13-Year-Old Girl Saves Woman In North East River

Miss Elizabeth Wilson, Summer Resident Here, Drags Exhausted Victim to Surface and Swims to Raft

Miss Elizabeth Wilson, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo C. Wilson, niece of E. C. Wilson and a visitor here every summer, played the role of heroine at Charlestown last Wednesday, when she saved the life of a woman bather, who had become completely exhausted in the river. Witnesses of the incident declare they never saw a braver act. Jumping without hesitation to the rescue, Elizabeth swam to the spot Mrs. Roy Craig, of Wilmington, was last seen to disappear. She dove and came up with Mrs. Craig, turned and swam back to the diving raft.

A number of young people were enjoying themselves around the raft and in diving off it when the near-drowning occurred. The raft was some distance from shore. The brave act of the Wilmington girl in rescuing Mrs. Craig was witnessed not only by those on the raft but also by many persons on the shore. She was highly commended for her bravery as there was no doubt that but for her daring act Mrs. Craig would have drowned.

It is understood that Mrs. Craig after being revived said she did not think the water was over her head when she jumped overboard. When she found that she could not touch the bottom she became frightened and being unable to swim went under. Those on the raft apparently did not realize that Mrs. Craig was in distress until she went under twice again. By this time all on the raft were excited and Elizabeth without hesitating a second jumped in and swimming to the spot where the woman was last seen dived and came up holding her by the hair.

It took some time to revive Mrs. Craig. Elizabeth was also nearly exhausted by the effort of saving the woman.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig have a cottage at Charlestown for the summer. Elizabeth Wilson has been staying at the cottage of her uncle, E. Clifford Wilson, of Newark.

The young girl, although only 13 years old, has been active in athletics for a couple of years. She is a student at the Wilmington High School and also a student in the Wilmington Y. W. C. A. It was at the "Y" that she learned to swim, several years ago.

8000 WITNESS BIG FIREMEN'S PARADE ON ELKTON STREETS

Newark Captures Prize At Feature Of Singlerley Carnival Last Night; Havre de Grace, Kennett and Dover Among Winners

Thirteen fire companies from Delaware, Maryland and Pennsylvania, six bands, and over 8000 visitors bore down upon staid old Elkton with a whoop last night. Seldom, if ever, has the county seat held such a crowd.

It was Firemen's Night, the feature being, of course, a long parade. The hundreds who marched were matched with interest by the thousands who watched. Main street, North street and High street adjoining the business section, were lined on both sides with people, often six and seven deep. Moreover, autos of every description and from practically every nearby community held their quota.

Winners Announced

The four large loving cups offered as prizes by the Singlerley Company, hosts during the evening, were won by the following companies:

Best Equipped Company—Havre de Grace.

Most Men in Line—Kennett Square, Pa.

Coming Longest Distance—Dover.

Best Comic Outfit—Principio Furnace, Md.

It was reported that Kennett Square had over eighty uniformed men in line. Newark, with fifty

RHODES STORE IN NEW STATE CHAIN

It became known this week that Dr. George W. Rhodes had become associated with the Standard Drug Stores, Incorporated, which will include leading retail drug stores in this section of the country. Dr. Rhodes will remain in Newark and is still associated with the business, and will probably act in an advisory capacity.

The details of the organization are not yet known, but the association of Dr. Rhodes and his business here would certainly insure success. He is to be congratulated and Newark friends will be delighted, too, in the fact that the organization will not in any way affect Dr. Rhodes' residence or association in business here.

To Lecture Here On Christian Catacombs

Rev. F. C. Krapf, Well Known Here, to Deliver Illustrated Talk on Early Burial Grounds Sept. 2

During August of last year the United Press Staff Correspondent at Rome, Thomas B. Morgan, told how American "movie" actors, who were making excavations thirty-five feet deep for the immense structures needed for the staging of the new production of General Lew Wallace's "Ben Hur," came upon an unusual find for modern times.

When the workmen were about twenty-five feet down they struck a number of hollow caverns which they followed for several blocks, and which, after the usual examinations by Italian experts, proved to be portions of Christian catacombs or underground burial places from Roman Imperial times.

NEW ROAD PROGRESSING

Contractors To Lay Concrete Soon On Newark-Christiana Link

Day by day the work on the new thoroughfare between Newark and Christiana, via Ogleton, a four and one-half mile stretch, is being pushed ahead.

D. E. O'Connell and Sons, contractors in charge, are reported to be preparing to lay concrete within a week. Grading has been practically finished all along the right of way.

The surfacing, it is understood, will be started at the Christiana end of the road. When completed, it will fill a much-needed outlet to New Castle and points along the upper river shore.

Fraternal Home Scene Saturday Of Large Outing

Red Men From All Over State To Gather Here For Annual Field Day And Luncheon

PLAN TREAT FOR ORPHANS

Having instituted the first Fraternal Home and being the only beneficial Order in Delaware having such a home for aged and indigent, the Improved Order of Red Men naturally take considerable pride in the Red Men's Fraternal Home, located opposite the Women's College, University of Delaware, at Newark, consisting of a large building which is approached through a beautiful grove of stately trees, and back of the home in cultivation about twelve acres of the finest land in Delaware with all appurtenances that is the pride of all successful farmers.

The residents of the Home are a self-satisfied contented lot, knowing they are welcome to the care afforded by the members of the Order constituting the various tribes, Improved O. R. M., and the ladies auxiliary, the Degree of Pocahontas. While many of the members of the Order have visited the Home and expressed their wonder and pleasure, there are many who have not taken advantage of the opportunity to acquaint themselves with the practical side of this great fraternity which is one of the largest and most progressive beneficial orders in the State, and in order to give all the opportunity of seeing for themselves the Home and enjoy a few social hours, becoming known to each other, the Tribes and Councils of Wilmington and vicinity have arranged a Field Day at the Home next Saturday afternoon, August 29, and each member, their family, and friends throughout the State have been extended an invitation to participate in the festivities. The little orphans under the care of the Orphans Board of the Great Council will be taken there for a day's outing and everything possible will be done to see that they are provided for and have a good time.

Sports, a band and Wawaset Minstrels will furnish entertainment and those who do not bring lunch can purchase same from Mineola Council No. 17, D. of P., who will have a stand on the ground for their accommodation.

Football warriors to go in training Delaware Beach Selected for Camp Early Next Month; Expect Good Team.

Preliminary training quarters for the Delaware football squad will again be Delaware Beach, according to an announcement from the new coach, Frank Frostburg. The men are being notified and the camp will open early next month, to continue for about ten days.

Delaware's last season's football squad is practically intact with the exception of three players and last year's manager, who all were graduated in June. William McKelvie, the stellar tackle of the past four seasons and who was captain during his last year as a Delaware man, will not be "on the line" this fall when Delaware opens its football schedule. McKelvie has been acquired to coach the eleven of Dover High School this year.

"Choc" Gibson, halfback, and "Sook" Jackson, quarterback, are the other two members of last season's squad who will not be wearing the blue and gold this year. Manager Crothers was also graduated. However, with only these men lost to this year's team and with practically all of the other lettermen of last year returning, Delaware will have a squad that will present one of the strongest pre-season's line-ups of a great many years.

Lewis "Huck" Kramer will be the captain of this year's team. Among those who are expected to be at the training camp at Delaware Beach are Barkley, Weggenmann, Torbert, Baxter, Cherpak, Hanson, Owens, Ableman, Beatty, Cathcart, Coale, Lohmann, McKelvey, Neide, Manns, Pedrick, Swezey, Wootten, Coppock, Creamer, Hopkins, Hubert, Loveland, Maloney, McCaskey, Reybold, Pusey and Wilson.

