Newark Man Honored by General Assembly

Will Participate in Lincoln Memorial

General Richard G. Buckingham to Read Gettysburg Address

General Richard G. Buckingham has been honored by the General Assembly who chose him to read Lincoln's Gettysburg speech at the Memorial Exercises to be held at the State House next Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The program will also include Opening Prayer by the Chaplain of the Senate; Song by Dover Quartette; Solos by Mrs. Frank Hall Davis, and address on Lincoln by Everett C. Johnson, former Secretary of State.

An agreement was reached yesterday between the General Assembly and the State Board of Education to combine for the afternoon. The latter body had arranged for an address by Hon. P. P. Claxton, U. S. Commissioner of Education, to the Educators of the State, to be held in Dover Opera House. By the terms of the agreement Dr. Claxton will address the educators and the General Assembly in the State House at the close of the Lincoln Memorial services.

General Richard G. Buckingham

No act of the General Assembly could be more gracious or more appropriate than the selection of General Buckingham of Newark to read the Gettysburg Address at the Lincoln Memorial Exercises to be held at Joint Session on Friday next.

Linked by service with the life and imbued by association with the spirit of Lincoln in his time, General Buckingham by interest and action is serving us of today. His record as a soldier of the Sixties illuminates but does not overshadow his character as a citizen. Genial by nature, rich by experience, honest by purpose, common sense by thought, his life and action brings us under the shadow and influence of that Master Man at whose call, he offered his all. This honor to General Buckingham, simple in conception, is rich in realization—and deserved.

Auxiliary to Outline

Lenten Services

Newark Auxiliary of the Y. H. M. S. will be entertained at the home of Mrs. James Wilson, 30 Cleveland Ave., Friday, February 12th, at 2:30. This is a most important meeting. The program for the Lenten services will be outlined.—M. F. Williams, Sec'y.

D. A. R. ELECTS DELEGATS TO NATIONAL CONGRESS

Ask Local Legislators to Support Child Welfare

The regular meeting of Cooch's Bridge Chapter, Daughter of the American Revolution, was held at the home of the Misses Todd, on Saturday afternoon, February 5th. The regent, Miss Eleanor E. Todd president, and considerable important business was transacted.

The following alternates to the National Congress which meets in Washington, D. C., April 18-23, were elected, Mrs. J. Wilkins Cooch, Mrs. Ernest Frazer, Mrs. Albert W. Forman, Miss Henri Etta Todd, Miss Miriam P. Alrich, Mrs. S. M. Donnell, Mrs. F. A. Pennington, Mrs. W. F. Wingett, Mrs. A. L. Beals, and Mrs. J. P. Cann.

The work of the National Society this year is concentrated upon three special objects: 1. The publication and distribution of an Emigrants' Manual which contains much helpful information about our laws and customs told in such a way that these strangers seeking a home among us can understand and appreciate it. These manuals are printed in many languages and distributed at the various ports of entry for emigrants, thus extending a friendly greeting to them as soon as they land.

2. Erecting a memorial fountain at Plymouth in memory of the Pilgrim Mothers.

3. At the request of the United States Government, the Daughters of the American Revolution will present to France an oil painting of a convoy of transports carrying American soldiers to France. This picture will be hung in the Museum in the Palace of the Invalides, in Paris.

The carrying out of these three projects will cost sixty thousand dollars, and each Chapter bears its share of the expense. Cooch's Bridge Chapter directed its treasurer to forward its share to the State Treasurer. A donation to the Berry School for Mountain People, in Berry, Georgia, in which the "Daughters" are deeply interested, was also made.

The regent appointed a committee consisting of Mrs. Ernest Frazer, Miss Miriam P. Alrich, and Miss Eleanor E. Todd to communicate with our legislators from White Clay Creek and Pender and hundreds asking their interest in and support of all measures for the continuance of Child Welfare Work in our State.

The chief feature of the program for the afternoon was a very interesting paper upon "The Old Newark Academy," by Mrs. Ernest Frazer.

Engagement of Local Young People Announced

Mrs. S. L. Cornog on Monday announced the engagement of her daughter, Irma, to Clarence H. Hopkins, of this town.

J. C. Willis Councilman for Middle District

At the regular monthly meeting of Town Council held Monday evening, J. C. Willis was elected a member of that body from the Middle District, to succeed Dr. George W. Rhodes, who has moved into the Upper District.

Ogleton School Club Celebrates February Holidays

The February meeting of the Ogleton School Club, held last Thursday evening, drew a large crowd from that and neighboring communities. The children of the school under direction of the teacher, Miss Jennie Smith of Newark, presented a program commemorative of Lincoln's Washington's and Longfellow's birthdays and of Valentine Day.

T. T. Martin presented ably and effectively the subject for the month, "Health and the Community." A social hour followed during which ice cream was sold. The proceeds will be applied to the Virola Record Fund.

YOUNG MEN TO FORM RIFLE CLUB

Will Effect Organization and Affiliate With National Association

About 40 young men of the town are interested in the formation of a Rifle Club. A meeting was held recently when tentative plans were formulated and arrangements made for a second or organization meeting to be held at Walter Powell's restaurant on Thursday evening, February 17, at 7:30. The local organization expects to affiliate with the National Rifle Association.

A number of the local young men are crack shots, two of them, Eugene Stiltz and Walter Holton, winning a place last year on the Delaware team which entered the national tournament.

AIM OF VOCATIONAL EDUCATION TO MAKE INTELLIGENT CONSUMERS

Baltimore Educator Gives Illuminating Facts Concerning Disputed Subject

"Some Tendencies of Modern Education," was the theme of an inspiring and entertaining informal address delivered by Miss Florence Bamberger to the Alpha Unit of the State Teachers' Association and others interested in Education, last Thursday evening in the Academy Building. Miss Mary Hoffecker presided and introduced the speaker.

Miss Bamberger attributed the remarkable change that has taken place in the ideas of education in a large measure to the effect of the Industrial Revolution. Previous to this time the trend of education, the greater part of which was conducted in the home, was to make of the youth of the day, intelligent producers, since nearly everything then was manufactured in the home. Since the advent of the factory system, however, whereby manufactured articles can be made more cheaply than by the domestic system, the trend of education is to make of the students intelligent consumers. The training in ability to judge materials and workmanship is as essential now as training in actual production was in the earlier days, she said, and this, not actual production, is the aim of vocational education. The change in the conception of what constitutes good training in the art of reading is typical, she stated, of the change that has taken place with regard to other subjects. Before the advent of the newspaper, and before education became so universal, when the accepted means of "getting across" an idea or a news item was oral presentation by those specially gifted, training in oratory and in oral reading was necessary and proper. Now, however, practically all reading is silent. To prove this she asked her audience how many during the past week had read aloud. Only one responded. As to silent reading every one responded. Oral reading is no longer really needed. Emphasis in the modern teaching of this subject is placed therefore on speed and on interpretation of silent reading, making adequate provision for the gifted who desire to read aloud.

The class of reading matter popular with boys and girls of high school age was discussed. The appalling fact revealed as the result of a survey taken recently in Baltimore, is that the popular literature is that of a distinctly low order even in communities where the children have every advantage of home training and environment. In general the literary taste of the boys was higher than that of the girls.

Miss Bamberger's time was limited and her admirable address was therefore necessarily abbreviated. At the close of her address Miss Hoffecker invited the audience to the Home Economics laboratory where sandwiches, cocoa and cake were served by Miss Charlotte Smith, chairman of the social committee.

SIX STUDENTS FROM ST. THOMAS' TO ATTEND SUNDAY SCHOOL RALLY

Guild Plans Attractive Features to Replace Social Hour During Lent

At the regular monthly meeting of St. Thomas' Guild held on Monday evening, features were planned to replace the social hour with dancing which has followed each of these meetings. During Lent some attractive feature will be provided. Dr. Walter Hultihen will address the Guild at the next meeting.

