Entertainment For Soldiers

Mr. Huss and Miss Bradfield to Furnish Music

Townpeople Invited to be Present

An especial pleasing program has been arranged for next Friday evening, when Mr. Frank Huss, soloist of Wilmington, accompanied by Miss Edna Bradfield, violinist, will be at the New Century Club to entertain the soldiers stationed here. As announced elsewhere in this issue, the public is most cordially invited. Miss Bradfield has recently returned after a trip through the camps in Canada. Mr. Huss has also sung in many camps here. He leaves in August for the other side where he will continue this work. Miss Mevel Haley, well-known pianist of Wilmington, will be the accompanist, and render a number of selections. The following program will be given: Song, "Your Voice," with violin obligato by Dence; Piano Solo; Violin Solo, "Spanish Dance," Sarasate; Songs, Melody of Home, Stephenson, Why? Wells; Violin Solo, "Fount's Fantasia," by Winawski; Song, In An Old Fashioned Town, by Squire; Violin Solo, "The Scotch Lullaby," "The Scotch Pastoral," Von Kuntz; Piano Solo; Violin Solo, Canzonetta, D'Ambrosio; Song, with violin obligato, "For All Eternity," Mascheroni. Townpeople are cordially invited.

COLORED WOMEN WORK ON ROAD

Replace Men on Local Sections

Housewives of Newark are wrestling with a new labor problem resulting from the employment by the Pennsylvania Railroad, of colored women in the section gangs on the road. On Monday of this week a group of eight women, under a colored foreman, went to work on the local section. Washer women and cooks are among the missing this week, and housewives are at a loss to know where to replace them.

For several months Mr. Boyd, the section boss, has had regular men employed instead of twelve, as in normal times.

Receives Offer From South Carolina

Mr. W. C. Young of the Horticultural department at Delaware College has just received a very flattering offer from the Agricultural College of South Carolina. Mr. Young has decided, however, to remain in Delaware and continue the work he has so well begun here.

Instructor at Plattsburg

Elwood Hofferker, son of State Senator Harvey Hofferker, who attended the Reserve Officers' Training Camp at Plattsburg, N. Y., last month, as a representative from Delaware College, was given a certificate recommending him for a commission.

He has also returned to Plattsburg and will train rookies during the new camp.

Accident on Main Street

Otis Gregg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delaware Gregg, while riding a bicycle collided with a machine driven by Elmer Ellison, in front of the Opera House, on Saturday night and sustained injuries about the head and face. Dr. Kollock dressed the wounds which are not of a serious nature. The young man is now able to be out.

New Equipment Received

A spectroscopy for use in the physics laboratory of the Women's College of Delaware has just been received by Dr. Harter. It was imported from London, England.

Dr. Hiram R. Burton of Lewes, has presented to the Women's College of Delaware, the electrical apparatus formerly used in his office. This has already arrived and will be set up in the physics laboratory before the beginning of the next semester.

Pronounced Greatest Authority on Rural Church Problems

Dr. Warren H. Wilson, Executive Head of the Department of Rural Sociology at Columbia University, has been secured by the Committee in Charge, to address the Twilight meeting next Sunday night.

Dr. Wilson is the greatest living authority on the rural problem especially that of the rural church. A modest unassuming Presbyterian minister of an obscure country church, he had an opportunity to study the problem at close range. His experiences published in book form attracted wide attention and secured for him an appointment on the Home Missionary Board. He has made a survey of the rural church problem in this state and in several other states. His services were commandeered by Columbia University a few years ago to head the department of Rural Sociology. He is, however, still doing survey work on the rural church problem in the interest of the Home Missionary Board and has published several very interesting books on that subject.

Those who have heard Dr. Wilson give assurance that a treat is in store for all who are privileged to hear him on Sunday evening.

Delaware Men at Plattsburg

A second training camp at Plattsburg, N. Y., opened July 18 and will continue until September 16. Upon the invitation of the War Department Delaware College has sent four representatives to the camp as follows: J. A. Mackie, of Kemblesville, Pa.; W. E. Barnard, of Camden, Delaware; Draper Smith, and F. B. Carter, of Wilmington.

FIRST SING SHOWS POSSIBILITIES

Crowd Urged to Assemble at Eight o'clock

The fact that the crowd at the "Sing" held in the New Century Club building last Friday was late assembling affected the program for the evening. Mr. Koehler who led the singing was able to get a satisfactory result only at the close. It was apparent, however, that there is on hand, splendid material for fine chorus work. The "sings" will be held every Friday, and the committee urges all those who find inspiration in song to come. The program is scheduled for eight o'clock.

Stirring instrumental numbers were furnished by Messrs. Oliphant and ———, of the draft contingent, on the banjo, accompanied by Miss Elizabeth McNeal on the piano. Informal dancing followed the program, until ten o'clock.

GUESTS RECEIVED AT WASHINGTON HOUSE

Inaccurate Statement Corrected

The Post wishes to correct a false impression created by a news item in last week's issue, relative to the Washington House. Contrary to report Mr. Willis, the proprietor, has not closed the house to the public. Although the dining rooms are closed, commodious and comfortable rooms are open to guests.

Equipment for New Dormitory

Plans are under way to install laundry machinery, consisting of a washing machine run by electricity, and a steam drier in the basement of the new dormitory which is being erected at the Women's College of Delaware. This will greatly facilitate the work of Miss Churchman's Department.

Changes on Extension Staff

Miss Helen Comstock began work as Home Demonstration Agent for New Castle County on July first.

Dr. Wiggins of the University of Missouri, has just been elected to the position of Research Horticulturist at the Experiment Station. Dr. Wiggins will take up his work here some time in October.

PRINCIPAL AT WORK ON STAFF

Many New Teachers to be Selected

Principal Marian Mahan, of the Newark schools, who is at present taking work in the Summer School at Columbia University, is at work on the teaching staff for the coming year. The resignation of Miss Bruebaker, vice-principal of the school, has been received this week. In addition to this position there is a vacancy in the Home Economics department, and two in the grades. According to the agreement recently made with the Woman's College three high grade demonstration teachers are also to be employed next year. The College contributes to this plan the sum of $2100, in return for practice teaching privileges for students at the college in the department of education.

One formerly unused room in the Grammar school building is being equipped, and it is at present planned to use the half day system in grade one, in order to overcome crowded conditions.

Accepts Position With Teale Agency

Thomas C. Young has closed his business, in Newark, and accepted a position with Albert L. Teale of Newark. Mr. Teale, well known real estate man of Chester, opened offices here last April, where he specializes on the sale of farm property. He is rapidly building up a large rural business in Delaware, Maryland, and southeastern Pennsylvania. Mr. Young will be employed on this work.

TOMATO CROP THREATENED BY INSECT

FARMERS SEEK MEANS OF CONTROL

PEST FIRST SEEN IN FLORIDA IN 1882

Farmers in this locality have experienced much anxiety owing to the prevalence of the green and pink lice upon tomato (in Delaware). The lateness of discovery of the outbreak has found many farmers wholly unprepared for the control of the lice, and they are in search for economic means of control. Many fields of tomatoes have been severely injured, holding them back two or three weeks. The plants have become so crippled that they will not recover well.

History of the Insect

This pest was first discovered in Florida in 1882 on the wild pepper vine, one of the potato family. It did some injury in 1905 in Mahone Bay, Canada. In 1906 it caused some severe injury to potatoes near Holston, Maine. Since that time it has appeared in several sections of the country, but probably most seriously in potato fields near Cincinnati, Ohio, in early June, 1917, where it received the name of "Kaiser Bug." Last year it was reported doing severe damage in several counties in Maryland. This season it has appeared in the districts from northern Delaware throughout the entire peninsula, causing considerable damage, chiefly on tomatoes. Several fields have sustained losses of fifty per cent or more. The greatest amount of injury has been caused upon the small tomato plants, those from eight to twelve inches in height. On larger plants the parasites seem to control the aphid very well. It is very probable that this aphid was very prevalent on late potatoes last year, although no specimens were sent in to the Station, and none of the workers reported the presence of the louse.

