Parents say high school not appropriate place for young children

Glasgow High School turned out to be the main topic of discussion at the Christina District school board meeting on Tuesday night.

The school received mixed reviews from students, parents of students, and parents who do not want their preschool-aged children to attend day care there next year.

The three district "Wings for Learning" daycare program locations, at Smith, West Park Place and Maclary elementary schools, enroll a total of approximately 200 preschool-aged children.

Bigger is better if it's a reservoir

Larger storage facility will hold two extra weeks of water supplies

Newark City Council decided to get while the getting appears good and voted to approve spending for a 300-million gallon reservoir this week.

District 2 councilmember Jerry Clifton was not present. However, the remaining members voted unanimously for a reservoir design larger than the 245-million gallon facility recommended by city staff.

"City staff and the consultants provided us with a ton of information," said councilmember Thomas Wampler. "I asked myself, as a city water customer, would I be willing to pay an extra $3 or whatever per gallon, for the extra protection that a larger reservoir brings?"

Wampler said the reservoir is a big project and expected to last at least 50 years. "That's two generations," said Wampler. "A lot can happen to the city in that time and we don't want to wish we had the larger reservoir later if we need it."

According to a preliminary engineering analysis prepared by URS Corporation, the larger reservoir, with pump station, pipelines and ancillary facilities, will cost $16 million to construct on the former Koelig site off Paper Mill Road.

City manager Carl Luft said a reservoir of this capacity will provide 99 percent reliability in terms of providing the necessary water to meet the city's demand.

Mayor Hal Godwin, who made the motion to vote on a larger reservoir design, said the thoroughness of the information in the study convinced him. "This gives us more capacity and we get the same value for our investment dollars," Godwin said.

the names of 225 children are on a waiting list.

The programs will merge into one next year, and Sally Farr, who has been involved with the program since it began in 1989, said Glasgow is the most cost-effective place to put it.

According to Farr, elementary schools in the district are already crowded, and Glasgow High School is experiencing a decline in enrollment.

Farr said she and her fellow staff members looked into moving the program to the University of Delaware but there was no room. They toured both Glasgow and Christiana high schools, and decided that Glasgow was more convenient, she said.

"At Glasgow, we will be able to use the school within a school concept," Farr said. "We will have office spaces, a psychologist on site, a private entrance and exit from the school, so we don't disturb classes, and nursing services will be available."

It will also give Glasgow students who are interested in going into the field of early childhood development, a chance to work closely with young children.

Neapplied the preliminary design plans for the $5 million expansion of the Newark Free Library on Route 72/Library Avenue. The public is invited to review the proposed renovations on Monday, Feb. 19, at 7:30 p.m. at the library.

"If all goes well, we hope to have the design out for bids by early May," said James Neal, president of the Friends of the Newark Library.

The tentative date for award of the construction bid is slated for July 2001, with completion of the project scheduled for April 2002.

Neal said the library will be closed during part of the construction to speed the process. "We expect the closing to come in December, January

The proposed 11,700-square-foot one-story addition will expand the Newark Library to 26,000 square feet. Amadio said the largest increase of the existing departments will be in the children's area, which will double in capacity.

Features new to the facility will include a new meeting room, a quiet study area in the location of Large Print materials, the Delaware Collection Room on local history, an area designated specifically for teens, two, small, two-person study rooms and a coffee bar.

Brookside fire site already slated for redevelopment

Cause of fire not yet determined by fire marshal

By KATY CIAMARICONE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Officials from Louis Capano and Sons said they are planning to begin revitalizing the Brookside Shopping Center, where three businesses were destroyed by fire early Sunday morning.

The development company, which has owned the shopping center for 15 years, will begin to work on the center as soon as they are approved for a building permit for the location, said Louis Capano III.

"We have a plan in now to renovate the entire center, which we are going to move forward with," he said. "We have signed leases to have a Happy Harry's there, and a Wilmington Trust in the old Firestone building (separate from the center), and as far as what goes in between, we're not really sure, yet."

However, Capano said, developers will not rebuild the bowling alley. "We just don't want a bowling alley in the shopping center," he said.

The Brookside Bowl bowling alley, located at the right end of the Brookside Shopping Center, is where the fire began around 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

According to John Farrell IV, spokesperson for Hours after the fire was contained, fire crews, including Fire and Arson personnel, remained at the smoldering site of Saturday night's blaze in Brookside Shopping Center.

the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Co. in Newark, 15 people were inside of the bowling alley when the fire started, but they were promptly evacuated before any injuries were sustained.

Approximately 140 firefighters from more than 20 engine, ladder and rescue companies throughout New Castle, Cecil and Chester counties, responded to the four-alarm fire shortly before midnight on Saturday, Farrell said.

"Firefighters arrived to find smoke showing through the roof area in the rear of the (bowling alley)," he said. "Hose lines were advanced for an interior attack, however, firefighters were driven from the building by extreme heat conditions. Because of the wood truss construction and the large open area typical of this type of occupancy, the fire raced quickly through the building."

The bowling alley burned to the ground, as did the China King Express and the National Cash Advance company, both adjacent to it.

The former Skater's Paradise store, which was vacant at the time of the fire, sustained significant smoke and water damages.

H and J Beauty and Hair Supply, the New Castle County Community Police substation, and the Brookside News newsstand were all unable to reopen at the beginning of the week, due to smoke and water damages.

The Dollar General store was also damaged by the fire, but opened for business on Tuesday. The fire caused damages in excess of $1 million, according to Willard F. Preston III, of the State Fire Marshall's office.

The Brookside News newsstand has been located in the shopping center for 25 years. The newsstand served as the dividing line Saturday night between businesses which were severely damaged and those which sustained little or no injury in the fire.

Jim Doody of Newark, who has owned Brookside News for the past six years, said that when state officials let him on the property for a brief time Sunday morning to see what immediate impact the fire had on his store, one of the first things he noticed was the smell of heavy smoke in the air.

Christina studying new feeder patterns

Committee meeting to comply with law mandating 'neighborhood schools' in state

By KATY CIAMARICONE

Christina School District administrators, teachers, principals, parents, and residents, met for the first time Monday night to discuss preliminary plans for mapping the future of Delaware's largest school district.

Members of the district's Neighborhood Schools Committee must come up with a new student feeder pattern before November to comply with the Neighborhood Schools Law. The law, which former Governor Thomas Carper signed in April 2000, mandates that Delaware school districts submit a plan for sending students to the school closest to their homes within 18 months of the legislation.

The 35 members of the district committee have a long road ahead of them before they complete the plan, said co-chair Deborah Rodenhouser, a Christina District supervisor.

"Some members of the public appear to be frustrated that we haven't moved faster to get this plan underway," Rodenhouser said. "While we do understand their frustration, there are many, many things that come into play here. The law says to draw our boundaries based on the plans submitted by the Wilmington Neighborhood Schools

Teen found with drug "Ecstasy"

New Castle County Police arrested a 15-year-old Newark boy on Feb. 13 around 9:45 p.m. after he was found in possession of $3,800 worth of the drug "Ecstasy" in the area of Brookside Park. Police went to the park on a report of a fight in progress and witnessed a vehicle leaving the area with six people inside. When they stopped the vehicle, the officers smelled marijuana and found the 15-year-old in possession of the drug during a search of the vehicle.

Further investigation showed the boy was reported as a missing person and wanted by Family Court for parole violation.

Damages total $2,500; the stolen property is valued at $3,700.

Rape in Tyre Avenue home

The suspect, who is described as an 18-year-old black male, five feet 11 inches tall, 165 pounds, with brown hair and brown eyes, allegedly restrained the victim and had sexual intercourse with her without her consent, causing physical injury to the victim.

