COLONEL WILLIAM D. DENNEY

Kent Countian Named to Head the Republican Ticket

Governor Townsend Asks Renomination of Layton, Who Was Repudiated by Sussex at Primaries

The magnanimous action of Governor Townsend in refusing to allow party harmony to be jeopardized by permitting his friends to propose his name for the Congressional nomination; the eulogium of Governor Townsend's administration by permanent chairman Robert H. Richards, who characterized it as one of the greatest in the history of the State, and the cordial welcome extended to women as an influence that will materially assist in solving the problems now confronting the country, were the outstanding features of the Republican State Convention held at Dover yesterday.

The session convened in the Opera House yesterday afternoon following county caucuses which occupied the morning. State Chairman Charles Warner presided and introduced temporary chairman Everett C. Johnson. Robert H. Richards was made permanent chairman and sounded the keynote of the convention in an eloquent address in which he elicited tumultuous applause from the immense crowd assembled, when he welcomed the women of the country and of the State to participation in the affairs of government, extolled the glories of the Republican party, and made a stirring plea for patriotism.

The business of the convention proceeded smoothly and nominations were made viva voce. The first nomination, that of Colonel Henry A. du Pont for presidential elector, was made unanimous. The other nominations for presidential electors were also by acclamation.

DENNEY CHOSEN UNANIMOUSLY

In the Kent county caucus Melvin Hopkins, an ex-service man who has just attained his majority, placed in nomination as Kent county's choice for Governor. Colonel William D. Denney, of Dover, a dozen delegates seconded the nomination, and on roll-call Colonel Denney received the entire forty votes of the caucus. This assured his nomination in the convention.

The rest of the ticket follows: Lieutenant-Governor—Major J. Danforth Bush, Wilmington. Attorney-General—Sylvester D. Townsend, Jr. Congressman—Dr. Caleb R.

Layton, Georgetown. State Treasurer—George M. Fisher, Wyoming. State Auditor—Daniel Thompson, Newark. Insurance Commissioner—Horace Sudler, Bridgeville. Presidential Electors—Colonel Henry A. du Pont, New Castle county; General Alden R. Benson, Kent county; Governor John G. Townsend, Jr., Sussex county.

Indorses services rendered State by United States Senator L. Heister Ball and Representative Caleb R. Layton.

Condemns Wilson administration for conduct of public business as "weak, inefficient and extravagant."

Praises administration of Governor Townsend as progressive, efficient and forward-looking.

Urges development of a proper budget system in administering the finances of the State.

HEAD OF CHRISTIANA HOLDS JOLLY PICNIC

Engages in Many Activities During the Past Week

The Sunday School of the Head of Christiana Church held its annual picnic last Thursday on the lawn of the church. A delicious dinner was served to about one hundred persons by the ladies.

The afternoon was spent in playing games. The men and the boys of the church formed two teams and had an interesting game of baseball. The star playing of Mr. Harry Beers, the second baseman, and the heavy batting of Mr. Tom Montgomery and the "pinch" hit made by C. Miles were features of the game. The Miles boys "warmed up" and did some fine playing. Rev. Walter R. Clyde was umpire. Later the women formed a team and played against the men, winning by a score of 7 to 0. Mrs. Clyde was the star pitcher while Mrs. Fox was the star runner.

The children enjoyed peanut and potato races and watermelon eating contests. A running race for the women was won by Mrs. Fox.

Ice cream and cake were served and everybody went home declaring that this had been "the best picnic ever held."

A farewell reception was given at the Head of Christiana Church on last Friday evening in honor of Rev. Walter R. Clyde and family. The threatening weather failed to keep anybody away and a crowd was present. The evening was spent in playing games, after which appropriate speeches were made by Mr. Miles and Mr. Montgomery, to which Rev. Clyde replied. Delicious refreshments were served at a late hour.

Mr. Clyde and his family left on Monday morning for Hesperia, Iowa. Several of the congregation accompanied them to the train, wishing them farewell and much success in the new field.

The Willing Workers held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Margaret Creswell, Saturday evening. About fifty were present.

TEACHING FORCE IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS COMPLETE

At a meeting of the Board of Education held last night Miss Miriam Pennypacker was elected teacher of science and mathematics in the high school, and Miss Verna Brown as grade teacher. Miss Sarah Brown was re-elected assistant in the primary grades. These appointments complete the quota of teachers for the public schools this year. Superintendent Owens was in town yesterday in conference with the Board.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Phillips of Hurlock, Md., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Arzie Wheatley Phillips, to Conrad K. D. Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Lewis, of Newark, Del.

Funeral services will be held at her late home next Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Reverend Walter Haupt officiating. Interment will be private and will be made at St. James' Cemetery, Stanton.

She is survived by one brother, William K. Brooks.

Mrs. Elsie Bowers, formerly of Felton, died on Monday, August 23, at Delaware Hospital, after a brief illness with typhoid fever.

Mrs. Bowers was 28 years old and lived near Wilmington. The body was taken to Felton today where burial was made this afternoon. Her husband survives.

MOTORISTS RETURN AFTER TRIP TO WESTERN COAST

Ernest Frazer and William H. Barton Enjoy Long Journey

Looking well and happy, Ernest Frazer and William Barton returned to Newark last week after an auto trip to the Pacific Coast and back in which they covered 8,664 miles. Both men report having had a splendid time. They had no mishaps of any kind, and little machine trouble, one puncture and three blowouts constituting the difficulty encountered during the entire journey.

They left Newark, it will be remembered, on May 31, and made the first stop at Cumberland, Md. The next day they took the old National highway to Zanesville, Ohio; then to Indianapolis, and from there to Chicago. Leaving Chicago they stopped at Davenport and spent four days at Des Moines with Mr. Barton's daughter, Mrs. Harry Chambers.

After leaving Des Moines they stopped at Omaha. At Salt Lake City they took the Arrow Head route to Fillmore, formerly the capital of Utah, and then over the deserts of Utah and Arizona to St. Thomas, Nevada. When they reached St. Thomas it was 117 in the shade at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. They had to stay over night in this town, as the next stopping place was 50 miles away, through a desert. This was the hottest day encountered during the trip.

From Nevada they went into California stopping at San Bernardino and went through the sun-kissed orange grove of 5,000 acres, then to Pasadena, to Los Angeles over the Pacific highway to Santa Maria, then San Jose, and on to San Francisco. They were in San Francisco during the Democratic National Convention and called on the Delaware delegation, among whom was their fellow townsman, Mayor Eben B. Frazer. They attended the convention and after a week in this locality, they went to Portland, Oregon, making a number of stops on the way. One stop was at Crater Lake, Oregon, where a national park surrounds the lake. They took the trip of 80 miles up the famous Columbia river drive which was the finest stretch of road they struck while away. A trip to Van Couver, British Columbia, also was of much interest.

The men took the Oregon trail to La Grana, to Boise, Idaho, where a side trip was taken to the Arrowhead dam, which cost the government $6,000,000 and which irrigates many thousands of acres of land for miles around. A stop of several days, with side trips, was made in Yellowstone Park and from there the Yellowstone trail was followed to Chicago.

From this point they attempted to follow the Lincoln Highway route but found it in such condition that they were forced to leave it at East Liverpool, Ohio, going from there to Washington, Pa., and following the old National route to Baltimore.