Plans for a pig roast and dance to be held after Easter were discussed but no definite time set.

Previous to the Guild meeting the Vestry met to transact routine business. The Sunday School teachers also held an organization meeting and elected the following officers:

President, William D. Dean. Secretary, Mrs. Howard Jester. Treasurer, Mrs. Charles Colmery. Six members of the Sunday School were chosen to represent St. Thomas' at a Sunday School rally to be held at St. Andrew's Church, Wilmington, next Sunday. These young people are Frances Hultihen, Irene Shaw, Dorothy Hayes, Leonard Churchman, George Getty, and Malcolm Armstrong.

Rev. William Holmead, curate at St. John's Church, Wilmington, conducted the services last Sunday morning.

Examination for Postal Clerk-Carrier, Feb. 26

Announcement is made by the United States Civil Service Commission of an examination for clerk-carrier to be held in Newark on Saturday, February 26. The subjects in which the competitors are examined are, spelling, penmanship, copying, letter writing and arithmetic.

An Act of Congress approved July 11, 1919, provides that in making appointments to clerical and other positions preference shall be given to soldiers, sailors and marines, and to the wives of such who themselves are disqualified.

Century Club Hears of Western Missions

Mrs. C. A. Short yesterday afternoon at the regular Century Club meeting gave an instructive and entertaining description of the Missions at San Antonio which she visited during her recent residence in that locality. Mrs. W. A. Wilkinson described those of San Diego, Santa Barbara and San Francisco.

Much interest is already manifest in next Tuesday's meeting which will be conducted by the ex-presidents and will be a reception to new members.

Y. M. C. C. May Put Team in Suburban League

F. M. Brown, athletic director for the Young Men's Catholic Club is making arrangements with the members to form a fast base ball team which will, they hope, be a member of the Suburban League.

Entertains Friends at Sewing Party

Mrs. R. W. Heim entertained a number of friends very delightfully at a sewing party on Monday afternoon at her home on Delaware Avenue. A table of the sewing hour refreshments were served.

Those present were Mrs. W. A. Wilkinson, Mrs. Gay E. Hancock, Mrs. Carl Rankin, Mrs. T. F. Manns, Mrs. George Thompson, Mrs. Thomas Ingham, Mrs. Frank Samuels, Mrs. Louis R. Detjen, Mrs. Thomas D. Smith.

Is Recovering from Attack of Hiccoughs

Mrs. George E. Christopher, of Chadds Ford, Pa., sister of Mrs. Margaret Smith of Milford Cross Roads, is slowly recovering from an attack of hiccough, under the care of Dr. James Walker, of Hamorton, Pa.

LENTEN SEASON MINIMIZES SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Special Services to Mark 40 Day Period in Local Churches

Today is Ash Wednesday, the beginning of the Lenten season of fasting and prayer observed by the Episcopal and Catholic churches and to an increasingly great extent by other denominations who see in the custom, a wise and salutary element. The abstinence from meat at certain meals is an excellent thing as spring approaches and the system demands food that is less heavy than the usual winter fare. A general cessation of social activities at this season is a welcome relief to many who are worn out by the unceasing round of winter festivities.

Lenten services at St. John's Church will be held on Wednesday and Friday evenings and on Sunday afternoons following the meeting of the Sunday School.

A series of lectures by visiting priests will be given on Wednesday evenings.

Lenten services will be held at St. Thomas' at the usual hours on Sunday for the present.

EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCE TO BE HELD AT DOVER

Dr. P. P. Claxton, U. S. Commissioner of Education, has been holding regional conferences on education in a number of states. Delaware was first placed with Maryland and Virginia, but as Maryland desired a conference of its own, the original plan has been changed, and at the invitation of the Governor and the State Board of Education, Commissioner Claxton has agreed to come to Delaware for a state meeting to be held in the Dover Opera House, Friday, February 11, at 10:15 a. m.

The members of the General Assembly will be invited to attend either the morning or afternoon session. Members of Granges and labor organizations, newspaper representatives, women's clubs, boards of education, superintendents of schools, ministers, and all other citizens interested in the public schools are most earnestly invited to attend this day's conference on education and invite their friends. Let us show by our presence our appreciation of Dr. Claxton's visit to Delaware.

Elect New Directors for Singlerly Fire Co.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Singlerly Fire Co., of Elkton, Monday evening, the following directors were elected: C. C. Strickland, Joshua Whitworth, O. C. Giles, Russell M. George, A. B. Miller, D. H. Garrett, Arthur Rambo, Harry H. Cleaves, Charles E. Rambo, A. D. Dean, Herman Jeffers, Edward Alexander.

The new directors organized and appointed the following officers, Joshua Whitworth, President; Russell George, Secretary; William J. Fenton, Treasurer; Arthur Rambo, Chief; Rodger Whitworth, Chief Pipeman; Edward F. Alexander, Chief Truckman; Charles Rambo, Chief of Autos.

Midwinter Dollar Day To Be Observed Feb. 16

Under the direction of the Mercantile Section of the Chamber of Commerce, Wilmington merchants are making elaborate preparations for the annual mid-winter Dollar Day, which will be observed on February 16. They propose to give everybody in Delaware an opportunity to realize personally the purchasing benefit to be derived from their application of their Dollar Day slogan, "Stretching the Dollar." The reputation of Wilmington's Dollar Days is nationwide, but the coming one promises to eclipse all former efforts to give the greatest possible value to customers.

Presbyterians Call Student to Vacant Pastorage

Choose W. J. Lutz at Meeting Last Night

Candidate Highly Recommended by Faculty at Princeton Seminary

By a unanimous vote last night, the contributing members and communicants of the First Presbyterian Church took the initial step toward calling to the vacant pastorate Rev. W. J. Lutz, now in his Senior year at Princeton Theological Seminary.

Mr. Lutz as a candidate filled the pulpit on January 23, and made a very favorable impression. He is about 35 years old and according to the faculty of the Seminary is one of the most brilliant and promising young men that has ever attended that institution.

To prosecute the call, Dr. Charles W. Dunlevy and Orlando Strahorn, Elders; and Mr. W. E. Holton, trustee, were appointed by the meeting. Although only 98 votes were cast, a much larger number manifested their interest by their presence. Rev. David A. Reed of White Clay Creek Presbyterian Church acted as Moderator and Dr. Charles W. Dunlevy, clerk of the Session, acted as clerk of the meeting. His salary was voted at $2,000.

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTE HONORS DELAWARE GIRLS

Invites Exhibit of Canning Products and Sets Aside Permanent Space for Them

The Smithsonian Institute at Washington, D. C., which is the greatest permanent government exhibition hall in America, has signally honored the Delaware Canning Club girls by recently inviting them to exhibit the ten best jars of fruit, vegetables and meats that they had packed in 1920 by the one period cold pack method.

The following named girls were so successful in their home canning work that their products were selected as Delaware's first club contribution to the great Smithsonian collection of the best of everything in the land.

The Kent County Exhibit: Berries—by Naomi Hughes, Felton. Cherries—by Naomi Hughes, Felton. Carrots—by Dorothy Heyd, Felton. Greens—by Rebekah Jester, Felton. Peaches—by Sara Dill, Felton.

The Sussex County Exhibit: Beans—by Mary E. Smith, Redden. Beets—by Mary E. Smith, Redden. Chicken—by Myrl McNeel, Cedar Grove Club, Milford.

Corn—by Catherine Stuart, Redden. Tomatoes—by Mary E. Smith, Redden.

These canned products were sent to Washington this week, and will remain on exhibition until December 1, 1921, at which time they will be replaced by ten more jars taken from the best home Canning Club exhibits of the State. A permanent exhibition space has been set aside for the ten best jars each succeeding year from the Diamond State Canning Club girls.

