

EUROPEAN THEATRE DIRECTOR ARRIVES

Delayed By War,
Dr. Kronacher
To Lecture Here
On Dramatics

One of the outstanding European theatre directors will join the staff of the University of Delaware, according to an announcement made today by Dr. R. Kase, assistant professor of English and director of dramatics.

Dr. Alvin Kronacher, formerly director of the municipal theatres at Leipzig and Frankfurt and a director of plays in Paris, Vienna, and Prague, will be visiting lecturer in dramatics at the university beginning with the second semester. He arrived at the university this week to go over plans of his work with Dr. Walter Hüllihen, W. Owen Sypherd, and Dr. Kase.

According to present tentative plans, Dr. Kronacher will be associated with Dr. Kase in the direction of the campus plays and in the supervision of the work of the Dramatic Center, including the Delaware Play Festival. He will deliver a series of public lectures on the European theatre and will probably conduct a non-credit dramatic seminar for especially qualified students.

Dr. Kronacher was educated in the universities of Geneva, Munich, Paris, Berlin and Heidelberg. He was first engaged as producer and dramatist in Karlsruhe and Bremen, and in 1918 was called to the directorship of the Leipzig Theatre, which post he held until 1929, when he accepted an appointment as director of the theatre in Frankfurt.

In 1932, Dr. Kronacher organized and directed the great Goethe open-air festival, and was the only theatre man in Germany to receive the Goethe Medal of Art and Science from the government then in power.

In 1933, Dr. Kronacher left Germany and staged plays in Paris, Vienna, Prague and Switzerland. He also gave instruction in the dramatic arts at the Sorbonne and the German High School in Paris.

He is the author of "The German Theatre of Berlin and Goethe," "The Art of the Producer," "Critical Essays on the Theory and Practice of Dramatic Art," "German Dramatic Speech Today."

At the Munich Art Theatre and in Karlsruhe he collaborated with Max Reinhardt.

Dr. Kronacher was to have taken his duties at the university last fall, but was prevented on account of difficulties in leaving Europe. He has been working to get to this country since last fall and finally succeeded in getting through from Switzerland by way of occupied France, Spain, Portugal, and Cuba. He arrived in New York on the early part of this month.

KITCHEN DAMAGED

Heated Oil
Starts Blaze
Near Here

Damage was estimated at $200 when oil, being heated on a wood stove, ignited and started a blaze at the home of John Scott, Pleasant Valley Road, yesterday.

The fire, which was extinguished by Scott and his sons, was confined to the kitchen, but did considerable damage. Scott was burned about the face and hands. The blaze was under control by the time members of the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company arrived.

More than $300 loss was suffered early Sunday morning when flames destroyed an auto owned by William Bruce, of Newark. A short circuit is believed to have started the fire.

Local firemen were also called to a field fire on the property of J. F. Smith, Capital Trail, on Monday. No damage was caused by the blaze which started when wind scattered burning rubbish.

New Service To Customers Offered By Mote's Garage

Still seeking to accommodate his patrons with the latest in automotive equipment, George Martin, manager of Mote's Garage, has purchased the Mercury battery tester and charger, one of the latest machines developed in this line.

Not only will the Mercury tester register immediately when a battery is defective, but it will fully charge a battery in less than an hour, usually from 15 to 45 minutes.

One of the foremost features of the new development is that the battery may be left in the car while the operation is being performed. No rental is necessary, thus reducing the expense, and one trip for a run-down battery will suffice.

If a battery is low, a booster charge can be made so that a car may be started and run in less than 15 minutes.

With so many reproductions of antique glass on the market today, Mrs. Bailey said that the best way to judge it is by studying the old models, examining details and comparing them with the article to be purchased.

At the business session, presided over by Mrs. Alex D. Cobb, Mrs. Robert O. Bausman, program chairman for the second half of the club year, announced that the next meeting will be preceded by a covered dish luncheon. Mrs. Harold E. Tiffany heads the committee on arrangements.

Receipts from the affair are expected to provide the clubhouse with a new china closet. An interesting surprise program will also be presented.

Mrs. H. K. Preston explained the Red Cross course in home hygiene and care of the sick. She volunteered to teach such a class if there is enough demand. Fifteen members expressed a desire to join the class which will be open to five other persons.

SNYDER REPORTS ON EROSION CONTROL

111 Farmers Aid
In Conservation
Work Centered About Newark

Drainage improvement work and erosion control demonstrations are now evident in nearly all parts of Delaware, according to a report made today on work completed during the last five years by the Soil Conservation Service and CCC camps under its direction. The report was made by Richard S. Snyder, State head of the Soil Conservation Service.

