Methodists Obtain Additional Church Service Facilities

Kingswood Congregation To Occupy New Building For Thanksgiving Rites

The Kingswood-of-Brookside Methodist Church has been granted use of another building to temporarily house its growing congregation.

The Brookside community building, which will become the center of church worship activities beginning with a special service Thanksgiving Day at 9:30 a.m. Services have been held in the development's temporary school building.

The Rev. Milton H. Keene said this arrangement will mark a definite improvement in the temporary facilities, pending erection of a church building on Marrows Road.

Use of the community building on Sunday mornings will enable the congregation to hold as many as three services instead of one as at present.

The church will continue to use the temporary school building for its church school program, according to Mr. Keene. He said the new arrangement will continue, until the church's own facilities are completed.

The church building program calls for erection of a $230,000 structure.

At morning service last Sunday, members of the congregation contributed gifts of food to be distributed to needy families for Thanksgiving Day.

1st Presbyterian Church Groups In Joint Meeting

The Newark chapter of Presbyterian Men of the First Presbyterian Church will hold their monthly meeting in the Sunday School auditorium on Wednesday evening, Dec. 8, at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Lloyd Lewis, president of the Women's Association of the Hanover Presbyterian Church will speak on women's work in the church, while E. A. Humes, of the Milford Presbyterian Church, will speak on the purpose and achievements of men's work in the church.

Miss Ruth Ann Southwell will sing a number of selections, accompanied by Mrs. Francis E. Reinhardt.

The meeting will be followed by a social hour with refreshments.

Pat Calvarese Accounts For 3% Of Total Sales In Local Magazine Drive

Pat Calvarese, a junior at Newark High School, was the top salesman in the recent magazine drive, accounting single-handed for more than three per cent of all the subscriptions sold by the 1,000 students in the junior and senior high school.

According to Pat Sen, student council president, total sales in the junior-senior high school were $3,900, with Miss Calvarese selling $122.80. She chose a watch as her prize. The 11-A homeroom, of which Miss Calvarese is a member, was the highest homeroom in total sales, and will receive all the ice cream its members can eat at one sitting.

Other top salesmen are Kathy Stephens, $77.50; David Sharpless, $48; Lyda Fiffol, $44.75; Ted Schwartz, $44; Lois Mote, $43.50; Kay Logan, $43.25; Kathy Lindner, $40.80; Pauline Insigna, $38.50; Bruce Jackson, $33; Richard Valient, $32; James Hughes, $31.80, and Doris Griffith, $31.50.

In the elementary schools, the gross sales were: Central Elementary, $1,253.73; West Park Place, $813.50; Medill, $1,238.90; New London Avenue, $31.50. worth of subscriptions, and Pendleton Hall was second with $37.75. Cheryl Ryland led by New London Avenue School with $31.50.

The school profit on these magazine sales is expected to be about 40 per cent of the gross sales and will be used for various projects in each school, including a part payment towards a new football score board and choir gowns in the junior-senior high school. All this - and more miles per gallon too!

Be sure to test out the phenomenal effect of "variable pitch propellers" in Dynaflo Drive*

MAYBE—among the upcoming crop of new 1955 models—there's another car with an advance that can hold a candle to this one

But we doubt it. We doubt it because—among the rumors of what's cooking in automotive laboratories—there's nothing to compare with what's actually happened at Buick.

It all started with the fact that modern air liners get two big advantages because they can change the pitch of their propellers

First, they get off the ground hundreds of feet sooner than they used to.

Second, they can stretch their gasoline by setting propeller blades at just the right "pitch" for cruising.

So Buick engineers asked themselves—"If you can do it with air, why can't you do it with oil—the oil inside a Dynaflo Drive?"

And to make a long story short—they could, and they did.

They engineered the propeller-like blades inside the "stator" of a Dynaflo Drive so they can change their pitch as much as 75 degrees.

That provides one setting for more-miles-per-gallon, and another for an instant safety-surge of power when it's needed.

All you do is push the accelerator pedal the last half-inch beyond the full throttle position—and a-way you go!

Of course, there's a lot more to make a visit to our showrooms the "must" of the new-car year.

There's a step-up in styling as sensational as the step-up in power.

And the step-up in horsepower is this: 236 in the ROADMASTER, SUPER and CENTURY—188 in the SPECIAL.