What May be Expected From This Outbreak

The control of an outbreak of insects of this kind depends entirely upon the weather prevailing during the spring and summer. The most important factor in the control of all insects is a fungus which is most actively distributed during rainy, damp weather. Under such conditions we seldom ever have outbreaks of chinch bug, lice, army worm, grasshopper, flies or

Ex-Governor Eberhart In Newark

Spends Week at Summer School

Will Lecture in Wolf Hall Thursday Evening

Ex-Governor Eberhart of Minnesota will deliver a public lecture in Wolf Hall on Thursday evening, July 25, at 8 o'clock. The subject of his lecture will be "The Solution of the Rural Problem." Mr. Eberhart has made a life study of Social and industrial conditions and during his administration as governor of Minnesota put through some splendid reforms in the line of consolidation of schools and of prison welfare. To quote his own statement concerning Thursday evening's lecture, "No one will be put to sleep." Those who have heard Mr. Eberhart's lectures at Women's College are willing to back up this statement. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone.

Picnic Season On

Members of the Presbyterian Sunday School report a jolly time at the annual picnic held in the grove adjoining Welsh Tract last Thursday. The St. Thomas P. E. Sunday School spent today at Augustine Pier, and enjoyed the excellent bathing at that point.

Small Building Moved

The small frame building on the College ground occupied many by Mr. S. M. Donnell as an office, was moved last week. Later it was purchased by Mr. J. P. Wilson, and it was taken to one of his lots on Cleveland Avenue.

TEACHERS BEING PROVIDED FOR

Committee in Charge Meets
Today

A meeting of the Citizen's Committee appointed last week to canvass the town for the purpose of securing rooms for teachers who will attend Institute here during the week beginning August 19 was held in Dr. Mitchell's office on Monday afternoon. The reports in some cases were incomplete and a second meeting has been called for this afternoon.

Thus far 182 have been definitely provided for in private homes; 100 can be taken care of in the fraternity houses and 11 have offered rooms in case others nearer the College can not be secured. The Committee urges those who can provide rooms but who have not been reached by the canvassers, to report directly to Miss Helen Steele.

Good Peach Crop Anticipated

If the drought does not too seriously interfere, it is expected that the peach crop the College Farm will amount to between 4000 and 5000 baskets. The present crop is the seventh consecutive one produced by the College Farm orchard. It is the rule that if an orchard bears 3 crops it is a paying investment.

Chief of Horticultural Work

At a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees of Delaware College Professor McCue was made Chief of the Department of Horticulture. While he will do all the teaching in the department, he will also direct the work in Horticulture at the Experiment Station besides acting as Horticultural Specialist in the Extension Division.

Professor Hays Married

Dr. F. A. Hays, Professor of Animal Industry at the College, was married July 2, at Ames, Iowa. Mrs. Hays was a graduate in Agricultural Education and Animal Husbandry at Iowa Agricultural College. They are spending their honeymoon at Dr. Hays' home in Oklahoma.

HOME COMING DAY AT HEAD OF CHRISTIANA

Interesting Program Announced

On Sunday, July 28, Head of Christiana Church will celebrate Home Coming Day with an all day service, beginning with Sunday School at 10 o'clock.

The former pastor, Rev. A. Van Overen, and Hon. H. M. McCoullough of Elkton, will speak in the morning. The speakers for the afternoon service will be Rev. David A. Reed of White Clay Creek and Rev. William J. Rowan of Newark. Special music will be provided and luncheon will be served between services. A cordial invitation is extended to all former members and to all those now affiliated with the church.

Enlisted in U. S. Navy

Joseph A. Rhodes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Rhodes, enlisted in the U. S. Naval Reserves about two weeks ago. After passing the examinations he was sworn into service on Monday, and is now at home waiting to be called which may be within two months.

Mr. Rhodes is a graduate of Newark High School, class of 1917.

Flag Raised at Ritters

A flag, purchased by the employees of the Ritter factory has been raised on the premises of the local kitchen this week.

Work on Sussex Hall Rushed

Work on Sussex Hall, the new dormitory at Women's College is progressing very rapidly. At a meeting of the Building and Grounds Committee on Monday, a plea was presented asking that an effort be made to complete the building in time for Teacher's Institute. The Committee could give no assurance, however, that the building will be ready much before the beginning of the college year.

ROAD REPAIRS PROGRESSING

Prison Labor Proves Satis- factory

Grading on the Lincoln Highway from the Maryland State line, 1500 feet toward Newark is completed and concrete foundation will be laid on the strip this week.

Bitulithic surfacing is being applied to the section between Elsmere and Price's Corner. The contractor has been helped to some extent by prisoners from the New Castle County Workhouse. A representative of the contracting firm has recently stated that prison labor has proved as satisfactory as any other kind.

Leaves for Vacation

Miss Winifred J. Robinson leaves this week for a short vacation a part of which she will spend at the Marine Biological Laboratory, Wood's Hole, Massachusetts.

Burgess of Oxford in France

Frank E. Brown, Burgess of Oxford, Pa., and prominent business man of that town, sails Saturday, July 20, from New York for France. His work there will be of an executive nature in the management of American Red Cross offices in Paris. He may also be called upon to assist in the establishment of new Red Cross offices in different parts of France.

Party along North East River

A party of young folk chaperoned by Mrs. Leonard Rhodes and Mr. I. N. Sheaffer, spent the weekend at Charlestown, along the North East river. The number included Misses Gladys McCallister, Marion Gallaher and Adelaide Lewis; Paul Rhodes, Joe Rhodes, Harry Rossland, Pierce Crompton, and Earl Ramsey.

CURB MARKET IN LANCASTER

The market question is, in my opinion, the salvation of the small farmer and the tenant farmer, and, to a certain extent, it relieves the consumer of many gouges practiced by the middleman. I myself do not go to market, as I have a market right at my door for all the truck and poultry and eggs that I can produce; in fact, people consider it a favor if I keep back some kinds of produce for them; but I have been a close observer of the market system in Lancaster County for some years, and the subject assumes special importance at the present day, because of some of its economic aspects in relation to the prevention of food waste and the elimination of profiteering in foods. In the first place, the curb market system is not confined to Lancaster County, but extends well over York County, and, I am informed, is getting a foothold in Maryland.

When I refer to the prevention of food waste, I mean that every ounce of food that is produced, whether inferior in quality or size, can, by this system, be marketed at a price. Fallen apples are in demand for pie and preserving purposes and for apple sauce, and all that are brought to market can be sold; the consumer has been educated up to this, and many prefer the green apples for these purposes. Then, as for the specked peaches, no dealer will buy them, but a housewife learns from other housewives that they can be used for jams and jellies by cutting away the specked portions, and, as a matter of fact, some buy them for eating purposes. In the peach season, other farmers and their wives drive here to buy the soft and specked peaches, and I get rid of nearly all I have in this way, and the people from neighboring towns come in the same way for the same purpose. I don't know what would happen to a man who would offer this class of fruit in a section where the market system was not in existence.

This rather desirable state of affairs was brought about by the farmer coming in direct touch with the consumer, and getting a chance to explain matters. Then another aspect of the matter is that when a farmer offers goods on the home market the first question he is asked is, "Are they home-raised?"

