UGITIVE Brian Peterson, wanted on a charge of murder for the death of a infant found in a motel dumpster in Newark, surrendered amid taunts of 'baby killer" at FBI headquarters in Wilmington yesterday morning.

Peterson, accompanied by his mother and attorney, arrived and walked through a crowd of over 100 reporters and onlookers only after repeated attempts by Delaware authorities and the FBI to locate him.

He was immediately taken to Newark Police station where he was formally charged with first degree murder. Following arraignment in Magistrate's Court, Peterson was placed in Gander Hill Prison in Wilmington.

Peterson's girlfriend, 18-year-old Amy Grossberg, was arrested and charged on Monday with first degree murder in the death of their infant son. Grossberg is being held in the Baylor Women's Correctional Institution near New Castle.

State Attorney General Jane Brady, has already indicated that the state will seek the death penalty in the case in which both Grossberg and Peterson allegedly admitted in separate statements that Peterson put the newborn in a plastic bag and placed him in a trash dumpster behind the Comfort Inn.

A medical examiner's report revealed that the 6 pound, 2 ounce baby died of multiple skull fractures with injury to the brain due to blunt force head trauma and shaking.

Chief William Hogan said on Monday that the Newark police would not release any information about what might have caused the baby's head injury.

The death of the infant was uncovered when Grossberg was taken from her University of Delaware dorm room to Christiana Medical Center on the evening of Nov. 12 with excessive bleeding. An examination showed that she had recently given birth.

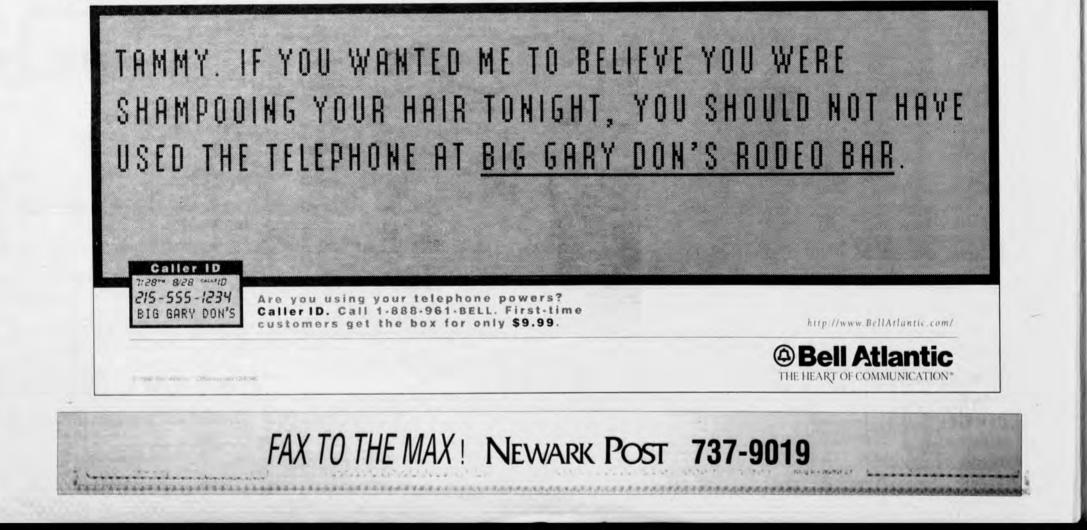

Newark police found the dead baby in the dumpster in the early morning hours of Nov. 13. "Based on my observation, the deceased infant had the appearance of a full term child," said Hogan, who declined to comment on whether the baby's birth was induced.

Peterson, a student at the University of Gettysburg, had been in hiding since shortly after the discovery of the body. According to his attorney, Joseph A. Hurley, the family wanted time for the 18-year-old to come to terms with the murder charge and the possibility of the death penalty.

Warrants were issued for both teens on Saturday and Peterson's name was immediately placed on the National Crime Information Computer, according to Hogan.

The FBI was notified of his fugitive status on Tuesday after police were unable to locate Peterson or arrange his surrender.

NEWARK POST * IN THE NEWS Missing teen found

New Castle County police located have eighthan grade student from Gauger-Cobbs Middle School in Newark first reported missing this week.

Kimberly McElroy According to Detective Rand Townley, Kimberly Eva McElroy, 14, was located at the Glen Motel on Route 40 in Bear around 8 p.m. on Wednesday after he received an anonymous tip. Townley said McElroy, who did not appear to have been harmed or exploited in any way, has already been placed in a foster

McElroy's father, a truckdriver, could not be reached until Thursday morning around 9:15 a.m. to be advised of the recovery of his daughter. According to police, he did not not inquire as to her whereabouts. Her mother is deceased.

Three adults found at the motel with McElroy have been arrested on charges of endangering the welfare of a minor and harboring a runaway. Charged were Jason A. White, 21, and Jennifer L. Armstrong, 19, who listed their address as the motel. Also charged was Daniel Rackowski Jr., 22, of New Castle

Townley said McElroy had been using her father's checkbook while she stayed with the three adults and further charges were possible.

Concealed gun arrest outside city hall

Newark Police station overnight on Wednesday were alarmed by a man who was observed transferring a gun from his bag to his jacket pocket.

Reporters told police that the suspect had been walking around and talking to news crews prior to the incident. Police charged David R. Helwig, News reporters camped out at the 49, of Newark with carrying a concealed deadly weapon. It was not known at press time what Helwig intended to do with the weapon.

A horde of electronic and national media reporters were waiting for the latest information in the case of a baby found dead in a motel dumpster outside the Elkton Rd. facility.

Budget includes proposed property tax rate decrease

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

A record budget of over $19.7 million for the city of Newark is calculated to meet the growing demands of the local community and the University of Delaware for city services.

NEWARK POST * IN THE NEWS

Citing new development on Main Street and the emergence of the university as a national teaching and research center, city manager Carl Luft outlined the proposed steps needed to meet the increased service needs of a "maturing" community. "The 1997 budget takes two pri-

"The 1997 budget takes two primary directions to meet the demands of this emerging maturity, redevelopment, focus – whatever you choose to call it," said Luft. "One is an increase in personnel staffing, and the other is a major jump in capital investments."

Three new full-time positions added to the city staff include a refuse driver/collector, a property maintenance inspector and one new police officer. "This is still four less than the full-time roster in 1990," noted Luft.

A seventh refuse collection route is being added to the existing six to serve residential customers. Luft said the property maintenance and police positions were aimed to help enforce regulations in rental property neighborhoods.

Two new temporary seasonal positions are recommended for electric grounds maintenance and parks horticulture to assist during the summer construction season and maintain city parklands acquired in recent years.

Luft said the salaries for these seasonal positions were "more than offset" by the deletion of two other existing part-time jobs.

Among the items pushing the 73.3 percent increase in the capital improvements budget over 1996 are $578,000 for new drainage and an asphalt surface at the maintenance complex on Phillips Avenue, a new truck storage shed, a heavy equipment hydraulic lift in the city repair garage, extension of the city electric system, funds for the regional water reservoir study, a new refuse collection sideloader, startup of the annual curb maintenance program, the city's portion of installation of a statewide 800megahertz radio system, and replacement of office chairs in city hall.

"Some of the chairs are really in bad shape," explained Luft. "The last time they were replaced was in 1974."

Additional revenues for the budget will come largely from increased utility income, investment interest, and surplus funds. According to Luft, at least two new industrial customers at the Interstate Business Park as well as expansion by existing high volume users will contribute to the utility revenues.