But the thrill of the year is Buick's latest engineering "first"—and what it does for the man or woman who drives the latest and greatest Dynaflo Drive.

Pay-off on progress!

Buicks today go a lot farther on a gallon of gas, thanks to constant improvement in Dynaflo and in engine design. Even the new 236-hp ROADMASTER averages 4.8 more miles per gallon than Buicks of six years ago.

*Standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Poultryman Offers Rebuilding Plans In Wake Of Storm

Hurricane-Proof House Construction Suggested By Extension Authority

Are you planning to rebuild your poultry house after Hurricane Hazel? Silas McHenry, assistant extension poultryman at the University of Delaware, offers many suggestions to make a stronger, more substantial house.

The houses you rebuild can be hurricane proof, reminds McHenry. He recommends a foundation wall two feet below the ground with a concrete footing eight inches thick and 16 inches wide. Many old houses damaged were just setting on blocks with no solid foundation.

Two types of houses popular in the Delaware area are the gable roof house—48 feet wide—facing east and west and the shed roof house—24 to 30 feet deep—facing south. Wall construction may be concrete block, board covered with asphalt roofing, cement asbestos board or metal roofing. A 19-inch white overlap of asphalt roofing material is preferred to the block built up asphalt roof.

Preferred Windows

Sliding windows are preferred in both the wide and narrow houses. Some laying houses are built with two rows of hinged openings for better cross ventilation. For cleaning purposes and cross ventilation, double doors at the ends of all poultry houses are recommended.

Although some people find a four inch concrete floor more easily cleaned, a dirt floor is more economical. Whatever type of floor, it should be six inches above the ground level for good drainage.

Elevated feed platforms make it easy to feed and dump bags of feed into a bin type feed carrier. Some poultrymen are installing bulk feed bins. An automatic feeder or feed carrier track is necessary in either case.

Water Supply
Another important item to consider is the water supply. Water is the cheapest and best item available for the chickens. At least four 4-foot automatic water troughs or their equivalent per 1000 broilers should be provided, or one trough or pan per 100 laying hens.

Plenty of nails should be used in order to strengthen construction of the house. Partitions give extra rigidity and help the house to withstand severe winds, and diagonal braces on the partition walls or every 30 to 40 feet makes a stronger house.

CONSERVATION PAYS OFF

Does conservation of the land pay off for the farmer in dollars and cents?

A recent survey helps tell the story. Over a ten-year period, careful records were kept of a group of farms where approved conservation practices were used and also of a group of physically comparable non-conservation farms. The facts produced are striking.

At the beginning, increases in farm income from good conservation tended to be relatively small. But later on they rose abruptly. At the end of 10 years, the conservation farms returned eight dollars more net income per acre than the non-conservation farms. And, of great importance, the conservation farmers maintained and improved the productivity of their land. Non-conservation farmers, on the other hand, were forced to mine their land to earn a profit—to deplete it, and to progressively reduce its productivity.

The money-making practices which go to make up a complete conservation farm plan are simple. They consist of such things as proper land use; testing and treating the soil; crop rotation; good water management, including contouring, terracing and drainage; and efficient use of legumes, grasses and other livestock feeds.

Not many years ago such a program would have been far from simple. For one thing, little was known about how to conserve land. For another, the farmer's main tools were his own muscles and those of draft animals. Now science has given us the necessary knowledge—and in modern mechanical farm equipment we have the efficient, economical tools that are needed to do that job.

We can conserve our irreplaceable croplands—and we must.

NEWARK IN REVIEW

Twenty-five Years Ago

School Superintendent Honored
Ira S. Brinser, superintendent of the Newark schools, was elected president of the Delaware Education Association at the 11th annual convention held last week at Milford. Newark schools were closed during the two day convention and the entire faculty spent that time in Milford.

Lions' Charter Night
The local Lions Club was presented with its charter at a special celebration held last week in Old College, with 120 persons in attendance. The charter for the club was accepted by Dr. Paul Musselman, president of the newly organized group, and welcoming addresses were delivered by President Walker Hultihen of the University of Delaware; Frank Collins, mayor of Newark; and J. Irvin Dayett, president of the local chamber of commerce.