They will not buy anything but home-raised stuff. I used to think this was merely a local prejudice, but as I got into farming myself I understand it better. Fruits and vegetables and all kinds of farm produce, allowed to ripen and picked at the right time, are necessarily better in quality than when picked a little before ripening, as most shipped goods must be, in order to stand transit. As for poultry and eggs, the situation needs no explanation. The system allows also of the cultivation of the finer varieties, as in the case of the Marshall strawberry; these usually do not stand shipment.

As for the profiteering end of the matter, you can have no idea of the infinite variety of things that are offered at the markets, all in open competition of farmer against farmer, so that a fair price is assured to the consumer, and a most peculiar aspect of the matter is that the goods are offered at a slight advance above the Philadelphia wholesale price, instead of, as one might suppose, at a figure under that price. I never could reason this out for myself, but figure that as it would cost something to bring goods from there here, the farmer is entitled to that advance to cover cost of attending market, and the consumer gets the goods at a slight advance over wholesale market price. On the other hand, in very sharp contrast with the prices made by dealers, their price is always set enough below the price at Philadelphia to cover the cost of transport there and a profit to the middleman.

I forgot to refer to one important feature of the markets, and that is in regard to grading. Take potatoes, for instance; you have probably had the experience of having to feed small potatoes to stock at some time. Nothing of that kind here; small potatoes can be marketed at a fair price, not given away, because a farmer at market meets his customer direct, and many people prefer a certain quantity of small potatoes for certain uses. I have a very wide acquaintance, and my friends when they order their potatoes from me sometimes say, "Be sure to keep some small potatoes for me for salad," or for some other purpose.—Rural New Yorker.

TWILIGHT SERVICES WELL ATTENDED

Speaker Declares Good Will Come of the War

In spite of the heat, the Twilight service on the steps of Old College Hall on Sunday evening was well attended. Dean Harry Hayward conducted the song service and Rev. Frank P. Herson introduced the speaker, J. P. Dalrymple, Y. M. C. A. secretary, stationed at Fort Dupont. Mr. Dalrymple took for his text, "Behold, I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it"; Revelation 3, 8. He showed by numerous interesting examples how in the spiritual as well as in the natural world, out of ignorance and sorrow and darkness there is an open door if we can only see it. He prophesied that out of the present war many blessings will come. Illiteracy will be abolished, for the government has gone into thousands of homes and has given a chance to those tied down by adverse circumstances. Knowledge will be spread more effectively in these few years of war than in 20 years of peace. Child Labor, the curse of the South, will be abolished when the men of the South have a chance to see how other people live. The curse of the liquor traffic will be removed, for enlightened America will see the inconsistency of barring its sale to the soldier and not to the civilian. One inevitable result, he said, will be a purer democracy—a blotting out of caste and a better understanding between the millionaire and the man from the shop as they fight shoulder to shoulder and realize that character is the big thing after all. Illustrative of this point he told of a wealthy Louisville man who enlisted and took his valet to training camp. At the end of the training period the valet was an officer while the millionaire was still in the ranks, doing kitchen duty and similar menial tasks that fall to the lot of a private.

A greater unselfishness, more charitable kindness and a more sympathetic brotherhood will, he predicted, be the inevitable outcome of the war.

MANY BOOKS FOR SOLDIERS

Forwarded by Authorities Across Seas

The War Service Committee of the American Library Association reports that 435,000 books were shipped to American soldiers in France up to July 1. The books went in tonnage space granted at the request of Gen. Pershing on the decks of transports, where they were used by the men on the voyage and repacked for use in France; in naval vessels for naval bases abroad; and in Red Cross tonnage for the hospitals in France and England.

A total of more than 2,500,000 books have been supplied by the American Library Association to the camps and stations in the United States and overseas. Approximately 500,000 of these books were purchased, the others having come as gifts from the American people through the public libraries of the country. Nearly 40 library buildings have been erected, and 600 camps in America, alone, have received collections of books.

Two hundred librarians, including leaders in their profession in this country, are giving their time to Library War Service. Most of these are serving as camp librarians, assistants, and organizers in the field; others are in dispatch offices for the shipment of books to France.

Loans to Our Allies

The United States has now loaned to our allies $6,091,590,000. The advances average about $400,000 a month.

These loans to our allies are analogous to lending weapons to friends who are aiding you in the defense of your own home. The money is being used to defeat our enemy, to maintain armies fighting side by side with our soldiers, and fleets patrolling the same oceans with our sailors.

Must Insure Sailors

The appearance of the German submarines in American waters has caused Secretary McAdoo to issue an order requiring all American ship owners to have insured the lives of the officers and crews of their vessels trading in Atlantic and Gulf waters. Mere fishing vessels are excepted.

Heretofore this compulsory insurance applied only to American vessels trading between the United States and various European and certain designated African ports.

The rates the Treasury charges for the insurance varies from half a cent per $100 of insurance for Atlantic coastwise trips to 15 cents per $100 for steamers crossing the war zone.

Railroad Administration and the Farmers

The United States Railroad Administration has established a department to be known as the agricultural section, whose particular duty will be to look after the relations between the railroads and the Department of Agriculture. Its purpose is to give all possible assistance to the agricultural development of the country. The extension work of the Department of Agriculture and the stimulation of agriculture, especially in relation to transportation, will be assisted as much as possible by the new section.

MAN-POWER CENSUS BEING MADE

Method Explained by Charles Warner at Recent Meeting

It has been decided by the officials of the U. S. Public Service Reserve and the U. S. Employment Service of the Department of Labor that a simplified man-power census of the industries in Delaware is absolutely necessary. The census is under way at this time and it is requested that employers co-operate fully with agents of the Reserve who will call upon them in the near future for the purpose of obtaining specific data. The government at this time is preparing a labor quota and will make apportionments for the various states. The state apportionment will be divided among the various communities and the census which is being taken provides the information for foundation data by which men will be picked from various industries with a minimum of hardship to business to fill the community quota. At a meeting in Wilmington on Thursday, July 18, the entire policy of the Employment Service of which the Public Service Reserve is an integral part, was outlined by Mr. Harold Stone, chief of the Mobilization Section of the U. S. Employment Service at Washington. As a member of the National Staff Mr. Stone stated that the success of the United States and her allies in the great war depended largely on labor. In the last four years labor has received no recruits from emigration whereas industrial activities and farm work have increased. About three million men have gone into military service, all of which has been a drain upon the labor supply. Under present conditions there should be but one employer of labor—the United States Government, and the U. S. Employment Service has been organized to take care of war work. The Public Service. The transfer of men from less essential to more essential industries will be gradual; the quota of men will be fairly pro-rated and they will be transferred with the least injury to business possible. Less essential plants will continue but their tonnage will gradually decrease except as their status changes by securing war contracts. The policy of the administration is to stabilize labor. Any persons wishing information in regard to the census mentioned above should communicate with the office of the U. S. Public Service Reserve, Old Federal Building 6th and King Streets, Wilmington, Delaware.

"The efforts and achievements of the millions of farm men and women have been noble and remarkable. The farmers have occupied the first-line trenches of the food army. They and the agencies assisting them, the Federal department, the State colleges, and departments of agriculture, were prepared when we entered the war and had been for years, and I venture the assertion that no section of our people and no agencies have done a better job."

Dr. Taubenhauz Publishes New Book

All of the friends of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Taubenhauz will be pleased to know that he has just put forth another stout volume on the "Diseases of Truck Crops" and their control. Last year Dr. Taubenhauz published an able book on the "Culture and Diseases of the Sweet Pea." He already has on the shelves two other books, one on "Diseases of Greenhouse Plants" and another of the "Disease of the Sweet Potato." Dr. and Mrs. Taubenhauz remember affectionately all their friends at Delaware College and in Newark. He is now a distinguished member of the faculty of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas at Bryan, Texas. His books are published by E. P. Dutton and Company of New York, in inviting dress, with profuse illustrations that make them intelligible to every reader. His career as a student in Delaware College has been an inspiration to many, and he delights to give expression to his indebtedness for unfailing kindness in our town, especially Dr. W. J. Rowan.