A highlight of the operating budget is the proposed elimination of the five percent discount for early payment of property taxes originally implemented to increase cash flow into the city treasury.

The use of mortgage escrows of taxes and a growing number of early payers as well as confusion between city and county tax deadlines led the city officials to review the policy.

In conjunction with approval of the budget for $19,761,200, city council is considering elimination of the discount and a 2-cent decrease in the overall property tax rate at the next meeting. "This change will generate the same amount of property tax revenue as the current year (from existing customers)," said Luft.

Copies of the budget are available for inspection by the public in the finance department at the municipal building on Elkton Road, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Budget up, taxes down

COMETHING UNUSUAL in should result in the same property government took place in the Chambers of the Newark City Council on Nov. 11. A record-setting city budget of $19.7 million was approved almost routinely. But noteworthy was the 2-cent tax decrease (not a typographical or editing error) proposed at the same time.

This tax cut is made possible by the elimination of the five percent calls for four less full-time city tax prepayment discount and the city's sound fiscal management.

In a different financial climate, the city offered the discount to help keep a smooth flow of cash into Newark's coffers. But, today, the situation is different and escrowed tax monies are paid on, but not ahead of time.

ORKING in the Newark Post offices in the strikingly ugly Robscott Building is fun. I'm the boss and we all know that supervisors sometimes perceive the mental health of coworkers a bit differently from reality.

Because we work so hard to keep our opinions out of the newspaper, in the office our takes on local stories, unusual happenings and issues of all

Sensational: Here's to Blue Hen football

EY THERE, Blue Hen fans, you leather-lunged residents of the 50-yard-line seats, how did you like your season?

It was yours, you know, because this was the year Coach Tubby Raymond called it your way, removing the restraints from the quarterback's Chance arm, establishing a wide-open passing attack, and launching bombs all over the playing field.

It was great, wasn't it? How about those sensational catches by Courtney Batts and Eddie Conti, the premiere receivers in the Yankee Conference. And then there was that final game surprise when Offensive Coordinator Teddy Kempski discovered that the tight end is an eligible receiver and let Leo Hamlett toss a couple of scoring passes to Chuck Blessing.

Yes, it was a fine season. The defensive unit was among the most capable in recent years, but best of all were all those balls in the air. Who said grass basketball isn't fun? That's what everyone has been longing to see-another Brigham Young or Miami in Blue and Gold togs-not that stodgy, outmoded; up-the-middle stuff that we've been seeing for ... let's interested. Weeklies like the Newark Post are often scooped by the electronic media and the daily press. So, when we have the opportunity to roll up our sleeves, hustle our butts off, and develop meaty information that will excite readers, all in the final moments before our "drop dead" deadlines, we get pumped.

Since I began working full-time in this business back in 1971, there's never been a week like the last.

Covering tragedies, fire deaths, murders, suicides and bloody car wrecks is always difficult. But like peace officers and rescue personnel, we make it through. Back in the newsroom – challenged with working many, gory, ugly, depressing facts into a story that the readers will appreciate – reporters muster the stamina to do their work. And, when the job is done, often humor or a prayer of thankfulness ("that could have happened to me or someone I love!") relieves us to move onto the next project.

But there was no joy in Mudville last week.

Again, we reported on the alleged rape at Newark High School and attempted, once again, to clear the air about misleading stories in the News Journal that claim a cover-up by school officials.

The story of the university student killed by a tractor-trailer had to be researched and written.

We covered the death of a 71-year-old Newark man who succumbed in a house fire. And we covered the needless death of a baby, thrown into a College Avenue motel dumpster apparently just minutes after it was born to its two university student parents.

There were no jokes in the newsroom last week, but there were tears.

The computer keyboards were still as we listened to our reporter choke with emotion as she related the statements of the two students as they appeared in court documents. The only responses were soft exclamations like "incredible" and "unbelievable."

WHOM: MERCING! SPECIAL

Our collective roomful of journalists thought we had seen and heard it all, but suddenly, like you, we were stunned. We sat quiet in disbelief.

Not for the sake of humor or relief this time, again we questioned.

We shared your wonder how two intelligent people – smart enough to make it into college – could do something so contrary to human nature.

How could anyone discard a newborn into a dumpster?

With all the options available today, how could these two people make such devastatingly bad decisions?

What thoughts went through the father's mind as he drove back that night to his Gettysburg, Pa., college?

Why not simply give the baby up for adoption?

I suspect each of us in the office, most of whom have held a newborn infant in our arms, thought of the baby's few short hours on this earth and how they were spent.

Given a bad situation (the pregnancy), how could these two have made decisions that, simply put, transformed this unfortunate but not all that uncommon situation into the worst it could possibly become?

I have a freshman daughter at the University of Delaware and could not help putting myself in the place of the maternal grandpparents. How could they forgive their daughter? Though they bear no responsibility in this senseless incident, I suspect it would be difficult, as the girl's parents, not to ask, "Where did we go wrong? How could a child of ours do this unspeakable thing?"

How did two degree candidates suddenly become candidates for death row?

In the coming days and months, the details of this incident will surface. They might give us a clearer insight into the events that led to this tragedy. But no information can ever justify how intelligent young adults thought they could "solve" their problem as they did. And, in this case, no humor can help.

This year's team played a hard-nosed game

hard-nosed running game? The aerial bombardment had its deficiencies?

Let me suggest some of the reasons most knowledgeable Delaware football fans found this successful 1996 season an overall disappointment. First of all, as many fans were heard to say as the season progressed, "This just doesn't look like a Delaware football team."

So the point of the observations that follow is not to demean a team that played hard and represented the University of Delaware well. Instead, it is to point up the weaknesses this team and the coaching staff overcame to compile an 8-3 record that is far better than might have been expected.

The seven teams of the 1990s all have posted winning seasons totaling 62 victories, 22 losses and one tie. And these teams, despite the presence of able quarterbacks and sure-handed receivers, relied on strong running as their offensive base. In addition to quarterbacks Bill Vergantino, Dale Fry, Keith Langan and Leo Hamlett, the Hens received strong performances from Daryl Brantley, Jim Lazarski, Lanue Johnson, Anthony Ventresca, Marcus Lewis, Daryl Brown, Pat Williams, Kai Hebron and Coleman. Norman All Conference linemen Curt Chastain, Tom Bockius, Steve Archibald and Shannon Trostle blasted the holes through which these backs sped.

But the offensive output in 1996 dipped alarmingly. For the first time in as many years as most fans can remember, the total passing yards for the season, 1,976, exceeded the yards gained rushing, 1,598. This 1996 team obviously depended on throwing the ball, but despite its apparent success, the 1992, 1993 and 1995 teams all had more passing yards and more than double the rushing yardage. The big-play passing offense also produced fewer points, 279, than any team since the 6-5 team of 1990. The inability of the offense to drive the ball. uncharacteristic totally Delaware teams, placed a heavy burden on the defensive team, which spent more than half of the game on the field six times during the 11-game season.

Every prior Blue Hen team of the '90s averaged more than 400 yards per game in total offense, and always gained more on the ground than through the air. The 324.9 yards per game amassed by the 1996 team contrasts sharply with last year 's 441.2 as does its scoring average of 25.4 points per game. The last five teams all averaged 32 per game or better. This year's total looks even more anemic when we recall that 30 points were scored by defensive players on interception returns or blocked kicks.