All Local Adoption Records Smashed On Discovery Of Thirteen In One Family

All existing records in the county for adopting children are broken, according to a discovery made this week, when it was learned that Mr. and Mrs. James Russin, living near the P. R. R. "Y" at the foot of South Chapel street, are the happy protectors of thirteen little strangers.

In talking with a prominent Newarker the other day, the information leaked out that the Russins expect to adopt more children providing they can care for them properly.

The thirteen adoptions run the Russian brood of youngsters to 18. Mr. Russin stated that he has five of his own children living. He has been married twice. In all, eight children were born to the unions. The latest adoption reported was that of a five-months old baby. One of the children expects to graduate from school next year.

"I love children," Mr. Russin is reported to have said. "Why, it's nothing to see from fifteen to eighteen kids playing around in our yard down here."

The proud father is employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad as track foreman and has been a resident here for some time.

Professor O. J. Merrell, who resigned the chair of Business Administration at the University of Delaware, has accepted the chair of Marketing and Transportation of the Oklahoma College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts, a land grant college similar to the University of Delaware. This is quite an honor to Professor Merrell. He will serve under the Dean of the School of Commerce, Dr. J. W. Scott, with whom Professor Merrell was associated at the University of Texas and University of Chicago before coming here. At the Oklahoma institution there are over 3,000 students and in the School of Commerce there are 700 students. The School of Commerce is divided into three departments—Economics, Marketing and Transportation, and Commercial Educational Training. Professor Merrell will be a full professor at the head of Marketing and Transportation and will have an assistant. In the whole staff of the department there are six men.

Professor Merrell has been taking graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania and also attending the American Institute of Co-operation, which organization is holding sessions at the Pennsylvania University.

Valuable Property On Highway Sold For Lots

Two Newark Builders Purchase Lum Farm East of Town; Plan Early Development

Another real estate deal of great interest was closed Monday of this week when the William Lum farm one-half mile east of Newark along the Lincoln Highway was sold by him to J. Clifford Willis and A. D. Foote, Newark builders and contractors. The price paid was not announced.

The farm contains about sixty acres of well drained land, most of which extends along the south side of the highway. Mr. Willis estimates that there is about 3000 feet adjacent to the road. Mr. Lum sold a large part of his farm lying on the north side to J. A. Clark and Thomas Young two years ago.

That the Lum property will be developed into a residential section was confirmed by Mr. Willis yesterday. Offers have already been made for frontage on the highway, and several sections are reported sold. Messrs. Foote and Willis may erect dwellings there this fall.

DEAN ROBINSON HOME

Reports Conditions Among Foreign Students Splendid

Dean Winifred J. Robinson, of the Women's College arrived home late last week from a two months' trip to Europe, and is busy at her desk preparing for the coming college year.

Miss Robinson chaperoned the Delaware foreign study group as far as Paris, early in July, visited with them and Professor Kirkbride, who is in charge, and later left for a short pleasure trip on the Continent. She is enthusiastic in her support of the arrangements for living and studying which are in force in Paris. She had an opportunity to go over with Professor Kirkbride the year's program for the Delaware group, and expressed herself as delighted with the prospects ahead of them.

2 Farmers Fined For Selling Milk Without A License

Brandywine Hundred Residents Brought to Newark for Hearing; Secretary Davis Presses Charges; Crowd Jams Courtroom

NOMINAL FINES ARE IMPOSED

Two Brandywine Hundred farmers were brought to Newark last Friday night, at the instance of Secretary Arthur T. Davis, of the State Board of Health, and fined for violating the law regarding the sale of milk without proper license.

The two dairymen are William Barlow, of Edgemoor and Alfred T. Pike, of near Talleyville. Both maintained large herds of cattle and both plead guilty to the charges preferred.

Considerable interest attached itself to the hearing here before Magistrate Thompson. Just why the defendants were arraigned in White Clay Creek Hundred could not be learned from the parties interested. They came under the provisions of a warrant sworn out in Newark for their arrest by Mr. Davis.

Messrs. Barlow and Pike were accompanied to Newark by nearly a score of their friends and neighbors, evidently bent on seeing that justice was done. Following the hearing, during which the defendants were fined $5.00 and costs each, a group of farmers from Brandywine held an informal discussion on the sidewalk outside Magistrate Thompson's office.

Fighting Board's Edict

From what could be learned at the hearing and the ensuing conversation, it appears that the farmers in the upper corner of the county are not in accord with Secretary Davis' recent ruling that all herds must pass inspection and a proper certificate be granted before the milk may be sold to the consumer. One farmer put it this way:

"I've been tending a dairy for thirty years, and no one has questioned the milk's purity. I expect to continue my own business the way I have in the past."

It was reported that the arrest and hearing grew out of the effort of the State Board of Health to have all dairies inspected and the cattle tuberculosis tested. The drive was recently made throughout the State. A group of Brandywine Hundred residents, however, opposed the action of the Board. Warrants were then sworn out for Barrow and Pike, two members of the alleged "hold out" organization.

The defendants were represented at the hearing by Everett Barton, an attorney of Wilmington. Little testimony was offered save that from a State milk inspector, who said he bought milk from both defendants recently.

TOWN SIGNBOARDS ARE READY FOR ERECTION

To Be Placed At Highway Entrances; Map of State a Feature.

Two Signboards for Newark, made possible by the Chamber of Commerce, are completed and will be erected at the east and west approaches of town this week, it was learned today.

Final instructions were given I. Newton Sheaffer, who is painting the signs, Monday. Mr. Sheaffer plans to finish them with a coat of outdoor varnish.

While dignified and devoid of "Welcome," "Come Again" and other worn phrases, the new signs strike a distinctive note, and all who have seen them comment favorably. An initial block, representing the outline of the State appears on the left of the board. The wording is simple and direct and presents adequate, readable information for travelers. "Three miles to the Mason-Dixon Line," and "Twelve miles to Wilmington, First City of First State" respectively appear on the boards.

George W. Rhodes, chairman of the sign committee, expects to go ahead with the erection just as soon as they are dry.

TOURISTS' TRIP SPOILED

Obians Run Afoul Another Machine Here And Camp Gear Tumbles

Tourists' equipment was scattered over the street when two cars collided at Main and Chapel Streets Saturday afternoon. The accident happened when John Beverly, of Pennsylvania, who was driving down Chapel Street, crashed into an automobile owned by Horace Easterbrook, of Ohio, and ripped the running board off Mr. Easterbrook's car on which a complete assortment of camping paraphernalia was packed.

A warrant was sworn out for Beverly's arrest, but when he offered to pay for all damages done, the matter was adjusted out of court. No one in either machine was injured.

ELKTON NEGRO HURT

Fracas At Ball Game May Result Fatally

William Freeman, colored, is at the point of death at Union Hospital, Elkton, suffering from a fractured skull, sustained when struck two severe blows over the head with a baseball bat, said to have been in the hands of Edward Wilkins, also colored. The men were playing baseball Sunday afternoon, when a dispute arose, and it is alleged Wilkins picked up a bat and used it on Freeman's head. Believing he had killed his fellow ball player, Wilkins escaped, but was later apprehended in Baltimore and held for the Cecil County authorities.