Throughout the canning season, these Girls' Clubs canned fruits, vegetables, meats and soups under the direction of the County Farm Bureau, in cooperation with Delaware College and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Veterans of Foreign Wars to Have Special Meeting

By order of Post Commander William F. Rupp, the Lt. J. W. O'Daniel Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will hold a special meeting at Center Hall on Monday evening next, at 7:30 o'clock.

The Post held a snappy meeting on Monday night and initiated three members. The Ladies' Auxiliary is receiving recruits daily.

OBITUARY

Elizabeth I. Kilgore

Elizabeth I. Kilgore, aged 73 years, died of a complication of diseases at her home in Newport, last Saturday, February 5. Funeral services will be held at her late home this afternoon at 1 o'clock and interment made in Red Clay Creek cemetery. Her husband survives.

The Matchless Lincoln

From out the ranks of common men he rose—
Himself of common elements, yet fine—
As in a wood of different species grows
Above all other trees the lordly pine,
Upon whose branches rest the winter snows,
Upon whose head warm beams of summer shine;
His was the heart to feel the people's woes
And his the hand to hold the builder's line:
Strong, patient and great,
Born ruler of the State.

Among a mountain group one sovereign peak
Will tower aloft unto commanding height
As if more distant view abroad to seek—
First one to hail, last one to speed the light;
Those granite sides will snows of summer streak
E'en in the summer with their purest white;—
Silent, serene, that summit yet will speak
Of loftiest grandeur to the enraptured sight;
So Lincoln's greatness shone
Supreme, unmatched, alone.

For The Homemaker's Eye

Stuffed Steak

One cup of bread-crumbs; moisten them with rich stock or sweet milk; add one tablespoon of chopped parsley, one tablespoon of butter, one scant teaspoon of celery seeds, one small onion, chopped; a thin slice of breakfast bacon, chopped fine, and salt and pepper to taste. Roll into a large ball and roll it up securely in a nice round steak weighing about two pounds. Tie the meat with a piece of twine to hold in the filling; dredge with flour; place in a baking pan; add one-half cup of water and bake until done. Baste often.

Crab Meat Salad

Crack the large claws of a crab, pick out the white meat in as large pieces as possible. Lay the contents of the carapace in the middle of a large dish; on that put the pickings from the breast and on top of the pieces the claws. Surround the pile with a small quantity of mixed salad, blanched endive, quartered lettuce hearts or watercress.

Pour a little mayonnaise or salad dressing over the whole, garnish the dish with small claws and a little green parsley. The four black tips of the shells of the large claws, which children call "soldiers," may be placed at the four corners. Be careful that the mixed salad is thoroughly dry. Time to prepare, three-quarters of an hour. One medium-sized crab is enough for four persons.

Salmon Salad

Take two cupfuls of cold boiled salmon or a can of salmon, one tablespoonful of lemon juice, one egg yolk, two teaspoonfuls of sugar, one tablespoonful of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, paprika and mustard to taste, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, two-thirds of a cupful of milk, one-fourth of a cupful of vinegar, one tablespoonful of gelatin softened in one-fourth cupful of cold water. Mix the dry ingredients, beat in the butter and milk, add vinegar. Cook in a double boiler, stirring until the mixture thickens. Add the gelatin, then the salmon, mix well and pour into molds. Serve on a bed of lettuce with any desired dressing.

Marguerite Salad

* One hard cooked egg, one tablespoonful finely grated cheese. Arrange lettuce on plate and cut egg lengthwise. Shred the white to represent the petals of a flower, place on lettuce daisy fashion, force yolk through strainer for center and add cheese to the center. Serve with boiled dressing.

Mayonnaise of Lobster

Meat of one large boiled lobster, cold, and cut into dice. Lay aside the coral for the dressing. Make this of these ingredients—Four hard boiled eggs, two tablespoons good salad oil, one teaspoonful each of made mustard, salt, white sugar and anchovy sauce. Vinegar and cayenne to taste.

Pound yolks perfectly smooth, rub in the coral and other ingredients with great care, moistening with vinegar as they stiffen, until a smooth cream is the result. Pour this over the minced lobster and toss up well with a silver fork. Heap in the center of the salad howl and lay cool white lettuce hearts around it, helping out these with the lobster. Inside of the lettuce lay a chain of the sliced boiled whites.

A Salad Dessert

Good salad dessert is made by concocting a lemon flavored gelatine (which brings other flavors out to perfection), through which are scattered sliced strawberries, peaches and bananas. Almost any salad dressing is good with this gelatine combination, but many fruit salads are best with a whipped cream or sweetened boiled dressing which has been diluted with either cream or condensed milk.

With salads made of banana combined with green peppers, pimentos, olives, nuts, celery or lettuce, a simple French dressing made of oil and lemon juice well beaten together is very nice.

Apple Cake

Make a baking powder biscuit mixture, using one cup milk. Turn into buttered cake tin, press slices of apple into the dough. Bake about one-half hour. Serve with apple sauce and cream.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Keep a pair of scissors in the kitchen for shredding greens and cutting up vegetables or left-over meat.

Large pockets of black or white oilcloth hung on closet doors make convenient receptacles for dust cloths, overshoes, etc.

Envelopes will stick much better if you wait a few seconds after moistening to seal. This rule applies also to postage stamps.

When making lemonade, place lemons on the grate in the oven for a few moments before squeezing. This will make them more juicy.

Bottled cranberry juice is even better than grape juice for making punches, etc., and it has an even more attractive color than grape juice.

If a common vegetable brush is applied to the neckbands and wristbands of men's shirts, these soiled parts will be much easier to clean.

If buckwheat batter has been put to rise overnight, and in the morning has a slightly sour odor, add one-fourth teaspoon of soda dissolved in warm water.

Never pile hot griddle cakes on a cold plate, or they will become soggy.

A novel way to serve ice cream is to scoop out in balls and dust with cocoanut.

If a pine pillow loses strength of odor, steam it and it will smell as sweet as ever.

Do not rub soap on woolen stockings when washing them but wash in a thick soap suds.

Coffee is a delightful, different and universally liked flavoring for desserts and sauces.

Celery may be stuffed with cream cheese, beaten to a paste with a little rich milk and seasoned.

Onion sauce is savory. To a cream sauce, when boiling, add four boiled onions, chopped fine.

A Raise

Two drummers in conversation: "Jack Rose handed in his resignation as a bluff to make the firm raise his salary."

"Did they raise it?"

"Yes, but another man is drawing it."

Lincoln's Indiana Home

"On the southwest slope of this knoll, they made their camp," writes Ida M. Tarbell of the first Lincoln home in Indiana in her "Boy Scouts' Life of Lincoln," in the February Boys' Life. "It was what the woodsman knows as a half-faced camp. Two strong straight trees about fourteen feet apart, standing to the east and west, were chosen and trimmed and hewn to serve as corner posts. The east, west and north sides were then enclosed in log cabin fashion, a lighter timber being cut then for a permanent building. These sides were made tight with clay, the roof with sod branches of trees. There was no chimney in the half-faced camp, but in front on the open south side a big fire-place was made, and here a fire was kept burning night and day whatever the weather, as a guard against prowling wolves, bears and wildcats.

"Most of the cooking was done in what was known as the Dutch oven, a large iron pot, standing on three long legs and furnished with an iron cover and a handle. A big bed of coals was raked in front of the high pile of logs which were always burning in a fire-place, and on these the pot was placed. No better cooking utensil was ever devised for stew or roast than the Dutch oven, but you must have a bed of coals, such as only a fire-place will give.

"A half-faced camp could be made livable, even in winter, except under two conditions—when a south wind blows the smoke into the shelter and when a dreaching rain soaks everything, inside and out. Then camp life becomes a test of courage and cheerfulness. Before the winter was over the Lincoln family often had to suffer this test."

