

WHEN "MERRY FRIENDLY COUNTRY-FOLKS HAUD THEIR HOLLOWE'EN"

The old maid-wife's next-door neighbor
Are round as a round decided.
An' 'sinn' lads' and lasses' fates
Are there that night decided.

At no season of the year can the young hostess entertain more delightfully than by arranging for an observance of the time-honored and simple customs of Halloween. The guests are sure to enter into the spirit of the homely fun and recognize there are other forms of entertainment than the artificial and conventional ones.

The following are some of the most popular customs for the evening.

To put your fate to the test of the augury of the apple peel, pare an apple carefully with a sharp knife, endeavoring to keep the peel in one piece if possible. Then take the long strip of peel, whirling it slowly around the head three times and throw it over the left shoulder. Leave it undisturbed on the floor until you have deciphered the letter it looks the most like. Sometimes it will make a perfect letter, and then again you will have to use your imagination a trifle to discover just what it stands for. But whatever the letter may chance to be, with that initial and no other will begin the name of your future matrimonial partner in life.

After you have found out the mystic initial, the proper thing is to eat the apple you have just peeled, taking good care to count the seeds as you do this, for will tell the number of seeds form an infallible guide to the state of your affections.

What says the old rhyme on this all-important subject—
"One I love, two I love, three I love, I love."
You I love with all my heart, and five I love away.

Some say, when she loves, eight he loves, nine he carries,
When he loves, twelve he carries, and twelve he carries.

The apple on the stick possesses no known significance, but is a prank of the sort that delighted the hearts of our more simple minded ancestors. A long, slender apple is fastened on one end of a stick, and on the other is securely tied a piece of candle. A double string is then secured firmly to the exact center of this contrivance. The whole is hoisted from the ceiling, the string is twisted hard, the candle is lighted and the stick allowed to whirl. The trick is to catch the apple in the mouth and take a bite without getting hit in the face with the candle. To perform this correctly one must stand all the time with the hands behind the back.

Bobbing for apples is a prank that has been popular with Scotch children, and even older lads and lasses for generations. American children usually love it, too, and I have even known grown-ups to extract a good deal of enjoyment from this innocent diversion. As nearly everybody knows, the apples are put in a tub or large dish-pan of water, and the trick is to take them out with the teeth, which is not nearly so easy as it sounds.

Another stunt which affords much amusement but is unfortunately nearly as messy as "Bobbing for Apples," is to make a cake of flour by packing it closely in a pan and then pressing into the center a bright dime. The cake of flour is then carefully turned out on a platter and each guest must take a knife and cut a slice. The one whose slice contains the dime is obliged to take it out with his teeth.

Dropping melted lead into cold water and telling fortunes by the shapes it assumes is an old test of Halloween, but the custom prevalent in Russia to-day of using melted lead for this purpose is most certainly much more convenient and undoubtedly just as potent as the lead takes shapes fantastic enough to please any oracle.

The test of the ring and the glass does not seem to be as widely known as it deserves, for it is very pretty and sentimentally mysterious. For this you will require a wedding ring and a glass half full of water. The girl—this can only be done by a girl—who wishes to consult the fates pulls a hair from her head and ties one end of it carefully to the wedding ring. Then grasping the other end of the hair between finger and thumb she holds it at arm's length so that the ring hangs suspended in the center of the glass, at least an inch above the water. She must stand with her arm stretched out until the ring begins to swing against the side of the glass. Ting, ting, ting. "No it is going to be two."

Perhaps the provoking little circle of gold seems possessed to ring out a long tale of years of weary waiting or worse still perhaps it absolutely refuses to ring at all.

Real little books are made of paper and each one named for some famous friend or author. They are then thrown hither and thither on the surface of a big bowl of water and the one that floats the longest will be the successful lover, or letters are cut from the headlines in a newspaper and thrown into a bowl of water and they will form mystic letters and sentences that can be construed according to the imagination of the fortune teller.

White Clay Creek Church

I know that you will all want to know about the annual supper held in our lecture room recently. Well, as on all previous occasions, this was a success. You know, of course, that the ladies of White Clay Creek Church always had a reputation for this sort of thing. It was first positive, then comparative, but now it is superlative in every sense of the term. We surely had a big eating time, and on every hand we heard the remark, "O my! wasn't this a grand set-out!" The rich, the poor, the young, the old were present, and they came from the North, the South, the East, and the West, and we satisfied "the inner man" of 450 persons. They were there like "lobsters in a trap," and after they took their departure, and the busy treasurer and his assistants got a moment to spare, they summed up the "filthy lucre," and to the amazement of all, it was found that the jolly, happy, well-behaved company left the respectable sum of over $200. We have just deducted from this, for our expenses, the sum of $60, and the net balance of $140 was passed to the treasurer of the Ladies' Improvement Society. Those who know, say that this exceeds any previous effort of this kind. Thanks to every one who assisted, for all went at it with a will that is hard to beat.