What's the purpose of this statistical survey? It simply supports my suggestion that Tubby Raymond and his staff once again deserve our admiration for providing top-flight, winning performances every fall for 31 seasons. This year, perhaps more than ever before, they had to dip deep into their bag of tricks to keep that record intact.

Variety of languages should be taught

TREAD with interest the controversy that a foreign language taught in elementary school be mandatory. Fine, but let's learn English first. Implement other languages about age 10 and have a variety of choices -Native American Indian, French, Italian, Spanish, etc. Not mandatory Spanish; who are we catering to? This opinion should start interest in other ethnic Delaware citizens as well, or have we no voices these days?

NEWARK OUTLOOK

Don't make yourself an easy target

This weekly feature on the Lifestyle page is authored by the staff of the Newark-based Cooperative Extension Service.

ON'T LOOK NOW, but the busy holiday season is already upon us. Your already busy life is getting even more hectic, and if that weren't bad enough, there are 5 fewer shopping days between Thanksgiving and Christmas this year because of the way the calendar falls. It's easy to become distracted, and that's just what criminals, thieves and other low-lifes are looking for in a potential victim.

Many attackers are looking for women who are vulnerable. particularly those that are traveling alone. Robberies and carjackings are not uncommon at this time of the year. Many people shop alone in the evenings after work. It doesn't help matters that it's dark by 5:00 p.m., when most of us are just getting ready to go home after a long day. However there are a few precautions you can take to reduce the risk. First, always park your car in a welllighted area. If your car is parked in a dark area, don't be bashful about asking someone to walk with you to your car. Make sure that no one is hiding under your car as you approach it. Scan your car from a distance before getting close. Have your keys ready as you approach your car. Hold your keys in your fist with at least one key protruding out as a potential weapon. Fumbling around in your purse looking for your keys will give a potential attacker the extra time they need to grab you and steal

Stepping through history

HE YEAR-LONG elebration of the 275th anniversary of the White Clay Creek Presbyterian Church is beginning it's final month with a Colonial Christmas Tour. "Church member Beth Thomas wrote the dialogue and directed," said tour chairperson Yvonne Tipton. "I did the research, some of which came from past issues of the Newark Post.

Tipton said 28 members of the church will portray incidents from the church's history for tour groups which will form every 20 minutes and walk from "skit to skit" in the candlelit sanctuary at Polly Drummond Hill Road and Kirkwood Highway.

"A walk back in history is what we're calling it," said Tipton. "We thought this would be more interesting than just sitting in an audience. Highlights include a musical version of Reverend Laing's infamous Sunday swim in a local creek in 1723; a description of Christmas Day in 1724 by the Scottish wife of the church's first permanent minister; and audience participation in a debate between the Old Siders and New Siders, dissent-

OOL TIME" it ain't, but the carpentry class at Hodgson VoTech sees no reason why work can't be fun.

A sign hanging in teacher Dave Lutz's office illustrates this attitude. "You're only young once, but you can be immature foreyer,' it says. Teaching partner Bob Rumsey agrees learning should be fun and rewarding.

and Adam Weiser debated the weight of a heavy truss as they helped to lift it off the ground. "It must weigh 2,000 pounds," said Weiser

"There's nothing like real-world experience," said Rumsey. "Students need to find out if they can handle working in extremely hot, sticky weather and in the freezing cold."

Students gain entry-level experience as they construct small rooms indoors, complete with drywall and crown molding, before they tackle larger, outdoor projects.

Lutz and Rumsey work with school district officials to involve their students in diverse community projects. "The students feel real your purse or belongings. Once you open the car, make sure no one is hiding inside. Many people forget to completely lock their cars when they leave it parked. This is an open invitation to criminals.

Car breakdowns are another common scenario that makes women particularly vulnerable. Make sure that your car is well maintained. It's worth the cost. In the event that you do break down, stay in the car. If someone approaches and offers to help, stay in the car and open the window no more than an inch. Of course, one of the best safety features you can have in your car is a cell phone or car phone. Carry it with you at all times. If you must travel alone during the holidays, it's always safest to do so during daylight hours. Make sure you have plenty of gas so you don't have to stop along the way. students study the building trades. But working feverishly in the biting cold is not everyone's idea of a chuckle-a-minute.

good about helping people," Lutz said.

One of their classes stripped and reshingled the roof of a home in Brookmont Farms to help a woman who was about to be evicted from her condemned house.

Last summer, along with Howard and Delcastle vocational schools, Hodgson students constructed condominiums on Hodgson's school property. Nanticoke Homes, Inc., a modular home retailer, volunteered to transport the completed buildings to North Heald Street in Wilmington. "There are people living in those condos right now," Rumsey said.

Students also repaired two homes in Middletown and Townsend. Lutz said doing work like this is similar to an "old-fashioned barn raising.

Other Delaware communities also have benefited from the student carpenters. "Any place you see playground equipment that resembles castles it is our work," said Lutz.

"We enjoy community projects," said Rumsey. "We generally don't do work for individuals because of the liability involved, but the district is very cooperative about letting us do "need" projects."

Rumsey said academics are as important as job skills and he encourages the students to get good grades. He and his partner also stress developing professional work ethics, the importance of following directions, and the ability to "reason and think things through."

Lutz and Rumsey, who have known each other more than twenty years, have 58 years of carpentry experience combined.

We think a lot alike and the kids know that," Rumsey said. "They quickly learn they cannot pit us against each other. We tell them, when you are in his class, do things his way, when you are in my class, do things my way.'

Rumsey said this teaches the students to take on-the-job directions from their future employers.

Meanwhile, on the wintry construction site for the new fieldhouse, project coordinator Phil Mason motivates the class to keep busy. "We have $9,000 worth of materials here and we want to get a roof on the field house before it gets really cold," Mason said. We expect to complete this project by June 1997.

Santa to be 'steaming' through Delaware

IS THE SEASON for us around the globe to celebrate the world's happiest time of year, Christmas. It is my goal in this annual 'Tis The Season series to find for my readers some activities featuring the museums and other fine and performing arts organizations I write about on a regular basis which will help them better enjoy the time between now and the end of the year. My topic for today is Delaware's Working History Museum, the Wilmington and Western Railroad.

It might seem strange to put a railroad in this series, but this is a very special railroad. It is part of the not-for-profit Historic Red Clay Valley, Inc. The railroad and its parent organization are devoted to preserving and promoting the history and enjoyment of the beautiful Red Clay Valley which begins in Pennsylvania and runs through Delaware. The yearly Santa Steam Specials preserve both because, as older readers will remember. Santa often "arrived by train" in communities along the rail lines of our nation.

On Saturdays and Sundays, November 30, December 1, 7, 8, 14 and 15. Santa will be riding the Wilmington and Western's "Santa Steam Specials" leaving from Greenbank Station on Newport-Gap Pike, Del. Rt. 41, a quarter mile north of its intersection with the Kirkwood Highway, Del. Rt.

SOLUTION TO SUPER CROSSWORD ON PAGE 11

2, at 12:30 and 2:30 p.m.

These rides are just over an hour long and travel though the eastern end of the Red Clay Creek Valley from Greenbank to Ashland, Delaware. On each train, Santa and his helpers will go thorough the 1912 Pullman coaches to visit with the families, offer each child a gift, receive any letters the children care to offer and pose with the children and families. Parents who want to bring a larger group or celebrate a birthday or just have a unique holiday party may charter a big, red caboose attached to the rear of the Santa Steam Specials.

