Residence Hall For 750 Students By 1970 To Be Built On 121-Acre Tract Northwest Of Main Campus; Land Given City For College-Delaware Avenue Intersection

University of Delaware trustees last Saturday approved construction of a residence hall on the Laird tract, scheduled to open in 1970; approved a reorganization of the college of agricultural sciences; gave the City of Newark land to widen the intersection of South College and Delaware Avenues; sanctioned efforts to obtain non-state funds for a building for the college of nursing; and gave Acting President John W. Shirley authority to name architects for a series of construction projects.

The 1970 residence hall will occupy a small portion of the 121-acre Laird tract located northwest of the main campus and donated to the university by W.W. Laird of Wilmington.

750 Students
Preliminary plans call for a residence hall to accommodate some 750 students, a dining hall, and a conference center. Construction is expected to start late next year with completion two years later.

Changes in the college of agricultural sciences will include abolishment of three departments, and establishment of two — both taking effect next July 1.

Departments of agronomy and agricultural engineering, horticulture, and plant pathology, will be succeeded by departments of plant science and agricultural engineering.

Dr. William E. McDaniel, dean of the college, said the reorganized structure will more accurately reflect the college operation. Departments which will be included in the new plant science department have been closely associated in both classroom work and research since the early 1950s, McDaniel added.

New Organization
The new organization, Dean McDaniel said, "will increase coordination, teamwork, and efficiency in teaching, research, and extension programs in plant pathology, agronomy, and horticulture."

The department of plant science will include work in growth, nutrition, and ecology of plants; plant pathogenic microorganisms; and crops and soils.

The department of agricultural engineering will be established as a single organization, Dean McDaniel said, in recognition of the rapid mechanization of the agri-business complex.

Culture teaching program is one of the college of agricultural sciences' fastest-growing fields, the dean said. Agricultural engineering will include work in agricultural machinery, process engineering, design, and machine design, and design and function of buildings.

Improved Intersection
The deed of land to the City of Newark involves two triangular pieces—each with about 300 sq. ft. corners of the South College-Delaware Avenue intersection. Widening of the intersection is planned to improve traffic flow.

The college of nursing will see its current enrollment of 210 students already exceeding the forecast for 1970, soon will outgrow its new facilities on the fourth floor of the college of education building.

The board authorized university officials to seek $1.25-million from non-state sources and to apply to the U.S. Public Health Service for $2.5-million in federal funds for a college of nursing building.

Appointments of architects for one new construction project and three remodeling jobs were authorized by the trustees.

Knoll Parking Lot
The new building, intended for the college of business and economics, is scheduled for construction on the Knoll parking lot near the intersection of South College and Delaware Avenues.

The building is expected to contain some 50,000-sq. ft. for administrative and faculty offices, and general and special purpose classrooms.

Acting President Shirley was authorized to appoint architects for the remodeling of the Biochemical Building on Academy Street to house the departments of geology and geography, and the remodeling of Allison Hall to provide general purpose classrooms and additional facilities for the college of home economics which has been sharing the building with the college of education.

Shirley also was authorized to appoint architects for an addition to Laurel Hall, the student health service building. Laurel Hall's donor has provided funds to build more space for examination rooms and outpatients.

During 1966-67 Laurel Hall cared for 18,727 outpatients and 1,703 bed patients.

Bundle Days Drive Provides Record 6,000-lbs. Clothing

The Bundle Days Drive in the Newark special school district resulted in donations of more than 6,000 pounds of used, serviceable clothing for needy children in Appalachia, according to Chairman Thomas A. Cobley, Central Elementary School principal.

Last year, under Cobley's direction, the drive set a record of 4,000 pounds.

"This record in 1967 is a credit to local residents and is another example of the generosity of our community toward these less fortunate," Cobley concluded.