Food Inspectors Instructed To Watch Noodle Shipments

A yellow streak is an evidence of quality in a gold mine, but it may mean something entirely different when it appears in a so-called egg noodle. Some manufacturers of noodles impart a yellow streak to their product with dye. The only purpose is to make the noodle resemble a real egg noodle, according to officials of the Bureau of Chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture, who are charged with the enforcement of the Federal Food and Drugs Act. Food inspectors have been instructed to watch interstate shipments of noodles in order to enable the Department of Agriculture to check this practice, which, under the provisions of the Food and Drugs Act, is illegal.

The use of the dye, which costs little, in place of eggs, which are expensive, is not only a fraud upon the consumer, but it makes for unfair competition among manufacturers, the department holds. It is difficult for reputable manufacturers to meet the competition of unscrupulous producers who substitute a cheaper and less nutritive substance for the genuine and more expensive material.

Getting Rid of Roaches

One of the most effective and simple means of ridding premises of roaches is dusting with commercial sodium fluorid, either pure or diluted one-half with some inert substance such as powdered gypsum or flour. This remedy is one recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Numerous practical tests conducted in lunchrooms, bakeries, milk-bottle exchanges, etc., have shown that with the use of this substance roaches can be completely exterminated with very little trouble and cost and with none of the possible dangers attending the use of hydrocyanic-acid gas, another efficient means of control. With the use of some dust gun or blower the sodium fluorid can be thoroughly dusted over the shelves, tables, floors and the runways and hiding places of the roaches.

The immediate effect of the powder is to cause these insects to come out of their retreats and rush about more or less blindly, showing evidence of discomfort, to be followed in the course of a few hours by their death. The dead or paralyzed roaches can be swept up and burned, and complete extermination is effected within 24 hours. It is not definitely known whether the sodium acts through the breathing pores or as a stomach poison. Probably, however, it acts in both ways, inasmuch as it has been found to kill caterpillars fed on foliage dusted with it.

At the Shop called Kells where Printing is considered an Art and not a Job.

Kells has come into its own again. A Program of the Convention of the American Road Builders Association left our shop for Chicago. Rather interesting piece of printing—50 pages, 8 x 12, half-tone and three-color work. We are pleased with the effort and await with confidence for a word of commendation from the Convention.

Then again. In a series of book talks given by Professor Mershon at the New Century Club of Wilmington, the Home of the Book Beautiful in Delaware was called Kells, a little plant out at Newark. "Creed and Deed" and the "Gospel of St. John," editions de luxe, issued by our shop, were on exhibit at his request.

A bit of a boast? Yes, perhaps. But it's a fact, too. Out here in the open country, the boys and girls are doing printing that is recognized by those who know.

Newark Loses to Wesley Collegiate

The strong Wesley Collegiate team defeated Newark High at Dover Saturday by a score of 23 to 20. This is the fifth win for Wesley out of six games played. Evans' foul shooting and McMurray's fast playing were features of the game, which was closely contested throughout. Collins and West played a stellar game for Wesley. The line-up and score was as follows.

	Field	Foul	Pts.
Evans, forward	1	0	11
McMurray, forward	2	0	4
Hopkins, center	1	0	2
Hayes, guard	1	0	2

Stanton to Have Baseball Team

The young men of Stanton and vicinity who are interested in baseball, held a meeting last Friday night at Marvel's store. They appointed Harvey Dickey manager and Alvin B. Mote assistant. They will hold another meeting on Thursday evening. The club expects to enter the Suburban League.

No Wonder

"How old is your little brother?" inquired Willie.
"He's a year old," replied Tommy.
"Huh! I've got a dog a year old and he can walk twice as well as your brother."
"That's nothing. Your dog's got twice as many legs."

Lord Stiffneck to hotel waiter—"Bring me some green corn with the other vegetables. I never saw green corn—would like to know what it looks like."

Waiter—"All right, sir."

Goes off, and returns in a few minutes well loaded with good things, which he placed before his lordship.

Lord S.—"Where is the green corn I told you to bring me?"
Waiter—"Why, sir, there it is."

Lord S.—"But that is not green—it's white."

Waiter—"Yes, sir—I know, sir; but in this country we sometimes call people green who are as white as yourself, sir."

Emigration Officer—"And what are you going to do?"

Emigrant—"Take up land, sir."

Emigration Officer—"Much?"

Emigrant—"Oh, about a shove at a time, sir!"

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford Model T One Ton Truck was the first low price truck to carry the worm-drive—that tremendous power delivering mechanism had previously been an exclusive feature with high priced motor trucks. In the Ford Truck, however, you get the worm-drive of manganese-bronze material, absolute in strength and positive in the delivery of power, at a very low price. Come in and let us point out the many superior merits of the Ford One Ton Truck, because you need one in your work. We give prompt and efficient repair service.

DELAWARE COM- PANY TO INSURE AUTOMOBILES BE- ING ORGANIZED

Local Citizen One of Number Who Will Act as Directors

An announcement of considerable importance to every owner of the 18,000 automobiles in Delaware, has just been made in a prospectus giving the benefits to be derived by the cooperation of automobile owners taking a profit-participating interest in a home State Automobile Insurance Company, directed and managed by well-known successful Delawareans.

The preliminary work has been quietly progressing under the management of H. Lee Walker of Dover, and the proposition has been so heartily endorsed and substantially supported, that the organization of the "Delaware Automobile Insurance Company" will be consummated as soon as certain provisions of the State Insurance Laws can be complied with. This should be within the next few weeks, as approximately one-third of the required subscribers have already been secured.

Delaware has several successful Fire Insurance Companies, and an unusually prosperous Life Insurance company. An aggressive, but conservatively managed company, insuring automobiles, should also receive the confidence and cooperation of our people, and prove most successful.

Based on the actual experience of companies of about the same financial strength, operating in a limited territory, whose losses average only about 15 per cent of the premiums paid in, this proposed company should attract business even beyond its capacity, and show extremely gratifying earnings, which would materially reduce the present high cost of automobile insurance.

Mr. Thomas Baker Young, Odd Fellows Building, Wilmington, is now associated with Mr. Walker in the final formation stage of bringing together those desiring to participate in the project.

The advantages of such a business enterprise to the automobile insurer, the State of Delaware, and these becoming members were generously attested at a meeting held recently in Wilmington and the following men agreed to act as Directors of the company:

Norris N. Wright, Newark; Frank C. Bancroft, Wyoming; M. Hayes Wilson, Dover; Frederick Brady, Middletown; James B. Broad, Wilmington; Willard F. Deputy, Laurel; Horace L. Dilworth, Wilmington; Harry T. Graham, Wilmington; Walter O. Hoffecker, Smyrna; Henry J. Krebs, Wilmington; John C. Truitt, Milford; S. H. Messick, Bridgeville; Josiah Marvel, Wilmington; William B. Mear, Wilmington; Edwin C. Marshall, Lewes; Charles D. Murphy, Harrington; Robert P. Robison, Wilmington; Charles Topkis, Wilmington; Julian E. Townsend, Georgetown; Charles Warner, Wilmington.

Lincoln's Debt to His Stepmother

"I often think of the stepmother of Lincoln as an example of the deep and quiet and far-reaching power of a woman, a woman who thinks and loves. A commonplace woman, no doubt, most people thought her, and she probably thought herself so, too; a woman certainly, whose daily work was humble enough to all appearances, a pioneer woman meeting the many needs of the rough and hard pioneer life—that was all she seemed to be.

