WELCOME FRESHMEN !!

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

To all new students—

I am grateful for this opportunity to extend an official as well as a personal word of greetings to all of you who are joining the University of Delaware community for the first time.

The fact that you have decided to continue your studies is in itself one of the most significant acts in your life. You have placed yourself among the few. Throughout the world there are thousands who, for one reason or another, are less fortunate than you. By your presence here you have acquired a new status but not without sacrifice and self-denial on the part of someone. I make reference to your parents and the taxpayers of Delaware who have made this opportunity possible. All of us—your parents, the taxpayers of the state, the faculty, administration and service staff of this institution—hope that the years you spend here will prove to be highly profitable. On what you make of your opportunity will depend much of the future of this state and, indeed, of this nation, for it is said, in the education of its youth will be found the best means which a democracy has to insure its survival. We can expect no less of you than to have you accept your responsibilities and to make the most of your opportunities.

From the very beginning of your educational experience with us, let me enjoin you to fix your minds on excellence and be dissatisfied with anything less. Then, you will be started on the road to success. Determine for yourself the difference between first and second-rate performance and act accordingly. I need not remind you that there is a vast difference between just going to school, attending classes, and making passing marks and getting an education. Whether you are here to earn credits and finally a degree or to get an education in the broadest meaning is a decision for you to make. Everyone connected with the University will do his utmost to give you every possible assistance in securing the most from your educational experience. It is only through the cooperative effort of you and the faculty that we can achieve that measure of success that society has a right to expect.

Good luck to you!

William S. Carlson
President

New Members Join Eng. & PSc. Depts.

Appointments Announced By Dean Francis Squire

Appointment of members to the University of Delaware's Faculty was announced by Dr. Francis H. Squire, dean of the University.

The new instructors in the English Department are: Dr. Ernest J. Moyné, John H. Meister, and David M. Vieth.

Dr. Moyné, who received his Ph.D. degree in June from Harvard University, is a native of Finland whose doctoral thesis on "Cultural Relations Between Finland and America, 1638-1938," has been lauded by Harvard's Howard Mumford Jones, eminent critic and author, as "almost unique in being from first to last a contribution to knowledge inasmuch as there are few literary scholars who have a knowledge of the Finnish language."

Now an American citizen who is married and the father of one child, Dr. Moyné was graduated from the Bulkeley School, New London, Conn., in 1934, and from Yale University with a B.A. degree in 1938. At Yale in 1934-35, he held the Charles F. Boroker Scholarship.

He was an assistant in Yale's Department of English in 1938-40, and received an M.A. degree there in 1940. He also has been an instructor in English at Williams College, 1942-43, and after serving more than three years in the Army he went to Harvard in 1946 as an assistant in English while studying for his doctorate. Meanwhile, he held the Dexter Travelling Fellowship at Harvard, and spent last summer in Sweden, Finland and England. His home is in Niantic, Conn.

Mr. Meister, who has completed work for his Ph.D. degree at the University of Pennsylvania, also holds an M.A. degree from Penn., 1932, and an A.B. degree from Temple University, 1930. He also has studied at Drexel Institute of Technology.

From 1933 to 1935 he was an instructor in English and social studies in the Philadelphia Department of Public Education's extension division, while from 1935-43 he was supervisor of industrial placement in the Department of Public Assistance, Philadelphia. In 1943 he joined the Bendix Aviation Corp. as assistant wage administrator and job analyst, and since 1946 he has served at the University of Pennsylvania as an assistant instructor in English, and at Pennsylvania State College as instructor of job analysis and wage administration. His home is at 1230 North Twelfth Street, Philadelphia.

Mr. Vieth, a native of New Haven, Conn., now is a resident of Hamden, Conn., in whose public schools he was educated. He received his B.A. degree from Yale University in February, 1945, after winning the Warren Memorial High Scholarship Prize. Yale also awarded him an M.A. degree last June. In 1945-46, he was a student in the U.S. Navy's Oriental Languages Schools. He is a member of Sigma Xi and Phi Beta Kappa honorary fraternities.

The new instructors replace James J. Clark, Forest E. Robinson, and Margaret C. Richard, who have resigned. They will start their new duties next month.

Addition of Harold W. Chase, formerly assistant conference director of Princeton University's School of Public and International Affairs, to the political science faculty of the University of Delaware was announced.

Mr. Chase, who has been in the Princeton post for the past year, ar-

Bigger and Better Social Life Due In Coming Year

Freshmen Urged To Work By Chairman Bill Gordon

The Social Committee is expecting the year '48-'49 to be a banner year in social events. This year additional financial backing has been received, resulting in bigger and better activities than have been heretofore permitted.

For the coming year the Committee is planning three dances which are to feature the music of name bands. The dances at which the name bands are to perform are the Winter Formal, the Junior Prom, and the Spring Dance. In addition to these, other dances, employing smaller bands, are planned.

Something new has been added to the social calendar. This year will be sparked by an inter-class day or weekend, with each of the four classes competing for a trophy and prizes. The competition is being sponsored in order to stimulate school spirit, and if successful will become a part of Delaware tradition.