Most of the soil erosion control demonstrations were centered in the northern part of the State in the vicinity of Newark since farmers there had to contend with more gullies and sheet erosion than in other parts of the State. Terraces, contour farming, strip cropping, gully control and general field arrangements have been worked out with a total of 111 farmers to demonstrate what can be done to stop erosion with the aid of a little technical help and the loan of special equipment designed for this work.

Drainage work has been confined to Kent and Sussex Counties with CCC boys from the camps at Wyoming and Georgetown helping farmers. Altogether, they have cleared banks and excavated channels on approximately 250 miles of ditches in an effort to bring old ditches back to usefulness. Snyder estimates that there are still about 600 miles of ditch work in the two counties which should be completed.

Erosion control has been successful from a practical standpoint on the farms where it has been demonstrated in New Castle County, Snyder said. However, only a small number of the farmers have been reached so far. He added that wind erosion control and soil improvement methods could be made applicable to considerable farm land areas in the southern part of the State.

Richardson will speak on production of hatchery and market eggs, new poultry feeding practices, production of quality broilers and poultry house construction during the Poultry Day program on Friday, January 31. Farmers who will assist in leading the discussion periods following each Poultry Day talk are Oliver Suddard, W. H. Fenn, C. C. Murray and J. Edward McVaine. Other discussion leaders include Russell E. Wilson, Russell Snyder, George M. Worrlow, W. C. Skoglund and J. Frank Gordy. HULLIHEN URGES SUPPORT OF ALLIES

University Head Speaker At Meeting Of Lions Club

"We are in an irrepressible conflict between those who believe in the spiritual dignity of man and those who do not," Dr. Walter Hüllihen, president of the University of Delaware, told members of the Lions Club of Newark at the organization's regular weekly meeting, Tuesday night.

"The battle lines are clear," Dr. Hüllihen said. "Ranged on one side are the folk who ask only to be allowed to go their self-respecting ways with conscious intention to do their little best in whatever place they fill; and on the other, the comparatively few in authority throughout the world, who regard their fellowmen as here to be herded, driven, and controlled in order that those above may have their will performed."

"Our strength in the struggle will not consist of great buildings nor great possessions, and certainly not in great and self-satisfied boasts, but in a great devotion dedicated to the highest of all causes—respect for the individual rights of man."

"The American people must face squarely the realities of this day and hour," Dr. Hüllihen continued. "They must ask themselves if they can afford to permit the British Commonwealth of Nations to be defeated and the British fleet either to be destroyed or added to the forces of despotism which seek to dominate the world. This must be the subject of frank and fearless discussion."

"I have no doubt," he said, "What the answer will be. Defeat of Britain and her allies would leave the United States alone, confronted with a totalitarian world which not only seizes our freedom and is greedy for our wealth, but would not leave us free to maintain our way of life and our institutions. Sooner or later, with Britain defeated, war inevitably would come to this hemisphere."

Pointing out the need for a firm policy in the Pacific, Dr. Hüllihen advocated the following points: 1—All material and financial help to China that is possible without lessening our aid to Great Britain; 2—Extension of embargoes upon exportation of all war materials to Japan; 3—Naval bases of United States and Great Britain in the Pacific should be open to each other's fleets; 4—Establishment of clear naval understanding with Great Britain which will permit the two fleets to be placed in the most advantageous position to protect the Atlantic for the democracies and to stop the spread of war in the Pacific.

"The fundamental bases of peace must always concern us," Dr. Hüllihen said. "How shall peace be organized and what responsibilities the United States shall have in the peace."

"On these fundamental issues, on which the future of civilization depends, it is necessary to oppose appeasement in all its forms," he concluded.

Arthur E. Tomhave, president of the club, was in charge of the meeting which was arranged by George Danby, program chairman. Reports were submitted on bowling by Fred Evans and by George M. Haney on membership.

Music for singing which was led by Mr. Danby and Louis Staats, was furnished by Lois Mae Tomhave. Harry Clark Boden was welcomed into membership.

Ice Skating Areas Movement Afoot

A local movement to make available ice-skating areas has gained considerable favor here during the past few days as cold weather has made sufficient ice for skaters to enjoy the popular winter sport at Sunset Lake and the fish hatchery pond on Elkton Road.

The thought has been advanced that it would be well to obtain the use of perhaps University tennis courts, the high school athletic field, the Continental-Diamond baseball field or other similar places and flood them to provide safe and convenient places for young and old alike to skate.

WINTER PRODUCE EGG SLUMP

Warm Water,
More Feedings
Suggested

Many Delaware farmers are finding egg production of their poultry flocks reduced because of cold weather. But W. C. Skoglund of the University of Delaware's animal and poultry industry department, says that the slump in egg production can be corrected by using several "common-sense" poultry management practices.