Consul General's Visit
George S. Messersmith, consul general at Buenos Aires, visited the Newark schools last week. Mr. Messersmith was formerly superintendent of the local school district before leaving the field of education to take up other diplomatic work. During his visit he addressed a school assembly on "International Understanding as a Means of Cooperation Between Nations."

Red Cross Drive
Mrs. Ernest B. Wright, president of the Newark chapter of the American Red Cross, reports that the local committee, canvassing the community for memberships, has met with generous response. The campaign which began November 14, will end Thanksgiving Thursday. Both local banks will accept donations for the Red Cross, in addition to committee workers engaged in the membership drive.

Sports
The Northern DIAA sectional grid title was signed, sealed and delivered to Newark High School's football team last Saturday with the Yellowjackets' 25-0 victory over Dover. Newark will play the southern sectional champions from Seaford at Dover on Thanksgiving Day for the state championship.

Captain Frank Mayer and Rip Smith each scored two of Newark's four touchdowns, with Mayer kicking the one extra point.

Newark starters were Widdows and Rittenhouse, ends; Gallagher and McDowell, tackles; Schwartz and Surratt, guards; Ford, center; Smith, quarterback; McCully, left half; Barrow, right half; and Mayer, fullback.

With Captain Ace Taylor on the bench with a back injury, the University of Delaware suffered no defeat in a 14-0 loss at the hands of the BMC Cadets at Chester for their sixth defeat in seven tests played this season. The seventh resulted in a scoreless tie with Susquehanna. The Blue and Gold close the campaign next week with Haverford. Delaware scored their lone touchdown on a pass from Craig to Fulfilling in the final period.

Thanksgiving

Though our American Thanksgiving Day

Is kept in many a different way

Yet all are joined in thankfulness

That still these things our country bless:

The right to live, and work and earn;

To walk abroad, to think, to learn,

And, most important of all these—

To praise and worship as we please.

To Thee oh God we send this prayer

That these blessings be ours forever.

—Amen

Hens Crush Bucknell By 20-0 In Last Stand For 14 Seniors

Little All American Don Miller Tops Kazmaier's Mark With 36th Touchdown Pass As Hens Wallop Middle Six Champs For 7-2 Card; Oberg, Zaiser, Apostolico Score

Fourteen seniors, including crippled Captain Dan Ford, fullback, made their last appearance in regular season gridiron play for the University of Delaware last Saturday, as Coach Dave Nelson's departed despot of the Middle Six Conference knocked some of the lustre from the crown of the new champion Bucknells by stopping the Bisons 20-0.

Delaware closed their campaign with a 7-2 record, second best in Nelson's four-year career at Newark. The decisive defeat, first in Middle Six competition for Bucknell, was the third sustained by the Bisons, following losses to Colgate and Boston University in nine 1954 outings.

With star senior Quarterback Don Miller in a record-setting role, the Hens, outweighted 20 pounds per man, smashed Bucknell's feared ground offensive and, late in the first quarter, converted the passing of Bucknell's Jim Stewart into the day's first touchdown. Insurance scoring was added in the second and third periods.

Two fumbles and an offensive holding penalty which nullified a 75-yard touchdown run by Halfback Jimmy Flynn, three postponed Delaware's initial six-point lead. Stewart involuntarily collaborated with Miller to set up a two-yard scoring plunge by reserve Fullback Johnny Oberg.

Miller intercepted Stewart, facing a third down and 12 to go on his nine-yard line, pitched into the right flat where Miller leaped in front of the intended receiver and ran to the 3. Two plays later Oberg crashed over Andy Wagner, filling in for Flynn at right half, kicked for a 7-0 lead.

Delaware scored in the second period when Miller passed and piloted his mates in five plays from the Hens' 11 to the Bisons' 30. The key play was one of the day's most spectacular—a down-the-middle pass to End Vince Grande was laterated to End Marty Apostolico on the Bucknell 40 and Apostolico carried to the 30. Halfbacks Flynn and Jim Zaiser took over for a first down on the 8.

Flynn rambled to the three, Zaiser slanted across right tackle for the touchdown and the Hens had a 13-0 advantage.

Bucknell's line sifting through to block Flynn's try for the extra point.

Record Breaker
Miller, the mastermind behind the first two touchdowns, pitched himself into the Eastern Inter-collegiate Football Association record book midway of the third quarter.

