With Republicans, the grass is greener

by Joy Aschenbach

WASHINGTON — It's certainly not a true-bluegrass test of political affiliation, but according to two former University of Delaware researchers you can tell a Democrat from a Republican by the state of his front yard.

The finding was weeded out after careful study by geography professor Roger S.

Ulrich and graduate student Thomas Cosgrove, and was presented at this year's annual meeting of the Association of American Geographers.

In this turf battle, "Republican or conservative yards were neater and more orderly," says Ulrich, now on the faculty of Texas A&M University. "They had significantly higher scores for maintenance, such as pruning, trimming, edging and condition of the grass."

"That's not to say that Democratic or liberal lawns were overwhelmingly bad or neglected," explains Cosgrove, who used the study for his master's thesis in human geography. "Democratic lawns had a greater diversity of vegetation — greater numbers of trees, bushes and shrubs."

Sixty-six matched pairs of front yards were surveyed, each pair containing a registered Republican and Democratic household.

Most were next-door neighbors. None were more than five houses apart.

All yards were maintained by their owners, not by a hired gardener. The researchers accounted for any professional fertilizing or weed control.

The paired yards were in 14 middle-income subdivisions in the Newark and Wilmington areas. The lawns were similar in size, about 2,000 to 2,500 square feet, and belonged to people of similar age, income and education.

Each had lived at that address for at least three years, long enough, Cosgrove says, for their yards to reflect their landscaping preferences.

Cosgrove took color photographs of the 132 yards in the summer and asked a landscape architect, unaware of the political aspect of his task, to rate them for maintenance and condition of the grass and plantings.

The Republicans ranked higher in most maintenance categories, according to an interview with Ulrich by the National Geographic News Service.

As part of the survey, which was completed four years ago, Cosgrove questioned 22 pairs of the households about landscaping attitudes and activities.

UD committee hears concerns

by Cathy Thomas

A shortage of on-campus housing at the University of Delaware has forced the problem of student alcohol abuse into the Newark community, according to Newark Police Chief William Hogan.

Speaking before the University trustees' Ad Hoc Committee on Student Use of Alcohol Monday, Hogan said city residents are complaining about loud parties and other problems created by students off-campus.

"The first thing they tell me is the University has failed," said Hogan. "Those residents who are not associated with the University harbor a great deal of resentment."

The ad hoc committee has been gathering input on the University's alcohol policy for a report to the trustees later this year.

The committee was formed following the death of University student Brian Mulrooney died last month. Mulrooney died of alcohol poisoning following a party in the Paper Mill Apart-

Greenhouse, Justice joust over budget

by Cathy Thomas

Just how much "fat" is in the New Castle County budget was an issue over which the candidates for county executive clashed Tuesday night during a debate on WDEL-AM radio.

Democratic candidate Dennis Greenhouse, currently the state auditor, accused incumbent Republican Rita Justice of allowing fat in the budget. He said agencies were allowed to carry over appropriations from year-to-year, creating great encumbrances.

"This is nothing more than a slush fund," said Greenhouse. "That's exactly what the encumbrances are."

Greenhouse also said Justice did not accurately predict county income for the 1988 fiscal budget, when her administration proposed a tax increase and employee layoffs. He said the county ended up with a surplus of $4 million.

Justice denied that there is any fat in the budget and said the surplus indicated good budgeting. "If we had not used sound management, we would not have had the excess there."

Justice said there has been inequity among the counties in distribution of state income tax revenues. Although more people are employed in New Castle County, she said the county has not received a fair share of income tax revenues.

She said the state is now reviewing the matter because of her encouragement.

Also Tuesday night, Greenhouse referred to the proposed county comprehensive development plan as a "draft copy of a plan."

County Council has yet to approve the plan, which must be finalized by the end of the year according to state law.

"If it weren't for state law, we wouldn't have a plan," said Greenhouse. "What we have is Council with their backs up against the wall."

However, Justice said the reason the plan has come down to the wire for consideration is that some Council members failed to attend meetings on the plan.

"It (their backs) wouldn't be up against the wall if they had been at the workshops," said Justice.

Tuesday night's debate is one of several that WDEL radio is sponsoring between candidates in the Nov. 8 general election.

$7 million Main Street renovation project set

by Cathy Thomas

A $7 million renovation project proposed for the west end of Newark's Main Street includes a new office building at the site of the State Theatre and a multi-level parking garage.

Robert L. Teeven Sr. this week unveiled the plans, which he said he will take to the city for consideration early next year.

"We're trying to get something going here that's positive," said Teeven. "Main Street has a lot of potential."

Teeven's plans will include the demolition of the theater and other buildings on the south side of Main Street between the WSFS building and the University of Delaware's central campus property.

The demolition will make way for a four-story building that will house retailers on the first floor and offices on the other floors.

Teeven said the condition of the buildings necessitates the demolition.

"A lot of the buildings here are not up to code," said Teeven. "Everyone seems to worry about the State Theatre, but nobody seemed to support it when it was open."

The State opened as a vaudeville house, and was later converted for use as a movie theater.

Teeven also said there is a lot of wasted space in the current buildings.

The other major part of the renovation project is a $3.5 million parking garage to be built along Delaware Avenue and behind the new office building. The four-level garage will provide 600 parking spaces.

"I've been coming on the street for 20 years," said Teeven, whose own office is on Main Street. "There's no parking."

Teeven said the lack of parking on Main Street contributes to the traffic problem because people have to drive around looking for a parking space.

Retail space in the new office building will be offered to businesses in the existing buildings, according to Teeven.

"We will offer them first choice to get back in the building," he said.

Teeven also said there were several businesses that would like to come to Newark if there was a place to locate.

The design of the new building will fit in with other buildings along Main Street, according to Teeven.

He is not certain when work will begin.

The State Theatre will be torn down.

• A Newark man was injured in a hit-and-run accident last week at the intersection of Del. 273 and Main Street in Christiana, according to State Police.

William Jay Blazes, 20, of the 3700 block of Golfview Drive, was hurt in the crash, which occurred Friday morning just south of the University Plaza shopping center.

According to police, Blazes was stopped in the left turn lane when another car crossed the westbound lanes of Del. 273 and struck his car in the right side. The car then fled toward Christiana.

Police are looking for the driver of a 1977-78 Oldsmobile Cutlass with a six-digit Delaware license plate. The driver is described as a white male with dark hair. The car may have damage to the front end.

• A 27-year-old Newark woman was sexually assaulted Tuesday morning by two black men with whom she had accepted a ride, police said.

According to police, the two men were giving the woman a ride home. Before reaching her residence, police said the men told the woman they had to make a stop at the Glasgow Motel. It was there that she was allegedly sexually assaulted.

The woman contacted at authorities and received medical treatment at Christiana Hospital.

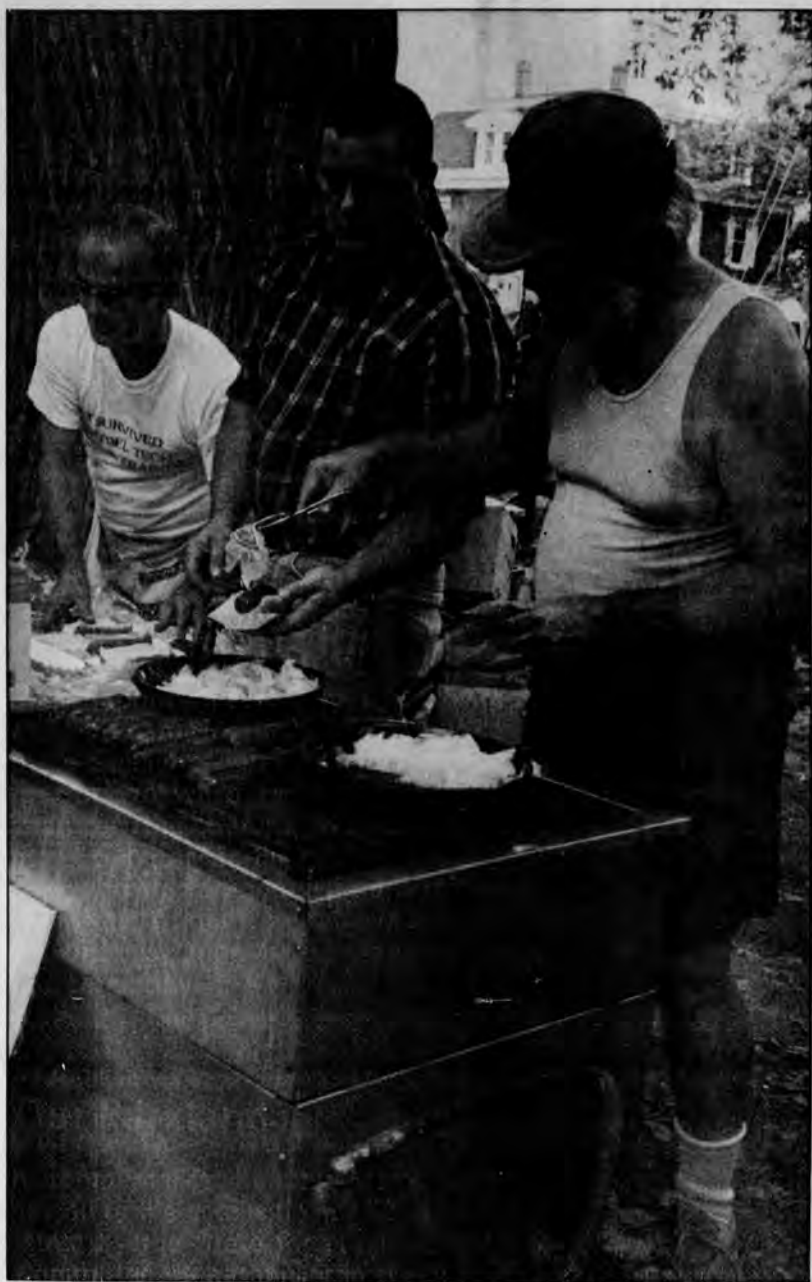

Police are looking for two black men. One man is described as 5 feet 6 inches tall, medium build, about 45 years old. The other is described as a young man, about 5 feet 3 inches tall and darker complexion.

• Two 1988 graduates of the University of Delaware's agriculture engineering technology program have been honored by the American Society of Agricultural Engineers' North Atlantic Region.

The students, Garth D. Somerville and Barry J. Cronk, won awards in the organization's annual student paper competition.

Somerville won first place for a paper entitled "A Least Cost Field Machinery Selection Program for the Personal Computer."

Cronk won second place for his paper, "An Independent Study On Machinery Management."

Preparing food for hungry Newark Community Day revelers are Knights of Columbus Gary Dolde, John Timney and Fran DuPhily. Despite threats of rain, the weather held and more than 10,000 Newarkers turned out for the special event.

UD president offends Poles, offers apology

University of Delaware President Russel C. Jones was roundly criticized and issued an apology this week after offending Polish-Americans.

Several Polish-American organizations were angered when Jones used the term "Polack" during a meeting with the University's Black Faculty-Staff Coalition.

Some Polish-Americans called for the president's resignation over the incident.

Jones does not plan to resign and Friday apologized for using the term, which is considered a slur by Americans of Polish descent.

Ironically, the remark came during a meeting with blacks who believe they are being slighted by the University president.

Jones met with the Black Faculty Staff Coalition Sept. 27 in an attempt to address their concerns.

The Coalition believes the University has not abided by the spirit of affirmative action in recent hirings.

During the meeting, the president tried to explain prejudice as it existed where he was raised.

Jones said that in his home region there were few blacks and thus little or no prejudice against blacks.

Instead, he said, prejudice was against "Polacks."

The remark, quoted in Friday's edition of The Review, the University student newspaper, caused several Polish-American groups to protest.

State officials study UPS chemical leak

Environmental officials are trying to determine why a toxic chemical leaked from a package in the United Parcel Service warehouse near Newark last month, causing injuries to several employees and the evacuation of the building.

An investigation is being conducted to see if any enforcement action is warranted, a spokesman for the Delaware Department of Natural Resources said earlier this week.

The chemical, pyridine, was being shipped in four glass containers. One of the containers apparently broke, spilling the chemical in the warehouse.

The chemical causes nausea and dizziness. No one was seriously hurt by the chemical, but 14 workers were taken to the hospital for observation.

The DENREC spokesman said the investigation will center on how the chemical was being shipped and if it was in compliance with federal regulations for transporting toxic chemicals.

Pyridine is used throughout the chemical industry as a solvent.

RE-ELECT SENATOR ROGER MARTIN

Senator Roger Martin is a proven leader...

On Protecting Our Quality of Life:

In response to the tremendous growth in the Greater Newark area in the 1980's, Senator Martin sponsored or co-sponsored every bill in the Quality of Life Package designed to control and manage growth while protecting our vital resources. As Chairman of the Senate Highways and Transportation Committee, Senator Martin insisted on public hearings that enabled civic and environmental groups to have a major impact on the package. At right, Senator Martin and Governor Castle reflect on this landmark package at the Quality of Life bill-signing ceremony.

On Preserving Our Parkland:

As a committed environmentalist, Senator Martin sponsored the resolution that led to the acquisition of 321 acres of the Hallock duPont Estate by the State for parkland. As a member of the Bond Committee, Senator Martin successfully fought for the funds for an accelerated parkland acquisition and beach renourishment program. Senator Martin also spearheaded the successful effort to open the Christina Boat Ramp to recreational boaters.

Police continue probe of murders

Police continue to investigate the string of murders along U.S. 40, focusing their attention now on two women who are missing.

Three women have already been murdered, and police fear the same could happen to the two missing women.

Cpl. David Citro of the Delaware State Police said the longer the two women are missing, the greater the likelihood that they may have been killed. "You have to make an assumption that they could possibly be victims of the same person," he said.

Margaret Lynn Finner, 27, of the 2600 block of Belair Drive, Montclair, has been missing since Aug. 22. She was last seen getting into a blue van along U.S. 13.

Kathleen Anne Meyer, 26, of Brookmont Farms, Newark, was last seen walking along U.S. 40 on Sept. 10.

Citro said they have been following up several leads and interviewing possible suspects, but no one person has been pinpointed as the murderer.

Police believe the murder cases are connected because of the similarity of the victims. The women were all about the same in age, stature and coloring. They also had the habit of walking or hitchhiking along U.S. 13 and U.S. 40.

Police have only said the women died of multiple trauma, but have not released specific information on the cause of death.

Citro said they are continuing to receive several calls to their special hotline number, 324-5000. At one point, they received more than 120 calls in a 24-hour period.

City seeks $27,000

Newark city officials plan to seek payment of some $27,000 in overdue real estate taxes.

City Council voted Monday night to put the properties up for sale if the owners did not make their tax payments.

Both residential and commercial locations are included in the list of 24 properties for which the taxes have not been paid.

In one case, taxes on a property on Rahway Drive have not been paid since 1974. For the most part, however, the list includes properties for which the taxes have been delinquent a few years.

The amount of taxes due range from $500 on a Cleveland Avenue property to more than $4,000 on a property on West Park Place.

City Solicitor Thomas Hughes said he will again contact the property owners informing them if the taxes are not paid immediately, then the property will be sold.

Justice says drinking, driving mistake

Kermit M. Justice Jr., the teenage son of New Castle County Executive Rita Justice and State Secretary of Transportation Kermit Justice, told high school students Friday that drinking and driving was probably the biggest mistake of his life.

Speaking to Newark High School students during an assembly to encourage membership in Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD), Justice encouraged them not to make the same mistake.

Justice was driving his parents' BMW Aug. 20 when it collided with a fire truck near Wilmington, causing injuries to himself and three passengers.

He pleaded guilty last week to driving under the influence, underage consumption of alcohol and vehicular assault.

Just before taking the podium at Newark High, Justice said the students might get the message about drinking and driving from someone their own age.

"I've been preached to many times by my father and mother and it didn't sink in," said Justice. "I know if I can just help one person think better in the future, then I know I've done the right thing."

Justice remembers little about the crash that left him hospitalized for several weeks. Shortly after leaving the hospital, he saw the wreckage of his car.

"It's scary and it's hard to deal with," said Justice. "In the long run, I know I'm going to be a better person."

The 18-year-old Justice said he wanted to encourage other teens to change their lives for the better.

There are some visible scars from the accident. He wears a cast on one leg and has some scars near his face.

Although it is not known for sure, Justice believes he was wearing a seatbelt at the time of the crash.

"It is habit for me (to wear a seatbelt)," said Justice. "My doctor honestly believes I wouldn't be alive if I wasn't."

His mother, Rita Justice, has proposed a seat belt law for New Castle County. She said her son's accident underscores the advantages of a seat belt.

"It can prevent head injuries and massive facial cuts," she said.

The younger Justice is expected to take the message about drinking and driving to other groups.

"I'm not trying to stop them from drinking," he said. "I am trying to stop them from drinking and driving."

Newark snakes snared

Newark High School officials were rattled by the disappearance of two snakes from a biology lab last week.

While one of the snakes was a relatively harmless albino king, the other one was a python whose bite is very toxic.

School officials and Newark police were concerned that the thief was unaware of the danger presented by the reptiles. There was also the worry that the snakes would die without proper care.

The word was spread, with police "asping" for the return of the snakes, which are valued at $200.

Officials hissed a sigh of relief when the thief, who turned out to be a 14-year-old boy, returned the snakes the next day. It seems he wanted to start his own collection of snakes.

No charges will be filed in the case.

Germans celebrate declaration

In celebration of the landing of German immigrants in Philadelphia more than 300 years ago, Oct. 6 has been declared German-American Day.

On Oct. 6, 1683, the first large group of German immigrants landed in Philadelphia. The group consisted of 13 Mennonite families from the City of Krefeld.

Those families were followed by more than seven million Germans who came to America during the next 300 years, making Americans of German origin the largest ethnic group in the United States.

Today, German-Americans make up approximately one-fourth of the nation's population.

In proclaiming German-American Day, President Ronald Reagan pointed out that few people have blended so completely in the multicultural tapestry of American society and have made such singular economic, political, social, scientific and cultural contributions to the growth and success of the United States as have Americans of German heritage.

Delaware Saengerbund, a Newark-based German society, will participate in activities in Washington, D.C. today in celebration of German-American Day.

German-American Day was established through a joint resolution of the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives.

• Delaware residents have been invited to participate in several live radio broadcasts of debates between the major local and statewide candidates.

WDEL radio and Wilmington Trust are sponsoring the debates, which will be held during the next few weeks.

Each debate will include a moderator from the WDEL news department and a panel comprised of three to four area news reporters from print, wire and broadcast media.

The panel will prepare questions and ask each candidate to reply within a predetermined time limit. The opposing candidate will then be invited to offer a rebuttal.

In addition, the audience will be invited to submit questions to be used in the last 15 minutes of the debate.

The schedule of debates is as follows:

• U.S. Congressional candidates will debate at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 18 in William Penn High School, Basin Road, New Castle.

• U.S. Senate candidates will debate at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 24 at the WHYY television studios, 5th and Scott streets, Wilmington.

• Services for young children will be discussed during a political forum hosted by the Delaware Association for the Education of Young Children and the New Castle County Day Care Directors Association.

The public will have the opportunity to ask questions about child care for school age children, public school for four year olds and the Act for Better Child Care.

The forum will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 12 in Hope Lutheran Church, Del. 273 near Airport Road, New Castle.

• A fund raising sock hop for William Oberle, who is seeking reelection to 24th State Representative district, will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 15 in the Wilton Community Center at U.S. 13 and U.S. 40.

• James Krapf, the Republican candidate for U.S. Congress, is calling for improvements in the federal public assistance programs.

Krapf said reforms are needed to eliminate abuses to the welfare system and demanded that welfare dollars be put to work where they are really needed.

"The sick, the elderly, families and persons unable to find employment, that's where our welfare dollars should be focused," said Krapf. "We need to eliminate welfare fraud and blatant abuses to the system now, and to get more benefit from our welfare dollars."

Krapf criticized Congress for what he calls its ineffective handling of welfare, drug, economic and environmental problems.

• The Delaware Dukakis-Bentsen headquarters and the Democratic Party campaign headquarters were opened this week in Wilmington.

The campaign offices are located in the old YWCA building at 908 King St.

Marjory Fisher, formerly a New York City prosecutor, is heading up the local Dukakis campaign.

• A fundraiser for Louise Ruggerio, Democratic candidate for Clerk of the Peace, has been planned. The event will be held Saturday, Oct. 15 at the home of William and Helen Rolph in Wilmington.

Election races in five House districts

There are races in five of the eight Newark area state representative districts this year, and all eight incumbents are seeking reelection.

There are races in the 20th, 21st, 25th, 26th and 27th districts.

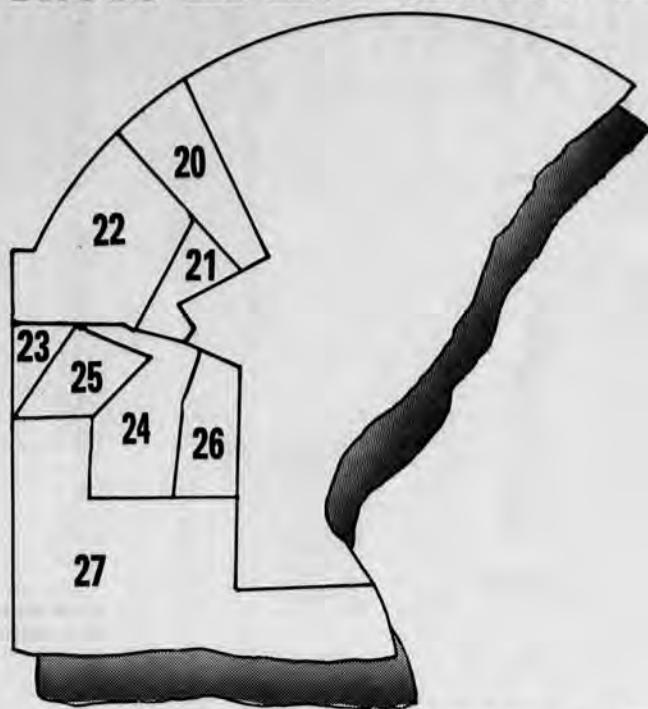

Voters in the 22nd, 23rd and 24th districts will not have a choice, as the incumbent representatives are running unopposed.

Following is a list of candidates:

• 20th District — Republican Roger P. Roy, a senior analyst for the DuPont Co., is seeking another term. He has served in the General Assembly for 12 years. Democrat Charles R. Smith is hoping to unseat Roy.

• 21st District — Democrat Salvatore J. De Angelo Jr. of Meeting House Hill hopes to unseat incumbent Republican Steven Taylor of Heritage Park. De Angelo, an Amtrak machinist, has been involved in local politics and in the Meeting House Hill Civic Association. Taylor, who is employed by the Bank of Delaware, serves as chairman of the House Land Use and Economic Development Committee.

• 25th District — Incumbent Republican Steven H. Amick will face Democrat Karen Yvonne Dickerson in his bid for a second term. Amick is a lawyer for the DuPont Company. Dickerson has been involved in local politics and is the part-owner of a tractor trailer.

• 26th District — Democrat Jane Perillo has done quite a bit of advertising in her bid to unseat Republican incumbent Richard F. Davis for this seat. Perillo owns a property management firm and has campaigned on issues of safe roads, police protection and recreation. Davis, a senior research chemist with Du-Pont, serves as the chairman of the Corrections and Labor committees.

• 27th District — Democrat Katharine M. Jester is opposed by Republican Vincent A. Lofink in her bid to hold this seat. Jester, a homemaker, serves on the House Education, Human Resources and Children and Aging committees.

Lofink, an account executive with National Office Supply Company, decided to run for the seat because of rapid development in the area.

Unopposed are incumbent Republican Joseph R. Petrilli in the 22nd District, incumbent Democrat Ada Leigh Soles in the 23rd District and incumbent Republican William A. Oberle Jr. in the 24th District.

Memorial Parade in doubt

The fate of Newark's Memorial Day Parade will be determined next month when the parade committee meets with City Council members.

Financial and legal responsibilities have concerned committee members, so much so that they are hoping the city will accept some of those obligations.

Col. Daniel N. Sundt, parade chairman, said the committee still owes $1,200 for the parade in May.

"We still haven't collected enough money to pay all of our bills," said Sundt. "We're going to ask the city if they want to pick up the rest."

Sundt said the $1,200 was the cost of the mayor's reception at the end of the parade.

"We plan to send a letter to the city asking for more money for next year," said Sundt. "We don't want to go into the red."

The parade is only partially financed though city funds. Much of the cost is met by the committee's fund raising efforts.

Committee members are also concerned about liability insurance. If the parade is deemed a city function, then the city's insurance would provide coverage.

Committee members fear that as it stands now, they could be held personally liable for any problems.

Council reaction to the committee concerns may determine the future of the parade.

"It seems like there's a lot of people that would like to see us have the parade," said Sundt.

ALCOHOL

ments, where a large number of students live.

The death is still under investigation by police.

Most speakers at the hearing agreed that students should be provided more alcohol awareness education.

But opinions varied widely on what other actions the University should take to curb alcohol abuse.

A proposal to ban kegs on campus has received a lot of attention. David Schneider, vice president of the campus Inter-Fraternity Council, told the committee that students purchase kegs because it is the cheapest form of alcohol.

If they are unable to purchase kegs, Schneider said students will turn to hard liquor, which is the next cheapest alcoholic beverage.

"Fraternities are well aware of the problems you are discussing," said Schneider. "We feel that a keg ban is a dangerous proposition."

Committee Chairman Charles E. Welch, president of the Delaware State Board of Education, questioned Schneider about the attitude of some students who feel nothing in the keg should go to waste.

"When you buy a keg, there's a strong feeling you've got to drink it all up," said Welch.