"If any one of you has seen her in the little rough log cabin, the homely, never-ending household tasks while the boy Lincoln stretched before the fire reading one of the few books that that life and community afforded, you would hardly have thought of her as a woman of influence. Yet those deft hands of hers that you think of mainly as washing dishes and cooking food and doing other sundry homely tasks, were molding, helping to mold all the while—no one knows just how far that help went—a nation's destinies. For the boy Lincoln was growing up under her influence, was growing up to be that man to whom a whole nation will always render loving homage. When he became a great man Lincoln had to acknowledge that it was the quiet, just and far-reaching influence of his stepmother—this plain, hard-working woman, remember—that he owed that was good and influential in himself."—Woman's Home Companion.

STEMMING THE TIDE OF IMMODEST FASHIONS

A noble attempt is being made by a group of eastern women to provide some means for stemming the wave of immodest fashion creations that are proving to be the ruin of our young women and men. There is no one so narrow-minded as to say that women have not the perfect right to dress well and make themselves attractive. But this is far from saying there is a license to disregard all those finer qualities and instincts of propriety and modesty. Our instincts as a rule are true and worthy of note, but let us beware of psychic cramps.

Nor should we be too quick to condemn the average girl, but let us first ask, has the opportunity been hers for the development of those finer qualities so noble in women? Those are to be called to task who have had this opportunity, but are now compromising their womanhood and bartering their souls for the modern demon of fashion. That little word, "shame," seems to be lost in the mad rush for popularity. This natural shame which is so expressive of beauty in the child is lost in the modern style of dress. Thank God, there are still homes where it is preserved and handed down to generations to come. Do not deceive yourself; some may play for your favors, but there are just as many who feel offended. While they may not condemn you at first sight you become for them an object of pity.

Since when have the fashion creators become our guides and lawmakers in regard to principles of modesty and decency? This, however, seems to be the case today—a lamentable state of affairs indeed.

What is the cause for the flagrant disregard of modesty? Either they have never learned the true principles so as to make them part and parcel of their nature, or have forgotten and are now drifting along compromising their womanhood by permitting style and fashion to be their form of conduct. Cardinal Gibbons says that in all the Gospel narratives there is not one instance to be found where Jesus rebuked or condemned a woman—certainly a most consoling thought. We wonder could such be His attitude today? After ages have passed, the saying of the pagan philosopher remains true: "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world." Are you preparing yourselves for this all important task? A mother is a creator in this world second only to God—a creator of character based upon the rock bottom principles of Christian morality and conduct.

Lincoln's Gentle Rebuke to Grant

One of the latest stories of Lincoln is given here:

The President was visiting Grant in his Virginia camp, and the general was complaining of the interference of the Washington bureaucrats. "The only use I have for the War Department," he said finally, "is to furnish me soldiers and supplies. But the department mustn't interfere with me. I am doing the country's work, and mustn't be hampered."

"That reminds me," said the President, meditatively, "that reminds me of a man I knew out in Sangamon county, Illinois. He was a deacon, and had the long-winded exhortation habit. In fact, he had it so bad that people began to stay away from meeting. One day the preacher met him. 'Say, deacon,' he said, 'I don't want to curtail your religious fervor, but you must shorten up your exhortations. You're killing off the membership of the church.' 'Can't help it,' said the deacon, 'I'm doing the Lord's work, and I mustn't be hampered.'"

Grant laughed and temporarily dropped the subject.

TO WHICH OF THESE DO YOU BELONG

Are You Made Happy Easily or are You a Chronic Grouch?

"What is the matter with Anita Hall?" asked the girl who was spending the afternoon with her friend. "She has seemed so unhappy lately that I wondered if anything had gone wrong with her."

The other girl shrugged her shoulders. "It's probably nothing serious," she said indifferently, adding, as she noted the surprise in her friend's face. "By the time you've lived in Medford a few years longer, Nell, you'll discover, as the rest of us have done, that it takes a great deal to make Anita happy, but very little to make her unhappy."

Unfortunately, the brief description of Anita given by a girl who knew her well fits a good many other people. Most of us have met the girl who is not happy, in spite of the fact that she has a comfortable home, a father and a mother who are loving and kind, the opportunity to get a good education, simple pleasures, friendship—a list of blessings that would mean the height of happiness to many a forlorn and lonely soul. But the girl who has been so blest is unhappy because she wants more—a bigger, finer house, a large income, more elaborate clothes, more expensive pleasures. She declares, with a little air of pride, that it takes a great deal to make her happy, without realizing, apparently, that she is advertising herself as selfish, ungrateful, and lacking in appreciation.

Equally well known to most of us is the person who is made unhappy by trifles. A slight disappointment darkens the whole a word of criticism, no matter how kindly it may be meant, brings on a sulky fit that makes him and everybody about him unhappy. A little ache or pain is magnified until he can think of nothing else. A look or word that he interprets as a slight spoils completely his enjoyment of some pleasure to which he has been looking forward.

Why Lincoln Helped a Bug

President Lincoln was walking with a friend about Washington and turned back for some distance to assist a beetle that had got on its back and lay on the walk, legs sprawling in air, vainly trying to turn itself over. The friend expressed surprise that the President, burdened with the cares of a warring nation, should find time to spare in assisting a bug.

"Well," said Lincoln, with that homely sincerity that touched the hearts of millions of his countrymen, "do you know that if I had left that bug struggling there on his back, I wouldn't have felt just right? I wanted to put him on his feet and give him an equal chance with all the other bugs of his class."

"Do you know that your brother-in-law is going around telling everybody that you are a tightwad? He says you still have the first dollar you ever earned."

"Oh, well, that's more than he can say of the first dollar he ever borrowed."—Sew York Sun.

Put up his umbrella,
"This shower of hearts
Would embarrass a fellow.

"I'm glad that I manage it
Once in a year.
Exercise is the thing
Hearts are needing, I fear

"While many are beating,
They're all out of tune,
And cold as December
Instead of warm June.

Let's Go!

"Let's go!" was the chief battle slogan of the American Army in the World War. There were other popular and effective phrases used by the troops—"Where do we go from here?" and "When do we eat?" for instance—but in the opinion of Col. Edward L. Munson, chief of morale, General Staff, for everyday use, in rest or in battle, the slogan "Let's go!" stands foremost.

"None other seems so typically American, so broad and so satisfying."

MAKING MONEY

Some men make their money in business—some in stocks—some by toil some saving of their daily wages. But we submit to you the unquestioned fact that more men have achieved a comfortable competence through the ownership of property—houses and land which bring in a fixed income—that in any other way.

A word to the wise is enough. Watch your neighbors gradually rise in the world and then ascertain how they are doing it.

In nine cases out of ten you will find they have purchased their home or farm—often on easy terms—while their less enterprising neighbor is still paying rent.

A word to the wise is sufficient. If you have not yet started on a place of your own do not delay. Get full particulars about some of the following properties.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Miss Powers to Teach; Will Still Represent the Post

Miss Mary L. Powers, news editor of the Post, has accepted a position as instructor at the Rehabilitation School at Delaware College. She took up her new duties Monday of this week. Miss Powers will continue her work as representative of the Post, being relieved only of the office duties.

New Editor for Every Evening

An important change in the staff of Every Evening is of much interest to its readers, the public generally and also to the newspaper fraternity. Through his own volition Morris Taylor retires as editor, and he is succeeded by Charles B. Palmer. Mr. Taylor will be "editor emeritus" of our contemporary, which title Publisher William F. Metton has graciously conferred upon him, and he is worthy of it. Mr. Taylor, we are sure, will continue as a very frequent contributor to the editorial and other columns of Every Evening. The change can perhaps be best appreciated by those in the fraternity who have for some years been contemporaries of Mr. Taylor. It will be hard to think of Every Evening with Mr. Taylor not active charge of its editorial page, and yet if ever men earned well deserved rest, Mr. Taylor is one of them.

His active career covers a long period of years—thirty-seven years with Every Evening filling about every position in the editorial and news departments, legislative correspondent, editor, news editor, managing editor and what not, finally capping the climax as editor since 1894.