On these trains the families will ride behind a steam engine, old No. 98. It was built by the American Locomotive Company in 1909 and is the only one of its kind still in active passenger service today. Kids love to be photographed near that engine! And, while on the topic of photography, bring plenty of film or tape. There is no Santa photo fee on the Wilmington and Western Railroad.

I have ridden these Santa Steam Specials and feel that they offer something no visit to a mall can match. The children are not taken from their parents and forced onto the lap of a stranger. Santa comes down the aisle and the children may remain in their own seats or on their parents' laps. Only if the child wishes to sit in Santa's lap will Santa sit down and oblige. It is a no pressure situation and provides for generally sold out. You may want many fewer, on no, tearful situations. The members of the train crew, all volunteers by the way, are very helpful and add to the fun. They are also knowledgeable and can add to the enjoyment of the trip by answering questions if the youngster, or parent or grandparent, is a railroad buff.

If any of the Santa Special passengers fit into the category of railroad buff, don't miss a visit to the historic exhibits and gift shop at the east end of the Greenbank Station complex. It offers a variety of gifts for the very young as well as the serious collector. I have found some great stocking stuffers there as well as some great souvenirs of a fun day.

A suggestion, if I may. These trains are very popular and are to make a reservation in advance by calling 302-998-1930 Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. That way you can make sure you get the date and time you want. Advance reservations are required to charter the caboose. If tickets are still available, they go on sale at the Greenbank Station ticket office at 11:30 a.m. on days the Santa Specials are running. Santa Steam Specials run rain or shine!

When all the rush of Christmas is over, the Wilmington and Western offers a delightful, quiet ride through the Red Clay Valley to see the lovely holiday lights from a vantage point not available from any automobile. Operating in a 1929 railcar, the Holiday Light Specials leave Greenbank Station at 5, 6 and 7 p.m. on December 26, 27 and 28. With Christmas music as a background, it is a great way to wind down from the holiday season. Reservations are suggested and remaining tickets go on sale train days at 4 p.m. in the Greenbank Station ticket office.

I hope the working history museum can add to the can add measurably to your enjoyment of this most glorious of seasons.

A Thanksgiving Turkey Found its future most murky. His options were really quite strange. Would he roam with his mate Or be carved on a plate? He solved it with home on the range.

Old man busy with rake Got a lower backache, And abandoned all autumnal cheer. His face had turned red Like the leaves soon to shred, And got more so with six-pack of beer.

What mild curse might a beaver make? "I'll be dammed!"

What was the charge against a fellow who dumped stretchers on the highway? Littering.

Wayward children are seldom likely to be meticulous keepers of their bedrooms.

Round up the usual turkeys

TURKEYS are needed again this year for the Newark Area Welfare Committee's Basket Program in December.

According to spokesperson Jane Tripp, the group needs an estimated 375 turkeys for the food baskets which will be assembled at the Newark United Methodist Church during the week of Dec. 21.

Local grocery stores have their lowest prices and coupon campaigns before Thanksgiving and provide an excellent opportunity to acquire an "extra" turkey to donate, said Tripp.

The welfare committee would like to know by Dec. 15 if people can "pledge" a turkey for the campaign. If enough turkeys are not donated, it will be necessary to use funds set aside for fruits and vegetables to make up the deficiency. The committee can also arrange pickup and storage if necessary.

Anyone interested in helping should call Bev Stoudt at 368-9354 or Jane Tripp at 731-4575.

THANKSGIVING HOLIDAY TRASH COLLECTION

B ECAUSE of Thanksgiving Day, trash and recyclables due for collection in Newark on Thursday, Nov. 28, will be collected a day earlier on Wednesday, Nov. 27. Trash normally collected on Fridays, will be picked up as usual on the day after Thanksgiving.

Anyone with questions about this change should call the city of Newark public works department at 366-7045.

Resident permitted to keep wolves in back yard

A GLASGOW homeowner has won the right to keep wolves in his backyard. Angelo Piner of Rosetree Hunt off Route 40 near the Maryland line was acquitted in Magistrate's Court on Tuesday in a lawsuit filed by New Castle County.

County officials previously stated that Piner had permits from the State of Delaware to keep exotic animals and from the U.S. Department of Agriculture as an exhibitor.

However, the educational purpose necessary for keeping wild animals was disputed and the county cited Piner for maintaining undomesticated wild animals on less than one acre in a residential district. When he did not remove the wolves, the county filed suit.

Magistrate Clarence Bennett ruled that the county's ordinances regarding undomesticated animals were too vague to be enforced in this case. The county's attorney has already stated that the case will be appealed. Hunt resident Jeanine Gerrick has previously said that she was shocked to discover that a county ordinance permitted wild animals to be kept on county properties of one-half acre or more "Wolves just don't belong in a residential community," said Gerrick.

According to another resident David Reed, the wolves got loose on two occasions, biting a neighbor and Piner during the second incident. However, Piner said these incidents only occurred because unauthorized persons opened the pens.

Five British Colombian, Arctic and Tundra, and Timber wolves are housed in pens behind Piner's house. A perimeter fence outside the pens keeps people from being able to get too close.

Piner, who said he has been studying wolves for over 14 years, produced copies of letters and other information demonstrating that he regularly gives talks and shows his wolf, Lobo, at schools in Delaware and Maryland.

Among the schools he has visited are West Park Place Elementary School in Newark, Elkton High School, Elkton Middle School, and Mount Avia Academy in Childs, Md. Piner has also given presentations to summer programs in Wilmington.

"Anytime you have wild animals, people are concerned," said Piner, who has also raised wolves in Indiana and in Laurel, Del. "People don't understand these animals."

Most of Piner's adult wolves never leave their pens and are kept only for exhibit to community groups and interested private individuals. A sign next to the pens requests donations and gives rules for visitors.

"Many people come here to see the wolves and learn about their different characteristics," explained Piner. "I don't really like to be this close to other homes but this is the best I can do right now."

Newark art gallery open in December

The Newark Arts Alliance moved one step closer to a home of their own when city council recently approved a special use permit for an art gallery site on Delaware Avenue.

"We began working on this back in January," said Alliance spokesperson Terry Foreman. "We had fundraisers and also got funds through city and state grants."

In addition, Foreman said a community resident who wishes to remain anonymous has donated $12,000 to the group for their first year's lease of the house at 132 East Delaware Ave.

The building for the new art gallery is owned by the 1492 Hospitality Group which is developing the old Farm and Home site. A request for a variance was denied because the art gallery did not have sufficient off-street parking available.

As a temporary alternative, the gallery will use six spaces in the Farm and Home lot in addition to the three spaces adjacent to their building.

As a condition of permit approval, city council required that "when building permits are issued for the Farm and Home site, the Arts Alliance will be required to meet the Zoning code off-street parking requirements."

The Hospitality Group has already received a parking waiver for development of two restaurants at the Farm and Home site because the proposed parking lot would not be sufficient there.

Foreman said their lease stipulates that the landlord is responsible to pave new spaces for them when they can no longer use the temporary spaces in the existing Farm and Home lot. "We only have three spaces now behind the gallery off Delaware Avenue," said Foreman. "But there's room behind our building to pave more spaces."

Foreman said the Hospitality Group would be redesigning the parking for the entire complex when they finally develop there and might even consider one lot for the use of all tenants. "We would like that because we need additional parking space for art openings in the future."

The Arts Alliance plans to move into the new gallery on Dec. 5 and hold their first exhibit on Dec. 6 in conjunction with Winterfest in downtown Newark. "We'll continue renovations throughout December and have our Grand Opening in January," said Foreman.