Eight cars damaged on same street

Newark Police report that sometime between 11:40 p.m. Feb. 10 and 4:40 a.m. Feb. 11, eight vehicles sustained damages while parked on the street on the 100 block of Forest Lane.

The following items were damaged: the taillight of a 2001 gray Hyundai Accent; the side view mirrors of a 1998 black Saturn, a 1996 black Prizm, and a 1994 black Saturn; the taillight of a green 1993 Chrysler Lebaron; the side mirror of a 1996 black Plymouth Neon; and the side mirror and rear bumper of a 2000 gray Toyota Corolla.

Man charged in series of burglaries

New Castle County Police arrested a Newark man after a surveillance team watched him break into a Scottfield home and remove property from inside around 12:30 p.m. on Feb. 12. Christopher Clohecy, 24, of Brookside, is accused of breaking into at least 15 homes in the Brookside, Scottfield, and Todd Estates communities.

Police saw a suspicious young man knock on the front door and then walk to the rear of the residence and kick in a basement window and enter the home.

He brandished a handgun from a bag of stolen goods and fled on foot when officers surrounded him outside the home. The officers chased the suspect through several yards and over fences until he was finally captured in the parking lot of Vince's Batting Cages in Newark. He was arrested after a brief struggle.

Drugs, bomb materials seized

On the afternoon of Feb. 11, New Castle County Police responded to a residence on Gogh Circle in Bear for report of a domestic dispute and observed two marijuana plants in plain view.

During a subsequent search, officers seized over 300 grams of marijuana, nine firearms and drug paraphernalia. While searching the home, the officers also found what appeared to be ingredients for creating explosives.

A bomb unit from the New Castle County Police confirmed that the items were in fact bomb-making materials. Police arrested and charged the two homeowners, Robert, 28, and Golden Nepi, 24, in connection with the drugs and other items found. The investigation into the bomb-making materials is continuing.

Hit-run victim identified

Delaware State Police have identified the man killed in a hit and run crash that occurred on Interstate 495 on Feb. 5.

Troopers report Gonzalo Sanchez, 35, of Wilmington, was struck while apparently crossing the northbound lanes approximately a mile south of the Philadelphia Pike interchange. The crash happened between 8:40 and 8:50 p.m. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

A New Castle man turned himself into police at Troop 1 after he heard news of the crash, and told investigators that he had been on I 495 the previous night when he heard a thump. He thought that a piece of ice had broke free from the top of a truck he had been following and struck his car. He did notice damage to the rearview mirror but did not with damage on the man's car. However, police are looking into whether or not the impact from the man's car was the initial impact or well after he had been struck by other vehicles. The investigation is continuing.

Man arrested after firing gun on I-95

Delaware State Police arrested Drew Vandersall, 22, of Leesport, Pa., after he was seen shooting a handgun on Interstate 95 just south of Wilmington on Feb. 6.

A trooper saw a Chevrolet Cavalier parked on the shoulder and was attempting to pull over to assist the driver when he saw several flashes of light and heard several gunshots.

The trooper followed the car and stopped it on the interstate. He found Vandersall behind the wheel, a semi-automatic gun under the seat, a small amount of marijuana and a .22 caliber rifle in the trunk.

School district still looking at site possibilities for daycare

► DAY CARE, from 1

There is the possibility that GHS students could earn college credits for their participation, she said.

But several parents said a high school is not the proper environment for preschool-aged children.

"What's going to happen when there is a bomb threat or a fire drill on a cold and rainy day, and my children are standing there not knowing what is going on?" asked Kathy Melcher, the parent of two children who are enrolled in the program. "You should have done a better search ...you should not just put it at Glasgow because there is space."

Parent Anne Farrow suggested that the program be moved to trailers behind district elementary schools, so the preschoolers could remain within the same location as their peers.

Other members of the audience defended the high school.

Jack McCloy, a former Glasgow student said he felt "very, very lucky to have received my education at Glasgow," he said. "I'm also lucky to have two fantastic parents who instilled in me the values to succeed in life."

Donald Miller said he did not come to the meeting to talk about the day care controversy, and personally did not think preschool kids should be in a high school.

"But if the preschool was at Glasgow High School, I think (students) would take the kids under their wing," Miller commented.

Dr. Nicholas Fischer, the district superintendent, said he thinks the program at Glasgow would benefit the high school students who want to learn about early childhood development, but the location at Glasgow is not finalized.

"We are looking at several facilities in the state," he said.

No place would be picked until possible safety needs were addressed, he added. "We would not put a childhood program in any school in the district unless we were absolutely sure that it was safe."

Committee."

Members of the Wilmington committee are required to submit their reconfiguration plans to the General Assembly before March 15, and legislators must vote to accept or reject the plan before June 30. The Christina District cannot draft plans for local attendance boundary lines until July.

Rodenhouser said she and her fellow committee members will do "all the necessary work with the exception of attendance boundaries," from now until then.

Through February and March, members of the public will have the chance to submit suggestions to the district by mail, e-mail, telephone, or during the public recognition portion of the district's school board meetings.

Committee members will review all of these suggestions from March until June, and devise a plan based on results. When the draft plan is completed in August, committee members will send it to district site councils, school officials, and parent organizations for consideration.

During the month of September, there will be five public hearings, in addition to school board means what? It could mean as the crow flies, or it could mean as the bus rides."

District spokesperson Lisa McVey said the Christina committee spent the first meeting introducing themselves, learning some history behind the school district, looking at the current attendance boundaries, and looking over the legislative summary for Neighborhood Schools.

Grade configuration is another area which members will begin working on in upcoming months. "A group this large is going to be a challenge to work with. You have so many people who feel strongly about the issue," Rodenhouser said. "However, it is important to get equal representation from all areas."

The members represent several of the major parts of New Castle County, she said. "We tried to make sure that together, the committee members represented a wide variety of geographic locations, age groups, and include parents of children in high school, middle school and elementary school. And we have members from Wilmington, Bear, Glasgow and from Newark."

The public is welcome at all committee meetings which are scheduled for March 6 at Bayard Elementary School, and March 20, April 26 and May 17 at Gauer/Cobb Middle School. Meetings

Fire wall helped to save some stores

► FIRE, from 1

"There was some smoke damage, a little water damage, and all electricity was lost," Doody said. "But whatever inconveniences we had pale in comparison to what happened to some of these other shops a few doors down. We were the sixth store in from the end," Doody said, "and now I think we might be the first one."

The other five stores have either completely burnt down or are currently unusable.

One of the reasons that the fire stopped short of damaging Brookside News is a fire wall that exists between his store and the store next to it, which received heavy water damage in the fire, Doody said.

Preston said this type of masonry wall is often built between structures for this type of emergency. "Masonry will not burn," Preston said, "so in the event of a fire, the wall will impede the spreading of fire."

Nature and fast action also helped in salvaging Brookside News from the wreckage, Doody said. "The wind was blowing in a way that kept the fire from affecting us too much," he said. "And we were lucky that the firefighters were able to get in there and get it under control when they did."

Chesapeake Publishing Corp. to sell newspapers in four states

Delaware papers will be retained

Chesapeake Publishing Corporation has reached a definitive agreement to sell its Pennsylvania and New Jersey newspaper divisions to the Journal Register Company.

The corporation has also reached a definitive agreement to sell its Southern Maryland Newspapers division to The Gazette Newspapers Inc., a division of The Washington Post Company.

The terms of the transactions were not disclosed. The company is in negotiation to sell its Virginia division, headquartered in Williamsburg.