Editor Jibes Clayton Over Rising Sun Fete

L. H. Hitchler, Of Oxford News, Calls Cecil County "Moonshine Headquarters Of East"

Editor Hitchler of the Oxford, Pa., "News" in a pungent article last week, took occasion to haul States Attorney Joshua Clayton, of Elkton, over the coals with reference to threats Mr. Clayton is alleged to have made to close the recent Firemen's Carnival at Rising Sun. Says Mr. Hitchler:

"After blustering for three months and issuing weekly warnings as to the measures he would take to stop the running of harmless merchandise wheels at the Rising Sun Carnival, States Attorney Joshua Clayton refused to fly in the face of overwhelming public sentiment and ate his own words. All he did toward stopping the wheels was nothing and there was not a great deal of that."

"The sheriff visited the carnival on the first Monday and looked matters over but found nothing objectionable, and went away within a short time."

"Cecil County is the moonshine headquarters of the east. Liquor is made and sold in twenty places less than ten miles from the State Attorney's home. Just across the river the Havre de Grace race track is in operation under the authority of the law. And yet the States Attorney feels called upon to devote his efforts to attacking the turning of a few wheels of fortune, which serve the double purpose of giving harmless amusement to the crowd and enabling Rising Sun to protect its own property, and that of its neighbors against the fire demon. Straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel."

"DEAD SHOT CLYDE" SETS NEW RECORD

A new and distinct shotgun champion was uncovered here a few days ago in the person of Mr. Clyde Robinson, well known poultry fancier of Prospect Avenue. It cost Clyde just $20 to make the grade—said twenty being the price of a prize Leghorn rooster.

Clyde was patrolling his premises fully armed one day last week. Suddenly he saw a big rat scurrying across his chicken yard. The rat was going north. The next instant he saw his rooster scurrying across the same yard. The rooster was going south. With rare judgment, Clyde aimed due east and pulled the trigger, thus avoiding a disastrous head-on collision.

As both fowl and rodent bit the dust, Clyde fell to weeping hysterically, the neighbors guffawed and the band played "Annie Rooney."

Building New House

Work is progressing nicely on the new double house on Prospect Avenue being built by H. Warner McNeal. The operation was started about a month ago.

Donates $100 To Church

CARNIVAL RECALLS EARLY HISTORY OF ELKTON FIREMEN

It was the "William M. Singerly Steam Fire Engine and Hook and Ladder Company, No. 1, of Elkton"—back in 1892.

A resounding title, certainly, and still the official one. In later years, however, plain "Singerly" has been used to designate Elkton's snappy and efficient fire fighting organization.

Probably no contemporary resident of the Maryland town took a greater interest in its welfare than did William Singerly. The youngsters of today hear the name connected with roads, a fire company and even a village north of the county seat. He was a remarkable man, and a valuable citizen.

It was due primarily to his generosity that the Elkton firemen are housed in their present quarters. In recognition and appreciation of his interest, the company was named for him. Much of the early history of the Singerly organization was in the hands of the late William Warburton, who gathered together much material for a speech he delivered a few years before his death, on the occasion of housing ceremonies. Mr. Singerly was the founder of the pulp mill in Elkton and later founded the Philadelphia "Record." His name still appears at the top of the editorial page of that newspaper.

Founded In 1892

The Singerly company was incorporated under the laws of Maryland January 22, 1892, by the following men: William H. Booth, Samuel B. Enos, Osborn R. Clayton and David L. Sloan. The capitalization was placed at $2000.

In the early years a board of twelve directors governed the affairs of the company. A long and all-embracing constitution was drawn up and approved, providing all manner of rules and regulations, many of which applied to the personal conduct of the members. Some of the interesting sections in the constitution apply to

12th Annual Fete Opened On Friday; Weather Favorable

Expect Record Crowds During Balance of Week; Firemen Parade for Prize Cups Last Night

The list of winners in the Firemen's parade last night will be found on Page One of this edition.

With four nights to go, Elkton's 12th annual Firemen's Carnival bids fair to equal past successes, and judging by last night's attendance, may break a few records.

The Armory grounds have been the scene since last Friday of a brilliant open air fete with many new novelties to attract youngsters and oldsters alike. While the general arrangement and many of the booths are similar to last year, a few new features are attracting the crowd. Good music, always a feature of Elkton carnivals, is being dispensed nightly from the bandstand by Sterling Dunbar's talented hornblowers. Jim Maloney, Samuel King, Frank Hurn and all the other familiar faces are again present at the booths. Dancing has been held in the Armory as an additional feature.

Parade Last Night

The biggest crowd of the week so far, swarmed into Elkton last night to witness the big firemen's parade. Traffic was practically at a standstill early in the evening. Narrow streets gave barely room for the passing marchers and their shiny equipment. Every available parking space within town limits held its quota of autos—greater by far than any previous year. The visiting companies assembled far down on West Main street, marched through the center of town and down High street to the Carnival grounds. Practically every company from this section was represented last night.

The week's festivities close Saturday next with the awarding of a new Essex Coach to some lucky person. Friday is also expected to be a big evening for the Singerly men and their loyal ladies.

fines on members for the following breaches:

"For speaking disrespectfully to officers while on duty."

"For leaving the meeting room without permission from the chairman."

"For not coming to order when called."

Fines ran from 25c to $1.00, according to the offense committed.

The company, on its inception, was limited to 100 members, and the policy still holds. From its beginning, the organization has a decided success. Singerly has grown steadily in the matter of equipment and efficiency since '92. Today they possess two splendid pieces of motorized apparatus, hundreds of feet of hose and individual equipment.

Twelve years ago, the company began the summer carnival series. The custom has been continued without a break and through funds thus derived, most of the fire fighting machinery has been purchased.

Prior to the organization of the Singerly group, the town authorities handled the fighting of fires. Several attempts had previously been made to organize a volunteer company, but with little or no success. Mr. Singerly's gift of the building was the move which brought Elkton its present fire protection.

The officers and members of the company are as follows:

LET THE COW MAKE THE TEST

Most State laws require feed manufacturers to publish the analysis of their product on the bag. Each feed must be shown to contain the minimum amounts of crude protein, carbohydrates, fat and minimum fiber.

Chemical analysis never did and never will prove that the feed is palatable and digestible. These are the things that the animal must decide for itself. A feed must be palatable before an animal will eat it in sufficient quantities to produce the expected amount of milk or eggs. In other words the net result in every feeding operation is the only thing that really counts.

The biggest net results are realized when the feeder forgets price and analysis and buys on the basis of QUALITY.

Anniversaries vs Piety

Not more Democracy but more Intelligence, the Need of Liberty.

—From Address of Charles E. Hughes.

"When we examine the records of the past, the long story of revolt against tyranny, the disorder, the privations, the helplessness of multitudes, and the mistakes of leaders, we may well rejoice at our own inheritance.

"Democracy is not a theory, it is the life of free men who keep the fires of liberty brightly burning on their own hearths.

"As we contemplate a world of peoples enlarged out of the control of dynasties and denying ancient prerogatives, as we observe the widespread simulation of democratic forms among peoples still without self-discipline or training in the most difficult of arts—vast masses who are the victims of abuses and tyrannies bearing popular labels, we can but realize that we have fallen upon a time when it is not necessary to argue the right of self-government, but to demonstrate the capacity for its exercise."

"The task of the present generation is not to learn the practice of liberty; not to oppose the outworn pretensions of despots asserting divine right, but to secure the good order of community life and rational progress under free institutions, so that peoples escaping the weariness and cynicism which are the natural reaction from the illusions of freedom will not invite despots to return.

