

Shortage Of Money, Not Food Poses World Hunger Problem

Speaker At 8th International Agricultural Students Conference At U. of D., Dr. Frank Ellis Reports Half Of World Population Hungry, No Real Food Shortage

One-half the people in the world are hungry or malnourished. Yet there is no real food shortage except in a few isolated areas, Dr. Frank Ellis, director of Food for Freedom Services, Agency for International Development, told delegates from 10 countries at the 8th International Agricultural Students Conference at the University of Delaware, Sept. 2-5.

The real shortage is money to pay for available food, Ellis said, with "income levels so low in developing countries that millions of people can't buy food."

Foreign aid to less developed countries must reach the cause of their problems, Ellis continued.

"Even if malnutrition could be solved simply by food donations, it shouldn't be. It's more important to help people help themselves."

Green Revolution
The "green revolution" — recent rapid increase in food production in many underdeveloped countries around the world — proves the importance of self help. Even farmers who traditionally use more primitive methods, will quickly change to more modern methods if they have an adequate reason.

Give a farmer a market — an opportunity to operate as an economic man — and he'll change, according to Ellis. For instance, people claimed Indian farmers would never change their methods, but with an assured market they changed so quickly fertilizer became a black market item. Indians from India.

But there is still a very real problem of hunger today, Ellis said. "And the real challenge of the next 20 years is to determine whether mankind has reached that stage where food matches mouths — particularly if the population increases to the predicted level of seven billion by the year 2000."

The United States pioneered in offering economic assistance to foreign aid to less fortunate countries. But we rank ninth now in relation to our gross national products, Ellis said.

Foreign Aid
Foreign aid increases prospects for this country to live in peace and continued progress, Ellis said. "How could we hope for peace if one-half the world continued to go hungry?" he concluded.

Edward Givens, assistant general manager for Southern States Cooperative, emphasized that more attention must be paid to world agricultural problems. Until and unless they are taken care of, few other problems can really be solved.

The statement has been made by USDA researchers that in 10 years biological or natural pest control methods will have replaced chemical controls in developed countries.

According to Dr. A. C. Suesy, export sales manager, for Rohm & Haas Co., biological control is a step in the right direction.

But he said we face the challenge of world food production to meet needs of a growing population. In many countries — most underdeveloped countries, at least — it would be unwise to concentrate solely on biological controls.

To solve the world food problems, pests must be controlled, Merle E. Ward, DuPont manager, said. As production increases, pests increase.

"Don't ban pesticides until full consideration is given to all the affects of that ban," he emphasized.

The international conference was sponsored by the college of agricultural sciences and Alpha Zeta national agricultural fraternity.

$15,896 Received In Mail Campaign For Aetna Budget

Goal Of $34,900 Sought
By Newark's Volunteer
Firemen From Donations

Contributions to the annual fund drive conducted by the Aetna Hose, Hook & Ladder Co., totaled $15,896 at the end of last week, Olan R. Thomas, campaign chairman, announced Monday.

The total at the end of the previous week was $10,852, with a little more than $5,000 received last week in the fund-raising effort conducted entirely by mail.

Newark's volunteer firemen, who serve without pay, are seeking a goal of $34,900 in public subscriptions to meet an annual budget of $88,000 to maintain fire protection standards in the 25-sq. mi. district.

Funds are provided by city, county, state and insurance appropriations, but such income is $34,900 short of the amount required for annual operation of the local volunteer fire department.

The $34,900 must be obtained from contributions by residents of the Newark fire district. Aetna President Charles W. Wollaston stressed, to meet the annual budget.

The Aetna fund campaign will continue through October, but early returns of contributions are urged by Wollaston.

"Please send your donation immediately. We must receive $34,900 from the public to provide adequate fire protection," Wollaston concluded.

12,167 Books Set Summer Library Circulation Record

A record for circulation of books in the summer library program was set in the Newark school district this year with 12,167 books circulated to young people in the community during the eight-week summer program.

Last year only 9,246 books were circulated, and in 1967 8,000 was the record.

The program in the Newark district operated in all elementary schools for the benefit of all children living within the 68-sq. mi. area, regardless of where they attended school during the academic year.

According to school officials, one of the most popular features of the summer library program was the daily story hour from 1 to 1:30 for younger children.

The Newark summer library program operates as a result of two tax-support referenda — one in 1965, and one in 1968.