The Synod of Baltimore is meeting in Washington, D. C., this week. The pastor, Rev. J. W. Lowden, accompanied by Mrs. Lowden, went to the National Capital on Monday. Mrs. Lowden goes as a delegate to the Woman's Synodical meeting. Elder Louis Lyman, of Marshallton, also went as the representative elder. On their way home, they will stop off at Baltimore, and visit "The World in Baltimore," which is now in progress in that city.

The Missionary Society is planning to have a little rally, in the near future, in the interest of the "New China Movement," of which due notice will be given. We are hoping if possible, to have with us at that time, some returning missionary who can come to us with fresh news right from the "seat of war."

Our annual autumnal services will probably be held about the middle of November, if the weather (and other conditions) are favorable.

And the flowers spurn 'em;
Ten million leaves he has to rake
On the lawn and burn 'em.

Quotations

"The first, last, and closest trial question to any living creature is, 'What do you like?'—and the entire object of true education is to make people not merely do the right things, but enjoy right things."

"Love is not getting, but giving; not a wild dream of pleasure and a madness of desire—oh, no, love is not that—it is goodness and honor, and peace and pure living."

"When I am very weary
I do not try to pray.
I only shut my eyes, and wait
To hear what God will say.
Such rest it is to wait for Him
As comes no other way."

"We never know for what God is preparing us in His schools—for what work on earth, for what work in the hereafter. Our business is to do our work well in the present place, whatever it may be."

"As night drew on, and from the crest Of wooded knolls that ridged the west,
The sun, a snow-brown traveler, sank
From sight beneath the smothering bank.
We piled with care our nightly stack
Of wood against the chimney back,
The naked log, green, huge and thick,
And on its top the stout backstick.
The knotty fore-stick laid apart,
And filled between with various art
The ragged brush; then, hovering near
We watched the first red blaze appear,
Heard the sharp crackle, caught the gleam
Until the old, rude-furnished room
Burst, flower-like, into rosy bloom;
While radiant with a mimic flame
Outside the sparkling drift became,
And through the bare-boughed lilac tree
Our own warm hearth seemed blazing free."

"What matter how the night wind howls
What matter how the north wind howls
Blue high, blue low, not all the moon
Could quench our hearth fire's steady glow."

—From "Snow-bound."

4. H. Shearman and family, Mrs. Alexis L. duPont, and Mrs. Josephine Russell and family will each furnish a room. The remainder are unaccounted for.

It is believed many persons will respond to the call for assistance, and embrace this opportunity of providing a lasting memorial for relatives or friends.

Hope Farm reserves the right to order the furniture so that it will be uniform and sanitary; although every opportunity will be given for individual taste in making the room as beautiful as possible.

Sporting Notes

The matinee races which were to have been held Saturday afternoon at Huber's Driving Park were postponed because of the recent heavy rains. They will be held on Saturday of this week and as some of the best horses in this section are entered in the various events another large crowd is looked for.

Herman R. Tyson, with his splendid string of horses, is again setting the pace for the best ones on the Southern Circuit this season. This is especially true of Harry J. S. and Dago, two of the best performers that he has ever had out. Harry J. S., in a recent race at Charlotte, lowered the track record two seconds and equaled the North Carolina State record, held by Charlie Mitchell, by doing the third best of the trotting race that he won in 2:13 1/4. Dago won his race on the same track as did also Aero.

A Plea from the Babies' Hospital

A letter has been issued by the management of the Babies' Hospital, 207 Washington street, Wilmington, asking all who are interested to contribute to that worthy cause.

The letter follows:
Bookwood Farm, Greenville, Del., Oct. 24, 1912.—At the Babies' Hospital during the last four months we have cared for 113 babies in the hospital, 60 in the day nursery and kindergarten, 35 in dispensary and 14 have been supplied with modified milk.

"We must have funds for the winter's work, at least $2,000, and we ask you to help us by direct contributions. Every cent of what you give will go straight to the babies."

"Be generous—give us as much as you can spare—and feel that you are starting some of these little ones on the way to health and happiness."

Sincerely yours,
Mary Wilson Thompson.

"Please send money or checks to Mrs. Henry R. Thompson, No. 207 Washington street."

Agricultural Train in Delaware

Oliver Newton, president, Wesley Webb, secretary, and Newton L. Grubb, of the State Board of Agriculture, held a meeting with Superintendent Johns, of the Delaware Railroad, Freight Superintendent Wills, and other railroad officials, at which it was arranged to send another agricultural train down the Delaware Railroad this winter. It will start on December 2nd, and will be on the road a week, visiting all counties on the peninsula. The train will make a two hour stop at nearly all of the principal stations. There will be speakers from the Department of Agriculture at Washington, and also from the Experiment Station at Newark, and from Delaware College.