"In this spirit, with the desire to feel the glow of reconstruction, to find the zeal for the toilsome pursuit of the good yet unattained, the celebration of the anniversaries now crowding upon us of the period in which our institutions had their birth will not be treated as perfunctory or as a mere tribute to piety.

If having so greatly achieved, we should now fail or retrograde, it will be due, not to forces from without, but to processes of decay, to the weakening of our fibre, to lessened self-restraint and nervous instability, to the weariness and indifference incident to a delusion of security, to the loss of the individual in the mass, to institutions getting out of hand because of the complexities of administration with ills left unremedied and false remedies creating ills.

"The cure for the ills of democracy is not more democracy, but more intelligence. We cannot enjoy the blessings of liberty without the freedom of knowledge."

Medill New Head Of Delaware Trust; Elected Last Week

Newark Man Succeeds Late Charles W. Mills as Director of State's Largest Banking Institution; Rose Steadily During Career.

WAS BANKING COMMISSIONER

George L. Medill, of Newark, vice-president of the Delaware Trust Company since last January was on Wednesday last elected to the presidency of the institution, succeeding Charles W. Mills, who death occurred a week previous. During Mr. Mills' long illness, Mr. Medill had been acting head of the bank.

Friends of the new president in and near Newark are happy to know of his new honor. He is a native of this section, and has lived here practically all his life.

Mr. Medill attended the public schools of Newark and graduated from Delaware College in 1899. After graduating, following business training, he went to South America where he remained for some time. Upon his return he went with the Security Trust and Safe Deposit Company in a clerical capacity; there he was under the training of the late L. Scott Townsend and John Russell. He gradually worked his way up in this organization until 1920 when he was made the first State Bank Commissioner of Delaware by appointment of Governor Townsend. He organized the new department and presented to the following session of the General Assembly several proposals for more efficient banking regulations. He was re-appointed by Governor Denney; he resigned this position in 1923 to accept the vice-presidency of the Farmers Bank and a few months later was elected to the vice-presidency of the Delaware Trust Company. As the president of this company, Mr. Medill becomes automatically the president or directing head of seven banks through the state. He assumes his new duties at once.

Mushroom Growers Are Successful This Year

Chester County Fast Becoming Market Center for Delicacy, According to Survey

A survey of the mushroom country in and about Kennett Square, as reported in the Sunday Star, Wilmington, is, in part, as follows:

Mushroom growers in Chester county are getting their houses in order for the cultivation of a large winter crop. During the summer most of them have doubled or tripled the capacity of their plants and the result should be a commensurate increase in yield.

During the winter season ten truckloads of these delicacies are sent daily to the larger New England and middle states cities, principally Philadelphia, New York and Boston, where there is always a demand much in excess of the supply. The fact that there is a market for increasing quantities of the fungi is responsible for the enlargement of the local houses, which indeed may be increased again next year to double their present size.

Almost all the mushrooms used in the eastern and middle states are grown in Chester county, in the Toughkenamon valley, and adjacent sections, with an increasing quantity in West Chester.

It is wondered here why more farmers, with the problem of how to make their land pay, do not turn to the cultivation of mushrooms. While the soil and climate of this part of the country are well adapted to all kinds of farming, the mushroom is grown without the least reliance on either. They could be cultivated in Delaware equally as well as around Kennett, and in fact one or two houses erected as the basis of an experiment in Christiana hundred have proved successful. As the houses require but a small area of land they might be grown in the garden of old-fashioned houses in the smaller towns.

The lecture to be delivered in the M. E. Church is entitled "The Early Christian Catacombs; What We May Learn from a Study of Them" and will cover the topics—their construction use, care of them, their history, rediscovery and study, their symbolism, their light on Christian teaching and life in the early Church.

The lecturer, the Rev. Frederick C. Krapf, is pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Hagerstown, near Pittston, Pa., who with his own family are guests of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Krapf, of 18 Prospect avenue. Pastor Krapf has made an extensive study of the literature on the catacombs and has gathered about 100 slides to illustrate the lecture.

Pastor Herson has requested that a "silver offering" be made by those who hear the lecture.

People's Column

To the Editor of The Newark Post:

Quite recently some farmers were discussing why they did not make more money farming. The conclusion reached was that their farm soils were not rich enough.

The writer has seen hundreds of farms in various states and has yet to see one on which ground was too rich.

A few years back considerable attention was given in this locality to crimson clover as a green fertilizer, producing nitrogen in the soil. On other farms, soy beans are used to increase the producing value of soil. The farmer now must consider feeding human beings whereas 15 years ago, he considered feeding horses and cattle more exclusively.

The farmer selling hay from his farm gives away 7 profits.

The buyer gets 1 profit, the railroad another profit, the dealer another profit from consumer, making 3 profits direct on the hay.

To replace the manure value of the hay the farmer buys commercial phosphate with at least 4 profits on the fertilizer from raw material to farm.

The argument of the writer is that a farmer should put manure on his fields about 2 to 4 times as thick as he is now putting it, and till only as much ground as can be covered with manure; then keep the other ground in shape with a mowing machine, mowing twice a year, until such time as the ground increases in fertility from dead grass from mowing to warrant tillage.

The tilled ground on which larger quantity of manure was used would produce a much greater quantity of grain or hay, and would mean less to plow and till but increased crops would return as much money value and decreased work of tilling would permit of more time for improving the farm—either by getting rid of weeds or by better care of buildings and implements.

Let us hear from more interested parties, those whose farms are being improved as well as those whose farms are decreasing in fertility.

Easton Wallops Newark Golfers To Tie Series

Playoff on Local Links Within Two Weeks Likely; Cup Finals Next Saturday if Possible

Newark golfers were again defeated at Easton, Saturday, by the Talbot Country Club team by 22 points to 5. The victory placed the two clubs on an even footing again, and the third and deciding match is scheduled to be played within the space of two or three weeks on the local course.

A number of the regular members of the Newark troupe were unable to be present Saturday. Those who made the trip gave all they had to the cause, but it wasn't enough to beat the Marylanders.

A. D. Ginther, Newark pro, however, partially retrieved the honors lost when he decisively beat George Allen, professional, at Easton in an interesting match. This win also evens their own personal series.

Three Cup Survivors

In the struggle for the Treasurer's Cup, three men still survive. Ted Dantz, who defeated C. T. Gardner last Saturday, 4 up and 3 to play, has reached the finals in the lower half of the draw. In the upper half, the issue lies between Clarence H. Hopkins and F. W. Diver. Their semi-final match is scheduled to be played sometime this week. Play for the cup is listed for next Saturday.

EBENEZER LOSES TO FIVE POINTS NINE 4-3

Whiteman and Hageman Engage in Brilliant Pitching Duel, Saturday; Single in Eighth Decides.

Five Points and Ebenezer staged another battle royal on the former team's diamond Saturday, when Kinsey Whiteman, the church team's ace, and Hageman staged a hearty duel on the mound.

Whiteman held the Pointers to seven hits, and as far as actual pitching goes, earned an even break with the star left-hander. A single by the Five Points twirler in the eighth inning did the damage. Boys was on base at the time. The run gave them the lead and won the game.

Buckingham and Singles were the heavy hitters for Ebenezer, while White gathered two bingles for his day's work at the bat. Both teams fielded clean and the good game was witnessed by a large crowd.

Next Saturday Newark will be the Pointers' guests and the Pointers are anxious to even up matters with the college town boys after losing the first game by the score of 8 to 7.

FIRST HALF TITLE TO PROVIDENCE, 3-1

Bay View Goes Down In Hard Fought Game On Elkton Field.