Delaware, stalled on the Bucknell 8 after a 43-yard Miller-to-Tom Redfield pass, dug in to stop the Hens. Three ground plays gained nine yards, to the 15 and Bucknell, electing to gamble for the first down, lost when Sierier was jolted free from the pigskin, Flynn recovering.

Miller fired to Apostolico on the 9, Marty step-danced a would-be tackler on the 5 and entered the end zone with the 30th yard pass of Miller's four-year career and a new record for the Prospect Park pitcher. The old mark of 35

Special Fan Train Planned For Hens' Followers To Bowl

Touchdown Club Plans Rail Trip For Delaware Refrigerator Bowl Fans

Special train arrangements will be made for Delaware football fans if enough of them are able to follow the team to the Refrigerator Bowl game in Evansville, Ind., on Dec. 5.

If 25 or more adult fares are guaranteed, the Pennsylvania Railroad will reserve a reclining-chair coach at a round-trip price of $39.98, including tax. Two children will be considered as one adult.

The trip would begin Friday night, Dec. 3 with the train leaving Wilmington at 7:47 o'clock. It would arrive in Evansville on Saturday night at 6:25.

The game is scheduled for Sunday afternoon. Returning, the Wilmington train would leave Evansville at 10:40 that night arriving at 10:45 Monday night.

Depending upon the response, Wood said he would obtain data on Saturday night hotel accommodations in Evansville. He can be contacted at 12 Tamarack Avenue, Elsmere, phone 3-4213, and reservations also can be made through W. N. Pippin, division passenger agent, 914 Market Street, phone 8-7241.

SPORTS FLASHES
from
The Sporting News
by J. G. Taylor Spink

Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, one-time star pitcher with the New York Yankees, is a good story-teller. "There is one thing I'd like to see," said Gomez. "I'd like them to stop changing the rules. Every winter they get together and increase the distance from the pitcher's mound to the plate."

"I can remember the days when the pitching distance was 60 feet six inches. The last two years I was with the Yankees they made it 75 feet. Then 80, then 90, and last summer it was 100 feet. They should stop that nonsense."

The interviewer replied, "Lefty, the pitching distance has been 60 feet six inches for the last 61 years, and it still is 60 feet six inches." Gomez looked astonished. "You don't tell me?" he exclaimed. "Must be my imagination."

The Babe
Gomez likes to tell stories on the Great Babe Ruth—and especially the one about a night down in St. Petersburg during spring training when the Babe, Gehrig and Gomez went to see a Tarzan picture. "Lou marveled at Johnny Weissmuller's athletic agility as he swung from tree to tree," said Lefty. "I explained, 'Lou, he doesn't swing from limb to branch. He is helped by a trapeze. It isn't really Weissmuller, it's the trapeze.'"

"Ruth snorted: 'So it's Trapeze, is it? I knew damn well it wasn't Weissmuller.'"

Newcomer
Arnold M. Johnson, the new owner of the Kansas City Athletics, is a man of both charm and ability, it seems, and these two virtues are coated with a heavy layer of persistence. A man of less persistence might easily have given up his aim some time during the four months it took Johnson to achieve it.

It was always an intense baseball fan, and last July got the idea of buying the Athletics, floundering both financially and in the American League race. He worked hard, spent at least $75,000 in legal travel expenses, and faced one setback after another before his purchase offer was finally approved.

Now, who is this man who has popped so suddenly onto the baseball scene? In Chicago, almost any one could answer, because the 47-year-old Johnson is a director in 20 corporations, chairman of the board of five, has interests in others, is a real estate operator and, now, a major league club owner.

Johnson was born and educated in Chicago. He majored in business administration at the University of Chicago, where he graduated in 1928. The story of how his business interests expanded from a small beginning in a grain and stock exchange is too long to tell here. But he got on with definite aims, has brought success. In passing, it might be mentioned that he had four years in the Navy in World War II and came out with decorations.

Until last winter, the name of the Chicago industrialist meant nothing to baseball. But now, all of a sudden, Johnson is the new owner of two ball parks, Yankee Stadium in New York and the Blues Stadium in Kansas City. Through a complex deal, Johnson and associates bought the stadiums. Then the ground under Yankee Stadium was sold to the Knights of Columbus, and Johnson and the Johnson group, and then the entire package was turned back to the New York Yankee owners on a rental basis.