The Souls of Corporations

There is an old axiom of English law that corporations have no souls. The manner in which thousands of corporations have given their services and their means to the Liberty loan, to the Red Cross and to the Y. M. C. A., and to other national efforts during this war seems to disprove the truth of the saying.

The Congress of the United States seems to have adopted the view that a corporation may have a soul, since it has authorized national banks to contribute to the American National Red Cross out of any net profits available under the law for the declaration of dividends. The law further provides that funds so contributed shall be used by the Red Cross in furnishing voluntary aid to the sick and wounded relief of the Army and Navy of the United States, and the relief of the suffering caused by the war to the people of the United States and their allied nations.

NEW PLATTSBURG CAMP OPENS SOON

Delaware College Men Eligible to Appointment

A second training camp at Plattsburg will open on July 18 and continue to September 16. The sixty days military training will be intensive. In addition to those students from accredited colleges and universities who attend the first camp and who have the option of remaining for the second camp if selected by the commandant, institutions of learning of collegiate grade have been invited to send one student for every fifty on the college roll.

This applies to accredited military institutions in which the Reserve Officers' Training Corps has already been established. Institutions that have not previously had military training as an integral part of their courses are asked to send a student representative for every twenty-five students enrolled and one faculty member for every two hundred students. The purpose is to train the college representatives in such fashion that they will be well versed in all the latest methods of handling the great question of military training and will be in a position to return to their own institutions to fill positions as assistant instructors. In order to be eligible to take this course, the students recommended by their college must be highly qualified both physically and mentally and must be willing to enlist in army service for the period of sixty days, when they will be discharged. They will receive housing, uniform, sustenance, equipment, military instruction, and the pay of a private in actual service, and in addition, an allowance of three and one-half cents per mile for traveling expenses.

Dean E. L. Smith announces that Delaware College will send four representatives to this camp upon invitation from the War Department. These representatives will be J. A. Mackie, Kemblesville, Pennsylvania; W. E. Barnard, Camden, Delaware; Draper Smith, 1109 Adams Street, Wilmington, Delaware; F. B. Carter, 833 Van Buren Street, Wilmington, Delaware.

NEW ENGLAND FARMERS FORM WAR COUNCIL

More effectively to organize for war service and to keep in close touch with national developments affecting agriculture, farmers of the New England states have formed a war council. The Federal Food Administrator in each of the New England states was asked to name three bona fide farmers and the newly-formed organization is an outgrowth of a conference of these delegates.

It is known as the New England Farmer's War Council and has chosen as its president E. S. Brigham, of Vermont, who is also a member of the Agricultural Advisory Committee, a national committee of farmers which meets at Washington from time to time to confer with officials of the Department of Agriculture and the U. S. Food Administration. Mr. Brigham will now act as the authorized spokesman for New England farmers. Other officers of the Council are Walter B. Farmer, of New Hampshire, vice president, and G. C. Sevey, of Massachusetts, secretary.

The Cost of the Dog

The following is taken from an article by Henry C. Merwin in the Boston Transcript, entitled "Some Reflections on the Dog Crisis in England":

John Galsworthy, the novelist, puts the argument for the dog in war time upon a basis which even the most severe economist cannot dispute. "We all want," he writes, "to save grain as much as we can; we none of us want to be unreasonable or obstructive; but neither do we want panic to take from us one of the chief comforts left in these sad and comfortless days. Why does not the Government wipe out the theater, why does it allow music, books, every other mental and spiritual relief which takes up time and energy? Why not make a clean sweep of them? Because the Government knows that we cannot go on supporting this strain without some relief. Well, I say that our dogs are as great, nay, a greater comfort than any of these things."

The English have always been extravagant in their way of feeding dogs, and there is no doubt that the cost of feeding a dog, and feeding him well enough to keep him in good condition, can be brought down to an astonishingly low figure. An English woman writes from Paris, for example: "Until I came to live in France I had never heard of feeding dogs on beef spleen. A fresh beef spleen, lightly boiled, lasts my fox-terrier a whole week. I do not add bread or scraps from the table. A beef spleen costs four-pence." Here is an Irish canine bill of fare: "My only butler, an Irishman, joined up at the outbreak of the war and went to France, where he is still fighting, leaving his dogs with me to take care of. This I intended to do faithfully, should I give my own food to them. They are in better condition since the 'waste nothing' campaign than they ever were before, and are fed on potato peelings, fish skins, and scraps of cabbage—all thoroughly cooked." It is a safe bet that, in one way or another, the English dog will survive so long as an Englishman is left to give him a bone. "Take away our tobacco, our hobbies, our pleasures, and our holidays, but leave our dogs alone!" is the final word of a typical Englishman.

The family dog confers upon the child in the family a training in love, affection and benevolence which outweighs a thousandfold the cost of the few bones and crusts that constitute his luxurious fare.

The Soldier's Chances

Great as the danger and large as the losses in the aggregate, the individual soldier has plenty of chances of coming out of the war unscratched, or at least not badly injured.

Based on the mortality statistics of the allied armies, a soldier's chances are as follows:

Twenty-nine chances of coming home to one chance of being killed.

Forty-nine chances of recovering from wounds to one chance of dying from them.

One chance in 500 of losing a limb.

Will live five years longer because of physical training, is freer from disease in the Army than in civil life, and has better medical care at the front than at home.

In other wars from 10 to 15 men died from disease to 1 from bullets; in this war 1 man dies from disease to every 10 from bullets.

For those of our fighting men who do not escape scratchless, the Government under the soldier and sailor insurance law gives protection to the wounded and their dependents and to the families and dependents of those who make the supreme sacrifice for their country.

NEW MAN IN THE FRATERNITY

The New State Sentinel is new indeed. The Sentinel of the old days was typical of the country press; the Sentinel of today is just a little in advance of modern rural press. The business which recently changed hands promises well—new machinery and equipment, modern office—everything that makes for success. The editor, new at the game, is rated by those who know him as a bundle of energy, a true sportsman, possessing a sense of humor—all essentials in the newspaper game. Unacquainted and unused to type and writing, he claims, the paper shows good judgment, a sense of news, an appreciation of good make-up and features. A new man in the game, interests us especially. We have been there, are still young at it for that matter. The Sentinel in issues to date, shows more news, real news, than any other rural publication in the State. It has some fine feature attractions. It suggests force and real punch if called upon. It is full of human interests; the editor is a man, and writes like a man, neither seeking nor shirking a fight. We shall watch with interest this Sentinel on guard. He has our best wishes; he interests us.

SECOND SERIES OF LECTURES ON

Hon. O. A. Eberhart Here this Week

Dr. Adolph O. Eberhart in his lecture at Women's College on Tuesday night explained that the purpose of the National Security League in giving the Patriotic Training Course to teachers in Summer Schools throughout the country was to help mould public opinion, without which no effective step can be taken by the administration. The League considers that no more potent influence is available than that moulded by the public school teacher.

The speaker set forth in a very clear and forcible manner the plans why we must stay in this war to win. "We must win," he said, "not only for the sake of the 5,000,000 or more men who will probably be engaged and the enormous expense of ten billion dollars a year that is being spent, but for our own protection. The seas no longer furnish a barrier to invasion but prove rather a menace."

"We are fighting not merely for Democracy but our life as a nation. We are now building a merchant marine larger than that of all nations combined and our ships must be able to travel safely. The sinking of the Lusitania was virtually a declaration of war against every nation in the world. We must have commerce for our fleet and must therefore be a dominant factor in signing the treaty of peace, and this treaty must be binding on all nations."