After the sales are completed, Chesapeake will still own 20 publications, including two dailies, The Cecil Whig in Elkton, Md., and The Star Democrat in Easton, Md.

Three papers in Delaware, the Newark Post, and Route 40 Flier, both weeklies, and The New Castle Business Ledger, a monthly business publication, will remain with the company.

In addition, the company has four printing facilities in the Maryland-Delaware region.

The Pennsylvania and New Jersey divisions include total non-daily distribution of 13 publications with a circulation of 88,000.

The 10 weekly Pennsylvania publications with total non-daily distribution of approximately 28,000 include The Kennett Paper, Oxford Tribune, Avon Grove Sun, Solanco Sun Ledger, Parkesburg Post Ledger, Columbia Ledger, Coatesville Ledger, Downingtown Ledger, Hershey Chronicle, and Elizabethtown Chronicle.

The three weekly New Jersey publications, based in Medford, are The Central Record, Maple Shade Progress and Ad-Lines.

Tom Bradlee, president and CEO of Chesapeake Publishing

Corporation, said "We have great regard for our people in Pennsylvania and New Jersey and for what they have accomplished during their time with Chesapeake.

"The markets our newspapers serve are among the fastest growing areas in both states. We take pride that our people and our newspapers will go forward under the direction of one of the largest newspaper companies in the country."

Journal Register Company, owns 24 daily newspapers, including the New Haven Register in Connecticut, The Trentonian in Trenton, N.J., the Daily Local News in West Chester, Pa., and the Norristown (Pa.) Times Herald, among others, and 151 non-daily publications.

"I am extremely pleased that these publications and talented staff will join the Journal Register Company family," said Robert M. Jelenic, chairman, president and CEO of JRC. "These publications are an excellent complement to our Greater Philadelphia cluster, specifically to the Daily Local News in West Chester, Pa. and to InterCounty Newspaper's weekly newspapers in New Jersey. They will also be a terrific complement to our Suburban Philadelphia Newspapers Network."

The newspapers sold to the Washington Post include the twice-weekly Maryland Independent in Charles County, Lexington Park Enterprise in St. Mary's County, and The Recorder in Calvert County.

Also included in the sale were the Enquirer-Gazette, a paid circulation paper based in Upper Marlboro, Prince George's County; four weekly publications, St. Charles Independent, LaPlata Independent, Southern Maryland Connector, and South County Current; two publications, Flightline and Defense Contractor, that served the military bases in southern Maryland, and a commercial printing operation based in Waldorf, Md.

"Our southern Maryland newspapers have been a great asset for Chesapeake," said Bradlee. "The area has grown tremendously since we made our first investment there in the early '70s. For the past decade, it has been our fastest growing division."

Chuck Lyons, president and publisher of Gazette Newspapers Inc. said, "This is an acquisition that makes great strategic sense to our community newspaper business currently serving readers and advertisers in Frederick, Montgomery and Prince George's counties.

"These communities and newspapers are among the fastest growing in Maryland," Lyons added. "Beyond that, they are rich in history and tradition. We look forward to publishing quality newspapers that earn the trust of readers and advertisers, to creating a great place to work for employees, and to serving the communities of Southern Maryland."

Gazette Newspapers publishes 35 community newspapers with a combined circulation of more than 500,000 copies, is a contract publisher of newspapers and guides for 11 military installations in the Washington, D.C. region, publishes two Internet sites, gazett.net and demilitary.com, and operates a commercial printing plant in Gaithersburg, Md.

The sale will be completed by March 1.

"The reason for the sale is, simply, we believe it's a good time to capitalize on the investments we've made over the last 25 years outside of our home base on the Eastern Shore," said Bradlee. "We have become one of the largest community newspaper companies in the country with 56 publications and six printing facilities."

City officials say water still a bargain in Newark

► WATER, from 1

An analysis of water levels in the White Clay Creek presented during Monday's meeting showed that a 340-million gallon reservoir would be needed for 100 percent protection.

However, city water director Joseph Dombrowski said the 70-year analysis of Newark's water supplies showed that amount would have been needed only once during the area's most severe drought.

The extra 55 million gallons in the storage facility proposed by city council could give Newark's water customers an extra two weeks supply during drought periods and eliminate the need to purchase water from other sources.

"Virtually all of our water during a drought has to be pur-

Construction of a 245-million gallon reservoir with an estimated cost of $14.3 million together with the plant would have raised water rates by 75.8 percent.

If both the larger reservoir and the iron removal plant are approved under the referendum, the total new effective water rate will be $3.34 per 1,000 gallons, an increase of $1.52 per 1,000 gallons for Newark customers over the current rate. This is an 83.6 percent rate increase.

Lowell said the main entrance to the library itself will now be on the south side of the building near the parking lot. "We had a lot of requests for that," said Lowell.

During discussions about city water supplies in February 1999, Dombrowski told council a reservoir would need to supply a "cushion" of 2.8 mgd (million gallons a day) to be effective.

Toward the end of a dry summer in September 1999, Dombrowski noted that customer demand was "currently 4.4 mgd in Newark. We hit five mgd last week which is at 'low-peak' level."

In addition to the reservoir, the city wants to build an iron removal plant off South College Avenue that will cost $3.1 million to construct. Voters at an April referendum in Newark will Godwin noted the new water fee is less than half what he pays for Basic cable-TV service each quarter.

"And, Newark customers will still pay about half of the cost of water charged by Artesian Water Co. which is seeking an increase to about $100 a quarter," said Godwin.

The public hearing on the projects is scheduled for the next city council meeting on Feb. 26. The referendum is currently planned for April 10.

School choices are on the line

Two stories this week show the problems likely as the school districts in New Castle County try to move in the direction of neighborhood schools.

Following the law passed by the General Assembly last year, districts must have plans for children to be attending schools closest their homes by the year 2002.

First to come up with a plan is a whole new district in Wilmington. Then, the remaining districts in the county, which currently all have schools in the city of Wilmington, must each rearrange their buildings, staff and students in their newly configured area.

Parents of preschool children criticized school board members and district administrators in the Christina District this week for a plan to relocate three daycare programs into Glasgow High School.

The district's "Wings for learning" program presently has about 200 children spread out in three suburban elementary schools. According to district officials, another 225 children are on a waiting list for space in the program.

Glasgow High School apparently has capacity to spare at the present time. And, when the Christina District is realigned in some fashion for neighborhood schools, it is more than probable that it will not need three high schools as it has now.

Many of the students in those buildings now come from Wilmington. The district may not need three middle schools, either. It needs more elementary school space now in some locations.

But, the choices are not clear. When discussing the district's neighborhood committee meetings, Deborah Rodenhouser, co-chair of that committee, said the law did not even define "what a neighborhood is."

One thing is certain. When the final decisions are made, many children, of all ages and grade levels, will be attending schools in different locations than they are now.

That is what parents said they wanted. Christina District administrators have looked around the space

That is what parents said they wanted. Christina District administrators have looked around the space currently available and decided to make the best use of it they see for the daycare program.

This kind of choice is going to happen over and over again in the next 18 months. There is no way everyone is going to get exactly what they want.

Parents, and other interested parties, should try to attend as many of the Christina District's committee meetings as they can to hear the challenges facing the largest school district in the state. These meetings are being held twice a month until June and more will be scheduled in late summer and fall as the time approaches for district's to have their individual plans in place.

Winners in this process could be few. But those with a voice in the plan will have the edge.

By ELBERT CHANCE

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

Twice in the last six months, I have received mailings from organizations requesting my support of bills introduced in Congress on behalf of a group of citizens identified as Notch Babies.

