

Mariola Hammill Wins Crown As "Mrs. Delaware" For 1964

Mother Of Three, Former "Mrs. Brookside" To Compete In Florida Next Month For National Title; Neighbors Arlene Hoebel, Julie White Win 2nd, 3rd Place Honors

Mrs. Mariola Hammill of Brookside—mother of three daughters, and Mrs. Brookside of 1959—won the title of Mrs. Delaware of 1964 in the contest finals last week with her selection over two Brookside neighbors by a panel of three judges.

Mrs. Arlene Hoebel, wife of J. B. Hoebel, won second place among the three finalists for Mrs. Delaware honors, and Mrs. Julie White, wife of D. R. White, won third place.

Mrs. Hammill, who will be 30 in September, is married to Robert James Hammill, a salesman for West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co., whom she met in college. He is a native of Georgia, and she is from Alabama. They live at 27 McCord Drive.

To win her crown, Mrs. Hammill was required to set a table, bake a cake and style her hair—all in the presence of the judges.

Autumn Graduate
Mrs. Hammill married after graduating from the University of Auburn as a home economics major, and moved to Delaware seven years ago with her husband.

Active in 4-H Club activities in high school, she represented Alabama at the National 4-H Congress as a junior.

A director of the Brookside Kindergarten and its parent, she is a member of Beta Sigma Phi sorority and the Newark New Century Club; and of St. Andrew's United Presbyterian Church of Brookside where her husband is an elder.

Florida Test
Mrs. Hammill, who makes all the clothing in the family for herself and the three girls, will represent Delaware in the Mrs. America contest in St. Petersburg, Fla., April 2-12.

To compete for the title of Mrs. Delaware, one must submit an application, consisting of 47 questions, to New York headquarters. Forms are processed and the top three entrants are announced. Contest finals are held at the local level to determine state winners.

Mrs. J. Hamilton, director of the state contest and Mrs. Delaware of 1963, emphasized that the contest is not limited to Brookside as might be indicated by this year's finalists.

"It just happened this way," she said.

Chrysler To Buy Local Tank Plant From Government

The Chrysler Corporation is to buy the Lenape Ordnance Plant at Newark from the U. S. Government for $360,000, Rep. Harris B. McDowell Jr., (D-De.) announced last Thursday.

McDowell said the deal is expected to be completed early in April. The sale price is $362,500 more than the original offer made by Chrysler to the General Services Administration for the former tank plant.

The Lenape plant was built for $3,929,337 by the Army during the Korean War on a 145-acre tract owned by Chrysler adjoining the firm's Newark assembly plant. It was later used for modifying heavy tanks, but when this work was shifted to Detroit three years ago the plant was declared surplus.

An official at the Chrysler plant said the corporation is acquiring the tank plant for possible expansion of the assembly facility.

Golden? No, But Blue And Green Eggs Are Provided By Araucana Easter Hens

Golden eggs from geese happen only in fairy tales, but the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Delaware can top fairy tales with chickens that lay eggs in shades of blue and green.

This boon to mothers may never be on the market, and the Easter Eve ritual of coloring eggs probably will remain.

Araucana, the South American Easter egg chicken, has been known to lay eggs in blue, green, pink and olive drab colors. Specimens came to the University Farm when it was decided to increase the types of chickens for teaching purposes.

The tale of the Araucana's arrival in America relates that they were brought as a novelty by clipper ship captains in the 1860's. But they never became popular with commercial growers because there is little profit in their small eggs and small body size.

Araucana have never become an accepted breed in the United States,

Helicopter Battle With Campus Beetles Planned To Prevent Dutch Elm Disease

The second aerial assault on elm bark beetles and Dutch elm disease is scheduled at the University of Delaware.

Last April, the university attacked the beetles with a helicopter spray program. Since then, no new cases of Dutch elm disease have appeared among the 200 American elm trees on campus.

Roscoe L. Exley, superintendent of grounds, said it will take a series of consecutive years spraying to get definite results on the effectiveness of the program, believed the first of its kind.

Recent warm days have pushed the program into March, and the spraying may be done this week.