Annual Bundle Days in Newark are sponsored by the school district and the Save-The-Children Federation. While children in other parts of the country benefit from clothing donated in these drives, the bulk of the material is sent to Appalachia where many children are absent from school simply because they have no heavy clothing, shoes, or coats to wear.

The clothing drive in each school is directed by the school nurse, and the maintenance staff is responsible for assembling the clothing at the district's warehouse, repacking it, and preparing it for shipment to the Save-The-Children Federation.

Assisting Cobley with the drive were Mrs. Cynthia Nickle, district coordinator of nurses, and Jesse Tressler of the maintenance staff.

Council Reviews Budget Costs Of Recreation, Refuse, Streets

Budget Meeting Planned For Dec. 18, Final Approval On Jan. 15; Proposed Recreation Department Results In Debate On County-City-GNRA Direction Of Program

At a special meeting last Monday night, Newark City Council reviewed allocations for the recreation department, and for the refuse and street divisions in the proposed municipal budget for 1968, and Mayor Norma B. Handoff concluded with "We are in no position to adopt a budget on Jan. 8, as we planned to do." The mayor's proposal for an additional meeting on Dec. 18, to consider the budget, and a special meeting on Jan. 15, for final adoption, was approved.

The proposed budget includes $392,430 for a recreation department, with the local recreation program, $165,252 for the refuse division; and $541,857 for the street division.

"I am here to recommend that the city not establish a parks and recreation department," Paul Y. McCormick, president of the Greater Newark Recreation Association, said in addressing council from the audience.

County Assistance?
McCormick urged "a look into the county organization" for assistance with the local recreation program, pointing out that some 50 per cent of the GNRA budget has been spent for office overhead, and that county assistance may be available without such expense for "maximum efficiency."

He stressed that the GNRA "has never done a job for the teen-agers in the town," and that without "a much bigger program" the city should "forget the teen-agers."

"I feel that 2½ years have just gone down the drain," Robert E. Snyder, chairman of the parks and recreation advisory committee, said in opposition to McCormick's proposal.

"If we depend on some other group to do the job for us, we will have no recognition . . ."

"If the county is to do the job for teen-agers, they should do it for senior citizens," Snyder added, and requested a request from the Newark Senior Center for municipal funds.

"I think your committee meetings must be very interesting," Mayor Handoff said to Snyder, who replied, "Oh, yes! They're beautiful."

George Conaway, the audience requested a report on available county recreation assistance.

Department Function
The function of the proposed recreation department, Snyder said, is to provide a balanced recreation program, including planning, construction, and maintenance of facilities, and development and supervision of recreational activities.

Stiff added that it was "early to create a parks and recreation department," and advised employing a recreation director for planning the new program with a phase-out of present GNRA activity.

The cost for such a phase-out was estimated at $74,340, eliminating the major expenditure of $319,000 in capital outlay. And the alternative is to provide $25,000 for continuation of the present program.

The GNRA has requested $24,017 from the city for 1968.

Councilman Arthur P. Mayer urged utilization of school playgrounds in the recreational program, and Stiff said that the present school area was being considered.

"We are in the education, not recreation business," Snyder said as principal of the Brookside Elementary School, but expressed willingness of the school board to cooperate with the city.

Trash Collection Contract
Councilman William M. Coverdale proposed investigation of costs for contractual collections, compared with costs for city service with garbage trucks, and disposal.

Stiff said that a survey was underway. Coverdale pointed out that, with an outside contractor responsible for refuse collection and disposal, the city would be relieved of the problem of trash acquisition.

Councilman Frank J. Osborne, Jr., inquired of benefits with incineration, and Stiff said that a meeting on this topic was planned with county and municipal officials. (Continued on Page 5)

Boyce, Brasher, Fieldhouse Cite Asparagus Irrigation

Irrigation makes little difference in the yield and weight of asparagus, according to research by University of Delaware horticulturists, unless there was a drought during growth the previous year.

"Nutrition, Irrigation and Spacing of Asparagus Crowns," published by the Agricultural Experiment Station, reports on the work.