They encountered practically no rain on the trip until they reached Ohio on the way back. The only Delaware car seen from the time Hagerstown, Md., was left going out, until they arrived at the same city, returning, was one in Montana and this one was from Marshallton. These in the Marshallton party were Mr. Gregg, his mother and one other woman.

On two occasions during the trip Mr. Frazer and Mr. Barton had some sport snowballing. This was June 15, on Pike's Peak, and July 1, at Crater Lake.

They called on several former residents of Newark while away, including William Armstrong at Denver and Walter Medill in San Francisco. Mr. Frazer says they found the people of the West very hospitable and very honest.

During the trip they passed through 22 states, over deserts and mountains, through the great corn and wheat belt of the Middle West and the fruit belt of the Far West.

LOCAL OFFICERS PREPARED TO REGISTER WOMEN VOTERS

Both Parties Want Large Number to Qualify September 18

Registration officers in this district are confident that they can without difficulty provide for the registration of all women voters who apply, on the two dates set apart for that purpose, Saturday, September 18, and Saturday, October 16. Local political leaders in discussing the matter last night said that they have been preparing for this contingency for some time, and that underground wires have been in operation for a considerable period testing the strength of the respective party affiliations. One leader stated confidently the figures indicative of the majority which will be accorded to his party when the election returns are in.

Both parties are doing considerable personal work urging the women to register. In some quarters there is talk of forming a voters' club for women but no definite steps in that direction have yet been taken.

RAILROAD FARES GO UP TOMORROW

Tomorrow is the day set by the railroads for increase in passenger rates of 20 per cent.

In reversal of a decision made previously, they have announced that tickets bought today will be honored for the time limit contained thereon at the old rates.

STREET IMPROVEMENT GOING FORWARD

Ground was broken on Monday for a new street which will connect South College Avenue with Orchard Ridge. It occupies the lot between those of Mrs. Helen Mackie and Mrs. John Doyle and will probably be known as Mackie Avenue.

The sidewalk fronting the college properties on South College Avenue was completed this week, the shoulders smoothed off and put in first class condition.

YOUNG GIRL MEETS WITH PAINFUL ACCIDENT

Miss Dorothy McNeal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Warner McNeal, met with a painful accident early this morning. She was reaching up to secure a bottle of iodine when in some inexplicable way it slipped and the contents of the bottle was dashed over her face and eyes, burning her in a very distressing manner. The young lady is suffering considerable pain.

Business Men Favor Main Street Route For Lincoln Highway

Goodly Number Express Views at a Public Meeting

Hon. Josiah Marvel States Clearly the Position of the Highway Department—Citizens Ask State to Take Over Uncompleted Section

A unanimous request that the State Highway Department take over the uncompleted portion of the Lincoln Highway in this county, and a majority vote in favor of the Main Street route for the Highway through the town was the sentiment of the public meeting held in the Council rooms on Thursday afternoon, at the call of Mayor E. B. Frazer.

Chief Engineer Charles M. Upham of the State Highway Department and Hon. Josiah Marvel, the Newark county member, met with the people of the town and announced their willingness to answer questions with reference to the matters under consideration. Mayor Frazer presided and stated briefly the object of the meeting. He then called upon Mr. Marvel who explained the ## Work! Work!

Oh, Cave Scout, you pose as abnormally wise,
With a hat full of knowledge and free with advice,
Now I'm a young fellow, just entering life,
With all of its pleasures and all of its strife.
An average fellow, with average brain,
And I'd like very much to have you explain
Some of the fine points, and rules of the game:
Not that I'm eager for fortune or fame,
But I'd like to hold up my share of the load,
And have my share, too, of the fun on the road.
To get down to cases, what's wanted, I guess,
Is someone to slip me the key to Success.
Well, here is the key, boys, a free gift to all,
The fat and the lean, and the short and the tall,
Whatever in life you are called on to do,
If you pilot a ship or preach from a pew
Whether banker or teamster or butcher or clerk,
Just tighten your muscles and dig in and WORK.

This world is so crowded with things to be done,
Our tasks loom before us, but scarcely begun.
There are thousands of things we would do, and we can Accomplish so little in life's little span!
With earth's magic wonders exposed to his view
God pity the creature with "nothing to do!"
With work so much needed, the wasting of time,
Becomes an immoral, unpardonable crime!
Success? All-wise Providence so has it planned
That highest and humblest on sea or on land
May share the same measure, in equal degree,
Full, soul-refreshing, unstinted and free,
For the joy of success is the beat in your heart
That tells you you're taking your whole, willing part.
Tho' small it may seem as it comes day by day,
Still a world-building part you are trusted to play.
To fail is to dawdle, to idle, to shirk;
Success comes alone through a real love for WORK.

—The Cave Scout—Boys' Life for August.

ADVERTISING CHRISTIANITY

What World Needs Most Must be Brought to World's Notice

This is the time for big things. Men with big hearts and vision are needed everywhere. Big events that will have a tremendous effect on the world are transpiring. Christianity is bigger than them all and needs the biggest men to place it where it ought to be right now. Will Christianity get a square deal? Are Christians big enough to place it before the world so it will be recognized as the great cure for the diseased condition of humanity? Christianity is what the world needs most today and to meet that need it must be advertised.

Advertising in its early history was announcement, but successful modern advertising is a red-hot message that drives the reader to the goods. The message extols the product, not the maker. Christians need to advertise what they have to offer, but as yet they have gotten no further than announcing churches and preachers. They need to advertise everywhere the attractions, benefits and advantages of Christianity in burning messages that will drive readers to seek religious satisfaction.

Where shall Christianity be advertised? In the newspapers. They are the recognized means of publicity everywhere. Buy space in them and pay for it, not beg it. Do the Lord's business right.

How shall Christianity be advertised? Run advertisements regularly, using as much space as possible and change copy often. Publish from the Bible, quotations that will lead the readers to higher thoughts. Publish local testimonials showing the power of God to transform human lives. Show how every community is benefited by Christianity but has many grafters who accept the benefits and let others pay the bills. Show how the teachings of Christ can be constructively applied to the social, industrial and political questions of the twentieth century.

The newspaper is a medium that is being read. It offers the greatest opportunity to reach the people and show them the solution of all their troubles.

How shall the expense be met? Each Christian church of a city, town or any community should contribute regularly a certain percentage of its income for the local advertising of Christianity. This fund should be pooled and should be in the hands of a permanent local organization, possibly incorporated, composed of representatives from each church or denomination. These representatives should be progressive laymen and ministers who know business and advertising. A committee of at least one member from each denomination represented should write the copy for the advertisements.

Is the plan practical? Yes, if you are too big to allow denominational differences, jealousies and selfishness to block the way. Are you big enough to help advertise Christianity and get the wonderful results that are sure to follow? If so, start something, and do it now. It can be done.—George W. Alexander, Baltimore, Md.

THE MYSTERY OF PERSONLITY

"Why is it," asks a philosopher, "that certain persons, for no reason that you can explain leave upon you a distinct and unforgettable impression of some sort, while others, seen for approximately the same length of time and under more or less the same circumstances, leave little of no impression and are extremely difficult to remember at all?"

The mystery of personality—it has been the subject of discussion for a thousand years. When it is solved then the above question will have been answered, of course. But it is such a mystery that it is always interesting to talk about it.

