, it is now $500.00 the suite.

A suite in two-tone green enamel with touches of gilt and a dainty hand-painted decoration, has a post bed, an unusual toilet table, dresser, storage chest, chair, bench and a drop-leaf night stand, a delightful suite for the guestroom or the little girl that's "growing up." Formerly $584.00, it is now $350.00 the complete suite.

Another suite in green enamel has a hand-painted rose decoration. The suite is of Colonial style with a spool turned posted bed, dresser, toilet table, chest, and bench. Formerly priced $364.00, it is now marked $275.00 the suite.

If you are going to buy a new suite soon, see these special suites. Your bedroom furniture now will cost considerably less than it would have a week ago—and it will probably cost more later on.

But I Don't Need A Complete Suite!

Very good! Then there's a lot of odd pieces here that are marked a quarter, a third and even a half their former price. They're odd bureaus and beds and chests and toilet tables left from suites and offer an opportunity to fit up that odd room with odd pieces at much less than usual.

$75 Dresser, French Walnut Veneers.....$48	$100 Toilet Table, American Walnut.....$50
$75 Dresser, Birds Eye Maple Veneers.....$50	$105 Toilet Table, Colonial, Mahogany Ven.....$60

You may, if you desire, buy any of these suites or odd pieces at these low prices, and pay a little every month without any interest or extra charges whatever.

We'll be glad to arrange terms that will prove quite easy on your pocketbook.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

TARTS ARE DELIGHTS FOR CHILDREN: COBBLERS EASIEST OF ALL BAKED DESSERTS

"The Queen of Hearts
She made some tarts
All on a summer's day;
The Knave of Hearts
He stole those tarts,
And took them clean away."
Mother Goose Rhyme.

The tart is the forerunner of America's favorite dessert—the fruit pie. It was popular in England long before America was colonized. Tarts are really open face pies in miniature. They are the delight of children, who, in the tart, have a whole pie all to themselves. Grown-ups are also fond of them.

They are excellent ways in which to use left-over pie crust with fruit or berries. Jelly centers are frequently used and few foods have a more attractive appearance than the tart with the bright red jelly center.

In the cobbler, we have the baked dessert which is easiest of all to make. We are now entering upon the season when fruits and berries are most plentiful. Of course, we all love them raw, but, nevertheless, we sometimes tire of them in this condition, and the cobbler is an ideal way in which to serve them cooked. There are few more alluring desserts than a fruit or berry cobbler when served with a delicate sauce.

Plain Pastry for Tarts

2 cups pastry flour; 1/2 cup cold fat; 1 tsp. salt; 3/4 cup cold water; 1/4 cup evaporated milk.

Sift flour with the salt. Rub fat in with tips of fingers until the appearance is that of coarse corn meal. Add enough liquid to mix lightly to a medium stiff dough. When rolling out use as little hard wheat flour as possible to dust the board. Roll lightly. Bake at 425 to 450° F. Yield: Sufficient for 12 tart shells.

Fill tarts with sweetened slightly cooked blueberries or raspberries and top with whipped cream sauce.

Whipped Cream Sauce

1 cup whipping cream; 3/4 cup evaporated milk; 1/4 cup sugar.

Chill cream and evaporated milk and whip until stiff. Fold in sugar and keep chilled until ready to serve.

Peach Cobbler

2 cups pastry flour; 4 tsp. baking powder; 1 tsp. salt; 5 tbsp. fat; 1tbsp. butter; 4 tbsp. evaporated milk diluted with 6 tbsp. water; 8 large peaches; 1 cup sugar; 1 tsp. water.

Sift flour with baking powder and salt twice. Rub fat into flour with fingers until appearance is like coarse corn meal. Add liquid to dry ingredients and mix quickly but thoroughly. Toss dough onto board dusted with bread flour. Pat or roll out to 1/4-inch thickness. Heave peaches pared and cut into 1/4-inch slices. Place peaches in a buttered pan that is deep enough to hold them. Sprinkle with sugar, add butter in bits and then the water. Cover with dough. Gash top to allow steam to escape. Bake in a 400° F. oven. About 25 minutes are required for baking. Yield: 8 servings.

Cherry Roll

2 cups bread flour; 4 tsp. baking powder; 1/2 tsp. salt; 2 tbsp. sugar; 5 tbsp. fat; 1/4 cup evaporated milk diluted with 1/2 cup water; 1 pint red cherries; 1 cup sugar.

Mix and sift the flour, baking powder, salt, and 2 tablespoons sugar. Rub the fat in with the fingers and add diluted milk as for biscuit dough.

Toss on a slightly floured board and knead for a minute. Roll in a rectangular shape to 1/4-inch thickness. Sprinkle over generously with well sugared, pitted cherries and roll up like a jelly roll. Place in a greased tin. Slash diagonally across top and bake in a medium oven. Serve with sweetened cherry sauce. Serves six.

Carrots Become Delicious

Carrots when suitably cooked can be one of the most appetizing of all vegetables, but they require more than mere boiling in salted water.