One of Skoglund's first suggestions is that the birds be provided with comfortable quarters. Loosely-constructed buildings with wide cracks that let in the full force of winter storms from all sides are poor shelters for laying birds.

During extreme cold weather the birds' appetites usually lag, with a resulting drop in egg production. Probably the most common method for maintaining poultry appetites is use of a moist mash made by wetting dry mash with warm water or milk until it is crumbly. Moist mash is fed at noon-time on top of the regular feed. The quantity of feed moistened is the amount that the birds will clean up in from 20 minutes to half-an-hour. All-mash pellets are on the market and they can be fed in place of the moist mash. If the poultryman will run his hand through the mash in the feed hopper frequently, birds will become curious and feed consumption is likely to increase.

Some farmers find that by feeding four to six times daily instead of only once, total feed intake is increased. A small amount of feed is placed in the hoppers and birds usually clean up all of the feed before the next feeding time.

Warm water for laying hens can be provided by various electric devices or kerosene lamps. The value of providing warm water was demonstrated at one agricultural experiment station where poultry research workers found that when the water was warmed all winter, the average winter production in their flock was 95 eggs per hen. When only cold water was provided, the production dropped to 80 eggs for each hen.

Newark, Delaware, Thursday, January 23, 1941

WE'RE THIRTY-TWO TODAY

With this issue of The Newark Post we celebrate the thirty-second anniversary of the founding of this newspaper by the late Everett C. Johnson.

Expressing his editorial policy in the first issue, on January 26, 1910, Mr. Johnson said, "Let me record, day by day, my honest thought without prospect or retrospect. And for this I ask no apology. The policy of this paper is dictated by no man, class, sect, institution, party or creed. But, it is open to all. When in doubt, I shall try to mind my own business..."

For thirty-two years Mr. Johnson and successive editors of this publication have adhered to this policy. And, today the present editors still attempt to follow the purpose and policy of its founder as expressed above.

Mistakes have been made and will continue to be made. But, we sincerely hope that they will always be mistakes of mind and not of intent. We shall unceasingly strive to exercise these columns for the benefit of Newark and its residents first, last and always and never for personal or mercenary gain.

On the masthead of the front page appears today the legend Volume XXXII, Number I. Thus we enter our thirty-second consecutive year of publication with a clean slate and a record of continuous existence that brings a glow of pride.

Publishing even a weekly paper fifty-two weeks a year for thirty-two years is no snap. Attempting to please more than two thousand readers every week is not easy, and we may not always accomplish this end but we assure you that even though we may fail it will not be from lack of trying.

We're proud of Newark and its ONE newspaper... We hope you are too. We're conscious of the responsibility and privilege we enjoy as editor of the only paper in this thriving populace and we sincerely try, each week, to favorably reflect the interests of the community we serve.

To this end we ask your indulgence and your cooperation that The Newark Post may become a larger and better medium of expression for the people of the finest town in the State of Delaware.

LOOK AT IT THIS WAY...

The Newark Chamber of Commerce has entered upon another year of activity under the direction of D. A. McClintock, one of the pioneer members of this organization when it was first formed, nearly twenty years ago.

The presidency of the Chamber of Commerce is not a new job to Mr. McClintock — he has had that honor before. He also had the honor of guiding the destinies of the organization to one of the most prosperous years it ever enjoyed. We join with the rest of the C. of C. members in extending congratulations and best wishes to Mr. McClintock and in assuring him of the support and unstinted cooperation of this newspaper in his endeavor.

We believe that the Newark Chamber of Commerce is an asset to this community. We think it does a service to the business and civic interests of the town. We feel it is worthy of our moral, physical and financial support. We also think that the Chamber of Commerce means just as much to every other business man in town as it does to us. AND we further think that every business man in town should belong to this organization.

For the past few years memberships in the chamber have not been as plentiful as they should. This cannot be attributed to the cost involved for it is too negligible... it can be attributed to no other reason than lack of interest. And thus, we believe, is an unhealthy attitude for any local business man to take.

This is an appeal to each and every business and professional man in Newark to get behind the Chamber of Commerce in 1941 and help make it the best year that organization has ever had.

Applications for membership may be mailed to the secretary, P. O. Box 60.

The Chamber of Commerce does not work to the advantage of any one man or group of men — it works for the benefit of the community as a whole. It endeavors to stimulate better trade, better merchandising, better economic conditions. It promotes goodwill. It sponsors projects for the growth, beautification and advancement of the entire community. Your membership isn't needed to insure your interests—they'll be looked after regardless. But, what the Chamber does need is the benefit of your thoughts, your counsel, your attendance at its meetings to provide a thorough cross-section of sentiment on propositions as they arise.

