Dear Heart: My lecture today has been a great success. I would not write to you until after it was over. I wrote a fifteen minutes Act and talked one hour. Authoritative! My chief, Harry Thurston Peck is easy. He is a lamb beside me. I know all about English literature because I make it! Its too funny. My class numbers about eighty pupils and they are a great gang.

Dear so many have come in just now that I can't write. I am going for a drive to, and "Sir, your carriage waits," as I used close with even half a page (Why the devil, doesn't the man Thackeray stop grinning and talking) Miss Rochon is my sweet and promise that I shall fulfill the mission you assigned. But whether you is Althea, Anato, Anabella or when I don't know. If I hadn't married you, I should more than likely have married some other heart & shame girl, so there is no escape. Love to ma-