Two things the speaker asserted, we must teach the Kaiser first, that an outrage like the sinking of the Lusitania is a declaration of war on the civilized world; second, that the only crown worth wearing is the crown of a free citizenship. He set forth very clearly, the elements gleaned from all nationalities, that a cosmopolitan nation like ours needs, and explained in a very interesting manner how war illustrates his point by a comparison of close range fighting of Civil War times with the long range firing of the present war made possible by the use of the microphone in triangulation of sound and of the telephone in transmitting results of range calculations.

HIGH BRED STOCK IN COUNTY

Co-operative Buying Through Association Suggested

Within the last few months fifty head of pure bred Holstein cows and thirty-five head of pure bred heifers have been imported into the county. Moreover, several farmers already have a few pure bred cows on their farms. Recently a great number of inquiries have been received in regard to a bull to which these cows will be bred.

The average pure bred cow in the county is worth from two hundred fifty to three hundred dollars. To be systematic, these cows should be bred to a five or six hundred dollar bull. As the average farmer is not in a position to invest this amount in one bull the only practical solution is the buying of one cooperatively through a county bull association.

The New Castle County Bull Association will be made up of several blocks or units at different points over the county. Each block will be composed of from four to seven farmers, depending upon the size of their herds. The maximum number of cows in a block will be eighty head. The members of each block will reside within a community so that each farmer will not be more than mile from the center of the block where the bull will be kept. There will probably be five of these blocks in the county with approximately a $500 bull in each block, at a cost of around $100 per farmer, depending upon the size of his herd. Although the Association is organized essentially for those farmers having pure bred stock, yet there is no more practical way of building up a grade herd, and several men with grade herds are expected in the association. The average farmer in the association has but one or two pure bred cows, so that a good portion of the service he receives from the bull will be on his grade cows.

At the end of two years each block will have heifers that cannot be bred back. Each block will exchange bulls according to rules of the Association, with no additional cost to the farmer. In two more years another change will be made, etc., until every bull in the Association. If there are five blocks in the association it will mean that each member of the Association will be provided the service of a bull for ten years, having the privilege of breeding to five $500 bulls, a service of $2500, for the original cost of $100 or $150.

This is the only practical proposition that will enable a farmer to purchase the class of stock that will command big prices. Probably every dairy center of note has attained its fame through the use of association bulls. The greater portion of the Michigan cattle imported were sired by and bred to association bulls.

The average farmer is reasonable in preferring to have his bull on his own farm, but any inconvenience he is put to in this plan is more than offset by the price that he will be able to ask for his stock. Because of the rules of the bull associations over the country it has been demonstrated that contagious abortion has been controlled far better than when each farmer owned his own bull.

If you are interested in this proposition speak to your Community Farm Bureau Dairy Committeeman or your County Agent at Newark.

LOCAL MEN LEAVE FOR CAMP DIX

Sixty Six Entertain Last Monday

Rural New Castle County sent 66 men to Camp Dix on Monday morning. They left Newark at 9.28 o'clock on the P. B. and W. Railroad and joined the Wilmington, Kent and Sussex contingents in Wilmington.

The men reported at the Local Board headquarters on Sunday afternoon and after roll call were lined up on the College Campus where Capt. Camp after a short talk, gave them some instructions in the manual of arms. On Monday morning they were drilled for a half hour or so by the Captain of the squad.

Without any particular demonstration except the escort of their families and a few intimate friends the men marched to the station accompanied by J. Pilling Wright, W. Owen Sypherd and Dr. Walter Steele, members of the Local Exemption Board. At the station members of the local Red Cross presented them with sweaters and comfort kits.

Acting captain of the contingent was John W. Jones, a graduate of Delaware College, class of 1916, who was a sergeant in Company E, First Delaware Regiment, saw service on the Mexican border. Upon declaration of war Mr. Jones enrolled with other Delaware men at the first officers training camp at Fort Myer, Va. On account of heart trouble at the time, however, the result of typhoid fever when formerly in the service, he was dismissed.

The list of men in the contingent follows: Lee L. Lewis, Daniel F. Bowen, Russell J. Reed, John H. Brackin, James B. Toman, Jr., Frank T. Cantwell, Frank G. Lester, Leandro Ambrogi, Ulysses S. Evans, Ignatz Teitelbaum, John Thomas Alfree, Wilmer E. Dough-ton, William H. Miller, Jr., Leo H. Ferguson, William H. Berfield, Edwin T. Poole, Albert E. Zacheis, Albert P. Atwell, Charles S. ## Entertain in Honor of Soldier

T. Raymond McMullen is the third son of Mr. and Mrs. Roseby McMullen's to enter the service of Uncle Sam in the present war. On Saturday evening he was entertained at a dinner party given in his honor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Smith. Individual gifts were presented, such as a comfort kit, a military wrist watch and a package of military handkerchiefs. Then in the presence of a delegation from the Junior Order of American Mechanics Rev. Wm. J. Rowan, in a fitting speech, presented the young soldier with a purse, the gift of the Council in appreciation of his faithful service as financial secretary of the Order during the past three year. Mr. McMullen left on Monday for Camp Dix.

TO THE YOUNG WOMEN OF AMERICA

The Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense has sent to every one of its state and local units in the country full instructions for the mobilization of young women in the United States Student Nurse Reserve, beginning on July 29. Surgeon General Gorgas of the Army, Surgeon General Rupert Blue of the Public Health Service, the American Red Cross, and the Council of National Defense, are joining forces in this campaign and already the state divisions of the Woman's Committee, by whom the enrollment is to be conducted, are busy with preparations for the campaign.

Announcement has been made from Washington that local units of the Woman's Committee, from Maine to California, will have a recruiting station open during the fortnight beginning July 29. Delaware towns are being organized this week, full details of which will be published in next week's paper.

At the local stations, women will be given an opportunity to enroll as candidates for the Army School of Nursing, established under the authority of the Surgeon General, or in branch schools of the military hospitals, or to enroll as engaging to hold themselves in readiness until April 1, 1919, to accept assignments to civilian nurses' training schools. Those who enroll will be sent at the beginning of the autumn and spring terms.

There are 1579 nurses' training schools in the country. It was pointed out today that the need of these schools for nurses was as great and important as that of the Army School of Nursing. Those who enroll in the United States Student Nurse Reserve will be assigned to these various hospitals as vacancies occur. The term of training varies from two to three years.

Every woman who completes the training course satisfactorily may be eligible for enrollment as a Red Cross nurse and for service with the Army or Navy Nurse Corps and stands a chance of being assigned to duty abroad. At the same time she will be qualified to earn her living in one of the noblest professions open to women.

"The appeal from our hospitals in the field is imperative," said Doctor Anna Howard Shaw, Chairman of the Woman's Committee, in an appeal today to the young women of the country. "They must at once have every nurse who can be spared. The places of those withdrawn must be filled immediately by student nurses. The call must be answered from every part of the nation. Let there be no woman slacker in the land."

DELAWARE LABOR RESERVE ORGANIZATION ANNOUNCED

Leon H. Ryan Associate Director

Leon H. Ryan, formerly chief clerk of the District Exemption Board and manager of the Delaware Farm Labor Bureau, has been selected as associate director of the United States Public Service Reserve for Delaware and was officially appointed by the Department of Labor on Tuesday. The great volume of business which has made it necessary for Charles Warner, director of the Delaware branch, to have assistance in the work, and Mr. Ryan will have direct charge of the work.

Among the matters over which he will have charge is the simplified man power census, which is being conducted in Delaware. He will also have charge of the recruiting of all labor in the state, as this work has been taken over by the Department of Labor of the U. S. Government.