Schneider said the fraternities had set time periods for drinking. Drinking stopped at the end of a time period no matter how much was left in the keg.

Chief Hogan told the committee that a ban on kegs, particularly at football games, would be appropriate.

A lack of on-campus entertainment contributes to the problem of student alcohol abuse, according to Jon Jaeger, a student who spoke at the hearing.

"What do we do on a Friday or Saturday night?" asked Jaeger. "On a weekend to weekend basis, there's nothing to do."

Timothy Brooks University dean of students, said the University offers a number of programs for students. "The bottom line...is the problem of getting students to go to those programs," said Brooks. "Students often choose to go to a party instead."

Other proposals presented to the committee include:

- A special course for incoming freshmen that would focus on alcohol use among other issues.

- A peer-referral program.
- Efforts to advise parents about the University regulation on alcohol use.

- Banning alcohol and cigarette advertising on campus.

- Dealing with the underage drinker as a lawbreaker.

- Publishing the names of students arrested for alcohol violations in the campus newspaper.

- Dealing with violations of alcohol regulations in the same manner as academic violations.

says, "tended to engage more frequently in maintenance activities of trimming and edging. The Democrats said they spent more time on the nurturing activities of watering and fertilizing."

Ulrich explains that the study was undertaken to test whether the widely accepted psychological-political profile of conservatism versus liberalism manifests itself in the physical landscape.

Conservatives traditionally have a higher preference for order, simplicity and uniformity, he says.

Can these telltale results from Delaware, which is considered an ideal microcosm by pollsters, be looked upon as national indicators?

Not necessarily. Both Ulrich and Cosgrove caution that although the conservatives were Republicans in their Delaware survey group, in other regions, namely the Deep South, conservatives are often Democrats.

Teddy bears aplenty were to be found at the recent Newark Oktoberfest celebration, sponsored by the Delaware Saengerbund. Today, the Saengerbund celebrates German-American Day.

Network to host forum

"The Empire Strikes Back" is the title of a fall forum on Central America sponsored by the Delaware Nicaragua Network.

First speaker in the series will be Ruth Werner, editor of the English language edition of Barricada International, the international weekly newspaper of the Sandinista Liberation Front.

De Castro will discuss "The Media and Nicaragua" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 11 in the Ewing Room of the University of Delaware's Perkins Student Center, Academy Street.

The series will continue with a discussion by Bill Robinson, reporter for the Agencia Nueva Nicaragua international news service, at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 21 in the Unitarian Universalist Fellowship of Newark, 420 Willa Rd.

Robinson will speak on "The Chileanization of Nicaragua: U.S. Economic and Political Destabilization Projects."

Steve Somerstein, a member of Vietnam Veterans Against the War, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 17 at the Unitarian Universalist Fellowship.

His topic will be "The Veterans Peace Convoy to Nicaragua: Mission Completed."

Somerstein was a participant in the convoy, which met with U.S. government resistance as it attempted to take non-military goods to the people of Nicaragua.

The series will close with a lecture by Dr. Edward Herman of the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Finance at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 15 in the Unitarian Universalist Fellowship.

Herman will speak on "The Mass Media As a Propaganda System: The Case of Central America."

• A Summit man was the winner of the Fastest Trowel on Block contest held recently at Hodgson Vocational Technical School.

Bob Fanny, an employee of J.W. Walker and Sons in Summit, will represent this area in the regional competition next month in Cape Cod, Mass.

"We wanted to illustrate to the community just how viable masonry is in today's fast-paced world," said Barry Emich, of Binkley and Ober Inc., the company sponsoring the local contest.

"Students looking for a skill that will give them great satisfaction and opportunity over a lifetime should definitely examine a career in masonry," said Emich.

The national contest will be held in February in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Other winners in the contest were Wayne Davis of Tolbert and Agnew in Newark, Butch Stewart of Stewart Masonry in Wilmington and Randy Greener of Neals Inc., also in Wilmington.

• Medical Center of Delaware has announced two appointments, with Dr. Louis E. Bartoshesky named director of the pediatrics department section of genetics and Dr. Leslie W. Whitney named director of the Cancer Program.

Bartoshesky, a native of Delaware, will evaluate children with birth defects and provide counseling to families at risk for genetic disorders. He will also conduct research on the epidemiology of birth defects.

Whitney has directed the Medical Center's Cancer Program on a part-time basis since 1980, and will now head it full-time. He joined the Center in 1950.

• Associated Builders and Contractors has published its 1988-89 edition of the Delaware Construction Services Directory. The directory provides information on area businesses in the construction industry, and is being distributed free to construction users in Delaware, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Copies are available free while supplies last. Call 328-1111.

• Caldwell Temporary and Personnel Services, with an office in the Newark Shopping Center, has expanded through the acquisition of EDCO Personnel Systems in King of Prussia, Pa. The acquisition was announced by James D. Randall, Caldwell president.

• Bayshore Ford of New Castle has been selected recipient of the Ford Motor Company's Distinguished Achievement Award. The award was presented "in recognition of progressive management, modern sales and service facilities, sound merchandising practices, high quality standards and continuing interest in rendering superior service to Ford owners."

Ted Rollins (left), County Executive Rita Justice and Jeff Rollins break ground for the new 80,000 square foot Marriott Residence Inn to be constructed by the RFP Group Inc. on Del. 273 near Newark. The hotel is scheduled to open in spring 1989.

Center receives $2,500 gift

New Castle County Executive Rita Justice presented the University with a $2,500 gift in support of the Delaware Small Business Development Center (SBDC) at a recent ceremony held in the office of University President Russel C. Jones.

Justice said, "Having started up a small business, I know the traps one can unwittingly fall into. What makes the Small Business Development Center so valuable is that it helps the entrepreneur see these traps, and avoid mistakes which could derail a new venture."

Helen Butler, director of the SBDC, acknowledged the support and cooperation the center has enjoyed from both the county and the New Castle County Economic Development Corporation.

"Rita Justice's personal knowledge of small business needs and her prompt move to approve continued New Castle County financial support for our coming fiscal year are two assets of significant benefit to the Delaware Small Business Development Center in its efforts to serve the small business community in New Castle County and throughout the state," Butler said.

• Seton Preschool will hold a fund raising shoppers jubilee 7:30-9:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 7 in the St. Elizabeth Ann Seton Church Hall, 345 Bear-Christiana Rd., Bear. There will be crafts, baked goods, school novelties and raffles.

• Fall Conference 1988, a gathering of Delaware teachers, will be held 1-5:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 7 and 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 8 at St. Mark's High School. Charles Welch, president of the Delaware State Board of Education, will deliver the keynote address. Special guest speaker will be Dr. Zacharie Clements, who has been described by the New York Times as being a bit of John Dewey, Billy Graham and Bill Cosby rolled into one. He will speak on "Successful Schools: The Possible Dream." More than 138 sessions and workshops will be held, and there will be an extensive exhibit of current textbooks and instructional material for the math and science classroom. For details, call Dr. William J. Geppert, state supervisor of mathematics, at 1-736-4885.

• Delaware School Lunch Week will be celebrated Oct. 9-14. During the week, the state's 640 school cafeteria managers will offer special meals highlighting the theme, "School Lunch, Your Harvest of Health." The meals will be low in fat, sodium and sugar.

• McKean High School Highlander Band will host its 14th annual Highland Tattoo at 1 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 9. The event will feature eight marching units from Delaware, Maryland and New Jersey. Tickets cost $3 for adults, $2 for students, and will be available at the gate.

• Christina School District schools will be closed Monday, Oct. 10 for staff development day.

• Christina Board of Education will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 11 at Gauger Middle School, Scottfield.

• Christina School District will hold open house in middle schools at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 12.

• Archmere Academy of Claymont will celebrate "The Patio Years" during a special evening of music and art at 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 14. "The Patio Years" refers to the era when the grounds on which the school is located housed the Archmere Patio, the former estate of financier John J. Raskob which opened in 1918. The estate was purchased by the Norbertine Fathers in 1932 for use as a school. Today, Archmere Academy is a co-educational Catholic college preparatory school with an enrollment of 435. A major event of the evening will be a recital by Mary Ellen Hostetter, a well-known Delaware Valley soprano and former teacher at the Academy. The celebration is free and open to the public. For details, call 798-6632.

• Etta J. Wilson Elementary School PTA will host a special WIZARDS program for parents and their children at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 20. WIZARDS is an acronym for Wild, Imaginative, Zany And Really Delightful Stuff. Persons who attend will have a chance to develop thinking, creativity and problem solving skills as they move through a series of learning stations. Fee is $2, and reservations are required.

• A run to benefit First State School will be held at 9 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 22 at Wilmington's Bellevue Park Corporate Center. First State School is housed in Christiana Hospital, and is for adolescents who are chronically ill. There will be a five-mile run and a three-mile walk. Entry is $7 before Oct. 18, and $9 the day of the event. Forms are available at Marathon Sports, Wilmington.

• St. Elizabeth High School, Cedar and Rodney streets, Wilmington, will hold an open house noon to 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 23 for prospective students and their parents.

The University of Delaware marching band silk squad will perform at Newark High.

Newark High to host band festival

Twelve bands and more than 3,000 spectators are expected to fill Newark High School's Hoffman Stadium for the New Castle County Field Band Festival to be held Saturday night, Oct. 22.

This is the 18th annual field band festival sponsored by the Delaware Music Educators Association, and according to Newark band director Lloyd Ross it will be the largest ever.

The festival will open at 7 p.m. with the University of Delaware Marching Band, under the direction of Dr. Robert Streckfuss and Alan Hamant.

It will close with a performance by the University of Massachusetts Marching Band, directed by George Parks. The UMass band will be in Newark for the Yankee Conference football match between the Blue Hens and the Minutemen.

The college bands will perform shows for spectators in both the home and visitors bleachers.

In between, the festival will feature 10 high school bands, all of which will be judged for their performances in music, marching and band front.

The high schools are Newark, Christiana, Glasgow, Dickinson, A.I. duPont, McKean, Wilmington, Salesianum, Middletown and William Penn.

An awards ceremony will follow the UMass performance. Bands will be presented trophies, rating and tapes with comments from the judges.

The Newark High Band Boosters organization is the festival host, and has prepared a program for the evening. It includes photographs of each band and information on their shows, music, staff and activities. Cost is $1.50.

Festival admission is $3 for adults, and tickets are available from band members or at the gate. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

For more information, call the Newark band office at 454-2325.

Dean Gouldner to step down in fall 1989

Dr. Helen P. Gouldner, dean of the University of Delaware's College of Arts and Science since 1974, will step down as dean of the college in September 1989 and will return to the faculty as professor of sociology, University President Russel C. Jones has announced.

"During Dean Gouldner's tenure, the College of Arts and Science has taken important steps in the areas of general education requirements, international education and teacher education," Jones said. "At the same time, Dean Gouldner has actively continued her sociological research, which has resulted in publications that have brought national attention to her and to this University."

The largest of the University's 10 colleges, the College of Arts and Science includes 21 departments, ranging from anthropology to theater, as well as the School of Life and Health Sciences. There are some 19 special programs and centers.

During her tenure as dean, programs in teacher education, cognitive science and the master of arts in liberal studies were begun, as well as centers in archaeological research, climatic research, disaster research, mathematics teaching and learning and the study of values.

The Department of Linguistics also was formed.

Gouldner has said that her most important task as dean has been to recruit and hire the best possible chairs, directors and faculty.

A search committee for a new dean will be appointed later this fall.

Gouldner came to Delaware in 1973 as professor and chairperson of the Department of Sociology, after serving in a similar capacity at Washington University in St. Louis. She also has taught at Lindenwood College, the University of Illinois and Stanford and San Jose State universities.

Author of numerous articles in professional journals, she is the co-author of two books, "Speaking of Friendship" and "Modern Sociology," and the author of "Teachers' Pets, Troublemakers and Nobodies: Black Children in Elementary School," which received the 1979 Educators' Award of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society International.

Her areas of research interest include the nature of adult friendship, education of black children, and adolescents adopted in infancy. Her fields of academic specialization include culture and personality, social psychology, sociology of higher education, comparative sociology and sociobiology.

Gouldner currently serves on the National Association of State University and Land-Grant College's Commission on Education for the Teaching Professions and on its Commission on Arts and Sciences. She also is a member of the boards of the Medical Center of Delaware and the World Affairs Council of Wilmington.

A graduate of the University of Puget Sound, she received her master's degree from the University of Washington and her doctorate in sociology from the University of California at Los Angeles. In 1980, her undergraduate alma mater named her as a Thompson Lecturer.

Composite center honors Dr. Prewo

Dr. Karl M. Prewo, manager of materials sciences at United Technologies Research Center, is the 1988 recipient of the Medal of Excellence awarded by the University of Delaware Center for Composite Materials.

The award honors Prewo's contributions to the research and development of metal- and ceramic-matrix composites. It was presented Sept. 19 at the University-Industry Research Symposium awards banquet in Clayton Hall.

Prewo said the medal is a very important honor because the University Center for Composite Materials is "the world famous institution for the advancement of composites and has been in the mainstream of composite development for quite some time."

In response to after-dinner questions on the United States' international position in materials science, Prewo, recently returned from Japan, said he believes the U.S. currently enjoys a leadership role through the aerospace industry but that "we may find significant competition over the next few years."

Prewo said the United States' formal education in materials science is superior to that of Japan, and singled out the Center for special praise.

"I think that the Center here is the most outstanding example of education in composite materials in the United States," he said. "There's nothing else like it."

The materials sciences division managed by Prewo is part of a research group of 1,200 scientists devoted to advancing technology in support of aerospace and the commercial sector.

Prewo's accomplishments at United Technologies include helping to develop the first flight-worthy, metal-matrix composite aircraft fan blades and helping to establish a wide-ranging research program which has developed applications for both gas turbine engines and space satellites.

He earned the 1986 George Mead Medal of Achievement, the highest award for engineering excellence bestowed by United Technologies.

Cockburn to speak on power

Andrew Cockburn, noted specialist in international terrorism and defense systems, will speak on "Secret Power — U.S. Foreign Policy in the 1990s" at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 10 in the Rodney Room of the University of Delaware Perkins Student Center, Academy Street.

Cockburn is best known for his award-winning PBS documentary, "The Red Army." The hour-long production provided a behind-the-scenes look at the Soviet armed forces.

The 1982 documentary resulted in Cockburn's subsequent book, "The Threat — Inside the Soviet Military Machine."

Born in London, Cockburn was raised in Ireland and attended schools in Scotland at Worcester College Oxford.

After emigrating to the United States in 1979, he produced a number of defense-oriented programs for ABC News.

Cockburn's new book, "Secret Power," is scheduled for release this fall.

Monday's lecture is part of the University Forum series, "United States in Decline, United States in Renewal." It is free and open to the public.

Catalysis symposium to be held at UD

Respected scientists in the field of catalytic science from throughout this country, Japan and Switzerland will speak at the G.C.A. Schuit Symposium Devoted to Molecular Phenomena in Catalysis, scheduled in October at the University of Delaware.

Sponsored by the University's Center for Catalytic Science and Technology, the symposium will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 10-11, in Clayton Hall on the north campus.

Catalytic science and technology encompasses several fields of chemistry and chemical engineering. Current issues in catalysis range from the challenges of molecular design and mechanism to deterministic descriptions of global transport processes analyzed at the continuum level.

This year's symposium will explore molecular phenomena that underlie and run as a common thread through all catalytic processes. Speakers will include scientists from Stanford, Yale and Northwestern universities, the universities of Tokyo and Pittsburgh, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, AT&T Bell Laboratories, the DuPont Co., Exxon Research & Engineering Co. and ETH of Zurich.

The Schuit Seminar Series was established in 1985 to honor Dr. George C.A. Schuit, professor emeritus of chemical engineering at the University and at the Eindhoven University of Technology. A key figure in the founding of the Center for Catalytic Science and Technology.

Schuit provided much of the scientific and intellectual leadership during its formative years. He continues to return frequently to the center, providing advice to faculty and students engaged in catalysis research.

This research has been conducted by 101 doctoral students and 58 post-doctoral fellows.

Hen party trays available

Tailgate party trays are available to Fighting Blue Hen football fans through the University of Delaware Food Service Department.

The Department will cater groups from five to 500. It offers a variety of food trays from cold cuts and subs to chicken and ribs.

For details, call the Department at 451-6761. The order deadline is the Monday before any home game.

UNIVERSITY CALENDAR

• The Department of Music will celebrate its 50th anniversary with a special dinner and concert to be held Sunday, Oct. 9 at St. Andrew's School in Middletown. Featured in the concert will be the Del'Arte Wind Quintet and the Taggart-Grycky flute and guitar duo. The event will begin at 4 p.m. with hors d'oeuvres. The concert will begin at 5 p.m., with dinner one hour later. Cost is $25 per person. For details, contact Elaine Brencley at 451-8245 or Dorothy C. Flynn at 451-2104.

• Oktubafest 1988 gets under way at 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 9 with an outdoor concert on the north side of the University of Delaware Mall. The concert, sponsored by the University Department of Music, will feature large ensemble tuba music, including traditional German songs and works by John Philip Sousa and Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart. If it rains, the concert will be held in Loudis Recital Hall. Oktubafest will continue at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 11 with a program in Loudis Recital Hall by Mary Ann Craig on euphonium and Julie Nishimura on piano. Craig is chair of the music division at the College of St. Rose in Albany, N.Y. Both the concert and the recital are free and open to the public.

• Andrew Cockburn, noted specialist in international terrorism and defense systems, will speak on "Secret Power — U.S. Foreign Policy in the 1990s" at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 10 in the Rodney Room of Perkins Student Center, Academy Street. Cockburn is best known for his award-winning PBS documentary, "The Red Army." Monday's lecture is part of the

is suggested

To the Editor:

One of the reasons Newark is such a livable city is the sense of community fostered by the many programs offered by the city's recreation department. This makes my complaint more poignant as I, without reservation, appreciate the many activities proffered to the public.

I pre-ordered, via mail, as has been my custom, a trip to New York and did not find out till three weeks later that I did not make the cut.

In a telephone conversation to Parks and Recreation, I was advised that "walk-ins" were always considered first. "Mail-ins" could not be handled till much later and anyway, the trip filled up in 15 minutes (which I find questionable).

I am writing to express my deep disappointment in a policy that actively discriminates against anyone who works for a living (registration is always on a Monday). And I am in hopes that this policy will be reconsidered.

Helping Val's

Family Fund

To the Editor:

I would like to thank the good people of the Christina School District who donated more than 1,200 cans to Val's Needy Family Fund during the Christina Stampede.

Another event to benefit the fund — as well as the Newark Senior Center Meals on Wheels program, the Emergency Response Committee of Newark, Hope Dining Room and Project Assist — is coming up.

It is the Newark-White Clay Kiwanis oyster feast, to be held noon to 3 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 29 at the Louviers picnic grounds off Paper Mill Road. The feast will feature steamed, fried and frittered oysters, as well as hamburgers and hot dogs.

Tickets cost $7 for adults and $3.50 for children, and are available at Val's barber shop in Fairfield Shopping Center or from Kiwanis members.

Effective war powers mechanism is a necessity

by U.S. Senator Joseph Biden

WEEKLY REPORT

Last year I was selected to chair a special subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on war powers. The subcommittee's mandate is to examine the relationship between the President and Congress and their shared responsibility under the Constitution to make decisions concerning the use of American armed forces.

The subcommittee just concluded the last of eight hearings on how this relationship has been conducted during the 15 years the War Powers Resolution of 1973 has been in force. That law grants the President — in the absence of a declaration of war by Congress — the authority to conduct military operations for up to 90 days, after which the Congress must approve continuation of such deployment.

Over the course of the month, the Special Subcommittee heard from former President Gerald Ford, Secretary of Defense Frank Carlucci, former Secretaries of state, former Joint Chiefs of Staff, former members of Congress who drafted the law and many constitutional scholars.

These witnesses presented widely varying views on the war power and whether the 1973 law is the appropriate way of fulfilling the Constitution's intent of shared participation in the most solemn of decisions.

Why is this issue important and why does it merit this level of examination? Because, when our nation decides to use force to carry out foreign policy objectives, we need to be united as a government and people in order to succeed. As Vietnam showed us, a divided government and public will erode the resolve to accomplish our goals. Without this unity we risk failure and, worse of all, the lives of our troops on the frontline.

Our experience in Vietnam prompted the War Powers Resolution. The goal of the law is not to prevent the use of force, but to ensure the unity necessary for the effective use of force. It was designed to forge a sure bond between American power and coherent American purpose.

Despite the law's good intent,

Congress had to override President Nixon's veto of the legislation in order to get it passed. Since then, presidents have viewed the law as an infringement upon their constitutional authority and most have simply ignored the procedures to be followed of informing and consulting Congress.

This response underscored the difficulty of establishing a mechanism sufficiently flexible to meet unforeseen circumstances, yet rigid enough to ensure compliance with the Constitution's clear intent that Congress be centrally involved in any commitment of the nation to war.

As Chairman of the Special Subcommittee, I take seriously the responsibility to balance the security needs of the 20th century with the original intent of the Framers. The goal of our investigation is not to satisfy some narrow sense of congressional prerogative, but to devise a war powers mechanism that works.

Now that this review is complete, the Special Subcommittee will study the testimony and propose changes for a revised method of fulfilling the Constitution's intent. Only by establishing an effective war powers mechanism can we guarantee that the will of the American people will stand behind the commitment of American forces.

COPING WITH GROWTH

The phenomenal growth period we have been experiencing, throughout the State but especially in Newark, continues. We all see the construction of new homes and new businesses in our area and we all know that while such growth means new jobs and new economic growth it also means congested roads, insufficient water resources, crowded schools and the rapid loss of irreplaceable open space.

Governor Castle's Quality of Life program will go a long way to help us manage and control this growth to make it beneficial for our community. By ensuring that road and school planning will be coordinated with development, the program will help to provide relief from the development pressures.

But one essential part of the Quality of Life program did not pass. We should charge developers a portion of the costs we incur as taxpayers to pay for the new roads, schools, utilities and open space made necessary by their development.

These charges, called Impact Fees, are required of developers in many other states and are long overdue here in Delaware.

It is not too much to ask developers to pay a portion of these costs. Since developers are the ones who make a profit from development it is only fair to ask for a contribution to assist taxpayers with a portion of the costs.

The Department of Transportation has been researching these fees to determine the best formula to apply and, in particular, how to allocate proceeds among highway needs, schools, water resources, open space, etc. It is certainly important to get these matters resolved properly. But Impact Fees represent such an important tool to make sure that the development we're experiencing does not overwhelm us that I am urging DelDot to proceed as quickly as possible.

Newspapers: What you hold in your hands is freedom

This is National Newspaper Week. As you read this, consider what you hold in your hands. Not just a copy of a familiar harbinger of news, whether weekly, daily or something in-between. Not just a newspaper that we expect to be delivered at a regular time, a comfortable reference, and such an integral part of our lives that we rarely give it special heed.

As we observe National Newspaper Week, think of those who bring you what you hold in your hands: the reporters, editors, circulation staffs, advertising people, production staff members, who made sure this powerful expression of America comes to you regularly, and is so much a part of your life that too often we take it for granted.

Jones must address blacks' concerns

The storm of controversy surrounding the use of the term "Polack" by University of Delaware President Russel C. Jones clarifies one issue but draws attention away from another.

The issue it clarifies is that while Jones may be a fine engineer, he is no whiz at public relations.

And when you get right down to it, public relations is the primary task of any university president.

There are administrative chores, to be sure, but the university president is charged mainly with charting a course for the future, communicating clearly with faculty, staff and community, and representing the institution in public.

While Jones can be credited with looking to the future through Project Vision, first-year marks for communication and representation pull his grade-point average down severely.

However, while the controversy makes that issue crystal clear it overshadows a more serious issue, that of the black presence on campus.

Both Jones and his predecessor, E.A. Trabant, have said they believe it is vital to the future of the University of Delaware that blacks have a very real place on campus.

And yet there has been little or no leadership to make blacks feel welcome on campus.

Although the University has increased the number of blacks on its staff, few hold positions of any real influence.

The University has a reputation for lagging behind on issues of concern to blacks, and that reputation hurts the institution in the recruitment of black students.

It is vital that Jones take dramatic action to ease blacks' concerns, and make the University an attractive place for students and staff of all races.

Polish-Americans were justifiably upset about the use of an ethnic slur, but it is the black community which has greater reason to be angry.

The administration and the trustees who oversee it must be responsive.

It has been argued here before, and probably will be again, that one of the first steps should be divestment of University financial holdings in companies which do business with South Africa.

South Africa's stance toward blacks is repugnant. That the University insists on continuing to do business with that nation is a bitter pill for its own black community.

For many Newarkers, our town is defined by its downtown.

Although Newark is a small city surrounded by sprawling suburbs, it has long had a psychological anchor in its unique Main Street district.

Main Street was where the kids gathered on Saturday afternoons, where the adults went banking and shopping.

Over the years, however, that has been changing. Small suburban shopping centers and huge malls have pulled people away from the core of Newark, gradually giving it over to University of Delaware students.

More recently, that change has been accelerating, with great chunks of Main Street property being bought up by Robert Teeven Sr. and with the University casting a coveting eye toward what is left over.

Now Teeven has announced plans to demolish a row of buildings west of the WSFS bank, among them the aged State Theater, once a gem of a vaudeville house and later a movie theater frequented by locals and students alike.

In the place of those historic buildings, Teeven plans a multi-level parking garage and retail and office space.

by Neil Thomas

POSTSCRIPT

The proposed project, which will be put before the city early next year, raises certain questions.

The parking garage, for instance, is a tremendous question because it will be in direct competition with Newark Parking Authority lots, many of which are already underused.

It would seem the parking garage would be of value only to the University, which is woefully short of parking space.

