History's Realities Not Yet Recorded, Says Dr. Speer

Calls Motherhood Greatest Influence
In The World Today; Prominent
Missionary Opens Sunday Evening Series

HALL CROWDED TO DOORS

Before an audience which filled the auditorium and eddied out into the lobby of Wolf Hall, Dr. Robert E. Speer, secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, delivered the first sermon in connection with the Summer School on Sunday evening.

Dr. Speer talked for nearly an hour and held the close attention of his listeners. While the sermon was built about several separate phases, he took for his main point, encouragement of the principle of helping fellow men, and the glory which is never touched by the spotlight of history.

"The great realities of History," said Dr. Speer, "have never been set down in the records."

Cities Many Instances

In following up this trend of his sermon, the minister gave numerous examples, which he used to prove his contention that many of the great figures of History were swept to fame by the swift passing of events, that their personal fame merely epitomized the great struggles of the masses supporting them.

More than ever, Dr. Speer said, the world is coming to respect the everyday citizens, workman—the maker of history. He argued that there were infinitely more famous men and women who are yet unknown than grace the pages of history books today. He cited, for example, the power of mothers as against that of soldiers; of politicians against teachers.

In the first example, he described Motherhood as the "greatest power for good in the world." He said that if mothers banded together in every nation, the future generations could, and would, alter the social and economic status everywhere.

He paid a high compliment to several individuals, both British and American, whose lives were living examples of praiseworthy self sacrifice.

Teachers the world over are doing a great work, he claimed. Little of his talk was devoted to Missionary work, however. He spoke of teachers in the general sense, paying a high tribute to the good they are doing everywhere.

In conclusion he urged a continued fight for more education throughout the world; to live one's life in a Christian manner, and to let no mirage of fame and fortune in the material sense, detract from the ever glorious work of aiding one's fellows.

Re-Surfacing Started

The regular quarterly communion of the Lord's Supper will be observed at Head of Christiana Presbyterian Church, Sunday, July 5th, at 11 a. m. New members will be received and the sacrament of baptism administered.

LOCAL TRUST CO. TO DOUBLE CAPITAL

At a special meeting of the stockholders of the Farmers Trust Company of Newark, to be held at the bank on June 14th next, a proposal to increase the capital stock of the institution from $50,000 to $100,000 will be presented for approval. J. Earl Dougherty, treasurer of the company, stated today that such action was necessary to take care of the great increase in business during the past few years. In anticipation of a continued increase, additional working capital will be needed.

Further announcement of the meeting will be found on another page of The Post this week.

LAST LINK OPENED ON DU PONT HIGHWAY

New Bridge Across Drawyer's Creek Completes Road To End of State.

The du Pont Boulevard now stretches uninterrupted 109 miles through Delaware linking up the entire state with the finest improved concrete highway. The last link of the $4,000,000 road built and presented to the State by Senator T. Coleman du Pont was opened recently at old Drawyer's Church, near Odessa. It is no finished, however, as it is to be surfaced in the near future.

This last link straightens out a curve and carries the du Pont Boulevard across Drawyer's Creek on a new bridge. For sometime motorists have had to pass over a section of the old State Highway at Drawyer's Creek to get into the north or south sections of the new road.

TROUBLE WITH MOTORS

Overloading By Pumps May Be Cause Here, Say Investigators

Two field men from the staff of the Allis-Chalmers Company, manufacturers of engines and pumps, met with Mayor Frazer and former Councilman Beales here yesterday, and discussed the problem at the local water plant. Motors there have become overheated while operating the pumps, and it was thought necessary to investigate the matter. It was reported from the conference that the overheating may be due to too great a load on the motors. Further examination and a remedy will be made this week.

13 Foreign Students Sail From New York Saturday

Several Local People To See Delaware
Group Off For Year's Work In French Universities

Thirteen young men and women, including two newly added members, comprising the 1925 group of Delaware's foreign students, sail at noon Saturday on the French Liner "Roussillon" from New York, bound for Bordeaux, France. Dr. Hullahen stated today that one or two others may join the group later.

The students will meet in New York on Friday and will likely be tendered a dinner by University authorities on the eve of their departure. Their headquarters will be the St. James Hotel.

One Newark girl will make the trip. She is Miss Kathryn Hubert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Hubert. Miss Hubert has made an enviable record during her first two years at the Women's College here, and her many friends wish her a prosperous year abroad. She is a graduate of Newark High School.

The first of a large group of friends will leave for New York tomorrow. Dr. and Mrs. Hullahen will be there tomorrow night. On Friday A. G. Wilkinson will arrive, and Professor George E. Brinton, who will have charge of the details of getting the group off, will be in New York early Friday morning. Dean Winifred J. Robinson will chaperone the party as far as Paris, then will take a short vacation trip over the continent.

The members of the group leaving Saturday are: Miss R. M. Larsen, University of Montana; Miss Alice Whitcomb, Western College for Women; Miss Ruth Wolf, N. J. College for Women; Miss Edith Bogdanoff, Women's College, U. of D.; Miss Katherine Hubert, Women's College, U. of D.; Miss Kathryn Krauss, Women's College, U. of D.; Hayford Enwall, University of Florida; John B. Dale, U. of D.; Max Gluck, U. of D.; E. B. Berry, U. of D.; J. Durant Stroud, U. of D.; J. C. Pool, U. of D.; Courtland Eyer, U. of D.

Slight Fire Today

The Aetna firemen responded to an alarm shortly after noon today. A slight blaze was smothered in a house near White Clay Creek road. The damage was negligible.

"WE hold these truths to be self-evident—that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

Charles Blest Winner Of Free Car Saturday

Local Boy Carries Off Prize Late In Evening; Over $1500 Cleared By Lodgemen, Is Report

Charles Blest, young impresario of the Newark Opera House, where he has held forth for several years, was the winner of the Overland Sedan, given away Saturday night last as the closing feature of the Red Men-Heptashops Carnival on the Academy grounds here. "Benny," as he is known to many, was overjoyed at his luck and lost no time in getting the car into his own backyard, late the same evening. He has been recently engaged in moving picture work at Rehoboth.

A great crowd attended the carnival on its closing night. The people milled about the various booths, spending freely and seeming to enjoy hugely the first open air carnival of the local season.

A cedar chest was won by Mrs. John Stengle during the evening. Mrs. William Wideman was the winner of a large set of dishes, also given away.

Chairman William Armstrong, of the Carnival committee, announced Monday evening that the affair would show a net profit of $1500 or over to be split between the two lodges. This, he said, is in excess of last year's carnival by $300 to $400.

The members of the lodges were busy Monday evening tearing down the stands. The merry-go-round quietly folded up and left town Saturday night, cheerfully "taking the road" to make hundreds of additional kiddies happy with its wheezy organ and erratic old engine.

Y. W. C. A. CAMP

Several Newark Girls Will Be Enrolled This Summer

Among the Newark girls who are expected to attend the State Y. W. C. A. camp on Indian River this season are Misses Margaret Vinsinger, Katherine Townsend and Josephine Hoesinger.

The camp is located near Sandy Landing, six miles from Dagsboro. It has been entirely rebuilt on land given to the "Y" by Senator and Mrs. Coleman du Pont. Girls will be there from every town in the state. It will be the largest encampment in recent years.

Dr. and Mrs. Hullahen, of the University of Delaware, will entertain the Summer School faculty and students at a reception at their home, The Knoll, Thursday afternoon, from 5 to 6 o'clock.

Girl Plays Wedding March For Friend Married Two Hours Later In Same Church

Two hours after she played the wedding march at the Harter-Kumler ceremonies in St. Thomas Church here Monday evening, Miss Dorothy Mathews, daughter of the rector of the church, and organist there, was quietly married to Mr. Ellwood Rowens, of Easton, Maryland.

The ceremony was quietly performed by her father, Rev. R. B. Mathews. There were no attendants, and a few close relatives were the only witnesses. Rumors indicated that Miss Mathews

Canal Tragedy Laid To Construction Co.

Coroner's Jury Blames Dravo Firm for Not Taking More Safety Measures

The Dravo Constructing Company, canal contractors, at an inquest held by Coroner Wadman Monday night, was held responsible for the deaths of G. W. Hurd, of Blackbird; Lewis Wilson, colored, of Cecilton, Md.; and Clifford Wilford, colored, of Mt. Pleasant, who were killed by a cave-in at Summit Bridge, on the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal, June 18. A number of witnesses were heard and in spite of the denial of the dredging company superintendent that negligence had been shown by the evidence offered, the verdict of culpability was returned. The three victims were employees of the Dravo Company and were working in a cofferdam when the cave-in occurred. The verdict was returned after a deliberation of several hours, during which Assistant City Engineer Alfred S. Hirzel, who was a member of the jury, went into detail and offered expert advice on the construction of the cofferdam which is said to have collapsed following a slide of earth, burying the men.