Newark High Principal Edward A. Tupin Gains Semi-Finals As Merit Scholar

Principal H. Nelson Freidly, Jr., has announced that a student at Newark High School has been named a semi-finalist in the 1969-70 National Merit Scholarship program.

The student is Edward A. Tupin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Parker Tupin, 208 Orchard Road.

The 15,000 semi-finalists are among the nation's most intellectually talented high school seniors, and will compete for 3,000 Merit Scholarships to be awarded in 1970.

Semi-finalists are highest scorers in their states on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMQST) given last February to some 750,000 students in 17,250 schools, nationwide.

They constitute less than one per cent of graduating secondary school seniors in the United States.

Some 97 per cent of the semi-finalists are expected to become finalists, and each will be considered for one of the 1,000 National Merit $1,000 Scholarships allocated by state.

Local Lt. Wm. H. Houle, Jr., Continues Prize Skating Along With Army Career

"Aren't you spending an awful lot of time at the skating rink? You have to put more time in on your schooling!"
Such statements from his mother were heard frequently by Lt. William H. Houle, Jr., throughout his high school and college days while growing up in Newark.

Fortunately, however, Mrs. Houle's fears that her son was spending too much time on skating turned out to be unfounded when William Houle graduated from the University of Delaware in June, 1968, with a Reserve Officer's commission of 2nd Lieutenant in the U.S. Army and a bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering.

These accomplishments were attained through intermittent periods of military drill on the campus and figure skating at the local roller rink to the tune of the Skaters Waltz.

Currently assigned as project managers officer for bombs and related components at the Army Munitions Command, Dover, N.J., the lieutenant still manages practice and participation in the graceful art of figure and dance skating during his off duty time.

Maintaining an amateur standing, Houle recently returned from Little Rock, Ark., where he competed in the North American Skating Championships.

Like most American youths he began street roller skating when he was around 10. Gradually the lure of wooden wheels, figure and dance skating captured his fancy as he advanced from concrete to polished indoor roller rink floors.

"This is not to be construed in any way with Roller Derby skating," Houle emphasized.

In his first competitive meet in 1963, as a member of the Merryland Dance and Figure Skating Club of Glasgow, Lt. Houle won his first trophy by taking third in singles figure skating.

Since that time he has become a member of the Capital Skating Club of Dover, (Del.) and has won 32 trophies and medals.

Pointing out that his participation is not confined to individual skating, the lieutenant said he also performs in "fours." He describes "fours" as being one of the most difficult types of skating, as two couples are required to perform in precision, movement-by-movement.

Newark School Board Charges Wilmington Bargaining Illegal

Peterson, Buckson, To Uphold Atty. General's Opinion
Local Board Of Education Adopts Resolution Urging
On Illegality Of Wilmington Teacher Bargaining Pact

The Newark Board of Education adopted a resolution last Tuesday night urging Gov. Russell W. Peterson, Atty. Gen. David P. Buckson and the State Board of Education to uphold the attorney-general and state board opinion that the collective bargaining pact between the Wilmington Board of Education and teachers is illegal.

The Wilmington district, the Newark board stated "has deliberately and with full knowledge of the opinions entered into a collective-bargaining agreement and made public control of education a bargaining item and subject to binding arbitration."

Newark school board member Elmer S. Monroe said Wilmington's action "puts us in a quandary because we are abiding by the attorney general's ruling and others are not, and no action is being taken."

The local board's resolution has been sent to state legislators from the Newark area.

Contrary To State Law?
Buckson twice ruled that collective bargaining with professional school employees is contrary to state law, but the Wilmington board proceeded on the strength of opinions by two city solicitors holding such bargaining to be legal.

The opinions were handed down by O. Francis Biondi and Victor F. Battaglia.

In other action last Tuesday night, the board set Nov. 3, as the target date for occupying the new Etta J. Wilson Elementary School, and ending double sessions at the Ellisabeth MacLary Elementary School.

The new school, originally set to open this month, was delayed by the recent construction strike.

It was announced that preliminary figures on district enrollment have risen from 14,042 last year to 14,827.

The board adopted a resolution by Monroe to investigate a recent school board action in Massachusetts, authorizing voluntary participation in the free exercise of religion by pupils.

Policy
He asked the board to investigate the matter because he said there is no policy on it in the Newark schools.

A board member William B. Keene and others disagreed, saying the board adopted a policy in 1968 which allows teachers to develop materials about religion in their instruction.