And with office and retail space going begging elsewhere on Main Street and throughout Newark, it would seem that portion of the project may only be of value to the University, which has been looking into the need for additional office space near its central campus.

One of the worst things that could happen here is for Main Street to become a University ghetto, devoid of community involvement.

Town-gown relations are already strained because of the University's decade-old decision to limit dormitory housing, thus forcing students into the community where they have not always been the best of neighbors.

The loss of Main Street, or even the perception of the loss of Main Street, by town to gown could only worsen the relationship.

That was driven home by an acquaintance who pointed out that while Main Street is the heart and soul of Newark, Newarkers no longer have much if any say in what will become of it. Those decisions have fallen into the hands of two men, Robert Teeven Sr. and Russel C. Jones, president of the University.

They have a special responsibility to the community in that regard.

Without Main Street, one must ask the question, is Newark still Newark?

They also have a responsibility to the University community in the broad sense, and must here ask the question, will the University be any better off by isolating itself from Newark?

I think not. The University is always quick to point out what it adds to our town. But Newark also adds much to the University — a sense of perspective and of balance, a sense of belonging, an escape from the ivory tower.

It is a vital touchstone.

That this is an important time for Newark, and for town-gown relations, cannot be understated.

The University is large and growing larger. There could come a time when it overwhelms the community, and this may be that turning point.

AROUND TOWN

Carl Luft, rainmaker and city manager.

• In the weekly information packet produced by the City of Newark, there was a telling comment concerning Community Day.

It was pointed out that during the tenure of former city manager Peter Marshall, there was not one single rain delay.

Under City Manager Carl Luft, however, Community Day has had two rain delays in two years. Hm-mmm.

• When in Rome, do as the Romans. And when seeking Congress, do as the Congressman.

Incumbent Democratic Congressman Thomas Carper has long mailed out his press releases on 8 1/2 by 14 inch paper, unlike most politicians and candidates who send theirs out on standard 8 1/2 by 11 sheets.

Evidently, his opponent, Republican James Krapf of Newark, did not want to be outdone so he too has taken to using the larger 8 1/2 by 14 sheets.

• Candidates for office this year must have subscribed to the same service to write their announcements of candidacy. Nearly every single announcement, particularly those from candidates from local representative districts, noted that the candidate either represented or sought to represent the "fastest growing district" in the state.

Blue Hens now higher in pecking order

by David Woolman

If the University of Delaware football team's 38-20 victory over New Hampshire, ranked fourth in NCAA Division I-AA, represents the best of all possible worlds to you, then you are not alone. Welcome to Tubby Raymond's world.

"There are very few times that things work out like you hope they will, and Saturday was one of them," said the Delaware head coach. "We developed a low-profile, low-risk offensive game plan and hoped our defense would keep us in the ball game."

It did. The defense, a much-maligned patchwork unit, recovered four fumbles, intercepted three passes and blocked a punt. Five of the turnovers led to scores, and the other killed a New Hampshire drive at the end of the first half. The Hens led 17-6 at the half, and 38-6 at one point in the fourth quarter.

"We're particularly pleased with our defense," said Raymond. "We tried to keep the pressure on."

"John Levelis (voted Yankee Conference defensive player of the week) played the best football game I've ever seen him play. He was supported by Mike Renna, who probably played his best game. We were able to get to the passer without blitzing."

The early Delaware lead forced New Hampshire into a passing offense, in which they gained 385 yards, but the Hen defense held the Wildcats to minus 15 yards rushing, and kept quarterback Bobby Jean from completing 50 percent of his passes.

"Offensively, we drove the ball when we had to, and played our kind of game (Delaware threw 11 passes, and ran the ball 57 times)," said Raymond, who was not totally satisfied with his offense. "We didn't get the plays I like to see. We moved the ball early and we sputtered on the goal line. We were playing against an exceptional defense."

It takes little sophistication to determine that there has been a marked turnaround for Delaware over the past two weeks. The question is why. Perhaps it's at least in part related to the coaching and strategy that was so soundly renounced, publicly and privately, throughout the state two or three weeks ago.

"Every football team tries to tell you something, if you're patient enough to sit there and

by David Woolman

Newark High School's play at Brandywine the past two seasons is becoming representative of the kind of football team the Yellowjackets are. Under duress, Newark finds a way to win, as they did Saturday afternoon in spoiling Brandywine's homecoming, 24-6.

Last year, the 'Jackets entered the game against the Bulldogs a meager 1-4-1. They came out with their second win, the first of a four-game streak that saved a winning season.

This year, Newark was saddled with injuries. Starting quarterback Rob Callahan was out with a broken collarbone, and both defensive tackles were missing, Greg Strengari with a broken foot and Steve Slack with an appendectomy.

To further complicate matters for coach Butch Simpson, backup quarterback Dave Gwinn broke his thumb in practice, leaving Newark with one sophomore and one freshman at quarterback.

Surviving to start at quarterback and lead the 'Jackets to victory was Chuck Bedford, a 5' 10" 122-pound sophomore.

Bedford benefitted from a little early help from his teammates, who eased him into varsity play with a quick 14 point lead.

Newark spikes archrival A.I. in key match

by David Woolman

One of Delaware's most consistently hard-fought rivalries is between the Newark and A.I. duPont high school volleyball teams.

They met again last Wednesday night, and Newark came out the victor, 15-13 and 15-11.

"When these two teams get together, it's such that it doesn't matter what kind of season each is having — these two teams play each other really tough," said Newark coach Barbara Jo Apichella. "I don't think you'll see any two teams have a tougher rivalry than these two. It's been going on for years."

"We were psyched up for this game," said Newark's Andria Miller (two aces, three kills). "For three years straight we lost to them. It's an awesome feeling to beat them, finally."

The first game saw points scratched out one or two at a time, with the longest service run being four points long. The game, which saw both teams produce more than enough good passing and setting to support their hitting games, had 30 service exchanges.

The A.I. duPont Tigers took the first significant lead on a three point service run by Amanda Yelsh to take a 7-4 lead. Newark roared right back with a run of four by Terry Pedrotti, including two aces and two kills by Diana Rewa (six kills).

VOLLEYBALL

• Newark (4-2 overall, 4-1 in Blue Hen Conference Flight A) defeated A.I. duPont (see story). Lost to Concord 13-15, 15-11, 15-6 Friday. Diana Rewa eight kills. Terry Pedrotti had 13 assists.

• Glasgow (4-2, 4-2) lost to Concord 1-15, 15-6, 15-10 Wednesday. Beth Hall had 15 service points. Phoebe Folke had 11 kills. Defeated William Penn 15-3, 15-12 Friday. Tamara Mims had nine kills.

• St. Mark's (3-2) lost to Archmere (see story).

• Christiana (2-4, 1-4) lost to William Penn 8-15, 15-10, 16-14 Wednesday. Defeated Delcastle 15-1, 15-17, 15-13 Friday. Angel Payne had nine kills.

• Hodgson (1-5, 0-5 in BHC Flight B) lost to Claymont 11-15, 15-0, 15-7 Wednesday. Lost to Mount Pleasant 15-3, 15-0 Friday.

• Caravel (0-5) lost to Westtown, Pa. 15-13, 15-6 Tuesday. Raelynn Reed had nine service points and three kills. Lost to Sanford 15-3, 15-5 Thursday.

Newark fleshed out the lead with a pair of service points from backline sub Ami Holland (four aces) and a trio from Stephanie Leedle (four perfect passes).

Two aces and another point from the Tigers' Amy Chase cut the lead to three, and then an ace from Beth Sonchen brought the 'Jackets to game point. A.I.

Newark soccer squad stuns Glasgow, 6-1

by David Woolman

A big red moon rose up over Newark High School's Hoffman Stadium last Tuesday night, perhaps signifying chaos. The Yellowjacket soccer team eschewed its traditional slow-develop short passing game for speed and short passing to stun the heavily favored Glasgow Dragons 6-1 and shake up the Blue Hen Conference.

Senior-heavy Glasgow entered the game with a 3-1 record and an improved reputation over the 1987 team, which reached the state tournament.

Newark, with just three senior starters, came into the game with a lone win in four tries, and that against Hodgson.

"This was pivotal to us," said Newark coach Charlie Blackwell, whose team had lost to McKean, Mt. Pleasant and Christiana, and looked to be out of the running for the conference title even at so early a date.

But a little bit of thinking on the part of the Yellowjacket booters led to a different strategy and made rumors of an early season demise greatly exaggerated.

"Our strategy depends on the other team," explained striker Melvin Heath (one goal, one assist).

"We have to control our own game," said fullback co-captain Gregg Alwine. "If they want it one way, we have to do it the opposite way."

"If they long ball, we do short," said sweeper and co-captain Davin Rudy. "If they like short passing, we go long."

"It worked well because our forwards were working real well, making things happen," said halfback co-captain Eric Voight. "It made our job easy — we just had to dump it in."

"They took us out of the game right from the beginning," affirmed Glasgow halfback Chris Hayburn. "They put extreme amount of pressure on our fullbacks. Our fullbacks start our attack. Tonight, they couldn't."

Glasgow's Paul McDonald takes shot on goal against Newark.

"We won nearly every 50-50," said Rudy. "We got most of the free balls. If they don't have the ball, they can't score."

Neither side had any great advantage early, though Newark had most of the better chances, formed by some extremely accurate long passes to the strikers. The 'Jackets took the lead at 16:30 of the first half when Heath put in a rebound of a shot by Voight.

Glasgow tied the game at 25:15 when halfback Devrim Sari floated a shot from the right corner of the 16 yard box over goalie Doug Rice's head. Newark took the lead for good one minute later.

Fullback Chris Ross threw the ball in, Heath headed the ball

Caravel remains unbeaten

Unbeaten Caravel Academy improved its football record to 3-0 by defeating Perkiomen High 20-6 Friday evening in their second game under the lights.

The Bucs fell behind 6-0 early before Steve Duncan caught an eight yard pass from Macadoo Harrison-Dixon for a touchdown and Rich Zoeltch kicked an extra point to give Caravel the lead at the half.

Derek Shaw scored on a 17-yard run in the third quarter, and Chad Poultny scored on a 22-yard run in the fourth quarter, with a Zoeltch conversion, for the other scores.

Shaw finished with 136 yards on 17 carries, and Harrison-Dixon had 115 yards rushing.

Coach Larry Cyle singled out good performances by Jeremy Smith (five quarterback sacks) and Mike Hawke on defense.

"We started a little sluggish,"

Dover routs Glasgow, 35-14

by David Woolman

The Glasgow High School football team's homecoming game against Dover Saturday morning resembled last year's matchup. Which is unfortunate, because Glasgow lost last year's opening game 35-7.

This year the Dragons lost 35-14 but otherwise it was much the same story. An outsized Glasgow team gave up 28 points in the first half, as Dover was able to run with impunity and then pass effectively against a secondary forced come in and make tackles.

The Dragon defense regrouped in the second half and held the Dover offense back well to help Glasgow outscore the Senators 8-7. In this way, the game resembled others this season — Glasgow played well at times, but...

"We've been saying all along we have to play four quarters," said coach Dave Scott. "I think we came out and got a touchdown off them and expected to roll them over. We're just not that good yet that we can do that at half speed."

Jim McCurry recovered a Dover fumble on the first play from scrimmage to give the Dragons the ball on the 30 yard line. Two plays later, Shawn Money, starting for the first time at quarterback, hit Sean Lea with a 27 yard pass to bring Glasgow to the two yard line.

Paul Williams, who moved from fullback to tailback to replace his ailing twin Pat, ran the ball in for a touchdown. The extra point was wide.

Dover came right back to score on its next drive to take the lead, and proceeded to score every time they had the ball in the first half, except for a drive ended by the half.

Glasgow managed only three first downs in the first half, gaining only 63 yards from scrimmage, 54 of those on carries by Williams. Dover racked up 235 yards in the half, and entered the second half with a 28-6 lead.

Glasgow held Dover to four downs on its first two series in the second half. On the second, Al Minchella blocked a punt and Jake Politakis recovered it in the end zone for a touchdown. Bob Arehart passed to Williams for the two point conversion to make the score 28-14.

Robert Toole recovered a fumble on the first play of Dover's subsequent possession, and it looked like the Dragons were in a position to cut the deficit to a touchdown. However, the offense, given the ball on the Dover 42 yard line, continued to stall and the opportunity was lost.

Dover drove the ball 33 yards for its final score. In all, the Senators only gained 69 yards in the second half, but Glasgow only managed 35.

Scott changed the lineup from the previous two weeks, looking for the right combination and looking towards the future.

"Right now, both fronts are only playing one way," said Scott. "We feel that if we can develop some depth, we're going to be better in the future."

"We're playing down the road. We still feel like we're going to be really good when we start playing some people."

"We thought we might be able to wear them down, and that happened a little in the second half, but not enough because we were playing from behind."

This Dragon is right on the Money

The development of Sean Money as a football player, or better, as a football phenomenon, has been one of the few bright spots in this difficult season at Glasgow High School.

He is, forgive the pun, Money in the bank, and to further assault the English language, one could say he is earning interest.

The starting safety from the very beginning of the year, Money has stepped into the role of quarterback as well. Though inexperienced at the latter position, he appears to have more than enough of the necessary athletic abilities and skills.

He also carries himself well; he simply looks and acts like a quarterback, on the field and off.

"He's still learning," says Glasgow coach Dave Scott. "He's a year away. Some of the things he's doing at quarterback are exceptional."

Money first saw action in the Elkton game, and started the Dover game. A jammed finger kept him out a few series against the Senators but he returned and appeared to get more comfortable as time went on, which is true in general.

"In practice, the intensity comes on strong," says the 5' 11" 167-pound junior. "I start throwing the ball and completing some passes, and I start feeling more comfortable and keep going."

Despite his fine start on offense, at this point Money is best at safety, where he averages 20 tackles a game.

"I seriously think he's an All-State candidate," says Scott. "I think he's the hardest hitter coming out of the secondary in the state."

"Everyone calls me psycho-hitman Money," says soft-spoken Shawn. "I have to play up to that and get them psyched."

Money appreciates the fact that he now holds down two leadership positions on the team, and takes a lot of responsibility on his shoulders.

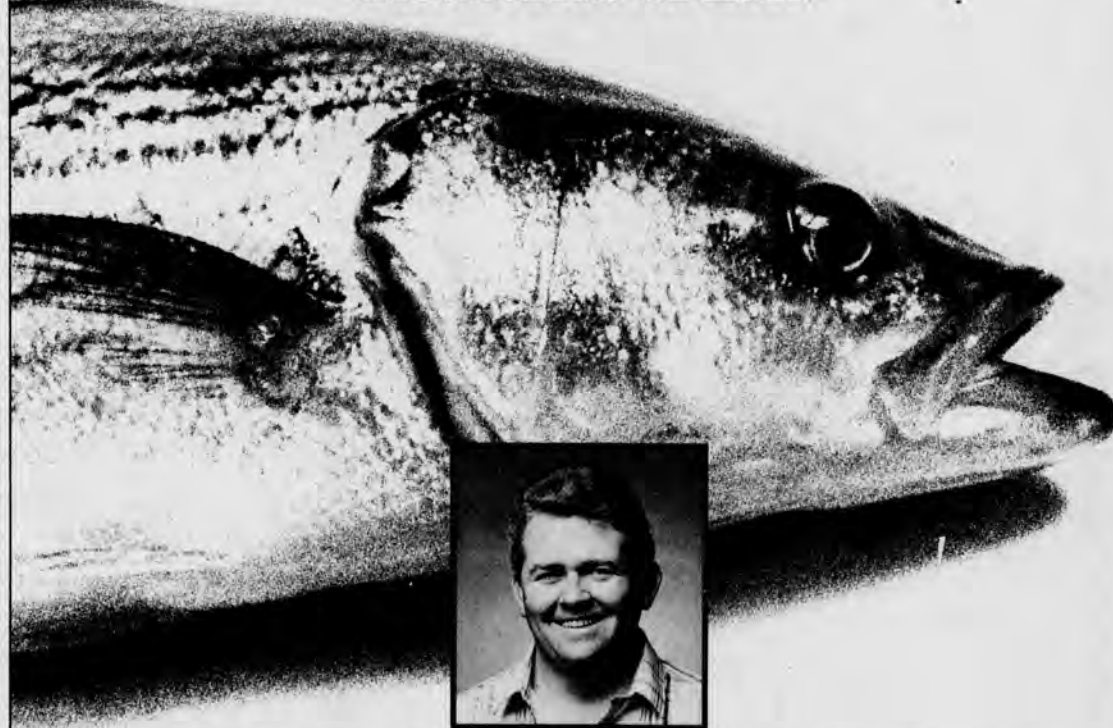

"Everyone is depending on me. I have to stay up to it. I try to get the whole team in the groove. If I start hitting, everyone else will see it and get into it."

Besides experience, Money also needs to improve his conditioning in order to reach his potential as a football player.

"I thought I was on the field for a long time," said Money after the Dover game.

"He's got to realize what kind of shape he's got to be in to go both ways," says Scott. "He took himself out of one series, and I took him out of the other. He needs to go the whole 48 minutes, and that's tough to do."

Gene Lowe and his co-workers at the Delmarva Power plant in Vienna, Maryland produce electricity for thousands of homes. But on their lunch hour they're involved in a different kind of production. They're helping to restore the Striped Bass population by breeding them right at the plant and releasing them into the Nanticoke River.

Gene's been fishing the river since he was a boy. So he took a personal interest when Delmarva Power helped the Delmarva Ecological Laboratory set up a shore side spawning facility. Concerned about the declining Striped Bass population, Gene and his plant buddy Ed Larmore suggested building an on-site breeding pond for the fish to grow in. In just three years, Gene, Ed and other Delmarva Power volunteers, have helped raise over 42,000 fish to restock the Chesapeake Bay.

Conserving our ecology is just one way Delmarva Power people like Gene are working to make life better for all of us today and tomorrow. Glasgow field hockey team plays well in loss to Concord

There has been an expectation of improvement on the hockey field overlooking Del. 896, and while Glasgow High School's record dropped to 2-3 last week after a 1-0 loss to Concord, one of the best teams in the state at 3-0-2, gains are being made.

"They played well," said Glasgow coach Rhobi O'Neill. "I'm not at all disappointed in them. To me, 1-0 against Concord isn't bad. This was a good performance."

With eight seniors returning from last year's varsity, the level of play has visibly risen.

"We have a little more experience and have played together more than last year," said O'Neill. "I expected this to be the best team I've had since I've been here. The only thing is now we're playing all (Blue Hen Conference) Flight A schools."

Against Concord, the action moved up and down the field with regularity, with neither side controlling the ball enough to set up many good plays. Glasgow's defense held up well, stopping Concord outside the circle and surviving two penalty corners late in the first half.

Concord scored 12 minutes into the second half on a play which began on a penalty corner. Glasgow could not clear the ball, and Stacy Zentz passed to Jenny Truitt, whose shot from six yards hit the left post and went in.

The Dragons, who had few offensive opportunities, had a final chance late on a penalty corner but the Concord defense did not falter and the Raiders won 1-0.

"The defense played very well," said Glasgow goalie and co-captain Lisa Abbott. "Kari Manlove did a lot better than she's been doing. Amy Miller did really well, and Trisha Miller played well too."

"We have a young defense. We don't have very much experience — a lot of the players moved up from JV."

The fast-paced limited-control game was something planned by Glasgow and almost worked, keeping the talented Raiders off-balance and on the defensive most of the game.

"I've been working on the girls to open the field up, to use the forwards for what they're there for, to drive to the forwards and make them run to the ball," said O'Neill. "That gives them a better chance to fast break."

Unfortunately, fine defense by Concord as well as some poor execution by Glasgow never allowed the Dragons to take advantage.

"We weren't communicating as well as we usually do," said forward co-captain Elissa Menashes. "In practice this week, our communication has been kind of slow."

"We're passing behind each other. We need to pass ahead of each other. We need to work on our basic skills."

"We're not playing up to our best potential," added forward Laura Mazza.

"We could have done better," said Menashes. "We could have beaten them."

Vikings fall to Penn

Christiana High School gained three first downs and moved into William Penn territory on its first drive of Saturday's football game. Then disaster struck as the Colonials' Matt Brinard intercepted an Adam Weber pass and ran nearly 80 yards for a touchdown.

"With (placekicker Chuck) Popolos, I thought we'd have at least three points," said Christiana coach Marty Cross. "The interception really hurt us."

Once again the Vikings played hard, and once again they played a tough, unforgiving team, and lost 25-3 to the Colonials in their Blue Hen Conference Flight A opener. Christiana is now 0-4.

"I think we're playing a little better each week," said Cross.

"We haven't had an opportunity to go out and make a mistake and not get hurt. The four teams we've played will punish you for every mistake."

"Defensively, we did give up some big scores, but on the whole we limited William Penn to one first down in the second half."

Christiana held the Colonials scoreless in the last two quarters of the game.

Chittum wasn't beaten, police say

Christiana High School basketball star Damotte Chittum remains in serious condition at Christiana Hospital following an operation for a cerebral hemorrhage performed almost two weeks ago.

Although early newspaper reports about the incident indicated Chittum suffered the hemorrhage following a beating, Wilmington Police have closed their investigation and have ruled ed out that possibility.

According to police, interviews with Chittum, his family, and his doctors led to the conclusion that there was no criminal activity in the case.

The police report says that the hemorrhages, facial and cerebral, were caused by an arterial venous malformation, a natural weakness in some of the blood vessels in Chittum's head. The walls of those vessels collapsed, causing him to appear to have been beaten and bruised.

"Looking at his face, it would have made it seem at first that he had been beaten," said Sgt. Andress of the Wilmington Police. "The collapse of the blood vessels made it seem that way."

Damage caused by the hemorrhage is similar to that caused by a stroke, and Chittum, though alert, is still unable to speak.

Hodgson downs Devils

Whether it be a state champion like Middletown or a fledgling unit like that at Hodgson Vocational Technical School, the thing to remember about a football team coached by Bill Billings is that it always has a trick up its jersey, hidden somewhere underneath the pads.

Take Saturday's Blue Hen Conference Flight B game against Wilmington High, for example.

Hodgson's Wayne Wilson received a third quarter Wilmington punt in Hodgson territory and headed towards the sideline. The ball, however, was in Lamont Murray's hands, and Murray was streaking up the other sideline.

A little blocking from the Silver Eagles' special teams squad helped Murray take the reverse handoff about 70 yards for the touchdown, which ended up deciding the game, as Hodgson (2-2) won 8-0 at the Delcastle High School field. Wilson ran the ball in for the conversion.

"That was a real nice punt return," said Billings. "Just perfect."

"We played real good. We finally started playing some. We hit real good."

Billings singled out Eric Harris, Lou Satori, Eric Needhan and Derek Anderson as the hardest hitters, and said defensive toughness was the key to holding the lead.

"They drove some," said Billings. "We're not very big and they're huge, but we stopped them when we had to."

The Eagles never had another scoring opportunity until the final seconds of the game, but Billings elected to fall on the ball on the Wilmington five yard line instead of risking a play to score.

Auks drop Spartans

by David Woolman

Archmere Academy is not the same team it was last year, which gave the St. Mark's volleyball team an excellent chance against the Auks last Wednesday evening.

Unfortunately, St. Mark's reverted to 1987 form, missing 16 serves in two games and falling to Archmere, 15-8, 15-11.

"I guess it's a little bit of last year haunting me," said St. Mark's coach Dave Stover. "There were a lot of missed serves, but this is the first time I've ever had a group that couldn't pass the ball."

"Early in the season, they passed well. Something happened that our passing skill has gone down instead of getting better. In practice things are not bad, but in the last couple of games...."

The Spartans (now 3-3 overall, 1-2 in Catholic Conference) have had a particularly bad time recently, also losing to St. Elizabeth, like Archmere a Catholic Conference rival.

The two losses make the Spartans' position in the conference, which bears directly on their chance for a bid to the state tournament, uncertain.

"Maybe we can afford to lose one more Catholic Conference match," said Stover.

In the Archmere match, both games moved along slowly, with neither team setting up for the hitters with any consistency. St. Mark's made up a brief deficit early thanks to two kills by Katie Linsay (six kills) and an ace by Allison Fry.

The Spartans stayed close, but indecision led to a number of dropped balls and Archmere chipped out a slow dribble of points to win the game 15-8.

"Another slow start," said Stover. "I don't know what to do. I try to keep them physically active in warmups, and that part always looks good. Then we get out on the court and we're absolutely dead. The enthusiasm wasn't there."

"We have to communicate more as a team," said Danielle O'Brien (three aces). "We talk in practice and then in the game everyone is afraid to open their mouths."

Hustle and communication improved in the second game, but then the serving fell apart — the Spartans missed 13 serves in this game alone.

The game featured 43 service exchanges, and neither team had more than a two point lead until late, when Katie Sahne served an ace in two points and Molly Lewis ran off four more points, helped by kills from Katie O'Dea and Rosie Pileggi, to bring the Auks to game point, 14-7.

St. Mark's stayed in the game, alternating serves some more, and even some points, thanks to a block kill by Linsay and an ace in a three point run by Sue Thursby (two kills). Finally, Lewis served an ace to give Archmere the game 15-11, and the match.

VOLLEY

chipped away at the lead a point at a time until Holland put the game away with another service ace.

An early five point run by Kim Miller, including two block kills for Yelsh, gave A.I. a 5-2 lead in the second game. Three straight aces from Andria Miller tied the game at five.

The lead alternated, with Leedle's serve credited with three points from unforced errors by A.I. to give Newark a 10-9 lead. Two kills by Rebecca Raum and Tricia Leathers on Kim Miller's serve gave A.I. a 11-10 lead.