To be honest, prior to the receipt of these appeals, I had no idea what a Notch Baby is, nor was I aware that I am one of them.

My curiosity was aroused, however, at least sufficiently to investigate how I qualify for inclusion in this unique category.

I learned that a Notch Baby, sometimes called a Notch Victim, is a person receiving Social Security payments who was born between Jan. 1, 1917 and Dec. 31, 1926.

It seems that in 1972 and 1977, when Congress approved changes in the Social Security system in an effort to preserve it, annual benefits were adjusted to conform with the cost of living.

Somehow, unintentionally, the Notch Baby group was shortchanged, and those in this age group continue today to receive proportionally smaller Social Security payments than citizens born before 1917 or after 1926.

This inequity eventually was brought to the attention of the Congress, and more than 100 of its members co-sponsored two bills introduced in 1999 designed to correct the discrepancy.

HR 538 - the Social Security Notch Act of 1999, sponsored by Rep. Bob Clement (D-Tenn.) and HR 120 - The Notch Baby Act of 1999, sponsored by Rep. Jo Ann Emerson (R-Mo.) address the problem in slightly different ways, but both are designed to compensate

Snow blocks all highways

From Wednesday morning until midnight Friday, workmen from the County Engineer's department battled the drifts with three snow plows, two "Trimmers" and a score of pick and shovel men. The Newark-Wilmington road was blocked until Thursday afternoon, while the Elkton-Newark division could not be cleared until late Friday night.

Roads near Glasgow, the new Newark-New Castle pike and practically all roads in Mill Creek hundred were badly drifted. It is estimated that over 10 inches of snow fell, although drifting took place principally after the fall.

Third Defeat For Oak Grove School Bonding

For the third time in two years, the voters of the Oak Grove district between Newark and Wilmington, on Saturday overwhelmingly defeated a proposal to bond said district for $50,000 for additional school room and improvements.

It is a question said to involve many phases, but is generally believed to be the only way the district can meet the expense of additional quarters for the children.

The $50,000 was to have been added to the present structure.

County digs out after blizzard

With temperatures predicted to average above freezing and heavy rainfall in the extended forecast, the troubles may not be over for Newark-area residents digging out from under the third largest snowfall in the state's history.

A storm a total of 16.5 inches of snow on the county before stopping around 2 p.m. Monday. Winds hitting a maximum speed of 36 m.p.h. caused drifts between three and five feet high, said a spokesman for the National Weather Service at the Greater Wilmington Airport.

City-County reach accord

Newark and New Castle County officials have reached a tentative agreement on a new method of billing city residents for sewer service.

The agreement calls for Newark residents to be billed for water consumption beginning July 1979, according to sources close to the agreement.

The agreement also provides that the county give the city $150,000 credit for sewer service from January 1 to June 30 of this State towers disputed

Residents and city officials will have an opportunity next week to voice concerns and gather information about the state's proposal to erect nine telecommunications towers averaging 250-feet in height throughout New Castle County.

In response to questions from Newark city council members and area residents about a proposed 275-foot tower in Newark, a public hearing is scheduled on Tuesday, Feb. 20, at Glasgow High School.

Christina school gets new name

The Christina District School Board has voted to change the Christiana-Salem Elementary School to the Albert H. Jones Elementary School effective July 1, 1996.

PER CHANCE

Time is overdue for correcting an injustice

those citizens who have been underpaid for nearly three decades.

Michael Zabko, executive director of TREA Senior Citizens League, recently stated that many of those born in the Notch years receive as much as $200 less in monthly benefits than others with a comparable work history.

His organization has been a leading advocate for improved benefits for Notch Babies and has gathered more than one and a half million signatures in support of Notch reform.

The two bills introduced suggest such options as four annual payments of $1,250, one lump sum payment of $5,000, or a monthly increase in individual Social Security payments based on personal work history and age.

The sum required to correct this inequity is not large by comparison with other Federal Government outlays, and no one seems to deny that an inequity in benefits has existed and continues to this day.

In fact, the number of potential beneficiaries, all at least 70 years of age, declines with every passing day.

It is this fact, more than any other, that jeopardizes the cause of the Notch Babies. As we are painfully aware, Congress is more likely to be moved to action by massive voter power than by the virtue of a specific cause.

Few deny that the Notch Babies have been unfairly penalized, but their voting power is negligible and waning.

Those affected must hope that Congress will step up and correct the flaw its actions inadvertently created. Perhaps what individual elected officials need is the familiar reminder of radio-television Dr. Laura Schlesinger, "Now go do the right thing!"

The author, when not on the golf course, can be heard each fall as the familiar voice announcing University of Delaware home football games, a job he has done for four decades. Chance is a longtime Newark resident.

Summer is just around the corner

With the warm weather we've been having recently, many parents are beginning to think of summer. Kids look forward to three months off from school, but parents wonder where they can find safe, quality activities for their kids during those times when one or both parents can't be home.

Camp to the rescue! There are several overnight and day camp experiences offered in the Newark and tri-State area. If you haven't had a child in camp before, you'll be pleasantly surprised. There are camps for every conceivable interest, from archeology to music to sports. Many of these camps are very reasonably priced. The 4-H day camps cost only $90 per week, which is typically less than day care.

Most camp providers today realize that parents are pretty sophisticated about choosing camps for their children. Gone are the days when any camp would do as long as kids were safe. Today's camps offer activities that are challenging as well as fun. As you look through all the offerings in the newspaper as well as the notices that come through the mail, there are a few things you ought to consider before you make your choices.

First, consider the interests of your child. There is no point in sending a child to a sports camp just because it's close and you can car pool with the neighbors. If your child doesn't like sports, he or she won't enjoy basketball camp. Kids are pretty flexible, but one major consideration they'll have is whether or not any of their friends are going to the same camp. That's why it's a good idea to talk to other parents and plan

Tammy Butler, a former welfare recipient, started her own nail business in shops in Wilmington and on Route 40 in Bear.

Tammy Butler "made a determination" in her mind and used her "strong faith basis" to change her life forever.

She was a welfare recipient and decided that the system was no help to her in changing her situation and achieving her dreams and goals. She made a decision to stop being on welfare and Butler now owns two nail salons, one in ing in the welfare program and for two years she made personal sacrifices, changed her living arrangements, her automobile situation and worked hard to raise money to open a nail salon.

For those two years, Butler worked in nail salons to learn different techniques from different people. She built up a clientele and learned about what it takes to open a business.

"I had to keep expenses down when opening my salon," Butler said. "I looked through magazines and saw nail between the other store and this is a constantly growing area."

She also wanted to help others with limited financial resources to achieve their dreams as well.

Butler searched for a program that would allow people to learn nail technology at no cost, but was not successful. She approached the office of Delaware Economic Development and worked with them to create a program.

"As a former welfare recipient, I wanted to find a program that would prepared for state board exams and become licensed nail technicians. Butler offers three classes in the day and three evening classes. An equivalent course would cost close to $800, Butler said.

"I teach the students more than just doing nails," Butler said. "I try to teach them not to get discouraged and feel like there is something they can't do. Hopefully, I can be an encouragement and some kind of an inspiration to them."

Butler sees herself continually pro-camp. That's why it's a good idea to talk to other parents and plan together ahead of time.

Second, keep in mind the schedule and financial constraints of your family. Day camps are a more affordable option for parents. They are also an excellent choice for busy families who are looking to engage their children in educational and fun activities during the summer months. Day camps that run for the entire summer will only charge per week of camp to accommodate family vacation

"I felt like I was being stereotyped as a welfare recipient. The programs being offered were not things that I needed to learn because I already had those skills," Butler said. "When I talked about my dreams and goals, no one put me in the right direction to accomplish them."