Who's Who

Visibility was close to zero down on Maryland's Elk River last Friday, and any duck—or duck hunter—with a fair amount of judgment would have stayed pretty well put, avoiding any unnecessary travel.

We were there with Ray Ott and Dick Ware, however, despite the fact that the majority of the Atlantic flyway waterfowl were absent from the area, but even at that, enough black ducks and mallards were talking it up through the fog to make things very interesting indeed.

Tramping across a wide stretch of pastureland in the gloom of very early morning, we dropped down to a snug cabin nestled in the lee of the river bank, stoked up the little iron stove within, lugged a flock of coastal decoys from the adjoining shed to the duck skiff, and listened to the quacking chorus of ducks awakening in the fog over the water.

Time drags and the ducks fly at dawn during the chore of setting out decoys, and while Dick and Ray were dropping the blocks on each side of the boat as it glided along the shore in front of the brush blind, ducks were splashing up off the river and whispering by overhead, invisible in the dim light made even more dim by the low-hanging mist.

Ready and Waiting
In the blind at last, with 20 black ducks becalmed on the silver sheet of glassy water out in front, we watched and waited with the view of anything moving around out of range. And they were moving. We could hear 'em.

Ray left the blind to take aboard a cup of coffee at the cabin some 100 yards down the shore, and shortly after his departure, a lone black duck materialized like a web-footed ghost out of the mist, swung over the decoys once, twice, dropped its feet, and came roaring in for a landing.

The Kentuckian held his fire until we blew a pair of holes through the fog, and then he knifed the duck dead. It proved to be a fat drake with the yellow legs of a state-side bird—a little lighter in weight and color, and without the orange-red swimming mechanism of the Canadian voyageurs.

Swan Song
Wild swan were tuning up on their flutes somewhere out over the river, and while a white swan in a fog is something to see, seven of the great birds swept high and by to give us a large charge with the momentary thought that they might be Canada geese. They weren't—and they were too far off anyway.

Some time later another lone duck loomed out of the fog, lowered all flaps for a landing, and Dick knocked the second duck of the day down for some retrieving operations complicated by less than an inch of water over the tidal mud. Eventually we maneuvered the boat into position and came ashore with a dusky Canadian redleg—a beautiful black duck of impressive proportions.

Ray rejoined the two fogwatchers in the blind, and some hours of time slipped away without further action.

Wildfowler Ott regaled his companions with tales of battery shooting on the Susquehanna flats for canvasback and redheads—of days

Yellowjacket JV's End Grid Training With 7-6 Victory

Coach Dick Rhodes' Squad Stops A. I. duPont 7-6 In Controlled Scrimmage

Labored through the football season with little fanfare and acclaim but with plenty of hard work and harder bodily contact, 26 Newark High School junior varsity griders have been working daily under the guidance of Coach Dick Rhodes.

Competing with four other schools in controlled scrimmages of four 8 to 10 minute periods, the Yellowjacket junior varsity lost a 47-0 opener to a strong William Penn jayvee squad; punched across their first touchdown in losing to Claymont's junior varsity, 25-7; showed surprising strength in holding Wilmington High's jayvees to a scoreless tie, and wound up the season with a 7-6 victory over A. I. duPont's junior Tigers.

During the past season, the Newark jayvees practiced and played entirely apart from the Yellowjacket varsity, and emphasis was stressed on fundamentals and training rather than on intercollegiate and varsity competition.

Jayvee backfield performers were Carol Butterworth, Bill Chalmers, Joe Marvel, John Heitzenroder, Wilson Cooper, Phil Schuyler, Calvin Webber, Ernie Conzo, James Jackson, and Jack Gordon.

With 10 senior Yellowjackets leaving the varsity via the graduation rite, some of these boys will be moving up to join the big squad next September.

SPENT BULLETS
Nine seniors—five of them starters—ended their Gettysburg College football careers Saturday when the Bullets closed their 1954 campaign.