The headquarters of the reserve is located in the old Federal Building at Sixth and King Streets, Wilmington, D. & A. phone No. 1292 and all matters pertaining to reserve work should be taken up with Mr. Ryan at that point.

The Delaware organization of the reserve is announced as follows: Charles Warner, Federal State Director; Leon H. Ryan, associate Federal State Director; James F. Casperson, organizer, District No. 1; Henry B. McNeal, Organizer, District No. 1; William A. Vrooman, organizer, District No. 1; Daniel Thompson, Newark, organizer, District No. 3; Frank Gardner, Smyrna, organizer, District No. 4; C. Howard Marvin, Camden, organizer, District No. 5; Samuel S. LeCates, Georgetown, organizer, District No. 6; W. Dawson Todd, Bridgeville, organizer, District No. 7.

Mr. Warner at the employers meeting Thursday night explained a simplified man-power census to be taken in the State of Delaware. He stated that this was the only foundation by which the public service reserve could determine where men were most needed, and he felt sure of the hearty co-operation of the employers in this work. He stated that agents of the reserve would call on every employer in the State of Delaware within a short time in order to secure the data needed.

CLAYMONT SCHOOL PRESENTED TO Y. M. C. A.

Equipment Appreciated by Authorities

Instead of the single plane recently announced, Irene duPont and his associates have announced that he will give the entire plant of the Delaware Astronautical School at Claymont, Del., to the School for Airplane Mechanics conducted by the West Side Y. M. C. A. of New York City. This announcement was made after an inspection of the school had been made and surprise expressed at its completeness.

The new equipment includes a Thomas-Morse military tractor biplane with a Thomas-Morse engine, which is practically new, having flown but about five hours, and is up-to-date. Other equipment is a Curtiss J. N. 41B military tractor with Curtiss O. X. 5 engine; three Curtiss flying boats, equipped and ready to fly; one Wright flying boat; several Curtiss engines, tools, propellers, carburetors and a large number of accessories and parts, as well as the contents of the repair shop at Claymont, including forges and tools. The Claymont school was opened after this country entered the war, to get men ready for eventualities and rendered great service to aviation interests. The equipment is now placed where it can do some good. The West Side Y. M. C. A. school has turned out about 1,000 airplane mechanics since last November and will be able as soon as the new equipment is installed to handle 800 students at a time, working from 8 a. m. to 11 p. m.

Small Pox Reported in Sussex

Following his return from Sussex county yesterday, Dr. A. E. Frantz, secretary of the state board of health, reported the existence of between 25 to 30 full fledged cases of smallpox west of the town of Gumboro, in Sussex.

There are ten families, all white, affected, according to Dr. Frantz. It is believed that the disease was carried to that section by a woman visitor. Dr. Frantz said that some of the cases are mild, others are severe.

All the homes where the disease exists have been quarantined, the work being in charge of Charles E. King, health officer.

The seven cases near Georgetown are doing well, Dr. Frantz reported, and there has been no further spread of the disease in that section.

The Cost of the Liberty Loan

Eliminating the cost of paper and the engraving and printing of the bonds, the expense to the Government of floating the three Liberty Loans, aggregating nearly ten billion dollars, was less than two million dollars, or approximately one fiftieth of one per cent. The expenditure for publicity was only $176,157, or less than one five-hundredth of one per cent., and appropriation that would not be sufficient to finance a nation-wide advertising campaign for cigarettes, pinkpills, or other curealls.

This is not equivalent to saying that the Liberty bonds sold themselves. They didn't and it is no unworthy confession to admit that the success of these extraordinary loans, popularly subscribed by a nation that was not accustomed to such requests from its Government, and that in the course of fifty years had come to regard a Government bond as a matter chiefly concerning banks and bankers, required the most extraordinary and comprehensive advertising campaign that ever had been attempted.

The contrast between the aggregate of effort expended in the floating of these loans and the cost to the Government is the enlightening and inspiring suggestion of these figures. There could have been little graft, or self-seeking of any sort in such an achievement. Nothing short of voluntary co-operation of the whole people could have filled the gap between the expense bills sent to Washington and the actual cost, in money, time and energy expended.

And the best of it all is that the Government got greater value for its expenditure than even the ten billion dollars for its war chest. It created a propaganda of patriotism that could not have been achieved by an expenditure five times greater in other and ordinary means of appeal. It set a nation at work for the war, and it prepared the ground for war saving, food conservation and even the recruiting of army and navy ranks. And it made better Americans out of thousands and hundreds of thousands who now regard citizenship as a title of ownership in the Government, where previously they considered it chiefly an irresponsible tenancy under an absentee landlord.

FIRE HAZARDS IN COUNTRY

Farmers Asked to Safeguard Nation's Food Supply.

The U. S. Food Administration issues the following statement of fire hazards in rural districts and the importance of safeguarding the nation's food supplies against such danger.

The season is at hand when farmers are to fill their barns with hay and grain. This period when barns, granaries and storehouses contain the greatest amount of food supplies is also the time when they are most liable to fire destruction.

Farmers are the only large handlers of food supplies upon whom the government depends, entirely without supervision by inspectors, to guard their holdings against losses by fire; and in view of the supreme importance of guarding this season's stored crops, farmers are asked to consider destruction or spoilage of food through fire as a misfortune to the nation and the allies as well as personal loss to the holder.

Prominent among the many sources of fire in rural districts are lightning, defective flues and stoves, spontaneous combustion, carelessness with matches, incendiaries and sparks from chimneys and locomotives.

Effective means of fire prevention and control are understood by the majority of property owners, but particular attention is called to the importance of removing inflammable trash from the vicinity of buildings, and to adequate equipment of ladders and buckets when more modern equipment for extinguishing fires is lacking.

Properly installed systems of lightning rods and conductors are suggested as protections against lightning. The paramount thought is to save from loss not only farm buildings, but the food and feed they contain.

It will be remembered that famine in ancient Egypt was prevented by a little governmental foresight and it does not require any illuminating dream to anticipate that so long as the war lasts, with its increasing drafts of ammunition workers, the world will steadily produce less and less food. If this year's harvests prove abundant, it will be the first duty of the American people to place every grain they can save into storage for future need.

CANDLE ALL EGGS LEAVING THE STATE

Food Administration Warns Dealers About Shipments Out of Delaware.

Dealers in eggs are cautioned by the Food Administrator for Delaware not to ship eggs out of the state that have not been candled. To do this is a violation of the food rules.

Complaint has been made to the Food Administrator, that some dealers have failed to live up to this regulation, and his attention has been called to the violation by the Washington authorities.

There is a penalty for violations of this character, and unless the offense is stopped dealers may be disciplined. The Food Administrator for Delaware has sent the following to all hotel, restaurant, boarding and eating house proprietors:

"In order to clear up any misunderstanding the Food Administration again makes the announcement that beef in any form should be served at the noon meal each day only.

"This meal should not start earlier than 11:30 A. M. and finish at 2:30 P. M."

"Sugar is furnished at the rate of one pound for each thirty meals, including both table service and cooking."

"It is expected that these rules will be strictly lived up to."

"PULPING" FRUITS

Methods of Filling Pantry Without Using Sugar.

Every housekeeper is anxious to build up safe reserves of fruit and vegetables for winter, and a good provider takes justifiable pride in well-filled shelves. To such women the twenty-five pound allotment of sugar, or even a more generous allowance for canning, will not provide a safe margin unless there is a careful allocation—so much sugar for cherries, and so much for peaches—and this program backed up with generous supplies canned without sugar.

England has adopted a method of preserving fruit without sugar, known as "pulsing," that is employed both commercially and in the homes. This method is economical of jars, as no water is used in canning the fruit.