"Trees are budding, and the methoxychlor spray should be put on soon to kill the elm bark beetles as they emerge and begin to feed. Calm, clear weather is ideal for the spray," Exley said.

The grounds superintendent works with Donald MacCreary, professor of entomology, and Dr. John W. Heuberger, professor of plant pathology, in planning the beetle war. After the beetles come out of the bark, their winter home, they feed in tender twig crotches near the top of the tree, MacCreary said, exposing the bark to Dutch elm disease fungus.

Fungus attack means the tree has to be destroyed, sometimes on state order, Heuberger said.

The actual assault on the beetles will be made by Dr. Carol M. Voss, entomologist and president of Agrotech, Inc., Gettysburg, Pa., who will provide mechanized equipment and the battle plan.

Opposition Offered To Medical School Proposed In State

Doctors Reported In 2-1 Favor Of Medical School; Perkins Cites Objections

Opposition to a medical school in Delaware was expressed last week although Delaware doctors were reported in favor of it 2-1.

At the hearings before the six consultants employed to investigate feasibility of establishing a two or four-year medical school in Delaware, consultants said the university "fears" a medical school in the belief it would drain off already limited funds from other departments.

One consultant said the two-year medical school might require $750,000 a year to operate, which would mean a 15 per cent increase in the university's annual budget.

Consultants said the university seems to regard medical education as "applied science" and feels that a medical school would not add significantly to the university's basic education.

The medical school was opposed by top management of the DuPont Company.

In a speech to the Wilmington Rotary Club, Dr. John A. Perkins, president of the University of Delaware, explained why the institution is "slow to embrace the idea of a medical school."

"Our university cannot provide Delawareans with the full variety of higher education programs that exist in larger states," he said. "If it does, the cost per student and costs in the aggregate will be very high indeed, or we shall have a lot of very mediocre programs in a day when quality is more important than quantity."

The Medical Society of Delaware presented a statement that Delaware physicians in a formal poll, "reported a 2-1 hope that a medical school can be established here."

Dr. Kenneth E. Penrod, vice-president for medical affairs at the University of West Virginia, is conducting the survey for the Delaware Academy.

Six national leaders in education are acting as his consulting board.

Francis M. Sullivan Files As Candidate For Newark Mayor

Francis M. Sullivan of 351 Paper Mill Road filed Monday as a candidate for mayor in the April 14 election in Newark.

Active in local zoning cases, in land use, and in planning for park and recreation facilities, Sullivan prepared the industrial park zoning ordinance for council consideration.

"There is considerable need for the ordinance because industrial organizations will not consider sites in communities that do not provide for industrial park zoning. Industry demands this modern type zoning in order to protect investment of their investment. At the same time, the ordinance promotes values of residential areas and of consumer business locations by insuring their separation," Sullivan said.

"Many Newark home-owners are deeply concerned because they do not know from month to month when their zoning will be downgraded to permit a speculator to put an apartment, a store, or a factory into their neighborhood," Sullivan said.

"Recently, five of the seven members of council did this for a speculator on the flood plain on White Clay Creek across from North College Avenue and the future north campus of the university although it conflicted with every principle of proper zoning practice as well as with objections of over 150 residents of the area, who filed a written petition," Sullivan added.

Inasmuch as the two candidates who had already filed for mayor were included in the five, Sullivan was asked to be a candidate by those who feel he has demonstrated his purpose to bring proper zoning ordinances to Newark, along with adherence to them, regardless of speculator pressure.

Sullivan purchased his home in Newark 14 years ago.

He is a graduate of Worcester Polytechnic Institute and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; is a member of St. John Catholic Church, and the National Society of Professional Engineers.

Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan have three children.

Speaking of money...

"Are you saving any of your $250,000?"

John Buchanan

"Yes, you, my friend. As an average wage earner you will bring home a quarter-million dollars over a working lifetime. Isn't today the day to get a good grip on your fortune, make it work for you? Take a tip from me: open a savings account at the Savings Fund and make a weekly habit of adding to your future. It's later than you think but early enough to act. Follow the money-wise to the Savings Fund.

Follow the Big 4% interest.