St. Paul's Society of Delaware College

The autumn meeting of the St. Paul Society of Delaware College was held in the parish house of St. Thomas Church, last Friday evening. The Right Rev. Dr. Kinsman, bishop of Delaware, together with Rev. Hamilton B. Phelps, Dr. George A. Harter, A. Felix duPont, Louis L. Curtis and Chancellor Charles M. Curtis were present.

The St. Paul Society is an organization of the students of Delaware College, who are members of the Episcopal Church. Its chief aim is to bring the college men together in a bond of mutual help and intercourse as members of the Episcopal Church.

The governing body of the society is called the council, made up of the bishop of Delaware as president. Dr. George A. Harter, Rev. Hamilton B. Phelps, and Louis L. Curtis, of Newark. The Wilmington members being Edward G. Bradford, Jr., and A. Felix duPont. The evening was spent in conversation and in singing college songs.

The Population of Delaware

According to a bulletin just made public by the Bureau of the Census at Washington, of Delaware's population of 202,329, as shown by the census of 1910, 105,435 were males and 96,894 were females, the percentage of males, as compared with females, being 104.6, while in 1900 the percentage was 104. The white males numbered 87,387; white females, 83,715; negro males, 16,011; negro females, 15,170. The proportion was 104.4 white and 105.5 colored.

My Delaware

O Delaware, my Delaware,
Whose men are brave and women fair,
And fertile fields and balmy air,
We sing to thee, my Delaware.
May every virtue in thee shine,
And in thee every good combine,
And peace and plenty e'er be thine;
And love to God and thee be mine.

Chorus:—

My Delaware, we sing thy praise,
We sing thy praise in lofty lays,
May noble ways prolong thy days,
And bless thy sons, my Delaware.
Land of the free, we sing to thee,
New Castle, Kent and Sussex three,
Along the river, bay and sea,
And truest love we bring to thee;
And sing to thee in joyous lays,
But pray to God Corruption's ways,
No more may dim thy shining days,
But freemen sing thy songs of praise.

Chorus

O may thy sons who blot thy name
Corrupting freemen, feel the shame,
And hang their heads who thus defame,
Their native land, thy goodly name—
Rouse Delawareans, rouse we say,
The purpose nobly to obey,
Be firm, be free, not led astray,
For manhood's more than gold to-day.

Chorus.

—THOMAS IRONS.

LOCALS

National Tuberculosis Day was observed by many churches last Sunday, when pastors spoke on many sermons pertaining to the disease.

From Sussex comes the tip for providing ourselves with tomatoes late into the fall. The farmers are picking the green tomatoes, wrapping them in tissue paper and putting them away in a dry, dark place where it is said they will keep until after the first of the year and then ripen. Those who tried the plan last year declare that they kept splendidly and were equal to the best ripe fruit they had ever eaten. Others are packing water melons away to be eaten when snow is on the ground.

During the past few days the farmers report that wild ducks and geese have been flying over on their journey southward. These fowls usually go south at this season of the year, and soon after their flight cold weather sets in. The geese, according to those who have seen them, are flying very low and acted as if they had flown a long distance.

The thirty-eighth annual New Castle County Teachers' Institute will be held in Wilmington, November 25th, 26th and 27th.

Fine Home near Marshallton

One of the largest and most imposing residences in the vicinity of Marshallton is nearly ready to be handed over to the owner, Richard T. Pilling. It is roughly estimated that the cost of this home, of 15 commodious rooms, is close to $30,000. The new residence is on the road leading from Marshallton to Kiamian Station. The interior is now being completed.

Wisdom in Action

The times are waiting for men who shall serve and not merely inquire; strive and not merely investigate; give to their age and their kind not so much learning in bulk as wisdom in action; great doing as the only true fruitage of great thinking; the consecration to the uplifting of one's fellowmen of one's best rather than conserving by mere culture of one's self. —Henry Potter.

Want Ads for Farmers

Only a comparatively few readers of newspapers realize the benefit of the Want Ad Department. It is a cheap form of advertising odds and ends. For the farmer it is always a paying proposition. Suppose you have a cow, few pigs that you would be willing to sell. Put it in the Want Column and rest assured you will get the customers. Then again, a farmer often sees where he could handle a heifer or colt during the winter. With a little extra forage, he has on hand, he can by feeding it make a dollar or so without any extra work. But he has not the time to hunt them up. Run in an Ad something like this:—

WANTED—Calves. Would buy 3 or 4 calves, if price is right.—

You will get an answer. There isn't a farmer in this community but what could have an Ad in our Want Department at a profit to him.