Your membership — and the meagre sum involved — are vital to the Chamber of Commerce and its function as the clearing house for business, professional and civic advancement problems.

CHASING FIRE ENGINES

Chasing fire engines may soon become a dangerous and expensive outdoor sport, it was revealed here last week when Chief of Police Cunningham voiced a warning that local thrill seekers were hampering the effectiveness of the fire company by following trucks too closely and parking too near the scene of a fire.

The guilty ones, we're sure, did not fully realize the seriousness of their actions and, we trust, will exert caution to comply with traffic regulations in the future. Otherwise they will be faced with the unpleasantness of paying a fine of from $10 to $100 or spending ten to thirty days in the bastille.

Warnings of this type have been issued before and were complied with for a few days and then forgotten. This time, however, they must be observed or the full penalties provided by law will be inflicted upon those convicted.

State traffic regulations clearly state that no vehicle may follow any piece of fire apparatus closer than 500 feet and that no vehicle may approach less than 500 feet from the scene of a fire or piece of fire apparatus.

We sincerely hope that those of you who have been guilty of failing to observe these regulations will realize the seriousness of the offense and take full heed of the timely warning.

If you must go the fire, follow the engines at a good distance and park well away from the blaze or engines. Interference with activities of the fire department may easily endanger the loss of life or property.

FOOD for THOUGHT

by Charlotte Spencer,
Nutritionist for the State Board of Health

Celebrating the Christmas season with good food is a respected custom hoary with age. An ancient church law requiring feasting may have been responsible for the beginning of this happy custom.

Plum pudding has one of the oldest places in the list of traditional Christmas foods. It is supposed to have been originated as a breakfast food, and often began the royal breakfasts. A Frenchman, travelling in England in 1638, was impressed with this plum porridge that he long remembered it and included a recipe of it in the autobiographical story of his life.

Spiced fruit cakes are a symbol of the spicy offerings brought by the wise men.

Our turkeys are perhaps the most modern of the traditional Christmas foods. Before the colonization of America, goose, roast beef, suckling pig or roasted chicken were commonly used. Our own use of turkey is a reminder of the wild turkey which our forefathers found so plentiful here.

The idea of giving food at Christmas time is as old as the custom of eating good food ourselves. Martha Washington sent a gift of Mount Vernon Christmas cake to cheer the dreary days at Valley Forge.

In Delaware there are many who will enjoy their own Christmas dinners more because they have shared their plenty with those less fortunate. The custom of giving Christmas baskets by such organizations as the Red Cross, service clubs, welfare associations, churches, police forces and by private individuals is well established in our community.

Most baskets contain such holiday foods as chicken or roast pork, fresh fruit, nuts and candy to brighten the holiday, and other foods such as canned milk, dried fruits and canned tomatoes which will add to the family's food reserves for many days to come.

Those of us who always have an abundance of healthful foods can afford to plan our holiday dinners with more consideration for our appetites than for our bodies' needs. However, in giving food to a chronically undernourished family, it seems to me that such healthful and filling foods as milk, canned tomatoes, prunes, cheese, apricots, eggs, oatmeal, peanut butter, oranges, grapefruit, and apples take equal importance with the proudest turkey which ever graced a Christmas basket.

Weekly Sermon

"The Only Answer"

By Robert Parsons, Member of Radio Staff—Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

A missionary was once approached by an old Chinese, who said: "I am an old man. For years I have been troubled. I have examined the writings of Confucius; I have studied the religion of Buddha, and the other religions of my country. But though they have revealed many noble sayings and truths, they have not brought me peace. Sir, what shall I do with my sins?"

Today there are those who deny the existence of sin, but the Bible says that "all have sinned." If we honestly search our hearts, we shall agree with the Bible statement.

Sin is a reality. It mars our earthly lives and bars us from the blessedness of heaven. No wonder the old Chinese was burdened about his sins. Certainly we must all face the same problem sometime.

What shall I do with my sins? There is an answer to the question, but it is not found in the prevalent theory that we can balance our sins with good deeds. This erroneous theory ignores the fact that the Bible counts a man either righteous or wicked, not a composite of the two. There is no middle ground, for "no man can serve two masters." A "corrupt tree cannot bring forth good fruit." We might reform our lives and attain a high moral standard, but what about our sins?

A man once ran up a large bill at the grocers. Then one day he said to the storekeeper, "This buying on credit is bad business. From now on I'm paying cash." And he did. But he never mentioned the bill that was on the books. Finally the merchant asked him about it, and he indignantly replied, "Don't I pay cash for all I buy?" "Yes," answered the merchant, "but paying cash for what you purchase now does not settle the old account."