His life—and may long and useful years be ahead of him—has been a maze of activity not confined to newspaper work, for he was concerned in politics for some time. Away back in 1864, after he left high school, and tradition says he was one of the brightest scholars in his class, and that class produced some noted men—Mr. Taylor learned the trade of printer working on many papers. Then he became a reporter on the old Daily Gazette. He and Jerome B. Bell, for many years proprietor and editor of the Sunday Star, purchased the Gazette, then the Democratic organ, from the late Caleb P. Johnson and it was afterward merged with Every Evening. At one time there labored together on the Gazette, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Bell, and William H. Hill, who retired as editor of this newspaper a few years ago, through his own choice, but who, after a rest, has happily come back with us. That was a wonderful trio of newspaper men pulling in the same harness and the Gazette was a "hummer."

Mr. Taylor has therefore had a vast experience in Delaware affairs, an experience which found ample expression in his writings. He has an unusual memory for historical facts, especially those concerning Delaware. His frequent references to things of the past in the history of the State are called up principally from memory. With a mind packed with information, his chief delight, as we take it, has been in political writing and he has kept the flag of Every Evening flying in many a hard-fought, but enjoyable political battle, a veritable journalistic warhorse. Coupled with this, he has exercised scrupulous regard for the ethics of the newspaper fraternity in his controversies with his newspaper opponents, though such controversies in these days are far less frequent in all newspapers than in times gone by.

Happily we are not writing "valed" and pleased we are to pay a tribute to a man who has been in the rough and tumble and the excitement of newspaper work for so many years and has earned the esteem of his associates and contemporaries, a faithful worker, a forceful and graceful writer. His is a calling marked often by days of dire drudgery, the chief rewards of which are in the satisfaction of having performed a duty to the community by giving the best that is in one according to one's light. We are also pleased to welcome the new editor of Every Evening, Charles B. Palmer, a genial gentleman of much experience in the newspaper world. He comes to our neighbor from Nashville, Tenn., where he was editor of the Tennessean, one of the leading journals of the South. Mr. Palmer was at one time connected with the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, with newspapers in Atlanta and in other cities, and he has a high reputation. He is a welcome addition to the fraternity of the city and State. We bespeak for him a cordial welcome and congratulate Every Evening on its fortunate choice.

Colonel and Mrs. John T. Layfield, of Wilmington, spent last Saturday with their son, Walter A. Layfield. The visit was in the nature of a celebration, Mrs. Layfield thus celebrating her 72d birthday anniversary. The couple will celebrate their 53d wedding anniversary tomorrow.

Mrs. Frank Herson and daughter are visiting the former's parents at Reading, Pa.

Raymond M. Upton was a Philadelphia visitor the first of the week.

Miss Charlotte Mahaffey, of Wilmington, was a Newark visitor on Friday.

Miss Edith O. Lewis spent the week end in Philadelphia.

James L. Crow and family, of Washington, D. C., visited the home of the former's father, Robert J. Crow, over the week end.

Mrs. Charles J. Appleck, of Norfolk, Va., is spending several weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Carter.

James C. Hastings, of Wilmington, visited Newark friends the first of the week.

Dean Winifred J. Robinson is visiting Virginia Colleges this week.

Mrs. S. P. Burkett and daughter, Margaret, of near Harrisburg, Pa., visited the family of G. I. Durnall over the week end.

Dr. T. F. Manns spent the latter part of last week in the Southern part of the State, addressing Farmers' Institutes.

Mrs. A. L. Beals and Mrs. Clara Nickerson were Philadelphia visitors the latter part of the week.

Miss Katherine Graybill has returned after a visit of several days with relatives and friends in Scranton, Pa.

W. H. Walker spent the week end at the home of his sister in Philadelphia.

Robert Harrington on Sunday visited his wife and little daughter who are at Mrs. Harrington's home in Oxford.

Little Miss Dorothy Cabbage Holton celebrated her second birthday anniversary yesterday. A number of friends were entertained.

Social Doings

Mrs. George L. Townsend, Jr., entertained a number of friends at tea last Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Herman Tyson and Mrs. Walter H. Steel entertained a number of friends at tea yesterday afternoon.

The American Legion is arranging for a dance to be held in the Armory on Washington's Birthday.

The Pall Mall Club is making preparations for a dance to be given in the Armory on February 18. Winthrop's orchestra will furnish the music.

About 100 couples attended the benefit dance given last night by the Veterans of Foreign Wars in the New Century Club building. Ice cream, cake and coffee were served by the Ladies' Auxiliary and friends of the Post. A goodly sum was realized. This will be applied to the purchase of paraphernalia for initiatory work and for room equipment.

The February number of the Artist series to be given next Saturday evening in Wolf Hall is "An English Dramatist's View of Abraham Lincoln," by the celebrated John Drinkwater, author of the play, "Abraham Lincoln."

John Drinkwater was born in Essex, June 1, 1882. His father was engaged in the management of theatrical enterprises. Mr. Drinkwater is a graduate of the Oxford High School and the Birmingham University. After twelve years in the commercial world he became manager of the Birmingham Repertory theatre, called by many the most beautiful in England. Meanwhile he was writing poetry, essays, and books of plays. He has attained an enviable position in the literary world and is sometimes termed the "English Walt Whitman." Of Drinkwater's work a critic in the North American says: "In all of John Drinkwater's work I discover high sincerity, a love of simple beauty and good purpose and fine character."

Success of the Play

The success of the play "Abraham Lincoln" has been nothing less than phenomenal. It was the most singular success of the London theatrical season of 1918-1919. As Arnold Bennett has so effectively said, "Nobody can dine out in London today and admit without a blush that he has not seen 'Abraham Lincoln.' Monarchs and princes have seen it. Archbishops have seen it. Statesmen without number have seen it." King George and Queen Mary journeyed out into the "wilds of Hammersmith," a suburb of London, to see the play. H. G. Wells, the popular English novelist, went to see it a second time.

In this country the play has been equally successful. The writer had the pleasure of seeing the play at the Cort theatre in New York on the twenty-sixth of last August when the mercury rose to the ninties making the Amsterdam Roof more comfortable than the inside of any theatre. Yet Lincoln's countrymen packed the Cort theatre and neglected the attractive musical comedies on the coll Roof Gardens! Although that is not a "perfect tribute," it is one of the sincerest we know. The press has recently noted the fact that President Wilson visited the theatre for the first time in eighteen months to witness the performance in Washington. What comfort he must have derived from it!

To see the play is a privilege; to read the play is to want to see it again. We are indeed fortunate in being able to have the author of the play, Mr. Drinkwater, visit us.

EXPECT TO ENROLL 80 PER CENT OF FARMERS IN FARM BUREAU

Drive for Membership Will be Completed This Week

"I signed one hundred per cent of the farmers seen," said R. W. Willey, of Kent county, after completing his route in the Stanton-Newport community last Thursday. The drive for membership in the New Castle County Farm Bureau is now in full swing and will be completed this week.

The drive started strong in Hockessin community with seventy per cent of the farmers secured as members. The per centage will be greatly increased as the majority of the refusals wished a little time and will sign when seen this week.

Odessa turned in a remarkable report of only one absolute refusal for the whole community. Chairman P. E. Pleasanton said, "We are after the prize over here."

It is safe to predict that 80 per cent of the farmers of New Castle County will be members of the organization when the campaign is complete.

In a few weeks a State meeting will be held at Dover, where the State Federation of Farm Bureaus will be perfected, policies of the organization adopted and the feasibility of employing an executive secretary discussed.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank the many kind friends and neighbors who aided with acts of kindness and helpfulness in our recent bereavement.

—Mrs. George Vansant and Family.