If rainfall is inadequate during July and August when the asparagus brush is growing, irrigation at this time will increase the number of marketable spears the following year. This happened only one season during the six-year study, according to horticulturists Eugene P. Brasher, Donald Fieldhouse, and Russell Boyce. They explain that asparagus roots go down 6-ft. so they are not dependent on surface moisture.

Copies of the bulletin "Nutrition, Irrigation and Spacing of Asparagus Crowns" are available from the Mailing Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark.

Subirrigation Yields State Corn Yields Mitchell Reports

Eight Hours Use Increases Yield 16 Bushels Per Acre At Georgetown Substation

Eight hours of subirrigation increased corn yields by 16 bushels per acre this year. During one of the wettest growing seasons in 50 years, irrigation was needed only once at University of Delaware Georgetown substation plots, but those few hours made the difference, according to Dr. William Mitchell, extension agronomist at the University of Delaware.

In three years research with subirrigation at the substation, the system gave an appreciable yield increase each year.

In 1965 with adequate rainfall, irrigating resulted in 40 bushels per acre more corn.

In the 1966 drought, subirrigating corn meant a yield of 165 bushels compared to a mere seven bushels per acre without water.

"It proves subirrigation is an effective way to supply moisture to row crops," Mitchell says.

The system can be turned on at a minute's notice. When the corn began to look wilted last June, turning on a valve meant the plants received moisture when they needed it. Thus the subirrigation system can be valuable even in a wet year, Mitchell points out.

Several problems have been noted, however. In material presented at the American Society of Agronomy annual meeting, Mitchell said roots plugging small holes of the pipe is a major concern. Pipe holes are extremely small, and water is flowing slowly under low pressure. These factors all encourage plugging, cutting down irrigation effectiveness.

Mitchell found that briefly increasing pressure to five pounds unplugged the system, restoring as much as 95 per cent. The brief pressure increase could be used in the field to reduce plugging, Mitchell believes.

Although plugging is a problem in subirrigation, it doesn't seem to be a great limitation on the effectiveness of the system, Research will provide the answers, Mitchell believes.

Many improvements have been made since the subirrigation system was put down in the Georgetown substation. Yet even that system resulted in an average increase of 71 bushels per acre of corn over a three-year period.

Planning For Tax On Farm Income Provides Savings

Tax planning can save you dollars—legally. It's good farm management to even out your income from year to year, according to W. T. McAllister, farm management specialist at the University of Delaware.

By now, you should have an accurate estimate of your taxable income for 1967, McAllister advises. If it is substantially higher or lower, it may be to your advantage to make some last minute adjustments. Now is the time—any steps you take to change the 1967 income must be taken before the end of this year.

Assuming 1967 income is above normal, you can even it out by putting off sales of crops, lumber and animals. Also, pay all current farm business bills before Jan. 1.

Buy ahead. Before Dec. 31, contract and pay for a specified amount of next year's feed, fertilizer or other necessary supplies. In addition, buy those things which last more than one year but are deductible in the year of purchase—paint or painting, small shop tools, building repairs and fencing materials.

If income is below expectations, follow the reverse procedure. Put off paying bills and sell crops and livestock before the end of 1967.

There are several other ways to reduce your tax bill, according to McAllister. All of them are perfectly legal, he emphasizes.

Pay your children reasonable wages for farm work actually done by them.

Oranges And Pork Chops—Good!

Pork chops, acorn squash, fresh oranges and orange juice concentrate blend their flavors in a delicious skillet dinner. This meat-vegetable fruit dish can be prepared in a short time, and it's oh, so kind to your budget!

The chops and sliced squash simmer in a spicy, tart-sweet sauce of frozen Florida orange juice concentrate, brown sugar and ginger. Orange slices add bright, fresh flavor and texture.

Use Florida oranges frequently in cooking and baking as well as for juicing, and in fruit cups, salads, desserts, and for out-of-hand eating, too. They're full of valuable vitamin C, needed daily for good health and vitality.