The Newark board also rejected proposed amendments to the recently adopted district rights policy. The changes proposed by a group of parents, would have allowed students involved in disciplinary actions to cross-examine witnesses, and would allow students threatened with suspension to remain in school until their cases were settled to themselves.

The board said it could not act as a court and that it would be surrendering its right of suspension if it followed the latter proposal.

SHRIMP-SPINACH DISH BIG ON FLAVOR

It's a swinging, singing sort of a dish, fluffy and tasty beyond belief, the kind you crave to serve after a lot of heavy going in the kitchen. And it is just about as fool-proof as a soufflé can be. You don't need to make a white sauce for it, as for most soufflés, and you can begin at the last minute to put it together. If you need to, starting with a frozen block of spinach. Biggest time-saver will be canned shrimp. These shrimp, cooked and ready to use, are absolutely right for this or any seafood soufflé or casserole. Simply toss them into a colander, drain, and that's it. This is a nice dish for company luncheon or late supper and suggests crusty rolls or French bread, crisp relishes and a fresh fruit-cup dessert.

SHRIMP AND SPINACH SOUFFLE

2 cans (4 1/2 ounces each) shrimp
 1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped spinach
 4 large eggs, separated
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon coarse black pepper
 1 garlic clove, cut fine
 1 tablespoon grated onion (pulp and juice)
 1/2 cup commercial sour cream
 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
 1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted

Drain shrimp; reserve a few for garnish; chop the rest. Hold the spinach block under water tap just to melt the ice coating. Break the block into a half-dozen pieces, using the point of a heavy knife, and chop thoroughly. Beat egg yolks slightly; add salt, pepper, garlic, onion, sour cream, cheese, butter or margarine. Mix well. Add chopped shrimp and spinach. Beat egg whites until they stand in stiff, moist peaks; fold in the shrimp and spinach mixture. Turn into a buttered 1 1/2-quart soufflé dish or casserole with straight sides; "dot" with reserved shrimp. Place in a preheated moderate (350-degree) oven; bake 50-60 minutes or until soufflé is puffed, brown-flecked, set. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

CONSTITUTION WEEK SEPT. 17-23

Perhaps no better account of the meaning and purpose of the Constitution could be put forth than that written by the late Charles Evans Hughes chief justice of the United States Supreme Court.

"We have in this country but one security. You may think that the Constitution is your security, it is nothing but a piece of paper.

"You may think that the statutes are your security, they are nothing but words in a book.

"You may think that elaborate mechanism of government is your security, it is nothing at all unless you have sound and uncorrupted public opinion to give life to your Constitution, to give vitality to your statutes, to make efficient your government machinery."

LEAVE THE COUNTRY.

Of all the ways America can grow, one way is by learning from others.

There are things you can learn in the Peace Corps you can't learn anywhere else.

You could start an irrigation program. And find that crabgrass and front lawns look a little ridiculous. When there isn't enough wheat to go around in Nepal.

You could be the outsider who helps bring a Jamaican fishing village to life, for the first time in three hundred years. And you could wonder if your country has outsiders tough. In Watts. In Detroit. In Appalachia. On its Indian reservations.

Last year, for the first time, Peace Corps alumni outnumbered Volunteers who are now out at work overseas.

By 1980, 200,000 Peace Corps alumni will be living their lives in every part of America.

There are those who think you can't change the world in the Peace Corps.

On the other hand, maybe it's not just what you do in the Peace Corps that counts.

But what you do when you get back.

The Peace Corps, Washington, D.C. 20525.

Raymond's Champs Face Bullets Saturday With Ill, Injury-Ridden Defensive Unit

Illness and injuries are playing havoc with the Delaware defensive lineup for Saturday's centennial season opener with 1-0 Gettysburg at Delaware Stadium. Kickoff is at 2 p.m.

Five members of the Blue Hens' defensive unit have missed part of pre-season practice and their physical condition has Blue Hen Coach Tubby Raymond worried.

"Five players we felt would be starters will be less than 100 percent for Gettysburg," Raymond says. "We may well have people playing both ways — offensively and defensively — in this game."

The Blue Hen coaches are most concerned about the defensive end situation. Senior Bruce Hanley, the only defensive end with any appreciable game experience, has a sprained ankle and may not play Saturday.

Ted Gregory, the most likely candidate to replace Jim Scelba when pre-season camp opened, missed two weeks of drills with a virus and may not be ready to play.

John Favero, the Hen's All-East middle linebacker, is recovering from an ankle injury. The 215-pound senior probably will be in the lineup against Gettysburg, but it is doubtful that he will be fully recovered.