In addition to art exhibits, future plans for the gallery include art classes, sketch groups, and "coffee house" type evenings with music and refreshments.

Pilot recycling off to a flying start

By MARY E. PETZAK

More THAN SEVEN tons of material was collected on the first day of Newark's curbside recycling program.

"I was pleased with the first collection's participation rate and tonnage," said public works director Richard Lapointe. "But as in most new programs, more education on the program is required."

According to Lapointe, residents need to be more careful of what is presently being put out for collection. "Paper must be dry, and trash cans containing targeted recyclables may not be accepted until properly sorted." said Lapointe.

Lapointe added that residents should remember that trash will not be collected when put out on recyclable days.

A spokesperson for trash subcontractor George & Lynch, Inc., said, "We collected 2.75 tons of targeted recyclables, surpassing our expectations."

However, the spokesperson noted some recyclables that were not targeted, such as cardboard, white paper, glass, plastic, steel and tin cans, had to be sorted and left in the curbside bins.

Lapointe said the city is encouraging residents to continue to use the Recycle Delaware centers for the proper disposal of these materials.

At present Newark's pilot program for curbside recycling includes: newspaper, magazines, catalogs, and phone books on trash Route E in Pheasant Run, Cherry Hill, Elan, Country Place, Country Hills, west half of Abbotsford and Barksdale Road, west of Casho Mill Road.

Both paper of the above types and aluminum cans are being collected on Route F along Elkton Road, College Park, Westfield, Cherry Hill Manor, Blair Village, Barksdale Estates, and east half of Abbotsford.

Curbside recycling collections will continue every other Thursday through May 1, 1997 on both routes. Regular trash collections will be every Monday and alternate Thursdays during the same period except on holidays.

For information about the collections or program, call the public works department at 366-7045 or 366-7135.

Fashion is in fashion at Shue

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The dress code initiated at Shue-Medill Middle School in September was given encouraging reviews by school administrators and parents at the recent school board meeting.

According to principal Robert Adams, "The overall feeling is that it's working. The atmosphere in the school is calmer and quieter – a little less rambunctious – and there appears to be less pushing and shoving."

Andewetta Shaw, director of the HOSTS (Helping One Student To Succeed) program at the school, said as a "seasoned teacher" she firmly believed in the dress code. "It's wonderful to see young men going down the hall with their pants starting at the waist!" said Shaw.

Shaw said that HOSTS mentors coming from businesses in the area had made very positive comments about the code's apparent impact.

In addition, Shaw noted that the children she talked to seemed to take pride in their distinction as the first school in the state of Delaware to have a dress code. "Children who graduate to the 9th grade from Shue

One parent told the school board she liked the code because children have a clear expectation of what they'll wear each day and it eliminated arguments. "Peer pressure is still there as in the past but it appears to be a positive peer pressure this year," she noted.

Another parent took exception to criticisms of Adams by other parents in news reports. "I suspect they didn't call Mr. Adams before running to school board members," said the man. "I have called him and I can say he always returns phone calls and listens to our concerns."

Adams said he had become "pretty much of a fashion expert" since the beginning of the year. Thirty percent of the students who do not meet the code each day are repeat offenders, according to Adams.

"But school suspensions are down by 23 percent over the same time last year," said Adams, while admitting that two months was not enough time to evaluate the pro-

School board member George Evans asked Adams about complaints from parents that students were forced to wear signs around their necks when they didn't dress according to the code.

"Initially we gave the kids a badge to show teachers throughout the day when they were not dressed correctly so the teachers would not keep reporting them to the administration office," explained Adams. "One student wore his as a joke but it was not a requirement."

Adams said the badge procedure was eliminated after two days and now students are given a choice of acceptable clothes to wear at the school when they arrive "out of code."

"Some kids go directly from the bus to the room and change each morning," said Adams. "They like our clothes better than their own."

If students refuse to change at the school, Adams said staff members drive them home and wait while they change there.

School board hears noise about music propositions

at all.

Concerned parent Charles Clark said that plans to limit lessons to after-school only and provide no ensemble band participation was "blackmail" by the district to force parents to send their children to theme schools.

Under the district's reassignment plan, all elementary schools in the district would become K-4 in 1997-98, and K-5 in 1998-99. One of the programs this will affect is the elementary music and art program in which fourth-grade students can begin band lessons.

School superintendent Iris Metts said programs presently in place in Wilmington schools housing grades 4-6 will continue. Students in those programs presently have one 30-minute lesson a week during the school day, as well as the option to participate in ensemble bands which meet for

In community schools, which fourth-graders will be attending for the first time since the late 1970s, an after-school program will provide one 45-minute lesson at several "cluster" sites for fourth grade students taking band.

Metts points out that there is not adequate space for either instruction or instrument storage in K-3 schools at present. "Using present resources, it is not feasible to expand the program from six to eighteen schools and maintain the same musical opportunities for all

Keeping music teachers in their current schools instead of rotating them throughout the district for one-day assignments at 18 schools will prevent them from becoming "itinerants" rather than effective staff members in a school building, according to Metts.

In addition, Metts said spreading band students throughout 18 schools would limit the types of instruments available and the ensembles possible. Parents like Clark complained that even if their children take the once-a-week after school lessons at "cluster" sites it will still be unfair. "Band students need the weekly ensemble experience," said Clark. "It is musically important to their training."

Clark added that no new instrumental teachers had been hired in the district in nine years and demanded that the school board consider hiring two new music teachers - at a minimum. 'Teachers should be in every school for lessons at least one day a week," said Clark.

School board member Michael Guilfoyle said he appreciated Clark's comments but parents had to recognize the "virtual impossi-bility to be completely fair in all aspects" when reassigning grades throughout the largest school district in the state.

School board president Charles Hockersmith, an outspoken supporter of music and art in the schools, said he was not aware of some of the claimed deficiencies, such as waiting lists for band students, in the proposed and existing programs. "I've been associated with music for over 20 years," Hockersmith told Clark. "Some of the things you stated may be rumors but we will look into it. We need to have the same information that you have.'

Turkey tips from top chefs

AKING PLANS for your holiday meal? If turkey is on the menu, some wellknown chefs and cookbook authors have tips for cooking and preparing the bird.

 Colman Andrews, editor, Saveur magazine, and author of "Flavors of the Riviera": For flavorful soup stock, save all the bits of leftover turkey and the carcass: boil it for a few hours with onions. celery, carrots and leeks. Strain, cool, skim the fat and use in almost any kind of soup.

David Burke, chef, Park Avenue Cafe, New York: For a unique presentation of your holiday bird, remove the wings from the whole turkey, cut off the tips and boil them until tender. Then remove the bones from the wings and form a pocket in which to fill with stuffing. Place next to the unstuffed whole bird in a roasting pan and roast as recipe directs.

Rozanne Gold, author "Recipes 1-2-3": For a tender, succulent turkey, submerge the whole turkey or breast in a pot filled with cold water and a pound of kosher salt. Soak for six hours in the refrigerator. Remove turkey from pot and pat dry. Place in a roasting pan and cover with foil. Roast as recipe directs, removing foil for the last 45 minutes of cooking time.

 Barbara Kafka, author of "Roasting": Don't truss the bird. "This allows the dark meat to cook through while the white meat stays moist," Kafka says.

Priscilla Martel, chef-consultant, All About Food, Chester, Conn .: Instead of using black pepper to season the outside and inside cavity of the bird, use cayenne pepper. ■ Charlie Palmer, proprietorchef, Aureole, Lenox Room and Alva restaurants, New York: To ensure a clean, safe bird, always wash the turkey thoroughly, inside and out, then pat dry.