On Pedrotti's serve, Catie Mahoney (three kills, two blocks) killed a ball to tie the game, and helped block a ball with Miller to give Newark the lead. Rewa killed a ball for a point, and A.I. made two unforced errors to give Newark the game and match.

Newark simply played a much better game than they did in their opening night loss to Ursuline. From passing to setting to spiking, this was a better quality performance, and the former let the latter shine.

"Serve receive went really well," said Pedrotti. "I had an easy time setting. That's why I did so well."

"Our communication is a lot better. We played like a team. I think we've improved so much."

"I tried to play smart and not just crush balls," said Rewa. "We finally can hit away from the block. We're looking over to where the holes are. We've gotten over the phase of just hitting away. Now we're finding the open spaces."

If anything was lacking, it was serving (Newark missed nine serves) and blocking.

"This is a night when you serve 'adrenalized' serves," explained Apichella. "They know better than that, but they're very pumped up and they hit the ball too hard. In their excitement, they fail to make the adjustment."

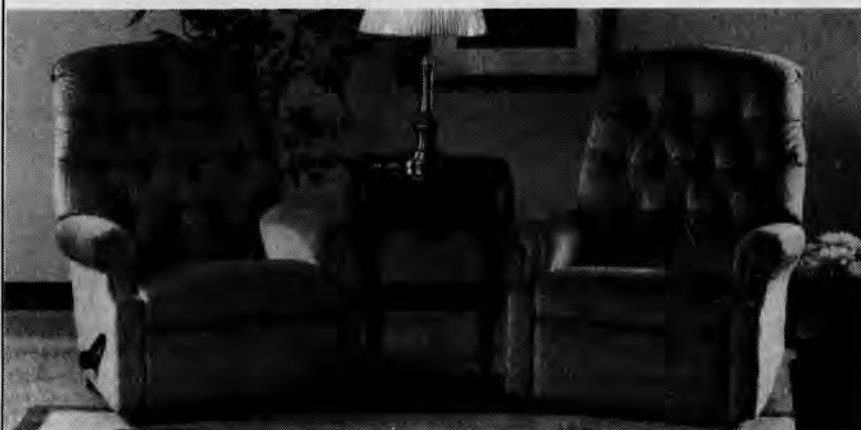

Apichella considers blocking one of the hardest skills to teach in high school, and her team suffered from its relative inexperience, particularly in its timing.

Other circumstances made it difficult as well, "especially with our height deficit," said Apichella. "When you're 5' 4", there's just not much you can do. I can do everything but make them tall."

"I think we'll have to have tougher blocking, but I pretty much saw what I had to see tonight."

listen, and not try to make something out of it that it isn't," said Raymond. "I think that ours is telling us that we are in fact a much improved defensive team."

In any event, it may have a lot to do with forces outside the realm of Delaware's control.

"The Yankee Conference is so close that anyone can beat anyone," said Raymond. "Rhode Island is playing well. The favorites that we picked at the beginning of the season, Maine has lost two, and Richmond has lost three...."

As might be expected, the attitude of the team has improved markedly. Things can reach quite a low after an unexpected loss and a rash of injuries.

"There was a lot of finger pointing after the Rhode Island game," said Levelis, who said it continued into the locker-room before the Richmond game.

"(Rhode Island) was the low point of my football career. It's hard to come back from something like that. That's what's so great about this football team."

Delaware gets to play another nationally-ranked team in William and Mary this Saturday. The game will be played at Delaware Stadium at 1:30 p.m. as part of this year's homecoming festivities.

The Tribe is 3-1 this year, a credit to their defense, which has allowed its opponents a mere 270 yards a game this season.

"Defensively, they have seven people who have started three years against us," said Raymond. "They're ranked nationally defensively, and have done an exceptional job."

"The big thing is they've had three weeks to prepare for our offense. They worked for one week against James Madison (also a Wing T offense), they had a week off and they have this week."

Offensively, the Tribe's biggest threat is wide receiver Harry Mehre, who holds a number of records at William and Mary and has 18 receptions for 263 yards and three touchdowns this year.

John Brosnahan started the year at quarterback, injured a finger, and watched Craig Argo take his job away with three straight victories. Brosnahan's finger has healed, but his status is uncertain.

"Right now, Argo is our starting quarterback," said William and Mary coach Jimmie Laycock. "We'll see what Brosnahan can do this week."

JACKETS

On the second play from scrimmage, defensive back Mike Gerhart picked up a Brandywine fumble and ran 35 yards for a touchdown. Gwinn kicked the extra point and Newark led 7-0.

The 'Jackets then held Brandywine to four downs, and took over just inside Bulldog territory after the punt. Four plays later, fullback Bill DiFenno took a pitchout over right tackle and 37 yards for a touchdown. Another Gwinn conversion gave Newark a 14-0 lead five minutes into the game.

"It was nothing fancy," said coach Simpson. "We just happened to break some things."

"If there's anything that needed to happen today, it was that — for us to have our sophomore quarterback get his feet on the ground, where the pressure wasn't going to be on him to carry us."

Brandywine scored on its next possession, keyed by a 46 yard pass from John Schropp to Ben Weaver. Schropp threw a pass into the corner of the endzone, which Gerhart and Paul McCord caught simultaneously. McCord won the struggle to cut the 'Jacket lead to 8.

Newark moved the ball 44 yards on the subsequent drive, which featured a 34-yard pass from Bedford to Ted Rattovich. Bedford's first varsity completion set up a 29-yard field goal by Gwinn to give Newark a 17-6 lead.

Newark scored on the first play from scrimmage in the second half, as halfback Steve Thompson ran the ball up the middle and forgot to stop, going 64 yards for the touchdown.

The Yellowjacket defense did the rest, bending but not breaking, not shutting Brandywine down offensively but limiting their scoring opportunities.

"I thought that we did a good job today against their running game," said Simpson, whose team is now 2-1 overall and 1-0 in Blue Hen Conference Flight A. "I wasn't sure we'd be able to stand in."

"We were fortunate enough to put them in passing situations, not only with the score but with the down and distance."

Taking away the three big plays, the offense was not particularly efficient at driving the ball (65 yards otherwise).

"Brandywine is a physical football team," said Simpson. "We weren't going to be able to control the line of scrimmage."

"They crowded the line of scrimmage and I think they figured that the game was going to be us trying to run the ball."

"I don't think anybody, at least anybody like us, is going to run the ball down Brandywine's throat. Brandywine is a good defensive football team."

Bedford quarterbacked in the Capitol Trail Junior Football League last fall, but his only high school football experience was the final quarter of last week's Cape Henlopen game.

"I was kind of nervous," said Bedford. "Real nervous. I was a lot more confident after I completed a pass."

"I'll just get better from here. I have to read the defense a little better. It will come soon."

"We came out fired up," said Ted Rattovich, a key part of the 'Jacket defensive effort out of the outside linebacker position in his second week back from a knee injury. "This was our best defensive game of the year."

"I think this team is going to be able to take the winning record. We're good, but we're taking it game by game."

Newark visits Delaware Saturday at 10:30 a.m.

down and striker Greg Lillie put a low shot in from 10 yards out for the score.

Lillie played only seven minutes in the previous four games while recovering from hernia surgery, but surprised Glasgow, and himself, by completing a hat trick in the second half.

He put a 10-yard shot across the box five minutes into the half to increase the Newark lead to 3-1, and scored on a penalty shot seven minutes later. The last two goals came on a Voight corner kick headed in by halfback Craig Klokars, and a breakaway goal by Miles Dean.

"In the first half, we were flat," said Glasgow coach Vince DeCaria. "They were not moving, they were not challenging the guy with the ball, or covering the guy who didn't have the ball. (Newark) was able to string some passes together and penetrate."

"We were obviously not in this game to the extent that we should have been. Their spirits were high, but unfortunately their play didn't match their spirits."

"I think we outlasted them," said Blackwell. "It looked like it was still up for grabs at 1-1."

"Our improvement from now said Cyle. "I think we learned that if we don't get up for every opponent, we'll be in trouble."

"It showed us that we could come back — that was a good sign."

"It was the second game in a row that we've had over 400 yards of total offense. Defensively, we're giving up an average of six points a game."

The Bucs enter the heart of their schedule, playing some of the tougher small schools, including Oxford, Tatnall, Tower Hill, and Cyle's former charges, Archmere.

"We'll see what we have," said Cyle.

Bi-focal blues

There are a lot of things that I could write about. I could wax eloquent on the Olympics, unmatched socks, the fury I feel when squirrels dine in my bird-feeders, weird eating habits of teens, the Presidential debates, the rudeness of telephone solicitors during the dinner hour, the beauties of my new kitchen, or driving around Newark.

Speaking of traffic problems, have you tried Paper Mill Road or Ogletown Road? Or entering the exciting College Square? Considering these three examples — and eight others I haven't named — I'm about to subscribe to the theory of one of my paranoid friends who is convinced that some sadistic person has concocted a plan to freeze Newark's traffic into eternal gridlock during a holiday parade while high school bands tootle Sousa marches.

However, I'm not going to devote my column to any of the above mentioned items. While all have affected my life this past week, the real biggie in my life has to do with my vision, or lack thereof, and my need for stronger glasses.

I got my first glasses way back when I took a statistics course. Being able to clearly see all those numbers and horrendous formulas, unfortunately, didn't make me a better statistician; however, it did convince me that statistics and I did not have a future.

Happily, once statistics left my life I no longer needed glasses. Without my glasses I sailed through marriage, childbirth, play groups, macrame, coffee klatches, homeroom motherhood, PTA's, class trips, and a return to gainful employment.

For my first four working years I managed just fine. Not that I was proud or anything, but I did notice that I was the only one in my bridge club who not only didn't need spectacles, but who was able to see her cards without extending her arms.

Then a couple of years ago, my body let me down. I needed glasses. Not all the time, just for reading. . . the fine print. As time passed, I found myself donning my spectacles more often. It wasn't that I really needed them all the time, it was merely safer to wear them than to keep them in my purse.

"Ah ha," you crow, "that's just a silly excuse."

"Wrong," I say. And here's why.

Last summer when I was playing softball, I was told to take off my glasses. Being an obedient and religious third baseman (I prayed that every runner would get thrown out at first), I took my glasses off, put them in their case, snapped it shut, put the case in my purse, and stuck my purse behind the bench, which is where my glasses — in my glasses case in my purse — were hit by a foul tip, and my right lens was fractured.

Late this summer my arms got shorter, and the newspapers began to use fuzzy ink. Then highway signs deteriorated and so did movies — not to mention trees and people's faces.

With that evidence, I admitted that I probably needed to have my eyes rechecked which is when the doctor told me it was bi-focals time.

So what's with all my fussing about bi-focals? I want to make it perfectly clear that bi-focals are not a sign of elderliness — some of the nicest people I know under the age of 13 wear bi-focals.

What they are a sign of is confusion. Stairsteps advance and recede randomly. A spoonful of mashed potatoes on its way from plate to mouth changes form repeatedly. Sometimes as my feet loom much too close I know that I am shrinking, while other times my feet seem to fade away as I grow taller.

Which brings me to the one good piece of news about bi-focals, when I feel taller, I also feel thinner. Now if the bi-focals could just do something about raising my metabolism and giving me naturally curly auburn hair.

First Stage's first

by Neil Thomas

Delaware theater, past tense, was thoroughly lacking, with few houses and little variety.

Delaware theater, present tense, is very much alive, with numerous stages and companies and a broad range of styles.

Delaware theater, future tense, is a question mark but one which a new company, First Stage, hopes to answer.

First Stage is a collaborative effort of Equity actors Peter DeLaurier and Ceal Phelan, who are husband and wife, and playwright Drury Pifer.

It was founded this year, formalizing a working relationship of several years' duration, with two basic goals.

The first is to return to a style of theater in which words and the actors themselves carry more weight than feelings and the stage around them.

The second is to reach out to define the direction of Delaware theater.

"There is an enormous amount of theater activity here," said DeLaurier. "It's an exciting time for theater in Delaware. The non-professional theater here is very good, there is the Delaware Theatre Company (which he and Phelan founded) and there is Sandy Robbins (new theater department chairman) at the University of Delaware."

"But the one thing that is lacking in the state is a new concept of where theater is going from here. We need a vision of theater for the future to take advantage of all this activity."

"I see us as a spearhead."

Much as the Steppenwolf Theatre has created a "Chicago style" of theater, DeLaurier hopes First Stage will set the tone here.

The company's inaugural production is "Zig Zag Zelda," written and directed by Pifer and well-known to patrons of the University's Bacchus Theatre, where it was performed last year.

The play will be performed at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, Oct. 7-8 and 14-15 in the 169-seat auditorium of the Delaware Art Museum, 2301 Kentmere Parkway, Wilmington. It is the first theater production in the auditorium.

Peter DeLaurier and Ceal Phelan as Scott and Zelda Fitzgerald in Drury Pifer's "Zig Zag Zelda," the inaugural production of First Stage.

Tickets cost $15 for reserved seating, $10 for unreserved and $7 for senior citizens and students. Call B&B Tickettown at 656-9797.

"Zig Zag Zelda" is a play-within-a-play which tells the mirror image stories of writers Scott and Zelda Fitzgerald and young actors portraying them in an off-off-Broadway theater.

"It's very much a feminist play," according to Pifer. "Zelda is such a terrific case of a woman suppressed by a male."

And in the original version of the play, which has been rewritten "three or four times," Zelda was the sole focus.

Now, however, there is much more of a role developed for Scott and his actor counterpart, with Pifer and DeLaurier exploring the attitudes of men in the 1920s and the very different attitudes of men in the 1980s.

"Men are now exhibiting many of the same symptoms that used to be attributed to women," said Phelan.

Pifer wrote "Zig Zag Zelda" specifically for Phelan. "I'd seen her do Emily Dickinson, and I thought I'd like to see her do another poet," he said. "I considered Edna St. Vincent Millay, but it would have been difficult to get the rights to her work. Then I thought of Zelda."

"That's how plays are," Pifer explained. "You get an idea years back, it germinates in your subconscious, then you bring it out."

"Zig Zag Zelda" is a production First Stage hopes to "bring out" to the rest of the country following its run in Delaware.

Chapel Street opens with 'Showcase'

by Nancy Turner

Fall is a season of traditions, and at Chapel Street Theater it marks the exciting Chapel Street Players' presentation of the "Newcomers Showcase."

The annual event, sometimes known as the "one acts," helps to introduce performers to the Chapel Street stage by giving them an opportunity to work with CSP veterans on short productions.

It also allows individuals who have traditionally participated in one particular production area to test their skills in other jobs. If they choose, actors can be directors, directors can make props, and set builders can take turns in the lime light.

This year's Showcase proudly welcomes newcomers Jo Repaal and Sharon Kirby in "Laundry and Bourbon," a comedy by James McClure about three "friends" in a Texas town who are each facing a time of crisis. Susan Cinaglia, a Chapel Street favorite, will make her directing debut in the play and Jo Ann Dawson, who appeared most recently in "You Can't Take It With You," will have an acting role.

"Not Enough Rope" is a farce by Elaine May about the residents of a boarding house and the important lesson that one woman learns about communication when she tries to hang herself. Chapel Street welcomes "first-timer" Renee Schumann, as well as Eleanor Geaghann, who will be returning after many years away from the local stage. "Not Enough Rope" also features Michael Wahl in his second play at Chapel Street.

"The Very Last Scene" will mark "the very first time" that a play written by a member of Chapel Street Players has been performed on the local stage. Alice Sawyer, the author, will take the bows.

Under the direction of Alice's husband, Geoff Sawyer, and with the help of some of CSP's most outstanding performers — Marlene Hummel, Ed Abramson and Ernie Sutton — the play takes a serious perception-verses-reality look at one woman's despair when her husband of 12 years asks for a divorce.

Sawyer, who is the marketing director for the YMCA of Delaware, has enjoyed a hobby of writing short stories and poetry for many years.

"Making the characters come to life is what's difficult," said Sawyer of the play, which was written last spring.

"With a one-act play, big things have to happen in a short period of time. This one is about 25 minutes long."

"To see my work come to life and to see the enthusiasm of the people who are playing the parts and creating the characters is an incredible experience," said Sawyer, but like all newcomers, she is nervous about opening night.

"Opening night is scary. It's making yourself extremely vulnerable, hanging it all out, and letting the audience judge you. That's hard."

While applause may be the final reward, the friendship and the care that Chapel Street Players take in nurturing each other's talents are always abundant. They are the vital ingredients guaranteeing that, like the audience, the performers will always come back for more.

The Newcomers Showcase will be presented Oct. 7, 8, 14, 15, and tickets may be reserved by calling the Chapel Street box office at 368-2248.

LIFE FILE

Virginia Bailey of Newark, riding Wapiti, took the English pleasure horse championship in the 1988 Delaware 4-H Horse Show.

• Virginia Bailey and Melanie Bullen, both of Newark, were named winners in the Delaware 4-H Horse Show held Sept. 18. Bailey won the English pleasure horse championship on Wapiti, and the reserve championship went to Bullen. Bailey earned trophies in the classes for English equitation and pleasure horse over fences.

• Sara Calhoun of Newark has received a national community award from the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP).

Calhoun, a member of AARP Newark Area Chapter 3517, was nominated for the award by the local board of directors for her outstanding contributions to the community.

Calhoun was the local chapter's first recording and corresponding secretary, taking the position upon founding of the organization seven years ago. She later trained her successor and took on new duties as chaplain and sunshine person, keeping in touch with chapter members.

According to the local board, Calhoun has lived up to the AARP motto to "serve and not to be served."

In addition to Calhoun's AARP work, she volunteers regularly at Newark Manor Nursing Home.

• Jennifer Edwards of Newark has been crowned Delaware Junior Star and will compete in the sixth annual national pageant to be held Nov. 17-23 in Miami Beach, Fla. Edwards, 8, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Edwards.

• Rotary International's Polio Plus is a project to immunize children worldwide against crippling and killing diseases such as polio, tetanus, tuberculosis, whooping cough, measles and diphtheria.

According to Rotary, more than 3 million children die and an equal number are disabled by these six vaccine-preventable diseases, thus the interest in providing appropriate medication.

More than $119 million has been raised by Rotarians, and the Newark Rotary raised $27,232 in contributions solely from its 54 members. Locally, the Newark, Elkton, West Wilmington and Kirkwood clubs raised a total of $70,709.

Immunization shots cost Rotary four cents per dose, and three doses are necessary for inoculation. "Twelve cents is a small price to pay for a child's life," according to a spokesman for Delaware Rotary.

Health care for senior citizens

by Ken Finlayson

NEWARK SENIOR CENTER

Conventional wisdom has it that the United States leads the world in medical technology. We lead the world in advanced diagnostic equipment such as CT scans, magnetic resonance imaging, echo-cardiograms as well as in standard diagnostic facilities.

The United States has more doctors per capita than any other country and is famous for such advanced surgery as reconnecting severed limbs, replacing joints, separating siamese twins, and neurosurgery. It should then be no surprise that we spend more on health care than any other country.

About $480 billion dollars a year is being spent on all forms of health services. This amounts to $2,000 per year for every man, woman and child in the United States. This per capita cost is also higher than any other country in the world.

Therefore one might conclude that Americans are the healthiest in the world, but such is not the case.

• The United States is 17th among civilized countries in infant mortality.

• Thirty-seven million Americans are without health insurance, a 50 percent increase since 1977.

• Life expectancy is better in fifteen other countries.

• Medicaid payments cover only 48 percent of the poor.

• Long term health care impoverishes the elderly.

• A reduction of 23 percent in medicare assistance since 1982 is listed as a major cause of many hospital closings, mainly outside of metropolitan areas.

Access to health care is thus becoming more on the basis of ability to pay than on need.

Prior to 1970 our neighbor to the North, Canada, faced these same problems of escalating costs and mail distribution of services. Since then, however, profound changes have occurred between the two countries.

During the 1970s a plan was developed for universal access to health services without incurring runaway costs, the role of the government being to insure that the medical needs of all citizens are met. The ministry of each Province negotiates priorities and fee schedules with doctor associations. Health financing is funneled through one agency, the national government. All citizens receive primary care without fee and the plan is financed by taxes on both individuals and business.

All citizens in need of immediate care receive it at once, while others are treated in accord with agreed upon priorities. Patients requiring terminal nursing home care pay only an affordable percenttage of their income. Those desiring elective or cosmetic surgery can obtain it privately.

Doctors can go to medical school for as little as $1,000 per year but are allocated to specialties and geographically as to the need.

The Canadian system has resulted in a better distribution of health care than in the United States and Canadians are experiencing costs that are only about 75 percent of that in the United States.

Canada's willingness to accept socialized medicine seems to be based on its history. After the Revolutionary War, where Canada was on the losing side, it adopted a Constitution based on Peace, Order, Good Government, and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. The United States adopted a Constitution based on Life, Liberty, the Pursuit of Happiness and the Right to Bear Arms.

It would be unrealistic to expect the United States to emulate Canada's health plan but a trend appears to be surfacing in the United States to provide health care based on priorities.

In Oregon a program is in effect where those who cannot afford health insurance are assisted by the State in proportion to their ability to pay.

In Massachusetts, a new law is being implemented where most employers are required to provide health insurance for their employees and where the state will insure those not covered.

These programs are controversial because of the costs involved but a recent poll has revealed that most voters are in favor of Federal intervention for health care, nursing home care, and child care.

Health care, wellness, and the quality of life for the elderly are priority items at the Newark Senior Center and will be addressed further in succeeding articles.

TRIVIA FOUR TIMES DAILY

by Phil Toman

THE ARTS

Delaware Art Museum shows Wickey, Pyle

The exhibition schedule for the Delaware Art Museum indicates we are in for quite a year! There are two special exhibits on right now with more on the way.

The two running at the present time are "Harry Wickey: Printmaker" and "Heros, Heroines and the Heroic: Howard Pyle and His Students." Since the Wickey show closes in October and the Pyle in December, I want to draw attention to the earlier closing exhibit first.

The exhibition provides an overview of Wickey's graphic art through more than 30 dry-points, etchings and lithographs. The works are drawn from many sources, including the collection of our own museum, the Philadelphia Museum of Art, Syracuse University and the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

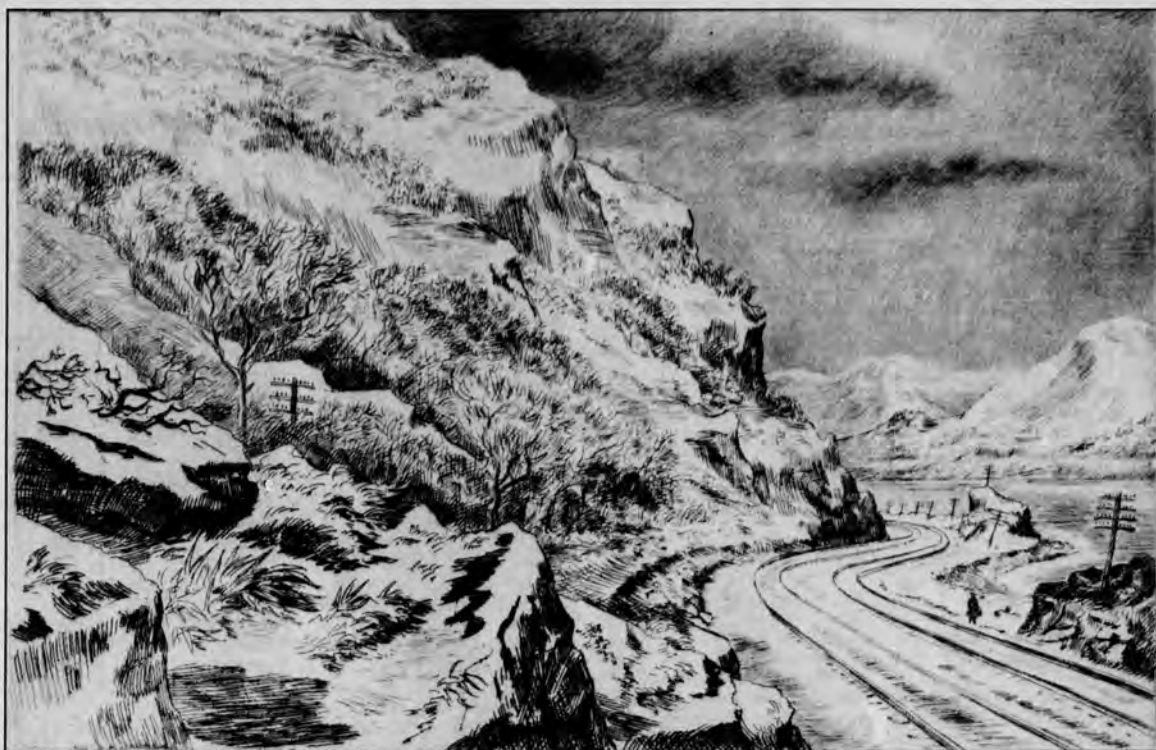

One of my favorites is with my column today. I have traveled the area via the New York Central, whose tracks are shown in the etching, and many memories were recalled. Wickey loved the Hudson area, even down into New York City. I hope the photo will whet your interest to see more.

Wickey was one of the country's foremost printmakers in the 1920s and 1930s. During the first three decades of this century, his career was closely linked to the growth of the art in the United States. He taught at the Art Students League and was recognized as one of the most influential teachers in New York.

Descriptive words like "robust" and "vigorous" come to mind when writing about his distinctive work. More than anything, the artist was an uncompromising realist. This held true in his city and rural efforts. Unlike many artists, Harry Wickey did earn both popular and critical acclaim during his lifetime.

It is interesting to note that this exhibit is being made possible by a grant from the John Sloan Memorial Foundation, even though the exhibit is totally the work of the Delaware Art Museum's curatorial staff. Wickey's city life prints of the early 1920s have been compared to the work of the more famous John Sloan. Both artists had backgrounds in illustration. They never met until 1927, but became fast friends until Sloan's death in 1951. Wickey died in 1964.