According to Mr. Hirzel and other members of the jury who also have been engaged in construction work, having been selected with much care by Coroner Wadman, the tragedy would have been averted if the Dravo Company had taken additional precautions in constructing the cofferdam.

BIBLE SCHOOL OPENS

Presbyterian Church Scene Of Vacation Sessions

Under the supervision of Rev. H. Everett Hallman, the first session of the Vacation Bible School opened Monday of this week in the Presbyterian Church here.

The work is in charge of Miss Sara Steel, assisted by Miss Ida MacMurray. A large enrollment is reported.

FIRE AT COLLEGE FARM

Grass Ablaze, But Firemen Not Needed Sunday

Fearing that the blaze might get out of control and endanger the buildings, a call was sent from the Experiment Station Farm here Sunday afternoon to the Aetna Company. The firemen made a quick run to the scene, but the volunteer workmen had the fire practically out. Little damage was done.

MISS CANNON TELLS STORY OF HONORS GAINED AT OXFORD

DENIES REPORT THAT MILL IS CLOSED DOWN

W. Ray Baldwin, Head of Elk
Mills Concern, Supervising
Inventory; Plans Expansion

Reports to the effect that the Elk Mills Fabric Company, of which William Ray Baldwin is president, has closed its doors have been branded as untrue by Mr. Baldwin. In a statement to Wilmington papers last week he stated that the company had more orders than can be filled at the present time.

The company is planning to expand and at present is taking inventory, during which time operation of the plant is suspended and plans are being perfected for the expansion. Another feature of the shutting down of the plant is the lack of raw material, due to the pending opening of the new plant of the du Pont Rayon Company in Virginia.

Mr. Baldwin stated that in view of the improvements to be made to the plant, he regarded the inventory period as a good time to perfect the expansion plans.

Operation of the plant will be resumed on July 6, running night and day. Starting July 1, Mr. Baldwin has contracted for new and larger supplies of raw materials, the contract to run to the first of next year. New machinery and equipment will be included in the expansion plans.

Inspection Trip Ends Ag Teachers' Conference

Instructors' Visit Projects Carried On By Newark Boys Yesterday; Entertained By Prof. Heim

With the day spent in an inspection tour of three farm projects being carried on by pupils of the High School here, the sixth annual conference of State Agriculture Instructors came to a close yesterday afternoon, following a very profitable two-day session.

Monday was spent in round table discussions, interspersed with several short talks, held in the office of R. W. Heim, director for vocational education. Yesterday the teachers, accompanied by several visitors, visited the projects of George Cook and Ralph Buckingham, who are carrying on swine raising; then on to visit Joseph Rupp's experiment in raising calves. The group was in charge of Horace A. Nunn, agricultural instructor in the Newark High School. That the trip was of great practical value was certified by the interest taken in it by both the boys and the older instructors. The conference came to a close upon the return to Newark. While here the teachers from down State were housed in the Sigma Phi Epsilon house.

CHURCH IS 101 YEARS OLD

Social Services To Be Held At Ebenezer Sunday Next

A large number of people are expected to attend the 101st anniversary services, to be held Sunday, at Ebenezer Church, north of Newark.

The morning sermon will be preached by the Rev. Frank Herson, of Newark. In the evening the pastor, Rev. Gilbert T. Gehman, will occupy the pulpit. Further announcements will be found in the church column in this week's Post.

CHANGES HANDS AGAIN

East Main Street Restaurant Deserted Again Recently

The Newark Inn on East Main Street was again left without a rudimentary last week, when a firm of Wilmingtonians suddenly departed and left Francis B. Moore, owner, holding the bag.

Mr. Moore, who leased the restaurant to both Ira Kilmon and the Wilmington men, only to see both "stand from under," in managing the hostelry himself now.

First Direct Word Received From Only Woman To Receive Honorary Degree At Famous English University.

PRESENTED TO KING AND QUEEN

Delaware Woman Feted By Country's Leading Astronomers

The Post prints herewith the first direct authentic story of the honors conferred recently by Oxford University, England, upon Miss Annie Jump Cannon, America's greatest woman astronomer.

The following is an excerpt from a letter received this week by Mrs. Hester C. Levis, of Newark, a sister of Miss Cannon. In a very delightful manner, it describes the string of formal and informal ceremonies, incident to receiving a degree at Oxford. Most of the details of the Convocation have not as yet been made public in this country.

Miss Cannon has been a frequent visitor in Newark, and is well known by many residents. She is a native of Dover. The Post is indebted to Mrs. Levis for her kindness in allowing the letter to be published.

Preceded by several paragraphs describing preparations for the conferring of the degree, the letter goes on as follows:

Tuesday was the day! It broke clear and cooler for which I was thankful after trying on the gown, heavy scarlet cloth with gray silk sleeves and trimming. Miss Herschel, daughter of Sir John, came from Slough for lunch with us, and we drove to the Convocation House just before 2. It was well filled with men in academic dress and visitors, among them Mrs. Tappan, Miss Taply, and two friends, Mr. Ogden, Mr. and Mrs. Tierney and Anna (Mrs. Hindman's niece). It was a dignified scene. The candidates stood in an ante-room. There were three men, and three women. The other two only had degree of M. A. I am the only woman to have an Honorary Doctor from Oxford.

When my name was called by the Vice-Chancellor enthroned in a high chair on a platform, four bedels marched in single file solemnly out after me. I walked behind them to where they stopped, stepping aside leaving me alone but instantly the Public Orator stepped forth, standing beside me on the left. He commenced at once his Latin speech in a loud voice. It was very clever. I will send a complete translation when I get it. He said I had classified 5,000 as many stars as there are states in the New Atlantis, and quoted a poetry bit, just as a Mother guards her little children, so I cared for the faintest stars. Some of it was humorous and the Latin scholars laughed. On the conclusion of the Public Orator's speech, the Vice-Chancellor arose, tipping his Oxford cap, (this is also done by him and the two Proctors beside him each and every time the University or its statutes are mentioned) and asked in Latin if the degree shall be granted to "Annan Cannonam." No dissenting voice was raised. He extended his hand. I mounted the steps, shook hands and took a seat in the charmed circle. It was over for me.

The other two women came in together. The day was cooler and perfect. Those gowns are so heavy and hot I was glad of the coolness. After the ceremony, I held a little reception in the ante-room. We went back to Huntercombe. I put on my Budd gown, and we all went to the Radcliffe Observatory where they had a garden party for me. Sir Frank and Lady Dyson came out for the occasion, and the Plashetts, also. At 7.30 came the dinner given me by the Turners at New College Commons. There were fourteen, the Vice-Chancellor at one end Turner at other. I sat on Prof. Turner's right, Sir Frank on my right, Lady Sherrington on his left. The Dysons were there and several other (Continued on Page 4.)

Three Newark Boys Shoot Well At Plattsburg; Baseball Team Expects To Win Banner

Reports from the R. O. T. C. encampment at Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y., where sixty odd Delaware boys are taking the six weeks' summer course, indicate that some high rifle scores will be hung up by the Blue Hen marksmen before the record shooting is finished.

Three Newark boys, Robert O. Hayes, Murray Hanson and Floyd Hubert, are making some exceptional scores in practice and look good to land on the Delaware team in the intercollegiate match. Others showing up well are: Leroy M. Hartsch, Wilmington; Francis W. Barkley, Wilmington; W. N. Cannon, Cannon; Stanley R. VanDyke, Lincoln; Raymond R. Atkins, Lewes; Owen Evans, Cheswold, and James W. Marshall, Lewes.

A large percentage of the Delaware boys have volunteered for participation in the record pistol fire matches, and they will be given an opportunity to exhibit their prowess either next Wednesday afternoon, which is an off-afternoon, or on the following Wednesday.

The inter-collegiate rifle matches will be held some time this week, and Delaware's chances are exceptionally bright. Delaware won the matches last year and should repeat under the guidance of Captain Morse. The twelve highest scorers will compose

YOUNGSTERS STAGE NOISY FARWELL PARTY

P. R. R. Passengers Have Visions of Embarrassed Newlyweds, But Are Disappointed.

Passengers on a south bound P. R. R. train arriving here about nine o'clock Sunday evening, had visions of newlyweds for their traveling companions until two young girls, very much out of breath, and showered with rice, climbed aboard with their baggage. With the non-appearance of the grooms, the passengers settled back in their seats again, victims of a good joke.