Serape or pare the carrots or, better yet, boil them just long enough for the skin to slip off easily. Then place them in the same pan in which beef is cooking for either a plain roast or a pot roast. Let the carrots cook until about done, covering them well with the meat juices. When nearly done place the carrots in a separate kettle with some of the meat juices and only enough hot water to prevent burning. Add a little granulated sugar and let them simmer until entirely done. This removal to a separate pan is to prevent the sugar getting into the meat and its gravy, which in the case of beef is, of course, not desirable.

Carrots may be cooked in this same manner with ham when the latter is either baked or fried, although the carrots require a little preliminary boiling if they are to be placed afterward with frying ham. In the case of ham the carrots need not be removed in order to add sugar, since sugar improves the flavor of the ham also.

Mahews Chosen Head

by a business meeting. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: W. C. Mathews, Hockessin, president; W. C. Newton, Bridgeville, vice-president; H. S. Palmer, Newark, secretary; H. E. Lemox, Milford, treasurer.

The chief speaker for the evening was Dr. James E. Ackert, Parasitologist at the Kansas Agricultural College, who gave an illustrated lecture on the "Control of Internal Parasites." Dr. Ackert showed how difficult it is to rid birds of these parasites once they are infested. He advised the use of double yards to control round and the elimination of flies on the poultry plant to control tape worms. About 300 poultrymen heard Dr. Ackert's address. The discussion that followed the lecture proved very instructive and continued until almost midnight.

Delaware was honored by having on the tour and at the meeting Dr. M. J. Jull, Senior Poultryman, and Mr. H. La Shader, Poultry Specialist, both of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Dr. Jull gave a talk in which he showed that Delaware has marketing advantages over the mid-west and far west which it is not fully using, because of lack of uniform grading.

Dean C. A. McCue of the University of Delaware made a few remarks in which he expressed much interest in the future growth of the Delaware State Poultry Association. He sees much important work ahead of the association and predicts that it will grow steadily in size and importance. Acting County Agent Ed William,

Jr., and Assistant County Agent G. M. Worrlow of this county, attended the tour and banquet. Some of the leading poultrymen from this county who made the trip were: Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Matthews, Mrs. Horace Dennison, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Pierson, all of Hockessin, and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Suddard, of Newark.

PREMIUM LISTS READY FOR TRI-STATE SHOW

The Tri-State Poultry Association has completed arrangements for the annual poultry show, which will be held in the Armory here from November 28 to December 3. Admission will be free to the public. Premium lists are now ready and will be mailed upon requests to the secretary, N. J. Lannan, Box 85, Elsmere, Del. Requests so far assure the management of a large show than in previous years and three judges of National reputation have been secured to place awards: Newton Cosh, Melvin Cosh, of Vineland, N. J., and Harry Wolsieffer, of Millville, N. J.

Special features of the show will be ringside judging of the best cockerel, best pullet, and best exhibition pen in the show. The winners will receive handsome rosette ribbons. Harry Wolsieffer, expert breeder and judge, will speak during the show. Dr. Kent, noted poultryman and feeding expert, will deliver a lecture, illustrated by moving pictures. All breeders, poultrymen and the public in general are invited to visit the exhibition and lectures. Dr. Kent and the judges will answer any questions asked by poultrymen and give all assistance possible to help improve conditions and quality of their flocks.

FRATERNITY DANCES AND BANQUET

The Informal Dance of the Beta Epsilon Chapter of the Kappa Alpha Order was held in Old College last Saturday evening. George Kelly's Orchestra furnished the music. In the receiving line were: James E. Wilson, president of the fraternity, and Miss Amy Culver, of Women's College, Mrs. A. S. Eastman, Mrs. G. L. Townsend, Jr., Mrs. W. A. Blackwell, Mrs. Bessie Wilson, Mrs. C. Hesselburg, Mrs. C. A. Owens, Mrs. G. E. Dutton, Mrs. W. H. Steele and Miss Nora B. Keely. The committee for the dance included Joseph Hitch, chairman; Charles Owens, John Melson, Virgil Van Street, and Horace Patchell.

Previous to the dance a banquet, attended by about sixty alumni and active members, was held in the New Century Club dining room. The feature of the banquet was the presentation to the fraternity of a handsome silver loving cup, which had been offered by Frank Myers, Province Commander, to that fraternity making the best all-round record. This record was made by the local fraternity last year and the cup may be the permanent possession of the fraternity, if the record is maintained for three consecutive years.

The toastmaster was James E. Wilson, present president of the chapter. The presentation of the cup for Mr. Myers was made by Dr. W. S. Hamilton, of West Virginia, ex-Knight Commander, and was accepted by John C. Pool, of the faculty of William and Mary College, who was president of the fraternity last year when the record of honor was achieved.

A delightful informal dance was held at the Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity House on Saturday evening. The patronesses were: Mrs. George Porter Paine, Mrs. Harold Tiffany, and Miss Mary Gillespie.