"Hudson Highlands Under Snow" is one of more than 30 works by artist Harry Wickey now on exhibit at the Delaware Art Museum.

Howard Pyle is, of course, one of the mainstays of the Delaware Art Museum and the Brandywine River Museum. From now through Dec. 31, the DAM is offering an "heroic" Pyle and student retrospective.

Over 40 works by Howard Pyle and some of his students, which treat the theme of heroism in its various forms, are now there for us to enjoy. This is an exhibit the younger members of your family might enjoy as well. It could offer a positive first step toward art museum visitation throughout life.

The Pyle students being shown with the master include Green, Hoskins, Oakely and Schoonover, as well as some lesser known artists. The works have been very carefully — and very well — selected by the museum staff from their permanent collection. The DAM's collection of American illustration is one of the most complete outside of the Library of Congress. It is a primary repository for original paintings and documents from the "golden age" of American illustration.

The Delaware Art Museum is located at 2301 Kentmere Parkway in Wilmington, a pleasant 25 minute drive from Newark. If you go up "the back way" you will be in for a more beautiful trip each day the leaves continue turning. Admission is always free. Enjoy!

Two new galleries on the 'art loop'

There are two new galleries on Wilmington's growing "art loop," and one is featuring the work of a Newark artist.

New to the local art scene are the Susan Isaacs Gallery at 709 Tatnall St., and Dusha Gallery at 511 Washington St.

The Susan Isaacs Gallery was formerly the L.B. Jones Gallery, and the new name reflects the sole ownership of Susan Isaacs.

Isaacs says she plans to continue the gallery's "devotion to excellence" and "desire to present many different styles of work."

Goals include the growth of the establishment into a "nationally recognized gallery, one where area artists' works can be viewed in a national forum, as a part of the international art market."

Dusha Gallery was founded by Sheryl Eldredge and Katherine Casey, both recent imports from the Los Angeles art scene.

"Dusha," translated from Russian, means "the body, the soul, the essence of one's being" and represents the creative spirit that drives artists.

The gallery will hold its grand opening Friday evening, Oct. 7 with an exhibition of work by Roberta D'Anna, who incorporates photography with poetry.

The event will include a poetry reading by D'Anna and live classical piano music.

Currently, the Susan Isaacs Gallery is showing works by Bettina Skor of New England and Catharine Fichtner Kirk of Newark.

A reception for the Newark artist will be held 5-7 p.m. Friday, Oct. 7.

Kirk paints large scale works in acrylic on linen canvas, utilizing the sculptural qualities of the acrylic and the texture and color of the linen.

Paint is applied thickly and is worked and reworked, and Kirk often scratches images into the tacky paint.

The result is dreamlike, and in fact the title of the exhibition is "Dreamscapes."

For information on the Susan Isaacs Gallery, call 658-1948. For Dusha, call 654-8450.

Works by photographer and poet Roberta D'Anna will be shown at the new Dusha Gallery on Washington Street in Wilmington.

UD Oktubafest concert Sunday

The University of Delaware's Oktubafest 1988, highlighting the unique music of the tuba family of instruments, will get under way at 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 9 with an outdoor concert on the north side of the University Mall.

The concert, sponsored by the University Department of Music, will feature large ensemble tuba music, including traditional German songs and works by John Philip Sousa and Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart.

Performing will be University players, as well as professional and amateur tubists from the region.

Persons who plan to attend are encouraged to bring lawn chairs and blankets. In the event of rain, the concert will be held in Loudis Recital Hall, Amstel Avenue and Orchard Road.

Oktubafest will continue at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 11 with a program in Loudis Recital Hall by Mary Ann Craig on euphonium and Julie Nishimura on piano.

Craig is chair of the music division at the College of St.

Rose in Albany, N.Y. and is a well-known soloist and clinician.

She has appeared in Carnegie Hall with Harvey Phillips in tuba-euphonium ensembles and recently completed a solo euphonium recording.

Craig's program will include works by C. Franck, P.D.Q. Bach, and the "Sonata da Camera" written for her by D. Ueber.

Both the concert and the recital are free and open to the public.

Oktubafest was established to highlight the tuba family of instruments — the tenor tuba (euphonium or baritone horn), bass tuba and contrabass tuba.

The event will provide a sampling of the extremely varied styles of tuba music available to today's players.

Oktubafest 1988 was organized by Dr. D. Jay Hildebrandt, associate professor of music at the University; Al Start, tubist with the Delaware Brass and the Renaissance Brass; and Paul Hess, band director at Shue Middle School.

STAGE

"One of the things we want to do with the company," said DeLaurier, "is export Delaware's art to make a statement about what is produced here."

The founding of a theater company is nothing new for Phelan, DeLaurier or Pifer.

Phelan and DeLaurier launched the Delaware Theater Company and Pifer the Berkeley Stage in California.

However, all three found the demands of those companies too great. "When you have a building, you have to keep a 'product' in it," said DeLaurier. "You have to keep producing so the building isn't empty."

That, said Pifer, often hurts playwrights who must rush shows onto the stage before they are ready.

DeLaurier said the three "decided what things we didn't want to do again, and what things we did want to focus our energy on."

Primarily, First Stage will focus on plays that "have to do with language, that are barebones, and that concentrate on the acting," said Pifer. "We would like an enormously articulate theater, with more energy in the words and making them work."

Method acting, he said, has withdrawn theater from words into feeling and he would like to see that reversed.

the Chesapeake

Seafood, Steak Restaurant

"Tablehopping doesn't mind going for a ride in the car if we know there's a good meal waiting at the destination. We were rewarded the other night with dinner at "Ches'apeake," a restaurant on Route 213 in Elkton.

Ches'apeake opened in July at the site of the House of Seafood, which burned down two years ago. Owner Danny Justice has dressed up the new place with brass rails, wooden fixtures and soft lighting, plus a bar. It was about the yippiest thing to hit Cecil County yet, we figured.

We were shown to a booth on a busy Saturday evening. The benches in the booth were made of handsome varnished wood. The booths and the quiet setting make this the perfect spot for an intimate dinner.

Ches'apeake's menu offers a full variety of meat and fish courses, plus sandwiches and dishes for "Wee Mates." For an appetizer, we had potato skins stuffed with cheese and bacon for $3.50, which we liked. The restaurant also offers other potato skins, fried cheese sticks and fried seafood as appetizers.

Every dinner at Ches'apeake includes choice of soup and a salad bar. The Maryland crab soup had lots of vegetables and we enjoyed it; the salad bar was good, and featured several different kinds of bread—pumpernickel, Italian roll and French.

For dinner, we had the prime rib ($12.95), which is served on Friday and Saturday nights only. Tablehopping ordered it medium-well done, and it was cooked just right. We enjoyed it, and decided if we had it again, we'd order it cooked less to enjoy the flavor of the meat more. We also had the steak teriyaki ($8.95) which was very good: the cuts of meat were thick and the sauce quite rich.

And we had one of the specials of the evening, Cajun Trout ($8.95) which we really liked. Owner Justice says the cook doesn't season this dish quite as strongly as it is meant to be, in deference to tender tongues. We found the fish spicy enough and buttery-soft—not overcooked.

Tea or coffee cost 50 cents. For dessert, our waitress offered us a choice of cheesecake or carrot cake. We tried the cheesecake ($1.95), ate it all, and realized we'd overdone things a bit.

The service was friendly, and on the whole the restaurant was a pleasure to visit, the highlights being the well-prepared, moderately-priced entrees."

TWO LIVES, ONE RUSSIA

Nicholas Daniloff

In his long-awaited book, Nicholas Daniloff weaves a double narrative that vividly brings to life yesterday's Russia and today's Soviet Union. One story tells of the author's search for his heritage, while the other is the chilling account of his arrest and imprisonment by the KGB.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE:
AMERICAN PRINCESS

Anne Edwards

For the first time, Shirley Temple's extraordinary story is brought fully to life, from being the world's most famous and acclaimed child at age five, to her fall as an adolescent who had outgrown her appeal; from television tycoon to American diplomat; and her ever-present realization that "little Shirley Temple's" greatness would always exceed that of the grown woman.

Christiana church celebrates 250th

Rev. Joan Mitchell SalmonCampbell will be special guest speaker during 250th anniversary activities at Christiana Presbyterian Church.

Christiana Presbyterian Church's year-long 250th anniversary celebration will culminate this weekend with special homecoming services.

Special guest speaker during programs Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 8 and 9, will be the Rev. Joan SalmonCampbell.

SalmonCampbell will deliver keynote addresses during a banquet Saturday at the Delcastle Inn and during homecoming services at 11 a.m. Sunday at the church.

A native of Kirkwood, Mo., SalmonCampbell is active in the ecumenical Black Women In Church and Society as well as in the United Presbyterian Church USA and the Presbyterian Church US.

She is currently associate executive for mission program of the Philadelphia Presbytery.

SalmonCampbell holds a doctor of divinity degree from Central America University.

Christiana Presbyterian Church was organized in 1732, when the village at Christiana Bridge was a budding riverport.

It was served by Charles Tennant, son of William Tennant, founder of the Old Log College which subsequently became Princeton University.

In 1738, the first church building was erected on land purchased and donated by Col. John Read, who fought in the Revolutionary War.

The cornerstone of the present church was laid in 1857 on the site of the original structure.

Presbyterians host Smith, Faircloth

A special musical program will be held Sunday evening, Oct. 9 at Evangelical Presbyterian Church of Newark, Possum Park Road.

Featured will be Christian musicians Scott Smith and Michael Faircloth. They will perform at 6:30 p.m.

Smith, of Lutherville, Md., established his music ministry to present a clear gospel message, to encourage listeners to understand the meaning of salvation and their role in God's kingdom, and to establish an atmosphere of worship.

He has performed in church services, missions conferences, adult retreats and, through Prison Fellowship, in several state penitentiaries.

A graduate of Covenant College, Smith went on to become a youth director, working with junior and senior high school students and with college-age young people.

He later launched a full-time singing career that takes him to church along the Eastern seaboard.

Faircloth, of Abingdon, Md., is a pianist and holds advanced and pre-conservatory certificates from the Peabody Preparatory Department of the Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore.

He holds a bachelor's degree in music from the University of Maryland, and is currently a master's candidate there.

Faircloth, who has worked with Smith before, is staff pianist at Sandy Cove Bible Conference in North East, Md.

He is humbled by his "responsibilities" as a Christian musician, saying, "It scares me to think that what I do and how I do it can affect how those listening, both Christian and non-Christian, will respond to God."

'Outreach' series

Grace Evangelical Free Church is celebrating World Outreach Month with a series of programs featuring speakers from various missions worldwide.

Throughout October, the church will hold special services at 7 p.m. Tuesdays in the Harmony Grange on Limestone Road near Arundel and at 11 a.m. Sundays in Skyline Middle School.

Tuesday services will feature missionaries and Sunday services will feature mission-related sermons by Gregory Hullinger, pastor of Grace Evangelical Free Church.

John Castro, who has been working among the Buddhist people of Thailand for nearly 30 years, will discuss his mission Tuesday evening, Oct. 11.

Castro and his wife, Virginia, are both natives of this region and both studied at Prairie Bible Institute in Alberta, Canada.

They were married in Thailand in 1959 and have worked there ever since, planting churches and working with children.

Future speakers include Tom Marmor Wycliffe, who is a missionary in Togo, on Oct. 18; Hank Griffith, Zaire, Oct. 25; and 95-year-old William Miller, who spent much of his life working in Iran, Oct. 30.

German-American Day

JOINT RESOLUTION

Whereas, German-Americans, through their work and contributions to the culture of the United States since the arrival of the first German immigrants in the United States on October 6, 1683, have earned this very special day and tribute to their achievements;

Whereas, as they have before, so will Americans of German descent continue to contribute to the life and culture of the United States, and will work for and will support the Government of the United States, its democratic principles and the freedom of all people everywhere;

Whereas such contributions should be recognized and celebrated in 1988, and annually thereafter; and

Whereas common ties and lasting friendship exist between the United States and the Federal Republic of Germany and other German speaking countries: Now, therefore, be it Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That October 6, 1988 is designated as "German-American Day," and the President is authorized and requested to issue a proclamation calling on the people of the United States to observe such day with appropriate ceremonies and activities.

The 800 members of the Delaware Saengerbund wholeheartedly support this resolution in commemoration and in honor of the achievements of German-Americans in Delaware before and after our club was founded in 1853. We are especially proud that our Singers were selected to perform in Washington on this very special day and are grateful for the many courtesies extended by the Embassy of the Federal Republic of Germany.

Our club shall continue to share the best of German culture with this community and was pleased to greet 14,000 of you at our recent Oktoberfest.

God Bless America!

Ariens FALL SUPER SAVINGS

By doing five lawn care jobs, Ariens walk-behind mowers work hard through three seasons: In the spring they dethatch. In the summer they bag, mulch or spread clippings. And in the fall they pick up and bag leaves.

- Powerful 5 hp heavy-duty engines
- Easy pull recoil and electric start models available
- Bagger-Vac® Collection System vacuums up to 2¼ bushels of grass clippings and leaves under normal, thick or damp grass conditions
- Easy on/off rear bagger, side discharge chute and mulching plate are standard on all models
- Select one of five cutting heights from 1¼"-3¼" to match mowing conditions
- Variable speed control lets you adjust walking speed from 1-3½ mph (on self-propelled models)
- Folding handlebars make storage and transport easy
- Blade Brake-Clutch (BBC) model control bar lets you stop the blade without turning off the engine (Model 911020 ONLY)
- Differential on all self-propelled models makes trimming easier and helps prevent downhill runaway

DuPonts may ask Newark to annex tract

by Cathy Thomas

The duPont family may ask Newark officials to annex about 250 of their 1,000 acres northeast of the city.

The land is part of the 2,000-acre Hallock duPont estate. Earlier this year, family members announced plans to sell half of the property for development. About 321 acres has been targeted for a state park.

Richard duPont said they are "looking favorably" on requesting Newark city annexation of the 250 acres.

"We're studying that carefully," said duPont. "We have not made a final decision."

The property that may be annexed is located between Curtis Mill Road and Possum Park Road, across from the DuPont Company's Louviers site.

Newarkers know it as the site of the old Pushmobile Derby track, in its heyday one of the nation's best such facilities.

DuPont said the property is divided by Jenny's Run, a stream that runs down the middle.

On the east side of the property, plans call for a residential development of 150 homes on 100 acres. Six office buildings of about 100,000 square feet each are planned for 80 acres on the west side of the property.

"At least 50 acres would be a park," said duPont. "If we get office zoning, we could then afford to give up buildable areas."

DuPont said family members are sensitive to environmental concerns about Jenny's Run stream.

According to duPont, the annexation may be one of practicality for the family. "This 250 acres is not contiguous to the rest of the property," he said.

In order to meet some of the infrastructure needs, such as sewers, annexation may be necessary.

David Onn, co-chairman of the Citizens Advocacy Possum Park Area (CAPPA), is hopeful that the stream on the property will be protected, but is not troubled with the annexation proposal.

"Our concern is with sensible land use," said Onn. "We don't mind within which jurisdiction the land falls as long as the use is sensible."

DuPont said a final decision on whether to request annexation will be made later this year. Currently, studies are under way to review possible problems arising from development of the 1,000 acres.

"We've finished our planning," said duPont. "Now we're doing the studies to address our concerns."

The duPont family announced plans to sell the 1,000 acres earlier this year to make the land profitable for future family members.

At that time, the state expressed an interest in purchasing 321 acres to serve as a land bridge between the White Clay Creek Preserve, Carpenter State Park and the Middle Run

Chapel Center planned

A Teeven project

by Cathy Thomas

On the heels of a proposal to construct a parking garage and office building on Main Street, developer Robert L. Teeven Sr. has announced plans for yet another redevelopment project on Newark's chief artery.

Teeven said a new building, to be known as Chapel Center, will be constructed on the northwest corner of Main and Chapel streets.

"That's the entryway to Newark," said Teeven. "Obviously, you want to do something nice there."

The plans are still in the early stages, according to Teeven. "Right now we're doing a lot of studying. We're looking at different ideas."

Teeven said the building will house retail space on the first floor and will probably have office space on the second floor.

It is projected that Chapel Center will provide 12,500 square feet on both levels. On-site parking will be available.

A starting date for the construction has not been finalized, but work could begin sometime in the spring.

Teeven earlier announced plans to demolish the State Theater and several adjacent buildings for construction of a multi-level building which will include parking garage, offices and retail space.

He believes the two projects will improve Main Street. "We really want to upgrade and keep the same facade. We don't want to change the character (of the street)," he said.

Teeven is a successful local businessman who founded, among other enterprises, the USA Training Academy. Headquartered in Newark, the school trains prospective truck drivers.

'Put on the brakes,' residents ask City Council

by Cathy Thomas

Capitol Trail residents want Newark City Council to put the brakes on speeders.

Motorists have been charging along the four-lane highway at high speeds and residents fear someone will get hurt. They expressed that concern Monday night during a council meeting.

Alfred Lawler, who lives along the highway, urged council to pressure the state for traffic lights between Cleveland Avenue and Possum Park Road.

"It's council's responsibility to put traffic lights out there," said Lawler. "Are we waiting for somebody to get killed?"

In a heated statement, Lawler told council that residents believe no one is listening to them and that their problems will only worsen when the state widens the highway, as has been planned.

"Somebody's going to have to do something about it," said Lawler. "We keep being told 'there's nothing that can be done.'"

"I don't believe that," he said.

Other residents asked for increased police enforcement along the road to stop speeders.

"We have quite a bit of enforcement out there," said William Hogan, Newark police chief.

Hogan acknowledged that there probably isn't as much enforcement as residents want, but he said officers know the area is "easy pickings" for catching speeders.

Because Capitol Trail is a state highway, it is up to the Delaware Department of Transportation (DELDOT) to put traffic lights on the road. Councilman Olan Thomas said he had requested the traffic lights, but was turned down.

Council agreed to send a letter to DELDOT, requesting they again review the possibility of lights on the highway.

In other action Monday night, council gave city management approval to seek a consultant for construction of a new police station.

City Manager Carl Luft told council the city will seek a Chrysler Corp.'s Newark Assembly Plant, where nearly 2,000 workers have been called back to begin production of the new A-car.

Chrysler work force gears up to produce new A-car family sedan

by Cathy Thomas

Nearly 2,000 workers returned to their jobs at the Chrysler Corp.'s Newark Assembly Plant this week to begin production of the company's new A-car.

"There will be about 1,800 hourly workers on the first shift," said Alan Miller, Chrysler spokesman. "The second shift starts in early 1989."

The plant was shut down in June for a $205 million conversion of the assembly line to produce the A-car.

Workers at the plant had been making the K-car, but lagging sales forced a halt to the production at the local plant.

About half the company's hourly employees were laid off in December 1987 when K-car production slowed down. The rest of the employees were laid off in June.

While conversion of the plant was under way, employees were gradually re-hired for training on the new assembly line.

Chrysler said conversion of the plant included expansion of the body shop. The shop is now a 230,000-square-foot facility.

State-of-the-art technology is being used in both the body shop and the assembly area, according to the corporation.

The number of robots, used at the plant for welding, material handling and sealing, increased from 75 to 219.

Miller said workers will be manufacturing about 481 new A-cars every day. The car is a four-door family sedan.

Justice, Greenhouse battle for county executive post

by Cathy Thomas

Financial issues divide the two candidates for New Castle county executive. That's no wonder, because the Democratic candidate for the office is currently Delaware's state auditor.

Dennis Greenhouse will face Republican incumbent Rita Justice in the Nov. 8 general election.

"The county is not in as bad a financial state as the (Justice) administration is saying it is," said Greenhouse.

Greenhouse has accused Justice of underestimating revenues for the county and allowing budget encumbrances for county agencies to carry over from year-to-year.

"We're not talking about a business," said Greenhouse. "They've got taxpayer's dollars sitting there."

Greenhouse said Justice proposed layoffs and a tax increase in fiscal 1988 yet when the year ended, the county had a surplus of $4 million.

Justice said the surplus was a result of good budget management. "We have held the line on spending," she said. "We've laid the groundwork for the future."

Some of the encumbrances are carried over from year-to-year, according to Justice, because of delays in some purchases. She said County Council must approve all of those encumbrances.

"They (council) review encumbrances of every department," said Justice. "They know what they are."

concerning another financial issue, Justice said she has been working with the state legislature in an effort to eliminate some of the inequities in distribution of state income tax and user fee revenues.

She said New Castle County contributes the most money to the state but does not see a greater return of the revenues. Such money could be used to improve services in the county.

"When you have a budget that takes 60 percent to cover salaries and fringe benefits, it leaves little to supply the needs and expand services," said Justice.

Greenhouse has said he would fund positions in other departments by reducing the number of county executive assistants.

There are currently 15 executive assistants, according to

Dennis Greenhouse

Greenhouse. He said money used to fund some of the positions could be used to hire a transportation planner and a personnel director in the county police department.

To maintain the quality of the county police force, Greenhouse proposes stepped up recruitment of officers. "Roughly 40 officers are eligible to retire in two years," he said. "I think we need an aggressive recruitment policy."

Rita Justice

Greenhouse has proposed adding ten officers to the four officers now in county police drug enforcement unit. "Four officers for a county this size is not enough," he said.

Justice agrees that improvements must be made in the county police department.

"The biggest threat we have facing us is the enlargement of our public safety department," said Justice. "They are understaffed and overworked."

Justice proposed adding 40 additional officers in the next few years.

It's not clear who actually proposed it first, but both candidates are advocating drug free school zones. Signs would be posted around schools designating the zones and if the General Assembly approves legislation, it would become a special offense to sell drugs in one of the drug free zones.

Newark police picket to protest stalled contract negotiations

by Cathy Thomas

Despite year-long negotiations, a contract settlement still has not been reached between the City of Newark and its police officers.

To protest lack of a contract, members of Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 4 picketed the Newark Municipal Building Monday night prior to the start of the regular City Council meeting.

"There's no indication that they (city management) are going to change anything at all," said Sgt. Tom Penozo, FOP lodge president. "The only thing we can do is continue to picket and get public support."

Police began staging informational pickets after the city refused to abide by a fact-finder's report that sided with the officers.

The major dispute has centered on the amount of pension benefit for the officers and how much the officers should contribute toward that benefit.

"The city doesn't care about the welfare of its employees," said Penozo.

City Manager Carl Luft said there has been negotiating sessions in an effort to resolve the contract disputes.

"All I can say is we're trying," said Luft. "We're as concerned as they are."

Recently, police have raised a new concern over workmen's compensation. Penozo said officers are worried that if they are hurt in the line of duty and only partially disabled, they won't have a job.

Holmes, Cloutier seek presidency

by Cathy Thomas

The issue of experience has arisen in the race for New Castle County council president, one in which both candidates are seeking their first elective office.

The candidates are Republican Philip D. Cloutier and Democrat Susan Holmes, and Nov. 8 voters will select one or the other to replace Democrat Karen Peterson, who chose not to seek re-election.

Cloutier said the position of council president is essentially one of a coalition-builder who must garner enough votes to pass or reject an issue before council. He believes he is more fit for the job.

"She (Holmes) has essentially been a Democratic party operative, who's managed campaigns," said Cloutier. "The difference between she and I is I've been an active participant. What I've been doing for the last five years is developing coalitions on council on major rezoning issues."

Holmes said she has the experience to be council president. "I feel that I have a very diverse background," she said. "I spent the last six and a half years really preparing to be a county official."

Holmes said she has served on several Democratic campaigns and has been involved in civic issues.

"I think where we really differ is in our styles of approach to the office," said Holmes. She plans to take a direct approach, remaining active with community and civic groups.

"You are the councilperson at-large," said Holmes. "As president of council, you need to remain in touch with the people of the county."

Cloutier said he will be able to work with other members of council. "There's no member of Council with whom I think I can't work with," he said. "I have had a working relationship with council on one issue or another."

Cloutier said he would be able to disagree with other council members on one issue and not hold a grudge later.

"There's a sense of commit-

Susan Holmes

ment that has touched a lot of us that have gotten close to county government," said Cloutier. "They're purely open meetings. Where I feel most comfortable is the environs of open exchange."

Both candidates are concerned about issues related to growth in the county. "The (comprehensive plan), as it stands now, is a great start," said Cloutier. "There's no question that there's a tremendous amount of work to be done."

The comprehensive plan is being reviewed by council in workshop sessions. It must be approved by the end of the year according to state law.

"The actual work of implementing the comprehensive plan will be done by County Council," said Holmes. "The comprehensive plan will be a guide."

Another issue in the campaign has been the provision of county services, specifically police protection.

"I think we need to improve the level and quality of services in the county," said Holmes.

Cloutier is concerned about water issues and transportation needs.

"A transportation planner is a necessity," said Cloutier. "I am a very firm believer in mass transit as a solution."

Holmes is an administrative hearing officer for the Delaware Division of Motor Vehicles. Cloutier is a senior purchasing agent for the DuPont Co.

Editor: Sandinista coverage is biased

by Cathy Thomas

The Reagan Administration has waged a war of disinformation against the Sandinista government, an editor of a Nicaraguan paper said Tuesday in Newark.

"There's been biased coverage and a distorted view of reality in Nicaragua," said Ruth Warner, editor of Barricada International. "A lot of this has been a result of the Reagan Administration's war against Nicaragua."

Warner spoke at the University of Delaware to promote her bi-weekly publication, which is distributed in four languages to 50 countries.

"It's obviously a totally different view of what's happening there (Nicaragua)," said Warner of Barricada. "It's very different from what you get in the mainstream press."

Warner accused the Office for Latin American Public Diplomacy in the U.S. State Department of "spreading information which is misleading about the Nicaraguan government."