OCTOBER 30, 1912

THE ISSUE OF THE CAMPAIGN

Emerson was certainly right when he said, "an institution is but the lengthened shadow of one man." As striking present day proof one has only to think of Willard Saulsbury and Delaware Democracy.

A DEMOCRATIC ADMINISTRATION WILL MEAN THE LENGTHENED SHADOW OF WILLARD SAULSBURY.

The Democratic Party in Delaware and Willard Saulsbury are synonymous terms. Past political history and the present campaign prove that to turn the State over to Democratic administration means to put our local government under the control of Willard Saulsbury.

This is not meant as an insult to that great body of Democrats who do not approve of the aristocratic insolence of Mr. Saulsbury. He has by an arrogant manipulation, so named the ticket in this campaign that it is only reasonable to predict the success of the party would bring a return of Saulsbury and the Democratic regime of a few years ago. Democratic orators and candidates have either clouded or begged the issue. Even though perhaps not in sympathy with Mr. Saulsbury, they dare not brook his enmity by so declaring themselves.

A prominent ex-member of the General Assembly who has cast his vote for Mr. Saulsbury said recently—that sooner than run the risk of having a Democrat go to the Legislature who openly opposed him, Mr. Saulsbury would aid in his defeat—for in order to maintain his leadership, he must have a semblance of unanimous support. Although several candidates for the Legislature have privately expressed their opposition to the dictatorial methods used by Mr. Saulsbury, not one of them has said publicly that he would not vote for him as United States Senator.

Then, considering the history of the Democratic party in Delaware and realizing that the same head that was in control then, is the master feature in this campaign, the issue today is drawn very definitely, to voters in Delaware.

Whatever views one may hold on the National questions, this is the one supreme issue before us here in this State. It is something, too, that presents a responsibility to every individual voter. No matter how humble his station, the vote of one man may be the deciding factor in the next Legislature which might mean a Republican or Willard Saulsbury as our next representative in the U. S. Senate.

No voter should endanger his party or his State by giving way to the plea for a complimentary vote to a Democratic candidate.

Views on National questions or criticism of party management cannot warrant aid, directly or indirectly, to the Democratic party.

To our mind the serious question before Delaware voters is: Whether or not we shall have Democratic control in this State or Saulsbury control—they are synonymous.

"Down in Dixie" to be presenter at Opera House

"Down in Dixie," one of the best southern plays, will be given at the Opera House this Wednesday evening, October 30th. It is a play as pure in tone as Shore Acres and the Old Homestead. There is pathos and a few tears mingled with plenty of good clean fun. The company is first class.

Tickets now on sale at Box office, Newark Opera House.

Hallowe'en Masquerade

The Young People's Aid of the M. E. church will hold a masquerade party on Thursday evening at the home of Miss Shirley Shellender, on Main street. An interesting program has been arranged and a pleasant time is anticipated. The fun will start at 7.45.

Prohibition Party's Appeal

(Published by request.)

There are many reasons why the Prohibition ticket should be victorious at the coming national election.

The greatest of all reasons is that we are the only party which, if elected to power will prohibit the manufacture of liquor by national legislation in every inch of territory under the American flag. The solution of the liquor problem will also solve many other problems in American government. It will solve the problem of good government for our great cities, which are now ruled by the saloon vote.

It will also solve the problem of the high cost of living. There are nearly one million men engaged in making, distributing and selling liquor. These, together with their families, make an army of nearly five millions of people who produce no wealth, but are in the class of consumers only. As a result of this traffic we have those who are in jails, penitentiaries, insane hospitals, poor houses and other places who are sent there because of the liquor traffic, together with officers and attendants, which makes another army of more than five millions of people. Thus we have more than ten millions of people in this country who, as a result of the liquor traffic, produce neither food, clothing or shelter, the necessities of life. More than one hundred and six millions (106,000,000) of bushels of grain are destroyed each year in the making of intoxicating liquors. If this grain could be turned into food and these ten millions of consumers transferred

The Public and Railway Accidents

That the railroads of the country expect to "put up to the public" part of the responsibility for accidents was indicated yesterday when the Pennsylvania Railroad issued a statement calling attention to the fatalities on its road last year from trespassing.

Trespassers to the number of 527—more than one a day—lost their lives last year on the Pennsylvania Railroad, while violating the law. Many trespassers are mischief makers, according to the railroad. They smash signal and switch levers, place obstructions on the tracks and commit many other acts which endanger the lives of railway employees and the traveling public.

Last year the Pennsylvania Railroad Police Department spent more than $100,000 in its war against trespassing, but it is impossible for the Company's police satisfactorily to cope with the situation, according to the railroad. It needs the assistance of public opinion and the civil authorities.