Orange Pork Chop Skillet Dinner

1 can (6 ounces) frozen Florida orange juice concentrate, thawed, undiluted
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 teaspoons ground ginger

1 teaspoon salt
3/4 teaspoon Tabasco
6 pork chops, cut 1/2-inch thick
1 acorn squash
2 Florida oranges

Combine undiluted orange juice concentrate, brown sugar, ginger, salt and Tabasco. Brown pork chops on both sides in skillet rubbed lightly with fat trimmings from chops. Drain all fat from pan. Wash and slice squash into rings 3/4-inch thick; remove seeds and arrange in halves. Arrange squash with chops in skillet. Pour on orange juice mixture. Cover and simmer 45 minutes or until chops are tender, spooning sauce over chops and squash several times during cooking. Slice oranges 1/2-inch thick; cut each slice half. Add orange slices to skillet last 5 minutes of cooking time. YIELD: 6 servings.

Plan Movie Party For Younger Set

A MOVIE party at home is always a hit with the younger set. The toddlers and preschoolers enjoy Lassie films or cartoons; older youngsters are delighted with the Disney shows and the early Laurel and Hardy films. Films of all kinds are available through film distributors in all major cities.

Movie parties are welcome to mother, with no games or decorations, no supervised activities, no turn-up house. The youngsters sit entranced devouring simple refreshments such as heaping bowls of warm buttered popcorn and lots of tall cool glasses of cola. As an added flavor treat for the kids, toss in some grated American or Parmesan cheese with the popcorn and watch their faces light up with delight.

The bridegroom graduated from the University of Delaware where he was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. He is employed by Sinclair Refining Co.

Payments for the 1967 marketing year are scheduled to begin in April.

Hawaiian Baked Apples

Those marvelously firm and tart apples that are ideal for cooking are in the markets now, meaning it's time for pies, sauces and baked apple desserts. A sensational one, we think, is Pineapple Apples, Baked. Made with crushed pineapple, they're a mouthwatering blend of flavors. Irresistible served warm with cool, rich cream, or ice cream.

Robert Stevens Advises On State Tree—Holly

Delaware's state tree, American holly, is inescapably associated with Christmas. But this native plant is beautiful year-around as a hedge or specimen plant, according to Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

Holly can take the shearing necessary for a well-kept hedge. If you do the pruning now, you'll have a supply of holly for Christmas decorations.

Although hollies prefer rich, moist, well-drained soil, it will grow in less desirable ground, and will withstand considerable shade.

SNOW AND SATCHMO SUNSHINE

Wilmington's Pennsylvania Avenue was covered with snow last Friday night, while the snow had long since been removed from all major roadways in the City of Newark, thanks to the readiness and real effort on the part of our municipal manpower.

But Wilmington's wintry weather and snow-covered streets were forgotten by the Playhouse audience in the warmth of Louie "Satchmo" Armstrong's trumpeting of "Sleepy Time Down South" with his five master musicians in a classic curtain-raiser.

A critic in his review of the Louie Armstrong show of last Friday night, must have suffered from impaired hearing. The thunderous applause from the audience should have been registered, even if the quality of music didn't. But both were in high register.

At an acknowledged 67, Satchmo could well have been listening to his recordings, reading more favorable press clippings, and clipping coupons in the soft, warm trade winds off Miami Beach. But instead, he appeared in Wilmington to charm and thrill an admiring audience that will long remember a mighty music maker and master showman.

We hope that Gabriel will continue to lend his golden trumpet to Louie Armstrong for many, many years to come.

City Council

cerning incinerators for refuse disposal, Stiff said "the story has been good and bad—about 50-50."

In reviewing the street division's proposed budget of $541,857 for repairs and maintenance of some 25-miles of roadway; snow removal, sweeping, and traffic signs for some 54-miles; and responsibility for storm sewers, ditches, grass cutting, and sidewalk grading, a $23,000 expenditure for improvements to the North Chapel Street intersection with the Newark Shopping Center entrance was questioned.