P.S. Bring the kids. It's high time they had an account of their own too."

by Dean Belt
4-H Club Agent

Activities are starting to get into full swing again, and the big one lining up right now is the junior broiler contest. Members entering the contest will receive their chicks on March 23 or 24. New Castle County has 31 members taking part this year so we should have a competitive and interesting event.

Another first will take place in New Castle County soon—the 4-H photography contest. All members taking the photography project will be eligible to take part.

Photographs will be on display in the Agricultural Hall lobby from April 25 to May 1. Awards will be presented during the County Dress Revue. The public is invited to attend.

Speaking of the County Dress Revue, modeling will take place on May 1. This is a Friday and the contest will start at 7:30. We expect another large show. Anyone interested in seeing the 4-H girls modeling in this contest is welcome to attend. It is always a colorful and enjoyable evening.

Mitchell Justice Installed As Chief Of Indian Guides

The Newark Indian Guides of the Western Branch YMCA held a family pow-wow on Sunday, March 1 at the Newark Methodist Church, with 300 persons attending.

The auditorium was ringed with craft displays of Indian lore which is the central theme of the program.

Officers for 1964-65 were inducted by Paul Burbitt, chairman of the Newark Y-Indian Guide nominating committee, with Mitchell Justice, chief; Adin Lewis, Medicine Man; Orval Lovett, Wampum Bearer; and Paul Catts Great Hunter.

Fathers and sons who joined the program since September of last year were formally inducted into the Newark nation. This ceremony was led by newly-elected Chief Justice.

Millard Zeisberg was presented with an award for his "outstanding contribution toward making the Indian Guide program a meaningful experience" for fathers and their first through third grade sons.

Entertainment was provided by the Delaware Archery Association with an exhibition of bows and arrows for target shooting and hunting.

The program was planned by a committee of Indian Guide fathers—Paul Catts, George Holm, David Barclay, and Clayton B. McElwaine, YMCA program secretary.

CHARTER COMMISSION CHOICE

In what appears to be a very competitive contest for election as a member of a brand new municipal body, 23 persons have filed as candidates for the April 14th vote to select a seven-member City Charter Commission.

The Newark League of Women Voters — a prime mover in prompting polling people — has more than a bit of difficulty in getting out the vote when balloting is simplified.

The ladies of the League — and the other voters, too — have some real work ahead with the people's choice for seven out of 23 charter commission candidates.

HUMANITY'S SENTRY

March, by Presidential proclamation, is Red Cross month, and Americans are asked again to lend their support to this unique international organization which has done so much to alleviate human suffering throughout the world since its organization in 1863.

The great strength of the Red Cross is in its national societies, organized in some 90 countries throughout the world with a total membership of more than 157 million people. The League of Red Cross Societies with headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland, represents the national organizations and coordinates mutual efforts for disaster relief, development of programs, and staff training.

When a nation is stricken by flood, earthquake, storm, famine or some other form of catastrophe and needs outside help, it may appeal to the League, which then contacts the societies specifying the type of assistance necessary. Within hours, help is on the way, including food, medicines, clothing, and experienced relief personnel.

Finally, the international committee of the Red Cross can move where no others can. For it is recognized by most states as the neutral channel for negotiations between belligerents, and as a means by which organized relief can cross battle lines or enter an area of conflict, moving between countries to points of conflict and suffering.

The committee's representatives act as humanity's sentries. In its 83rd year, the American Red Cross stands ready to help when the call comes, whether from one person or a million. It deserves the respect and support of all.

Hens' Tom Lyons Named To All-East Basketball Team

Delaware's Tom Lyons has been chosen on the 15-man All-East university division (major college) squad on the Eastern College Athletic Conference.

The squad was selected on the basis of nominations and selections to the ECAC weekly teams.

The 6-2 senior from Brooklyn, N. Y., was picked on a weekly first team after a superlative performance in a 75-70 victory over Bucknell on Jan. 4. He sparked the late attack which produced the win, winding up with five field goals in nine attempts for 10 points, and played an excellent defensive game.

In another outstanding performance, Lyons connected on 10 of 14 attempts and converted four of six fouls for 24 points in leading the Blue Hens' 70-63 conquest of Glassboro State.