Many people are like that. They have turned over new leaves, but the old account is not settled; and those old sins will stand on record in the judgment, unless the debt is cancelled.

But there is a way out, a sure remedy for sins. Here it is: "The blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth us from all sin" (1 John 1:7). That is the only answer to the question, What shall I do with my sins?

It's Something To Be A Good, Plain Cook

By Katharine Fisher

Director, Good Housekeeping Institute

"I'm just a good, plain cook!" How often we hear women saying that rather apologetically. I think it's something to brag about, this good, plain cooking. Doesn't it bring up visions of the old-fashioned dishes that have stood the test of the most critical appetites in the family for generations? Doesn't the most exacting gourmet boast proudly that he (the gourmet rather belongs to the masculine gender!) can make hash and ham and eggs that "just can't be beat"?

And is there one among you who hasn't been able to excite your friends by discussing the flavorless perfection of hot, meaty potatoes boiled in their jackets, or fluffy mashed ones with never a trace of a lump, or satiny, brown gravy glistening in the bowl, ready to be spooned generously over steaming boiled rice with every grain standing out light and tender?

Yes, there's an art, and it's a fine art, too, in good, plain cooking. And so we offer you below a few recipes for everyday dishes which we have always found as satisfying to our creative instinct as they are delicious to eat.

Brown Chicken Fricassee

(Tested by Good Housekeeping Institute)

Use standard measuring cups and spoons. Measure level.

- | | |
|------------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| 1 1/2-lb. or 2-lb. chicken or fowl | 4 tbsp. salad oil or fat |
| 4 tbsp. flour | 4 c. water |
| 3 tsp. salt | 1 large, peeled, quartered onion |
| 1/2 tsp. pepper | Celery tops |

Order the chicken dressed, cleaned, and cut up. Dredge each piece with some of the flour combined with 2 tsp. of the salt and the pepper. Brown on all sides in the hot fat in a deep kettle. Add the water—boiling water if it is a chicken, and cold water if it is a fowl—the onion, a few celery tops, and the remaining 1 tsp. of salt. Simmer, tightly covered, from 1 to 1 1/2 hrs. for the chicken, 3 to 4 hrs. for fowl, or until tender. Now remove the chicken to a hot platter and cover with a gravy made as follows: Measure the chicken stock, having first skimmed off any surface fat. Then add 2 tbsp. flour, mixed to a smooth paste in 2 tbsp. cold water, for every cupful of chicken stock. Simmer 5 min. while stirring; then add more salt and pepper if needed. Serve 6.

Menu Suggestion: Serve with pineapple or tomato juice, fluffy mashed potatoes, broccoli, and with custard bread pudding for dessert.

Fluffy Mashed Potatoes

(Tested by Good Housekeeping Institute)

Use standard measuring cups and spoons. Measure level.

- | | |
|----------------------------------|---|
| 9 (medium) potatoes (3 1/4 lbs.) | 1/2 c. scalded bottled milk or 6 tbsp. evaporated milk and 6 tbsp. water, scalded |
| 2 tsp. salt | Spice pepper |
| 6 tbsp. butter or margarine | |

Cook the potatoes in boiling water to which the salt has been added, until tender. Drain off water; then place the kettle of potatoes over a low heat for a minute or two, tossing them now and then, until the potatoes take on a dry, mealy appearance. Then mash them thoroughly, using a potato masher or ricer. While beating vigorously with a masher, a spoon, or fork, gradually add enough of the butter and milk combined to make the potatoes fluffy and creamy. Add salt, if necessary, and pepper. Turn into a hot vegetable dish and serve immediately. Serves 6. To serve 2 or 3 make half this recipe.

Custard Bread Pudding

(Tested by Good Housekeeping Institute)

Use standard measuring cups and spoons. Measure level.

- | | |
|---|-----------------------------------|
| 2 c. soft bread crumbs | 1/2 tsp. salt |
| 4 c. scalded bottled milk or 2 c. evaporated milk and 2 c. water, scalded | 1 tsp. vanilla extract |
| 4 eggs | 1/2 c. melted butter or margarine |
| 1/2 c. granulated sugar | 1/2 c. strawberry jam |
| | 4 tsp. granulated sugar |

Add the bread crumbs to the scalded milk. Beat 2 eggs and 2 egg yolks slightly; add the 1/2 c. granulated sugar and salt, and mix thoroughly. Add bread-crumbs mixture, vanilla, and butter, and mix well. Pour into 9 greased individual custard cups set in a pan of warm water, and bake in a moderate oven of 350° F. for 45 to 50 min., or until a silver knife inserted in the center comes out clean. Remove from the oven, then spread the top of each with jam or jelly. Top with a meringue made as follows: Beat 2 egg whites until nearly stiff. Then add the 4 tsp. sugar and beat until stiff. Place custard cups in a pan of cold water, and brown the custard in a slow oven of 300° F. for 25 to 30 min. Serve hot or cold. Serves 8. To serve 2 make one-fourth this recipe, using 1 egg yolk for the pudding and 1 egg white for the meringue.