Ray Holcomb, the team's only other veteran linebacker, has also been hampered by a leg injury during pre-season drills. The 210-pound junior has been slowed by a knee sprain.

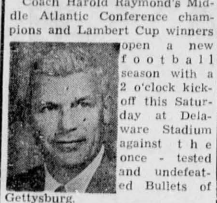

"Because of injuries, we have only one returning starter who is completely fit," defensive line coach Ed Maley says.

"Pete Cornelius is healthy, but the rest of our people up front are either new or hurt."

Cornelius, a two-year starter at defensive tackle, will be joined on the front line by junior Chuck Avery at the other tackle and senior Mark Blair at one of the end spots. If Hanley is not able to play, his job could go to one of the Hens' top offensive linemen.

THE NEWARK POST

EIGHT

The Newark Post, Newark, Delaware, Thursday, Sept. 18, 1969

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day "Get in the Hunt"

Thoroughbred Racing Association frequently gets letters mostly from young people, who want to join. Members of TRA, however, are, with one exception, race tracks rather than individuals. The exception is the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, which doesn't have a track it can call its own, but helps to sponsor some 30 days of steeplechase racing at Hunt meetings in various states, many of which do not have regular racing.

The N. S. and H. Association also sponsors a fan club with a membership of more than 5,000, including servicemen in Vietnam. "Get in the Hunt" and "Keep the Sport Jumping" are two slogans of the fan club which was inspired a few years back by Marianne Rahn and Diane Austin of Clinton, New York. Lewis C. Murdock, treasurer and promotion director of the N. S. and H. Association, got behind the organization, which now sports membership cards, a colorful button and a monthly newsletter. The club also makes available films and booklets on steeplechasing and distributes pictures of the top horses and steeplechase riders.

Noting that only 5 of the 100 or so tracks in the country have steeplechase courses, Murdock said, "We're hoping through this club to create enough interest so that tracks will schedule more steeplechase and also to encourage family attendance at the hunt meetings. There is no membership fee or dues, and anyone interested may write to the N. S. and H. Association, Box 308, Elmont, New York 11003."

Magistrate Roswell Poplar, Jr. of Havre de Grace demonstrated a bit of Solomonian wisdom by suspending instead of imposing a fine with the arrest of Clyde Brown and John Sheaffer for crabbing from an unsinkable dinghy without life preservers in some two feet of water in the Chesapeake headwaters, while the dinghy was moored a short distance away from Clyde's cabin cruiser where all manner of life-saving equipment was stored on the mother ship.

An over-zealous representative of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary charged the pair with failure to have required life preservers aboard the cork-like craft powered with a small outboard engine, and instead of sensibly issuing a warning, demonstrated an entire lack of good public relationship by hauling them into court.

But after the explanation of circumstances with a plea of "guilty" from the defendants, Judge Poplar wisely suspended any fine. Such a decision is a credit to the judiciary.

Bestial, biting beachflies bested a fishing foursome a couple of Sundays ago in the Delaware surf just south of Dewey Beach, and Baby Sister Jo Ann vacationing in the Diamond State with her fine friend Millie Goods from Alexandria, Va., made the catch of the afternoon by hauling a silver-bronze kingfish from the white water of the Atlantic Ocean, calm along the shoreline under a southwest, insect-laden breeze.

Millie Goods, a ringer for Ingrid Bergman in Miss Bergman's palmier days, handled a light spinning rod like a veteran, but the calico crabs outnumbered the fish by some million-to-one, and a big sea robin was the only other catch of a long hot afternoon and evening.

The two Virginia visitors and the Lady of the House from Newark bravely battled beachflies while a husband fished with determination and no consideration, and at last — to the relief of the ladies — we left the beach to what Life magazine once so well termed "the tough one — the sea gull."

Last Saturday at Bethany Beach, veteran surfman Bill Durham outdid a host of ardent anglers by beaching a kingfish double — a pair of big kings, too — in the only bit of interesting action.

Bill tied into a whopping big sea robin — the luckiest robin ever caught — and the soft-hearted Samaritan carefully restored the finned monster to the sea.

Aboard the Young Lady in a late start out of Ocean City, Md., last Sunday with Skipper Dick Pleasanton, Mate Bob Armstrong, Jeffrey and Reg Rockwell, Sam Todd and Gibby Young, we troled briefly with a Delaware fleet that had recently reaped a harvest from a school of snapper blues off the Fenwick Shoals, and with no further evidence of bluefish in the area, headed offshore for abalone; after some radio-telephone conversation between Cap'n Dick and another fleet of boats over the blue horizon.