Providence carried off the first half honors in the Cecil County League by defeating the Bay View team at Elkton last Wednesday by the score of 3 to 1. The game was bitterly fought throughout with both Arrants and Hamilton pitching top-notch ball. Dean and Crouch led their respective teams with the stick, each collecting three hits. Three double plays by the Providence boys killed Bay View's chances for scoring while a one-hand catch by Spence of J. Hamilton's hard drive saved the game for Providence. Vansant, Dean and Green played brilliantly in the field as well as at the bat. The score by innings: Providence . . . 0 0 0 1 1 0 1 x-3

Providence Continues Winning Streak; Trounces North East In Fast Game 7-4

Providence continued their winning streak Saturday by defeating the fast North East team on the latter's grounds by the score of 7 to 4. Arrants and Bryan both pitched good ball, the former being more effective with men on bases. Deibert had a perfect day at bat with two doubles, a single and a walk out of four trips to the rubber. Elkton Drops Another To Bel Air Club As Elk Mills Downs Perryville, Breaking The Tie First Place

Bel Air defeated Elkton Saturday afternoon in an interesting game by the score of 1 to 0. McNutt had an easy time with the Elkton team, allowing them but two scattered hits while his team mates collected four safe ones. It was a pitcher's battle from start to finish.

Rising Sun defeated Havre de Grace by the score of 4 to 3 and Elk Mills defeated Perryville by a 5 to 3 score.

WILMINGTON CLUB

LAYS NEWARK LOW, 9-4

Locals Unable to Solve McMahon When Runs Were Needed; Held to Five Hits.

A Newark team composed of several Continental players and high school stars went down to defeat before St. Benaventure, of Wilmington, on Frazer Field, score 9-4.

The locals were held at bay all afternoon by the artistic twirling of one McMahon, a new pitcher on the Wilmington club. Mac held the Indian Sign on the home boys, and never let them get within striking distance. Wilson pitched nicely during most of the game. Big rallies in the first, eighth and ninth wrecked him, however. He allowed eleven hits, most of which were concentrated to produce runs. Newark made a brave rally in the eighth but the lead was too big to overcome. The score:

Delaware Has 34 More Miles Of Improved Roads This Year

Delaware farmers and tourists now enjoy 34 miles more of Federal-aid highways than they did a year ago, according to reports. This mileage, completed in the year ending June 30, cost a total of $1,224,727, of which the federal government furnished $488,475. Highway construction under this plan now under way in the state totals 12 miles, while the total mileage completed previous to last year was 72 miles.

"This additional mileage, while a convenience to the tourist in the state, is a godsend to the farmer," says the report from Sears-Roebuck Foundation. "It is estimated that each and every farmer in this section of the country averages 19 tons of farm products hauled to market and 8 tons of feed, fuel, fertilizer, machinery, supplies, etc., from town. When good roads make trucks feasible this is not very burdensome, but it represents a good many hours' labor where horses and poor roads must be used. And so while the tourist finds inter-city roads mighty comfortable, to the farmer a good serviceable road from his farm to the nearest market is a downright necessity."

"The expansion of hard road systems both in this and other states in recent years has given the farmer an added inducement for going into business for himself, the Foundation states. That he has not been slow to take advantage of the opportunity is testified in the increasing number of roadside markets on the more frequented highways. Figures show that each of these markets takes in fifteen to thirty dollars up to several hundred dollars a day, varying with the locality, the preponderance of buyers being tourists driving through the vicinity. Some of these are nothing more than stands of simple board construction while the more pretentious are housed in buildings which may be locked after the day's or the season's business."

Wilmington Woman, Pioneer Suffragist, Urges A World Court

Miss Emma Worrell Active Today on Anniversary of Cause She Championed

A ninety-year-old pioneer suffragist, Miss Emma Worrell, of Wilmington, celebrated the fifth anniversary of woman suffrage today in an urgent appeal for the World Court proposal.

Miss Worrell's plea was one of hundreds being sent forth today in a nation-wide observance of the birthday of woman suffrage, the celebration of which was proposed by the National League of Women Voters. Five years ago today the federal suffrage amendment was officially declared a part of the United States Constitution.

Miss Worrell said: "There is surely nothing which could so unitedly enlist the sympathy and work of womanhood everywhere as the determination to put an end to war. To accomplish this, to have a share as responsible, conscientious citizens in accomplishing this most desirable thing, would be of itself the best vindication of our enfranchisement. In what way could woman better 'come into her kingdom' than by helping to lead the world into peace and prosperity?"

"All people, all governments are longing to get away from war—from all the murderous horrors, and destruction it entails; but they do not know how. They are bound by fear of one another, by dread lest one should get some advantage and use it to enslave and injure the rest; and the only way they seem to have learned how to defend themselves and prevent the injury is by armed force, by fighting and killing, which in addition to the misery and horror of it, has proven so worse than useless, so utterly senseless.

"The world has been so long dominated by greed and selfishness and this fear of injury by others, of which the remedy has so long been the cruel arbitrament of blind force, that it has almost forgotten or lost faith in justice and generosity. But these must come into their own. 'Right' is the ultimate, the only power which can govern the world satisfactorily. And in the united sense of right prevailing in a World Court where all must bring their cases of dispute to be judged, seems to be the best, the sole dependence for the restoration of harmony and the beginning of growth. There it must be learned that the good of the whole must take precedence of individual good, or rather, that individual good is promoted and advanced by the general advancement; that nations are mutually dependent, and that concessions and kindness are the best wisdom as well as the best religion; that the Golden Rule is the best guide in politics as in morals; that there is in fact, no line between them."—(Communicated.)

READY FOR BIG CELEBRATION AT NEW CASTLE

Final preparations are being made for the great dual celebration which will be held at New Castle on Tuesday, September 1, to commemorate the opening of the New Castle-Pennsylvania Ferries, Inc., between these two places, and the fiftieth anniversary of New Castle's existence as an incorporated city.

Governors of several States are expected to be in attendance as well as many State officials from New Jersey, Delaware, and Pennsylvania. Governor Robinson of Delaware will be the host to the visiting State executives, while there will be a reception committee of officials of the ferry line and the Mayor and Council of New Castle to receive the other visitors.

The indications are that New Castle will have the greatest day in its history. All the people of the community are very much interested in the affair and are exerting every effort to make the celebration a huge success.

In addition to the buffet luncheon there will be a boat ride across the river on the ferry boat, a baseball game, parade and other features, all of which will give New Castle, according to reports, the biggest day in its history.

The Story of Sunset Lake

Being a Sportsman's Retreat—where, according to Ott Widdoes, President of the Angler's Association, will abide the "Finny Aristocrats of the Unsalted Seas."

A VIEW OF THE LAKE AS IT APPEARS TODAY

ANGLERS—true Anglers—receive not all their pleasure from landing "big ones." In the heart of them, the Sport's the Thing always. There is the distinguishing mark setting them apart from those who by force of circumstances or desire, commercialize fishing.

Here in Newark a group of Anglers and Good Sports banded together four years ago. They wanted a place to fish. Today, Sunset Lake, stretching its two and one-half miles of clear, cool water across upper Pencader, is their "dream come true." Four years of hard work, four years filled with seemingly hopeless obstacles and terrific discouragements have resulted in the scene pictured above. It has also resulted in an Anglers' Association, now grown to over one hundred members.

Three times in these four years a new dambreast gave way, carrying hard-won money and the hopes of everyone down with it. Three times, these same Good Sports refused to quit the job. Out of the wreckage, they builded anew. Conservatives called it foolishness, but they got their Lake.