EVER SINCE THE D. I. A. A. FOLD-up back in 1932, attendance at high school athletic contests has taken a nosedive which can best be measured by the lack of interest accorded sports at the local high school.

Teeth was taken out of the competition after Bridgeville's protest and the affair which followed resulting in a break-up of the circuit. Without the rewards which came with the state championship (the glory of knocking off a down-state rival and a turkey dinner on Thanksgiving Day), interest which held up for a couple of years, began to slump until now, the interscholastic games draw no better than would a scheduled bout between Joe Louis and the president of the W.
C. T. U.

Solution to the financial problem which has sprung from the situation seems to be the formation of some kind of a league and the geographical setup in this section seems to be ideal for a New Castle County loop, composed of schools outside of Wilmington.

Claymont, Conrad, New Castle, and Newark are the five teams which come to mind at first thought and if a shortage of schools develops, there would be no objection to moving into the metropolitan area and plucking out one of the smaller institutions such as Alexis I. duPont or Brown Vocational.

NICK MENTRE, SPORTS EDITOR
for the New Castle County Gazette, who nurses a hobby of digging into the files for a little bit of past history, expended a few extra calories last week and popped up with a complete summary of New Castle High School
Newark games played since 1920.

In the 45 games played during that period, the vanquished has fallen on 14 occasions by a one-point margin, while four tilts have been decided by two points. Trailing in the series with only 17 victories since it started, the Yellowjackets racked up a 28-25 conquest last Friday for their first win over the Mud-Flatters since 1937.

It's too bad that the triumph meant nothing more than a win over just another team on the schedule.

WHEN FLUCIE STEWART DEparts for the land of sunshine and his Tampa University assignment, he'll take with him an engraved cigarette lighter, a gift from the University of Delaware basketball team. . . Capt.
Bill Gerow made the presentation on behalf of the squad and made a very pretty presentation speech (we are told) even without the aid of a course in public speaking.

The Hens seem to be unanimous in the opinion that a Swarthmore victory would've gone with the gift also, had not a big little Quaker been too many places at one time. According to reports, something also went wrong with the officials' eyes once three fouls had been called on the fast-moving Swarthmore guard. His fourth and final offense was not called until the waning minutes of the ball game.

REMAINING FAVORITES ADVANCE IN ANNUAL BILLIARD CHAMPIONSHIP

Eubanks, Walls, And Johnson Cop Victories To Stay In Running; Beck Continues March With Hard-Earned Victory Over Stiltz

Five cue-wielders moved into the quarter-final round of Jimmy Martin's annual billiard championship tournament as the remaining favorites managed to stave off threats of underdogs and up-sets were reported at a minimum.

First-round results in the handicap affair painted a troublesome picture for the top-ranking players as three of the six scratch performers were knocked off. The other three, Bob Walls, Harvey Johnson, and Leonard Eubanks, have settled down, however, and seem to be fairly well entrenched in their positions.

Walls, who was victorious over Pinky Gravener in the first round, spotted Charles (Spike) Daly, last year's title holder, 20 balls, but handed him a 100-54 trouncing when the 1940 king ran into a bit of hard luck. He will concede a handicap of 20 balls to Jack Sanders in the quarter-final round.

Harvey Johnson, in his first match of the tournament, overcame a 15-ball handicap to set back Newt Sheaffer, 100-84, while Eubanks hurled a 30-ball handicap to down Walter McElwee, 100-85.

Still on the warpath, Woodrow Wilson Beck, who last week upset Jack Daly, the tournament favorite, used a five-ball concession to good advantage and turned back Eddie Stiltz by a 100-86 count. He will meet Eddie Morgan, who registered a 100-78 conquest over Alfred Maclary with the aid of a five-ball handicap, in the quarterfinal round.

Sanders spilled the dope bucket in a mid upset when he turned back Leslie Eklund, 100-94. Both were given handicaps of 20 balls. In another first-round engagement, Walter Nichols moved out to meet Eubanks via a 100-89 conquest over Leroy Hill. Nichols was given a five-ball advantage.

Following is a complete picture of the tournament thus far:

NEWARK DEFEATED

Middletown Five
Turns In 35-23
Win Over Jackets

Taking the lead soon after the opening tap-off, the Middletown High School basketball team turned in a 35-23 victory over Newark Tuesday night on the local court.