"Caught a 4-lb. spotted sea trout one morning just before I left," Dr. Paul K. Muselman said this week in Newark after returning from Florida's West Coast near Clearwater.

"But I can't take any credit for that, beautifully big as the fish was," the durable dentist disclosed. "Had set a line out the night before, and when I got up the next morning, the fish was dead after swallowing a baited hook way down deep."

Few fish are more beautiful or more fun to catch than the spotted weakfish or speckled sea trout that are common in the clear tidal waters on both coasts of Florida, and uncommon but highly prized in the Delaware and Chesapeake bays, and in the white thunder of the surf off the Diamond State's Atlantic coastline.

Nice teeth they have, too, Doc — especially the one or two sabre-tooth tiger dentures in the upper jaw. Unlike a bluefish, or one of Bus Humphreys' piranha of the Amazon basin, a sea trout doesn't use his dental equipment with malice toward men.

Far from Florida last week with a 15-year son and Horace "Rip" Smith, we sought spring suckers in White Clay Creek just below Thompson's Bridge in the first stream fishing for too long a time.

Rugged Rip Smith knows the rollicking rapids and purring pools of White Clay Creek as well as any of the resident fallfish, chub, suckers, or transient trout, and no rambling ragoon is more familiar with the marshy meadows, tangled brush along the banks, or wooded ridges rising out of the valley, than Newark's No. 1 Naturalist.

Few national parks are more picturesque or afford more of a feeling of freedom with a tramp in the wilderness than Newark's White Clay Creek Valley, and it was a particular pleasure to be out there on a spring evening with its No. 1 Guide.

On a sandy strip of beach beside a bend in the stream where the fast current lost itself in a deep pool, we set up our rods in forked sticks, and waited and watched for the tightening of a line and the twitch of a rod tip as Rip Smith's Benny Street garden hackle wriggled about on the bed of the creek.

We didn't catch any suckers, but had a lot of fun with small chub and slim golden catfish—the latter reminiscent of Virginia's Shenandoah River fishing with a beanpole, string and bobber of too many years ago.

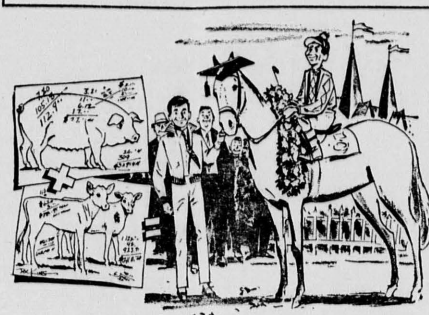

In the dusk as we drove home along Creek Road, a big owl floated in front of the car to flare up and settle silent, shadowlike in a tree beside the stream.

And we will have lost all this when the proposed dam inundates the valley.

Northern Dancer, Hill Rise Lead Preakness Nominees

Northern Dancer and Hill Rise, pro tem leaders of the three-year-old division in the East and West, head a list of 147 nominations to the $150,000-added Preakness at Pimlico Race Course on Saturday, May 16. The Preakness, highlight of Pimlico's 24-day spring meeting—April 27-May 23—is America's richest race of classic stature for three-year-olds.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day The Parlayed Pig

Perhaps the youngest licensed trainer in the country is a lad named Homer L. Baker who parlayed a gift pig into a racing stable consisting of one college-bred horse which he proceeded to train to win four races and parts of three other purses, totaling $5,690 in 1963. Young Baker had originally thought of becoming a jockey, but he grew the idea physically. A neighbor in his home area of Napa, California had given Baker a sow. The young man raised her, bred her and sold her litter, making enough to buy two steer calves. His venture into the cattle business also proved profitable, and he had soon accumulated a stake. The record shows that he obtained his trainer's license last year at the age of 18 and acquired Pre Vet, a 4-year-old gelding by Double Reigh — Secret Society, which had been bred by Washington State University. Pre Vet stepped out and won for him in $2,500 company, and before the season was over, young Baker had visited the winner's circle on three other occasions. Baker's training career may be interrupted by Uncle Sam, but the only thing that bothers him is the possibility that his Army mates won't believe him when he tells them about his college-bred race horse.

day racing card has drawn outstanding three-year-old fillies. Heading the nominations are Edgell Farm's Busy Jill, winner of the Colleen Stakes and a division of the Bowie Breeders' Stakes last year, and Mrs. Milton Erlanger's Redpoll, winner of the New Jersey Futurity and the Stakes and the Home Bred Handicap in 1963.