The student body will be called upon from time to time to help on the many and varied committees formed by the Social Chairman. The Social Chairman, who is an elected officer, is a member of the Student Government Association. After his election he chooses and asks for volunteers to serve on the committees needed to put over the planned social activities. Some of these committees are the decorations, publicity, and tickets. If there are Freshmen who have had any experience in planning and executing social affairs, they are asked to send their names to Bill Gordon, this year's Social Chairman, by University mail. Mr. Gordon will call upon these committees for pertinent suggestions which he will then submit to the Student Government Association, and to the faculty counsellor for a vote of approval.

The Social Committee is counting upon the Freshman Class, as well as the upperclassmen, to make social life at Delaware a success. Through work on these committees the Freshmen are being given the opportunity to become acquainted with their fellow students and to take part in an important phase of University life.

New House Heads In Women's Dorms

New Plan Will Furnish Plesanter Atmosphere

The first three house directors for the University of Delaware's women's dormitories have been appointed by Dean of Women Amy Rextrew. Under a new plan adopted by the University for full-time directors in the dormitories, they replace women faculty members who have been relieved of this added responsibility.

The house directors are: Mrs. Paulina Smith Forwood, of 1601 Mt. Salem Lane, Wilmington, a graduate of the University in the first Women's College class, 1918.

Mrs. Rose Derrrow, recently house mother at a West Virginia University sorority house.

Mrs. Lilian F. Margerum, formerly a personnel worker in government service.

Each will have charge of one of the three large women's dormitories at Newark, and they will be assisted by

All Review Staffs Have Openings for Interested Frosh

Organizational Meeting Sept. 24 at Seven p.m.

This special Freshman Week edition is to introduce the Freshman Class to THE REVIEW, the Undergraduate Weekly of the University of Delaware. The REVIEW serves you in a dual capacity. It publishes the news of the campus as it affects the student body, and also serves as a workshop where those interested in journalism can obtain a working knowledge of the craft.

At the present time there are many openings on the staff of the REVIEW. For those interested in writing, a berth on the news, feature, or sports staff is waiting. If you would like to work on the REVIEW, but not in a writing capacity, then the copy, headline, or photography staffs need you. There are also positions on the circulation and other business staffs to be filled.

Former experience is not a necessary factor. Within a few weeks after you first report to the REVIEW office, you will have picked up the skill for the positions you have chosen, and within a year you will be familiar with the complete workings of the paper. The only requisite is an interest in the REVIEW, and in the University of Delaware. In reward for your work you will gain the feeling of belonging to the group, which perhaps more than any other, has its finger on the pulse of University life.

This appeal to you is being made because your Freshman year is the best time to become a staff member. You will have the opportunity to work on the various staffs, gain a wide range of experience, and immediately enter into extra-curricular activity. On the REVIEW there is no apprenticeship to serve, and promotions are made according to proven ability.

The REVIEW office, which is opposite the mail boxes in the basement of the Memorial Library, and the staff will be down there every Monday and Tuesday evening once the semester begins. There will be a full staff meeting Thursday, September 23, at 7:00 p.m., which you are invited and urged to attend. It is hoped that a large number of Freshmen will be present, for in four years some member or your class will hold the position of Editor-in-Chief. Just who he will be is not known now, but the chances are it will be someone who is present Thursday night.

Alumni Official Resigns From Post

Miss Winifred E. Taylor Will Continue Her Studies

The resignation of Miss Winifred E. Taylor as assistant director of the University of Delaware's Office of Alumni and Public Relations and as executive secretary of the Alumnae Association was announced by Dr. William S. Carlson, University president, and Miss Jeannette Thoroughgood, president of the Alumnae Association.

Miss Taylor, who has held the positions for the past two and one-half years, will remain at the University until Sept. 30, by which time it is hoped that a successor will have been obtained. Miss Thoroughgood said. The alumnae president now is accepting applications for the position.

Students Enrolled Exempt For Year

Army Deferment Lapses In June For Non-Vets

The Army's policy of deferment for college students will lapse next June, except for veterans, National Guardsmen, Officers Reserve Corps members, and students who are expected to be in the advanced ROTC course, Col. Randolph T. Pendleton, professor of military science and tactics at the University of Delaware, said recently in explaining deferment policies in connection with ROTC.

Colonel Pendleton and William H. Bohning, the University's registrar, conferred over the week-end at Governors' Island, New York, with Maj. Gen. Lawrence Jaynes, commanding officer of this military district, and with representatives of 22 other ROTC colleges in this district.

Until next spring, Colonel Pendleton said, the Army's policy will grant deferment to all students enrolling in college next month.

To facilitate operation of the policy toward advanced ROTC students, he said, it is anticipated that the University of Delaware and other colleges offering ROTC training will be authorized during the coming year to accept increased numbers of under-

Five Scholarships Given to Students

Dr. Daugherty Announces Upper Classmen Awards

The award of five additional scholarships to outstanding students at the University of Delaware was announced by Dr. J. Fenton Daugherty, chairman of the University's Scholarship Committee.

Donald C. Cameron, of Camden, has for the second year been awarded the J. Brook Jackson scholarship of $300. Majoring in biology, he will be a sophomore in the coming year. In his freshman year he was on the Dean's List for both semesters. He was graduated from Dover High School in 1947, and is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Cameron of Camden.

Camden's scholarship is presented by J. Brook Jackson of Detroit, a graduate of Delaware in 1909, who offers the scholarship aid to a graduate of a Kent or Sussex County high school.