I had to keep expenses down when opening my salon," Butler said. "I looked through magazines and saw nail tables for $700. I bought office desks for $100 to serve the same purpose. I gave up a lot to open the salon, but it was worth it."

Butler opened her first shop in Wilmington in October 1998. She opened the Route 40 salon in September 2000. The salons specialize in hand-painted nail art, offer personalized service and use products that are not harmful to the nails, Butler said.

"I think this Route 40 spot is a great location for the second nail salon," Butler said. "It's a great medium

The Delaware Economic Development office listened to Butler's proposed program and budget and then supplied her with a grant to help pay for books and supplies for the classes. Butler contributes her time, the space and some materials for the class herself.

She would like to add massage and make-up services to her nail salons in the future. Butler seems to handle running two businesses and teaching classes with ease.

"I don't feel overwhelmed by the two salons and teaching because I have learned not to rely on my own strength, but to pray to God for strength," Butler said. "I feel like this is what I am supposed to be doing."

Dover has treasure in Biggs Museum of American Art

One of the better kept secrets in the Delaware art world is the Biggs Museum of American Art located on Federal Street in Dover. It is a private museum even though it is located in a state building. It occupies the upper two floors of the Delaware State Visitors Center at 406 Federal Street in the Historic District of our capital. Admission is free.

An exhibition is running now through March 25. It is interesting for a number of reasons and one of them is the bit of mystery that surrounds the paintings and the artist. Perhaps the best way to begin is my telling you the name of the show. It is "Did John Really Do It? Paintings Maybe by John Hesselius." It was such a refreshing title — since most curators will tell you how positive they are even when they are not — that I asked Biggs PR Director Mark Ellis more about it. He was ready for me!

We do know that John Hesselius was an important colonial artist and that he lived from 1728 to 1778. Mark explained, "The exhibition is being presented as a mystery 'whodunit'. Various 'sleuths' such as conservators, art historians and social historians will use the artist's documented and attributed works to show how the authorship of a painting is documented." It sounds like a lot of fun and will be of interest to art lovers and "detectives."

A series of programs has been scheduled throughout the exhibit. The first one was last night and was called "Who Are They and Where Did They Meet John?" The illustrated evening introduced the people pictured in the portraits and presented "clues" to help us solve the puzzle of "whodunit?"

The next is scheduled Feb. 21. It is called "Beyond the Magnifying Glass: Techniques in Analyzing and Conserving Paintings Maybe by John Hesselius." Richard Wolbers and Mark Bockwrath, scientists and conservators at the Winterthur Museum and Library, will explain the science behind the determination of a painting's authenticity.

On Feb. 28 the program is called "Clues in the Cloth: Another Look at Mid-18th Century Costume." In this program textile historian Deborah Kraak will focus on the sitters' clothing in discussing how to authenticate colonial-era paintings.

These programs are held at the Biggs Museum and begin at 7:30 p.m. Tickets for these special programs are $3 for adults and $1 for full-time students with proper ID. The picture with my column today is, I think, a particularly exquisite one. I'll even go out on a limb and tell you it IS a John Hesselius! (You have to go to the programs to discover if I am right or wrong.) It is a portrait of Anna Dorothea Finney painted around 1759. To me this is the archetypal colonial portrait.

There are many paintings in the current exhibition at the Biggs Museum, and it is well worth the quick trip from Newark to Dover via Route 1. The museum is open Wednesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sunday from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

As with fine art museums everywhere, there is more than the major exhibition running at the same time. There are some fine paintings on loan from the New Castle County Historical Society and the Winterthur Museum. Plan to take your time and enjoy your visit.

If you are not familiar with our capital city, may I suggest a walk around to some of the other interesting and historic buildings close to the Biggs Museum? Legislative Hall is always an interesting stop whether the Delaware legislature is in session or not.

If your visit is during the lunch hour, the Biggs is offering a series of free programs on many interesting topics related to American art just about every day. They all begin at 12:30 p.m.

Here is a look at just next week's list of programs. On Feb. 21, Meet Colonial Dover Resident Vincent Loockerman; on the 22nd, Meet George Washington on the First President's Birthday; on the 23rd, Meeting Wilson Irvine on the Artist's Birthday and on March 1, Meet Anna Dorothea Finney, subject of the picture with my column today.

schedules. In addition, camps that are run from facilities like community centers and schools will often times offer before and after care. There are also opportunities for financial assistance from youth-serving organizations that run day camps like 4-H, YMCA, YWCA, and Boys and Girls Clubs. Several of these organizations also run overnight camps located in Delaware and the surrounding area. Overnight camps are a great opportunity for youth who are ready to strike out on their own for a week or so and engage in outdoor activities like canoeing and hiking.

The Newark area is blessed with a wide variety of camp offerings in the summer. There are plenty of camps to go around, but it's important to plan ahead to get your child into the camp that you want. Most camps have a limit on the campers they can take, and popular camps do fill up quickly.

There are many places to find out about camps. A few phone calls will do wonders, but the Sunday paper does print a pretty comprehensive listing of summer camps. Don't delay or you'll regret it. Summer camps can make or break a child's summer. So make your choices now.

Caravel girls look tough

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

For most of this girls basketball season it appeared there were five or six teams that were capable of winning the state championship. Caravel, however, has nosed ahead of the rest.

The Bucs have won 11 straight games, have not lost to anybody in state and have knocked off Glasgow, Alexis I. DuPont and Ursuline in the last two weeks. They clearly look like the team to beat.

Making Caravel's case even stronger is that in those three recent games, two were blowouts. Only the Glasgow game was close.

The Dragons, though, were hurt severely by the close of the recent marking period. The team lost five players including leading scorer Markeeda Hollingsworth.

That will make Glasgow's chore a lot tougher.

Hodgson wins Division II wrestling championship

Silver Eagles capture fifth straight title

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Hodgson Vo-Tech became the first school ever to win five straight team wrestling championships by knocking off Lake Forest 45-18 Wednesday night at Delaware State University.

The Silver Eagles, after whipping Middletown 51-7 in the semifinals, dominated the championship by winning nine of the 13 bouts against the Spartans.

Brian Welch, Jordan Sianni, Mark Boulden and Joe Cylc all recorded pins for Hodgson while Kevin Woodland, Mike Welch and Tyler Smith all won by technical fall.

Ryan McLaughlin and Larry Cylc each won by decision.

"This team just kept getting better as the year went on," said Hodgson coach Jerry Lamey. "They kept working hard all year; we wrestled strong competion and I think that helped us as well.

"This was a team that had to work hard. We lost eight starters from last year's team. We knew we'd have to work to get better and that's just what these guys did."

Hodgson finished its season with a 14-2 record.

The Silver Eagles will compete in the Blue Hen Conference championships this weekend at Newark High.

The top six place finishers in the tournament will advance to the Individual State Championships in Dover next

Caravel girls win another big game

Bucs romp past A.I.

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Anybody wondering if the Caravel Academy girls' basketball team was for real or not, can stop right now.

The top-ranked Bucs (14-5) blasted third-ranked Alexis I. DuPont 65-38 Saturday night in a game that wasn't even as the score indicated. It was Caravel's 10th straight victory.

Davineia Payne led the way with 29 points as Caravel dominated the game from the outset. The Bucs' defense, as it was a tougher.

Caravel wins with a great mix of talent and strong fundamentals.