Councilman Coverdale requested City Solicitor Clyde M. England, Jr., to review the March 16, 1955 agreement with the shopping center property owners.

Former Mayor Joseph A. Shields, a director of the Newark Senior Center, urged council to approve the $8,000 appropriation requested for senior citizens.

Shields cited a "$200,000 increase in value of city property" with renovation of the former water department building into the Senior Center "as a wonderful example of cooperation between private enterprise and the city."

Former Councilman Albert S. Priestley in the audience supported Shields' plea, and said that senior citizens "deserve more attention than younger with regard to recreation."

Councilman Mayer and Olan R. Thomas urged a $15,000 appropriation for the Aetna House, Hook & Ladder Co., citing Aetna's annual budget figures and a substantial decline in contribution to the current public fund drive.

Concerning costs of paid and volunteer fire departments, Mayer said that the city manager's "face lit up in a big smile" when he was informed that Newark had a volunteer fire company.

Theresa Messick in the audience asked if the university contributes to the fire company, and it was reported that the university "is a substantial contributor."

Prior to budgetary consideration last Monday night, council approved city purchase of a salt spreader from Thru-Way Equipment Co. for $2,272 as a superior piece of equipment; and of replacement of a damaged tailgate packer on a municipal garbage truck at a cost of $3,942. Monday's meeting was adjourned at 10:30 p.m. with seven remaining from an audience of 13 persons.

Ceci Resigns As President Of Student Government

Ramon Ceci, 26, of Wilmington, a political science major, resigned Monday night when the SGA passed a resolution ordering him to appeal his disciplinary probation status by Thursday or resign his position. Ceci then resigned, reportedly saying he would not appeal except on his own terms.

Ceci was suspended with 27 other students for "confessing" to participation in the Oct. 12 disruption of an ROTC drill. He was reinstated later on disciplinary probation.

Trophies Awarded To Fletcher, Bratton, Houston, McCarns At TD Club's Banquet

Bill Fletcher, co-captain, line-backer, and fullback for Coach Bob Hoffman's Yellowjackets state champions; and Jerry McCarns, end for Coach Sam Dixon's Christiana Vikings, received the Newark Touchdown Club trophies as players contributing most to team morale. Yellowjacket Center Tom Bratton, who was awarded the Mayer Brothers Trophy, and Christiana Quarterback Cliff Houston, who won the Touchdown Club Trophy as the outstanding senior player at Newark and Christiana high schools, at the 12th annual banquet of the Newark Touchdown Club in the Aetna Fire Hall last Tuesday night.

Delaware Football Coach Harold R. Raymond congratulated the high school football players on their performance, and the club for support of the sports program, and cited Delaware high school football talent as a major factor in future Blue Hen strength.

The Rev. Marvin Hummel, pastor for Episcopalian students at the University of Delaware, delivered the invocation.

Gerald "Doc" Doherty, former University of Delaware football, baseball, and basketball coach, was a guest of honor.

led by Co-Captains Bill Fletcher and Bob Russell, the seniors of Hoffman's 1967 state and conference championship Yellowjacket squad—guests of honor at the annual banquet—included Tom Bratton, Bill Cain, Ed and Ron Davis, Bob Dean, Ken Ferro, Keith Green, Gerry McCormick, Tom McDonald, Dale Meyer, Grier Murray, Barry Hesselton, Bradley Lane, Wayne Massello, Larry Smith, Larry Temple, George Toulouse, John Turner, Keith Walker, Dan Winterringer, and Tyrone Wood.

President Bob Plinick presented J. Earl Lynch with the Past-President's Award; and Dr. Mark Hurm, Dr. Arthur P. Meyer, Gibby Young Jr., and Dr. Bob Hooper, the trophies to Fletcher, Bratton, Houston, and McCarns.

