

University of Delaware
Office of Residence Life
UPPER-DIVISION HALLS
2009-2010 Final

Introduction:

The upper division residence halls include Central, Christiana Towers, Independence South and Ray Street complexes. In total these areas include a mix of approximately 4000 sophomore (approximately 55%), junior (approximately 35%), and senior (approximately 15%) students. The upper division halls have unique characteristics and traditions resulting from special programs such as Special Interest Housing, Upper-class Honors housing, apartment-style and suite-style living. Due to the variety in type of student and housing, a wider variety of options affects the programming for these areas.

The upper division plan includes activities to promote student interaction, attend to social needs, and generate opportunities for students to contribute to community life. The upper division plan continues reflection and exploration of citizenship with students while also providing opportunities for them to examine their undergraduate goals and plan for their future success within and outside of the University.

Staff members are expected to follow the guidelines within the program plan in developing activities for students. An emphasis is placed on partnering with professionally trained staff and students whose involvement will advance the residents' understanding of citizenship.

With the exception of the floor and building meetings held at opening, all activities detailed in this plan are attendance-optional. Students will not face penalties, perceived or real, for failing to engage in residential activities and programs. Staff and students will be aware that no activity in the residence halls is mandatory.

Repeating Themes in the Upper Division Program Plan:

Resident Assistant (RA) and Resident Relationship:

The RA-resident relationship can be critical to the success of a residence hall student. In the upper-division halls, the role can often evolve from one of support to a partnering relationship. A series of optional RA conversations are included as part of the plan to provide students who want the opportunity to participate in this important relationship. Community floor meetings, residence hall student government (CCC), and the promotion of campus events also continue to be priorities in the upper-division halls.

Student Life Showcase:

The complex staff will develop an activity in collaboration with a Division of Student Life unit to highlight the works and/or a specific event of that unit. This will allow our students to utilize the resources at the University with which they may not yet be familiar as well as allow Residence Life to showcase campus events. On a monthly basis, the Complex Coordinator will be responsible to work with staff and students to decide which Division of Student Life resource would best benefit residents during that month's showcase.

Scholar Support Series:

This series is designed to highlight for students that their academic skills need to continue to adapt to new challenges as their classes become more challenging after their first year. Students will be offered opportunities to learn new or enhance old skills as well as be encouraged to take advantage of services offered on campus (Writing Center, Communication Fellows, Library Workshops, etc.). Campus departments which offer these services will be consulted to develop a plan which best utilizes the services of that department and provides for best information delivery to the residents. Hall Directors will work with the Resident Assistants and students to decide which opportunity would best serve residents during that month's event which will be approved by the Complex Coordinator to ensure variety and quality of events. Campus experts/professionals/faculty will be utilized when appropriate to offer the programs in the series.

Community Development Series:

Through this monthly program series, students will be offered opportunities for community and individual development. This series, in addition to the RA and resident relationship, allows the Resident Assistant to understand and address the needs of the residents. Through supervision meetings, Resident Assistants and their Hall Director will discuss the issues residents are facing and decide on the topic which should be addressed for the series. Topics will be approved by the Complex Coordinator to ensure variety and quality of events. Campus experts/professionals/faculty will be utilized when appropriate to offer the programs in the series.

Service Initiatives:

Semester-long service projects will be coordinated in an effort to offer opportunities for students to make their own unique contributions to the community. Events will be coordinated as a complex initiative.

Weekend Events:

Weekend socials are a time for our residents to relax with their fellow community members. To highlight the high percentage of students involved with registered student organizations (RSOs) and the diverse offerings of these organizations, staffs are encouraged to partner with residents involved in RSOs in developing these activities.

Bulletin Boards:

Bulletin Boards listed in the plan are done one for each building. RAs may use one of these bulletin boards for their floor or create a new one and will develop topic and content with approval and assistance from their HD and CC.

- World Headlines:
Newspapers from across the globe will be examined on a monthly basis to extrapolate one major event. Four to six articles, representing different perspectives, will be posted in public spaces for students to review. Each complex will be responsible for selecting the articles chosen and posted in common areas.
- UD: An Environmentally Sustainably Minded Community:
A member of the University of Delaware community (student, faculty, or staff) who is working on environmental sustainability initiatives will be identified and featured monthly (with member permission). It is expected that many aspects of environmental sustainability, visible in our local community (UD), will be featured through this monthly series.

We Are UD:

A monthly posting will be crafted, with the participation of appropriate units, to offer information on major commemorative dates such as Latino Heritage Month, African American Heritage Month, World AIDS day, and others. The monthly posting will also provide students with a listing of activities, events, and campus lectures should they wish to explore the topic further.