Card of Thanks

Be it hereby resolved, that we, the undersigned, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, Post 475, of Newark, Delaware, extend a note of thanks and appreciation to Mrs. Charles Blake, Mrs. James McKelvey, Mrs. Harry Bonham, Mrs. Francis Moore, Mrs. Clarence Denney and the people of Newark for their generosity and assistance in making our dance, held on February 8th, a great success.

By order of the Commander, William F. Rupp, Official Adjutant, E. LeDue.

A Country Club for Newark

PLAY and Recreation, Outdoor and Fellowships, are the great needs of Democracy. We take ourselves too seriously. For Civic Good, Community Interest, Health and Happiness, I know of nothing that helps so much as the modern Country Club. The sportsmanship there practiced gets into the blood and into business, social affairs, politics. A Man appears. A minister in a near-by city said, recently, that he considered his work and influence on the Golf Links were as important and as effective as his strictly church organizations. "And," said he, "I am benefited, too. My friends forget my profession and treat me as one of them. They listen to me as a Man, and if I appeal to them as men and my plea is worthy, they respond."

Shall Newark Have Such a Club?

Several citizens have interested themselves in such a project. A total subscription of $8,000.00 has been raised so far, which shows there is strength to the idea.

With this raised, it is assured that such a club can be organized. But it is not to be an exclusive affair. Those interested in such a proposition are invited to attend the next meeting held in the Pool Room at the home of S. J. Wright on Thursday evening, February 10th, at 8 o'clock.

The stock in the proposed organization sells at $25 per share. If interested in a Playground for yourself and friends, you are urged to attend this meeting to learn of and assist in its organization.

WHAT PEOPLE THINK THEY CAN AFFORD

Surplus Spent for What the Heart Really Desires

It is interesting to hear people tell what they can, and what they cannot afford; without suspecting it, they give the listener a pretty clear idea of what they consider really worth while.

A girl who had been invited to the home of an office friend was admiring the latter's collection of books. "You have so many lovely books," she sighed. "I'm fond of books, too, but I can't afford to buy them."

A curious smile flitted across the face of the hostess, for she knew that she and her friend received practically the same salary, and she recalled the Saturday afternoon, only a month before, when she had helped the other girl to select a handsome blouse, the third or fourth which she had bought during the season.

"How pretty it is!" she herself had said admiringly as the clerk folded it carefully into a box. "I wish I had one like it to wear with my tan skirt, but I cannot afford a new blouse."

There was the difference; the girl who could not afford expensive clothes, but could afford the books she loved; the other girl, who thought that she cared for books, but could not afford them because in reality she cared more for handsome clothes. Those two girls are like thousands of others who proclaim what they really care most for by the sort of things they feel they can afford to have.

It is common enough to hear a girl explain that she cannot afford to go to some really good lecture or concert, while at the same time she is going two or three nights a week to the movies and spending on such amusements in the course of a year enough money to buy several concert tickets. The listener who knows the facts in the case may be pardoned for doubting whether she is really as fond of fine music as she thinks she is.

Many a girl who explains that she would like to contribute to some deserving charity, but cannot afford to do so, finds it easy enough to afford, every now and then, and expensive luncheon for herself and two or three friends at a down-town restaurant or tea-room.

If we have any surplus above our bare living expenses, we are pretty sure to use it for what, deep down in our hearts, we consider really worth while, and that is why we tell others, by what we afford, what our real tastes are. If we spend all our spare money for handsome clothes, it is hard to make others believe that we really long to own good books, that we are really sorry that we cannot go to lectures and symphony concerts, that we are honestly anxious to give to worth charities. What we actually spend our money for is the best proof of what we really value.

Income Tax Facts

You Should Know

Births, deaths, and marriages during the year 1920 affect materially income tax returns for that year.

Millions of babies were added to family circles, each of whom brings an exemption of $200 in the parents' income tax return.

Widows and widowers who lost their husbands or wives during the year are especially affected. They are single for the purposes of the income tax law and are granted only an exemption of $1,000, unless the head of a family.

Persons who were divorced or separated by mutual agreement during the year also must consider themselves as single persons.

The status of the taxpayer on December 31, 1920, determines the amount of the exemptions. If on that day the taxpayer was married and living with wife or husband, claim may be made for the $2,000 exemption. If single, or married and not living with wife or husband on December 31, the exemption is only $1,000.

Persons who reached majority during the year and whose earnings for that period amounted to $1,000 or more, or $2,000 or more, according to their marital status, must file a return and pay a tax on their net income in excess of those amounts.

To avoid penalty, the return must be in the hands of the Collector of Internal Revenue for the district in which the taxpayer lives, or has his principal place of business, on or before midnight of March 15, 1921.

THE ORGAN OF MANY STOPS

In a small Pennsylvania town is a church with a wonderful organ, the gift of a wealthy woman who lived for many years in the town. It is an organ that musicians come many miles to hear and to play upon, and its interest to them is due partly to its beautiful tone, and partly to the great variety of its stops, which makes it possible for the player to get many wonderful effects. The organist who has only a poor instrument is apt to speak of it apologetically, "Not much of an organ; only a few stops, you know." The greater the number of stops an organ possesses, the greater are its possibilities as a musical instrument.

Not long ago a friend was telling me of her efforts to entertain a young woman, the cousin of a college chum, who on her way to California was obliged to stay over a day in the home town of the former.

"I was at my wits' ends before the day was over," the hostess said with a rueful smile. "Nothing seemed to interest that girl. We could have gone to a concert, but when I suggested it, I quickly discovered that she did not care for music. There was a very interesting exhibit at the Art Institute, but she did not care for pictures or statuary. We have no automobile, but are close to a car line that takes up into a charming country district. My guest frankly admitted that the country bored her, and that she did not like car-riding. So far as I could discover, she had no taste for reading, and was very slightly interested in what was going on in the world. How can a girl with so few interests get any enjoyment out of life?"

If the hostess of a day had been a musician, she would probably have compared her trying guest to an organ with only a few stops, for that is what she was. No doubt she had interests that my friend failed to discover, but she lacked some of the great and important interests of life, music, art, literature, which add so much of richness and variety to the everyday round.

There are other girls who are a joy to everybody they meet because they are so "responsive," as we say. They are interested in books, they like pictures and music, they are fond of out-door sports, but find pleasure also in a quiet afternoon at home. Like a fine organ, they have many stops, and the variety of their interests not only makes their own lives richer, but gives pleasure to others as well.

How many stops an organ shall have is a matter that is decided when the organ is built. How many stops we shall have ourselves is a matter for us to decide as we go on from year to year. We can limit the number to half a dozen, if we are satisfied to be poor, mediocre instruments, or we can go on adding to our interests month after month, and year after year, until we have the wonderful range and variety of a fine organ.

There are those who think it childish to find pleasure in a beautiful sunset, or in a patch of vivid blue spiderwort alongside a railroad track, and who do not understand how anybody can take a real interest in small happenings, in the little joys and sorrows of children, for instance. But there can be no question who gets the more enjoyment out of an automobile trip, or who would be considered the more interesting companion—the girl who is keenly alive to every bit of beauty in the sky or along the road, and who is quick to note and appreciate the little human dramas that she sees unfolded; or the girl who frankly doesn't care for scenery, and isn't interested in the people along the way.

It seems a pity to limit ourselves to a few stops when we could have so many. The more books we read, the more we want to read; the more pictures we see, and the more good music we hear, the keener grows our enjoyment of art and music. It is a matter of making a beginning, of deliberately interesting ourselves along new lines, and so adding new stops to our organ. A wide range of interests will multiply our own enjoyment of life, and make us much more interesting to other people.

FAIR BUILDERS

Build thy nest—walls higher, robin;
Straws are plenty, mud is cheap.
And, although thy toil be weary,
Toil for sake of love is sweet;
Then, when soon thy little nestlings
Brood beneath thy wings,
They will find their home a shelter
From all harmful things.