Miss Mary M. Coleman, of 122 East Main Street, Middletown, has received the Louise Janvier Crawford scholarship for the coming year when she will be a sophomore. A graduate of Middletown High School in 1947, she is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Coleman.

It's All Up To You

Like everything else in life you will get out of college exactly what you put into it. There are some among you who are here only for "book larnin'." We admire your steadfastness of purpose, but fear you will miss out on much that is to be gained through other activities. There are some of you who are here only for the social life and fun which you have heard college has to offer. To you we extend our sympathy, for your stay at the University will be a short one. But there are many among you who have come to take all the classroom has to offer, and all that is to be acquired outside of the classroom, and to give in return your time and your service. To you we extend our sincerest and heartiest welcome.

There are many phases of extra-curricular activity on campus, and every organization earnestly solicits Freshman support. Regardless of your interests you will find a group that suits you. There are freshman athletic teams; there are religious organizations. The E-52 is open to those interested in dramatics; the Social Committee needs workers; the writing staffs of the REVIEW, CAULDRON, and the BLUE HEN are seeking the literary among you, and the business staffs of these organizations are calling for your help. The cheerleaders will soon be holding tryouts for those who would like to participate in this field.

All through your college career your class will call for your support in its projects. Give it your support and help to make the Class of '52 one which you will be proud of, and one which will go down in the annals of Delaware history. Your Freshman regulations should serve to unite you, and it is hoped that this unity will keep you together through your four years here and in your later life.

The University will call for your support also. At athletic events you will be asked to support the team. Your cheering will bring you closer to those who are rooting for the same team. The men out there on the field know the meaning of fighting for Delaware. It is up to us in the grandstand to let them know we appreciate what they are doing.

We hope that you will lead a full and enjoyable life while on campus. With you go our best wishes for all kinds of success and happiness. You are members of a University you can be proud of; make the University proud of you.

A Salute To Dr. Carlson

In the past few years many progressive steps have been taken, so that the University of Delaware now stands prepared to offer to its students a full and varied life. A more rounded curriculum has been developed, and the teaching staff greatly enlarged to meet the new demands. The work of the administration in this planning has been under the guiding hand of Dr. Carlson, President of the University. His understanding of student needs is great, and his willingness to aid the student body just as great.

Not only in the academic sense has Dr. Carlson proven his worth, but he has also shown interest in the extra-curricular affairs of the University. On too many occasions to list, he has cut through red tape in order to speedily promote ideas which were of benefit to the student body. His methods are direct and straightforward, and the results are manifest in every phase of campus activity.

You members of the freshman class are members of a progressive university. Unite your efforts with those of the administration, and especially those of Dr. Carlson, in continuing this progressive movement. The upperclassmen join you in a salute to "our" president, Dr. William S. Carlson.

A Time and A Place

The old saying There's a time and a place for everything is one that you will have occasion to ponder over many times during the next four years. With the exception of those who are veterans, and those who have gone to boarding school, dormitory life will be a new experience. Don't let it throw you!

Budget your time wisely, and you will find that you will be able to keep up your studies, and also enjoy the purely social aspects of dormitory life. All night bull sessions and bridge games are fun and seem to be an integral part of college. But, really, you don't have to sit in on every one of them. Those eight o'clock classes seem mighty early when you've been up all night. And unless you're one of those "exceptional" students, don't let anyone tell you you don't have to crack a book to get by.

You owe it to the people of the state who support the University, and to your parents who are sending you here, to keep your academic standing high; you owe it to yourself to make sure that your time spent at the University of Delaware is spent profitably; and last but not least, you owe your professors the courtesy of looking just a little bit awake and responsive, and maybe even prepared for the day's lesson.

To the Women Students
University of Delaware:

Greetings and the heartiest of welcomes to all of you, especially to those who are entering college for the first time. I hope this year of 1948-49 will prove one of the most enjoyable and worthwhile ones you have ever spent.

The opportunities for education, both formal and informal, which the University offers are limited only by your capacity and efforts to take full advantage of them. Many look upon passed, and study to be done. This is a very meager conception of the purpose of college. Most of you will never again have so much leisure as in the years here to read, to hear college as a succession of classes to be attended, tests to be noted speakers, to listen to good music, to cultivate friends who are unlike the ones you had at home—do make the most of the extras offered you here. They make the difference between college and a correspondence course or independent study.

I urge you women students to take an active part in Student Government, through your hearty support of the Dormitory Councils and of your Women's Affairs Committee. Women are needed in public life today, from the PTA and Civic Clubs up to national politics. Participation in college organizations and politics will train you for participation and leadership in wider fields after college. Much is expected of college graduates for they have had many more advantages than the average person. Your homes will be the better for your education for in no place in our daily lives is there still more dependence on hearsay, prejudice, or outdated information.

This office exists for the welfare of the women students, commuter and resident alike. Let me help you in any way I can to make your college years truly worthwhile.

People You Ought To Know

BURT WILLIAMS. An Army Air Corps veteran, Burt Williams, newly elected president of the Student Government Association, is an English and History major in the School of Arts and Science. Distinguished by a friendly smile, which during Freshman Week was often a worried one, Burt is always ready to work for anything which he feels will improve conditions at Delaware. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

JEAN "SCOTTY" MURDOCK. Even before her election to the important post of Vice-President of the Student Government Association, Scotty's was a familiar face on campus. She has held several posts in the Women's Athletic Association, is co-sports editor of the REVIEW, and was secretary of the Student Government Association. All of these organizations have benefitted from the efficiency and sense of humor of this Physical Education major from Yeadon, Pennsylvania.