"Love at first sight" is a common enough expression and is not an infrequent fact. And hate at first sight is just as common. At least we meet persons who at first glance repulse us and are never able thereafter to gain our confidence. Most of our likes and dislikes are momentary flashes; they are formed before we really have time to study or reflect.

One of the strange freaks, or mysteries, of personalities is where three persons are involved. Two of the three dislike each other to the point of hatred. But both of them are very fond of a third person, and the third person likes both the first and second, although the two are the direct antithesis the one of the other. There are men who have to go over the names of their friends very carefully when making a list of guests for dinner lest they invite two persons who would be antagonistic to each other. Verily there is no greater mystery of life than the mystery of personality.—Columbus Dispatch.

CENSUS FIGURES FOR STATE ISSUED IN PAMPHLET FORM

Upper County Shows Increase In Urban and Rural Population

In a bulletin issued last Friday by the census bureau, the population of Delaware by counties and by minor civil divisions is given graphically. The percent of increase for every decade since 1790 is also given together with the numbers. When the first census was taken in 1790, the population was 59,096. In 1920 it is 223,003, nearly 4 times as great. The percentage of increase during the decade just past is 10.2.

The total land area of the State in 1920 is 1,695 square miles and the average number of persons to the square mile is 133.5; in 1910 and 1900 the averages were 103 and 94, respectively.

The two lower counties show a decrease of population. In Kent this decrease is 7.8 per cent outside of the incorporated places having a population of 2500 or more, and a decrease of 5.2 per cent in the entire county. The population in 1910 was 32,721; in 1920 it is 31,023.

Sussex shows a decrease of 5.9 per cent in its rural population and 5.8 per cent in the entire county, whose population in 1910 was 46,413; in 1920 it is 43,741.

New Castle shows an increase of 20.3 per cent. The population in 1910 was 123,168, and in 1920 148,239.

The rural section of this county shows an increase of 5.5 per cent against 8.8 per cent in the preceding decade. This year the population is 34,217; in 1910 it was 32,426.

Hokus—I've been looking for Henpecke everywhere. I wonder where he is? Pokus—Have you looked under his wife's thumb?—Judge.

Some Recipes for Cooking Corn

Boiling

Strike off the husk and silk entirely; or, strip off all the husk except one inner row of husk. Either way is good. Have ready a large pot of boiling water. Never put salt into the water for boiling corn; it hardens the outer coating of the grains, making them often shriveled and yellow, besides being much more indigestible. Put the corn in the pot; cover and boil rapidly for about twenty minutes (for large-sized ears); then set the pot, with the corn in it, upon the hearth and let it stand for ten or fifteen minutes. Then drain, strip off the leaves, and serve in a napkin folded to cover them.

Succotash

Cover a pint of lima beans with cold water and cook until tender, and then six ears of corn, grated, and a slice of bacon and cook for fifteen minutes. Then take out the bacon, season with salt and pepper, and a half cup of milk and a tablespoon of flour rolled in two tablespoons of butter. Cook until the flour is cooked through and serve very hot.

Corn Soup

Put the grated corn from six ears through a vegetable cutter and then through a vegetable press. Simmer with a slice of onion, a couple of pieces of celery and some salt in a pint of water for half an hour. Then add two cups of milk thickened with two tablespoons of flour and cook until the mixture is smooth. Season and serve very hot.

Corn Chowder

Pare two big potatoes and cut them into dice. Chop an onion fine. Put a layer of the potatoes in bottom of a saucepan and sprinkle with onions, pepper and salt. Add a layer of grated corn. Continue until six ears of corn and all the potatoes and onions are used. Then add two cups of milk, mutton or chicken stock or the same amount of water, cover and simmer for twenty minutes. Add three tablespoons of flour rubbed with one of butter into a ball, cook five minutes more, season further if necessary, take from the fire, add a beaten egg yolk, and serve at once.

Corn Pudding

One can of corn or eight ears of fresh corn. With a sharp knife slit each row of corn in the center and scrape with the back of your knife. Add the yolks of three eggs beaten, one generous tablespoon of butter, one tablespoon of flour, one teaspoon of sugar, one teaspoon of salt, a saltspoon of pepper, and last of all the well-beaten whites of three eggs. Fill a pudding dish with this and cover it with milk, which will take from half to a pint. Bake in an oven one hour.

Corn Fritters

Corn cut from seven ears, one egg beaten together, flour, one pint of milk, salt and pepper, lard for frying; one teaspoon of baking powder to each cup of flour.

Scrape the corn as described. Mix all together, adding enough flour to make a rather stiff batter. Drop by the teaspoon into deep boiling lard. The lard should be deep enough to float the fritters. If they spread too much after testing one or two, add a little more flour. They should puff like doughnuts. Drain dry; serve on a cup paper or folded napkin.

If the corn yields much milk in scraping, add less than designated in the recipe.

Food Should Be Thoroughly Washed

Dried figs and dates should be washed carefully before being eaten, as they have been exposed for an unknown length of time to possible contagion by flies and dirty hands. In how many houses are oranges washed before they are brought to the table, or the lemons before they are sliced for tea or lemonade, or before the skin is grated for flavoring? Yet orange and lemon skins are often very dirty. Shelled nuts purchased in the market should always be washed, scalded, and dried by a clean cloth before they are used.

Quick Raisin Bread

Three cups flour, one teaspoon salt, four teaspoons baking powder, two tablespoons sugar, one cup raisins, one egg, one and one half cups milk, two tablespoons melted fat.

Sift the dry ingredients together and add the raisins. Beat the egg, add it to the milk and stir into the dry ingredients. Add the melted fat, pour into a greased loaf pan and bake forty-five minutes.

Sour Cucumber Pickles

Wash and dry two quarts of cucumbers, put boiling water on them and a good handful of salt; leave all night and drain. Fill cans. Put vinegar on the stove and let it get hot; put in mixed spices or small onions, turn on pickles hot and place horseradish leaves over the tops of the cans.

"THE ROASTING EAR"

We are assured that sweet corn from Delaware's own garden patches will be at its best and abundant in a few days. What good news this is!

The man or woman who has not a proper appreciation of, and an appetite whether for Delaware sweet corn, and who is away from the State, whether at Newport or Kennebunkport or the Devil's Pool, is to be pitied, for thereby is lost one of the finest treats that comes to us each year from the farms.

What could be better than a whole ear of "Country Gentleman," or "Evergreen," or "Shoepeg," with plenty of fresh dairy butter and a mild sprinkling of salt? We answer, Nothing! The gourmand may rave over his ravioli or his green turtle soup, his artichoke or his green turtle salad, or whatsoever grows on land or is taken from the sea, but if his taste is sane and normal, and if he has any appetite but, on second thought, appetite doesn't matter, for it is sure to come—he will turn away from all of them and with an ear of corn gripped securely—with the left hand to be well table-mannered, but with both hands to be eminently satisfactory—and thoroughly greased with butter just from the spring house, he will concede that no other dainty is fit to be considered in the same class with corn.