The Pennsylvania Railroad's statement continued: "Trespassing endangers the lives of every one traveling on railroads. It can be stopped if strenuous measures will be taken by the public. There are laws on the statute books. Their rigid enforcement will save the lives of many and will decrease the number of fatalities commonly ascribed to 'railway accidents.'"

Common Schools and Farmer's Boys

A well-known writer on agricultural subjects says in a long and wisely expressed article that it would be useless to attempt to introduce thorough instruction in the science of agriculture in the public schools, but that it is an entirely practicable to give the pupils in the country schools a start in that direction—to set them thinking about their own vocation, and arouse a spirit of inquiry that will be lasting.

The system of education in use in the public schools is too often distinctly out of sympathy with the farmer's life; it tends to stimulate a desire on the part of the young to get away from the farm. It should not attempt to exalt the child's opinion of agriculture by means of glittering generalities on the delights of country life, which the child knows all about, but should, by grounding him in the foundation principles of agriculture, give him the love for it which always comes with intelligent and scientific interest.

The science of farming really includes all other sciences. It is a noble occupation, worthy the attention of any man of education. The chemist, interested in exploring the mysteries of matter, loves his profession; he can hardly get too much of it. Thus it is with every other occupation the real inner meaning of which any one has begun, by intelligent devotion to it, to comprehend.

That there is need for something in the common schools to start young farmers in such an intelligent comprehension of their occupation is evident, as the writer we have referred to hints, when farmers, who have spent years in these schools, continue to plant, sow, kill hogs and do other things "in the moon;" when they believe that cattle "lose their cuds," which must be supplied with a piece of raw fat pork; when they let their timothy hay go to seed because then it lasts longer; when they waste more than one-half of the fertilizing material that is made on the farms because they "know better" than the men of science who have studied the soil, and have told them how to use it.

"Tom Brown" Dead

A recent despatch from England reports the death, at a rural village in Bedfordshire, of a venerable clergyman, the Rev. Augustus Orlebar, who is described as the Tom Brown of the famous fight with Slogger Williams in Hughes' "Tom Brown at Rugby," published by Harper and Brothers in a new and standard edition with illustrations by Louis Rhead. Another point of likeness is in the fact that Mr. Orlebar was captain of the Rugby eleven in the match which was played with Marleybone just before the news arrived of Dr. Arnold's death. It is said the original of Slogger Williams, who is chancellor of St. Asaph Cathedral in Wales, still survives. It will be remembered, however, the tradition has made Thomas Hughes himself the original Tom Brown to a very large extent, just as the character of Arthur is usually supposed to have been drawn from that of the late Dean Stanley as a school boy.

Constitutional Amendment.

An Act to Amend Section 19, Article 2, of the Constitution of the State of Delaware.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Delaware in General Assembly met, two-thirds of all the members elected to each House agreeing thereto, That Section 19 of Article 2 of the Constitution of the State of Delaware be amended by adding to the end thereof the following words, to-wit: "and the said amendments shall be a part of the Constitution of the State of Delaware, and shall have the same force and effect as if they had been originally a part of the Constitution of the State of Delaware."

D. W. CAMPBELL, Speaker of the House.
JNO. M. MENDENHALL, President of the Senate.
Approved this twentieth day of May, A. D. 1911.

SIMMONS S. DENNEWILL, Governor.
I, Charles S. Richards, Secretary of State of the State of Delaware, do hereby certify that the above and foregoing is a true and correct copy of Senate Bill No. 117, entitled "An Act to amend Section 19, Article 2 of the Constitution of the State of Delaware," as the same appears on the enrolled bill filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and approved by the Governor, March twentieth, A. D. 1911, which said