Thanksgiving Buffets Thanksgiving Dinner Buffet 2 PM - 10 PM

Don Pintabona. chef. Robert DeNiro's Tribeca Grill, New York: For a crisp-on-the-outside, juicy-on-the inside bird, place the whole turkey or breast in a 500degree F oven for 45 minutes until it turns golden brown. Cover with foil and reduce heat to 375 degrees F to 400 degrees F. For the last 15 minutes of cooking time, remove the foil and increase the heat to 450 degrees F.

■ Maricel Presilla, culinary historian and cookbook author: Shred leftover cooked turkey and combine it with sauteed onion, garlic, red and green peppers, raisins and almonds. Serve with rice and beans.

David Ruggerio, chef, Le Chantilly and Maxim's restaurants, New York: Season the inside and outside of the bird the day before cooking. "This way the seasonings will fully absorb into the turkey meat creating mouthwatering flavor," Ruggerio says.

'$1 million is not much when you're talking about safety'

BIKES, from 1

according to McEvily, "One million dollars is not much when you're talking about safety concerns

Proposals include marked and striped bicycle lanes on some streets, and shared use routes which would only be marked by signs on wider roads or those with shoulders.

Off-road routes would make use of current railroad beds. Routes where the best bicycle use was not yet determined were left as places where planners would select an alternative in the future.

City of Newark officials point out that some bike routes already exist, such as along Christina Parkway, and other action by the city is underway. "There are things we are trying to do like bike racks on Main Street," said city manager Carl Luft. "We already mandated bike racks in subdivision parking lots."

City planning director Roy Lopata added. "There's the Casho Mill Road underpass walkway - that's for pedestrians and bicyclists, too, and we're planning additional signage to warn drivers to watch for bikers on roads."

Lopata said the report prepared by WILMAPCO "has a lot of positive changes that came about review, but it is too general.

areas of city concern are routes where parked cars would have to be eliminated for possible bike routes. "We can't recommend taking away parking spaces," said Luft.

Lopata said once city officials determined what parts were feasible, they would advise DelDOT of the city's OK to implement those parts. "We could also decide, after talking with groups in the city, that we could proceed with one area or street as a pilot project," said Lopata. "That way we

At a recent town and gown meeting, Newark resident and former state representative Cathy Wojewodzki made an impassioned plea to John Brook, vice president for government and public CATHY WOJEWODZKI COMPAGE STATE DEDBECCENTRATE OF Delaware, to urge the university to take a leadership role in addressing the need for bike routes.

"With all the students on bikes, the uni-ment and public relations, said, "Some offroad bike paths on the university campus are being considered as enhancements under the university's beautification program.

But Brook pointed out that any bike routes on campus would have to be coordinated with other routes off campus. "Otherwise, we just end up with bike routes to nowhere.

Newark police chief William Hogan, who also has been part of the group studying the project, said, "There are obviously a number of short term things that could be done but some would only be possible over the course of 20 years because of major investments."

Hogan concluded with a thought shared by many. "We can refine these systems and have the best bike paths and signals in the world but it only works when people obey the rules of the road."

Spartans snag state crown

Ricevuto's goal in third OT lifts St. Mark's

Boy, that

GLASGOW - There was over 100 minutes of play, but the championship game of the Delaware High School Soccer Tournament was decided in the last 30 seconds of play.

Chris Ricevuto scored the game's lone goal in the third minute of the third overtime to give St. Mark's High a 1-0 victory over arch-rival Salesianum before 3,500 last Saturday afternoon. The goal came as Ricevuto

The score came just seconds after Salesianum was stopped on its best scoring opportunity of the game. Spartans' goal-keeper Joey Iudica stopped a blast which came from directly in front of the net through traffic, after a wild scramble, from about 10 yards out.

"The ball was bouncing around everywhere," said Iudica, who set a school record with his 13th shutout of the season. "I was trying to see and then the shot came hard right at my face. I just caught it and held it."

Iudica then fed the ball upfield and Keane made a nice run down the left side. After avoiding defensive players, he took the ball wide and sent a shot toward the right post. A sliding Ricevuto took the suspense out of whether the ball was going in or not.

"I wasn't sure if it was going in or not," said Ricevuto, a senior captain. "But I slid into it to make sure it went in.

The win completed St. Mark's season with a 19-0-1 record and gave the school its sixth state championship in the last 11 years.

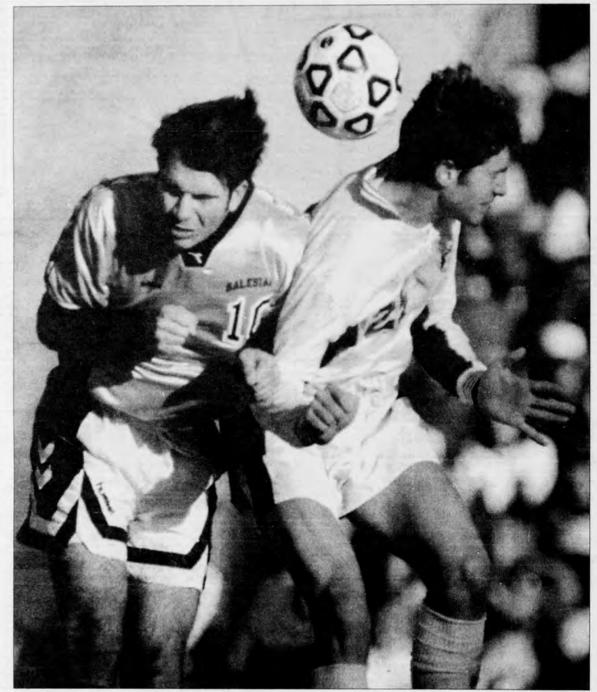

"Boy, was that hard," said St. Mark's coach Tom DeMatteis, who has been the head man for all six titles. "I thought we'd get a goal and I had confidence the whole time that we'd be able to pull it out. We've been doing it all year and I felt good that we could do it again.

"Keane made a great play. He's a great player and I'd take him against any player in the state. That [winning goal] was sensa-TOM DeMATTEIS tional and Ricevuto was there to make sure.

> The Spartans, also ranked 11th in the country as of last week, had eight shots compared to Salesianum's 10, but also had seven corner kicks compared to the Sals' three. Iudica made six saves and Sallies' keeper Jeff Stoklosa made five.

> St. Mark's also had to deal with a very physical Salesianum squad, which has handed six yellow cards during the game compared to none for the Spartans. The worst infraction came when All-State player Joe Noonan received his second yellow card and fired the ball at the referee.

"This was a hard game, our kids were able to keep their poise very well," DeMatteis said. "We've done that in the face of things like this all vear.

Tops Glasgow in regular season finale

The Newark High football team emphatically proved it was ready for the state tournament.

The Yellowjackets ripped Glasgow 50-14 in their regular season finale and improved their record to 9-1 on the season. The victory also gave Newark the top seed in the upcoming Division I state tournament. Newark will host fourth-seeded Brandywine (7-3) Nov. 30 while Flight A champion and second-seeded William Penn (8-2) will host Henlopen North titlist and third-seeded Caesar Rodney (8-2) Nov. 29.

"I'm proud of our football team," said Newark coach Butch Simpson. "We were scared about this game because of the big rivalry and the fact that [Glasgow] was playing much better.