The open house will feature horses of all ages—from a new foal and yearling from nearby Maryland breeding farms, to retired stakes winners. The latter will be the famous Maryland campaigners — Find and Social Outcast from the stable of Alfred G. Vanderbilt, and Frank A. Bonas's Pilaster.

Laurel track announcer Ray Haight will describe facilities of the race course, and during the afternoon's program which begins at 2 o'clock, a unique race held at Laurel in 1911 will be reenacted by the 1911 Ford car, horse and rider, a runner and a walker.

Visitors will register for a drawing, with first prize to be a day at the races as Laurel's king or queen. Other prizes are reserved seats for the 1964 Washington D. C. International at Laurel and horseshoes and photos of the famed Kelso and Native Dancer.

Jake Correll Sets Record For Mile Interscholastics

Boone, Folk Win State Wrestling Titles; Heuberger, Stoddard Defeated In Finals

Co-captains of Coach Andy Marcantonio's Newark High School wrestling team, Perry Boone and Harvey Folk won the 120 and 154-lb. state championships last Saturday night with the annual tournament conducted at Carpenter Field House.

Folk, who compiled a 16-0 record for the past season, and who lost but one match last year — and that was a near thing in the state tournament — received the Outstanding Wrestler Award in the eighth annual Delaware Interscholastic Tournament last week.

Pete Heuberger and Allen Stoddard, co-captains for Coach Ken Klimek's Christiana High School Vikings, won second place honors in the state at 145 and 165-lbs., losing in Saturday night's finals.

Harvey Folk, second team All-State quarterback for NHS Coach Bob Hoffman's Blue Hen Conference Yellowjackets of last fall, won the conference wrestling crown this year at 154-lbs., and was conference wrestling champ last year at 145.

In Friday's quarter-finals, Folk won a 6-1 decision over Seaford's Dave Thackery, and in Saturday afternoon's semi-finals, Harvey took a 4-0 decision over Ricky Schmertzler of Georgetown.

And Saturday night, Folk pinned Brandywine's Eric Buonassisi in 5:02 to win the state 154-lb. championship.

Perry Boone won a 6-4 decision over Carl Carroll of the Dover Airbase in his quarter-final bout; defeated A. I. du Pont's Dick Rathmell 6-4 in the semi-finals; and won the 120-lb. state championship with a 4-0 decision over Ricky Schmertzler of Georgetown.

Christiana's Pete Heuberger won a 5-1 decision over Bruce Bettinger of the Dover Airbase in the quarter-finals; took a 3-1 decision from Georgetown's Frank Jones in the semi-final match; and was edged 3-2 by William Penn's Tom Kardash in a close, thrilling final. Kardash, state champion at 133 last year, is undefeated in 30 matches.

Stoddard stopped Dover's Les

Blakeman 9-3 in his quarter-final match at 165-lbs., and won a 3-1 decision over Dickinson's Bob Boucek in the semi-finals. Against Brandywine's Dave Bailey in the finals, Stoddard lost the state championship in a 3-0 decision.

Newark's Mark Hill at 95-lbs. won a 3-1 decision over Dover's Jim West, and Christiana's Pete Bazzel at 120, won a decision over Middletown's Howard Carter in Friday's preliminaries to gain the quarter-finals.

Hill lost a 2-0 decision to Tatnall's Marshall Schell, and dropped an 11-2 decision to Del Campo of P. S. du Pont in the qualifying round for the consolation match.

Christiana's Eddie Lee lost an 8-6 decision to Delmar's Stan Lecates at 112-lbs.; Bazzel defeated Harrington's Jim Cain 11-2; and Vining Heavyweight Steve Horn pinned Dennis Crawford of Georgetown in 2:32 with quarter-final matches.

In the semi-finals, Bazzel lost a 2-1 decision to Dickinson's Mairano, and gaining the consolation finals through forfeit, lost a 3-0 decision to A. I. du Pont's Dick Rathmell.