BILL GORDON. A member of Sigma Nu fraternity who hails from Ocean City, New Jersey, Bill Gordon has taken the reins of Social Chairman into his capable hands. Known for his willingness to cooperate, he is always willing to take time out of his busy schedule to help when help is needed. You'll see him out there on the gridiron this fall.

SHIRLEY TAYLOR. Before her election to the post of Chairman of Women's Affairs, Shirley Taylor was best known for her aquatic feats. A star in the aquashow "Minnie the Mermaid," she also took part in the inter-dorm and inter-class swimming and basketball competitions sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association, and was Vice-President of her Sophomore class. As Chairman of Women's Affairs, she will show the same sense of fair play that has distinguished her and endeared her to those who know her.

"ZEKE" CARREL. "Zeke" is another one of Bill Murray's gridders who has time for other campus activities. A member of Theta Chi fraternity, he was elected Chairman of Men's Affairs and will serve you in this capacity. Soft-spoken and easy-going, he has the ability to successfully complete whatever he undertakes.

JANE GORDON. Peppy and vivacious Jane Gordon, one of Upper Darby's contributions to the University of Delaware, has been a member of the cheerleaders ever since she first came to the campus. This year she will serve as co-captain of the cheering squad, and her dark hair and sparkling eyes will be a familiar sight to you before long. Janie's beauty and personality won a place for her in last year's May Court.

BAUDUY GRIER. The other co-captain of the cheering squad, a member of the famous Grier family which has been active at the University for many a year, Bauduy Grier is living up to family tradition. A member of Sigma Nu fraternity, he is on the track team and is also a featured diver on the swimming team. He topples records seemingly as easily as he performs acrobatics with the cheerleaders. If the stands respond to Bauduy's enthusiasm, this should be the noisiest football season ever.

BILLY COLE. This year's Senior President is one of the best known and liked figures to hit Delaware. Hardly a week goes by when Bill's name doesn't appear in the REVIEW for some reason or other. He's a three letter man, having starred in football, basketball, and baseball, and last year he served as the harassed treasurer of the Student Government Association. This "diminutive dynamo" is one guy you ought to meet before the year is over. We can guarantee you will hear a lot about him.

WAYNE POLLARI. The leader of the junior class, Wayne Pollari, is on the football team and is a member of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity. He will be responsible for the Junior Prom this year, and under his guidance it should be a dance to look forward to.

LANCI BOYCE. When Lanci Boyce's name first began to be used around the University of Delaware, people thought "he" was a "she." But now that Lanci has taken his place among the campus leaders there is no more doubt. Coming from P. S. duPont, that institution from whence come many of the University famous, he is president of the Sophomore class this year, and a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity.

JOE SKURA. Joe doesn't hold any leading office on campus. In fact there is no earthly reason to include him in this article, except for the fact that he is part and parcel of Delaware. Known familiarly as the "Sage of the Campi," "Pops" Skura manages to get his name into print with amazing regularity. But don't believe everything you read about Joe. He's not as old as they'd have you believe—nobody could be that old!

Co-Eds In Knoll; PKT Buys House

Temporary Dormitories Gain Permanent Status

Two steps toward alleviation of the University of Delaware's student housing shortage were disclosed with the purchase by Phi Kappa Tau fraternity of a house to accommodate 26 men students, and the announcement that the Knoll, until recently the president's home, will be pressed into temporary dormitory for 17 girls.

Both dwellings now are being furnished to provide living quarters for the students when they return to classes in the last week of September. Dr. J. Fenton Daugherty, dean of men, and Miss Amy Rextrew, dean of women, said the added space will be of considerable assistance in providing rooms for students who otherwise would be forced to commute because of the drastic shortage of housing facilities.

Of the Phi Kappa Tau house's 26 residents, some 20 will move there from campus dormitories, thus making their rooms available in the dormitories. At the Knoll, the 17 residents will consist of Delaware girls, and a few from out-of-state but of Delaware families, who could not otherwise have been accommodated as resident students.

The house bought by Phi Kappa Tau is a large brick structure at 346 South College Avenue, Newark, which has eight rooms and a third floor to be used as sleeping quarters. The property, which includes a large plot of land, was bought from William U. Reybold. The house now is being redecorated and furnished by the fraternity, and the fund campaign which has enabled purchase of the building will continue among Phi Kappa Tau alumni and active chapter, according to C. C. Gerow, Jr., secretary-treasurer of the group's Graduate Council. Arrangements for the purchase were conducted by the officers of the Graduate Council, of which George Bringham of Viola is president. Ralph W. Jones, an alumnus member of Phi Kappa Tau, is faculty adviser for the fraternity.

In addition to the dormitory facilities, the building will provide chapter meeting rooms, study, social and recreation rooms for Phi Kappa Tau's 30 members and 15 pledges, headed by Martin Isaacs of Georgetown, the chapter president. Other student officers are: Frank Wasik, vice-president; Arthur L. Perry, corresponding secretary; Thomas Runk, recording secretary; and Harry Macrum, treasurer.