He knows, too, that only a second or third-rate epicure would profane the luscious corn by cutting the grains from the cob as an overture to the feast. One who would commit such a gastronomic atrocity would indeed even eat the mince-potage oyster from a plate instead of from the half-shell, or use a knife in negotiating a portion of watermelon. What if the butter from the ripe and just shelled corn should spread across the countenance of the man who loves it? What matter even if either end of morsel should extend far enough to butter even both ears of the feeder? The season is short, alas, and one must put polite usages aside if they interfere in the least with the fullest enjoyment of eating corn from the ear as it comes to us from all parts of this fertile county.

Let us pity those who do not find Delaware roasting ears the best of all things to eat and let us sympathize with those who are spending their vacations so far away from the field that they can't get it fresh from the stalk—Every Evening.

VINEGAR HELPS IN HOME CANNING

It may not always be possible to kill all bacteria in home canning, for some of those germs can endure a high degree of heat for a long time. Nevertheless, jars and cans must be processed long enough to kill as many bacteria as possible.

In the case of fruit or tomatoes, even though many of the bacteria survive the short heating process, few or none will grow because of the acid present. Heavy syrup added to the fruit also prevents the growth of bacteria. For this reason fruit requires a much shorter time of processing than vegetables, with the exception of tomatoes.

During the last year, the Home Experimental Kitchen of the United States Department of Agriculture has been experimenting with the addition of a small amount of acid—vinegar—to non-acid vegetables being canned. The work is being continued and the results thus far indicate that one to four tablespoons of vinegar added to a quart jar help greatly in reducing the amount of spoilage. When the vinegar is added the time of processing can be reduced. For instance, it is found that corn, which ordinarily is difficult to can successfully, keeps well when four tablespoons of vinegar are added to a quart jar processed three hours continuously. String beans, old peas and spinach are other vegetables successfully canned by this method.

The addition of vinegar to canned vegetables in the amounts mentioned modifies to some degree the natural flavor of the vegetables, but the result is not objectionable to most people, and in many instances is not noticed.

NEVER NEGLECT

THE BOYS

In a family which we remember very well the father was the law of the household. The mother passively accepted the rulings made by him and if her heart ever dictated a remonstrance against any unjust sentence he passed upon her sons she made no outward sign. In all the years passed in the home we do not remember to have seen a single demonstration of live bestowal upon any of the sons, no encouragement, and no caresses such as parents love to give and children love to receive.

These boys grew up with proud but aching hearts for a little of the affection so lavishly given in other households. Pushed from home to make their living they were often hungry, cold and sick and were forced to go from one place to another. One died calling for a mother who had not put an arm about him since his infancy. One disappeared from any knowledge of those who knew him, and the other did the happiest thing possible—married a warm-hearted girl, who loved him and believed him perfect, and in his home the virtue of love is well sustained. Every one in the house is full of determination to love all the others. They are ever ready to help any one in distress. They believe in their sons and their sons in them. The girls are real women, loving their brothers and father, who as faithfully love and protect them.

Love your boy as much as you do your girl and see the transformation you can make in his life. A mother's loving care often guides a boy long after she has left this earth.

STATE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE AFTER JAPANESE BEETLE

Visits Riverton, N. J., to Secure First Hand Information as to Control

Members of the Delaware State Board of Agriculture visited Riverton, N. J., this week to secure first hand information about the Japanese beetle. This insect must have come over in earth on the roots of imported plants. For the past two years every effort has been made by State and Federal entomologists to prevent its spread, and it has been confined to an area of about fifty square miles, so far as can now be determined, not including a small infestation that apparently was carried across the river by the tide into Pennsylvania.

The beetle spends the most of its time as a grub in the ground where it does little harm; but in the latter part of June and during July it comes out as a bright green beetle with rusty brown wing covers, and feeds on the leaves of fruit and forest trees, eats some fruit and is especially fond of the silk of corn. It is possible that its greatest damage will be to the last named crop, for if the silk is eaten, the grains of corn will not be pollinated and therefore, will not fill.

It is difficult to kill the insect by spraying, but investigations are in progress to discover an effective spray material. The most hopeful thing in sight is to import from Japan, insects that will eat the pest, and parasites that will kill it. Already a very voracious beetle has been imported in considerable numbers and has been distributed in the infested area. This beetle lives in the ground and feeds on the eggs and grubs of this Japanese beetle. The hope is to keep the pest confined within its present extent that they can control it.

Because he goes out at a hot pace, makes pedestrians boiling mad, warms up the police, gets roasted in court, and calls it a burning shame.—Boys' Life for August.

"WHO WON SUFFRAGE?"

Who won suffrage, for the victory can now be considered as won?

Was it the 66 men in the Senate who voted for the Federal suffrage amendment on June 4?

Was it the 304 men in the House who voted for it on May 21, sending it on to the Senate with the mighty majority of 42 votes?

Was it the Republican party which contributed 39 of the yes votes in the Senate?

Was it the Democratic party, which contributing only 27 Senate votes, yet made the greatest single contributions in the prestige and far-reaching influence of President Wilson, who, for two years, had smashed every established precedent in aid of the amendment?

Was it the geniuses of organization who led the suffragists? The influential young society women who joined the suffrage ranks?

The pickets? Oh, my children, if you think it, how little you know the suffrage story!

It was Mother! Just simply and eternally Mother.

That inspirational creature whom you love to put on a pedestal and write poems about and sentimentalize over; that sane, practical person who runs the house; the Queen of the Rolling Pin; your little mother out in the Middle West; my little mother down South; mother up in Maine; mother out in Oregon; mother in Indiana and Florida and Connecticut, Texas and Colorado, and other equally well-known States.

It is popular to link up the suffrage struggle to the individualistic spirit in women. And it is true that the individualistic woman has been willing to go any lengths for suffrage, has fired up over it, thrown bricks for it and presently, been done with it, as she is done with every other life experiment when the stimulation of its novelty has passed. Not that she goes back on suffrage. But she can't go forward for it any more. She stays a "suff" but her zest reaches out for the next thing.

The land is full of young, fine individualistic women today to whom suffrage is frankly "stale stuff."

The individualistic spirit in woman has gotten a lot of things into the world.

But it didn't get suffrage.

Mother got it.

The sustaining spirit of the suffrage movement from the beginning to the end of it has been the mother spirit.

COUNCIL RECEIVES LETTER RELATIVE TO LINCOLN HIGHWAY

E. N. Vallandigham Gives Careful Analysis of Timely Question

Because of the vital interest just now in the subject matter contained therein, the following letter received this week by Mayor Eben B. Frazer, was turned over to the Post for publication:

Eben B. Frazer, Esq.,
President Town Council,
Newark, Del.

Dear Mr. Frazer: As a native of Newark and a temporary resident, I am much interested in the question raised as to the route to be taken by the Lincoln Highway through or near the Town. Perhaps as I am unlikely to be a permanent resident I may be able to see the question without the prejudice that might come from possible injury or benefit to business and to property interests. Were I likely to become a permanent resident, sentiment might determine me against the proposal to make Main street part of the Lincoln Highway, but I fully recognize that this matter can not justly be settled upon solely sentimental grounds.