"But we talked about being 9-1 and getting the top seed in the tournament and a home game in the first round. We were able to do that.

The Jackets only setback of the season came a 17-14 overtime loss to conference foe William Penn. Newark gave up two scores in regulation when an interception over the punter's head and was recovered on the oneyard line. The team may have the opportunity to avenge that loss in the state championship game Dec. 7.

It's been clear for quite a while that Newark was one of the best teams in the state. Hopes weren't quite so high, however, in early August after graduating most of last year's state finalist team.

Well, we were horribly inexperienced. We were only returning five seniors who had any kind of experience." Simpson said of his early season thoughts on the team. "But, it's a real testament to the people we have that stepped in."

An early season scrimmage against Division II power St. Elizabeth, though, began to sway the coaching staff's feelings.

"We began to have positive feelings in preseason," said Simpson, who has compiled a 26-7 record over the past three seasons. "And then we did a real nice job against a very good St. Elizabeth team. I think then, we knew we could have a good football team. "Then, we stayed healthy for the most part and things have fallen into place.

Newark came through a rigorous early season schedule in great shape. The Jackets topped Salesianum, Caesar Rodney and St. Mark's in non-conference games before handling Christiana in an early Flight A game.

St. Mark's High Soccer Team

The St. Mark's High soccer team, not only won a state championship, it completed one of the best seasons in state history.

The Spartans topped Salesianum 1-0 in triple overtime to win the state title Saturday before 3,500 fans at Glasgow High. The win gave St. Mark's a 19-0-1 record that tied last year's Glasgow squad for the most wins in state history. The Dragons, however, did have a loss, finishing 19-1.

The victory also avenged a 1-1 tie with Sallies earlier in the season and gave the team the best record in St. Mark's history, topping the 1987 state championship team's 17-0-1 record.

St. Mark's outscored its opponents 78-7 during the season and 12-0 during its four-game sweep through the state tournament. It was the first time a team went through the state tournament without giving up a goal.

Goalkeeper Joey Iudica recorded a school record 13 shutouts during the season and broke his brother, Jamie's, record of 12. He also had 27 career shutouts breaking a school-record set by Travis Ciriaco.

Chris Ricevuto, who scored the game-winning goal in final, along with Jason Dzielak led the team in scoring with 16 goals each. Rob Ruberto added 13 and Dan Keane had nine.

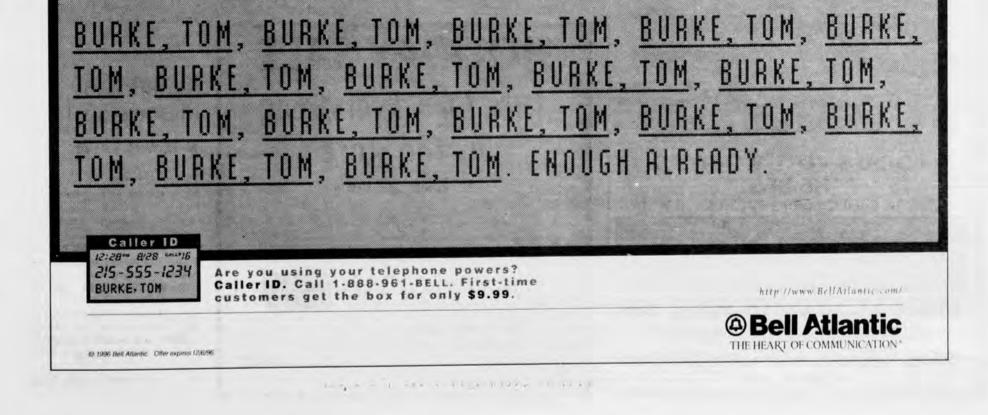

"This was a great group of kids," said St. Mark's coach Tom DeMatteis. "They really wanted to win this, especially for the seniors on each of the last three years' teams. Those guys suffered some tough losses in the tournament and really paved the way for this team. They were all a part of this championship."

Glasgow ends difficult season

By MARTY VALANIA

It was an uphill battle all night for the Glasgow High football team as it fell 50-14 to district rival Newark.

Before the Dragons even ran an offensive play, they trailed 15-0 to the powerful Yellowjackets. And then, after rallying to within 15-6 and driving toward another score, former Dragon Ivory Jones, now playing for Newark, stepped in front of an Ike Wilson pass and returned it down the sideline to set up another Newark touchdown. The play turned the game around and it was never close again.

"That definitely was the turning point," said Newark coach Butch Simpson, whose team finished the regular season with a 9-1 record. 'We kind of had a let down after getting up 15-0, but that play got us going again.

The night started off badly for Glasgow as Newark quarterback Bobby Johnson rolled left and rambled 59 yards for a TD on the game's first play from scrimmage. On the ensuing kickoff, the Jackets recovered a fumble and then scored on a Corey Wallace five-yard run two plays later.

Glasgow, however, rallied with a 49yard scoring drive capped by John Adams' six-yard touchdown run to close within 15-6. The Dragons then held Newark on three plays and got the ball back in great field position. Three plays later, though, Jones made the big play.

"That was a tough play," said

Glasgow coach Dave Scott. "We audibled there and Jones probably knows our audibles and just made a good play.

Two plays later Wallace scored again on a six-yard run to improve Newark's lead to 21-6.

Just before halftime Johnson connected with Chris Adams on a 12-yard TD pass to give Newark a 28-6 lead at the intermission.

Barry Zehnder and Richie Parson added third quarter touchdowns and Jones added another in the fourth quarter.

Parson ended the game 115 yards rushing.

The loss dropped Glasgow's season-ending record to 3-7

"It was a tough year," Scott said. 'We really needed a big win early to get us going and it just never came.

St. Mark's and Hodgson are the two best wrestling programs in the area and both have been selected to compete in the prestigious Mid-Atlantic Wrestling Classic Dec. 20-21 at Delaware State University.

The Spartans and Silver Eagles will join 22 other teams including defending national champion Blair Academy, defending Pennsylvania AA titlist Line Mountain and other wrestling powerhouses.

"It'll be a great experience for us," said Hodgson coach Jerry Lamey. "It's a step up in competition for the kids and we're really looking forward to it. All the kids are talking about and have been talking about for awhile.

"It's a great chance for us and other Delaware kids to get exposure.'

Besides the powerhouse teams, there will also be 11 nationally ranked wrestlers involved in the tournament, including five from Delaware, three from Pennsylvania and three from New Jersey. There will also be 18 state champions competing in the tourney.

The tournament in its first three years of existence has doled out $22,500 in scholarship monies to competing wrestlers.

"It's really a great thing for wrestling and for Delaware." Lamey said.

One team that will not be competing in the tournament is defending Flight A champion Glasgow. The team, coaches, administration and fans were all upset about being left out in favor of downstate teams such as Dover and Sussex Central. Both of whom, Glasgow felt it matched up favorably with as far as last year's statistics were concerned.

"It's a committee decision," said Vic Leonard, an officer of the Delaware Wrestling Alliance, which sponsors the tournament. "There are 12 members on the committee and I'm the one who has supported Glasgow. My son wrestled there and I know how hard they've worked.

"But the committee felt Dover and Sussex Central both wrestled tougher schedules and are going to field tougher teams."

BEAR - Caravel basketball coach Joe Pennell has a new lease on life. After spending six years as a head coach at state power Ursuline, the 50-year-old Pennell found himself looking for something new.

I wanted a little bit of a challenge," he said. "I might have been a little stale.