"It's basically a psychological operation here in the United States," said Warner. "Unfortunately, it's been using the media in this country (United States) for political ends to create a negative view of the Sandinistas and to rally support for the Reagan Administration policies."

Warner said Reagan policy in Nicaragua has caused great destruction and about 24,000 deaths in the past eight years.

"The distorted view has been that Nicaragua is Communist, it's a Soviet puppet, it's a threat to the United States," said Warner. "That is just simply not true."

Warner said the Reagan Administration feels threatened by the independent position of Nicaragua.

"They have taken a stance of independence in regards to the United States," said Warner. "They're no longer just going to be bossed around by the U.S. government as it has in the past."

Nicaraguans are not a threat to the United States, according to Warner. She said Nicaragua would like positive relations with the United States.

Region must have an ozone strategy

WILMINGTON — It will take a coherent regional strategy to solve health-threatening ozone problems in the lower level of the atmosphere, according to the director of the Delaware Division of Air and Waste Management.

"We have to have the help of neighboring states," said Phillip Retallick. "Latest research shows ozone can travel 100 miles a day."

Ozone problems do not stop at state lines, said Retallick during a regional ozone conference Thursday in Wilmington. Delaware hosted the conference, which was attended by representatives of several surrounding states.

Problems in the lower atmosphere differ from those in the upper atmosphere, where some scientists believe ozone depletion is causing a "greenhouse effect" which is warming the earth.

Problems in the lower atmosphere are caused when volatile organic chemicals, including emissions from automobile exhausts and from fuels, enter the air.

Federal standards stipulate that the lower level ozone should not exceed .12 parts per million. Retallick said the ozone in Delaware exceeded that level several days last summer.

"It was a year when all the factors came into play and caused us to have one of the worst years on record," said Retallick. He blames the hot, humid weather as well as pollution.

"The primary impact it has on people's health is the respiratory system," said Retallick. "Particularly old and young are affected."

Auto emissions are tested in New Castle County to reduce ozone in the lower atmosphere. Retallick said those tests will probably be extended to Kent and Sussex counties as well.

Robert French, Delaware's program administrator for air resources, will chair a regional group to deal with ozone issues.

"We all contribute to the problem so we all have to come up with a solution," said French.

The group will meet later this month to further map out an ozone strategy.

Holmes, Cloutier seek presidency

by Cathy Thomas

The issue of experience has arisen in the race for New Castle County council president, one in which both candidates are seeking their first elective office.

The candidates are Republican Philip D. Cloutier and Democrat Susan Holmes, and Nov. 8 voters will select one or the other to replace Democrat Karen Peterson, who chose not to seek re-election.

Cloutier said the position of council president is essentially one of a coalition-builder who must garner enough votes to pass or reject an issue before council. He believes he is more fit for the job.

"She (Holmes) has essentially been a Democratic party operative, who's managed campaigns," said Cloutier. "The difference between she and I is I've been an active participant. What I've been doing for the last five years is developing coalitions on council on major rezoning issues."

Holmes said she has the experience to be council president. "I feel that I have a very diverse background," she said. "I spent the last six and a half years really preparing to be a county official."

Holmes said she has served on several Democratic campaigns and has been involved in civic issues.

"I think where we really differ is in our styles of approach to the office," said Holmes. She plans to take a direct approach, remaining active with community and civic groups.

"You are the councilperson at-large," said Holmes. "As president of council, you need to remain in touch with the people of the county."

Cloutier said he will be able to work with other members of council. "There's no member of Council with whom I think I can't work with," he said. "I have had a working relationship with council on one issue or another."

Cloutier said he would be able to disagree with other council members on one issue and not hold a grudge later.

"There's a sense of commit-

Susan Holmes

Phil Cloutier

ment that has touched a lot of us that have gotten close to county government," said Cloutier. "They're purely open meetings. Where I feel most comfortable is the environs of open exchange."

Both candidates are concerned about issues related to growth in the county. "The (comprehensive plan), as it stands now, is a great start," said Cloutier. "There's no question that there's a tremendous amount of work to be done."

The comprehensive plan is being reviewed by council in workshop sessions. It must be approved by the end of the year according to state law.

"The actual work of implementing the comprehensive plan will be done by County Council," said Holmes. "The comprehensive plan will be a guide."

Another issue in the campaign has been the provision of county services, specifically police protection.

"I think we need to improve the level and quality of services in the county," said Holmes.

Cloutier is concerned about water issues and transportation needs.

"A transportation planner is a necessity," said Cloutier. "I am a very firm believer in mass transit as a solution."

Holmes is an administrative hearing officer for the Delaware Division of Motor Vehicles. Cloutier is a senior purchasing agent for the DuPont Co.

Editor: Sandinista coverage is biased

by Cathy Thomas

The Reagan Administration has waged a war of disinformation against the Sandinista government, an editor of a Nicaraguan paper said Tuesday in Newark.

"There's been biased coverage and a distorted view of reality in Nicaragua," said Ruth Warner, editor of Barricada International. "A lot of this has been a result of the Reagan Administration's war against Nicaragua."

Warner spoke at the University of Delaware to promote her bi-weekly publication, which is distributed in four languages to 50 countries.

"It's obviously a totally different view of what's happening there (Nicaragua)," said Warner of Barricada. "It's very different from what you get in the mainstream press."

Warner accused the Office for Latin American Public Diplomacy in the U.S. State Department of "spreading information which is misleading about the Nicaraguan government."

"It's basically a psychological operation here in the United States," said Warner. "Unfortunately, it's been using the media in this country (United States) for political ends to create a negative view of the Sandinistas and to rally support for the Reagan Administration policies."

Warner said Reagan policy in Nicaragua has caused great destruction and about 24,000 deaths in the past eight years.

"The distorted view has been that Nicaragua is Communist, it's a Soviet puppet, it's a threat to the United States," said Warner. "That is just simply not true."

Warner said the Reagan Administration feels threatened by the independent position of Nicaragua.

"They have taken a stance of independence in regards to the United States," said Warner. "They're no longer just going to be bossed around by the U.S. government as it has in the past."

Nicaraguans are not a threat to the United States, according to Warner. She said Nicaragua would like positive relations with the United States.

Region must have an ozone strategy

WILMINGTON — It will take a coherent regional strategy to solve health-threatening ozone problems in the lower level of the atmosphere, according to the director of the Delaware Division of Air and Waste Management.

"We have to have the help of neighboring states," said Phillip Retallick. "Latest research shows ozone can travel 100 miles a day."

Ozone problems do not stop at state lines, said Retallick during a regional ozone conference Thursday in Wilmington. Delaware hosted the conference, which was attended by representatives of several surrounding states.

Problems in the lower atmosphere differ from those in the upper atmosphere, where some scientists believe ozone depletion is causing a "greenhouse effect" which is warming the earth.

Problems in the lower atmosphere are caused when volatile organic chemicals, including emissions from automobile exhausts and from fuels, enter the air.

Federal standards stipulate that the lower level ozone should not exceed .12 parts per million. Retallick said the ozone in Delaware exceeded that level several days last summer.

"It was a year when all the factors came into play and caused us to have one of the worst years on record," said Retallick. He blames the hot, humid weather as well as pollution.

"The primary impact it has on people's health is the respiratory system," said Retallick. "Particularly old and young are affected."

Auto emissions are tested in New Castle County to reduce ozone in the lower atmosphere. Retallick said those tests will probably be extended to Kent and Sussex counties as well.

Robert French, Delaware's program administrator for air resources, will chair a regional group to deal with ozone issues.

"We all contribute to the problem so we all have to come up with a solution," said French.

The group will meet later this month to further map out an ozone strategy.

Sen. Martin faces Forshey challenge

by Cathy Thomas

The central issue in the 11th Senatorial District campaign is commitment, according to Republican Linda Forshey.

Forshey, who is challenging incumbent Democrat Roger Martin for the Newark seat, promises that if elected Nov. 8 she will make the position state senator a full-time job.

Forshey said she will quit her job as public relations manager for Delaware Administration for Specialized Transportation (DAST) if elected to office.

"The problems in the area are so severe that I feel we need a full-time senator," said Forshey, a Brookside resident. "I will be a full-time senator."

Martin, a resident of Windy Hills who teaches at Middletown High School, said the job as state senator certainly isn't part-time.

"It's a question of semantics," said Martin. "The phone doesn't stop ringing at 5 o'clock."

Forshey has accused Martin of not attending legislative sessions. "It's time for the 11th Senatorial District to have a senator who is going to be there," said Forshey. "This is a paid, elected official."

Martin disputes Forshey's claim that he has not attended sessions. "In 16 years, I have never missed a day," said Martin. "I was there 96 percent of the time on roll calls."

"I have to make a living," said Martin. "In spite of the fact I have a job, I still manage 96 percent of the roll calls."

Forshey said running for Senate is much like applying for a job. "You have a responsibility to your constituents," she said.

Both candidates have interests in transportation — Forshey as a DAST employee and Martin as chairman of the Senate Highways and Transportation Committee.

Forshey is a proponent of

mass transportation, and Martin is working to reduce the number of highway fatalities.

One way to reduce accidents, he said, is to increase the number of troopers on the highways. "Just the presence of state troopers on the highways cuts down on accidents."

He also sees seat belt legislation coming before the General Assembly again. "I know how the people in our district feel," said Martin. "It's a solid 66 percent yes."

Forshey has been active in

civic groups and feels some of the concerns should be addressed by the legislature.

"This election is very important," said Forshey. "It's going to decide the future of this area."

Forshey said residents are concerned about education, drugs, alcohol and crime.

Martin is also concerned, and said, "They're not Democratic problems. They're not Republican problems. They're state problems we're pledged to resolve by working together."

DENREC cites two companies

Stuart, Hercules pay penalties

A Newark firm is one of two chemical companies found to be in violation of the state air pollution control regulations, according to environmental officials.

The Delaware Department of Natural Resources cited the Stuart Pharmaceuticals Division of ICI Americas, Inc., Newark, and Hercules Incorporated Research Center, Wilmington.

In addition to paying administrative penalties, officials said both companies have agreed to take steps to ensure that their facilities continue in compliance with the regulations.

"It is reassuring to see Delaware industries responding to problems in a positive and proactive manner which will prevent their reoccurrence," said DENREC Secretary John E. Wilson.

ICI has paid an administrative penalty of $10,000 for the installation and operation of a steam boiler at the pharmaceuticals facility without prior written approval of DENREC.

The company also has agreed to submit a plan documenting procedures for reviewing all projects which have emissions of pollutants to the atmosphere to ensure the proper procurement of permits.

Hercules was assessed $33,900 for constructing and operating a reactor-scrubber at the research facility without DENREC approval.

Newark prepares for Halloween Parade

The 41st annual Newark Halloween Parade and costume contest will be held Sunday, Oct. 30.

It is the cornerstone of Halloween activities planned by the Newark Department of Parks and Recreation.

Local clubs, schools, PTAs, fraternities, sororities, churches, businesses, scout groups and high schools are being urged to prepare floats and marching units for the event. There will be prizes for the best units.

The costume judging contest will begin at 1 p.m. at George Read Park. Youths will be judged in various age divisions, with separate prizes for boys and girls.

The parade will begin at 2 p.m., forming at the park and heading west on Main Street.

Other Halloween events sponsored by the department include a Halloween party to be held Friday afternoon, Oct. 28 at Downes Elementary School and a pumpkin decorating contest later that evening in the Newark Shopping Center.

The party will begin at 4 p.m., and will feature games, apple bobbing, refreshments and a parade of costumed youngsters. Fee is 75 cents.

Pumpkin decorating will be held 7-8 p.m. in front of the Newark Department Store for youths in kindergarten through sixth grade. Participants should bring their own pumpkin and may bring decorating materials. Some such materials will be supplied by the department.

For details on any of these events, call the department at 366-7060.

Christina to study religious holidays

by Cathy Thomas

The celebration of religious holidays in the Christina School District is now under review by a special committee.

"We simply have to be careful now because of the wide variation of our community makeup," said Dr. James W. Kent, president of the Christina school board. "Simply because the Christian community may be in the majority, that doesn't decrease our sensitivity."

A committee of parents, teachers and administrators has been formed to develop specific guidelines on celebrating holidays.

"It has to be truly a teaching experience and it can be a cultural experience," said Dr. Jane Barfield, principal of Kirk Middle School. "We have to be careful to not impose a certain religious belief on another."

Barfield said music teachers, in particular, became very alarmed when they learned of the study. She said teachers would be able to plan their holiday programs as normal this year, but they will have to follow guidelines for future programs.

"I don't think anyone is saying we want all of this stopped immediately right now," said Dr. Michael Walls, Christina superintendent. "We're not going to throw a monkey wrench in anyone's plans."

Barfield said school officials are most concerned about "blatantly religious symbolism." A manger and a cross were items that would not be allowed, she said.

"Other school districts around the country have faced this issue long before we have," said Walls. "We're becoming a very diverse school district and that's what we need to be conscious of."

Barfield said officials want to make teachers aware of the issue. "We're going to heighten their awareness in future plans. We're trying to move cautiously because this is a sensitive situation."

School district, secretaries seek settlement

Seniority and wage issues divide Christina School District officials and the Secretaries Association in their first attempt to negotiate a contract.

Christina secretaries formed the union last spring.

"Our role in the educational system touches everyone," said Karen Badosz, a member of the Secretaries Association during a school board meeting Tuesday night at Gauger Middle School. "We would like the district to practice what it preaches and not take away our incentive to advance."

Although details of the contract offer have not been released, Charlotte Skinner, president of the Secretaries Association, said there is "quite a disparity" between what the secretaries want and what the district is offering.

Frank Rischel, Christina's assistant superintendent for personnel, said negotiations have been slow because this is the first contract for the secretaries.

"Initial negotiated agreements normally take a longer time to negotiate because of the need to cover so many issues," said Rischel. "The district is continuing negotiations and hopes a settlement will be reached in the near future."

The secretaries' union is under the Delaware State Education Association. The group is hoping for a three-year contract, retroactive to July 1988.

'88 VOTE

• The candidates for New Castle county executive and U.S. Congress will participate in debates airing on WHYY-TV, Channel 12.

Rita Justice, the incumbent Republican county executive, will meet Democratic challenger Dennis E. Greenhouse in a live debate on Wednesday, Oct. 19.

Justice is vying for her second term as county executive. Greenhouse is currently state auditor.

A live debate between the candidates for Delaware's only seat in the U.S. House of Representatives will be held Thursday, Oct. 20. Incumbent Democratic Congressman Thomas R. Carper will meet Republican candidate James P. Krapf.

Both debates will be broadcast live, statewide at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 12. WHYY President Frederick Breitenfeld Jr. will moderate the debates from the station's Wilmington studio at 5th and Scott streets.

A panel of local media professionals will question the candidates.

• U.S. Senator Bill Bradley of New Jersey will visit Delaware this month to campaign on behalf of S.B. Woo, Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate here.

Bradley, frequently mentioned as a likely presidential candidate in the future, will be the guest speaker at a fund raiser for Woo at 8 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 20 in the Wilmington Radisson Hotel. The public is invited to the $35-per-person fund raiser.

A 10-year-veteran of the Senate, Bradley is a member of the Senate Finance Committee, the Select Committee on Intelligence, the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources and the Special Committee on Aging.

Woo is campaigning against Republican incumbent William V. Roth.

• Campaign workers will be trained to speak for their candidates next week during a meeting of the Greater Newark Republican Women's Club. The training meeting will be held at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 20 at Klondike Kates in Newark.

The guest speaker will be State Treasurer Janet Rzewnicki.

• State Rep. Steve Amick, R-Newark, was presented the American Association of Retired Persons' (AARP) Appreciation Award last week for his efforts in developing and sponsoring personal exemption legislation, which was signed into law this year.

The legislation, which will go into effect tax year 1989, will allow Delawareans aged 60 and over to take an additional personal exemption of $1,250. A married couple would be allowed an exemption of $2,500.

The increased exemption for older residents is in addition to the current $1,250 personal exemption available to all taxpayers.

Amick said the legislation was one of his top priorities.

"Legislation of this type is especially important when we consider the financial challenges faced by those living on a fixed income," said Amick. "It took a couple of tries to pass it, but this legislation enjoys wide popularity around the state."

• Delaware students will be polling voters this month in a joint project of the Delaware Chapter of the American Statistical Association and the school in Delaware.

The polling project is designed to help students develop skills in conducting a social survey and in interpreting and communicating survey information.

The pre-election poll will be conducted by telephone beginning Oct. 20 and ending Oct. 24.

Some 5,000 randomly selected voters in the state will be contacted for interviews in hopes of getting at least 2,000 complete responses.

The students will identify themselves when calling.

"We hope that the voters will cooperate with the students who have volunteered to participate in this project," said John Schuenemeyer with the department of math sciences at the University of Delaware.

Construction work continues at the new site of Price Acura, on Marrows Road across from College Square Shopping Center.

City crews to begin collecting leaves

Autumn leaf collection in the City of Newark will begin Monday, according to the Department of Public Works.

City crews will pick up leaves on a rotating schedule over a two-month period. They will make collections as follows:

• Monday — Oaklands, Nottingham Manor, College Park, Westfield.

• Tuesday — Southern Newark, including Devon, Binns, Arbour Park, Silverbrook and Yorkshire.

• Wednesday — Center city from Elkton Road to Marrows Road, and from Main Street to the northern boundary of Thursday's route.

• Thursday — Northern Newark, north of Main Street and east of West Main Street, including Fairfield, Fairfield Crest, Cleveland Avenue and Lumbrook.

• Friday — Area west of Bent

Lane and Radcliffe Drive, including Nottingham Green, Tiber Creek, Woodmere, Pheasant Run, Cherry Hill and Elan.

Leaves should be raked and piled in the grassy strip near the curb for collection. They should not be raked into the road because the clog catch basins.

While there has been discussion of renovating the current police facility, it appears now that council is leaning toward the construction of a new building.

"Renovation can be costly and renovation would, more than likely, not correct all the problems of the current facility," Hogan said.

Once a consultant is hired, Hogan said the study will likely take two to three months to complete.

SCHOOLS

Christiana High School drum major's hat rests near field marker as the Vikings prepare for their annual marching band festival to be held at 1 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 15 in the football stadium.

'Say No' poster contest

A "Just Say No" to drugs billboard design contest has been announced by Rita Justice, New Castle County executive.

All county students, grades 7-12, are eligible to enter.

"Illegal drugs are a threat to our entire community and we must use every means to combat this menace," said Justice. "It is important that our children know their friends are opposed to using illegal drugs."

Billboard designs should be submitted on 8½ by 11-inch paper, and may include both pictures and slogans encouraging young people to steer clear of drugs.

Entries should be sent to the New Castle County Crime Prevention Unit, 3601 N. duPont Highway, New Castle, DE 19720. Deadline is Friday, Oct. 21.

The winning design will be displayed on billboards county-wide, and the winner will receive a $100 U.S. Savings Bond.

"Peer pressure is often used to draw children into the use of drugs," Justice said. "Through this competition, I hope our children will see the number of their friends who are against drugs. This will give our students a chance to turn peer pressure against drug users and dealers who are threatening the very fiber of our society."

SCHOOL CALENDAR

• Archmere Academy of Claymont will celebrate "The Patio Years" during a special evening of music and art at 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 14. "The Patio Years" refers to the era when the grounds on which the school is located housed the Archmere Patio, the former estate of financier John J. Raskob which opened in 1918. The estate was purchased by the Norbertine Fathers in 1932 for use as a school. Today, Archmere Academy is a co-educational Catholic college preparatory school with an enrollment of 435. A major event of the evening will be a recital by Mary Ellen Hostetter, a well-known Delaware Valley soprano and former teacher at the Academy. The celebration is free and open to the public. For details, call 798-6632.

• Christiana High School Marching Band will host a band competition at 1 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 15 in the football stadium. Participating will be the Christiana, Newark, Mount Pleasant, Salesianum, Middletown, Aberdeen, Parkside and Penns Grove high school marching bands.

• Drew Pyle Elementary School will host a visit by "Dracula" at 11 a.m. and noon Monday, Oct. 17. This caped crusader is mild-mannered, and will speak to the children about the importance of basic traffic safety precautions during Halloween trick or treating. The visit is sponsored by the Keystone Automobile Club's Delaware Division.

• Etta J. Wilson Elementary School PTA will host a special WIZARDS program for parents and their children at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 20. WIZARDS is an acronym for Wild, Imaginative, Zany And Really Delightful Stuff. Persons who attend will have a chance to develop thinking, creativity and problem solving skills as they move through a series of learning stations. Fee is $2, and reservations are required.

• A run to benefit First State School will be held at 9 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 22 at Wilmington's Bellevue Park Corporate Center. First State School is housed in Christiana Hospital, and is for adolescents who are chronically ill. There will be a five-mile run and a three-mile walk. Entry is $7 before Oct. 18, and $9 the day of the event. Forms are available at Marathon Sports, Wilmington.

• New Castle County Field Band Festival will be held at 7 p.m. at Newark High School's Hoffman Stadium. Featured will be the University of Delaware and University of Massachusetts marching bands and 10 local high school bands, including those from Newark, Glasgow and Christiana. Admission is $3, and tickets will be available from band members or at the gate. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

• St. Elizabeth High School, Cedar and Rodney streets, Wilmington, will hold an open house noon to 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 23 for prospective students and their parents. Visitors will have an opportunity to tour the campus and meet teachers and administrators. For details, call Kevin Scott at 655-5448.

• Centreville School will host a workshop entitled "When Your Child is Difficult" on Friday, Oct. 28. Dr. Mel Silberman, a noted family therapist and professor at Temple University, will be the guest speaker. He will present a useful four-step plan for dealing with child-raising problems as outlined in his book, "Confident Parenting." For details, contact the school at 571-0230.

• St. Edmond's Academy, 2120 Veale Rd., Wilmington, will hold open house for prospective students 2-4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 13.

• Christiana High School Class of 1989 is planning its 20-year reunion for June 1989. Persons planning to attend should contact one of the following class members before Nov. 15: Dolly Reed, 368-3246; Joy Fischer, 322-7163; Cindy Coleman, 453-8012; or Lilly West, 738-4756.

Texaco sponsors academic contest

Texaco Star Academic Challenge, a weekly television program featuring academic teams from 32 Delaware high schools, is being broadcast at 7:30 p.m. Mondays by WNS-TV cable channel 2.

The fast-paced quiz format tests students' knowledge and mental reflexes, with questions covering a broad range of academic subjects.

WNS is broadcasting both preliminary and championship round matches.

Among local schools, Christiana will meet Broadmeadow School Oct. 31; Newark will take on Dickinson Nov. 14; Glasgow and St. Mark's will square off Nov. 28; and Caravel will clash with Tatnall Dec. 26.

The four-student teams are competing for scholarships offered by all seven institutions of higher learning in the state.

In addition, Texaco Philanthropic Foundation is offering scholarships of $1,000 each to members of the championship team and of $500 each to members of the second place team.

The state championship team will be entered in the national championship, to be held in New Orleans, La.

"We believe it is important to provide a forum for these students to demonstrate their commitment to academic and personal excellence," said Richard G. Soehle, manager of Texaco's Delaware City plant, on the corporation's involvement in the event.

Academic Challenge is co-sponsored by the Delaware Department of Public Instruction, Wesley College and WNS.

MAKING OUR ROADS SAFER

This year we Americans will kill more than 50,000 of our fellow citizens on our roads and injure hundreds of thousands more. That's as many as were lost in the entire Vietnam War. We did it last year and we did it the year before that. Unless something quite drastic changes we'll do it again next year. The amount of physical pain and suffering we inflict upon ourselves is incalculable yet it pales in comparison with the spiritual pain and suffering of wives and husbands, friends and neighbors, parents and children of those killed or maimed in traffic accidents.

If we lost 50,000 lives a year to industrial accidents would we stand for it? If 50,000 each year were killed by nuclear accident would that be acceptable? I think not. It's time to get serious about traffic deaths. No compassionate and civilized people can see 50,000 traffic deaths each year and ignore it as a cost of progress.

We must get serious about speeding. The fine for speeding in Delaware has not been raised in many years. Speeders risk the lives of your neighbors, your parents, your children and that is not a $25.00 offense.

We must get serious about new technology to make our automobiles and roads safer. A number of breakthroughs seem to be on the horizon and government at all levels should do all it can to speed the day when these breakthroughs work effectively.

We must get serious about drunk drivers. A slap on the wrist and "he's just being a good old boy" attitude just won't do the job. We can't allow "loopholes" and political cronyism to get in the way. Drunken drivers should be prosecuted and taken off our highways no matter who they are. The loss of a driver's license is a hardship but that hardship doesn't weigh much in the balance with the hardship experienced by the innocent victim of a drunk driver.

We must get serious about teaching our kids about drinking and driving. We've had several well publicized cases recently in which kids, good kids from good homes with all the opportunities of youth, have been killed or very seriously injured all because we as a community had not taught them the lesson about drinking and driving the easy way and they had to learn it in an infinitely harder way.

I think we can do better. I think we must do better.

Martina Arroyo is distinguished visiting artist at the University.

Arroyo is visiting artist

Distinguished singer to offer free master class Saturday

Soprano Martina Arroyo has been named distinguished visiting artist for the 1988-89 academic year by the University of Delaware Department of Music.

Arroyo, who has performed in the world's greatest opera houses, will visit the Newark campus throughout the year to provide a variety of special learning opportunities for University students and area vocalists.

Her first program will be a public master class, to be held Saturday, Oct. 15 in the University's Loudis Recital Hall, Amstel Avenue and Orchard Road. It will begin at 10 a.m. and continue to 2:30 p.m.

The public is invited to observe the master class. Following the class, there will be a reception during which audience members can meet the artist.

The program is free for both participants and audience.