Public Versus Private Interests

It strikes me that the immediate need is to avoid partisan heat in the discussion, to approach it as nearly as may be with scrupulous regard for all the interests involved, public or private. Nobody can deny that private interests should not outweigh public interests in this or in any other matter. At the same time, it is undeniable that business men of whatever kind who have established themselves upon Main street with a view to the advantages it offers by reason of local and general consideration of their interests in the determination of the route to be taken by the Lincoln Highway. They have the higher claim upon the consciences of their fellow citizens, in that business men suffering permanent loss, perhaps of a very serious character by the exclusion of the Lincoln Highway route from Main street, could obtain no damage at law from a public decision detrimental to their interests. On the other hand, private residents on Main Street, and the whole community have important rights, of personal safety, and of public economy that must be carefully weighed. Fortunately one of the most important business interests of the town, Delaware College, can have no very strong leaning one way or the other, except in one event to be considered later in this communication, for the sentimental wish to preserve Newark as first of all a serenely quiet academic community, is already unattainable, and increased traffic upon Main Street can not long greatly interfere with the essential work of the College, because more and more those activities will be withdrawn from that thoroughfare.

Neither the business man eager to preserve and extend his trade, nor the resident fearful for his peace and comfort can claim the right to settle this matter in accordance with his real or fancied personal interests. As to the business men, they need to look keenly into the future in order to determine what their true interests are in this matter, to see where their true interest lies, and as to private residents, they must recognize that Main Street below the Baltimore and Ohio crossing is to be more and more a noisy and crowded business thoroughfare, whatever the route of the Lincoln Highway. Already home seekers are looking elsewhere than on Main Street east of the Baltimore and Ohio crossing for the permanent peace and comfort of a quiet thoroughfare with an agreeable outlook. As to the conservatives that instinctively shrink from all change, they can hardly expect to control a matter vital to an active community.

Effect of Increased Through Traffic

It is first of all necessary that the town clearly understand what amount of additional traffic upon Main Street may be expected immediately and in the future should that thoroughfare form part of the Lincoln Highway. We can all imagine such an increase of general traffic upon Main Street as would render it dangerous and almost useless for local purposes. If we are to have within the next five years an almost continuous procession of heavy trucks upon Main Street, plainly it will cease to be our street, and become everybody's street. The suggestion has been made that heavy trucking should be provided for by a detour, and perhaps such a plan is what we need if the great highway is to traverse Main Street.

If through traffic greatly increases upon Main Street the town water pipes may be endangered, and certainly foot passengers will be endangered. We already have a difficult problem in the regulation of speed upon Main Street, and that problem would be vastly more difficult with largely increased through traffic. The expense of policing the street would be largely increased by such growth of through traffic. Of course those who hope and believe that Newark is to be a large and active business community may properly enough reply to this argument, that the increased cost of traffic regulation will be amply met by the increased taxation from the higher assessment upon improved business premises.

As to the injury to business by the exclusion of through traffic from Main Street, it is possible that a great increase of such traffic might be even more damaging. A street so crowded with through traffic, which is certainly, vehicle for vehicle, less profitable to most business men than local traffic, as to produce an embarrassing congestion, can not enrich the merchants, and might not prove as profitable to our restaurants and garages as they perhaps expect. There must be a careful balancing of public and private loss and gain. The men who have put money and enterprise into the establishing of garages have a right to ask that their fellow citizens pause before decreeing ruin to the garage owners, if, indeed, any such damage is threatened, but the garage owners can not ask that the community interests be sacrificed to theirs. The like is true of restaurants and other purveyors to the travelling public, local or general.

May Require Widening of Main Street

One immensely important matter is to be considered by both private residents and the business community, and that is the possibility, indeed the strong probability, that the State, County, and Federal authorities which will control the Lincoln Highway will insist within a very few years upon the widening of Main Street to 100 feet between curbs. Every resident, and many business concerns would be vitally affected by such a change, for it would mean the rebuilding of the street in a very large measure. Here Delaware College would be disastrously affected, and it is by no means certain that any except a very few business concerns would profit by the widening. The representative of New Castle county warned the little group of townsfolk who met to discuss this question the other day that such widening of Main Street was a highly probable event of the future.

Careful Study of Question Necessary

A careful and dispassionate study of the whole situation with its possibilities, inquiry as to what other towns have done and what has been the effect, and an earnest wish to do as nearly as possible absolute justice as between public and private interests, will assure such a solution of this problem as shall not inflict great wrong upon anyone, or engender enduring bitterness.

Finally, the essential elements of the question seem to be these: Which is more important to the town in general and to its business community, through traffic or local traffic, what the fleeting stranger will spend here, or what our own people, in the town and the neighboring rural region will spend? How great may be the congestion from the inevitably increased through traffic, and what would be its effect upon local traffic? What proportion of the business community would be disastrously affected by the exclusion of the Lincoln Highway from Main Street, and how far would general business follow the route of that highway? Would the widening of Main Street to 100 feet between curbs add so much to the dignity, beauty, and convenience of that thoroughfare as to compensate for the rebuilding of a large part of the street from the Baltimore and Ohio railroad eastward? What of public safety? These and perhaps other considerations need to be frankly faced by all citizens, and it is probable that the question can not be intelligently settled without a fair and thorough presentation of facts and figures not yet before this community.

E. N. VALLANDIGHAM.

was submitted to them that way. Where the State Highway is completed in Kent and Sussex Counties, the route outside the town has eventually been chosen in every case and the business men of the towns say that their trade has not suffered thereby. In every case a year's trial has convinced them that such a route is the more satisfactory of the two. This, however, does not settle the matter for Middletown or Newark. It is a matter for debate until settled by the State Highway Department, whose decision is not likely to please everybody since they are building roads not for any group but for the State. They are building for more than 200,000 people and not for any particular community. The opinions and wishes of a community are, however, carefully considered by the Department in arriving at a decision with regard to a particular stretch of road. In this connection he explained that originally the Levy Court was to build that portion of the Lincoln Highway from the Pennsylvania line to Wilmington, the most difficult piece of work on the route. The Department, however, took over the work to relieve the Levy Court whose funds were not sufficient to cover the entire job. A portion of this fund is still available for the portion from Wilmington to the Maryland line. The responsibility for the completion of this belongs at present to the Levy Court unless circumstances should arise which would necessitate the State's taking over the work. Such is not yet the case, he said, but if the citizens present their reasons for asking for such action, he would be very glad to convey them to the Department for consideration.

Citizens Favor Main Street Route Mayor Frazer then asked for expressions of opinion from the citizens.

George W. Griffin, the first speaker, said that as a resident of the worst corner in town, he would waive personal feelings in the matter and consider the welfare of the town which he thought would be affected adversely by the choosing of any other than the Main Street route. He predicted that 75 per cent of the through travel would patronize Elkton and Wilmington, and that these two places would profit by the shortsightedness of the Newark people if they objected to this route.

Dr. H. G. M. Kollock said the most important consideration was safety. He remarked that it was not safe now to cross the street at certain times of the day and that conditions would be worse if the Lincoln Highway was run through Main Street. The benefits he said would not compensate for the great dangers.

Upon suggestion from the floor, the chairman asked for an expression of opinion from each man in turn.

Dr. G. Burton Pearson inquired if a survey had been made of the route south of town and was told that it had not. He also opposed the Main street route and thought the truck service would be objectionable through the heart of the town.

James A. McKelvey spoke for the Main Street route. He contended that business would go wherever the travel goes and that consequently the highway if built outside the town would be just as congested in a few generations as it would be if Main Street is selected.

William P. Wollaston said he would be sorry to see the road go any other place than Main Street as he was sure business would leave that street to a large extent.