Some 250 persons attended the 12th annual banquet of the Newark Touchdown Club, with a family style roast beef dinner served by the Aetna Ladies Auxiliary.

Dave Buckson hailed football as "a real contribution to the state," urged members of Hoffman's championship squad to help in the leadership for those "less physically and mentally qualified"; and cited the Mayer family as outstanding for its contribution of participating athletes and of leadership in Delaware sports.

The twin clergymen stressed "the three bones" necessary for a successful life—the wishbone with desire, inner urge, and anticipation; the funnybone for a sense of humor to retain a sense of balance in psychological ups and downs throughout life; and a backbone for honesty with God and self.

Peterson's Cagers Win Back-To-Back Firsts Of Season

With back-to-back wins for a 2-0 record in a brand new season, Coach Dan Peterson's Fighting Blue Hen cagers face Lehigh this Saturday; Penn next Tuesday; and PMC on Thursday in a series of home stands beginning with freshmen games at 6:30 p.m. in Delaware Fieldhouse.

Defeating Lafayette 99-82 in the season opener last Saturday at Easton, Pa., Peterson's passers edged Bucknell 82-79 here last night.

And Delaware won despite the absence of Big Bill Beatty at 6-6, and sophomores John McMillan and Bob Young—out of uniform at Coach Peterson's request, for disciplinary reasons.

Sophomore roommates Loren Pratt and Jim Couch paced Delaware's performance against the Bison last night, each contributing 19 points—and Pratt scored 17 in the second half.

Kenn Barnett, 6-8, and Mark Wagman, 6-7—the Hens' big guns—left the game via the personal foul route with 3:28 and 7:41 remaining in playing time.

Barnett tallied 11 points; Wagman, 13. Charley Parnell, a 6-1 senior star, sank 16 points for Delaware with eight goals and a two-for-four performance from the free throw line.

Hens Win Opener As Locke Leads Rawstrom's Team

Bob Locke won two individual events and then anchored the 400-yard freestyle relay team in the final event for Coach Harry Rawstrom, to lead Delaware to a 53-42 swimming victory over Franklin and Marshall Saturday in the Blue Hens' season opener at Taylor Pool.

Locke won the 100-yard freestyle in 1:22 and took the 200 freestyle in 1:58.4.

The Blue Hen 400 freestyle relay quartet, with Locke swimming anchor leg, finished first in 3:36.2 of weeks ago to write that "My brother and I are deer and bear hunting. So far, no luck."

We encountered Mr. Swendsen back in Newark last Monday, and asked how he made out with his annual deer hunting trip back home in New York State.

"No good," Swede said. "But I saw a hunter with a 600-pounder." "Great Scott, Swede! I never heard of a deer that big," Mr. Swendsen's awed audience admitted.

"It wasn't a deer. It was a bear," the Newark sportsman explained. Chuck Dobroski, a "possum-chasing" companion of Swede Swendsen, and one of Delaware's more stellar swimmers, was Touchdown Clubber last Tuesday night, along with West Virginia Paul Gainer, who has accepted the challenge of sterner things in life by forsaking the comparative comfort of Dobroski's wife for ice fishing—and Mr. Dobroski wisely reported that the surt had been alive with striped bass last weekend.

"I knew I should have gone," Chuck said, starchy-eyed in the telling of rock swimming in the shallows between the Indian River and Let's north jetty and the beach.

"You could walk across the water on fish," Dobroski declared, really warming up in his report.

With Christmas just around the corner, many parents or adults with young relatives are considering a gun for a youngster.

Like the birthday when a child becomes a teen-ager or meets minimum age requirements for a driver's license—or is considered no longer adolescent—the first gun represents parental acknowledgment of their youngster's increased maturity.

The discovery of a gun under the Christmas tree will be a happy occasion, but it also is an occasion imbued with the moral responsibilities that such a gift demands of the recipient, and especially of the giver, the National Rifle Association of America cautions.