Arroyo's long and distinguished career has included performances at the Paris Opera, London's Vovent Garden, Teatro alla Scala and New York's Metropolitan Opera.

A frequent guest soloist with major symphony orchestras, she has achieved particular renown in meeting the difficult demands of contemporary musics, singing works by Varese and Dallapiccola under the direction of Leonard Bernstein.

For the past three years, Arroyo has been adjunct professor of music at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge. She has served on the board of the National Endowment for the Arts and is currently a trustee of Carnegie Hall.

For details on the master class, call 451-8245.

UNIVERSITY CALENDAR

• A lecture by Giulio Ongaro, specialist in Renaissance music, will be presented at 2:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 14 in Room 207, Amy duPont Music Building. Ongaro will discuss "Music for the Serenissima: The Repertory of St. Mark's in the 16th Century." Ongaro, a native of Venice, Italy, is assistant professor of music at the University of Delaware. The lecture will focus primarily on the music of Willert.

• Renowned soprano Martina Arroyo will present an open master class 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 15 in Loudis Recital Hall. Admission is free for both participants and observers. Arroyo is the music department's distinguished visiting artist for the 1988-89 academic year. For details, call 451-8245.

• University in Concert: Newark Series, a new faculty recital program, will open at 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 16 in Loudis Recital Hall. Performing will be Peter Hill on clarinet, Francis Orval on horn, Jesse Read on bassoon, soprano Rebecca Taylor and the Taggart-Grycky flute and guitar duo. The recital is free and open to the public.

• The interaction of music and fine art will be addressed during a special program at 8 p.m.

Monday, Oct. 17 in Loudis Recital Hall. Eileen Grycky and Christian Taggart will perform and discuss works for flute and guitar which were inspired by painting and sculpture. The program is free and open to the public.

• "The Fugitive Kind" will be screened at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 18 in 140 Smith Hall as part of the University Library series "Tennessee Williams on Film." There will be introductory remarks by George Miller of the English department.

• "Tennessee Williams on Stage and Screen" will be the subject of a lecture by theater and film critic John Simon at 4 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 26 in 140 Smith Hall. The lecture is part of the University Library series "Tennessee Williams on Film." There will be introductory remarks by Sanford Robbins, chairman of the Theater Department.

• Photographs by Jeffrey Blake are being shown through Oct. 25 in the University's Janvier Gallery, 56 W. Delaware Ave. The works are large color prints of American scenes. The gallery is open 1-4 p.m. Wednesdays, and by appointment. Call 451-1196.

• "Evolving Texts — The Writing of Tennessee Williams" is on view through Nov. 15 in the Special Collections Exhibition Gallery of Morris Library. A free exhibition catalog is available.

• University of Delaware Women's Club will hold its annual handcraft exhibit and sale in Perkins Student Center Gallery Nov. 30 and Dec. 1-2, and applications for exhibitors are now available. Items must be hand-made but need not be holiday-oriented. Exhibitors will be expected to work for two hours during the sale, and to contribute 20 percent of their profits to the UDWC Scholarship Fund. Entry deadline is Nov. 14. • Claire McCabe has been named communications specialist for news in the University of Delaware Office of Agricultural Sciences Communications.

McCabe will be responsible for production of the weekly news packet sent to mass media outlets in the region. In addition, she will supervise production and writing of the College of Agriculture's annual report.

Most recently, McCabe was co-editor of UpDate, a University newspaper produced by the Office of Information Services. She is returning to the agricultural communications office where she formerly served as publications specialist and as a news writer.

• Goldey Beacom College will host its fourth annual colloquium on how to help students underprepared for college Monday, Oct. 24.

Roxine MacDonald, conference chairman, said the purpose is to discuss comprehensive college-wide programs to help under- and unprepared students succeed in college.

Two dozen speakers and panelists representing college and universities in Delaware, Pennsylvania and Maryland will address such topics as computer assistance, testing, peer tutoring, English as a second language, grammar, mathematics and learning disabilities.

"The steady growth in attendance at this annual colloquium is evidence that it meets a real need," said William R. Baldt, Goldey Beacom president.

Fee is $40. For details or to register, call 998-8814.

• An Office of International Development has been established at Goldey Beacom College to serve the state's growing international business community.

Jyo Patel has been named office director, and will be responsible for developing the college's international student population and international programming, directing international affairs and enhancing international travel programs.

Jesse Read, bassoonist, will perform during University faculty recital Sunday.

New UD recital series announced

First concert set Sunday afternoon

The University of Delaware has announced a new series of recitals featuring music department faculty members, the University in Concert: Newark Series.

Each recital in the series will present several faculty artists or ensembles in a varied program of vocal and instrumental music.

The first will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 16 in The University's Loudis Recital Hall, Amstel Avenue and Orchard Road.

It will feature Peter Hill on clarinet, Francis Orval on horn, Jesse Read on bassoon, soprano Rebecca Taylor and the Taggart-Grycky flute and guitar duo. The soloists will be accompanied by Julie Nishimura.

The program includes

"Sonata for Horn and Piano" by Paul Hindemith and "Sonata in F Major" for bassoon and piano by William Hurlstone. Astor Piazzolla's "Historie Du Tango" for flute and guitar will receive its premiere performance.

All recitals in the series, which is free and open to the public, have been scheduled Sunday afternoons.

"We are very interested in building the audiences of the future," said David Herman, music department chairman. "By providing free afternoon programs we hope to encourage families to introduce their children to the enjoyment of fine music. We hope also to make concert-going more convenient for senior citizens."

Driving on Newark area highways is a difficult task. Roads are often under construction and during rush hour they become, as one legislator put it, "veritable parking lots."

Kirkwood Highway gets so crowded that rubber-neckers no longer get excited when ambulances charge eastbound in the westbound lanes in hopes of finding room to operate en route to Christiana Hospital.

But even when the roads are fully repaired and traffic is light, motoring here can be a dicey proposition.

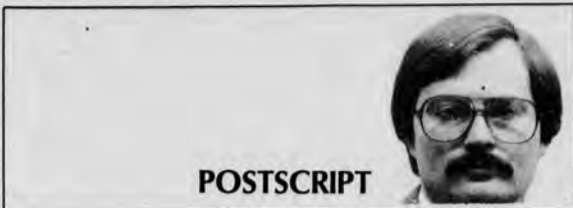

Much of the problem lies with local motoring habits, which most people agree are bad.

A native of Oregon was astounded by the array of risky maneuvers, particularly the one in which you brake for a yellow light and the guy behind you speeds up, passes on the right, and guns it through a light which has been red for 15 seconds or more.

Call it the Delaware Schuss. It's not taught in driver's education programs, but everyone here picks it up soon after getting their license.

The biggest problem, as sports reporter David Woolman sees it, is lack of consistency. At one given moment on most any local highway, you can find people driving at anywhere from 25 to 75 miles per hour.

by Neil Thomas

Trying to steer clear of trouble, you must do the Delaware Slalom, shifting lanes often and with great dramatic flair. And remember, in the perfect weave, turn signals are considered gauche.

Besides the schuss and slalom, other popular road sports in Delaware include Jolt the Jogger and Scare the Cyclist.

In either contest, the object is to give the athletic-minded person a severe shock by either:

- Creeping up behind them quietly then laying on the horn. (Slamming on the brakes and screeching to a halt will have the same effect.)

- Slowing down and tossing a beer can. (Strangely, it is rare when a jogger gets zonked by a soda can.)

- Drifting onto the shoulder of the road to see how close you can come without actually hitting them. Grazing, perhaps, but not hitting.

Often, drivers will tally points based on the level of shock administered.

Another road game is the Speed Bump Drag, popular in residential neighborhoods, in which you gingerly rock over one bump then floor it until you reach the next.

For news reporter Cathy Thomas, road direction is the major problem. Coming from Tulsa, Okla., which is neatly laid out in an easy-to-understand grid, she has had trouble finding her way around on local roads, most of which she believes have their origins in ancient Indian paths.

AROUND TOWN

- No ho ho. It's still more than two months until Christmas, but already the holiday season has grinded its way before Newark City Council.

During Monday night's Council meeting, a local resident asked the board for $3,500 to fund a Main Street visit by Santa Claus.

The request was not looked upon favorably by Deputy Mayor Louise Brothers, who said, "We can have Christmas without Santa Claus."

Surprised, Councilman Alan Smith told Brothers she was being a "Scrooge."

"Yeah, well I'm thinking of the taxpayers," Brothers replied.

Invoking the spirit of Christmas yet to come, Councilman Olan Thomas smoothed things over by promising that Council would "look at the issue."

POSTBOX

UD president must be fair

To the Editor:

Recent allegations concerning hiring practices at the University of Delaware lead one to believe that University President Russel Jones is discriminatory against all, not just the black people. Mr. Jones decided to fill several upper-level management positions without any regards to the equal employment opportunity provision of the University by bringing in people that he knew and worked with. It is a sort of "nepotism."

By doing so, he has discriminated against other competent white males, females, blacks and other minorities. If every new manager or executive in higher positions decides to bring his own buddies, people whom he knew in his previous job or his social clubs and cocktail parties, to surround himself, then there is no hope for the rest of us who want to reach these higher positions by hard work.

Mr. Jones should be reminded that he is not presiding over a family-owned business. He is presiding over a public institution which is supported with our tax money. He cannot do as he wishes. He must follow the University guidelines on equal employment opportunity and affirmative action.

What really disturbs me is his logic on citing statistics to support his position on minority enrollment at the University. He stated "statistics compiled this fall show minority enrollment has increased from 541 black undergraduates last year to 547 this year." Wow! A phenomenal increase of six students, or one percent in one year. Who is he kidding?

Mr. Jones must be pressed by the state legislators and the University community to stop unfair hiring practices and to come up with a specific plan to improve the status of minorities at the University.

Loans available to homeowners in Newark

Low-income homeowners in Newark have been able to make necessary repairs to their properties through the city's home improvement loan program.

The loan program is a major part of the city's just-completed housing assistance plan for the next three years.

The program offers low-interest, no-interest or deferred interest loans to property owners fitting income-eligibility requirements. Funded by Community Development Block Grant money, an average of seven homeowners a year are assisted by the program.

Maureen Roser, city assistant planner, oversees the program. She said only a few Newark property owners can take advantage of the program.

"There are not a whole lot of Newark residents that fit the eligibility requirements," said Roser. "It's a fairly small percentage of Newark residents (that qualify)."

Roser said a homeowner's income must not exceed certain limits in order to borrow money. The aim of the program is to assist homeowners who cannot afford the financing costs of a traditional loan.

There also aren't many homes that need necessary repairs, according to Roser.

"Sixty percent of the homes in Newark were built since 1960," said Roser. "A lot of them are in pretty good shape to start with."

An average loan is about $7,500, Roser said. The maximum a homeowner can borrow is $10,000.

Depending on the income of the homeowner, repayment will be made over a period of up to 20 years or when the house is sold.

"What we try to do is set up loan payments that are reasonable," said Roser. "The money that is paid back goes right back into the program."

The loans are secured with liens against the property.

Cosmetic repairs are not allowed under the program. Many of the loans pay for roofing, window replacement, plumbing, heating repairs, insulation and siding.

"The program can really help out some people who have older homes," said Roser. "Whatever is done in the program is going to increase the value of the house."

Reese, Garbacz lead Christiana past Newark

by David Woolman

It's been over two years since Ray and Zee Hameli helped resurrect the Christiana High School field hockey team from its dormant state, and they are just now beginning to reap the benefits.

The Vikings can now compete with many of the Blue Hen Conference Flight A schools, and recorded their second win of the season by beating Newark 2-0 Wednesday.

"We have a lot of good people back, and the kids are working a lot harder," said Ray Hameli. "Considering that four years ago we had no program, the kids have come a long way."

"They've gone to camps, and that has helped. Plus, their attitudes and their parents' attitudes have changed tremendously."

"We certainly see a lot of improvement. It's come to a point that we can hang in there with everybody. It's just a matter of time and experience."

On the other side of the scorer's table, Newark is having a much more difficult time. Winless in six tries, the Yellow-jackets, who were experienced but not deep from the start, have been beset by injuries to key players.

"We're having a hard time with injuries," said coach Jane Smith. "We're trying to get ourselves in sync, and we're not there yet. I have a freshman in there, first time playing varsity. I have a center halfback that's in there for the second or third time."

"Suzanne Sysko was our biggest loss. Without her, we're really hurting. There's been a lot of disappointment."

The Vikings controlled the game early, and scored 10 minutes in, Karen Reese putting it in from five yards, unassisted. Newark managed to control the ball to a degree in the second part of the half, but could not put the ball in. Christiana had a prime opportunity late in the half, as Amy Garbacz centered a ball in front of the goal, but no one was there to knock it in.

Minutes later, Garbacz put in a rebound of a shot by Reese on a play which began on a penalty corner to give the Vikings their two goals.

Though both teams had opportunities, neither put a goal in during the second half.

Christiana did prove superior in developing its plays and chances. "We practiced over the summer, and we talked a lot about playing as a team, and not as single players," said Garbacz.

"One of the things we emphasize is teamwork," said Hameli. "All the kids have played together for three years, and everybody is coming together. We have very good team spirit. We have nine freshmen out this year, the first

Whew! Hens top Tribe

Last-minute heroics secure 38-35 homecoming victory

by David Woolman

The University of Delaware had blown an early 21-point lead to William and Mary but late in the fourth quarter quarterback Dave Sierer completed two passes to tight end John Yergey, the last for a touchdown, to give the Blue Hens a three-point lead. Happy and satisfied, the fans began to leave Delaware Stadium, and that was the final margin of victory.

Well, yes and no. In the remaining three minutes and 31 seconds, both teams would have the ball two more times, both teams would drive more than 50 yards for touchdowns on their final possessions, both teams would benefit from heroic play from their star wide receivers as well as their quarterbacks.

And Delaware would win by three, 38-35, and the fans that remained in the stadium would leave happy and satisfied.

"We noticed that we were almost two thousand short of selling out," joked Delaware head coach Tubby Raymond, "and they asked for a better show so that the next time we play at home, there'll be more people here."

The show was as good as they get, Raymond saying that "the end of it has to rank as one of the most unbelievable games."

"That was the most exciting thing I've ever been through," said Hen fullback Tim Healy, who ran for a career high 143 yards. "I knew it was going to happen. Like Tubby told us to say, 'It was in the bag.'"

Delaware scored on its first two possessions, the first time on a 78-yard run by Healy, the fourth longest rushing touchdown in Delaware history. The run gave him 1,000 career yards as a Hen, and made helped him be the first Delaware rusher to gain more than 100 yards in a game in over two years.

"I had a feeling one was going to come," said Healy. "That's something you really need. That's why we really weren't getting 100-yard games — nobody was breaking a long one."

The second touchdown was on a 16-yard pass to tight end John Yergey, and the third, scored early in the second half, was keyed by a 42-yard pass to Yergey. William and Mary scored two possessions later to cut the Hen lead to 21-7 at the half.

The Tribe bounced back in the third quarter, scoring on its first two possessions to tie the game.

Delaware regained the lead on the first play of the fourth quarter on a 34-yard field goal by Don O'Brien, and lost it back when William and Mary drove 78 yards on its next possession for a touchdown and a 28-24 lead.

Delaware drove 63 yards, all but four on pass plays, the last a two-yarder to Healy, to score with 3:31 left. The Hens stopped William and Mary on four plays, and the game looked to be over.

Delaware ranked in top five

by David Woolman

That this year's University of Delaware field hockey team has been ranked in the top five in the NCAA Division I coaches poll does not distinguish it from teams of the past. The Blue Hens were ranked as high at times last year, have won the East Coast Conference regular season title three years in a row, and have won the ECC tournament once during that stretch.

Yet there is the feeling that this particular squad can bring the program back to its high water mark, 1982's third place finish in the NCAA tournament, or at least secure a bid to the tournament, something which has eluded the Hens since.

"We've been building a lot on past successes the past two or three years," says Mary Ann Hitchens, head coach of the team for 15 years. "We have a team that has significant experience."

Christiana's Larry Grine works ball toward the Tatnall net.

Wellborn goal lifts Christiana past stubborn Tatnall, 1-0

by David Woolman

The challenges continue for the Christiana High School soccer team. Much is expected from the Vikings this year and the measure of their quality is, and will be, how they react to these challenges.

Despite the burden of expectations, night games, a small slump and a formation change, Christiana remains undefeated (6-0-2 overall, 3-0-2 in Blue Hen Conference Flight A) through the first half of the season.

Their most recent test came in the form of Tatnall, which tied highly touted Tower Hill by collapsing its defense to an almost ludicrous degree. Tuesday afternoon was a situation that would test the Viking's passing skill and patience. They passed, winning 1-0.

As expected, the ball stayed in the Tatnall half, if not the Tatnall 16 yard box, most of the time in the first half. Christiana displayed some fine short passing but the Tatnall defense was just too tight.

On the other hand, due to its defensive strategy, Tatnall could never really develop an offensive opportunity and Christiana outshot them 12-0 in the first half.

At 13:51 in the second half, Christiana wing Pat Ward headed down a centering pass off a short fast break right to striker Dave Wellborn, who put the shot into the right corner for the game's lone goal.

Tatnall was forced to open up for the rest of the game but could get little done. Mark Puican made two saves and had help from fullback Aaron Winchell and sweeper Bryan Duzan to record his sixth shutout.

Practice sessions begin in the first week of November, with league play from January to March. Teams practice or play twice a week. Fee is $24 for residents and $27 for non-residents, which includes team t-shirt. Call 366-7060 for more information.

Volunteer coaches are also needed for the program. Organizational meetings will be held in the Newark Municipal Building at 5:45 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 18 for the elementary league, at 5:45 Wednesday, Oct. 19 for the junior league and at 5:45 Thursday, Oct. 20 for the senior league.

Dover stuns St. Mark's 28-6 as Donovan scores lone TD

FOOTBALL

The St. Mark's High School football team took a week off and a step back, losing to Dover 28-6 Saturday evening at Baynard Stadium.

The Senators came north and ran all over St. Mark's, who did not play last week. This time there were no second half heroics to save the day for the Spartans, who are now 2-2.

"It shouldn't have hurt us, but it did," said coach Jack Smiley of his team's layoff. "We should be better at this point. This certainly was a step back for us."

Smiley said the game was the worst for his defense, which gave up big plays and seemed "scattered at times, which is atypical of this team. Mentally, I think we weren't here tonight. We made so many mistakes."

Dover took the lead on the second play of the game when tailback Erick Hamilton took a handoff through the middle and ended up 72 yards away in the end zone. Just 36 seconds into the game, the Spartans were behind 7-0.

The second time it had the ball, St. Mark's drove 53 yards for its only score of the game. The drive was fueled by the running of Mike Donovan, who took the ball in from the two yard line to score. The two point conversion attempt was no good.

Dover scored on its next possession, with Joe Harris running 42 yards for the touchdown. They scored again in the second quarter when Tom Pruitt intercepted a pass and ran it back 40 yards for the touchdown. The • Caravel (4-0) remained unbeaten, topping Oxford, Pa. 35-12. Derek Shaw ran for 212 yards in 22 carries and score two touchdowns. Quarterback Macadoo Harrison-Dixon rushed for 53 yards and threw for 62. He scored once and tossed two touchdown passes.

• Newark (3-1, 2-0 in Blue Hen Conference Flight A) topped stubborn Delcastle 9-0 Saturday. The only touchdown in the defensive struggle was scored by Yellowjacket halfback Steve Thompson, who carried the ball for 52 yards. Sophomore quarterback Chuck Bedford threw for one completion in four attempts.

• St. Mark's (2-2) fell 28-6 to

Dover. The Spartans' Mike Donovan rushed for 77 yards and the lone touchdown, and sophomore quarterback Sean Mahoney completed 13 of 27 passes with two interceptions.

• Christiana (0-4-1, 0-1-1 BHC Flight A) tied Brandywine 3-3 as Chuck Poplos hit a 49-yard field goal with just over one minute to play. Christiana quarterback Adam Weber completed seven of 17 passes for 152 yards. Eric Kalbfleisch rushed for 79 yards and Karl Hairston for 60.

• Glasgow (0-4, 0-1 BHC Flight A) fell 35-13 to powerful William Penn.

• Hodgson (2-3, 1-1 BHC Flight B) was shut out by Claymont 36-0.

Senators had a 21-6 lead at the half.

St. Mark's opened the third quarter by driving 71 yards to the Dover four yard line, but lost the ball on downs. They would drive the ball into Senator territory three more times in the game, losing the ball once on an interception and two more times on downs.

"We moved the ball and then we turned the ball over or we didn't get in," said Smiley, whose offense was good for 267 yards in the game. "We're progressing offensively."

"I ran as hard as I could and I tried my best," said Donovan, who ran for his 79 yards in a very impressive, physical manner. "We kept our heads up. We still tried hard."

Though Dover only had 221 yards offensively, they took advantage of St. Mark's mistakes and came up with big plays as a result.

"When you hit people and you don't wrap up and you're scattered the way we were scattered, those things are going to happen," said Smiley. "Wrong sets, wrong coverages, wrong stunts, arm tackling—that's the type of thing we haven't been doing, and that's the type of thing we did tonight."

"I'm sure our kids will come back. They're that type of kids. They won't quit on anything."

St. Mark's plays at William Penn at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Spartans win, seek turnaround

by David Woolman

What looked good for the St. Mark's High School field hockey team went bad rather quickly in the early part of the season, and the defending Catholic Conference champs found themselves at 2-6, 0-1 in the conference, going into Thursday's home game against Ursuline.

There, they broke a five game losing streak, and may have turned the season around.

The Spartans moved the ball well and controlled the game from start to finish to win the game 2-0 while looking more like St. Mark's teams of the past.

"From the Tower Hill game on we had a lot of injury and sickness, which contributed a little," said coach Bill Eichenger. "We weren't 100 percent. We went through a part of the season when we were playing poorly and losing. Then the last couple of games we played better and still lost."

The Spartans were able put pressure on opposing teams but just couldn't get the ball in the net, Eichenger said. That changed Thursday.

The Spartans kept the ball in Ursuline's half of the field from the start, and forward Krista Giuliani scored five minutes into the game, unassisted. Forward Pam Leffler scored from five feet out off a cross from Jen Ross later in the half.

Link Heather Simondinger made the defensive play of the game late in the first half by clearing the ball out of the goal mouth after it had gotten past goalie Colleen Geisen. Geisen had six saves for her second shutout.

Eichenger lauded the defensive play of sweeper Catherine Hicks over the past few games, and called link Tina Faulkner's game the most outstanding performance she has had this year.

As a whole, St. Mark's moved the ball into the circle with much greater consistency than they did early in the season as a result of some position changes.

"We needed our links to be more offense-minded, so I moved some of the links to the offensive line, which forces them to be offensive," said Eichenger. "The new links were forward line players, so they automatically had the offensive instincts. It seems to be working out."

Credit also goes to Giuliani, who pushed the ball up field to great effect. "I try really hard to move it up the field," said Giuliani. "In past games, I haven't been controlling the ball. I concentrated a lot more when I had the ball this game."

The team also seems to be benefitting from the experience of the first half of the season. Only one starter returned from last year, leaving this an essentially new team.

"As optimistic as I was early in the season, I overlooked the fact that these girls really hadn't played together," said Eichenger. "They were pretty good individually and I just expected us to automatically gel as a team. It took us longer than I thought."

"I think we definitely have the talent," said Giuliani. "If we work together, we're a good team."

The Spartans play improved Padua Tuesday and travel to Archmere Thursday for a game that may determine who becomes the 1988 Catholic Conference champion.

Backing into the end zone, Delaware tight end John Yergey reaches up to snare touchdown pass from quarterback David Sierer.

HENS

Delaware had 2:34 to kill for the win but could not drive and had to punt the ball with 1:53 remaining. William and Mary quarterback Craig Argo worked the two minute drill perfectly and completed two third down passes to keep a drive going deep into Delaware territory.

On fourth and 10 from the 12, he connected with his leading receiver, Harry Mehre, in a crowded end zone to give his team a four-point lead with just 32 seconds left.

"It's the kind of situation where, being a senior, they're going to be looking for you," said Mehre, who caught seven passes for 93 yards. "I had a few mistakes in the first half, some dropped balls, so I was hoping I could make up for it."

On the ensuing kickoff, Delaware's Admiral Sydnor caught the ball at his eight yard line and bounced out to the 42 before being pushed out of bounds.

Quarterback Sierer then threw a 42-yard pass to Anderson over the middle, and Delaware had the ball on the Tribe's 16 yard line. Sierer overthrew Anderson once in the end zone and then, with 11 seconds remaining, found him again for the touchdown. O'Brien kicked his fifth extra point of the game to give the Hens the 38-35 victory.

"I knew if David got it to me in the right place, I could catch it," said Anderson of the first reception. "I saw it, I had a chance for it, and I said 'I'm not dropping this one.'"

"The second one, I don't know what happened. I couldn't even tell you," said Anderson, who did reveal that William and Mary apparently double-covered Yergey, leaving him in a man-to-man situation on the last play.

"Anderson, the guy is magic," said Raymond. "How he got in that place I'll never know. A guy's got to be insane to let that guy behind you."

"You've always got a chance with Jimmy," said Sierer.

"The story of the day is that we had a great deal of leadership and lots of big plays," said Raymond. "This is the kind of thing that tends to develop a football team."

HOCKEY

time we've ever had that many out. We're building on that."

"We expect a lot more," said Reese. "There are more seniors on this team than ever. There's been an overall improvement."

Said Newark coach Smith, "We failed to take advantage of the opportunities, and make opportunities."

"We've had to switch some positions around and that gets people kind of confused," said Yellowjacket halfback Kelly Hendrixson, "but I think we've been doing pretty well considering."