David C. Rose stated that Main Street was the only route and to change it would rob the Main Street business man of business and property. He expressed the opinion that the State if the highway selects Main Street should at least partly maintain it.

Warren A. Singles said conditions are much different in Newark than in towns down the state around which the highway was built. Main Street he considered the logical route.

Thomas Claringbold favored Main Street, while Louis L. Curtis spoke for a route outside the town.

Charles W. Strahorn, Wilbur Wilson, Ernest Frazer, Francis Brown and Roger Lovett all spoke for the Main Street route.

George Casho opposed the Main Street proposition and said the noise would make it unbearable for residents on that street.

E. H. Vogt stated that it was a case of comfort and safety against progress, and inevitably the former would have to give way.

A. F. Fader state that the business of the town would in his opinion be seriously affected and that the object of business should be to draw trade to the town instead of to drive it away. He asked a number of questions relative to the width of the Highway to take care of future generations and what aid the State would give toward maintaining it. These were answered by Mr. Upham and Mr. Marvel, who stated that there was nothing in the law to prevent the State's maintaining the Highway if the town should meet certain conditions.

Others who favored Main Street were Perry Towson, S. B. Herdman, Sol Wilson, Louis Handloff, John Miller, Thomas A. Potts, J. W. Parish and Dr. George W. Rhodes.

Advices Temporary Repairs Wilmington-Newark Road

Chief Engineer Upham arrived late because he got lost on one of the detours on the way from Wilmington. When he was called upon by Mayor Frazer, he stated that Mr. Marvel had probably covered the ground for the Department and that there was nothing he could add. He did, however, discuss the condition of the road over which he had just come, declaring that the people of Newark must be pretty good natured to endure travel over such a road. The heavy traffic there he said, would certainly warrant the expenditure of a considerable sum to smooth up the road temporarily until such time as the permanent road shall be completed. In reply to Mr. Griffin's question as to when the permanent road would be completed inasmuch as it had taken the Levy Court four years to build four miles of it, Mr. Upham said that he could not say definitely.

Mr. Rose thereupon moved that it be the sense of the meeting that the State Highway Department be requested to take over the Lincoln Highway from Marshallton to Newark and complete it. The motion was unanimously adopted.

Concerning the probability of having to widen Main Street, both Mr. Upham and Mr. Marvel were of the opinion that it would probably have to be done eventually. A 60 foot right of way has been secured for a greater part of the State highway in order to provide for adequate drainage as well as necessary traffic.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLE SHIPPERS MUST MARK CONTAINERS

Federal Inspectors to Examine Interstate Shipments to Insure Action

Fruits and vegetables in package form when shipped into interstate commerce should bear a plain and conspicuous statement of the quantity of the contents in each package, according to a statement made by officials of the Bureau of Chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture, who are charged with the enforcement of the Federal food and drugs act. Instructions have been issued showing how various fruits and vegetables in different styles of packages may be marked in order to comply fully with the net weight amendment to the law, also showing what shipments of vegetables as ordinarily marketed are exempt from the net weight provisions. These instructions have been distributed widely among fruit and vegetable growers and shippers.

The bulk of the fruits and vegetables not shipped into interstate commerce are marked in accordance with the law, say officials, but some shippers have overlooked or are disregarding this provision of the law. Since this amendment has been in effect for six years and every opportunity has been given to the trade to get in line with its provisions, it is the opinion of the officials that there is now no excuse for any shipper failing to make the quantity of the contents on packages of fruits and vegetables shipped within the jurisdiction of the law.

Kinds of Markings Required

Fruits and vegetables in baskets, hampers, drums, cartons, boxes, crates, and barrels may in general be marked by either weight or dry measure, or when packed in barrels may be marked in terms of the United States standard barrel and its subdivisions of third, half, or three quarters. Statements of dry measure should be in terms of the United States standard bushel and its customary subdivisions of half-bushel, pecks, quarts, pints, or half-pints. If the quantity of the contents be stated by weight or measure it should be marked in terms of the largest unit contained in the package, except that in the case of an article with respect to which there exists a definite trade custom for marking the quantity of the article in terms of fractional parts of larger units, it may be so marked in accordance with the custom. For example, if the package contains a pound, or pounds, and a fraction of a pound, the contents should be expressed in terms of pounds and fractions thereof, or of pounds and ounces and not merely in ounces, unless there is a definite trade custom to the contrary.

Crates or "flats" containing small open containers of apricots, berries, currants, cherries, grapes, peaches, plums, prunes, peppers, tomatoes, and the like, should be marked on the outside of the crate or "flat" with the number of small containers and the quantity of the contents of each. When the crates are so marked it is not necessary to mark the quantity of contents on the small open containers within the crates, but if the quantity of contents is marked on the small open containers the marking must be correct.

Certain Shipments Exempt for the Present

It is not necessary for the present and until further notice to mark the quantity of contents on the following fruits and vegetables when marketed in the manner indicated: Asparagus in boxes and cases; beets with tops, bunched, in drums and hampers; cabbage in crates; cantaloupes and casabas in crates and baskets; carrots with tops, bunched, in drums and hampers; cauliflower in crates and hampers; celery in boxes and crates; eggplant commonly wrapped in paper and packed in crates; kale in barrels, baskets, and hampers; lettuce in barrels, drums, baskets, and hampers; onions with tops, bunched, in drums and hampers; pineapples in crates; radishes, bunched, in drums and hampers; romaine in hampers; spinach in barrels, baskets, and hampers; turnips with tops in drums and hampers.

Federal inspectors have been instructed to examine interstate shipments of fruits and vegetables to see that the quantity of contents is marked in accordance with the law.

CUTTING SOME TREES TO IMPROVE THE WOOD LOT

According to experienced woodsmen the following trees should be cut to improve the woodlot:

Trees which are well suited for firewood, and the removal of which will be an improvement to the remaining trees in the stand.

Trees which have been overtopped by others and have had their growth stunted.

Diseased trees, or trees seriously injured by insect attacks, or trees extremely liable to such injury; for example, chestnut in the region subject to blight or birch in the gipsy-moth area.

Badly fire-scarred trees.

Trees of the less valuable species, such as beech, birch, black oak, blackjack oak, or black gum, crowding the more valuable sugar maple, white or short-leaf pines, yellow poplar, or white oak.

Crooked trees and large-crowned, short-boled trees which will not make good lumber and which are crowding or overtopping others.

Slow-growing trees crowding fast-growing species of equal value.

Sound dead trees both standing and down.

NEW BELLS MADE TO SOUND LIKE OLD

We have often heard of the beautiful silver tone of very old church bells in Europe and some have even been bought at a great price and brought to America. It was supposed that after a bell had rung regularly for one or two centuries some mysterious quality was developed, and the beautiful tone could be acquired in no other way. An ingenious American studied the problem, however, and decided that the silver tone was simply due to the fact that the clapper of the bell had worn itself and the bell by continued striking until the two fit closely together and that the shape of the metal and nothing else determined the tone. He began to make bells by casting them so that the clapper and the bell fit each other properly, and the mellow silver tone was obtained at once. Today we are manufacturing such bells and selling them abroad.—Boys' Life.