Reorganized early in 1947 after wartime inactivity, the Phi Kappa Tau chapter has been without a fraternity house since that time. Before the war, the group occupied a house on West Park Place. Organized in 1920 as a local fraternity, Gamma Delta Rho, the chapter became Alpha Gamma Chapter of Phi Kappa Tau national fraternity in 1924. Phi Kappa Tau now is one of seven national and two local fraternities at Delaware, and its new house becomes the sixth fraternity house, accommodating about 175 men students altogether.

The fraternity house's former owner and occupant, Mr. Reybold, a Delaware alumnus, is moving to Delaware City.

President Carlson and his family recently moved to a university-owned dwelling in Nottingham Manor, Newark. The Knoll, which adjoins the campus proper, is a 70-year-old frame building acquired by the university in 1931. It formerly was occupied by the late Dr. Samuel Chiles Mitchell and the late Dr. Walter Hüllihen during their terms as president, and after Dr. Hüllihen's death it served as a dormitory for girls during the recent war.

The first few weeks of a college freshman's life are packed with Big Moments. Outstanding among those thrilling times will be Sept. 25, at 8:15 p.m.; place, Wilmington Park; event, the kickoff opening the Delaware Blue Hens' first game of the 1948 season, against the Cadets of Pennsylvania Military College.

Names of players and coaches, past performances, games of olden days, grid traditions, soon will become conversational material among the first year students. But for the first days all this will be new. So here is an introduction to the Blue Hens of 1948, with some notes on the past, to give the freshmen and new students a start on what will be one of their favorite topics of conversation.

Football started at Delaware back in 1889—maybe "Grampa" was on the Blue Hens roster about that time (but they weren't called the Blue Hens then, and the school was not named as the state university). To bring the story up to date quickly, Delaware football has taken its longest strides since 1940, under leadership of William D. (Bill) Murray, director of athletics and head coach, with an able group of assistants.

The Hens hit their stride of '40 after losing the first three games, then fought their way undefeated through 32 contests, winning all but one and that was a tie. Bill Murray led the Fightin' Blue Hens to their first undefeated season in 1941, and winning became a habit through 1942 and 1946 for the long victory streak. The grid battles were dropped during the war years. Murray's overall record here is 34 wins, seven defeats and one tie.

But more important than victory alone is the spirit of fight he and his fellow coaches have instilled into the gridsters. Last year, with four victories and the same number of defeats, the Fightin' Hens scored two touchdowns or more against each opponent. In the tilt with Maryland, a leader in the big Southern Conference last year, the Hens rolled up as many points against the Terrapins as any regular season opponent did—19. And the Georgia Bulldogs scored only 20 to tie the Old Liners in the Gator Bowl game at Jacksonville. Delaware students are proud of a team that is never defeated until the last whistle is blown.

The name, Blue Hens, fills an important niche in American history. Capt. Jonathan Caldwell's fighting men of the Revolutionary War carried with them gamecocks of the celebrated blue hen strain, developed in Kent County, Delaware, and noted for their fighting ability, pitting them against each other in cock fights for their amusement. Delaware soldiers became known as the Blue Hen's Chickens. The name has persisted at the state university.

And now you freshmen and new students want to know what's going on this year. Well, for the first time, with a vast strength of football power available, Coach Murray is developing two starting teams, a defense and an offense, with further changes to meet certain crucial situations. Here are the tentative lineups:

For goal line defense, 209-pound Franny Hill will go in at Stalloni's fullback spot and big Phil Genthner will take the center position to add defensive weight.

A special pass defense is being built, but Murray has not announced its setup yet.

Now you'll want to know more about these players, and you will as soon as you see them in action. But before then, here's a brief thumbnail sketch to tuck back in your memory:

STASH BILSKY, 190-pound junior from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., stands six feet one inch, left end letterman last year, has developed a keen kicking toe. He's a pre-med student, was in the Merchant Marine, and has won letters as a discus and shot man.

BOB CAMPBELL, senior from Greensboro, N. C., towers six feet three inches at 205 pounds; is co-captain with Zeke Carrell. Starting his fourth year as a Blue Hen, Bob was on the undefeated '46 team after three Army years.

ZEKE CARRELL, also a three-year veteran, from Medford, N. J., Army man and a letterman in discus and shotput; standout as a charger, Zeke loves to smother an unborn kick.

Athletic Equipment For Men Improved

Addition To Fieldhouse To Be Completed In Fall

Climaxing a summer devoted to improving the University of Delaware's athletic facilities, Athletic Director William D. Murray disclosed that work had started in preparation for erection of the huge steel and aluminum hanger to be placed next to Carpenter Fieldhouse this fall.

To make way for the barrel-shaped, 162x147 foot structure, workmen are razing much of the wall which has enclosed the south side of Frazer Field, east of the fieldhouse. Much larger than the existing building, the addition will extend far out along the bank rimming the field.

Shipped recently from Los Angeles, the erection of the hangar will be completed late this fall. When finished, it will have an earth floor and will be used for indoor practice of football, baseball, track and other outdoor sports.

The building project is only one of several major jobs which will give a new look to the University's athletic fields and buildings by the time students reappear late in September.

The football practice field is to be resurfaced, and bulldozers are at work grading it in preparation for seeding by Aug. 20. The field is expected to be ready for use by Oct. 1.

Meanwhile, an irrigation system covering all the 12 acres of the athletic field has been installed, making it possible for the first time to sprinkle the grass properly.