Young Jeff Rockwell tied into the first abalone — his very first, too — and the 12-year-old sportsman from Christiansburg Junior High, handled that streamlined, super-charged torpedo as though he had been doing that sort of thing all along.

Sam Todd, former star quarterback for the Washington & Lee Generals when they played Navy, West Virginia, and other real powers in a very tough schedule, indeed, was impressed with his first abalone — false abalone, to correctly identify a fine fish by a shabby name — and Sam added another pair of these five-pound solid, seagreen beauties later in the day for a total six, with Reg and another Newark editor getting in on the abalone action.

A great school of bluefish was observed rippling the calm ocean surface, and we passed over these big battle-battered teen brown in the blue depths as they slowly submerged. Young Lady's passage, low tail trailing with the lethal barbs imperceptible and seemingly out of place where the tail joins the triangular slab of body.

From beneath a floating timber, we took a small dolphin cruising in the shadows, and these 18-in. green-golden beauties vaulted high above the blue sea and flashed with iridescent, mirror-like brightness in the depths as they fought hard against medium heavy tackle.

Cap'n Dick bounced down from the flying brace to grab a small light spinning rod after observing dolphin laziness under a nearby plank — sliced a strip of abalone from one in the fish box, and flipped a quickly baited hook beside floating lumber where a dolphin struck and waged the fight of the day against appropriate light tackle.

Reg Rockwell followed with another — we wound up with a total four, including a pair taken on conventional trolling gear — and Mate Bob Armstrong broke out a spinning rod to add variety to the catch with a pair of golden bar jacks — stocky half-pounders — taken from beneath a big whistle buoy during another perfect day at sea.

Chip Vaccarino Unsung Hen Hero As Starting Center

Offensive centers on football teams tend to be anonymous, and Delaware Center Chip Vaccarino is no exception.

A 225-pound senior, Vaccarino has been a starter for most of his first two years at Delaware, but somehow has been overlooked when awards were handed out at the end of the season.

"Chip realizes that offensive centers don't get much publicity," says Offensive Line Coach Irv Wisniewski.

"I think he also realizes that his coaches and teammates recognize and appreciate the fine job he does. It is these horses on the offensive line that are opening the holes for the backs."

An offensive tackle as a sophomore, Vaccarino moved to center last year and did an outstanding job despite a mid-season ankle injury.

Delaware Head Coach Tubby Raymond feels that Vaccarino is due some special recognition this fall.

"Vaccarino missed spring practice because of the ankle injury and he wasn't allowed to do any running on it all summer," the Hen coach notes. "But he still came back in pretty good shape and ready to work. He has been one of our leaders on the offensive line."

A native of Brooklyn, N.Y., Vaccarino is a product of Ken Herron's fine teams at Lafayette High School.

The Blue Hens open their season against Gettysburg in Delaware Stadium on Sept. 20.

Ex-Yellowjacket Star Pat Walker Hailed Most Improved Player As Blue Hen End

Probably the most improved player in Delaware's football camp this fall is Pat Walker, offensive end and former Newark High School star.

A 6-5 and 210-pound junior, Walker has been outstanding as the Blue Hens' regular tight end. He will be in the starting offensive lineup when the Hens host Gettysburg at Delaware Stadium on Saturday.

"Pat has done a very fine job this fall," says Coach Tubby Raymond. "He is using his speed this year and he is catching the ball much better."

Walker was the Hens' starting tight end last year as a sophomore, but was known more for his blocking ability than his pass receiving. An All Blue Hen Conference tackle at Newark High, Walker was switched to end last year.

"It has taken Pat a year to get used to the new position," says End Coach Ted Kempki. "He is a hard worker and the hard work is paying off. He has great potential as a receiver."

Walker, the captain-elect of the Delaware track team, won his second Delaware State Decathlon this summer, but has spent more time on football than he did on track.

"I worked out three or four times a week during the summer and it really helped me," Walker says. "I feel more natural catching the ball, running patterns and just knowing where to go."

The improvement hasn't gone unnoticed by the Hen coaches.

"Pat adds another dimension to our offense with his pass-receiving ability," Kempki says. "He is catching the ball very well and he has always had the speed."

There is no doubting Walker's speed. He holds the Delaware record for the 120-yard high hurdles and is the Middle Atlantic Conference champion in his specialty.