WASHBURN'S FIREPLACE

I asked Mr. Walton, when I was in the store one day, who would be the right man to make a fireplace in my chimney, and he guessed Steve O'Rourke would do alright. Later I saw John Lambert and he said he would tell Mr. O'Rourke. Then I left word at Joe Keeley's and the next time he was down town he heard that I wanted to see him, and came over. So I had a fireplace made and it works pretty well. And since I have been trying it these cold evenings I have learned what a force such an institution is in one's life. I am convinced that civilization lost something important when the old open fires went out of fashion. The flames back of the hearth have a sort of fascination and draw all in the house into a benevolent unity. In such a place the hard, knotty, unshapely old chunks that would not be split, the posts full of old nails and dangerous to saw and use, yield themselves gracefully to the work of making life cheerful, and so common are the raw materials for such fires that hardly any one with a substantial chimney need to neglect to have this kind of delight. In such places neglected logs are not only justified, their stubborn refusal to fit elsewhere, but the rubbish of the wood yard is turned into ethical culture and emotional development. For no one can contemplate an open fire and at the same time plan mean things or desire evil ends. No one can sit by it and feel that it does not matter that any animal is not well fed and well sheltered. Nor can one enjoy the placid contentment of a fire and desire isolation, or a miserly policy or feel that it is of no importance that a portion of the race is worried and discouraged and in need of more kindness. Above all no one wants to sit by a fireplace alone. Where one does it there ought to be two and the two soon find that three are needed and the limit of the circle is never found until they crowd each other and forget to look at the fire. Thus the bright flame, which used to be supposed to harbor the spirits of light, is a missionary, converting boys and girls into lovers and lovers into home makers and home makers into good people with a leaning toward hospitality. And if you look closely you will see that much of the world's greatness has been developed from hearths where wood fires burned. It was in such radiance and warmth that Lincoln planned to free a race and Whittier felt the movements of that subtle beauty which he voiced in "Snow-bound." It was there that Emerson forgot the old theology to receive the inspiration of a more divine ideal, that Shakespeare gained the power to write of "damask cheek," of "proud pied April," and of Ariel in cowslip bells. In such a place Burns forgot his passions that he might sing of Afton Water. In cottages where the burning driftwood from the shore of Galilee showed the presence of loved ones the apostles of a great faith prepared for their later mission when the Son of Mary arose from the hearth of His home to teach a gospel where the love of God and the love of man should mingle to make this earth fit dwelling place for both. For untold ages man has thought and taught where the goodness of the woods has given itself in free dissolution. From Tubal Cain to Edison the circle before the chimney has been the sacred spot for man. There new helps were devised and beaten into shape with hammers, or perfected in minds made quiet. There, from the flame-wrapped substance of the soul of new loves, new hopes, new loyalties, have been created and sent forth to subdue the earth or conquer kingdoms. There little children have laughed and learned, through early dusk till safely asleep in loving arms. There girlhood has grown womanly and boyhood manly. There wives have received sweet greetings from the home coming toilers and men have rested and renewed their hearts while sparks flew upward and the smoke hastened away like the shadows of fear and the darkness of doubt. The hearth and anvil, not the seats of rulers or the altars set beneath vaulted temple roofs, have been the true centers of religion, government and industry. A million generations have risen by the help of the hearth and its influences; have fought and toiled and suffered to keep it inviolate, lighted and safe, and we now fare ill if we wholly banish it.

Not with mere gas, flowing unvaryingly, nor with hard coal that remains a mere suggestion of active fire, but with wood and flame-giving fuel, should we supply it. Rightly tended that plain brick entrance may become a border land at which we may sit and catch glimpses of the spirit and the life and deeds of a past no longer seen, but still a part of every day as the multitudes move, and may come to have a life more beneficent, and existence brighter in all the hours in which we co-operate with nature, or with the larger promptings of our deepest faith.

Life Insurance Under State Government

Wisconsin still leading in Governmental Progress

The State of Wisconsin has gone into the life insurance business. The Commissioner of Insurance, Herman L. Ekern, has announced that the State is ready to receive applications for insurance under the provisions of an act passed at the last session of the Legislature.

Wisconsin is the first state in the Union to try this experiment. By this step Wisconsin is adding to her claims of practical progress in her governmental institutions.

Commissioner Ekern has issued the following statement:

"Absolute certainty in the fulfillment of the contracts is the first consideration. A mathematical reserve is provided for on the safest basis in use by American life insurance companies. Provision is made for a death rate corresponding with the American experience table of mortality. The reserve is required to earn interest at 3 per cent.

"Applicant must be between the ages of 20 and 50 and may choose any of the following plans: Ordinary life, twenty-payment life, ten-year endowment, endowment of age 65 or term to age 65.

"Medical examination will be required under the supervision of the state board of health. Only normal, healthy lives will be accepted.

"The life insurance offered by the state of Wisconsin will have the following advantages:

"It will be absolutely sound.

"The element of profit is done away with.

"There are no agents' commissions to be paid.

"There are no overhead charges for officials and management, only clerical help being paid from the life fund.

"The abolition for expense is small, especially in the endowments, which make this simply a means of saving advantageous to the insured.

"Applications for insurance may be made at home through local offices.

"Premiums may be paid at home through local offices, or the insured may retain 1 per cent for sending them direct.

"The insured may allow his premium after the first, to be charged as a loan where the reserve is sufficient, and pay it semiannually, quarterly or monthly.

"The insured may pay as much and as often as he pleases toward premiums to become due in the future, and is allowed the rate of interest actually earned on all payments to his credit for one year or more.

"Dividends may be left in the fund, to draw interest on the same basis.

"The insured may take an endowment maturing at age 65, when he will need the money for his own support in his old age.