All the University's 14 tennis courts, including six at the southern end of the campus, have been resurfaced. Six of these are clay courts which have been rebuilt, and eight, including all those near the women's buildings, have been given a new hard-surface, all-weather treatment.

Del. Women Called To Participate in Athletic Program

Complete Program of Sports To Be Offered

Many of you Freshmen have participated in a sports program in high school, so you don't have to be told just how much fun it can be, but to those of you who didn't have the opportunity to do so, make it a point to come out for some of the activities sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association. These activities begin soon after the upper classmen arrive on campus, and continue until the end of school.

During the fall while the weather is just brisk enough to make you want to run, hockey and soccer dominate our sports program. From four to five any afternoon you will see a group of girls out on the hockey field brushing up on various skills, so why don't you join us? We don't expect you to be a "cracker-jack" player, but you can

BILLY COLE, the mighty mite from Wilmington, known as one of Delaware's greatest athletes, is a senior with letters in basketball, baseball and football. Cole is president of the senior class and co-captain-elect of the basketball squad.

SHANTY GALLAGHER, ex-Navy man from Athens, Pa., called "the wildest Irishman to come down the pike," is a junior, five feet ten, at 182 pounds.

PHIL GENTNER, ex-Marine junior from P. S. duPont High, Wilmington, weighs in at 205, is half an inch short of six feet, from hometown Glen Mills, Pa. Was starting left tackle for five games last year.

BOB GLISSON, Norristown, Pa., senior, was a three-sport star at Fork Union Military Academy. Won his letter as reserve center for two years and looks like the first string center of '48.

HOP HAUTPLE, 190-pound senior from Lansdowne, Pa., stands six feet two, is starting his third season as ranking left end, strong on blocking and defensive work. He's an Army vet and a cage center.

FRANNY HILL, 203-pounder up from the 1946 frosh squad, is a Newark man, an inch over six feet, an ex-Navy man and was a basketball star at Newark High. He was not in school last year.

RAY MCCARTHY, junior from Freeport, N. Y., is an ex-Marine, campus comedian, a strength at blocking last year and a '47 letterman.

BEAR MILLER, little 214-pounder from Chester, is a junior ;ex-Marine, right fielder at baseball, broke into the starting lineup last year and came through as a letterman.

KNACKER NASH, Billy Cole's running mate from duPont High and also a senior, is an honor student, was president of the Student Government, and twice basketball letterman; a Blue Hen stalwart.

BILL OTTON, senior from Stone Harbor, N. J., was a Naval flier with Navy grid experience as a T quarterback; served as reserve blocking back for three years and won two track letters in the weight events.

HANK PARIS, Long Island junior, is probably the fastest of the Hens, a good passer and punter; last year averaged 41.7 yards punting.

TOM SILK, Newark junior, served for two varsity seasons as a plunger and is a triple threat with his passing and punting abilities. He's a backstop on the diamond.

NINE STALLONI, one of three Hen brothers and a junior, from Chester; as a reserve plunger has packed the ball 158 times, scoring 19 times in 18 games. Broke the school javelin record when he was a freshman.

TED YOUNGLING, Long Island six-footer, played at Dartmouth and Cornell as a Navy trainee; weighs 209 and also is a wrestler.

CHARLEY SMITH is a six-foot soph from Glenside, Pa., showing a lot of quarterback promise; was a passing halfback as a yearling; he's a discus man and an ex-Marine.

And there are others, not mentioned in starting lineups, who will see plenty of action. Pretty sure among these are REDS McFADDEN, Wilmington junior, on pass defense; DON BOORSE, promising sophomore backfield standout; letterman MOON MULLIN at tackle; 215-pound Ray Ciesinski from Detroit, also a letterman; senior JACK COULTER of the Carrell-Coulter act, from Haddonfield.

Two-letterman ERNIE METTENET, Wilmington junior, is expected to see service at end; BULLDOG MURRAY, another Wilmington junior, will understudy Glisson at center, and TED ZINK, Newark senior and also a letterman, is valuable as a dependable senior. Additional stalwart reserve power will back up the first string offensives and defenses to provide depth for the Hens' bench strength.

The Blue Hens' coaching staff is built of line and backfield experts who have shown by their results that they know their gridiron tricks and tactics. Here's a thumbnail introduction:

WILLIAM D. (BILL) MURRAY, Director of Health, Physical Education, and Athletics, is starting his sixth year as head coach. The halfback of the Duke Blue Devils made all-Southern as a senior and recently was picked as one of the Duke all-time grid stars.

After it had taken three losses to get the new coach and his 1940 team into stride, Bill's Blue Hens started a victory march that is reviewed above, totalling to date 34 wins, seven losses and a tie.

WILLIAM S. (SHACK) MARTIN, backfield coach and wrestling and baseball pilot, also is a Duke graduate of 1931. Shack is an expert at the double-wing formation and has developed the Hens' backfield into a smooth machine of precision and power. Martin was a Naval officer for 30 months.

JOE BRUNANSKY, third ex-Duke great of the Birds' coaching staff, was an outstanding tackle on Wallace Wade's famous 1936-37 eleven, when he made the all-Southern selection. After his last year of college football Joe was picked for the second All-America team. The line coach came to Delaware right after the war and has added a lot to the Hens' end-to-end power. Joe was an Army air forces officer for three years.