August/September

	Title	Description
Programs	Welcome Newsletter	This newsletter will introduce students to the residential complex and will be distributed to students electronically through the PO Box system.
	Scholar Support Series	On a monthly basis each building staff will provide opportunities to students to explore academic support related topics designed to support and encourage a student’s academic endeavors. Topics may include declaring a major, study skills support, time management, library resources, preparing for graduate school, and investigating study abroad opportunities.
		On a monthly basis each complex, in collaboration

	Student Life Showcase	with an office from the Division of Student Life, will provide opportunities to students to explore developmental topics connected to student needs.
	Community Development Series	This program series will be developed based on assessment by building staff and student input. Topics may include stress management, conflict resolution, exercise and nutrition, body image, healthy relationships, off campus living skills, financial responsibility, and group dynamics.
	Student Initiative Fund	Students will have the opportunity to learn about the Student Initiative Fund through an event aimed at promoting its use for social, educational, and service related activities.
Social Events	Complex Kick-off Week	Each complex will host various social events to build community within and across buildings.
	Special Interest Housing (SIH) Communities Events (Ray St.)	Each community will offer a program based on their theme.
	First Year Reunions	Rodney/Dickinson/Russell “class” reunions to re-connect first year cohorts
	Weekend Events	On Friday and Saturday evenings residents are invited to one of the lounges for various social activities. When possible, staff will seek assistance from RSOs to help and/or these events will tie in to service initiative events.
Floor Meetings	Opening Day Floor Meeting	Opening Floor Meeting – This is an avenue for students to get to know their RA and other floor residents through participation in various team-building activities. The RA will discuss the floor vision and expectations for the year.
	Opening Day Building Meeting	Opening Building Meeting – Students will become familiar with residence hall policies, code of conduct expectations, including a discussion of alcohol policies and expectations, Complex Community Council (CCC) leadership opportunities, the building staff, and the Community Police Officer. Led by the Hall Director, there will be a discussion of the potential student opportunities.
	September Floor Meeting	RAs will share information and ideas from the Floor Vision bulletin board with the residents and together the floor members will develop a floor vision statement.
RA Conversations	Introduction	RAs will introduce themselves to each resident on their floor, welcome him/her to the floor community, and answer any opening-day questions. This initial connection is also purposeful for the RA to show their availability to students.
	Upper Division Goal Setting	Building on the September floor meeting and September programs, this optional RA-student dialogue lays the foundation for a mutually beneficial relationship. Moreover, the conversation allows the student to construct and verbalize his/her personal and career goals while considering strategies to achieve those goals.
	Roommate/Suitemate Agreements	Those students opting to complete a roommate agreement will be able to develop strategies for respectful conversation and coexistence. Student pairs will also be encouraged to choose an environmentally sustainable goal and hold one another accountable for the achievement of that goal over the course of the semester.

Bulletin Boards	Floor Vision	A statement created by each RA communicating the living-learning environment he/she hopes to cultivate in conjunction with the floor community. The board will also allow space for residents to write their own floor vision. This vision sets the stage for the September floor meeting and the October stakeholder agreement by introducing the role each student could play on the floor.
	Welcoming Messages	RAs will be responsible for creating a visually appealing floor environment that welcomes students to their community. These include door decorations, welcome back banners, and other thematic visuals.
	Campus & Sustainability Resources	RAs will create a visual display of campus resources and environmentally sustainable resources at UD.
	National Campus Fire Safety Month	Each building will have a bulletin board detailing fire safety facts.
	Leadership Opportunities	Each building will provide information on specific leadership opportunities available within the complex and across campus.
	UD: An Environmentally Sustainably Minded Community	A bulletin board will highlight a university employee or student and their contributions to an environmentally sustainable society through their chosen vocation or community involvement. This is meant to provide an example of the connections that exist between sustainable decision making, a community, and citizenship. (ESC)
We Are UD	Student Activities Night	Staff will support the university and student activities through advertisement and support of student attendance at this event.
	Latino Heritage Month	Information related to Latino Heritage Month will be posted along with engaging questions. Campus events and opportunities will be advertised as additional opportunities for exploration of this topic. Complex staffs will work with faculty, other departments, and RSOs to provide a program to celebrate this area in complex.
Complex Community Council (CCC) Initiative s	Recruitment	Students will be introduced to leadership opportunities within the complex through an informational recruitment campaign. Students expressing interest will be able to publicize their candidacy, develop a platform, and solicit votes from other students within the complex. Students will also be able to complete a survey on the importance of voting; the results of which will be posted on complex websites.
	Student Leader Training (Ray St.)	Special Interest Housing leaders' orientation, team building, training, and goal setting.
	Elections/Executive Board Formation	Students will be able to learn about democratic processes through CCC elections, meet the executive board candidates, learn about community expectations and opportunities, and ultimately select their student leaders. Those students who did not vote will have an opportunity to select a candidate the next day through a mock "absentee ballot."
Other	Administrative processes & responding to student needs	Work to meet the general safety, security, and personal needs of students.  Administrative processes: early check-in, regular check-in/opening, RHR/IR conversations, keys/card administration, room changes, fire drills, packages,