The two young ladies were Louise and Frances Hullahen, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Hullahen of Newark, enroute to Camp Allegheny, West Virginia, to the summer camp there.

The very realistic "wedding send-off" was staged on their departure by a number of young friends in several cars. Dangling tin cans, and a great blowing of horns, heralded their arrival at the station. Then came rice and confetti as the train pulled in. Residents of the lower Depot road section were certain a wedding party was at the station. There was plenty of fun for all concerned, and it proved a gay joke on the two girls.

GLASGOW

Miss Marion Titter and Mr. George Rothrock, of Wilmington, spent Saturday evening with Mrs. Flora Brooks.

Those who spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith were Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Rutter and children and Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Young and daughter, of Chester, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson and children spent Sunday with Mrs. J. C. Barr.

A little daughter came to brighten the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jackson, Sunday morning. Both mother and child are doing nicely.

Those who spent Sunday with Mrs. Flora Brooks were: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cavander, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Golt of Summit, and Noble Golt of St. Georges.

Mrs. Ed. Wilson, who was taken to the P. and S. Hospital, Wilmington, is showing improvement.

APPLETON

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin C. Miles and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Purnell and son Calvin, all of Elkton, Md., were entertained on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Miles.

Mr. and Mrs. John Atkinson and Miss Mary Atkinson motored to Coochs Bridge last Sunday week and called on friends there.

Mrs. Maggie Maxwell, Wilmington, has been spending some time at the Mr. Robert Mathias home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Scott and children journeyed to Zion, Md., on Sunday and called on Dr. Miller.

Mr. William Mathias, Doe Run, Pa., and Mrs. Lucy Shriner, Wilmington, the camp team which will be sent for a month to Camp Perry next August to represent the Second Corps area against representatives from the eight other corps areas.

Plans are under way for inter-company baseball. With Earl Pryor, Delaware's pitching ace, in the ranks, and with such seasoned material as McVaugh, Prettyman, Pikus, Cherpak, Lord, Hayes, Beck, Maxwell, Ash, and H. L. King to draw from Company B has an excellent chance of coping the title. A camp team will be selected and will play against some of the amateur teams in the vicinity.

were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Peterson and daughter Nina, near Kembleville, Pa.

Miss Maggie Duncan, Wilmington, spent a few days last week with her sister, Mrs. Edmund Miles.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Scott and son, Leroy, Fair Hill, Md., spent Sunday at the home of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. George Leak, Wilmington, visited with Mr. and Mrs. William Scott on Sunday last.

Mrs. Elizabeth Scott had as her Sunday guests relatives from Philadelphia.

Messrs Charles Miles and John Finnegan were Elkton, Md., visitors last Saturday.

Mr. Robert E. Minner, Chester, Pa., was a Saturday visitor of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nimrod Minner.

STANTON GRANGE

Diamond State Grange, of Stanton, Monday evening, decided to hold social meetings during the summer months. The first social will be held next Monday evening at the home of Edward McDowell, near Ogletown. It will be a package party, the proceeds to be used to obtain prizes for the annual field day of the grange, which will be held at Lenape Park, on July 16th.

EXPECT HUGE CROWD AT NEW SPEEDWAY

If advance ticket sales and hotel reservations in Washington and Baltimore may be accepted as a criterion, there will be a record-breaking attendance of persons interested in the development of the automobile as it will be revealed in the course of the world's championship motor race scheduled for the Baltimore-Washington speedway near Laurel, Md., July 11th.

While the new track, rated as the fastest in the world, is expected to attract thousands of sportsmen, particular interest centers in that portion of the attendance which will be composed of engineers, manufacturers, inventors, accessory builders and car owners who recognize in the motor speedway idea the basis for further progress in motor development.

According to those close to the tech-

First President Was John Hansen (By National Press)

Who was the first President of the United States? If we add the words "In Congress Assembled," it was not George Washington, but John Hansen, of Maryland, who first bore that title under the Articles of Confederation which preceded the present national Constitution.

In the July number of the National Republic, H. O. Bishop sketches the interesting and useful career of this eminent Marylander. He was a leader in the movement for national independence, and was responsible for keeping Maryland out of the confederation of colonies until Virginia, New York and Connecticut surrendered their claims on the "back country" which later became the Northwest Territory and finally a great group of states of the Union.

nical details of the track,—built at a cost of nearly a half million dollars—it is likely that Peter de Paolo, Tommy Milton, Earl Cooper, Bennie Hill, Harry Hart, Fred Comer, or any one of the many other speedway stars who will compete, will show an average speed of 128 miles an hour for the 250-mile grind.

DEAN ROBINSON SAILS FROM N. Y. TOMORROW

Will Look After Arrangements for Girls in Foreign Study Group.

Dean Winifred J. Robinson will leave on July 2 for New York where she will meet the fourteen members of the Foreign Study group who will sail with her on the Steamer Roussillon, French Line, July 4, for Bordeaux, France. Professor Raymond W. Kirkbride will await the party at Bordeaux and they will proceed with him to Nancy where the students will enter the University for the summer quarter.

Dean Robinson will visit the University of Grenoble and the University of Toulouse and then proceed to Paris. There she will be in conference with Miss Virginia Newcomb of the International Institute of Education, Professor Florence D. White of Vassar College, Miss Louise L. Fast, Director of the American University Women's Club, and others as to work to be pursued by the young women of the party and their residence quarters when studying at the Sorbonne in Paris. After these arrangements have been made Miss Robinson hopes to take a short trip through the chateau country in northern France by way of vacation. In this she will be joined by Miss May Sharp of Wilmington and Lewes. She will return the latter part of August.

ELKTON

The grand officers of the Grand Lodge of Maryland paid a visit to National Lodge, Odd Fellows, last Friday evening.

Rev. Frank Douglas Milbury, associate pastor of Elkton M. E. Church, preached in the West Amwell Chapel last Sunday afternoon, at 2:30.

George Kline has opened a fruit store in the room recently vacated by John W. McCool, Jr. Mr. McCool is now occupying his new store in the post office building just erected on North Street.

A Daily Vacation Bible School has been opened in the Church House, with an enrollment of about one hundred, in charge of Rev. W. G. Harris, Rev. F. Douglas Milbury and a corps of teachers. The first session was held Monday morning. The school will last about three weeks.

Mrs. M. Alice Jaquette spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. C. Wimer Witworth.

Mrs. C. M. Boulden is entertaining her sister, Mrs. D. Rutherford, of Harrisburg, Pa.

Mrs. David Scott has as her guest her mother, Mrs. M. H. Hooper, of Baltimore.

Mrs. H. M. McCullough entertained her niece, Miss Ethel Brady, of Middletown, Del., last week.

Miss Elizabeth Johnson has been entertaining her sister, Mrs. W. D. Price, of Queenstown, Md.

Mrs. Mary Tull and Miss Roberta Tull are spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tull, at Williamsport, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Decker entertained a large number of friends on Thursday evening, in honor of their sixth wedding anniversary.

Miss Dorothy Vandiver, daughter of the late Murray Vandiver, of Harford County, and William P. Waters, of Elkton, were married in Baltimore last week.

Dr. and Mrs. Howard Bratton are enjoying a visit from their son, Lieut. Howard Bratton, of North Dakota.

James Mortimer West, Jr., of Elkton, chemist for the Radnor Pulp Works, was married June 20 to Miss Grace Ballinger, of Chestnut Hill, Pa., by the Rev. J. S. Ladd Thomas, D. D., of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Germantown.

Lincoln Jensen and Miss Viola Boulden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Boulden, were married at the Elkton M. E. parsonage, on Saturday evening, by Rev. W. G. Harris. They will reside in Elkton.

Elkton Paper Supports
A Lot But Do Not Contribute To
Firemen; Issue Coming To Head

As each summer season rolls around, the annual discussion pro and con, of the merits of the Carnival, as applied to the week-long entertainments for the benefit of various fire companies in this section, commences.

Considerable feeling is being expressed on both sides in Elkton and Cecil County. Rumbles of protest have been heard, it is reported. Church people, especially, are said to be up in arms over the continuance of the carnivals, calling particular attention to the "wheels," which some claim, is little short of gambling.

Paper Takes Stand

In the middle of the discussion, the "Cecil Democrat," of which Mrs. George R. Ash is editress, cuts loose with a double-leaded editorial in last week's issue. Part of the editorial is herewith reprinted:

"The agitation of the annual carnival is upon us in full force. To be held or not to be held.

"One gentleman from up county writes us that 'he was sorry not to see a certain letter regarding Carnivals in the Cecil Democrat, as he understood it was addressed to all the county papers.