They play great team defense with their perimeter players constantly badgering opposing guards. If the opposition does get the ball down low, Tiara Malcom (Caravel's 6-1 center) is there to alter or block shots. Davinea Payne is a force on both ends of the court inside. She's a fine defensive player, a good rebounder and has the ability to score as well.

That's not to say the Bucs will definitely win a state title. It certainly won't be easy.

St. Mark's, Padua, Ursuline, Glasgow and A.I. are all teams that could beat anybody on a good night in the tournament.

Caravel, though, appears to be playing better than all of them as the regular season winds down.

Wrestling blitz

Get ready for a big week of wrestling.

Wednesday night saw the Division I and II dual meet champions crowned. Hodgson racked up its fifth straight Division II crown while Caesar Rodney broke William Penn and St. Mark's stranglehold on the Division title.

Now it's time to work on crowning individual state champs.

The Blue Hen, Henlopen and Independent qualifying tournaments will be held this weekend. The top six from the Blue Hen and Henlopen conferences will advance to the state tournament as will the top four from the Independents.

The state tournament will be held next Friday and Saturday at Delaware State University.

nated the game from the outset. The Bucs' defense, as it was a week earlier against previously top-ranked Glasgow, was the difference in the game — especially early.

The high-scoring Tigers were limited to just four points in the first quarter and trailed 25-12 at halftime.

"We have been playing good defense lately," said Caravel coach Joe Pennell. "I think the kids have taken pride in playing good defense. A.I.'s a good offensive team and to hold them 12 points in the first half is to be commended."

Led by Payne, Caravel broke the game open in the second quarter. The Bucs led 9-4 at the end of the first quarter, but Payne scored Caravel's next 12 points as the lead grew to 23-9.

The Bucs displayed how strong they are fundamentally throughout the contest.

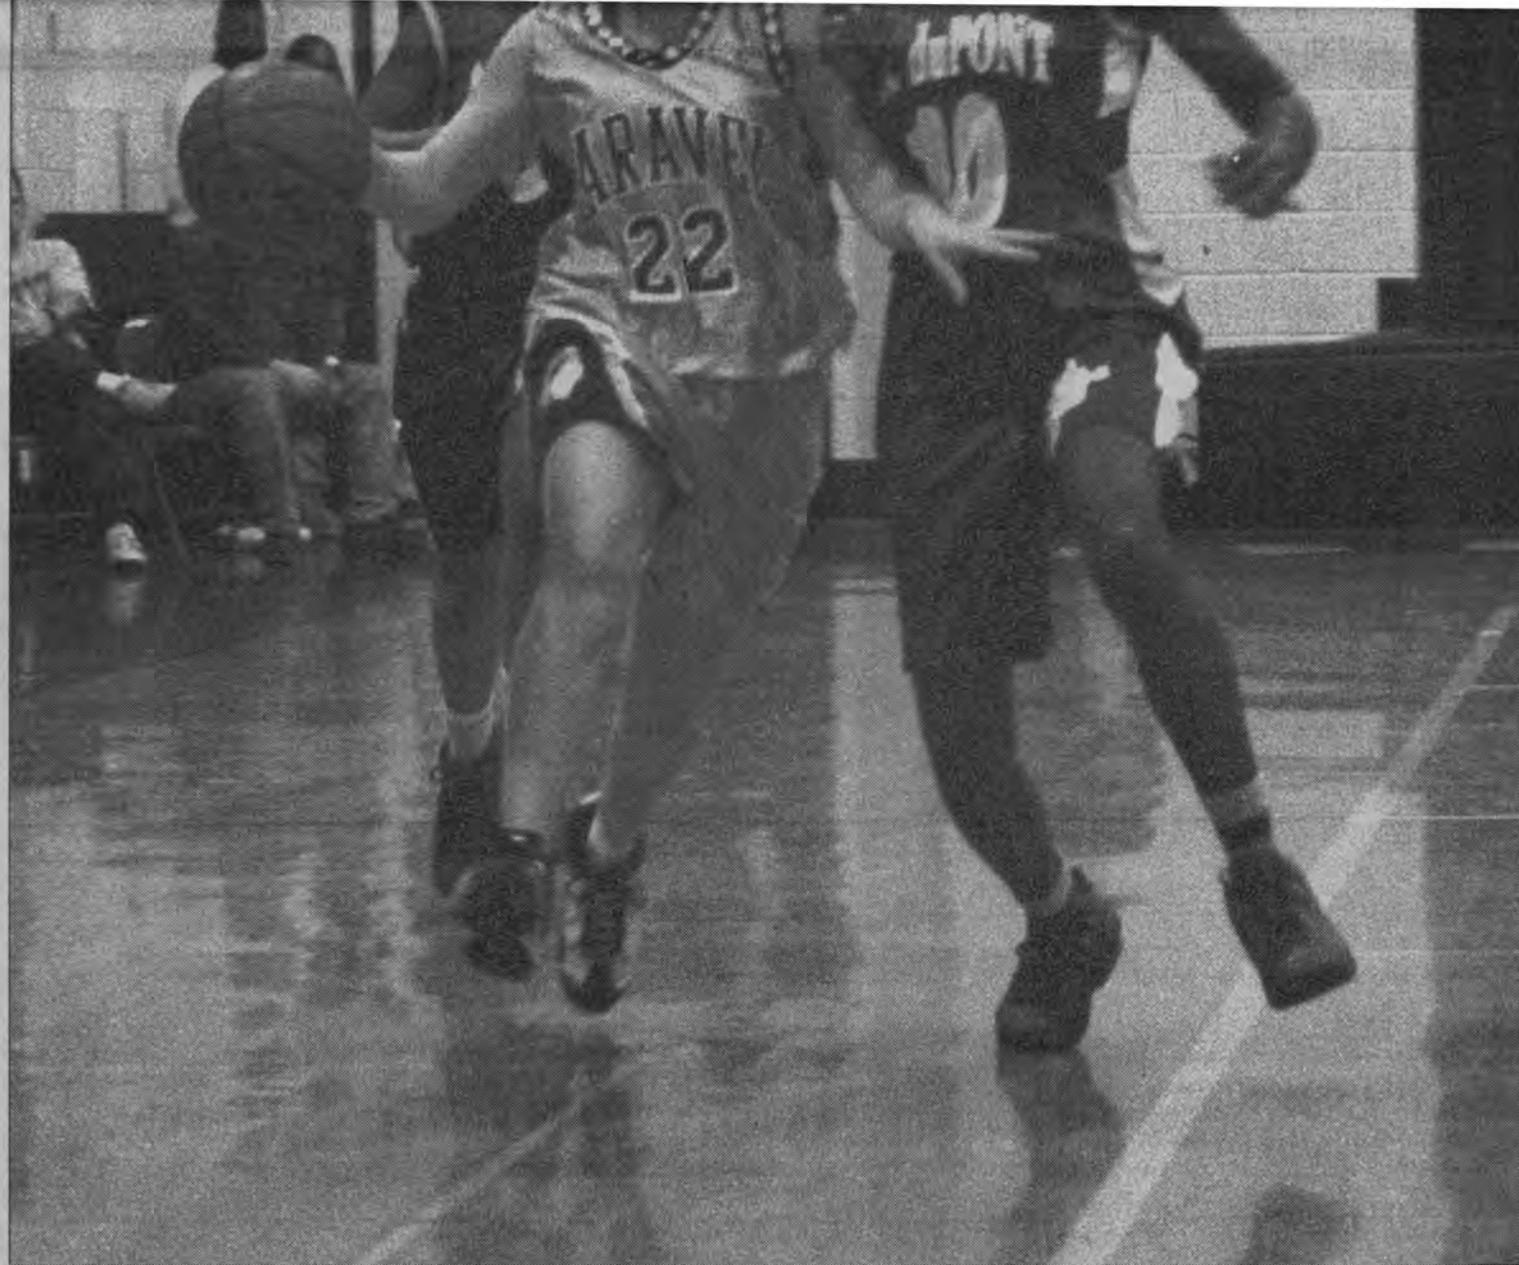

Caravel's precision passing easily broke A.I.'s full-court pressure early in the game, forcing the Tigers to fall back on defense. The Bucs also connected on 22 of their first 24 free throws and ended the game making 23 of 28.