"He may take a term expiring at age 65, when he ordinarily has no earning power to protect by indemnity against death and often has other estate or has no dependents.

"Gain and savings or so-called dividends are paid at the end of the first year and every year after.

"The insured may change his policy to any other plan.

"It is to be conducted on the same basis as all sound life insurance.

"It is the stepping-stone to annuities to protect old age and, perhaps, to solving other economic and industrial problems.

"It will increase confidence in life insurance and encourage the extension of its protection to every resident of the state and will increase the business of sound companies and societies.

"The insurance is open to any citizen of Wisconsin, and medical examination must be made in the state."

FOOTBALL

Delaware versus Muhlenberg

Although defeated by the score of 21 to 0, Delaware College football team deserves much credit for the excellent showing made against the strong Muhlenberg eleven last Saturday afternoon. Even the injuries received by several players did not break the fighting spirit of the Delaware team and they surprised and baffled their opponents by their plucky play against great odds. Muhlenberg sent one of the heaviest teams here that the old gold and blue has met for several years, they being outweighed at least 15 pounds to the man.

There was a large attendance of lovers of the sport, the fair sex being especially well represented and they gave Old Delaware loyal support. It was not only the team that showed more ginger than on any previous occasion this season but the student body also showed much more spirit which was great encouragement for the gridiron warriors. Senior Ephraim Jellis, as cheer leader, kept the student body busy during the entire game and every good play received the applause that it deserved. This enthusiasm no doubt had a good effect on the players as they never faltered in their efforts to hold their giant opponents. This college spirit on the part of the student body was welcomed by friends of the college as there has been a lack of it and some criticism because of that fact. Saturday, however, they supported their eleven well and made the game all the more interesting for the spectators.

The band was also on the field and gave a number of selections. Another attraction was the new mascot. This is a small Shetland pony, which two of the freshmen had charge of. Between the freshmen the entire student body led by their cheer leader paraded the field behind the band. The mascot was also in this parade.

To Coach McAvoy also belongs much credit for the good showing of Delaware. Just few persons realize how hard against odds the Coach has worked and those few were consequently much pleased to see the work that he has done during the season that it deserved. In individual work Delaware really outplayed Muhlenberg. Some of the best tackling of the year was done by Delaware and this is especially true of the tackle made by Curn on the first play when he broke his collar bone. Every player did his part and time after time they fought Muhlenberg back when the latter was within a few feet of the gold and blue goal. Delaware was unable to make much gain against such strength as Muhlenberg had the few times that they had the ball and consequently they were compelled to fight on the defensive most of the game. Two of Muhlenberg's touchdowns, even with all the odds in their favor, were rather lucky.

Standard Bell Equipment

All the Bell instruments, all the Bell lines and all the Bell equipment are tested, tried and standardized—the same here, in Philadelphia, San Francisco and Everywhere. This assures the best transmission and keeps the service always up to the highest standard.

The Bell standard telephone equipment is the best known today and it is used the world over by people who demand quality.

Of the $58,000,000 that will be spent by the Bell System for new construction and equipment during the present year, over $2,800,000 will go for enlargements and improvements of the Bell plant in our own and adjacent cities,—all within a radius of eighty miles of Philadelphia.

We can point with pride to our fine telephone plant in this vicinity and in all the surrounding sections of the country—each locality with standardized equipment sufficient to handle any emergency and to take care of prospective growth within the next few years, and additions and improvements are constantly being made to maintain the high Bell standard. That we are aiming still higher is evidenced by the unusual further investment made during 1912.

Here is evidence that the Bell System's policy is one of continuous improvement and expansion.

Does it not follow that the Bell must give standard service?

CECIL COUNTY LETTER

A city party has been seeking to obtain in Elkton this week sufficient hands to operate in the town a branch of an established overall factory.

The dedication of the new St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church, near Warwick, on Thursday, was well attended. Rt. Rev. Bishop John J. Monaghan and a number of clergy of the Wilmington diocese conducted the services. Very Rev. C. W. Lyons, S. J., Rector of the Church of the Gesù, Philadelphia, preached the sermon.

Upwards of a hundred guests attended the reception held by Mr. and Mrs. Joshua R. Witworth, at their home on West High street, Elkton, on Friday evening, the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage.

Purchase of the Rainey property, extending for a mile and a half along the river, near Conowingo, has been effected by the Susquehanna Power Company, which proposes constructing there a second big hydro-electric power plant rivaling the one now in use at McCall's Ferry.

Friday, November 1st will be the opening day of the ducking season on the Susquehanna flats and also of the gunning season for rabbits, partridges and pheasants in Cecil county.

A. Cookman Leach, an architect of Baltimore, will submit plans for the proposed building of the Elkton Banking and Trust Company, on the site of the Duncan and Board office buildings, on North Street, and work on the structure will likely start early next month.