"We cannot answer, but for 'The Cecil Democrat.' We received no carnival letter, nor any verbal message upon the subject. But we are willing for our readers to know how we stand on the Carnival question.

"We have patronized and aided

Elkton Post Office
Opens Doors Today

The newly completed post office building in Elkton, opposite the old site on North street, has its formal opening set for today.

The office proper was occupied last night, and everything moved over so that business can be carried on today as usual.

This is the first change in the office in fifty years. Conditions became so congested a few months ago, that it was found absolutely necessary to hunt new quarters. The Post Office Block, built by John McCool, will also house stores and lodge rooms.

the carnivals to the best of our ability in the past and saw no vicious nor pernicious results; we are willing to continue such service as we can give or will co-operate in any other plan for assisting that may be decided upon.

"The Firemen are volunteers, jeopardizing their own health, limbs, and life in the efforts to do good for their fellow-men; and oftentimes only receive harsh criticism, and even condemnation, if they fail, or if they employ some method which may not quite be in accord with the opinion of the onlooker; he or she who stands by with their hands in their pockets, merely criticizing.

"Now when it comes to raising cash for this unselfish and even noble band of men, are those who decry and shout down the Fireman's Carnival going down in their pockets and hand out a contribution of twenty-five or fifty dollars for the carrying on of these most necessary and useful organizations.

"Funds must be available for purchase, maintenance and etc., they must either be earned in some manner or contributed.

"If the carnival is unlawful and illegal and is to be debarred on that account, can't these consistent folks who are opposed to the game of chance and who want it suppressed devise some other scheme, and devote their energies to the furtherance of such, that will bring cash results."

ELKTON FARMER TAKES BRIDE IN BALTIMORE

A surprise marriage was announced last Saturday when Miss Dorothy Vandiver, daughter of the late Murray Vandiver, for years State Treasurer and Democratic leader of Maryland, and William P. Waters, a wealthy farm owner of near Elkton, motored to Baltimore, and were married. The couple are now motoring through Virginia, the former home of Mr. Waters, who recently obtained a divorce from his wife, Elizabeth V. Waters, of University, Va. The couple will reside at White Hall, the country place of the groom, near Elkton.

Think what an awful blow it would be to the Four Hundred if somebody should rove that we all descended from the chimpanzee.

UNKNOWN CAR
DEMOLISHES GATES

Friday morning, about 4 o'clock, a Ford car bearing a Delaware license ran into the gates at the Pennsylvania railroad crossing on North Street, completely demolishing them. A freight train had just passed and the watchman, Mitro Bilen, was about to raise the gates when the car crashed into them with such force that his hand was caught in the cogs and fractured a bone in one finger and bruising his hand and arm. He was sent to Union Hospital and had his wounds dressed. The driver of the auto kept on up the Newark road and it is not known what damage was done to either occupant or the car.

STANTON

The annual Stanton Sunday School picnic of St. James P. E. Church, Stanton, St. Barnabas, Marshallton, and St. James, Newport, was held Monday at Riverview Beach. Members of the party enjoyed bathing and amusements of the park, as well as their picnic dinner.

The Rev. E. A. Rich, pastor of St. James' P. E. Church, together with the Misses Belinda and Elizabeth Boyce, Mary Zebanks and Edward Short attended the Peninsula Summer School held at Ocean City, Md., last week, and returned to their homes here Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Dickey had as their guests on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. R. Earle Dickey, of Christiansa, and R. L. Campbell, of Wilmington.

Have Faith in America

On Independence Day we can well renew our confidence in America, grown so large and powerful since the days of 1776. Our forefathers, in the Declaration of Independence, set an example of courage and staunch faith which has always been an inspiration. This momentous event is a fitting cause for celebration.

GOVERNOR ISSUES CALL FOR DEFENSE DAY

Proclamation for Defense Day, July 4, has been issued by Governor R. P. Robinson, at Dover, as follows:
"WHEREAS, The President of the United States has designated Saturday, July 4, 1925, as Defense Day, and
"WHEREAS, Through mobilization only can this defense be relied upon

"Now, therefore, I, Robert P. Robinson, Governor of the State of Delaware, do proclaim Saturday, July 4, 1925, DEFENSE DAY, and do request and urge all executives of every city, town and community request their citizens as a voluntary act to parade or assemble with a local organization of the Regular Army, National Guard or Organized Reserve and to co-operate in every way in arranging a patriotic demonstration to be held on the National Defense Day.

In witness whereof the great seal of the State of Delaware is hereunto affixed. Witness Robert P. Robinson, Esquire, Governor of the State of Delaware, the nineteenth day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five and in the year of Independence of the United States of America, the one hundred and forty-ninth."

NEWARK, PAST AND PRESENT

A Series Of Sketches, Written In 1882 By James L. Valandigham, Jr., Of The Old Delaware Ledger, In Collaboration With Egbert Handy, And Released For Publication In Serial Form By The Newark Post.

Before the Revolutionary war, Christiana was a place of much more importance than it is now. Being only five miles from Newark, and the head of tide water navigation, a brisk communication was kept up between the two places. It was the place where articles for Philadelphia were shipped; not only from this county, but also from Chester county, Pennsylvania, and from Cecil county, Maryland. At that time vessels of very considerable tonnage could ascend the Christiana creek as far as Christiana. The creek was then much wider and deeper than now, it having been caused to shrink greatly in the last one hundred years by the wasteful and reckless destruction of trees along and near its course. This reckless destruction of the woodland of our country, unless arrested, will yet prove a source of serious discomfort, to use the mildest phrase possible.

Among other causes which should induce the effort to preserve woodland and protect trees, are that their presence distributes moisture imperceptibly through the atmosphere around them, and thereby favorably modifies the climate and effects the health; they increase the rainfall in their immediate vicinity; they preserve the volume of water in the water courses, and also equalize the rise and fall of the streams, preventing serious and sudden overflows and inundations; they also protect us from, and break the force of, violent storms of wind; all these, and other considerations should lead to an earnest effort for the preservation of forests and trees generally.

White Clay creek was at one time navigable, for small vessels, for a mile or two above Stanton. A great many streams, all over the United States, which were navigable even as late as since the commencement of steam navigation, have become utterly useless as water ways for commerce. In many of the tributaries to the Ohio and Mississippi rivers this is especially noticeable. The cause ascribed is the felling of the forests along the banks of the rivers and their tributaries.

One would scarcely suppose that the little hamlet called Ogletown, which is about half way between Newark and Christiana, would have any historical interest connected with it, yet there is but little doubt but that at or near this place a fort was built, long before the war of Independence, by Colonel George Talbot, of Maryland.

Talbot, who was a fiery spirit from old Ireland, and a kinsman of Charles Calvert, the third Lord Baltimore, possessed a patent from his distinguished relative by which he claimed land in Delaware as far east as some distance beyond Ogletown, and included in his claim Iron Hill.

Johnson, in his History of Cecil County, thus speaks of this fort: "it was described by those who had seen it as about thirteen feet long, ten feet wide and covered with slip." The garrison consisted of six or seven men commanded by a man named Murray. They "were esteemed Catholics, and behaved peaceably towards the inhabitants, among whom they frequently went." The object of keeping up this garrison was to enforce the claim of Maryland to territory actually in Delaware.

This ridiculous garrison continued to "hold the fort" for about two years, when the whole command, one cold night, got on a terrible spree and laid out all night. The result was that the respectable army was completely destroyed by whiskey and Jack Frost. They were all so badly frosted that some died and others lost their limbs. Ogletown has not suffered from incursions of men of war since.

"In 1684," says Johnson, "Talbot made a raid upon the plantation of one Joseph Bowle, who lived somewhere east of Iron Hill." Bowle's testimony may be found in the proceedings of the council of Pennsylvania, and is rather amusing reading: he testifies with great naïveté as follows: "about ten days since, Colonel Talbot ridd up to my house and was ready to ride over me and said: 'd—n you, you dog, whom do you seat under here, you dog?' 'You seat under noboddy; you have no warrant from Penn, no, my lord, therefore get you gone or else I'll send you to St. Maries'; and I being frightened, says he, 'you brazen faced impudent, confident dog, I'll shorten Penn's territories bye and bye.'" It is added in the record that "the neighbors said they saw Bowle's land surveyed away." It is not likely that Bowle, however, was permanently evicted, for not a great while after, Talbot got into trouble, was accused of murder, arrested, and lost all power, and the land which he had claimed in Delaware was decided to belong to the Penns, and those who claimed under them.