The method, according to the bulletin of the Royal Horticultural Society, is as follows: Pack sterilized jars full of fruit, add no water, place rubbers and caps in position, and fill pan with water up to the shoulders of the bottles. Place pan on fire and bring water to the simmering point and keep it at this point half an hour. Remove bottles and fill them one from the other, replace rubbers and caps, and put the bottles back in the pan and bring them up to the simmering point again for another five minutes. Take them out one at a time and screw down the tops. Invert to cool and test the joints. Wrap in paper to prevent bleaching and store in a dry, cool place.

Cooking the fruit before bottling is a simple method of pulsing, but the fruit will be darker than if the above method is followed. This method is as follows: Place fruit over a gentle heat until enough moisture comes out to prevent burning, then increase the heat until the fruit boils. Roll an hour, stirring all the time, and can, following usual methods of sterilizing. In putting up apples a little water will have to be added to the fruit to prevent burning.

Pulsed fruit can be used for jam, stewed fruit, puddings and pies. The English housewife who has to be very careful of sugar makes up pulp into jam one jar at a time, allowing half a pint of sugar to a pint of fruit. This does not make so sweet a jam as the usual quantity of sugar, but as this English woman writes, "It is quite good enough and in these days jams of any kind is almost a luxury."

CORN SYRUP FOR SUGAR

Can Be Used Advantageously in Preparing Many Dainties.

Corn syrup or other syrup can be used to sweeten cakes, loaves, desserts of all kinds, to make pudding sauces and for canning and preserving. In canning and preserving fruits one-third by weight of the original amount of sugar used can be replaced by syrup. Here is a recipe suggested by the United States Food Administration.

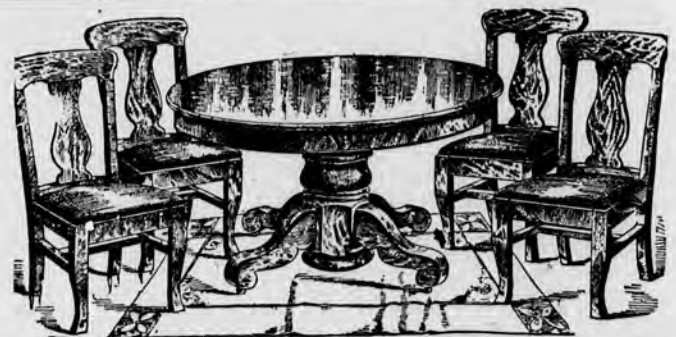

Spiced Cake With Part of the Sugar Replaced by Corn Syrup.

1/2 cup fat.
2 1/2 cups sugar.
3 eggs.
1 cup syrup.
1/2 cup milk.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
1/2 teaspoon ginger.
4 teaspoons baking powder.
1/2 teaspoon salt.
1/2 teaspoon allspice.
3/4 cups barley flour.
1 cup raisins.

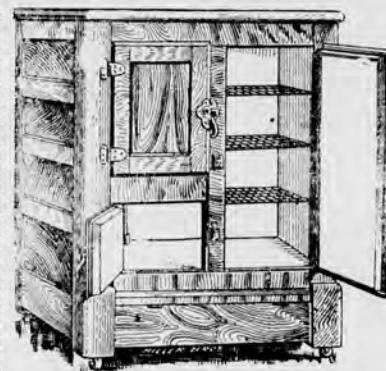

Cream the fat, sugar and egg yolks. Add the syrup, milk and vanilla and mix well. Add alternately the liquid, and the dry ingredients sifted together. Add the flavoring and fold in the well-beaten egg whites. Lastly add the raisins. Bake for one hour in a moderate oven.

GOVERNMENT SERVICE FOR WOMEN

Nurses Needed to Replace Those in Foreign Service

Direct and emphatic government service by young women has been made possible by the board of managers of the Delaware Hospital in the opening of the new home for nurses at the northwest corner of 10th and Jefferson Streets.

A short time ago Miss Duncan, superintendent of the Hospital, had a request or perhaps a command from Washington to increase the scope of the training school at the hospital and make active preparation for the induction of young women into her classes in the hope that the older and experienced nurses could be released for overseas service.

Following a conference with the board of managers of the hospital, this campaign was actively begun when the problem of housing the increased classes became, what threatened to be an insurmountable one. However in this great time of stress Americans in general and Delawareans in particular have overcome each obstacle as it has been presented.

The question of housing has been most delightfully solved by the leasing of the old Harvey home at Tenth and Jefferson streets and by its complete renovation it has been transformed into a veritable heaven of rest, providing quarters for 16 nurses. The house is ideally located for the purpose and will give the night nurse, at least an opportunity to rest in quiet, far from the noise of the street cars and other "over bridge" traffic.

The evolution of the Delaware Hospital is little short of miraculous. Under the competent and aggressive regime of Miss Duncan, the hospital has developed into one of the best in the country. Through her executive ability many new and important features have been established and its present organization will long remain to remind the people of Wilmington of their loss when she has gone to take up her proposed course of instruction at the Columbia University to enable her to carry forward the plans which always abide in the mind of a woman with Miss Duncan's broad yet practical vision.

It is planned that the work of the training school shall be carried on under a somewhat new order of things. In the fall there will be an instructress of nurses, a woman of keen insight and wide experience as assistant superintendent in a New England Hospital who has just completed a most valuable post-graduate course at Columbia University.

Miss Francis Reed, who has given such untiring service to the hospital for a number of years, has been made the Directress of Nurses, increasing her authority and insuring to the pupil nurses the most efficient practical training. Miss Reed knows her work and better still knows how to impart her knowledge.

One of the greatest innovations to be established this year will be the course in social service work. To the casual reader this seems unimportant, but to the hospital worker, the needs of social service are imperative and a better and more intelligent Wilmington will be the ultimate result of such instruction. Senior nurses will have the advantage of a social service course.

Miss Marston who has had charge of the dietetics for several years continues in her work and already plans for the increase in the school. Miss Marston's ability is well known. She is a graduate of Miss Forhand's school of Domestic Science in Boston. This is one of the foremost schools in the country, and had her practical training as dietitian at Jefferson Hospital in Philadelphia. Each year Miss Marston brings to her own class two graduates from some other school to whom she gives a post-graduate course. These young women are then sent out to train other classes and incidentally spread the name and fame of the Delaware Hospital; while Miss Marston remains to carry on the successful work which she has inaugurated.

A maternity course is also included in the training, the maternity department accommodating 15 cases and now much too small, gives an opportunity for diversified training. This department has grown so steadily and so rapidly that a new building must be provided in the near future to take care of its needs. With the increased facilities for maternity cases will come a great deal of extra training for pupils, and this training is of vast importance.

All of the departments of the hospital are under the supervision of the most capable men and women.

Applicants for nurses' training classes must have either two years in High School or its equivalent. This not only raises the standard of the classes, but confines the personnel of the hospital staff to a most desirable standard.

One of the plans for some future date is the erection of a new nurses' home. This will bring about a most delightful social life for the pupil nurses and add greatly to the efficiency of the hospital.

At this time the board of managers is unprepared to say when this vision may develop, but the home is bound to come, with all the other good things, and the increasing of the training class from 40 to 50 pupils as requested by the United States government is but another step in the line of patriotic progression. This time the "progressing" is to be done by the young women of Delaware.

Two white haired women talking, one saying she never expects to see her son who is now in France, the other replying, "I have two sons in the service, one in France and the other about to go across. Since I saw 'The Beast of Berlin' and Gerard's 'Four Years in Germany,' if I had twenty sons I would want to give them all! I would like to go myself. And I expect to see both of my boys back!"

UNCLE SAM FIXES NEW SUGAR RULES

Three Pounds a Month Per Person—Regulate Stores and Eating Places.