TONY STALLONI, assistant line coach, is one of three brothers of the Blue Hen gridiron, playing four years as tackle on Murray's undefeated teams and has been described as "one of Delaware's all-time grid greats." His home, though, is Chester, Pa. Tony completed a pre-law course at Delaware. During the war he was wounded twice in Marine duty. Others of the brother trio are Mariano ("Nine"), fullback, and Carl, a guard.

MARTIN PEARSON, freshman grid coach, also is a former Delaware student and a product of the Murray system here, playing tackle for three years. He coached the junior varsity to five victories and one loss just after the war. Marty also coaches frosh baseball.

GUS SEABURG, trainer, presides over the linament and bandages, the sore muscles and pulled ligaments. Gus also is a baseball man, with the Wilmington Blue Rocks during the summer.

These names will take on life and distinctive personalities as the season progresses. A freshman and a new student will increase his Blue Hen football interest as he learns the players by name and by sight, on campus and in grid action, and as those acquaintances and familiarities increase, Delaware football will develop a new meaning for the newcomer.

Here's the 1948 schedule, with a record of past games:

Sept. 25—P.M.C., Wilmington Park, 8:15 p.m. Delaware has won 15 from PMC, lost 18, tied 3; but the Blue Hens have won five straight since 1940.

STUDENTS ENROLLED

classmen for future training in the advanced course. This latter course covers the last two years of college, and ordinarily it enrolls only a small part of the entire male student body, which is required to take the first two years of basic military training.

For the first time in history, said Colonel Pendleton, students completing their freshman year will, next spring, be able to indicate their desire to enroll for advanced military work more than a year in the future. Both freshman and sophomore students who indicate such a desire, and whose applications are acceptable to the University's military department, will receive draft deferments enabling them to remain civilians throughout their college life, so long as they continue in ROTC.

Next year, the University of Delaware's ROTC battalion—the largest ever—will include some 300 freshmen and 200 sophomores in the basic and 59 juniors and 26 seniors in the advanced course.

For the succeeding year, however, Colonel Pendleton said, it may be possible to accept as many as one-half of each class for advanced military training. This will be under the newly announced Army policy of draft deferments for 118,600 students in ROTC and Air-ROTC courses at 231 colleges. The exact quota for each college will be fixed later.

Students who are accepted for advanced ROTC work must maintain satisfactory academic and military records, will attend summer training camps, must agree to accept an Army or Air Force commission if one is offered, and to serve two years or more on active duty upon call at any time.

"To assure selection for deferment of the best-qualified officer material," according to Colonel Pendleton, "the progress of individuals will be observed closely by members of the military department in conjunction with the civilian faculty. Failure to pass qualifying examinations, sub-standard academic and military grades, unsatisfactory leadership traits, or unauthorized absences from the ROTC program will be reasons for cancellation of deferment certification."

Colonel Pendleton also cited a statement by Brig. Gen. Wendell Westover, Army executive for Reserve and ROTC Affairs, to the effect that the Army's deferment policy does not grant preference in any way to the college man over the non-college man. "All students at college level are liable to military service, subject to temporary postponements for those who meet ROTC requirements and quotas," he said. All students in the 18-to-26-year age group must register and inform their local draft board of deferment, if any.

ALUMNI OFFICIAL

A graduate of the University with honors and distinction in 1941, Miss Taylor was the first Delawarean accepted in the WAVES in the recent war. Sworn into that branch of the Naval Reserve on August 27, 1942, she went on active duty in October of that year, after having been a teacher of English for one year at Conrad High School.

Commissioned an ensign in January, 1943, she served in communications in New York City for more than two years and then received an assignment to communications duty in Hawaii for a year. She left service early in 1946 as a lieutenant, senior grade.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Taylor of 2318 West Eighteenth Street, Wilmington, she is a graduate of Wilmington High School. She now plans to continue her studies.

NEW HOUSE HEADS

part-time instructors and graduate students in the three small dormitories. The anticipated result, Dean Rextrew explained, is a more homelike atmosphere for the girls and broadened social and recreational opportunities.

Mrs. Forwood will have charge of Sussex Hall, and also will have partial supervision of Topsy Hall, where the head-of-house will be Miss Martha Worth. Mrs. Forwood, the mother of one son, was graduated from Wilmington High and attended Wilson College, in addition to her studies at the former Women's College.

Mrs. Darrow will be director of Warner Hall, with supervision also of Turvy Hall, whose head-of-house is to be Mrs. Patricia Spraberry. Mrs. Darrow attended Virginia College in Roanoke; from 1940 to 1945 was social director at Mary Washington College, and for the past three years has been house mother for Pi Beta Phi sorority at West Virginia University. She is the mother of a married daughter now living in Wilmington.

Mrs. Margerum, in charge of New Castle Hall, also will supervise Boletus Hall, where Miss Elizabeth M. Kelly will be head-of-house. Mrs. Margerum, now a resident of Sea Girt, N. J., attended the Calhoun-Chamberlain School in New Jersey. She did voluntary social work in a day nursery, and early in the recent war she became a personnel interviewer for the U.S. Employment Service, transferring later to the Army's Signal Corps, where she was successively personnel interviewer and administrative assistant to the personnel officer, at Bradley Beach, N. J. She more recently has been hostess and supervising housekeeper at The Inn, Sea Girt. She is the mother of three sons.