The father of Mr. John R. Hill, one of our citizens, was living on one of the hills on the north side of White Clay creek at the time the British army advanced through this place, on their way to Chadds Ford. He frequently referred to this interesting period of our history, and gave a graphic account of the martial appearance of the invading army. His recollections attest the correctness of the journal from which we have quoted. He said that the British army commenced passing through Newark before daylight, and that during the whole day there was one unbroken array of cavalry, infantry, artillery, baggage wagons, and ordnance wagons. For several nights before they marched northward, a considerable force was encamped on Iron Hill. They kindled huge fires on its northern slope, and upon its summit. Mr. Hill, from the eminence on which Mr. Warren's house now stands, used to watch them at night. He said that he could tell almost every time they threw a stick of wood on their camp fires, and that as they blazed up, and the troopers gathered around the blaze, or stalked from fire to fire, their forms threw huge shadows on the trees illuminated by the flames, or sometimes were outlined in huge proportions against the sky.

The writer remembers of hearing in boyhood a tradition that there were sixteen Tories around Newark; he often wondered at the exactness of the statement as to numbers. This is probably accounted for by the fact that when the English army searched Newark, sixteen people of the town and neighborhood gave in their adhesion to the king's officers and asked their protection. But the vast majority of our inhabitants were thorough and earnest advocates of Independence.

In 1776 the Rev. Morgan Edwards, a man of fine education and abilities, who was the pastor of the Welsh Tract Baptist church, was arrested by the Whig Committee of Safety of White Clay creek Hundred, and forced to recant the sentiments he had expressed against the cause of American liberty and independence. He was long a resident of Newark. His course, in sympathizing with the Tories, estranged the Baptist congregation from him, and they were not reconciled until after the termination of the struggle.

Captain Kirkwood, the distinguished revolutionary soldier, resided at one time with his sister in this village. He was born in the adjacent Hundred of Mill Creek, and some of his descendants still reside here. His daughter, Mary, married Arthur Whiteley, Esq., of Dorchester county, Maryland. She died in 1850 leaving two children—General R. H. K. Whiteley, of the U. S. Army, and Mrs. Mary A. Martin, who died at this place a short time ago. Captain Kirkwood was indeed a gallant soldier; he greatly distinguished himself during the war for independence. He finally met a soldier's death at St. Clair's defeat, in Ohio, in the year 1791. This was the thirty-third time he had risked his life in battle, and, says Lee (the father of General Robert E. Lee), in his memoirs, "he died as he had lived, the brave, meritorious, unrewarded Kirkwood."

As the British army, on their way to Chadds Ford, marched past the old grist mill, then owned by a Mr. Simonton, now the site of Dean's woolen mill, some stragglers from the ranks mischievously started the machinery. As Mr. Simonton and his family had fled, nearly all day long the old mill ground the impalpable air, until towards evening, when a Mr. Robert Warnock went in and stopped it. This Robert Warnock, by the superstitious people of these times, was looked upon as a wizard, and was greatly feared. It is related that he had a quarrel with the grandfather of Israel Pritchard, who kept the "St. Patrick's Inn." The next morning all the horses and cattle of Mr. Pritchard were found lying down in a peculiar position, and all seemed to be dull, listless and loath to move. After a while Warnock came riding up to the tavern. Mr. Pritchard called the wizard into a private room and said to him, looking him steadily in the face, "Now, Bob Warnock, I want you to take this spell off of my stock." Warnock looked at him thoughtfully for a moment or two, and then smiled; he said something in a low voice, and then exclaimed, "Your stock is all right now, go out and look." Mr. Pritchard went out, and found that horses and cattle had all arisen, and were eating or moving around as usual. Warnock lived for many years on the place formerly owned by the Janviers, now by Mr. James Morrow, of Wilmington, about a mile from here on the Newark and New Castle road.

astronomers. It was a beautiful dinner and served perfectly. They do things so easily here, too. Centuries teach them lessons. I could not begin to tell the menu. There were numerous courses and all very delicious. Whenever the Vice-Chancellor goes to a social function, it means Academic dress, and all the men wear silk academic gowns over their dress suits. It is very pretty.

At the end, Prof. Turner proposed a toast for me, and I had to respond in a few words. It was terrible, but I got through. President and Mrs. Campbell of the University of California were there. We returned to Huntercombe about 10.30, where there was still a little sunset glow in the northwestern sky. Wedding days may be more strenuous but I doubt it.

Yesterday there was a garden party at Corpus Christi to meet the Spanish Ambassador, Merry del Val (brother of your Roman friend, Sister) and the Madame. Full Academic dress, so I appeared in my gorgeous robes. Then at 5.30 o'clock came the Halley lecture by Campbell. It was very technical, way over everybody's head except the Astronomer Royal and a few others. I was sorry. Not one ripple of laughter or applause during the lecture. After that, at 8 p. m. came dinner at the Vice-Chancellor's, men in full academic dress over dress suits. I wore my yellow.

Friday a. m., June 19—I will send this so it may go on Saturday boat. Dr. and Mrs. Frothinger are going to drive me to Stratford, about 35 miles. We start at 10 and will picnic by the way. He is a fine scholar, and has made a beautiful translation of the Latin speech. Mrs. Turner will type it today. I am staying until after next Wednesday, when Encaenia (Commencement) comes. The notice was sent, "Miss Cannon will sit with the Doctors after walking in the procession" (in that gorgeous gown). The whole day will be full for in the afternoon comes a garden party at which "their Majesties, the King and Queen will be present." Again I will wear Academic dress. Quite useful they are over here.

* Professor Turner, spoken of here, is director of the observatory at Oxford, and one of England's greatest astronomers.

SECURITY FOR THIS BOND ISSUE

These bonds are secured by closed first mortgage on a corner lot in Royal Park Addition to Palm Beach, Florida, measuring 75 feet on County Road (North Palm Beach Avenue) and 135 feet on Brazilian Avenue; and on the building to be erected; the income from the property is pledged under the mortgage as additional security for the bonds. This land is conservatively valued at $1,000.00 per foot; owner has declined $100,000 for the lot.

LOCATION

This property is located across the street at the other end of the block from the new town hall, which is being erected at a cost of $100,000.00. The location is very desirable from the standpoint of renting the stores. This is one of the prominent corners where stores will be in demand. The Palm Beach National Bank is one block away. Within a radius of two blocks are a large number of stores; many are branches of national houses. Among these are Bonwit-Teller & Company, Daniel H. Farr, Ma Lada, Brooks Brothers, Jaeger, Renault, Nestle's and many others. About three blocks away are the Everglades Club and a number of branch offices of brokers who are members of the New York Stock Exchange, and other prominent stores.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

WHEN, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident—that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that, whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundations on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and, accordingly, all experience hath shewn that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies, and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present king of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

1. He has refused his assent to laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

2. He has forbidden his governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained; and, when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

3. He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the Legislature—a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

4. He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

5. He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing, with manly firmness, his invasions on the rights of the people.

6. He has refused, for a long time after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected, whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the State remaining, in the meantime, exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

7. He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

8. He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

9. He has made judges dependent on his will alone for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

10. He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance.

11. He has kept among us in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our Legislatures.

12. He has affected to render the military independent of, and superior to, the civil power.

13. He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation;

14. For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us;

15. For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these States;

16. For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world;

17. For imposing taxes on us without our consent;

18. For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury;

19. For transporting us beyond seas, to be tried for pretended offenses;

20. For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies;

21. For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering, fundamentally, the forms of our governments;

22. For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

23. He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection, and waging war against us.

24. He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

25. He is at this time transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

26. He has constrained our fellow-citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

27. He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes, and conditions.

IN EVERY STAGE of these Oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They, too, have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity which denounces our separation, and hold them as we hold the rest of mankind—enemies in war, in peace, friends.

WE, therefore, the representatives of the United States in general Congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do in the name and by authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare that the united colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the state of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved, and that, as free and independent States, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and, to do all other acts and things which independent States may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

Elkton Clinches Flag In First Half Battle

Defeats Bel Air Saturday 5-4 In Thrilling Rally; Winners Only Get Five Hits Off McNutt

By means of a thrilling eighth inning rally in which they pushed four runs over the plate, Elkton clinched the first half banner in the Tri-County League Saturday by defeating Bel Air in the latter town, 5-4. It is reported that the game was played under protest.