TRANSFORMING WASTED ENERGY INTO LIGHT AND HEAT

A great wealth of energy equal to ten times the horsepower generated by Niagara Falls goes to waste on our farms. The Government has been experimenting in a special station near Washington in burning the straw, corn stalks and other fodder which is commonly thrown away. By using a little retort built for the purpose a farmer can transform this waste product into enough gas to light and heat his home and have energy enough besides to run his farm machinery. If all the farmers of the country can be persuaded to burn up their refuse in this way the energy saved will add about $2,000,000,000 to the wealth of the country every year.

A rather green countryman has just returned from his first visit to New York.

"Well, Si," said the postmaster, "what did you think of the metropolis?"

"Wat say?" gawked the other, stumped by so big a word.

"I asked how did you like the metropolis?"

"Oh, that—'twasn't open," said Si.—Boston Transcript.

BIG ATHLETIC AND TRACK MEET TO MARK FAIR OPENING

Hundreds Expected to Compete for State Championship Honors

Newark athletes and others in this vicinity will have an opportunity during the State Fair to compete for State championship honors on the opening day of the Fair, September 6, when a big track and field meet will be held under the auspices of the Community Service. It had been planned previously to hold a number of elimination meets prior to the championship contests but the baseball season, occupying the attention of the majority of the local athletes, caused this plan to be discarded.

According to Harry Ray, director of the physical department of Community Service, a number of entries from various sources have already been received and more are expected. All entries must be made before September 1. Mr. Ray announced recently.

Prizes will be given to those capturing first, second and third place in the various events. The prizes will consist of cups in some instances and in others of medals. It is the intention of the Community Service to place the trophies on exhibition in several of Wilmington's leading stores.

The huge success of the international track and field meet held a little more than a year ago when foreigners representing more than 22 different nationalities competed in the athletic events points to an even more successful meet this year. Officials for the most part are being selected by the Community Service from among the sport followers of Wilmington. An effort is being made to secure the most capable men in the city's athletic field. An announcement of the names of the officials will be made shortly.

While hundreds are expected to take part in the state championship events at the state fair, according to Mr. Ray, of the Community Service, there will be no confusion in handling the entrants.

Steel Markers to be Placed on Lincoln Highway

Before next winter comes, enameled steel markers will have been placed at every confusing turn and cross road on the Lincoln Highway from New York to San Francisco, making what is said to be the longest highway in the world with such guide marks, according to announcement from headquarters of the Lincoln Highway Association, at Detroit, Mich. The road from Omaha to San Francisco already has such markers and work of marking the highway from New York to Omaha now is in progress.

The highway never has been permanently marked between New York and Omaha.

THEIR FAITH

To keep the faith you say they went to France.
Ah, that is true; but not the faith you hold.
They tossed their lives into the scale of chance,
And fought the fight our fathers fought of old.

Not for a vision nor fantastic dream,
Nor with a promise on their firm-set lips,
But just for this—that our own soul supreme,

Our country's weal, be with them on the ships.

And those who sleep beneath the Flemish sod
Met Death as heroes, not to save a race,
But that a nation, in the name of God,
Fear not its foes, but meet them face to face.

—Edward S. Van Zile.

CLOSER RELATION URGED BETWEEN BANKER AND FARMER

Cooperation Keynote of Group Meeting at Georgetown on Thursday

At a group meeting of the Delaware State Bankers' Association held in Georgetown last Thursday, Dean C. A. McCue, dean and director of the Agricultural Experiment Station, spoke of the help that banks could and should give to farmers so that the farmers may not be handicapped for lack of funds when they wish to increase their activities. He said: "The prosperity of our country rests solidly upon the foundation of agriculture. Transportation facilities have so increased during the last 50 years that no nation can longer live unto itself. We draw our food products from the far ends of the earth and we are dependent upon many countries for our daily menu.

"Bread, meat, butter, milk, corn and potatoes we can produce at home. Yet during the late war we came to realize that for even these things we were, in a measure, dependent upon a supply of potash from the old world.

"Even here in Delaware today we can see in our cornfields the results of four or five years of potash starvation. We thus see that if this nation and state is to survive, progress and prosper, we must not neglect our agricultural interests.

"By a sympathetic and intelligent handling of credits the local banker can do much to make the farm communities contiguous to his bank a better place to live and prosper. As the community prospers so will its banking institutions prosper."

Dean McCue then spoke of the agricultural program started by the Delaware State Bankers' Association last year. Six recommendations of the bankers' agricultural committee concerned Delaware College. They were:

First, that the association encourage in Delaware boys' and girls' agricultural clubs and advise its members to loan money on interest-bearing notes to reliable club boys and girls.

Second, that the association request each member bank to contribute $10 toward a free scholarship in the club week course, arranged by the college.

Third, that the association cooperate with the county farm bureaus in supplying farmers with farm account books.

Fourth, that the association encourage the use of pure-bred stock by loaning money on interest bearing notes to reliable farmers who wish to purchase better livestock.

Fifth, that bulletin racks be placed in the banks.

Sixth, that bank members extend liberal credit to young farmers who give promise of success.

In pursuance of this program Dean McCue showed that the banks had assisted boys and girls to purchase $5124 worth of pure-bred stock; that the banks gave 35 scholarships, making it possible for 35 boys or girls to go to Newark for a week's instruction in agriculture and home economics; that more than 2000 farm account books were distributed; that 87 head of mature pure-bred animals representing an investment of $20,000 have been brought into the state through the co-operation of two banks in New Castle county.

"Delaware is unique among the states of the Union in that she is the only state which does not support her agricultural extension work by local county appropriations. In some counties in New York and New Jersey, over $4000 is appropriated by certain counties. If county agents work is to become stabilized in Delaware it must receive financial support from the counties.

"Your association can be of great aid to Delaware agriculture by supporting a measure which would allow the several Levy Courts or boards of county commissioners to appropriate money for agricultural extension.

Discusses Importance of Farming Industry

Horace L. Dilworth, Past Master of the State Grange, speaking on the subject, "The Banker and the Farmer," called attention to the failure of Delaware farm land to increase in value as rapidly as that of other states. The past two years has ment an average increase of only $18 per acre in Delaware, while in Iowa it was $77.

"As the years roll by," he said, "agriculture is approaching more and more the position of the most important industry of the country, more and more to the position of an exact science, requiring a wider range of knowledge than most industries for its successful operation.

"It is a long road from the agriculture of the most primitive people to the present complex food problems, from the plow made from a crooked stick to the modern use of the tractor, from the skill and energy required of the dwellers of the stone age to the skill and energy required for the successful operation of a two hundred-acre Delaware farm in 1920.

"The popular notion among city people is that all that the farmers have to do is to scratch the earth, and then sit down and wait for abundant crops to burst forth. This is one of the most foolish fallacies of the present day. There is no industry that has so many difficulties to contend with as farming. No matter how much care is used in the preparation of the soil, how much plant food and seed is used, no man can predict what the harvest will be. A hot wind may burn up the crop, or a hail storm or cyclone entire destroy it.

"A declining agriculture is vital evidence of state or national decay and must be prevented at all hazards.

"On the whole, the farm situation in Delaware presents the same difficulties as elsewhere. It has been only a very short time since the U. S. Department of Agriculture was very free to say that Sussex county, Delaware, offered greater possibilities for farming than anywhere in the United States.

"Modern farming to be successfully carried on requires a large outlay of money for live stock, seeds, fertilizers and machinery, and like any other business enterprise, this capital must be available or the business fails.