"We had it down on the other end of the field a lot," said Sarah Beth McGee. "That was an improvement. We work well as a team, and we enjoy hockey."

"It does get depressing with some of the scores," said Hendrixson, "but we're having fun."

AT A GLANCE

One of the great regional rivalries ended in 1980 when the University of Delaware football team topped Villanova 17-7.

That rivalry will resume at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, when Delaware's Fighting Blue Hens visit Villanova for an important Yankee Conference contest.

Both teams have climbed into the national NCAA Division 1-AA rankings for the first time this season.

Villanova, 4-1 following its victory over Connecticut, is ranked 15th. Delaware, 3-2 after its victory over William and Mary, is ranked 19th.

Delaware-Villanova has been a long, hard-fought rivalry. It began in 1895 with a 10-6 Blue Hen victory.

The series had its greatest moments in the 1960s and 1970s, with "David" Delaware sending its small-college players onto the field against "Goliath" Villanova's high-powered major university stars.

Hen fans will never forget the gripping battle between Mike Siani, an All-America wide receiver at Villanova who later played for the NFL's Oakland Raiders, and little Delaware cornerback John Bush of Claymont in the 1971 game. Bush, and Delaware, won.

Villanova is one of the few teams against which Delaware has a losing record. The Wildcats led the series 11-9-1.

Under financial pressures, Villanova discontinued its NCAA Division 1-A football program in 1981.

The program was later resurrected in the NCAA Division 1-AA, of which Delaware is a member. The schools also share the same conference, the Yankee.

Tickets for Saturday's game are extremely scarce. If you can't secure seats, the game will be broadcast by radio station WDEL-AM.

Christiana goalie Mark Puican goes high to punch away a Tatnall shot.

that, including a 0-0 tie with Concord.

"We short-passed a lot and that drew the defense in," Wellborn said. "Then the long balls, behind the defense, were open. We always start off short, to control the game. Then, it's however the game evolves. We play according to the other team, however we can attack them best."

"We expected it to be a lot closer than it was," said halfback Larry Grine.

"Especially after they tied Tower Hill," added Wellborn. "It was a closer game last year."

"This wasn't one of my better ones," said Puican of his shutout. He did admit that a game like this can be hard in its own way. "If you keep talking to your players, and you know what's going on and where the ball is, you're safe. But it is boring."

The Vikings changed from a 4-3-3 to a 4-4-2 formation the day before the Tatnall game to add some strength to their defense and bring more flexibility to their midfield game.

With a number of tough teams to face in the upcoming weeks, including McKean and Mount Pleasant, Christiana still feels the need and sees the capacity for improvement.

"We need to get a little more patience, play a little better as a team in our new formation and go to the net a little better," said Wellborn.

"I thought our defense would be our strong point at the beginning of the year, and it's let us down," said Kendall. "They have to mark much tighter."

"Right now, we're where we want to be. As long as they stay together, we'll be alright."

UD

That experience comes in the persons of eight seniors, three of whom started as freshmen. Those three are links Nari Bush and Cheryl Prescott and forward Laura Domnick, who have become team leaders.

"I feel very confident in the fact that they are seasoned veterans," says Hitchens. "They have been to the ECC tournament and they have demonstrated numerous times this year that they have the poise to be able to handle whatever situation is at hand."

"They're very team oriented, very willing to listen and take suggestions. Not everybody can have an 'on' day every single time. They have taken turns rising to meet the various challenges that we have come up against, and if somebody wasn't quite on, someone else rose to the occasion."

"And it's not always the same person. That's a key to our success. We're strong across the board, in each of our positions. We have balance. There are a lot of names which go unheard because there are no stats to put next to their names, but they are really doing a good job."

The Hens won their first four games, including a 3-0 victory over national power Iowa, and were ranked third in the first NCAA Division I poll. Delaware subsequently defeated Princeton and nationally ranked Penn State before losing to a 2-5 West Chester team 1-0.

"I'm convinced that we did not go into the game underestimating them," said Hitchens. "One goal can sometimes make a difference whether or not the other team dominates play."

The loss did not affect the team greatly, because it had to begin preparing to play Maryland, defending national champion and ranked 12th this year.

"We viewed that as an immediate opportunity to reprove ourselves, and we did," said Hitchens. "Once again, they rose to that challenge."

Delaware defeated Maryland 3-1, benefiting from forward Michele Rosenbaum's fourth career hat trick. After her game winning goal in last Tuesday's overtime victory over Rutgers, Rosenbaum had a team high 13 goals, more than many entire ECC teams have scored and four away from a Delaware season record.

"It looks good to score but it's even better when we're winning," says senior Rosenbaum, who was also the team's leading scorer last year in her first varsity year. "Everyone puts in. It's not just me at all, far from just me."

The team was nationally ranked last season as well, but fell to Lafayette in the ECC championship finals.

"Last year, we had a lot of youth. Basically, everyone was new playing together," says Rosenbaum. "Now everyone is used to playing together."

The team was well aware of its ranking last year, and tended to pressure itself, Rosenbaum said. "This year, we don't really talk about it. It's good we're up there now but it doesn't mean anything until the end of the season."

"We always have our mind towards nationals but right now, we take it a game at a time," says Bush.

The Hens have five games, four at home, remaining on their schedule. They face Lafayette at 3 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 18.

The ECC quarterfinals will be played Nov. 2, very probably a home game for Delaware. The ECC championships will be held Nov. 5-6 at Lehigh University.

BUSINESS

Employees of the DuPont Company's Eagle Run electronic imaging site celebrate Quality Month by raising a special banner over the Newark facility. The flag symbolizes Eagle Run's commitment to quality. The site has nearly 800 employees and is DuPont's electronic imaging division headquarters for marketing, research, development and manufacturing. It supplies state-of-the-art electronic imaging systems, products and services.

Teeven-Swift opens Main Street office

Teeven-Swift Inc., a one-year-old real estate investment and development company, has announced the opening of a new office at 77 E. Main St., Newark.

Teeven-Swift has been active in and around Newark.

Locally, it is planning Chapel Center in downtown Newark and commercial development on two properties along Interstate 95.

Chapel Center is a proposed project on the northwest corner of Chapel and Main streets in Newark. It will feature 25,000 square feet of mixed retail and office space.

Buildings at the site will be demolished and construction begun by spring 1989.

Development is also planned on a 25-acre tract on Chapman Road at I-95 and one a 10-acre tract on Md. 279 at I-95, just across the state line between Newark and Elkton, Md.

In Kent County, Teeven-Swift is developing Waterside as a 200-plus unit residential development. Work will begin next spring.

Teeven-Swift will also act as developer of a number of projects planned for properties owned by Robert L. and Mary Jane Teeven on Newark's Main Street.

These include plans to demolish the State Theater and several adjacent buildings for retail and office space and a parking garage.

Robert L. Teeven, a well-known Newark businessman, is chairman of the board of Teeven-Swift Inc. Edward J. Swift Jr. of Wilmington is president of the corporation.

William C. Abernethy is executive vice president, Robert F. Teeven is vice president and Carol A. Straka is project manager.

Jake Washington of Newark, third place winner.

Jones wins USA driving contest

Rodney Jones of Ripley, W.Va. was named the top driver during USA Training Academy's first safe driving championships held recently in Newark.

The championships were for USA Training Academy instructors, and stressed the importance of truck driving skills.

Competitors were selected during local drive-offs at USA Training Academy's four training centers — Newark, Pensacola, Fla., Clarksville, Tenn. and Ripley, W.Va.

As the winner, Jones won a trip to Hawaii.

Second place went to Gregg Dombrosky of Pensacola and third place went to Jake Washington of Newark.

The team scoring the most points was that from Pensacola. It included Dombrosky, Don Bridgewater and Ron Burkett.

The 12 competitors took a written exam, then were scored on pre-trip procedures and allowed to walk through the driving course. The course was set up by John Walls and Harold Corbett, event co-chairmen, and was modeled after that at the national truck driving championships in St. Louis.

Competitors had to drive their 96-inch wide tractor trailer rigs through a course just 102 inches wide. That left just three inches clear on each side of the rig. They also had to parallel park.

SCIATICA

The sciatic nerve proceeds from the lower back area down through the entire leg. Pinching of the sciatic nerve is accompanied by a dull, deep, throbbing pain in the lower back and continues in hot, sharp stabbing flashes over the buttocks to the thighs, down the calf of the leg and into the heel and toes.

Brittany blues

Would you believe it? My Brittany blue and natural oak kitchen in practically done. Only minor items remain. The light fixtures need to be reversed. The overhead light in the kitchen emits just the right wattage for a romantic ambience (with a classy new kitchen, a person is expected to use classy new words) as I peel my potatoes. The hall, on the other hand, is bright enough for Dr. Denton Cooley to perform heart surgery.

What I find incredibly exciting and quite unbelievable about my new Brittany blue and natural oak kitchen is how everything has come together in a way that would awe House Beautiful. I can't tell you what paralysis gripped an interior-decoratingly insecure female and her polite-but-unaware husband when they chose natural oak cabinets based on a drawing and a drawer front, Brittany blue counter tops based on a two-inch square, and a geometric patterned linoleum based on a square-foot sample. I can tell you that it seems truly miraculous that everything not only matches and compliments everything else, but looks better than we ever thought it could.

I didn't have a worry in the world about the wallpaper. As you already know, it was imposed on me by experts.

I knew that not only House Beautiful but also the kitchen god loved me when I shopped for a new dish drainer (the old orange one positively pulsed against the blue of my new counters) because my Brittany blue just exactly matched the blue in the latest line of kitchen accessories. Such serendipity couldn't be ignored. Everything from my napkin holder to Tuxedo's food dish to the step stool coordinated.

A mere three days after I significantly lowered the family checking account with new kitchen accessories, I read that a guru from Architectural Digest has decided that Brittany blue is On Its Way Out, and Teal green is On Its Way In.

Though mildly disappointed to learn that my kitchen decor will soon be Out, I was more concerned about a future shortage of blue accessories. Not to worry. Being a former Girl Scout, I stocked up on everything from Brittany blue pot holders to Brittany blue spaghetti strainers. What that foresight did to the checkbook is not something I feel like discussing at this moment.

So here I am back in my fabulously color-coordinated kitchen with water that runs, windows that open and close, a floor that is not likely to drop me into the basement, and an oven that not only stays closed, but cleans itself.

Being the skeptical person that I am, I have already tested the self-cleaning. The other day I baked Lydia's absolutely-delicious-but-guaranteed-to-boil-over-and-make-a-syrupy-mess-in-the-oven peach cobbler. Both the cobbler and the oven performed as advertised. It was delicious, the oven was a mess, but with the push of a lever it cleaned itself.

The only thing that the kitchen designer neglected to plan for was The Kitchen Drawer — and every housewife with the IQ of a soup ladle knows what a serious lack that is. Of course my Brittany blue and natural oak kitchen has lots of drawers, but they are filled with useful and expected things like silverware, spatulas, place mats, phone books, and dish towels.

Those aren't the sorts of things that The Kitchen Drawer contains. It should contain things like the earpiece to my old sunglasses, torn address labels from three mail order catalogues, dented golf balls, matchbooks with no matches, pencil stubs too short to write with, the end pieces for curtain rods, flashlight batteries, payment stubs from the paper boy, flyers for getting the chimney cleaned, three-way plugs with bent prongs, curtain hooks, dried up rolls of masking tape, outdated coupons, and a sample bag of gerbil food.

Just writing about it makes me nostalgic. How long do you suppose it will take me to create a new one?

Sneaking onto the fashion scene

by Nancy Turner

Twenty years ago, a "run faster, jump higher" guarantee and a free pair of socks could sell a lot of sneakers, but times have changed. In case you haven't taken a close look lately, those denim clad youth pounding lay-ups across white cement basketball courts of inner cities aren't wearing secret decoder rings.

In the athletic footwear market in the U.S., estimated to be worth more than $13 billion in 1988, "high tech" sells soles.

The quest for high technology has produced innovations like Durabuck, a synthetic washable leather that doesn't lose its shape; cross trainers, shoes that incorporate the technical features of both running and court shoes so the same pair can be conveniently used in different sports; and "air technology," a method for making high shock absorption soles of pressurized gases that are sealed inside a urethane skins and polycoated, just to mention a few.

John Gross and Dave Fischer are co-owners of Save on Sneaks at Castle Mall.

"Athletic shoes are not affected too much by clothing styles," said Gross. "Sure with fall coming in, we might carry a couple more black sneakers, but it is the athletic season that dictates the shoe. The trend is to identify with a sport."

"Walking shoes are big among the middle aged, middle income group," he mentioned as an example, although Gross added that there are a few important exceptions. One is "the college kids who dress for fashion and have a closet full of Bo Bos (inexpensive tennis shoes) or Keds in different colors to match different outfits."

And then there are those who buy tennis shoes that identify with their favorite musicians or screen idols. The movie "Hoosiers" was "a shot in the arm" for black canvas high tops, said Gross.

Jon Bon Jovi wears Chucks and Run of Run-DMC can be thanked for introducing kids across America to the comfort and convenience of not tying high-top shoe laces.

When Bruce Springsteen placed an order for a selection of high-top tennis shoes from Converse, the company responded by sending him 50 new pairs, in all colors, completely free of charge. Company officials said the "boss" exposure would be worth a lot more.

"Most of the styles that we get around here, in terms of whatever is new or what no one else in school has started wearing yet, come from the inner cities of New York and Philadelphia," said Gross.

Companies like Nike, Diadora, Lotto and British Knights are pursuing the urban market in America with big advertising dollars.

"A lot of urban black kids, around high school age, are going after the high tech shoes, almost as a prestige symbol," said Gross.

"We are bringing their trends back home to the suburbs. When Nike came out with a $54.95 Michael Jordan pullover that matched up with the Michael Jordan athletic shoe, it was a city look, but suburban kids bought it."

The average prices for leather "tech" shoes from major companies range from around $25 for infants' to $50 for men's.

The top of the line Air Stabs from Nike have a suggested retail price of $110, complete with a window so you can look into its sole and make sure that nothing but air is there; however, Air Max is the hottest seller right now from Nike at a suggested retail of $90.

"In the past year, we have seen a 28-40 percent wholesale price increase in leather sports shoes since last year," said Gross. "The shoe you bought for $29.95 last year probably costs $39.95 this year," and trendy fashion isn't necessarily the culprit.

"We are looking at a worldwide leather shortage. There just isn't enough of it to meet the growing demands of the industry," said Gross.

The devaluation of the U.S. dollar hasn't helped, he added, pointing out that most American sports shoes are manufactured in Korea.

"Fashion and style (of athletic footwear) have developed from the actual function of the shoe and very little has been added to dress it up," said Liz Dolan, spokesperson for Nike Inc. of Beaverton, Oregon.

From about 1975 to 1986, for 11 years, Nike was the undisputed leader in men's sports shoes.

But 1987 was the year for Reebok. The British company named after an African gazelle leaped into the number one spot, seemingly out of thin air, by producing a lightweight, soft, leather shoe that was very comfortable.

Initially dominating the fashionable middle class market of women's athletic shoes, Reebok controls only a slice of the multi million dollar market pie and shares the rest with new companies like L.A. Gear. This year, many retailers are adding Avia and Saucony to their lists of the "best" manufacturers of women's aerobic footwear.

"High tech shoes are hot like Converse was 15 years ago," said Gross. "Some say it's a status thing. If your parents bought Converse for you, then you were 'it.' You were 'the stuff.' Nothing has changed, only today we just call it Nike Air."

'Pump Boys' to play at Bacchus

The Broadway musical comedy "Pump Boys and Dinettes," a 1982 Tony Award nominee, will be staged at 8:15 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 20 in Bacchus Theatre of the University of Delaware's Perkins Student Center on Academy Street.

Action in the play centers on a gas station and the Double Cup Diner on Highway 57, USA.

Supplemented with doses of sparkling dialogue and sprightly dancing, the show is primarily a musical, blending top-of-the-charts quality country, rockabilly, gospel, bluegrass, ballads and blues.

It tries to capture the spirit of the American roadside with warmth and affection.

The show was conceived and written by John Foley, Mark Hardwick, Debra Monk, Cass Morgan, John Schimmel and Jim Wann.

They were also the original cast when the show opened off-Broadway at the Colonnades Theater, giving 125 performances in four months before moving to the Princess Theatre on Broadway.

Later cast changes brought to the show such stars as Tom Chapin, Loudon Wainwright III, Maria Muldaur and Ronee Blakley.

Before its Broadway run ended, "Pump Boys and Dinettes" caught the attention of critics and audience alike, earning a Tony nomination for best musical.

For ticket information, call 451-2631.

Iron Hill Museum festival

Iron Hill Museum of Natural History will hold its annual fall festival noon to 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 16.

Theme will be "Native Americans," and all children in native American costume will be admitted free. Otherwise, admission is $1.

There will be a special presentation on reptiles at 2 p.m. by Jungle John.

There will also be special presentations on bats, cicadas and bees and bee hives, the latter by noted entomologist Dr. Dewey Caron of the University of Delaware. Caron will discuss an exposed hive built by bees at the museum, and visitors will be able to taste the honey.

Other activities include Indian stories with Charlotte Holck, feather races, flint knapping, trail walks and a bubble table.

Small fees will be charged for face painting, headband making, pumpkin painting, games, raffles and refreshments.

The museum is located on Old Baltimore Pike, just west of Del. 896.

OperaDelaware's season

OperaDelaware is offering us one of the best balanced seasons ever. The two major works are a rarely performed Verdi and one of the oft-repeated ABCs (Aida, Boheme, Carmen). Opera goers should indeed be very pleased!

Their season will open with Verdi's "Stiffelio." Knowing Verdi's feeling toward the Roman Church, most today are not shocked by "Stiffelio," but in its time it was prohibited. Much to the credit of OperaDelaware, they will present it in its original, uncut version. It will be like a visit to a friend one sees rarely, or, for some, a chance to make a new friend.

The second opera in the season is indeed the "C" of the ABCs, Georges Bizet's masterpiece "Carmen." General Director Lee Kimball, with his delightful sense of humor, said, "Phil, see if your readers would like to spend a night with Carmen." With the cast, conductor and stage director Lee has lined up, I think that most of my opera loving readers will want to.

Giving chronology its due, our attention first to "Stiffelio." It will open at the Grand Opera House on Saturday, Nov. 26, and be repeated on Friday and Saturday, Dec. 2 and 3. Curtain each night is at 8.

The new production will be directed by Nicholas Muni and conducted by Verdi scholar David Lawton. Together, Muni and Lawton have prepared a new English translation which will premiere next month.

by Phil Toman

THE ARTS

Lee Kimball is very proud of the cast assembled for "Stiffelio," and he should be. Tenor Noel Espiritu Velasco will sing the title role of the Protestant minister. This will be a busy year for Velasco; he makes his debut at Covent Garden in the near future. Soprano Susan Marie Pierson, who sang opposite Luciano Pavarotti at La Scala and on national television will return to the Grand to sing the role of Lina, the minister's adulterous wife.

Baritone Mark Rucker, an Opera Company of Philadelphia — Luciano Pavarotti International Voice Competition winner, will sing Stankar. Mezzo-soprano Carol Andrews will sing Dorothea; tenor James Longacre, Rafaelae, and Del-Bouree Bach, the role of Jorg.

This will be the Delaware Valley premiere of "Stiffelio."

The story of the soldier, gypsy and treader will bow at the Grand on Saturday, April 22 and be repeated Friday and Saturday, April 28 and 29. Curtain, as usual, at 8 p.m. Quite a coup for OperaDelaware is the production of "Carmen" in the spring. Lee Kimball has signed New York City Opera Company regulars Theodore Granger, to conduct, and Dugg McDonough, as stage director.

The company will offer "Charlotte's Web" by Charles Strouse as its annual Family Theater bill this year. Lee Kimball will be the stage director and Evelyn Swenson will conduct. It will be on the boards at the Grand Friday, Feb. 17 at 8 p.m. and Saturday, Feb. 18 at 2 p.m.

Tickets for both major offerings range from $40 to 64, but if you buy both at the same time the prices range from $29 to 47. Student tickets for the season are only $14. Tickets for "Charlotte's Web" are $12.60 for adults and $6.30 if you subscribe to the regular season as well; alone they are $14 and 7.

If you would like to order you may write OperaDelaware, P.O. Box 3553, Greenville, DE 19807, or call 658-2507. This is a season not to be missed.

Three stars of the OperaDelaware production of Verdi's "Stiffelio" are (clockwise from top) Susan Marie Pierson, Carol Andrews and Noel Espiritu Velasco.

ENTERTAINMENT FILE

• Newark Symphony Society has announced that a bus will be available for persons interested in attending Newark Symphony Orchestra concerts this season. Concerts will be held at Dickinson High School on Milltown Road, east of Newark. The bus will pick up concert-goers at 6:45 p.m. the evening of the performance at the Newark Senior Center, 300 E. Main St. It will return to the Center following the concert. Cost is $1.50 round trip.

The first concert of the new season will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 23. Featured performers will be cellist Louisa Marks and organist Dr. David Herman. For concert tickets, call 366-8961. To reserve a seat on the bus, call 737-2336 no later than Thursday, Oct. 20.

• "Heroes Real and Imagined," a program for children ages 7-13, will be offered 2-4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 23 at the Delaware Art Museum. Children will be invited to explore folk heroes, historical heroes and anti-heroes. Rob Tietze will lead a sing-along featuring folk heroes in songs and stories. For details, call 571-9590.

• The Delaware Singers invite persons interested in joining the professional choral organization to arrange for an audition by calling Jean Scalessa at 652-2977. Singers should be prepared to perform two selections, one in English and one in another language. Sight-reading ability will be evaluated. An accompanist will be provided.

Eileen Grycky and Christiaan Taggart will perform in a special program on the relationship between music and art.

Studying interaction of music and art

A special opportunity to experience the interaction of music and fine art will be offered Monday, Oct. 17 by the University of Delaware.

Eileen Grycky and Christiaan Taggart will perform and discuss works for flute and guitar which were inspired by painting and sculpture during a program at 8 p.m. in Loudis Recital Hall, Amstel Avenue and Orchard Road.

During the presentation, the artwork will be projected on the walls of Loudis Hall, giving the audience a first-hand look at the composer's creative processes.

The musical works are "Museum Pieces" by Michael White and "Dances in the Madhouse" by David Leisner.

"Museum Pieces" contains five movements, each inspired by a different work of art — "The Dancers" by Segal, "The Lonely Ones" by Munch, "Magic Bird" by Brancusi, "Orpheus" by Redow and "At the Bal Tabarin" by Severini.

In "Dances in the Madhouse," Leisner has taken the work of the same name by George Bellows and focuses each of four movements on a different segment of the painting.

The program, sponsored by the University Department of Music and the Freshman Honors Forum, is free.

CROP Walk to step out Sunday

Hundreds of volunteers will make 10-kilometer hike to help hungry

The Newark/West Wilmington CROP Walk for the Hungry will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 16 at Limestone Presbyterian Church, 3201 Limestone Road.

The 10-kilometer walk will begin and end at the church, with a course through the rolling hills of the Pike Creek Valley.

Walkers will solicit pledges based on the number of kilometers completed. Proceeds benefit Church World Service and the Delaware Food Bank.

Delaware Food Bank oversees distribution of food to needy residents in the state. Church World Service meets human needs around the globe through programs of economic and social development, disaster and emergency relief and service to refugees and immigrants.

Last year, 200 walkers raised more than $10,000 in Delaware. In all, more than 275,000 walkers participated in 1,500 CROP walks nationwide.

Registration for the Newark/West Wilmington walk will be held 1-1:45 p.m. The walk will begin at 2 p.m. and end from 3:30 to 5 p.m., depending on your pace.

It will be held rain or shine. Organizers suggest comfortable clothes and shoes. There will be several checkpoints and rest stops along the way, with light refreshments at the church following the event.

For details, contact Laurie Loveless at 994-5646.

Author Short to speak at Limestone

Robert Short, best-selling Christian author, will make presentations Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 15 and 16 at Limestone Presbyterian Church.

Short will discuss his book "The Gospel From Outer Space" at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, and "The Gospel According to Peanuts" at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

"The Gospel According to Peanuts" was the non-fiction best-seller of 1965, and has become one of the top 10 all-time religious best-sellers in the United States.

In it, Short looks at the Peanuts cartoon strip of Charles Schulz from a theological point of view.

He followed that book with the best-sellers "The Parables of Peanuts" in 1968, "A Time to be Born, A Time to Die" in 1973, "Something to Believe In" in 1978 and "The Gospel From Outer Space" in 1983.

The latter book interprets the religious implications of such popular movies as "2001: A Space Odyssey," "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," "Superman," "Star Wars" and "E.T."

Tickets for the presentations cost $3, $1 for children 12 and under. Call 994-5646.

'Hallowing Diminishments' is theme

Delaware Interfaith Coalition on Aging will hold its ninth annual conference, entitled "Hallowing One's Diminishments," Wednesday, Oct. 19 at First Presbyterian Church of Newark, 292 W. Main St.

The conference will emphasize spirituality as a means of enhancing the quality of life for the aging person, particularly that person facing the impairments and diminishments which accompany the aging process.

John Yungblut, director of Touchstone Inc., will be the principal speaker. Touchstone is a non-profit organization concerned with helping individuals grow in the life of the spirit.

Yungblut is a graduate of Harvard College, and did graduate study in theology at Harvard Episcopal Divinity School in Cambridge, Mass.

He is the author of four books, "Rediscovering Prayer," "Rediscovering the Christ," "Discovering God Within" and "The Gentle Art of Spiritual Director."

Registration is $10. For details, call 762-2050.

WEDDINGS

Thomas, McDowell

Mary Louise Thomas and Robert Charles McDowell, both of Newark, were married Saturday, Sept. 10 at St. John the Baptist Catholic Church.