McNutt was in fine form for the home team and let Elkton down with but five hits. He made the mistake, however, of allowing most of them to be bunched in the eighth with runners on base. All the scoring was done in the latter stages of the fracas. Bel Air broke through with one run in the fifth. With a three-run lead facing them the Harford County boys cut lose with a little rally of their own in the ninth but Robinson put on more steam and got out of the hole nicely. Watkins, former Newark star, played part of the game for Elkton. The score:

CLUB AGENT WILLIM VISITS BOYS' CAMP

County Club Agent Ed Willim, Jr., has returned from Oak Orchard, Delaware, where he assisted Miss Anne B. Moore, Sussex County Club Agent, in conducting a 4-H club camp for Sussex County club members. This camp is the second annual one held in Sussex and is held as a reward for the achievements of the young agriculturists during the year. About fifty boys and girls were in attendance for the first half of the past week. A similar group held forth in the latter part of the six-day period.

Mr. Willim had charge of the boys at the camp, as well as assisting with the recreational program arranged for both boys and girls. He believes the camp a very fine thing for the club members in that it instills interest in the members to keep their project up-to-date, this being the basis on which they are eligible to attend the gathering which promises to remain an annual event for the county.

Providence Crawls Up On League Leaders

Defeat North East When Vansant's Triple Decides Keen Battle, 6-2

Vansant's triple in the sixth with the sacks loaded, broke up a keen pitching duel between Arrants and Biddle last Saturday at Providence.

Arrants' pitching in the pinches was too much for the visitors who were helpless after Bryan cracked a homer in the first inning after two men had been retired. Vansant and Spence shined afield and at bat for the home team.

This victory puts Providence within striking distance of the leaders who they will lock horns with next Saturday afternoon at Bay View. The score:

COLLEGE FARM COW ATTAINS HONOR LIST

Ona Ormsby Beatrice, Two Years Old, Makes Fine Test Record.

The Honor List for the testing year 1924-1925 has recently been published by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America. This Honor List is made up of the names and production records of the leading cows of the Holstein breed in the United States. The record of U. of D. Ona Ormsby Beatrice, a two year old cow in the University of Delaware herd, qualifies her for the Honor List.

According to A. E. Tomhave, Animal Husbandman at the University of Delaware, the seven-day record of U. of D. Ona Ormsby Beatrice ranks her 23rd out of 637 records competing. Her seven-day record is 18,677 pounds of fat. In the ten months division she ranks 41st out of 143 records competing, with a record of 11,421.6 pounds of milk and 456.45 pounds of butterfat. Her thirty-day butter-fat record of 71,404 pounds ranks her 15th in this division.

The record of U. of D. Ormsby Beatrice is very creditable when the fact is considered that her record is in competition with records from all parts of the country, and the University of Delaware is fortunate in owning such a good producing cow. She was bred and raised at the University of Delaware Experiment Station Farm.

New Hampshire will stage one of the biggest Grange events in its history, on July 23rd, when a tri-state gathering will be held at Portsmouth, with the chamber of commerce and other civic organizations combining to make the day memorable.

Pomona Granges in Pennsylvania are uniting with the county farm bureaus in purchasing moving picture machines, which will be used for educational and demonstration work among the farmers.

New York and Pennsylvania continue to report great activity in building Grange halls. Four new halls were recently dedicated in the former state, with four more waiting; while Pennsylvania has nearly as good a record.

Presbyterian Missionary Speaks On Work Among Natives Of Honduras At Nearby Church

Miss Beatrice Newman, a Presbyterian missionary home on furlough, made an address Sunday morning at the Head of Christiansa Church, Rev. John MacMurray, pastor, presiding over the exercises which had for their purpose the greater advancement of missionary work in this locality.

Miss Newman, whose post is at Santa Rosa, in Honduras, gave a very enlightening talk on her work among the natives there. She has been all alone at her mission for more than six years and during that time has experienced many revolutions, particularly of late months. During this time, besides attending to her religious duties, she has assisted wounded by caring for them in a temporary hospital which she had erected close to her place of abode.

Miss Newman told of the many horrors she had to combat, among which was one in which the soldiers took wounded men, killed them, and then burned the bodies. Through her efforts many of the wounded were saved from this horrible fate.

The missionary told how her home and mission was threatened time and again by revolutionists. She recited one instance where a band attacked the place and her life and those about her were only saved by the fact that the captain of the invaders was a Christian and when he discovered he was entering a mission, called his men away.

In October Miss Newman will sail from the United States for Chile, where she will be stationed for some time.

NEW DEVELOPMENT AT CARPENTER'S PT.

Elkton Man Moving Spirit In Project Near Famous Ducking Flats.

A brand new real estate development, situated at the head of the Chesapeake Bay, in the center of the famous ducking "flats", is being promoted by Congressman Millard F. Tydings of Havre de Grace and J. Ben Decker, president of the Victory Sparkler Company of Elkton.

According to advertisements appearing in the local papers, the Point will be restricted to sportsmen and cottagers who wish to take advantage of the exceptional advantages of that section for all year round pleasure and sport. Boating, bathing, fishing, and duck shooting in the winter are offered as headlines to attract home owners.

On Saturday evening, the 4th of July, a big display of fireworks will be given at the Point. The public is cordially invited to attend and witness the pyrotechnics.

Several Granges in Illinois suffered from the recent windstorm and other subordinates throughout the state are lending a hand to help their fellow members in distress.

Carpenter's Point Offers More Than The Ordinary Summer Colony Development CAN YOU BEAT THIS?

BATHING—The finest shaded, sandy beach in this part of the country.

BOATING—The wide blue expanse of the sparkling Chesapeake offers unlimited opportunity for the yachtsman.

FISHING—The Chesapeake Bay offers wide variety for the fisherman, and the fishing grounds off Carpenter's Point are known as the best.

HUNTING—We have left this feature until last, but it is not the least. The 680 acres included in this development have been closed for years, after being stocked by the State Game Commission with quail and pheasant. All forms of small wild life abound, and hunting, in season, will be restricted to owners of property at Carpenter's Point. and ducking—nuff sed!—The famous Chesapeake Flats, the finest ducking grounds in the world, are right off Carpenter's Point, and natural contour of the shore makes it ideal for shooting from "blinds," if desired.

Carpenter's Point will be carefully restricted, and positively will not be opened to the public for bathing, picnicking or other amusement purposes. The safety of this investment lies in the standing of the men who are behind the Carpenter's Point development—

Many Friends Attend Harter-Kumler Nuptials

A wedding of great local interest took place at six o'clock Monday evening in the St. Thomas Episcopal Church here when Miss Elinor Harter, daughter of Dr. George A. Harter, professor of mathematics at the University and for many years president of the institution, became the bride of Mr. Ralph W. Kumler, of Wilmington.

There were no invitations issued for the affair. It was understood to be the bride's wish that all who cared to come would be made welcome. She was escorted to the church on the arm of her father a few minutes before six. A steady stream of relatives and friends of both bride and groom were still going into the church when the hour approached.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. B. Mathews, rector of the church, of which Mrs. Kumler was a communicant. The wedding march was played by Miss Dorothy Mathews, daughter of the rector. The only bridal attendant was little Miss Dorothy Cabbage Holton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Holton. The groom was attended by Mr. Frank Jenkins, of Wilmington, as best man. The bride wore a charming afternoon dress of lace and white picture hat. She carried a large bridal bouquet. The church was decorated tastefully with cut flowers and ferns. Upon their exit from the church, the bride and groom were almost buried under a shower of rice and confetti from their friends along the pathway. They proceeded at once to the Harter home on West Main street and prepared to go away on their honeymoon. There was no formal reception at the house.

2300 Students Enrolled In Summer Schools Throughout The State, Says Recent Report

The following was published by a Wilmington newspaper yesterday: With enrollments that total nearly 2300 in the Summer Schools throughout the State, Delaware farces the largest and most successful summer in the training of young people it has ever known. Not only in academic work does this hold true, but also in spiritual training, as in Wilmington alone 949 students have enrolled for the Daily Vacation Bible Schools in the various churches. This makes one of the largest enrollments for Bible study that Wilmington has ever known.

In the public schools, records for summer attendance have also been broken. In the Wilmington High School and the elementary schools in the city 600 students have enrolled for various courses. Approximately 300 will attend the summer schools conducted in rural Delaware.

At the University of Delaware 400 students are taking courses in the Summer School, which gives it a lead over any previous record it has known. The courses include many of the branches of the work given as a part of the regular University curriculum, and the same professors as those employed during the rest of the year teach.

THROUGH BUS SERVICE TO SHORE IS PLANNED

Announcement that motor bus service between Washington and Atlantic City will be established through New Castle as soon as the New Castle-Pennsville ferry service begins operations, has been received with great interest. It is an indication of the many possibilities of this new line, for the promoters of the bus line selected the New Castle-Pennsville route as the logical one for this kind of service. The line is a forerunner of similar lines to be run from Baltimore and other points in Maryland.