Miss Kelly now is completing her work at the University after serving in the WAC for three years during the war. She is a resident of Oxford, Pa. Miss Worth, a graduate of Randolph-Macon College, will be taking graduate studies and doing part-time teaching in mathematics at Delaware this year. Mrs. Spraberry is a part-time instructor in mathematics.

The dormitory directors will have supervision of the women students living on the campus, and will be available at all times during the college year. They will know the girls intimately, Dean Rextrew pointed out, and will act as advisers and friends to the students. As hostesses for the residence halls, they also will cooperate with the Student Government Association, in addition to helping the students' social committees plan their programs.

Mrs. Edith W. Ebner, director of halls, will continue in that capacity, with general housekeeping supervision for the women's buildings.

The house directors will assume their duties with the opening of Freshman Week. Their employment was authorized by the University's trustees upon the recommendation of the Committee on Higher Education for Women.

ATHLETIC EQUIPMENT

Taylor Gymnasium is receiving much needed renovations with the addition of a concrete block wall between the swimming pool and the gymnasium floor, enabling better control of temperatures within the building. Shower baths are being tiled, lockers added, and the old shower enclosure is being converted into a swimming pool for beginners.

Carpenter Fieldhouse itself is receiving a going-over, featured by laying of new sub-flooring under the entire playing surface. It was found that the sub-flooring had deteriorated badly since being laid in 1942, and the result was that to walk on the maple floor created a springboard effect.

CO-EDS IN KNOLL;

The University of Delaware has also acquired title to three wooden dormitory buildings erected on the campus nearly two years ago to accommodate 183 war veteran-students. The U.S. Government transferred the title without payment, under terms of an act passed at the last session of Congress and approved by President Truman.

In obtaining outright possession of the temporary, T-shaped structures which front on Academy Street at the extreme easterly side of the campus in Newark, the University became able to continue use of the dormitories so long as swollen enrollments and lack of permanent dormitories make it advisable, said Charles E. Grubb, the University's business administrator.

Under the original stipulation, the dormitories would have had to be removed by January, 1950. The Council of Newark has cooperated according to Mr. Grubb, in specifically waiving the removal requirements. The waiver was needed in order to complete the transfer of ownership from the Housing and Home Finance Agency of the Public Housing Administration. Notice of the completion of the transfer has been received by Mr. Grubb from W. P. Seaver, director of the PHA's Region II.

The plain grey buildings have been named—by request of their inhabitants—Windsor, Eton and Hanover halls, and as a result they are grouped together in student terminology as "King's Row."

Originally located at Middle River, Md., as wartime housing, the one-story buildings were dismantled there by the government, brought to Newark, and re-erected in the fall of 1946 at no expense to the university, other than that of preparing the site and extending utilities. They house 61 men students apiece and the government required that the barracks should be used only for housing veterans, except in a case where a veteran's being accommodated elsewhere by the university made barracks space available to a non-service man.

rived in Newark with his wife and two children to live at 11 New Street. His rank will be that of instructor, and his teaching specialties will be American government and public opinion. The latter course offering is a new one at Delaware, and it is one in which Mr. Chase has specialized.

A native of Worcester, Mass., Mr. Chase is a graduate of Phillips-Andover Academy and of Princeton, where he was a varsity baseball player and received high honors in his study of politics before his graduation with a B.A. degree in January, 1943. From the time of his graduation until 1946 he served as a Marine Corps volunteer, became a paratrooper, and for more than two years served overseas with the Fifth Marine Division, achieving the rank of first lieutenant. He led a machine-gun platoon on Iwo Jima, receiving the Purple Heart and a gold star in lieu of a second award of the Purple Heart. Later, he commanded a company in the occupation of Japan.

Upon leaving the Marines, Mr. Chase resumed his studies at Princeton, and received his M.A. degree there last June. In the past year, as assistant conference director at the School of Public and International Affairs, he has worked in the following subjects: "Social Security," "Control of Subversive Activities in the United States," and "The Future of the American Farmer."

Another member of the University of Delaware's faculty in political science, Paul Dolan, will be on part-time teaching duty this fall while he completes his work for a Ph.D. degree at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

ship has been awarded to John M. Witheford, of 1419 North Harrison Street, Wilmington, a 1947 graduate of St. Andrew's School, Middletown. He is the son of Mrs. C. E. Witheford. He will be a sophomore this fall.

Service scholarships have been awarded, on the basis of leadership in student affairs, to Miss Ann Furth, editor of THE REVIEW, undergraduate weekly newspaper, and Burt K. Williams, president of the Student Government Association. Miss Furth is a resident of Brooklyn, and Williams lives in Elsmere. The service scholarships customarily are awarded to the holders of the offices they now occupy.

DEL. WOMEN CALLED

learn with the rest of us, and have a good time. When the frost puts an end to our outdoor activities, we turn to such sports as volleyball, basketball, swimming, and badminton. In these sports, as well as in the spring sports of tennis and softball, intra-mural programs are arranged and played by the various class teams.

The W.A.A. has adopted a point system based upon participation in sports. Points are earned by playing on a team, being a captain or manager of a team, and by doing various other things in the organization. Awards, consisting of pins, guards, and jackets, are given when you have accumulated a certain number of points.