One day about ten years ago, William H. Evans, at that time station master here, and Ott Widdoes were talking "fish." Then it was that Mr. Evans first suggested the old Dayett Mill Dam as a possible place for a fishing, boating and swimming lake for Newark folk. Not until 1921, however, did the project revive itself and take definite shape. Two inveterate anglers, Mr. Widdoes and Pusey Morrison had the honor of opening the ball. They went down to the old stream one Sunday. When they came back, it was all fixed up. In ten days, they had together awakened more than a little interest in the proposal to give Newark a real place to play.

The original little "club" formed by these two men suddenly blossomed into a formal organization at the instance of George Townsend, and, as such, has since been conducted. Stock was subscribed, memberships granted and officers elected within a few weeks. Professor Thoroughgood of the University faculty volunteered his services in drawing the plans. They were readily approved, money was at hand, and the work of building a dam began.

As is generally known, part of the ancient breastworks used by John Dayett for his mill years ago, remained. It was necessary then to block the stream at one point only, the southernmost end. Moreover, options on the shoreland on both sides of the lake for quite a distance up-stream, were secured. Angling took on new enthusiasm here. Things looked very bright, indeed.

Then came the jolts. One by one, a series of setbacks sufficient to turn the best laid plans into hopeless scraps, occurred. Hardly had the new dambreast been completed and the water allowed freedom, when the first of these disasters stunned the Association. Deep under the dam floor, water commenced seeping through. A few drops today—a tiny stream tomorrow. Emergency methods were used, but the monotonous dripping continued. Then one fine day in 1923, the whole floor of the concrete barrier gave way, and in less than twenty-four hours, practically all the water had gurgled through the gap and down the narrow gorge.

Now it meant more money and additional work. President Widdoes and Secretary John B. Miller rallied to the defense of their Lake, and mainly through their efforts, additional funds were raised among the members. Their faith in the project and their energy carried the organization with them. The dam breast was repaired.

Came another and still another break the following year. The place seemed possessed. Neither was as serious, however, as the first disaster. The second break was blamed on the collapse of part of the old Dayett earth embankment, while the third took the form of a small gash in the bank. Fortunately it was discovered in time to prevent more damage. All this was bitter medicine to the Anglers and Good Sports. Theirs at this stage of the game was a thankless job, indeed. The Association was short of funds, the Lake was over a year late in completion, criticism came to them from many sides. The leaders held firm, however, and doggedly set out to finish their work.

It developed this Spring that the dam as a whole should be strengthened. William H. Dean and Samuel Little were named by the Association to handle the work. Weeks went by. The water was allowed to partially run out, and a systematic effort was started to make the breastwork really permanent. First, a new sluiceway was cut into the south end of the barrier, a gate installed and an outlet dug. Then many tons of stiff clay were carted to the concrete dam, and dumped over on the lake side. During this operation, temporary wooden jetties were set out in the water a few feet to enable the workmen to get right down to the base of the wall. The clay was packed tight and several gashes in the concrete on both sides were closed up.

For the first time since 1923, the members of the Anglers Association breathed audible sighs of relief. With the sluices as controlling factors, water was again allowed to flow free. Inch by inch it rose up the face of the dam, its expanse spread once more to the tree lines on either shore and stretched away—a real Lake. Today the dam is complete, and the water is within a few feet of normal depth. It took three years to get over the hurdles, but the Anglers have now arrived.

From careful investigations made by President Widdoes, the water in Sunset Lake is absolutely pure. A slight golden tinge to the water, noticed by nearly all-visitors, comes, he says, from the great amount of vegetable matter on the new lake bottom. The color will gradually disappear as the plant life dies.

At the widest point the lake is approximately 150 yards wide. It extends to within a few feet of the State road bridge just north of Glasgow a distance of two and one-half miles. Every foot of the way up the stream presents attractive surroundings. It winds between overhanging trees, past farm land and continually dodges in and out of woods. No one can ever doubt the beauty of the little body of water. As a playground for men and women of the community, it is unexcelled.

Those Muddy Old Days

For those who were not born to ride on concrete and macadam, the above photograph gives a rather interesting view of one of Newark's main streets about five years ago. It shows East Delaware Avenue in the spring of the year.

The rapid strides the town has made in the improvement of its thoroughfares can readily be realized when it is pointed out that at that time only two main streets were paved—Main and South and North College Avenues. The rest were in various stages of disrepair, some passable, others terrible.

Today, Newark can boast of streets second to none in the State. In the past three years the following thoroughfares have either been rebuilt or resurfaced:

East Delaware Avenue
New London Avenue
Cleveland Avenue
Prospect Avenue
Wilbur Street
Academy Street

Nearly $100,000 has been spent by the town on these major improvements. From every point of view, it has been money well invested. Now pride in homes is apparent; cleanliness and freedom from rubbish has followed the drive for better streets.

Nowadays a town is measured by its homes and avenues. The "muddy old days" have gone forever.

It may also be interesting to note from the above photograph how things looked in the neighborhood before the erection of the new fire house and several dwellings on the north side of Delaware Avenue. The thoroughfare today could hardly be associated with the one pictured here.

Weddings

Smith-Lauer

Miss Madeline D. Smith, of Wilmington, and Mr. Ervin A. Lauer, of Newark, were united in marriage August 15th last, in Old Swedes Church, Wilmington, by the pastor.

Following the ceremony, the couple left for a wedding trip through the New England States and Delaware Water Gap.

Glasgow Farm Is Sold To Horseman; To Train "Runners"

J. Wirt Willis Sells Tract Containing Training Track and Barns to James Healey; Owner's Home Not Included in Sale

Of interest to all horse lovers was the announcement made yesterday in Wilmington of the sale of "Cowview Farm" No. 4 at Glasgow, by J. Wirt Willis, to James Healey, of New York, trainer for the racing stables of Mrs. F. Ambrose Clarke and Colonel Alger.

The deal involves part of the Willis estate along the new highway just east of the village of Glasgow.

Mr. Healey, who is now at Saratoga Springs, recently came to Newark and was taken by Mr. Willis to inspect the track and property that he purchased. He was so well pleased with the plant that the closing of the deal for its purchase followed. Mr. Healey expects to bring a number of

POULTRY SHOW TO OPEN NOVEMBER 16th

Announcement was made here this week that the Annual Exhibition of the Diamond State Poultry and Pigeon Association, originally scheduled for last Spring, will be held in the Armory here during the week of November 16th to 21st, inclusive.

Due to the epidemic of poultry plague which swept over New Jersey, Eastern Pennsylvania and parts of Delaware during February and March of this year, the show was postponed. A number of beautiful cups donated as prizes by Newark and Wilmington firms and individuals are in the hands of the local committee, and will be ready when the show opens. Wilmer E. Renshaw, Samuel Little and Clyde Robinson are active in the promotion of the exhibition.

yearlings that have been bought at the Saratoga sales to the Glasgow track within a couple of weeks for training.

The property bought by Mr. Healey contains 33 acres of land and the sale included barns with capacity for 30 head of horses. The new owner expects to build a bungalow on the property as soon as possible and make it his home.

The track which Mr. Willis had built several years ago when he had a large stable of harness horses is one of the best in this section and is in excellent condition. It is a regulation half-mile track. The location is ideal, as it is within a short distance of two modern roads one running from Elkton to the Delaware state road and the other the Newark-Middletown road.

Mr. Willis owns considerable property there in addition to the land he has sold to Mr. Healey, and will continue to make it his summer home. The dwelling where he has made his home in summer for some years was not included in the sale. No price was given in connection with the Healey purchase.