The accountability of the giver—parent, relative or friend—to the new gun owner is directly related to the gift itself. The youngster will wish to use the new gun as soon as possible. It is incumbent upon the giver to see that the first experience with the gun by the excited and proud owner is conducted under safe conditions. The youngster must be able to handle the gun in such a manner that he does not constitute the slightest hazard to anyone.

The best way for a youngster to receive correct firearms instruction, to be taught the best in firearms safety, and to learn proper marksmanship technique is to become a member of a National Rifle Association affiliated junior rifle club.

It is in this environment that the new gun owner can receive continued shooting supervision under the guidance of skilled, responsible NRA instructors.

The NRA, governing body of competitive rifle and pistol shooting in the U.S., is a non-profit organization supported by almost a million members and more than 12,500 affiliated clubs.

Established in 1871, the NRA is the oldest sportsmen's association in the United States and promotes recreational and competitive shooting; small arms marksmanship training, and home and hunter safety.

It is recognized by Congress as an important element in national defense. A great source of pride, to the NRA is the excellent performance in the area of safe gun handling by junior members. Proper ranges, trained instructors, and adherence to disciplines enforced in organized target shooting, have made it possible for millions of boys and girls to take part in the junior marksmanship program. Started in 1926, it has a safety record unequalled in any other sport.

All those who own guns and enjoy the many satisfactions derived from their recreational use, have a stake in assisting new gun owners or novice shooters in obtaining a proper knowledge of gun safety. Every accident with a firearm reflects on all shooting and every shooter.

Firearms accidents are less than 1.3 per 100,000 according to the National Safety Council. Under proper supervision, firearms accidents are almost non-existent. Carelessness and ignorance are the basis for most accidents.

Shooting, unlike many other competitive sports, does not require great strength or special characteristics. One of its most appealing features is that all competitors, boys and girls, compete on an equal basis. However, a necessary quality for all shooters is mental discipline, i.e., the ability to listen and learn.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day A "Light" Diet

A healthy Thoroughbred in training will eat from ten to twelve quarts of whole or crushed oats and perhaps fifteen to twenty pounds of top quality hay a day, plus a bit of "salad" if available. At tracks where there is no readily available grass between the barns, or elsewhere in the stable area where he might be permitted to graze, conscientious groomers will undertake foraging expeditions to fetch a gummy sack or so of greens for their charge. Other staple diets for the Thoroughbred would include an occasional hot mash of bran, barley and corn with a dab of molasses and some chopped carrots.

There are also commercial food pellets on the market for Thoroughbreds, and one well known Kentucky farm has its own secret formula for these entrusted for manufacture to a nearby Trappist monastery.

However, many horses reveal some esoteric tastes and have been known to relish big red onions, pie, ice cream sundaes, eggs, chewing tobacco and even fish. Perhaps the oddest diet supplement is that reported by Trainer Hal Steele, Jr., who says that, in addition to eggs and burgundy wine, the 3-year-old Barb's Delight has a predilection for electric light bulbs.

It was necessary to cover the bulbs in his stall when it was discovered that he gently unscrewed them and proceeded to devour them.

Dick Fulton Wins Rushing, Scoring Titles At Wesley

Former Newark All-State Halfback Dick Fulton a Wesley College student, won both the rushing and scoring titles for the second straight season. He also finished his junior college career as the Wolverines' No. 1 pass receiver.

The 5-10 and 180-pound Fulton was the key that helped Wesley to a 7-2 season under rookie coach Bob Andrus.

The 19-year-old halfback ripped off 915 yards in all carries for an 8.2 yard average.

He missed the season finale with an injury that probably caused him to miss a second straight 1,000-yard year.

His 85 points scored on 14 touchdowns and one conversion gave him a comfortable cushion over teammates Gary Salod, with seven TDs and 30 conversions for 72 points.

Fulton was the top receiver with 13 catches for 233 yards and five touchdowns.