Sporting a 13-8 first-half margin, the invaders set a faster pace in the closing canto to walk off with the victory.
Newark was outscored 16-9 from the field, but led 5-3 from the penalty stripe.

Buckworth and Jones were the leading scorers for Middletown, the former scoring 12 points to take individual honors. Barnes, with seven points, led Newark.

In the preliminary contest, the local junior varsity trounced the Middletown substitutes, 28-8. Dunsmore, with six action shots, paced the local contingent to the conquest.

Wilmington Duo Hands Local Pair Setbacks

Two of Wilmington's crack bowlers, Jim Price and Bob Dickinson, handed a local duo, Kinsey Whiteman and Morris Adams, an impressive setback in a special match on the American Legion alleys Saturday night. The invading pinmen rolled up a grand total of 2,032 pins in five games while the local pair was limited to 1,847.

High game of the series was turned in by Dickinson who turned in a 276-total for his second game.

A return match will be staged at the Worth Steel Alleys, Claymont, Saturday night at eight o'clock.

JACKETS REGISTER WIN OVER NEW CASTLE

Locals Stage
Second-Half
Rally To Turn
In Triumph

Staging a last-quarter rally that was sparked by Jim Duffy, the local's leading scorer of the season, Coach Bill Gillespie's Newark High School cagers turned in a much-desired 28-25 victory over New Castle, Friday night on the latter's court.

The Jackets trailed all through the first half which ended with the Mudflatters holding a 14-12 margin.

Coach Johnny Roman's charges held on to the slim lead during the third period, although Newark shaved the margin to 20-19, and midway through the final quarter, the locals knotted the score and finally went ahead for the remainder of the battle.

Russell of Wilmington Penn was the scoring leader with six field goals and three fouls for 15 points, while Duffy paced Newark with 13 points.

studies and spectators. I stopped up twice the other week-end and they had three classes running at the same time with three sets of judges on the job. One was afraid to step for fear he would step on a beagle; they were everywhere. When you attend a beagle trial don't step on any of the little fellows because this is a sure way to become very unpopular and I don't blame them because I would not like for anyone to start kicking my dog around, would you? It is the intention of this program to list the Field Trial calendar of the state each week. If the many Field Trial Club secretaries will furnish the data, New Castle and Kent will have their field trials and field trial clubs, and it would not surprise me one bit to see one crop up down in Sussex during 1941, because those boys around Georgetown, Laurel and Seaford are getting some good dogs, and they will be aching to prove whose is the best before long.

Think of Your Dog

In the way, are you adding a few warm blankets to the bed these winter months? Most likely you have because many of us care to sleep cold and in addition to being uncomfortable it is unhealthy. While thinking about your own comfort, have you given any thought to the welfare and comfort of your canine pal, who served you so faithfully in the fields this fall? Check on your dog house tomorrow. A little added bedding might help and stop up those cracks and put an old bag or bag over the door. You can make it at no cost and with little effort. Stop at your local grocers on your way and pick up one or two cardboard cartons, rip them apart and tack them to the inside walls of your dog house. You will be surprised to learn how much warmer they will make it. Move the house to some sheltered position, facing the south if possible. Good kennels and proper food will do much toward keeping your dog in comfort throughout the winter months. All the vaccines and medicine you will see you next week.

HYBRID CORN PIONEERS HONORED ON 25TH ANNIVERSARY

The celebration of the 25th Anniversary of the first commercial shipment of hybrid corn in the Corn Belt was observed at Bloomington, Illinois, recently. Mr. E. D. Funk, president and Dr. J. R. Holbert, vice-president of Funk Bros. Seed Co. who made this historical shipment were presented with a huge basket of chrysanthemums by Mr. O. J. Sommer, prominent Corn Belt farmer and seedsman. The occasion for the presentation was a convention of the Funk Company together with Associate Growers and District Sales Supervisors from all over the Corn Belt. The speech made by Mr. Sommer which accompanied the presentation has been called one of the most beautiful tributes ever made. Its text follows:

"A long time ago in the city of Athens there lived a sculptor named Pygmalion. Even in his teens he had won renown as an artist, and a group of wealthy patrons presented him with a very large and expensive block of ivory. He knew this work was to be his masterpiece, and he cast about for the one thing that would justify his working on such expensive material.

"Deciding upon the statue of a girl, Pygmalion began—pouring his heart and soul into his work. The more he toiled on the statue, the more she seemed to take on something like personality. He named her Galatea, and as he worked, he chattered to her. Even before she had no more than put her little toes out of the ivory, he flattered and encouraged her by saying that she was going to be a very remarkable girl. He was invited to carve other statues, of several prominent politicians, but he said he could not leave Galatea. He went ragged, working from dawn to dark as the girl became more and more precious to him.