AMERICA SETS THE PACE

For centuries Europe has been the home of art, literature, learning, science, invention and the luxuries of life. But the masses could not generally share these luxuries with wealthy or officially prominent people. It remained for the United States in a short 150 years to give the telephone, electricity, the automobile, pianos, phonographs, modern railroad transportation, insurance, household gas appliances, the camera, and numerous other conveniences many of which even today are luxuries in Europe, to the poorest citizen in this country as part of his daily life.

The result of America's high standard of living, developed under a system of private initiative and enterprise, is now being felt in Europe. The Chamber of Commerce of Paris and the French Chambers of Commerce, at which 140 chambers were represented, have adopted resolutions urging the French government to transfer the government-owned telephone service of France to private enterprise. Press reports declare that this movement in favor of private ownership has found support among trade associations throughout France.

THIS IS A STUDEBAKER YEAR

Pledge to the Public on Used Car Sales

1 All used cars offered to the public shall be honestly represented.

If a car is suitable only for a mechanic who can rebuild it, or for some one who expects only a few months' rough usage on a camping trip, it must be sold on that basis. Each car must be sold for just what it is.

2 All Studebaker automobiles which are sold as CERTIFIED CARS have been properly reconditioned, and carry a 30-day guarantee for replacement of defective parts and free service on adjustments.

This is possible because tremendous reserve mileage has been built into every Studebaker, which it is impossible to exhaust in years.

3 Every used car is conspicuously marked with its price in plain figures, and that price, just as the price of our new cars, is rigidly maintained.

The public can deal in confidence and safety only with the dealer whose policy is "one price only—the same price to all." For, to sell cars on this basis, every one of them must be honestly priced to begin with.

4 Every purchaser of a used car may drive it for five days, and then, if not satisfied for any reason, turn it back and apply the money paid as a credit on the purchase of any other car in stock—new or used.

It is assumed, of course, that the car has not been smashed up by collision or other accident in the meantime.

Not only to the public, but also to The Studebaker Corporation of America, whose cars we sell, we pledge adherence to the above policy in selling used cars.

MILLER'S GARAGE

The Studebaker Corporation of America takes pride and pleasure in announcing that the above Pledge is being carried out by

MILLER'S GARAGE

East Main Street

THE Pledge speaks for itself. It is a formal declaration of the fair and square attitude of Studebaker dealers toward the public. It is an assurance of honest dealing in a line of merchandising which in some times and places has fallen into ill repute.

It is an assertion of confidence in the reserve mileage built into the sturdy "one-profit" Studebaker automobiles.

CHURCHES IN THE EARLY EIGHTIES BAPTIST CHURCH

The old Baptist church at the foot of Iron Hill, is about three miles from Newark. The first edifice was built about 1703, and the present building, which is still in a good state of preservation, and presents a quaint, picturesque appearance, was erected in 1746. This church is the third Baptist church founded in America. The bricks used in its construction were imported from England, and transported from New Castle, where they were landed, in panniers, upon mules.

The original entry in the church record, telling of its organization, is as follows: "In the year 1701 some of us who were members of the churches of Jesus Christ, in the counties of Pembroke and Carmarthenshire, South Wales, in Great Britain, professing in baptism, laying on of hands, election and final perseverance in grace, were moved and encouraged to come to these parts, viz., Pennsylvania, and after obtaining leave of the Church, it seemed good to the Lord and to us that we should be formed into a church order, as were a sufficient number, and one of us, Thomas Griffith, was a minister," which was accomplished. Mr. George Johnson, in his History of Cecil County, Maryland, says: "Among the names of this pioneer band of Baptists are those of Thomas Griffith, Enoch Morgan, Mary Johns, Margaret Mathias and James David. In June, 1701, this little band of Christians sailed from Milford Haven, in the ship James and Mary, and landed in Philadelphia the September following. After their arrival, the old church record states, they lived much scattered about for a year, but like good Christians they were not forgetful of the apostolic injunction, but kept up their weekly and monthly meetings.

During this time their number was increased by the arrival of twenty-two other members, among whom are the names of Reese and Catharine Ryddarcks, Peter Chamberlaine and Thomas Jones, all of whom, except the first, have left descendants who yet reside within the bounds of this ancient congregation. Reese Ryddarcks lies buried in the old church-yard belonging to the church on Iron Hill. Tradition says he was an officer and served in Cromwell's army during the troublesome times that preceded the trial and execution of Charles I. "A modest and unassuming tombstone marks his last sleep on the northern slope of the Iron Hill, near which the murmuring waters of the Christiana have sung his requiem for more than a century and three-quarters." He seems to have been a man of distinction, for his tombstone has on it a Latin inscription, the only Latin one in the graveyard. It is as follows:

RICEUS RYTHROUGH
NATUS, APUD FFANWENOGG
IN. COMITAHE CARDIGAN
ET HIC SEPULCUS FUIT
AN. DOM. 1707
AETATIS FUSE 87

Of which the translation is: "Reese Ryddarcks, born at Hanwenog, in the County of Cardigan, and here was buried in the year A. D. 1707, being 87 years of age."

This church is sometimes called the Welsh Tract Baptist Church. Most of its founders being settlers upon a tract, known by that name, granted to a colony from Wales in 1701. Two of the agents, who procured this grant from Penn, David Evans and William Davis, were most probably Presbyterians. At least the former, not long after the grant was made, became a Presbyterian minister and the first minister of the Pencader Presbyterian church. The old Baptist church is well worth a visit. The cemetery is to be improved, and the office of "Old Mortality" will be revived in restoring the old tombstones, so that the inscriptions and epitaphs may be preserved. Many of the descendants of the first members of the church still worship in the Sanctuary of their fathers, and to them this old church is a dear and sacred spot.

The Men Who Made The Nation

Chauncey Depew, Writing In The "National Republican," Lauds Creators Of Our Government

Materialism is ever crowding with increased force upon sentiment. It is destructive of ideals. As wealth increases and competition grows larger and opportunities intensify, the struggle for existence or for great accumulations, unselfish sentiment becomes more distant and difficult. The War of the Revolution was, in its best and highest sense, inspired by sentiment and for a principle. Actual oppression had not reached that acute form which had precipitated other revolts, writes Chauncey M. Depew, former United States Senator, in "The National Republican."

The Continental Congress differed from all other bodies which have overthrown and created governments. All of its members were men of substance, who had nothing to gain, beyond the establishment of those principles of government in which they believed, and everything to lose in the contest. Carroll was the richest of the signers and the second richest man in the United Colonies. Washington was the wealthiest, his fortune being reckoned at $750,000, while Carroll assessed himself at $500,000. Hancock was the wealthiest man in Massachusetts. Morris in New York, and in each delegation was someone similarly situated in his colony.

It was mostly an American convention. Forty-nine of the signers were born in this country, two in England, two in Ireland, and one in Wales. They were all thoroughly versed in the principles of English liberty and in the rights of British subjects. They knew what they were entitled to under the greater Charter and the Bill of Rights. Their average age was forty-five. The oldest were Franklin and Hopkins, who were seventy; and the youngest were Rutledge and Lynch, who were twenty-seven. Hancock was forty, and Jefferson thirty-three.