Horn was pinned by William Penn's state champion Doug Roebke in 2:43 of the heavyweight semi-final event, and lost a 5-4 decision to Millsboro's Jim Layfield in the qualifying bout for the consolation round.

Boone and Folk won gold medals as state champions, and Heuberger and Stoddard were awarded silver medals for their second place finishes.

High School Wrestler Injured In State Tourney

Georgetown wrestler Frank Jones, 18, continued in "fair" condition, according to officials at the Delaware Hospital yesterday.

The 145-pound Diamond State Conference champion Jones was injured in a bout with Lee Trower of Caesar Rodney in the consolation finals of the eighth annual Delaware State Wrestling Tournament in Newark last Saturday night.

ELECTRICAL LIVING IN 2000 A.D.

Residents of the 21st century surely will enjoy a standard of living as far advanced from ours as ours is from the way of life prevalent in the 19th century. Electricity has made the difference in our way of living, and it will in theirs.

We don't know what electrical devices they'll be using in daily life, but we do know that all the electricity they will want will be available. Between now and then we will be constantly planning and building expanded facilities to have ready the power that will be needed to sustain this advanced way of life here on the Delmarva Peninsula.

Planning for this kind of growth has become a daily factor in the utility industry. Anticipating the power needs of customers on the Peninsula for both the near and distant future, in addition to meeting those of the present, keeps us busy round the clock. Because of this progressive planning, Delmarva's power requirements have always been and always will be met in the most efficient and economical way possible.

Hamburger Champ Len Dukart Celebrates 4th Anniversary With Sale Of 3,200,000

The champion seller of hamburgers in the Newark area marked his fourth anniversary on March 15—and he's celebrating with a big vote of thanks to families in the area.

Leonard Dukart, operator of McDonald's at 374 East Main Street in Newark, has served 3,200,000 hamburgers to families in Newark since opening for business in 1960, and has done a lot to revolutionize the eating-out habits of local families.

"The best way I can celebrate this anniversary is to say thanks to local families for accepting McDonald's so readily as part of the community and for making our success possible," Dukart said. "Their enthusiasm for McDonald's has been tremendous, and a truly heartwarming experience for me."

The local McDonald's is part of the nationwide chain which has sold more than a billion hamburgers since it was started in 1955, and now numbers 580 units in 45 states.

Locally, McDonald's golden arches have become a landmark in the short space of four years—and "going to McDonald's for a hamburger" has become a habit in Newark.

"McDonald's has found many ways to turn the preparation and serving of hamburgers into a science—and to pass the savings of this scientific approach along to customers by holding the 15-cent price line," says Dukart. "Not only in quality of food and in atmosphere, but in consideration for the family budget is McDonald's keyed to the family trade."

Science-minded local youngsters—and their fathers—got a special treat from watching McDonald's turn out hamburgers at mass-production pace, while mothers are able to inspect the spotless kitchen, Dukart reports.

The entire preparation area is on view behind glass windows, and exhibition cooking is a major attraction at McDonald's.

The need for streamlined speed and assembly-line efficiency in turning out hamburgers is pointed up by the fact that Len Dukart uses three tons of beef, a ton and a half of potatoes and almost 50 gallons of catsup in an average month.

Robert Potts Wins Soldier Of Month Honor In Viet Nam

Pfc. Robert L. Potts, nephew of Sarah E. Potts of 323 East Main Street, Newark, has been selected as soldier of the month for February for the entire Army support group in Viet Nam.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Potts, Towson, Md., Private Potts received a $50 savings bond on a five-day trip to any city in the Orient, and a personal letter of commendation from Brig. Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell for his selection as soldier of the month.

Gen. Stillwell, commanding the American support forces in Viet Nam, who himself was wounded in action against the Viet Cong guerrillas last month, said in his letter to young Potts "You have distinguished yourself by being selected as the soldier of the month for the entire Army Support group in Viet Nam. This award reflects great credit upon yourself, your unit, and the U. S. Army."

A 1962 June graduate of Towson High School, Pfc. Potts expects to be discharged in April, 1965.