Under Pennell's leadership, the Raiders won several Catholic Conference crowns. They reached the state final five times and won two titles, the most recent of which was in 1995.

"It was at the point where we fully expected to play the second Saturday in March." the coach said, referring to the championship game. "The regular season was pretty much an exercise we had to go through."

Caravel, on the other hand, is a program starting to blossom. The Bucs played in the state tournament last season under coach Bill McCartan but were eliminated in the second round by Sanford.

develops your personal skills, it also them to recognize what the other develops a mental toughness," he said. "That's what we always tried to do at Ursuline. It's one thing to play a good team, and then have to three or four games that are not particularly difficult.

"I think the schedule they put together at Caravel is a step in the right direction and will help us develop the toughness we need."

The rest of the roster will likely include Brenna McDonald, Tiffany Eshelman, Jamie Keyes and Stephanie Mayhart. Mayhart is a point guard who coincidentally transferred from Ursuline. She potentially could take some of the ball-handling pressure off Mills, who would then have more opportunities to play all over the court.

But Pennell wants to involve the whole team in the offense. "I want to make sure the kids on the team know that I have confidence in them to score," he said.

"It's difficult to win consistently if it's a one- or two-person show. We want kids who play the game. I don't want a bunch of robots. I want tempo offense and a slashing defense. "We'll push the ball up the floor even when we don't have a break. ... The more of an opportunity they have to play an up-tempo game, the more fun it is for them." he said.

His early concerns revolve around the team's lack of depth. This could be critical considering that Nachstein is coming off knee surgerv

'Not just her, we have to stay healthy as a team. We have only eight players," Pennell said.

The players also have to realize that losing a game isn't the end of the world, a factor after the Bucs dropped a close game to Padua. The frustration remained with them for much of the season.

"You can't worry about losses," Pennell said. "... There's a lot of disappointments in life. But there's always another game to play."

Hens now have to wait . . . and hope

Rip Rhode Island in season finale

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The only thing left for the University of Delaware football to do now, is to wait.

The Blue Hens blasted Rhode Island 43-27 Saturday to complete their regular season with an 8-3 record. Whether that will be good enough to earn a spot in the 16team, NCAA I-AA playoffs is anybody's guess.

That decision will be made Sunday when the eight-man NCAA committee announces its decision.

"Really, our chances rest with the possibility of Northeastern beating New Hampshire," said Delaware coach Tubby Raymond, who is looking for his 14th NCAA playoff appearance. "I really don't think we have a chance other than that Northeastern brings a 5-5 record into that game against the 8-2 Wildcats. A New Hampshire win would seem to (with a 9-2 record) assure it an at-large berth in the playoffs. William & Mary, by virtue of winning the Yankee Conference title, earned the league's automatic berth into the tournament.

That would appear to leave Villanova, who aided its chances greatly by defeating James Madison last week. and the Hens battling for the third spot.

That would also appear to be trouble if the committee looks no further than the 27-0 whipping the Wildcats gave Delaware back on Sept. 14.

"I think it would be unusual for the committee to let four teams go." Raymond said. "That's a full quarter of the field."

Raymond did point out that the Hens were ranked seventh in the country if you use the power ratings that appear in a national newspaper. Villanova and William & Mary were ranked higher but New Hampshire was lower.

Also, Delaware was ranked 10th in the country in this week's national poll conducted by The Sports Network. Only William & Mary, among Yankee Conference teams, was ranked higher

Those rankings, however, are not the ones that the NCAA committee uses. It has its own way of ranking teams and that has not been made public.

"I thought Villanova had a chance of getting beat," said Raymond of the last week. "But, apparently their injured quarterback came back and did a great job.

Center Kristen Nachstein, a 6-foot senior, possesses strong scoring and rebounding skills inside the paint; seniors Rose Tassone and Lisa Delcollo are strong defenders who are capable of scoring.

Last season the quartet was dubbed "the Four Aces," and they will have to live up to their billing for the team to survive an upgraded schedule which includes Brandywine, the Blue Hen Conference Flight A defending champion, and St. Elizabeth, who nearly upset defending state champion St. Mark's in the postseason tournament.

Pennell believes the Bucs' regular season schedule will help improve both the team and the program, which will field a junior varsity team for the first time in a while.

Third graders at Brader Elementary are raising money for the Iron Hill Museum of Natural History in Newark.

The third graders created a children's membership program which entitles each child, 12 and under, free admission to the museum for one year, 10 percent off gift shop prices, and an invitation to the yearly "Iron Hill Kids" picnic. In addition, schools enrolling 100 or more students are eligible for a complimentary program to their school.

The pupils in Mrs. Ennis' third grade class raffled off a handmade quilt. Each of the third graders created their own artwork on blocks of fabric from which Ennis sewed together to make the quilt.

Every year we choose a project for the third graders to do. And the Iron Hill Museum seemed like the perfect project," said Chris Barnacoft, a third grade teacher at Brader. Barnacoft added that the idea stemmed from an article she read in the newspaper and that the Museum holds a "treasure trove" of objects that are a part of Delaware's history that should be preserved.

The Iron Hill Museum, built through the philanthropy of Pierre S. du Pont, was originally used to school black students in the 1920s. The school operated until the mid-1960s when school segregation ended. In 1967, it became a museum under the guidance of the Delaware Academy of Science, a non-profit organization that helps provide programming for the 9,000 school children and visitors that patron the museum every year.

"About 50 percent of our revenue comes from admission," said Laura Mackie, the director of the Iron Hill Museum. "And other revenue comes from grants from the state and dues from the Delaware Academy of Science." However, according to Mackie, the grants from the State of Delaware can not be utilized unless a percentage of that grant is matched by fundraising or other efforts.

The state grants are used for building upkeep. "Eventually we'd like to restore this building to its original purpose as a school house." said Mackie. Also, dues help to support and improve programming and pay the salaries of the two employees at the museum.

So far the third graders at Brader have raised about $300. But the year isn't over yet!

On a recent trip to the museum, the kids were able to see and touch an extensive rock and mineral collection, see the mounted animals that line the museum walls, and hike the trail that leads to the open-pit iron mine. "We just completed a section on rocks, and the field trip reinforced what was learned in class," said Barnacoft.

According to Barnacoft not many people know the museum exists, "It's back off the road so it's easy to miss.

"Iron Hill is an excellent museum. I think it equals the Delaware Museum of Natural History," said Barnacoft. "I would encourage people to check it out.'

It is anticipated that the District's share of $42,280,000 for these renovation costs will be $15,643,600 with the balance of such costs funded by the State. If the district is authorized to issue bonds in the amount of its anticipated share of the renovation costs (15,643,600), the District shall levy and collect taxes to provide for the payment of interest on the bonds and for the retirement of the bonds as they shall fall due. The cost of the bonds will adjust to market rates, and must include 10% for delinquencies and costs of collection as required by law. In today's market, to amortize bonds over a 20 year term in the amount of $15,643,600, the cost of paying the principal and interest would initially be approximately 2.5φ per hundred dollars of all assessed real-estate in the District, with an estimated maximum of 7.5φ for a limited time, decreasing thereafter. This amount includes 10% for delinquencies and costs of collection as required by law except for the taxable real-estate which is exempt from county taxation, as determined and fixed for New Castle County tax purposes.

THE POLLS FOR THE SPECIAL ELECTION SHALL BE OPEN TUESDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1996, BETWEEN THE HOURS OF 12:00 NOON AND 9:00 PM PREVAILING LOCAL TIME.