"The farmers must, therefore, look to the bankers to furnish them the capital necessary to carry on their operations. The larger amount of capital required, and under proper conditions, the net income will be larger per acre.

"The banker, in return, will receive his loan with the interest and in many cases a largely increased line of deposits. There are many other ways in which the banker and the farmer may cooperate.

"The health, happiness and successful financial operation of the rural communities depend entirely upon the amount of knowledge that is available for the solution of the problems that arise from day to day. So that the banker can aid immensely in the development of efficient school systems, that will bring health, happiness and wealth to the farm dwellers, by financing school building operations, by offering scholarships for farm boys and farm girls in our State college, prizes for Boys' and Girls' Club work, and in many other ways.

"The Delaware banks hold an enviable record as to their stability. A closer cooperation with the farmer and assistance rendered in the development of the farm family will strengthen our banks yet more and add fame to the State."

Other Addresses

W. V. Cosden, president of the Kent County Farm Bureau, was the first speaker to address the meeting. His subject was "The Cooperative Movement Among Farmers."

In an extensive address on "Savings and Savings Banks," Robert D. Kemp, president of the Artisans' Savings Bank, Wilmington, elaborated on the necessity for thrift, the utility and operation of the savings banks of the country and the cooperation of bankers towards bettering conditions.

Profiteers received a merciless flaying at the hands of Charles S. Conwell, vice president of the Baltimore Trust Company, Camden. Ranking him lower than gambler, beggar or thief, Mr. Conwell characterized the gouger as a "cowardly parasite and extortionist." According to Mr. Conwell a profiteer is a person who takes advantage of disturbed national economic conditions to "make his pile" which he "gets dishonorably and spends like a voluptuary."

John S. Rossell, president of the Security Trust and Safe Deposit Company, of Wilmington, president of the bankers' association, presided at the meeting.

The report of the Committee on thrift and savings showed that the people in answer to the appeals and educational work of the bankers, had materially increased their savings with the banks of the state. The committee urged a continuance of the educational campaign.

The committee on agriculture recommended that the subject of farming be kept constantly before the association and efforts be made to carry out the various plans suggested for the cooperation of the farmer and the banker.

BLUE AND GOLD HAS PROMISING MATERIAL FOR FOOTBALL TEAM

Candidates Called to Report Rehoboth September 4 for Practice

In order to put the Blue and Gold football team into the proper trim for the opening game of the season, that with the University of Pennsylvania on Franklin Field September 25, Coach H. Burton Shipley has called the candidates to report at Rehoboth on Saturday, September 4. This course was decided upon by the college athletic officials in view of the fact that otherwise only nine days' training would be possible since college does not open until September 16.

About nine "letter" men from last year's squad have been ordered to report. These include Captain McCaughan, quarterback; Wintrup, Tonkin and Alexander, backs; Foulk and Magaw, ends; Marconetti and Poole, guards; Holton, tackle.

Gray Carter, who is a four-letter man, will also probably be present as a candidate for his old position of tackle.

Prospects for Fine Team This Season

In the regular men of last year's squad Coach Shipley has excellent material for a first class team. In last year's substitute list are many who will be likely candidates for the first eleven this year; and in the entering class are some men whose records in high and "prep" school make them possibilities also.

"Sank" McCaughan, captain of this year's team, is a strong, versatile player whose work last year was consistently clever; H. B. Alexander, "Alec," has the weight and speed essential for a backfield position; Foulk and Magaw, although a trifle light in weight, did excellent work last year in the end positions.

Marconetti's size and weight and his indomitable energy together with his experience, make him an invaluable guard. Jeff Poole also plays a good game in this position.

"Dick" Holton played well at tackle last year and with the additional weight gained during the summer, will bid fair to land a regular job there.

Harmer, Williams, Murray, Jackson and Ivory, second string men last year who showed up well in substitute positions, will probably be candidates for the first eleven.

Some Likely Newcomers

In the Freshman class is some material that doubtless be of value.

According to an authority on football possibilities, "Elliott of last year's Perkiomen 'prep' team and former Harlan and Wilmington High School star, should be among the first eleven men. 'Ike' is heavy and fast and a natural player. With him he is bringing Irwin, reputed to be the best athlete ever turned out at Perkiomen. Irwin is speedy and a clever field runner. He is a halfback and could be utilized to second 'Sank' McCaughan in calling signals.

"Elliott said recently that another man, a guard from last year's 'Perk' team, was also considering entering Delaware. Ike characterized the man as a 'guard and a half.' He said he weighs but 160 but make up for the lacking in pounds with fight.

"Harv" Hayes, last year's Wilmington High School and Chesbrook star, will most likely report for practice at Delaware this fall. Hayes has not presented his credits at the college as yet but it is expected that he will have no difficulty in entering. He has been studying during the summer months for the exams.

"Johnny" Schaffer, who played a clever game at quarter for Wilmington High School last year, will be a Freshman this fall and will report for the team.

"Besides these men, who are known to be in the entering class, the first practice after college opens will undoubtedly unearth some more good candidates."

FORMER MEMBER OF FACULTY RETURNS TO OLD DELAWARE

H. E. Tiffany Accepts Associate Professorship in Chemistry

Professor Harold E. Tiffany was appointed last week associate professor in chemistry to succeed Professor Firman Thompson who resigned at the close of the academic year to accept a position with a Philadelphia commercial concern. Professor Tiffany was a member of the faculty for several years prior to 1918 when he resigned to accept a position with the duPont Company. This he resigned last fall to become head of the department of geology at Hunter College, New York. He took several courses at Columbia University last year.

Captain Lathe Rowe has been recommended by the Department of the East of the Army with headquarters at Governor's Island, for officer in charge of the R. O. T. C. at Delaware College. This recommendation has been approved by Dean E. Laurence Smith, acting for President Hullihen and the official assignment of Captain Rowe to this post is expected soon.

Captain Rowe has had some experience in this particular line of military work, as he was formerly officer in charge of the R. O. T. C.

at Duquesne University, Pittsburgh. He made an excellent record overseas during the war and comes to Delaware highly recommended.

Captain Ralph Dickinson who was in charge of the R. O. T. C. at Delaware the latter part of last year has not been assigned. He did excellent work while here and this summer was one of the officers in charge of the R. O. T. C. camp at Camp Devens, Mass., which was attended by a number of Delaware men.

With these appointments every vacancy in the faculty of Delaware has now been filled with the exception of a successor for Dr. Homer Hoyt, professor of business administration who resigned at the close of the college year.

DEMOCRATS TO HOLD PRIMARIES SATURDAY

The Democrats will hold their primary election next Saturday. No contest developed in any of the election districts. Those filing in this Representative District are:

Western District: Frank Collins and N. M. Motherall.

Middle District: Oscar Ewing.

The polls for the first district will be at Fader's garage; for the second at the Washington House; and for the third at Currinder's store, Christiana.

FORMER MEMBER OF COLLEGE FACULTY VISITS NEWARK FRIENDS

Professor Myrtle V. Caudell, formerly head of the department of Home Economics at Women's College, now head of that department at Buffalo Normal College at Buffalo, New York, visited Mrs. Charles Strahorn for several days during the past week. Miss Clau dell has just obtained her Master's degree at Columbia University.