"One day in late-afternoon twilight in the Fall, he stepped back with mallet and chisel in hand and said: 'Now, Galatea, I have done everything I can for you.' He walked up to the statue, knelt, and wrapped his arms around it. He felt a stir, and, looking up, he saw Galatea's lips parted in a smile.

"She put her arms around his neck and kissed him. Because of his devotion and sacrifice Galatea had found life. Pygmalion arose, and they walked down the pathway of life together.

"Thirty years ago on the great fertile plains of Illinois an experienced seedsman was working with his corn. The value of his experiments was always based upon this—Is it practical? He was always noted for being able to surround himself with men of intelligence and ability and men of practical knowledge. This man of experience in his search found a young man in whom he saw great possibilities—a man trained and full of ambition. He brought him into his own home. They lived under the same roof, they put their feet under the same table and together they pledged themselves to the improvement of the Nation's greatest crop—Corn.

"The seedsman furnished the block of ivory—great broad fertile fields, and charged the young man to carve out a better corn than ever had been produced. The young man brought with him the nucleus of an idea that had been pigeonholed by others as impractical. It still seemed practical to him and under the guidance and experience of the elder they forged ahead. What a team they made!

"On the off side—youth, ambition, enthusiasm, energy, and effort. On the near side—age, experience, inspiration, and guidance. Under their scientific research, possibilities soon began to unfold, and as early as 1916, 25 years ago, the pair had already placed some choice hybrids on the market.

"Like Pygmalion, these men lived, worked and breathed their ambition. A part of themselves went into their production. Their product became a personality. Like Pygmalion these men refused offers of wealth and station. One was offered a position in the President's Cabinet, and the other positions in the Nation's Agriculture. They answered in effect as did General Nehemiah 3,000 years ago, 'I am doing a great work so that I cannot come. Why should the work cease, while I leave it, and come down to you?'

"Today after 25 years of intensive work, this team has produced inbreds and outstanding hybrids that grow from dominion to gulf and from sea to sea and in every county where corn is grown. Like Pygmalion's Galatea, the fruit of their labors has reached out and embraced not only them but also the people of all lands and has brought beauty, stability, blessing, respect, and dignity to the agricultural profession.

"If the man who makes two blades of grass grow where but one grew before is a public benefactor, then surely these men who have made two good ears of corn grow where but one mediocre ear grew before must belong to a class even beyond that of benefactor.

"History honors its military leaders who can maneuver men, machines, and ships in such a way that countless thousands of men and millions of machines are destroyed. History should also honor men who make great contributions to our public welfare and who add to our natural resources in civil affairs. A niche should be preserved in the Hall of Fame for the men whom we are pleased to honor today. They should be given their place besides the Captains of Industry, Statesmen and Military Leaders.

"We of all organizations—we of all people should feel highly honored that we have these men in our organization—that they are our friends and that we have the privilege of associating with them.

"And now Mr. Funk and Dr. Holbert we honor you today because you have brought us the Agricultural Miracle of the Century—Hybrid Corn.

"We cannot repay you for your efforts and your contribution in our behalf. We do pledge our loyalty to you and give you an expression of our continued faith and confidence.

"And now as we are gathered here to celebrate the 25th anniversary of your achievement, on behalf of the members of this organization, it gives me great pleasure to present this small token of our appreciation and goodwill."

DIVERSION OF AUTO FUND IS DANGEROUS

Georgia Loses Federal Grant, According To H. V. Daniel

The withdrawal of over $500,000 in federal highway aid from Georgia as a penalty for excessive diversion of road funds to non-highway purposes, should serve as a warning to Delaware, H. V. Daniel, secretary, Associated Petroleum Industries of Delaware, said today. The federal highway aid law provides that as much as one-third of a state's allotment of funds may be withdrawn if the state oversteps the diversion line. Two other states, Massachusetts and New Jersey, previously have lost federal highway aid allotments because of misapplications of automotive tax funds.

"The diversion of automotive tax funds to non-highway purposes is widely condemned as an unsound public policy. Sentiment against the practice is growing stronger each year. Congress has branded the diversion of road funds as 'unfair and unjust,' and by providing penalties in the law, is attempting to discourage the practice," said Mr. Daniel.

"With the Delaware Legislature now in session, an increasing number of citizens and groups of highway users are insisting that now is the time for Delaware to reconsider its policies in respect to the practice of using automotive tax funds for non-highway purposes, and to this end the legislature is being asked to exclude motor fund revenues from the provisions of the act passed at the last session which merged all special funds under the General Fund.

"Eleven states have now enacted constitutional amendments guaranteeing the use of automotive tax funds exclusively on highways and there is a growing opinion that Delaware should get in step with these other states in the march against diversion."