Defensively, Caravel's guards put pressure on the A.I. perimeter players and inside players Tiara Malcom and Payne made life difficult for the Tigers players.

"We've really spent a lot of time working on defense in practice," said Payne, a junior forward. "The coaches have really been stressing defense and it's working for us."

Bonnie Mills scored 10 points for Caravel while Malcom added 9 points.

Christiana's fourth-quarter rally falls short

Delcastle holds off Vikings

By JOE BACKER

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Christiana High's boys basketball team played a ferocious fourth quarter, but came up short in a 64-51 loss to Blue Hen Conference Flight A rival Delcastle Technical High School Tuesday night on the Vikings home court.

Trailing 46-23 after three quarters, the Vikings went into a tenacious press and caused numerous turnovers and errant passes. Omal Olgesby found the range, and popped in several baskets and free throws during Christiana's 19-3 run midway through the fourth quarter. Chris Jenkins also tallied six points during crunch time for Christiana.

Delcastle's J. B. Surratte led all scorers with 22 points. Teammate Lloyd Price chipped in with 11 points, while Jarron Watson, Carl Napier and Hansil Wilson each added seven points each for the Cougars, now 6-14 overall and 3-9 in conference.

The Vikings' Brian Greene

totalled 11 points on the night. He was helped on offense by Olgesby with 10, Jenkins with 9, Eddie Royal with 8 and Willie Milem with 6 points.

Christiana coach Ron Hollis said he was very proud of his team, even in defeat.

"We played hard and we never quit, and we were down by as many as 25 points in the game, and nobody quit," he said.

The Cougars came out firing on offense, hitting a three, then running to a 9-2 lead. Delcastle's coach said it was Surratte's night to shine. "We try to have balanced scoring, but J.B. (Surratte) has the hot hand, so we ran some plays to set him up," he said. "On any given night, any one of our players will step up and take the lead," he said.

Delcastle continued its hot shooting, forging an eight-point lead after the first eight minutes, and then building a 29-13 lead at the half. The Cougar coach said defense is a trademark of this year's team. "We don't shoot the ball as well as we should, so we have to play a tough defense every night," he said.

Christiana's coach said the team's record, 5-15 overall and 1-12 in conference, doesn't indicate the good effort he's received from his young players. "We don't have any returning players from last year's team, but they've worked very hard in probably the toughest conference in the state," he said. "There's no losers on this team."

Look for a young, but experienced Christiana Vikings team to show marked improvement next season.

Delcastle still has an outside shot of making this year's state tournament, but must win-out in its last two games against Brandywine and Charter.

Blue Hen men sweep through Boston

Senior guard Billy Wells scored 16 points and made four three-point shots to help lead the University of Delaware men's basketball team to a 75-55 victory over Boston University Saturday afternoon in Boston.

Ryan Iversen came off the bench to score 13 points for the Hens.

After leading 15-13 eight minutes into the game, the Blue Hens went on a 17-4 run to go ahead 32-17 with seven minutes remaining in the first half. Austen Rowland keyed the urn by nailing two three-pointers in that stretch, and the sophomore guard hit all three of his attempts from behind the arc in the first half, breaking out of a 1-for-17 slump from behind the three-point line.

"We had a sharp practice yesterday, and it carried over," said Delaware coach David Henderson. "Ajmal [Basit] has had foul trouble all year, and someone different always seems to step up. We showed a lot of character coming back from last weekend. We played great defense against Northeastern when the offense lacked some.

However, we put it all together."

The Hens won easily despite their leading scorer, center Ajmal Basit, not attempting a shot from the field and finishing with a season-low four points. Delaware attempted just 46 shots for the game and hit only seven from the field in the second half, but kept the Terriers at bay by hitting 14-of-26 free throws in the second half.

Despite their winning streak and top ranking, Caravel is taking nothing for granted.

"I've been around for a long enough time to know that just one bad day in the tournament can make all our hard work go to waste," said Pennell, who is in his fifth year at Caravel. "I really believe there are six or seven teams that are good enough to win the state tournament. If we don't play well, we can get knocked off."

ties 189 for St. Mark's, wrestled Hicks instead of usual Spartan heavyweight Nick Meyer.

"I made a mistake," said St. Marks coach Steve Bastianelli. "I apologize to my team. I should've just let the wrestlers decide it instead of getting into it. I made a decision that I thought was best. But I made a mistake."

The Spartans, who won seven of the 13 bouts, built a 27-9 lead through the 152-pound weight class. Back-to-back pins by the Riders, however, closed the gap to 27-21. St. Mark's then forfeited the 189-pound bout to CR's Tony Harris, who entered the match with a 28-2 record.

Ashton, instead of wrestling Harris at 189, took the mat to battle Hicks at heavyweight. Hicks' weight advantage turned out to be too much for Ashton to overcome.

Caesar Rodney took a 6-0 lead after a pin at 103, but St. Mark's won seven of the next eight bouts to build the 27-9 lead.

Bobby Shaw decided CR's Chris Parker 7-4 at 112 in a rematch of last year's state championship match that Parker won 5-3.

Brian Collins then won a 13-4 major decision at 119 to give St. Mark's a 7-6 lead. Pat Atkinson followed with a 14-3 major decision at 125 to improve the Spartans' lead to 11-6.

Chris Collins won another major decision (15-4) at 130 to stretch the gap to 15-6. At 135, Kyle Skinner continued the St. Mark's win streak with a 2-0 decision to give the Spartans an 18-6 lead.

In a battle of two of the state's best at 140, Joe Ferrara edged CR's Dwayne Graham 3-2. Ferrara won the state title at 135 last year while Graham was a runner-up at 140.

CR's Steve Crew broke the Spartans' streak with a 10-6 victory over Tyler Bastianelli at 145 but state champ Andrew Donofrio earned a 27-second pin at 152 to push the lead to 27-9.

CR's Brian Rigby earned a fall at 160 to cut the lead to 27-15 and Brian Palmer pinned Brian Willis at 171 to make the score 27-21 St. Mark's.

To get to the final, St. Mark's avenged its regular season loss to William Penn with a 33-16 victory in the semifinals. The win ended a three-match losing streak to the Colonials and advanced the Spartans to their seventh straight appearance in the championship match. The loss ended the Colonials' 29-match win streak.

"They knew they didn't wrestle the way they had to,"

Bastianelli said of his team's first performance against William Penn. "Their match preparedness was a lot better this time around."

Ashton sealed the victory for St. Mark's with a pin in 1:16 over William Penn's Ray Calloway at 189.

After William Penn's Matt Weber earned a fall at 103 to give the Colonials a 6-0 lead, St. Mark's won the next four matches to build a 13-6 lead.

Adam Hawkinson won a 9-8 decision at 112 over J.C. Crooks at 112 and then Bobby Shaw followed with an 8-3 win over Ken Krygier at 119.

Pat Atkinson then won a 16-4 major decision over Nick Teoli at 125. Chris Collins followed with a 10-6 decision over Harry Kettner at 130.