When the gunner lay flat in a sink-box amid a great spread of canvasback blocks, and sat upright to shoot when a swarm of canvas rushed in to buzz the decoys. Bag limits were non-existent or generous, and the shooting was fast and furious. Many of the wildfowlers of that day died their shooting with three double barreled guns, snatching up another as fast as the first was emptied. Shooting from a water level, and from a station in the hub of a great wheeling mass of canvasback and the roar of wings, wind and water—well it must have been terrific.

Some hour ahead of legally enforced quitting time, we decided to call it a day. Not a duck had showed for hours until we left the blind, and then a big mallard dropped out of the fog and right into the middle of the decoys. That brought us back for another hour—a period completely devoid of subsequent ducks.

Harold Stanley bagged a pair of Canada geese just outside the Newark city limits on Delaware's opening day—a pair of honkers that were obtained with minimum damage to Harold's better clothing. In the excitement of the day, he neglected to change into his hunting gear. But it was worth it, despite what Mrs. Stanley said.

Ten Newark Senior Gridders To Bow Out In Conrad Final

Backs Hall, Shew, Money, Gore; Linemen Hiddleston, Moore, McNair, Kleinbach, Hayman, Biasotto To End High School Grid Careers In Thanksgiving Day Clash

Ten of Newark High School's varsity griders will mark their final appearance in Yellowjacket livery Thursday when Coach Scotty Duncan's squad meets the Redskins of Camden and John Chanowski at Newark in the traditional Turkey Day clash.

Co-captains Kenny Hall and Jake Shew; Arthur Moore and Bob Gore, backs; Bill Hiddleston and Charlie Moore, linemen; and John McNair, tackle; John Kleinbach and Ron Hayman, ends; and Larry Biasotto, center, will play their last football game for Newark High School on Thanksgiving Day.

Scotty Duncan's Yellowjackets have rolled up a total of 38 points against 34 scored by seven opponents during the current season. All 34 points were scored by two teams who punched their way into Newark's 52 record.

Following three successive victories over Elkton, Dover, and Pleasant, by 35-0, 48-0, and 39-7, the Yellowjackets rolled over the Colonials of Williamsport, Cole, 20-0—bounced back to wash Claymont 32-0—and an unlucky encounter with Wilmington High School, 14-6. In their last game, the Yellowjackets rolled the A. I. duPont Tigers by a score of 32-0.

Bob Everett defeated Eddie Logan 100-85; Charles Glacken turned back James White by the same count; Walter Martin won over Wayne Steigle by 100-71; and Frank Rego took a 34-point decision from B. Blansfield.

Hen Soccer Team Loses Final Test To Bucknell

Bucknell's booters defeated Delaware, 3-2, in Newark on Saturday as seven Delaware seniors ended their collegiate soccer careers. Playing their last for Delaware were John McLaughlin, Willard Thompson, George Ching, Jim Holden, Tom Brown, Dan Walton, and Harry Henderson.

Mildred Ludwig reports that husband Leonard and Charlie Stein are investing in bows and arrows for some contemplated deer-slaying in January at Bombay Hook. Mrs. Ludwig has expressed some wonderment at just how the two Nimrods will be in shape to pull those 55-lb. bows on such short notice.

And that new shotgun acquired by Hawkeye Jim was a 12-ga. pumpgun, his daughter adds.

Recalling this bit of info., Scotty Duncan yesterday expressed the hope that Newark's kids or Bobby Conway would be the men in the clear when John Johnny Narvel begins piling pigskin.

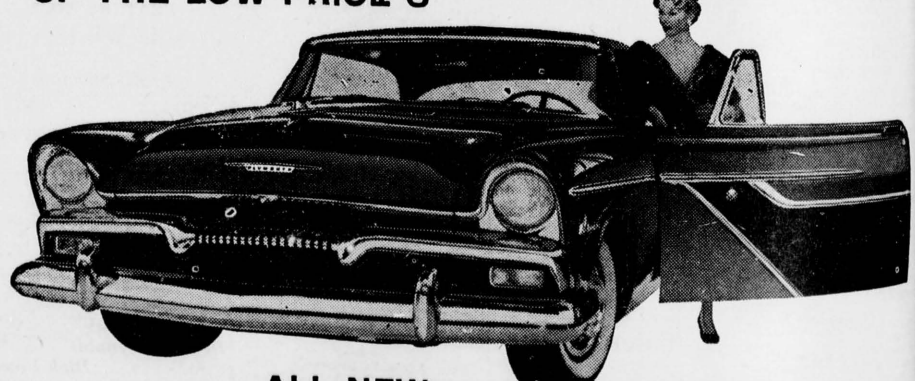

Lenny Williams Hopes "Unsunny Hero" Of Goal

Lenny Williams, Delaware's hero from Wilmington, holds on to the "Hero" designation in the final weekly Eastern Intercollegiate Football Association letter.