Taking advantage of the unusually fine weather, the contractors who are working on the piers on each side of the river, have been able to make fine time and are well ahead of their schedule. No announcement has been made by officials as to when the service will be started, but such an announcement will likely be made in a short time.

Weddings

Jaquette-Lindell

Two well known young Newark people joined the June group of newlyweds here when Miss Alice Elizabeth Jaquette, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Jaquette of this town, became the bride of William Francis Lindell, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lindell, also of Newark. The ceremony was performed at four o'clock by the Rev. Frank Herson, pastor of the Methodist Church here.

Only the immediate families were present at the wedding. Miss Irma Jaquette, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Eugene H. Kennedy was best man. Immediately after the wedding, the bride and groom left for a honeymoon to Niagara Falls. Later they will return to Newark and take up their residence. Mr. Lindell is an instructor in the Engineering Department of the University of which he is a recent graduate.

Donovan-Crane

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. John's Roman Catholic Church, Newark, on Wednesday evening, June 24th, when Elizabeth Donovan, sister of Mrs. Charles A. Murphy, 33 Chapel street, became the bride of A. Joseph Crane, of Philadelphia. The bride wore a gown of crepe de chine and lace and carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. She had as her bride's maid, Miss Anna Clifford, of Philadelphia. Little Miss Mary Murphy acted as flower girl. The bride's maid wore a

"SPEAKING OF INDEPENDENCE—"

(An extract from a Spivus Speech of early vintage.)

View of a Typical Spivus Audience.

Now that everybody is preparing to go some place or other on the Fourth, so they can tell the boys at the office and the girls over the back fence, how they got 22 miles on a gallon of gasoline and about that Wonderful Hot Dog Stand and Merry-Go-Round at Golden Rule Beach, I was just thinkin' that it wouldn't be a bad idea to inculcate in the downtrodden, gasoline ridden masses of this community, some of the lofty ideals and purposes Our Forefathers wrote into that document, which came off the press back in '76 just in time for the parade next day. (Applause.)

CHAPTER I

I thank you. You know, it's remarkable how a bit of applause really does help a speaker. I would hardly know what to do without it. I really seem to get the most when I sit down, so you dear Peepul out there don't have to clap unless you want to.

Well, to get back to Independence. Now you see, this fellow George somebody of England didn't like the rising young Kiwanians of the colonies. But they didn't like him either, so just for spite they threw some of his tea into the ocean, stuck their tongues out at his soldiers and then they all ran across the back lots to Philadelphia, where, in 1776 or thereabouts, they told him Where To Get Off. After mailing the letter, these patriots then started out to wake up the people. (Even in those days nobody in Philadelphia was ever really wide awake.) When George got his mail the next morning and saw the Declaration, he wanted to fight. And fight he did! Our noble tea-tossers then got together a team and hired G. Washington, late of Washington and Jefferson, to be captain. He later became General, and, after sleeping in every farm house bed from Baltimore to New York City, he staged a ninth inning rally during a double header at Yorktown, and ever since, the English have played nothing but cricket.

So you see, folks, the Declaration really started something. Those of you listening in out there in loway, of course, this don't mean much to you. Us folks in Delaware sort of look on G. Washington as a "home boy," kinda grew up with us you know. His team once made a one-night stand at Cooch's Bridge, near here. Maybe you've heard of it. That's the place where they either unfurled the First Flag or they didn't unfurl the First Flag. It is therefore famous for the longest drawn out argument in History. Them city slickers up in New York is trying to hog all the glory, but we had the monument up first. (Applause.)

LESSON SIXTEEN

That's very kind of you! But I must hurry on to make room for the Royal Bell Ringers, next on the program. You know, it's wonderful what them fellers can do with bells. I was talkin' to one of them only last night and he said he's played on bells since he was a kid and there's nothing he likes better than good fresh mackerel. Very interesting people, these bell ringers.

Well where was we? Oh yes,—Now, after they gave out the Declaration to the newspapers, Our Forefathers found out they didn't have money enough for a War. Here was G. Washington and his high priced assistants what had to be paid, and with all them scythes and swingle trees which the boys was carrying, somebody was liable to get hurt unless they got guns. Of course it was too late to call off the war, cause old George from Blighty was hoppin' mad.

So, to make a long story short (Applause), Benjamin Franklin started the Saturday Evening Post to sellin' page ads to Campbell's Soup, and Robert Morris put the Morris Plan Banks on their feet. Then old John Hancock let some insurance company copy his signature. So it went. Pretty soon the Post went up to a nickle and G. Washington's club, who at that time was playing a long engagement at Valley Forge Park, got so much money that they was shootin' half dollars at the enemy before they finally quit and went home.*

Old George from Blighty was still hoppin' mad, but what could he do against Our Forefathers? And so we won our Independence or Something, and everybody went home and got a job with the Government.

G. Washington accepted a few more invitations to sleep in farmhouse beds then he went home in time to greet the graduating class from Schwenksville High School on their trip to the Nation's Capital. The rest of the Patriots is scattered and gone. All that remains is the Declaration and the Saturday Evening Post.

APPENDIX

And now, kind friends, you can readily see what stirring events marked the bloody pages of our Nation's birth. I realize that in my small way, I can never do justice to such a noble subject (Applause). However, if I have instilled one glorious memory of that Bitter Struggle in your breasts, if I have broken the bonds of sordid indifference and taken you into the beautiful stream of History; in short—Alas, my allotted time has expired. (Shouts.)

Before I leave, the manger has asked me to make an announcement: Is Mr. Abraham Smithers in the audience?

MR. SMITHERS!

Well, if Mr. Smithers IS in the audience, his wife wants him to bring home a pound of side meat for supper.

I thank you very much. (Deafening applause, whistles left onstage, Quartet right center hums softly "I'm a Little Prairie Flower" as the curtain descends.)

* That is, the Enemy quit and went home.—J. S.

This is not Mr. Spivus. In fact, we don't know who he is. He's probably a reader of the Sat. Eve. Post (mentioned here), or just a friend of the family.

CHURCHES

PENCADER PRESBYTERIAN

The regular Communion Services will be held in the Pencader Presbyterian Church of Glasgow July 5th. All members are requested to attend these services.

Ebenezer Church

Gilbert T. Gohman, Minister

The one hundredth and first anniversary of Ebenezer Methodist Episcopal Church is to be observed next Sunday, July 5th, by an all-day service. Everyone is invited to attend and bring lunch to eat in the basement of the church. It is to be a day of spiritual messages. There will be no attempt to raise money because the needs of the church were met by the splendid results of the improvement fund campaign last July which amounted to more than $5,000.

Church School, 10.00 a. m. Sermon, 11.00 a. m., Rev. J. P. Oatis, Marshallton. Lunch in the basement together with a social hour, 12.10 p. m. to 2.15 p. m. Sermon by Rev. Frank Herson, Newark, Delaware, at 2.15 p. m. Class Service led by Mr. James H. Little, 3.15 p. m. Epworth League, 7.30 p. m. Sermon by the pastor, 8.10 p. m. Standard time.

Head of Christiana Church

Workmen under the direction of the Levy Court are making a grade preparatory to resurfacing a portion of West Main street, just north of the town limits this week. It is expected that the upper part of the street will be closed to traffic in a few days, until the job is completed.

OPEN NEW COUNTY HIGHWAY JULY 11

Governor Robinson is expected to head a party of 500 prominent officials who will take part in the formal opening, on Saturday afternoon, July 11, of the new concrete highway between du Pont Boulevard and Delaware Beach, just below St. George's.

The Delaware Automobile Association has invited the executives of the State Government, Judges, members of the Legislature, together with officials of the counties and the city of Wilmington to attend a complimentary luncheon at Augustine Inn, Delaware Beach.

The new road will be opened for travel on Friday, July 3, at 6 p. m., according to C. D. Buck, Superintendent of State Highways. It is built according to the most recent specifications. The shoulders are now in the course of construction.

The road meets the du Pont Highway with a double turn, which form is considered almost accident-proof. The new stretch cost about $155,000.

Stockholders' Special Meeting

A Special Meeting of the Stockholders of the Farmers Trust Company of Newark, Newark, Delaware, will be held on the 14th day of July, 1925, at the office of the Company, Main Street, Newark, Delaware, between the hours of 11 A. M. and 12 o'clock noon, for the following purpose:

1. To authorize an increase in the Capital Stock of the Company from $500,000.00 to $1,000,000.00 by the issue of 1000 shares of new stock.
2. To authorize the issue of such new stock as follows: 500 shares to be issued at $100.00 per share. 500 shares to be issued at $130.00 per share.
3. To take such other action as may properly come before the meeting in relation to the proposed increase in the Capital Stock.