Build thy home—walls higher, mother;
Fashion all with care,
Adding here a touch of sunshine,
And a starlight there;
Then, when storms of wild temptation
Break thy child's repose,
He will find his home a shelter,
'Mid a world of woes.
—John Philo Trowbridge.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' CLUB PROGRAM FOR 1921

Work Outlined in Monthly Publication Recently Issued

Nation-wide experience in Boys' and Girls' Club work has demonstrated that the above named aims and purposes can be secured best through the use of extension methods. The most successful of our own experiences in conducting club work in Delaware will be continued this year. In as far as possible, the whole club program will be built upon the boys' and girls' home project work and upon the local community, or school club.

Club tours will be held wherever practicable to observe the most successful farm and home demonstrations.

Whenever proper arrangements can be made, local achievement programs or community round-ups will be held at the close of the club year by every club group.

Public contests in exhibiting, in judging and in demonstrating will be conducted in the various farm and home enterprises at the Kent-Sussex Fair, near Harrington, during the last week of July. The best of these down-state exhibits and the champion teams of the two counties will be sent from their respective communities and counties to the Delaware State Fair, which will be held near Wilmington, in the early part of September. Here in turn, champion members will exhibit from the three counties and will contest by teams for State honors and awards in keeping with their achievements. Then as last year, nine State Fair club champions will be awarded the annual free trips to the great agricultural and industrial exposition, which will be held at Springfield, Mass., about the middle of September. A dairy club judging team may also be selected to represent Delaware at the National Dairy Show. Premium lists for the Kent-Sussex Fair and the Delaware State Fair will be announced in the Club Leader in an early issue. Finally, as a grand climax to a successful club year, community achievement champions for the whole year in the various home projects will be sent on a free trip to the Third Annual Junior Farmers' Short Course, which will be held at Delaware College for one week during the Christmas holidays.

Picks Out 12 Best Newspapers

Seeking the twelve best newspapers in the United States for his own reading, Greenville Talbott, a writer on the editorial staff of the Augusta, Ga., Chronicle, wrote to a large number of the chief editorial writers on well-known daily newspapers throughout the country. A large number of replies were received and Mr. Talbott tabulated the answers for the Editor and Publisher, showing the best twelve dailies, alphabetically arranged, as follows:

Baltimore Sun, Boston Transcript, Chicago Tribune, Christian Science Monitor, Indianapolis News, Kansas City Star, New York Post, New York Times, New York World, Philadelphia Ledger, Portland Oregonian, Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

Governor Denney Announces Appointments

Governor Denney has announced the appointment of Walker D. Millin, of Dover, to be a member of the State Board of Agriculture, succeeding Gen. Alden T. Benson, of Dover, being appointed Secretary of State. The appointment is for three years.

Governor Denney has also appointed Edward B. Loudonbaugh, of Dover, State Librarian, to succeed Earl D. Wiley, now deputy attorney general for Kent county. Mr. Loudonbaugh is a newspaper man and was connected with the State Sentinel in Dover for forty years. The appointment is for two years and the salary $1500 a year.

J. Hall Anderson, of Dover, former representative Frederick D. Bender of Delaware City and Harris Samonlasky, a newspaper man of Wilmington, were appointed by Governor Denney commissioners in the port of Delaware to meet with a like commission from New Jersey to prepare uniform legislation for the taking of fish from the Delaware River and bay. The appointments were sent to the Senate for confirmation.

Governor Denney also reappointed Arthur L. Bailey and Mrs. Charles R. Miller, of Wilmington, Mrs. James W. Anthony, of Smyrna, Mrs. Henry Ridgely, of Dover, Daniel W. Corbit, of Odessa, and Henry P. Cannon, of Bridgeville, members of the State Library Commission.

Kennard-Pyle Co. Plans Entertainments for Store Force

For the purpose of promoting efficiency and stimulating interest in their combined sales forces, the Kennard-Pyle Co., Market street, below Seventh, Wilmington, has inaugurated a series of monthly entertainments whereby the members of the establishment will not only be enlightened on the methods of the business, but will also have an opportunity of becoming better acquainted with the personnel of the firm and with each other.

Maryland Society to Hear Irvin Cobb
The annual dinner of the Maryland Society will be held in the ballroom of the Hotel duPont, Thursday evening, February 24. It is expected that two hundred and fifty guests will be present.

The principal speaker of the evening will be Irvin S. Cobb, of newspaper and magazine fame. Other speakers will include Bishop Philip D. Cook, U. S. Senators L. Heister Ball and Josiah Wolcott, Governor Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, Governor William D. Denney, of Delaware and Judge Williams of Baltimore. Mayor William G. Taylor and Judge George Gray will be present.

The Maryland Society organized several years ago, and now has a membership of 350. The present officers are Dr. Charles L. Reese, president; John S. Russell, vice president; and Howard G. Marston, secretary and treasurer.

Heroes Memorial Fund Grows Rapidly
The appeal of the committee for contributions for the Soldiers' and Sailors' Memorial, to be erected in Elkton, is meeting with responses from all sections of the county and $7220.25 has already been raised. As soon as $10,000 is secured the contract will be awarded.

Organized Into Parent-Teacher Associations
Numerous organizations of Parent-Teacher Associations have been formed during the past week.

Program leaflet for February meetings issued by the State Parent-Teacher Association, are being sent to associations throughout the State. The principal subject for the month is health of the community and suggestions are given as to avoidance of colds, care of teeth, troubles which arise from tonsils, adenoids, defective eyesight and communicable diseases.

Accompanying the program leaflets are handsomely illustrated booklets for distribution among the parents, who in turn are expected to give them to their children. These booklets are entitled "The Happy Journey" and tell the "Road to Health" in picture form. The illustrations, which are most effective, are the work of Mrs. Paul Collins, formerly Miss Grace Lloyd, the well known artist of this city.

COLLEGE LESISLATION

Representative Medil Presents Bills

Representative Medil introduced in the House a bill to change the name of Delaware College to "University of Delaware." Dr. Walter Hulihan, President of Delaware College, is a strong advocate of the proposed change. He has pointed out that it is now in everything but name a university, as there are a group of colleges at Newark under one head, such as the Women's College, engineering department, arts and science, agricultural department, extension department, summer school, etc. The change would in no way affect appropriations and would not make the institution more expensive to operate, but would probably give it a better standing in the college world.

Representative Medil also introduced bills providing for the appropriations for Delaware College for the next two years.

The appropriations asked for would total $425,886.14, and in addition, the Legislature is asked to authorize the issuing of bonds to the amount of $410,000, to provide new buildings at the Women's College and at the college farm.

The items in the appropriation bill follow: Maintenance of Delaware College, $83,500 a year for 1921 and 1922; maintenance of Women's College, $53,000 a year for two years; Agricultural department, $20,000 a year for two years; Extension department to take advantage of federal appropriations, $15,407.60, for the two years and also $6,003 for the two years to enable the state to receive federal funds under the Smith-Lever Act. This makes a total of $425,886.14 for the two years including $91,475.54 deficit that has been created.

Representative Corbit introduced a bill establishing the Coleman duPont chair of highway engineering at Delaware College and appropriating $1500 annually therefor.

Aid For Women's College.

The other bill would authorize the State treasures to issue bonds to the amount of $240,000, for the erection and equipment of a dining hall and dormitory at the Women's College, to be known as Kent Hall.

ENTHUSIASM RUNS HIGH at Miller's Greatest February Furniture Sale

In planning our sale this year we had good grounds for claiming that it would be our GREATEST FURNITURE SALE. We knew in advance that we would startle the City and State with the low prices we had determined to quote during the month.

We had sized up other sales and knew just what other merchants were giving the public in the way of prices. We invited the people to wait for the opening of our sale with full confidence that it would be the GREATEST FURNITURE SALE.

That it has proved well worth waiting for is the verdict of hundreds of enthusiastic buyers.