Tome School and the second team of Johns Hopkins University met on the former's gridiron, at Port Deposit, on Saturday, and the visitors lost by a score of 32-0. Tome's gains were made mostly on end runs and off tackle plays. While failing to score, Hopkins put up a strong defense.

The North East High School and St. Aloysius, Wilmington, eleven met on the former's grounds on Saturday, and in a well-fought game the latter lost by a score of 6 to 0.

Rev. E. P. Roberts and Rev. J. P. Otis, pastors of Elkton and North East M. E. Churches, have been invited to continue for another year.

One night last week, Justice J. M. Ash went to Elkton jail to give a hearing to Nick Green, a colored youth, who had been arrested in the afternoon on the charge of carrying a revolver. Green's cell was found empty, and it was learned later that he had gotten over the high wall of the prison yard by means of a rope thrown over by a friend, supposed to have been Hynson or "Blinky" Anderson, acquitted at the September term of Court of burglary at the Elkton Candy Kitchen, in March last. At any rate, the pair have disappeared and will likely not show up here again for a time.

Elkton was enlivened during the week by visiting county teachers, 110 of whom attended the annual institute and were steady patrons of the moving pictures, in the Opera House, in the evenings.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret E. Clark, wife of James T. Clark, a well-known retired farmer, of the Glasgow section, was held last Tuesday from the residence of her son-in-law, Henry M. Biddle, in West Elkton, with interment in Elkton Cemetery. Mrs. Clark, who was a Miss Cannon, of Caroline Co., died at her home in Wilmington, on October 19th, after a lingering illness, aged 64 years. Her husband and several grown sons and daughters survive her.

Mr. Joseph Kemether and Miss Reba E. Jewell, both of the Iron Hill section, were married on October 23rd, in Wilmington, at Asbury M. E. parsonage, by Rev. E. C. McNichol. They will reside on a farm near Glasgow.

Burglars for the second time within two months entered the postoffice, located in B. & O. R. R. station at Aikin, early one morning last week. On their first visit the burglars smashed the safe, and as the postmaster took the money, stamps, money orders, etc., to his home for the night the second visit yielded no plunder.

A flying piece of wood, one report says the bung of a cider barrel, struck Leroy Kirk, a farmer of the Lewisville section, in the face, one day last week, severely injuring one of his eyes.

Chesapeake City, Elkton and Rising Sun Gun Clubs will hold an inter-team match on the former's grounds on Thursday, November 7th, directed by H. L. Worthington of Rising Sun.

Harry Blackburn, of Franklin township, has purchased the Jacob Snyder property, a dwelling with eleven acres of ground at Kembleville, for $4,810.

Miss Lillie Alexander, of Elkton, was chosen a vice-president and Edwin L. Haines, of Rising Sun, treasurer of Wilmington district, Epworth League, at its recent Convention held at New Castle.

Ellis Dunlap, aged 60 years, a carpenter, was found lying dead on the street near the railroad station at North East, on Thursday night by Phineas Chambers, operator at the Bacon Hill signal tower. His head was bruised somewhat. Coroner W. P. Dean held an inquest, the jury finding that the man died from heart trouble and exposure. He leaves a widow, two sons and three daughters.

Cecil's registered voters last year totaled 6103 and this year 6033, a net loss of 70. The two precincts of the Third or Elkton district last year had 1275 voters enrolled and this year have 1216. For the Fourth district the total last year was 464, and for this year is 451.

The first and probably the only Republican mass meeting of the campaign in Cecil is set for Friday evening, in the hall of the Grand Army of the Republic in North East, with W. T. Warburton and H. M. McCullough of Elkton, and Albert G. Towers, of Caroline county, as speakers. The Progressive meeting at Port Deposit, last Tuesday evening was fairly well attended. N. Winslow Williams, and Rev. Dr. Grammer, of Baltimore, and Col. Joseph R. Baldwin of Harford county, were the speakers. Frank T. Benson presided. The Republicans got up a counter demonstration for the same evening. Col. Baldwin, the Progressive State Treasurer, has announced that he will pay $5,000 in rewards for convictions of bribery at the coming election on the Eastern Shore. There will likely be no demand for the money as cash spent for votes on the Shore this fall would simply be thrown away.

Ushers Union to Meet

The Ushers' Union of the New-ark M. E. Church will hold a meeting in the S. S. room of the church on Friday, November first. Plans for the coming winter will be discussed after which the members will be invited to express themselves on "The Church Member in Politics." An interesting meeting is anticipated.

Mass will be said in St. John's Catholic Church at 8 a. m., Friday morning, Nov. 1st. All Saints Day, also on Saturday morning. All Souls Day, at 7 a. m.