Shawn Taylor got William Penn back on the board with an 11-0 victory over Ed Sheridan at 135. Joe Ferrara earned a tech fall at 140 to put St. Mark's ahead 18-10 and Andrew Donofrio followed at 145 with a 6-0 decision over James Fromal to improve the Spartans' lead to 21-10.

William Penn's Dustin Craighton answered with a come-from-behind 9-8 victory over A.J. Cessario at 152 to cut the Spartans' lead to 21-13. Matt Axe won at 160 for the Spartans, increasing their lead to 24-13 heading into the final three weight classes.

William Penn's Brian Kevin Burnett decided St. Mark's Brian Willis at 171 to cut the lead to 24-16. At heavyweight, Nick Meyer avenged a loss to William Penn's Eugene Mercante with a 4-2 decision.

St. Mark's reversed decisions in four weight classes including 130 where Chris Collins, who was pinned in the regular season match, earned a 10-6 victory. In addition to the heavyweight bout, the Spartans also reversed 119 where they bumped up Bobby Shaw and 160 where Axe moved up from the junior varsity.

"Matt Axe did a great job," Bastianelli said. "Not only against William Penn, but in both matches."

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

DAVINEIA PAYNE - CARAVEL

Davineia Payne is a big reason the Caravel Academy girls' basketball team has stamped itself as a front-runner for the state championship.

Payne, a junior forward, scored 29 points Saturday night to help the Bucs to a 65-38 victory over third-ranked Alexis I. duPont. Payne was also a solid contributor in Caravel's big win over Ursuline Monday.

In addition to A.I. and Ursuline, Caravel owns a win over Glasgow in the past two weeks as well.

"She does a lot of things well," said Caravel coach Joe Pennell of Payne. "She'll break the 1,000 point barrier before the state tournament starts. She rebounds well, passes well and we always push her on the player on the other team that we fear the most."

Against A.I., this was All-Stater Monica Thompson. Payne limited Thompson to just 10 points in the game.

"Even when Davineia is not scoring, she doesn't let that affect the rest of her game," Pennell said. "She does so many things well."

"We've spent a lot of time on defense in practice," Payne said. "The coaches have stressed it more and we've played better the last few games."

Sea Foam

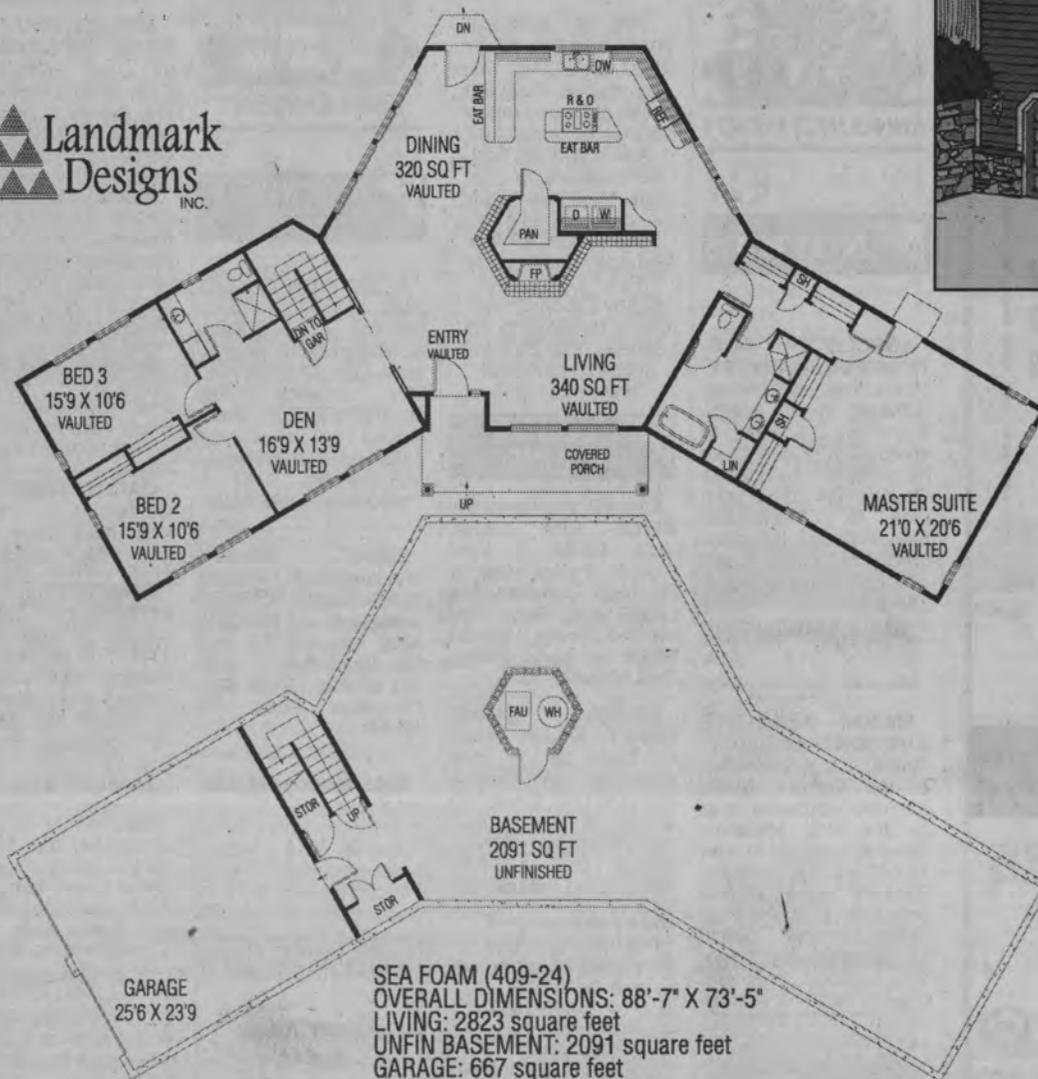

The Sea Foam has windows on all sides for enjoying the views of the ocean, the mountains, or the valleys. The unique wing shape of this beautiful home has excellent appeal both outside and inside.

Up onto a covered porch, the entry into the Sea Foam brings the full openness of the main great room into view. The rooms have been vaulted to provide an even more spacious appearance. The living room is on the right and has a fireplace located in the center of the room.

The master suite is housed in the right wing of the home. Lots of planning has gone into the design of the master suite. Entering into a hall area, there are two closets with shelves between for "his" closets. A private master bath with many amenities such as a large corner shower, dual sinks, a huge corner linen closet, and a tub can also be accessible for use by guests. The main suite area has "her" closets with shelves between and a door that opens to the back yard.

The rear portion is dedicated to the kitchen and open to rest of the home. A long cabinet/counter runs across the back wall with a large window over the sink. The island in the center has a range and oven with an eating bar on the backside. Another eating bar faces the vaulted dining room. An enormous pantry, ideal for storing appliances as well as food, is in the center hub as well as the washer and dryer.

The dining room is lined with windows that overlook the view to the rear. The left wing, off the dining area, contains a vaulted den behind pocket doors and full bath with shower. Through the den are the two bedrooms, each with numerous windows and wall closets.

The huge unfinished basement on the Sea Foam is 2,091 square feet. It has a central room that contains the water heater and the forced air unit. Surrounding the stairwell are extra storage areas and a door leading to the two-car garage. This area would provide excellent space for an entertainment room, a poolroom, a playroom for the kids, or a huge recreation/family room for the whole family.

For a study plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, sections, and an artist rendering, send $24.95 to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Road East, Cottage Grove, OR 97424. Please specify plan name and the number (409-24). A catalog featuring hundreds of home plans is available for $14.95, or save by ordering both for $29.95.