Railroad Traffic On Decline During '24, Says Pres. Willard

Ninety-Eighth Year Of Existence Reached By B. & O. Road; Coal Traffic Poor, Due To Fields In The South

The annual report for the calendar year 1924, which President Willard and the Directors of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company submitted Monday to the stockholders of the company, marks the ninety-eighth year of the railroad company's existence.

The operated mileage of the company is 5,196 miles. Including 104 miles of subsidiary companies, the first main track mileage is 5,300 miles and the total mileage of all tracks 10,699 miles. In addition the company exercises trackage rights for passenger traffic only from Philadelphia to New York, a distance of 97 miles.

The company's equipment, valued at $199,329,764, consists of 2,585 steam locomotives, 11 electric locomotives, 100,092 freight cars, 1,441 passenger cars, 3,202 work equipment units and 179 marine equipment units.

The recorded investment at December 31, 1924, of the property devoted to and used in transportation service is $778,814,915, an increase over the previous year of $20,684,074.

Owing to the general decline in business during the year 1924, the revenues of the company were diminished, compared with the peak year of 1923 when the company handled the largest volume of freight traffic in its history. But the loss in revenue in 1924 was overcome to a considerable extent by operating economies, resulting in the largest net railway operating income heretofore earned with the single exception of the year 1923.

With the exception of products of agriculture, which showed a slight increase, the decrease in traffic was general. Especially notable was the large decrease in bituminous coal, which is the largest single item of traffic handled by the company. The explanation for this decrease, however, lies in the fact that the bituminous coal industry in the Northern bituminous fields has been handicapped in the Eastern markets by the lower mining costs prevailing in the Southern or Pocahontas, New River and other fields. This condition was partly offset by the company handling a larger proportion of coal traffic from connecting lines and finding a market for it on or via its lines. Notwithstanding the reduction in coal traffic, the revenues of the company were generally sustained owing to increased commercial and industrial activities in the territory served by its lines.

President's Vacation Merely Change Of Office

Summer Home in Massachusetts Well House Will Not Be Bed of Ease

The President of the United States is the one man who can never take a vacation. He may move, as he is planning to do this summer from Washington to Swampscott, but his work goes with him. Round and about the office of the President the law of the land has imposed obligations which cannot be avoided. There are not only countless papers which are only legal when he signs them; but in addition there are various boards and commissions whose ability to function is predicated not only on his assent and approval of their action but his actual direction in many cases. While Tom Jones and Bill Smith and their families may put aside business cares for a couple of weeks or more during the summer, the President must always be on the job.

Washington in the summer is not always the most desirable spot in the country, for not only does the temperature ascend to great heights at times, but there is an amount of humidity in the air which makes the climate enervating at times. In addition, even President Coolidge himself has been obliged to admit that functioning in the White House with carpenters, plumbers, roofers and other workmen, re-making and renovating the building, will impose a burden which even he is unable to meet.

Swampscott, where President Coolidge will pass several weeks during the summer period, is located on Massachusetts Bay and is about three miles from Lynn, Mass. The President will take practically half of his office force with him. There will not be the slightest interruption to business. Clerks, stenographers, telegraphers, telephone operators, secretaries, and other members of the White House personnel, will carry on their work within a short distance of the home that President Coolidge will occupy during July and part of August.

Even the two weeks which the President intends to spend with his father at the Coolidge farmhouse in Vermont will be restricted by reason of this ever present and constant obligation to carry on the routine so that even from this point he will attend to the labors which are part of the duties of the Chief Executive. Only those who live in Washington and have an opportunity to view at close range just how much work the President has to do every day can appreciate the manifold duties that are the lot of every President. The so-called "vacation" of the President is merely a change of location of his office force.

RIDICULOUS PRICES PAID FOR PROPERTY

Public Auction of Real Estate In Default of Taxes Held at Dover Last Week.

For the first time since 1895, parcels of private property in Kent county were placed on the auction block for non-payment of taxes at Saturday.

Eighteen pieces of real estate were put on the block, a house and lot in Milford bringing in the highest bid, $202.50. Other Milford property brought $218; five houses and lots sold for a total of $98; a house in Leipsic for $30; four small farms in West Dover hundred for a total of $189.50; two tracts near Harrington for $22.50 and $27.50; a house and lot in Frederica for $30, and a house in Harrington for $45.

Approximately 125 pieces of property, the assessed value of which was $130,000, were originally listed for sale, but as minute payment of taxes reduced the number to 18, assessed at close to $12,000, or approximately fourteen times the total amount realized in the sale. As an example of the low prices the property brought, an improved 143-acre farm near Cheswold sold for $60, which is less than fifty cents an acre.

College Athletes Without A Coach For Coming Year

Pritchard Gets Better Offer From Hiram College And Decides To Remain There; Athletic Authorities In Scramble For Successor

ONLY TWO MONTHS TO DECIDE

In a letter to Dr. Walter Hullahen, president of the University, George H. Pritchard, recently elected head coach and director of athletes for Delaware, has thrown the coaching situation here into another tangle, it was reported this week.

Pritchard has informed the authorities here that his present position at Hiram College, Ohio, has been made much more lucrative to him by a substantial increase in his salary, and despite his earlier decision to come to Newark, he has changed his plans and will continue at the Ohio institution. The letter further adds that living expenses in Newark appear to be measurably higher than where he is now located. In view of these facts, he stated, it will be impossible for him to come here in the fall.

Herbert Matthews, his assistant at Hiram, who had also accepted a position here, likewise changed his mind and will remain in Ohio.

With less than two months in which to select a capable coach and an assistant, to take over the athletic affairs here, college authorities are in the midst of another tangle. Dr. Hullahen, it is reported, will again refer to his list of candidates for the post and will make an announcement in a few days. It is believed, however, that the list will not contain as many eligibles as heretofore, owing to the proximity to the coming college year. Most coaches have already made their plans for the 1925-26 season.

It was planned to procure an athletic director here who would reorganize that department of the institution, and institute several important changes. It was thus expected that the new coach would take charge late in August or early in September to familiarize himself with the work.

Dr. Hullahen expects to announce the action of the authorities within a few days.

HISTORY'S REALITIES NOT YET RECORDED

the sermon was greatly enjoyed. Miss Ruth Wilson Sachs sang a solo, and Mr. Bertram Austin, of Philadelphia, played the cello. John A. Thoms, Jr., of Wilmington, accompanied both artists and had charge of the program.

Rev. H. Everett Hallman, pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, introduced the singing and conducted the services. Ushers of the local church attended to the seating of the large crowd. Many visitors from Wilmington, Elkton, Middletown and nearby points attended the service.

Big Wheat Yields Near Middletown

The farmers of the Middletown section are completing the cutting of their wheat crop, says the "Transcript." The yield, because of an unusually favorable season, will exceed that of any recent year. Although the straw in most instances is rather short, the heads are long and well filled. If the wheat market remains steady, the farmers of this locality should make a fair profit on their crop.

The threshing machines will start operating within the next week, and from all available information a goodly portion of this year's crop will be threshed in the field.

prize awarded by Mitchell Kennerly. Beside his reputation as a newspaper man, a poet humorist, and poet, Mr. Daly achieved success last year with his chronicle of house-hold life, "Herself and the Houseful," which depicts in whimsical narrative the difficulties encountered by him and Mrs. Daly in raising their brood of eight children. The book had a large sale last year.

OFF TO CALIFORNIA

William Lewis, son of Clerk of the Courts and Mrs. H. Winfield Lewis, and Robert Reynolds, both June graduates from Maryland University, left yesterday for a long auto trip to the West Coast, to be gone the balance of the summer. Young "Bill" and his companion, both graduate engineers, expect to see all that can be seen in the time they have before they return to take up their professions in the fall. Two Baltimore boys will accompany them.

Buy Tubes as Carefully as you buy Tires

THERE are two ways a car owner can buy tubes.

He can go out looking for price—and get it.

Or he can buy tubes that will give his casings a chance to deliver the mileage that is built into them.

U. S. Royal and Grey Tubes are built to give mileage and get mileage.

They resist heat, hold their shape and retain their elasticity.

To get all the mileage out of a new casing or to make an old casing last—put a U. S. Royal or Grey Tube inside it.

U. S. Royal and U. S. Grey Tubes

Made of Sprayed Rubber—the purest and most uniform rubber known—and now made even heavier than before.