NEW SUGAR REGULATIONS IN EFFECT MONDAY, JULY 1

Three pounds of sugar per month per person.
 Two pounds of sugar is limit at one sale to city household.
 Farmers' wives may buy 5 pounds at one time.
 Ice cream manufacturers can only receive 75 per cent of normal supply.
 Candy and soft drink manufacturers are cut to 50 per cent of normal.
 Bakers are cut to 70 per cent of normal supply.

Sinking of sugar-laden ships from Cuba by U-boats off the Atlantic coast two weeks ago, shortage of ships to bring sugar from the West Indies and the increasing demand for sugar to supply our 1,000,000 soldiers now in France has led to the issuing of new regulations in the sale and use of sugar by the food administration.

Every citizen is asked not to consume more than three pounds of sugar in any form in a month. Hotels, stores and manufacturers and all users of sugar will be regulated through the use of certificates that they must fill out.

The Food Administrator for Delaware has sent the following notice to all dealers:

"The U. S. Food Administration is issuing new regulations governing the sale and use of sugar beginning July 1.

"This plan covers all users and handlers of sugar whether they be manufacturers, jobbers, wholesalers, retailers, or users of sugar either in manufacturing products in hotels, restaurants or in the household.

"The rules provide for certificates which must be used by every wholesaler and retail dealer and manufacturer, and statements must be furnished this office before certificates will be issued.

"In these statements you must furnish amount of sugar you have used and have on hand, also the amount desired.

"In order to secure sugar for future use, it is necessary that you file a statement answering these questions before July 15.

"This notice is sent only to those whose names we have on file and failure to receive notice will be no excuse for not filing the statement, as newspaper publicity has been given to these changes in the rules.

"The following is a partial list of those requiring certificates issued under statement:

"Beverage syrups, candies, cereals, chewing gum, cocoa and chocolate, condiments, confections, flavoring extracts, syrups, invert sugar, soda water, soft drinks, sweet pickles, wines, apple butter, canned vegetables, canned and preserved fruits, catsup, chili sauce, drugs for medicinal purposes, explosives, glycerine, honey, ice cream, meats, milk, tobacco, hotels, restaurants, all retailers and others selling for direct consumption, public and other refreshment houses, boarding houses, dining cars, boats, clubs, buffets, caterers, institutions, (city, county, state or federal), hospitals, private canteens, internment camps, all households whether boarding who take care regularly of 25 persons or more, bread, rolls, sweet yeast dough, crackers, biscuits, cookies, ice cream cones, cakes, pies, pastry, fried cakes, waffles, batter cakes, quick breads, Boston brown bread."

"Edmund Mitchell, Federal Food Administrator for Delaware."

What Three Pounds Means.

For the housewife, the three pounds of sugar per person per month means more of a regulation than most people think it does.

It does not mean 3 pounds of sugar for use in tea and coffee alone.

It means—

All that one person may consume in coffee or tea, pies or puddings, cakes or buns and every article of food in which sugar is used.

With the restaurant and public eating house proprietor, three pounds of sugar must suffice for ninety meals served.

Expect Grocers to Help.

In the present contingency dealers and grocers are expected to aid the Food Administration in the sale of sugar. Every grocer and food dealer selling sugar, is expected, in interpreting the sugar regulations to his customers, to use his discretion and judgment always.

Every effort should be used to induce housewives to can and preserve, but dealers are cautioned to be strict and exceedingly careful in seeing that they are not imposed upon by any one. Neglect of this sort would not be considered as fulfilling one's full duty.

No grocer may sell a farmer's wife more than 5 pounds of sugar at one time except for preserving in the present regulation, and all violations, if reported to the Administrator, may result in the offender being disciplined. The maximum sale at one time for preserving is 25 pounds.

Individual Responsibility

This war is to be won not by one man or one thousand men or one million men, or one million people. It is to be won by the united efforts of the individuals of many nations.

Every American citizen has an individual duty to perform, an individual share of the responsibility. The more powerful and effective the American forces are the shorter will be the war, and the shorter the war the fewer lives lost, the greater the number of American soldiers who will return home victorious.

Every American who economizes in consumption of material, who increases production, who saves and lends savings to the Government, does something to help win the war.

Y. M. C. A. ACTIVITIES FOR SOLDIERS

Plans Announced on Sunday Evening

Mr. R. V. Ross, local Y. M. C. A. secretary, announced on Sunday evening at Twilight service, a tentative program of special activities for the soldiers. On Tuesday evening there will be entertainments of some sort. Monday and Wednesday evenings will be spent quietly at home. On Thursday's, usually, lecture will be given. Ex-Governor Eberhart of Minnesota, will probably address the Camp on Thursday of this week. Every Saturday evening there will be a grand "blow out," as the secretary expressed it, with music, singing and various amusements.

Mr. Ross announced his plan to organize a Church Union of several hundred membership to be drawn from the training camp, the town and the Summer School.

CHILDREN'S RECREATION DRIVE PLANNED

A children's recreation drive is on to continue during July and August, under the auspices of the Children's Bureau, Department of Labor, and the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense. It will culminate in "patriotic play week," September 1-7, in which the work of 11,000,000 women in organizing recreation in 10,000 communities will come to an end.

"To be strong for victory the Nation must let her children play," said Charles Frederick Weller, associate secretary of the Playgrounds and Recreation Association of America. No time nor money can be spared from war-winning activities, but the winning of the war depends on an power, and man power can not be sustained in any nation without health and wholesomeness in the children.

Far worse than exhausting America's financial capital would be the exhaustion of child life, which is man-power capital.

"England and France began as the United States has been tempted to begin—by letting the children pay too heavily for the war in child labor, increased delinquency, over-taxed nerves, weakened bodies, and premature deaths, but England and France turned to lift war burdens from the children by giving them a chance to play. There is urgent need to give our boys and girls American square deal—their own safety valve of play."

STYLE HEADQUARTERS

Where Society Brand Clothes are sold

Why You Should Buy Here

WE are always watching for new merchandise worthy of our recommendation. We change from one market to another whenever the interests of our patrons are served by so doing. We do not hammer away at a trade-marked brand long after its usefulness had died.

A few years ago we did not feature Society Brand Clothes.

But when these now famous clothes were put on the market, we investigated them carefully---examined the fabrics, the tailoring, the styling, and tried them cautiously.

And Society Brand Clothes proved themselves so worthy of our patrons that NOW WITHOUT HESITATION WE GIVE THEM A FOREMOST PLACE IN THE STORE. Without any equivocation, we give them our whole souled recommendation to men and young men of Excelsior Springs who demand perfectly tailored garments in models representing not only style but good taste also.

New suits for summer in which the quality has been maintained.

Friday 26th

First screen appearance of a noted beauty Maxine Elliott in "Fighting Odds" by Irvin S. Cobb. A story of a wife's loyalty and big business in six parts.

Saturday 27th

Dorothy Dalton in "The Price Mark". Miss Dalton's debut under the Paramount banner is made in a sensational love story that runs from far off Cairo to New York's Latin Quarters. News and a two reel Sunshine Comedy.

Monday 29th

No Pictures.

Tuesday 30th

The world war and a woman is the fascinating theme of Metro's great 8 Act special production "LEST WE FORGET" starring the beautiful survivor of the Lusitania disaster Rita Jolivet. "Lest we Forget" is the great screen drama for which the world has been waiting. Its historical significance will make it of value as long as the world stands, for it shows in visible form the great causes back of America's entrance into the war, this picture is recommended so highly that we are going to run it two nights, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Wednesday 31st

"Lest We Forget". Don't Miss this wonderful production, considered one of the three best pictures ever filmed. The first picture to be booked in Newark for a two nights' run.