Williams, reserve center, an open-field touchdown passer, tackle, and later stopped a 60-yard drive short of a 50-yard deep in Delaware territory as Blue Hens won on Saturday.

At a meeting of the Methodist Church Board of Education held at the home of church school superintendent Donald McLaughlin last Saturday evening, preliminary plans were made for the Sunday School's annual Christmas party. This will take place on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 18, in the church.

That same weekend has been designated as the time for the Girl Scouts' Christmas party in the fire house. As usual the Fire Company and Ladies Auxiliary will cooperate in giving a Yuletide party for children of this area on Dec. 22.

The seventh and eighth graders of the Christiana-Salem school will present a Christmas program for the December meeting of the PTA. This was announced by Mrs. C. S. Kleinbach, program chairman, at the November PTA meeting held last Friday evening in the school.

Mrs. James T. Blest, president, announced two events of interest to PTA members and extended an invitation for all to attend the Fourth Annual Conference on Children and Youth at Dover High School last Saturday, and the Council for Delaware Education dinner and meeting scheduled for Wednesday evening, Dec. 1, in the university dining hall, at Newark.

PTA Membership
Chairman Mrs. A. H. Jones reported on the recent PTA membership contest conducted among the pupils and won by Mrs. L. J. Walker's third grade. There are now 164 official members on the roll. It was emphasized that it is still not too late to join.

The PTA voted to donate $45 to be spent for phonograph records for the school, each teacher to select records for her room with the advice of the county music supervisor, Mrs. Howard Perry and Mrs. Ernest Wiedegren were appointed as a committee to investigate the purchase of "The World Book" for the fifth grade room.

Miss Lillian Frazier, principal, thanked Mrs. Graden, chairman, and all other homeroom mothers who contributed to the successful Open House held in connection with National Education Week.

The brief business meeting was followed by a square dance in the school auditorium, sponsored by the PTA for adults in this school district.

Junior Achievement

The Junior Achievement companies, J.A.C. Enterprises and Prima Products, Inc., have announced that their products are now available to the public.

The earrings by Prima Products made their debut last week after the regular meeting of the company. By diffusing glass on copper the company has produced a very novel product. The earrings are made in two styles, button and dangling, with two variations in shape, disk and square. Almost any color can be ordered.

The artificial flowers made by J.A.C. Enterprises have been on the market for nearly three weeks now, and are making a big hit with the public. They are made from a wood-fiber which retains its shape after wearing and can be cleaned. The flowers are sold in a variety of colors, both natural and to match "my lady's" costume.

Both products may be purchased from members of the companies or from the sales managers, Leigh Truitt (J.A.C.) and Suzanne Schaal (Prima Products).

Extended Coverage In Social Security Benefits Explained

Self-Employed Engineers, Accountants, Architects, Morticians Now Covered

"Engineers, accountants, architects, and funeral directors in Delaware who have their own business or partnership will be brought under the social security program for the first time after 1954," Myron Milbourn, manager of the Social Security office in Wilmington stated yesterday.

"They will be brought under the law on a compulsory basis and they will begin to earn old-age and survivors insurance for themselves and their dependents in the same way as self-employed persons have since the beginning of 1951.

Not included under 1954 amendments to the Social Security Act are lawyers, dentists, physicians, and men and women who are self-employed in other professional medical capacities, such as optometrists, veterinarians, chiropractors, and osteopaths," Mr. Milbourn added.

All self-employed professional men and women who are covered by the program for the first time beginning Jan. 1, 1955, will make their first report and pay their first social security tax on their earnings for their first taxable year after 1954. The report and the tax contribution will be sent with the Federal income tax return which is due April 15, 1956.

The social security tax for the self-employed person is three percent. All net income from $400 to $4,200 in a year will be reported for social security and will be credited to the individual's social security account.