The proportion of lawyers to the whole number was numerically less and the doctors were greater than in any subsequent Congress of the United States. Sixteen were lawyers, nine merchants, five doctors, five planters, three farmers and one clergyman. The other seventeen were, like Franklin, men of letters and science, who had made their mark in various careers. Eighteen were graduates of American universities, three of Cambridge, England, and one of Edinburgh University. Twenty-one were liberally educated in institutions of learning in this country and abroad by private tutors and travel. Eleven were self-taught, but they were by no means the least learned of their associates. Roger Sherman, who began life as a shoemaker, was a man of such transcendent ability that he was regarded in the convention as its ablest lawyer and possessing a judgment to which universal deference was paid. None of them had any title, nor were they statesmen, as that term was then known.

The signers of the Declaration of Independence never claimed for themselves any rewards of their countrymen for what they had done. None of them made any effort to seize the government or to secure special individual favors. They knew what they were doing and that it was for posterity. Two of them became President of the United States and one Vice-President, but the succession after Washington of John Adams and after Adams of Jefferson in the seavage which came and lasted until after the Civil War between state rights and the nation were the natural choice of the free will of a free people.

The course of Rome for many centuries was controlled by the mysterious revelation of the Sibylline leaves, but there was no mystery about the Declaration of Independence, no mystery about the Constitution of the United States, no mystery about the Farewell Address of Washington, and no mystery in the writings that have come to us from the fathers of the Revolution.

Forty-seven lived to see the independence which they had declared seven years before recognized by Great Britain. Forty-three hailed the new Constitution, which was adopted in 1787, and which is our guide and government today, practically unchanged. Happily for the country, three of them lived for more than fifty years after that eventful epoch-making Fourth of July. The influence not only of the teachings, but of the example of these surviving signers during the first half century of our existence cannot be calculated.

The death of Jefferson and of Adams, occurring on the same day, on the Fourth of July, on the fiftieth anniversary of the hours during which the Declaration of Independence was adopted, brought vividly before the people the sentiment and the principles for which the signers stood. Their political antagonism had been forgotten in the last two decades of their lives, and in their union in death there appeared, as it were, on the memorable day, spread upon the heavens in view of all the people the immortal Declaration of Independence, and on the one side Jefferson, the author, and on the other side Adams, the colossus in debate, by whose eloquence it was unanimously agreed to.

Careful Engineering Features Canal Work

Construction Company Sinking Piers For New Bridge at Delaware City; Watched by Many Saturday

The point along the Port Pennsylvania City highway, where the new bridge is to be constructed over the tidalwater canal, was a scene of great activity all day Saturday. The Dravo Contracting Company, who have the job of building the foundations for the huge bridge, worked their entire force of men, getting ready to pour the concrete for the second layer on the piers that are to go down many feet below the canal bottom.

Before the concrete is poured it is necessary for a watertight compartment to be formed in which the concrete forms are laid, after which the concrete is poured and allowed to harden. The watertight space is being formed by strips of iron about six inches wide that fit tightly together, being driven in a circle that makes the space inside particularly watertight. After the concrete is hard workmen dig out under the pier allowing it to settle. The dirt is hoist-

More Sparks And Tinder In Tinsman's Court; Believes Constable Guilty, Then Frees Him

The turbulent course of justice in the renowned court of Squire Bill Tinsman, at Richardson Park, underwent another violent eruption late last week. Constable Popeck, once a trusted ally, appeared at the wrong side of the bar this time, playing with no mean grace the role of defendant. The fireworks went off as follows:

After informing Robert Adair, attorney, that he had pretty nearly decided the guilt of Popeck who was charged with parking an automobile without lights, disorderly conduct, assault and battery and resisting an officer, Magistrate Tinsman enacted the role of Old Kris by dismissing Popeck who the magistrate said, he felt was guilty of the parking violation and the disorderly conduct charge.

The charges were preferred by Constable Harry Dolson, who alleged he found Popeck in an automobile last Tuesday night in the Hazel Dell road without parking lights and when he placed him under arrest, he was grabbed by the throat by Popeck. This testimony was corroborated by Mrs. Dolson and a Mrs. Sutton, mother-in-law of the constable who were in his car at the time.

Bertha Wyatt, in behalf of Popeck, testified that Constable Dolson was as disorderly as Popeck, cursing and brandishing a revolver, shouting he was "a man who would shoot."

Popeck alleged that the constable when he learned his name was Popeck called his brother, Theodore Popeck, a former constable, a vile name, saying the prisoner was equally as bad.

After hearing the evidence Magistrate Tinsman dismissed the charges, reprimanding Popeck who, he said, was guilty of two of the charges but his appearance and his demeanor caused him to change his mind.

ed out through manholes that are formed when pouring the concrete. In this way the immense piers will be sunk to about seventy-five feet below the canal. When water is encountered large pumps are used to clear the space of water to allow working room. After a certain depth is reached the air will have to be forced down the manholes for the men. Two piers are now being sunk, one on each side of the canal.

About a hundred yards toward the river from the place where the ferry now crosses and where the new bridge is being erected, several large scows of the United States Engineering Department have been cabled across the canal. The scows serve two purposes, the soft coal supply is kept on them, and they serve to break the swiftness of the tide into and from the canal, which at times becomes so swift that it interferes with the handling of the ferry, and also hinders the Dravo Company in transferring materials from one side of the canal to the other.

"WET" CONVENTION AT OCEAN CITY SATURDAY

"Home Rule" the Password When Marylanders Discuss States Rights Issues.

Maryland, the States Right champion among eastern states, once more comes into the limelight.

Representatives of Eastern Shore counties co-operating with local officials of the Association Opposed to Prohibition will hold a mass meeting at the Atlantic Hotel, Ocean City, on Saturday, August 29, to protest against Federal encroachments on state's rights.

Senator Bruce has accepted an invitation to be the chief speaker.

The attack on Federal invasion is to be staged in a territory which usually gives "dry" majorities in elections. However, the speakers, it is understood, are not expecting to confine their attacks to the Eighteenth amendment. It is understood that resolutions protesting against the Federal-aid system for state roads and education and the proposed child labor amendment will come in for attacks.

The meeting will be known as the "Home Rule Convention." The call is being signed by James C. Beck, Kent; William McKenney, Queen Anne's; H. L. Holden, Jr., Talbot; Burton Proctor, Caroline; Charles E. Robertson, Dorchester; J. Thomas Taylor, Jr., Somerset; J. Childs Crockett, Worcester; and Dr. Harry C. Tull, Wicomico.

IN A COZY CORNER WITH A BOOK

By Blossom Mack

CONFESSIO AMANTIS

When do I love you most, Sweet books of mine?
In glorious morn, when o'er your leaves I pore
Austere bent to win austere love,
Forgetting how the dewy meadows shine?
Or afternoons when honeysuckles twine
About my seat, and to some dreary shore
Of old romance, where lovers evermore
Keep blissful hours, I follow at your sign?

Yea! Ye are precious then. But—
Ere lamplight dawneth, when low croons the fire
To the whispering twilight in my little room,
And eyes read not, then—sitting silently,
My soul finds yours in voiceless ecstasy;
I feel your hearts throbbing in deep inquest
And hear your breathing round me in the gloom.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE AND CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, The Craftsmen at Kells, Newark, Delaware.

The most attractive book in my COZY CORNER just now is the one named above. It is a work of art, fresh from the hands of those experts, the Craftsmen of Kells. It is worth having, just as a thing of beauty, even if it were not the great and convenient thing it is—the two fundamental documents of our nation, bound together in convenient size and form. Reading it critically from a literary standpoint, I am always amazed at the diction, just as I am always amazed at the wisdom of those old colonial forbears of ours.—From Fort Meyers (Florida) Press.

Out from this Little Tower at Kells copies of the Constitution are being distributed in every State of the Union.
