COMPANY E ON DUTY— MOBILIZED AT THE AMORY

RECRUITS NEEDED BEFORE MOVING ON THE STATE RANGE

Newark is sharing in the nationwide mobilization of State militia for service on the Mexican border in response to the call of President Wilson. Company E, since eight o'clock Monday evening when they responded to the call of Captain Jacobs, has been on duty at the Amory. A large percentage of the members of the local company are college boys who had gone to their homes for the summer. Telegrams were sent to these, and all but six had reported this morning, the absent ones being expected later in the day.

According to U. S. army regulations no company is acceptable until it musters sixty-five men. Captain Jacobs and his men are working hard to make the local company up to the required number, when they will immediately leave for the State Rifle Range at New Castle. Here they will undergo a severe medical examination, and if qualifying for service, be mustered into the U. S. Army. The men are already on the pay roll of the government.

Forty-nine men were on duty at the Amory this morning, ten of whom have enlisted in the last two days. Squads from the company were detailed this morning to visit adjoining towns in the search of recruits. These parties have not yet returned, but it is very probable they will secure the necessary ten men, so that the company can leave for New Castle by the latter part of the week. It is hoped eventually to make the company up to 140 men.

The men are drilling morning and afternoon, the drill this morning consisting of a long hike into the country. They are on duty at the Amory from seven-thirty a. m. until 9.30 p. m., meals being served in the Amory dining room by the company cooks, William Sargeant and Frank Ware, under the direction of E. R. Foster, quartermaster of the company.

Company E is classed as the best drilled in the State. It remains for Newark to produce her quota of strong, virile young men, in order that they may take their place at the front.

WORK ON SEWER EXTENSION BEGUN

Twenty Men Working On Old Depot Road

Smith and Ruggles, contractors of Baltimore, have begun work on the installation of the sewer extension, about twenty men, all of whom are foreign laborers, being employed on Academy street extended this week. The contractors' bid for the work was slightly less than $10,000. A large portion of this amount will be paid by Delaware College as it is largely for the benefit of the college that it is to be built. The extension starts on Welsh Lane at the town limits and goes south to a point between the home of Dr. S. C. Mitchell and the Women's College. It is then extended across the college property to the back Depot Road, then to South Chapel street. It is necessary to put in a pumping station on South Chapel street as the sewerage will not run by gravity there. All the college property purchased last year and also the Women's College will be cared for by the extension. Private property owners along Welsh Lane and also on South Chapel street will pay their proportionate share of the cost. The work will be completed during the summer.

HALF OF COLLEGE FARM HERD SOLD

Over Fifteen Thousand Dollars Realized In Five Years

The College Farm has recently sold a number of its Guernsey cattle, and reduced the herd from forty-five to twenty-five. The Guernsey herd has been established five and a half years, and during that time has given a good demonstration of the possibilities in raising registered dairy cattle in Delaware.

Since November 1910, the college has spent $11,500 for all the Guernsey cattle it has purchased. It is fair to assume that the milk production and the increased fertility of the farm has paid for the feed and labor of the herd. During the past five and one-half years Guernseys have been sold to the amount of $16,241. If the assumption that the milk and fertility will offset the feed and labor is conceded, there has been a profit of $4621 in cash, to which must be added the value of all the Guernseys now on hand, which of course are the tops of the herd, and include one of the most valuable bulls of the breed. It is difficult to estimate the actual money value of this lot of cattle, but it is safe to assume, considering their age, breeding, and official records, that they could not be replaced for $10,000 which would make a total money increase on the Guernsey herd of $14,621.

During practically the same period the college has spent $1475 for Jersey cattle, and sold during the same period of time cattle amounting to $2536. If it is assumed that the milk and fertility would care for the feed and labor, the Jersey herd shows a profit of $1061 or a total for the two herds of $15,682 in five and one-half years.

While this is a valuable demonstration, particularly to the young men of the state who are becoming interested in dairying, it is considered by many unfortunate from the standpoint of the college that the herd of cattle maintained primarily for experimental and instructional purposes should have to be used as a financial asset, even to this extent.

REVIEW OF NEWARK'S PUBLIC SCHOOL YEAR

INTERESTING FACTS FROM PRINCIPAL FRIEDEL'S REPORT

Principal R. F. Friedel of the Newark High School has collected statistics during the past week, in the preparation of his annual report to the Board of Education, that are of special interest since they afford an accurate guide to the trend of the school.

The school closed on June ninth after having been in session one hundred and ninety-two days. The total enrollment during that time was five hundred and fifty; the average daily attendance was four hundred forty-five, making the percentage of attendance 89.56. Three hundred and eighty-six pupils were promoted into higher grades in June.

The enrollment in grades 1 to 8 inclusive show a loss of 12 compared with the record of last year. This may be accounted for by the small number entering this year from ungraded schools. For the first time these pupils were required to pass state examinations as a condition of admission. Only 9 such pupils entered this year.

While the temporary effect of this requirement is to decrease both the enrollment and revenue of graded schools, the permanent effect to be derived will be beneficial to both the school and the pupils. The loss from this source was more than made up by an increased enrollment of 21 in the High School, for the total enrollment of 550 is 9 above the number reported a year ago.

The record for attendance, while a good one, is not quite as high as that of a year ago, which was 90.8 per cent. Mr. Friedel attributes this to the prevalence of grippe during the 4th and 5th months which so reduced the attendance in several grades that in spite of the excellent attendance of later months the record for the year fell short of 90 per cent.

The question of promotion is one of keen interest to both pupils and parents. In the High School pupils who have passed all (continued on page 8)

SUMMER SCHOOL ABOUT TO BEGIN

Teachers From All Parts Of Delaware Plan To Attend Student From Argentine Enrolled

Professor George S. Counts, head of the new department of Pedagogy, established at Delaware College only recently, arrived in Newark on Monday, to take charge of details, in connection with the Summer School for Teachers, of which he is dean. Professor Counts comes from the University of Chicago. He has recently been making a survey of the Gary System of Schools, having previous to that time been engaged in making a survey of the schools of Cincinnati.

Applications are coming in rapidly this week from teachers all over the State, especially from those desiring rooms in Residence Hall of the Women's College, where the students may get a true insight into the ways of college life. Professor M. E. Rich will be in residence, and hold the position of Dean of Women, throughout the session. A number of the fraternities will be thrown open to the women.

A feature of the session will be the presence of the county superintendents, who will give popular courses of local interest to the teachers.

The work in mathematics will be under the direct charge of Professor C. A. Short; in English, Professor Dutton; and in drawing, Professor Rhodes, the popular instructor of the Wilmington High School. Mr. McAvoy will have direct charge of all the social life. He has planned a number of pleasing entertainments which assure a social life that is in keeping with the tone of work in the classroom.

Several agricultural courses are offered the one in school garden work, given by Mr. Pailden (continued on page 8)

SPLENDID FRUIT CROP IN SIGHT

Estimated Peach Crop At College Farm Eight Thousand and Baskets

The fruit prospects at the College Farm for the coming season are pronounced excellent. Already they have begun to harvest the cherries of which there is a larger yield than usual. The red sweet cherries are being picked this week, to be followed by the sour ones next week. The fruit is being shipped to a commission merchant in Philadelphia, and the prospect is good for a satisfactory price.

After the cherries will come the bush fruits—the gooseberries, red and black raspberries, and blackberries. There is a large crop set in each variety and every promise of an unusually good crop. Within a few weeks the earliest peaches will be ripe. Of these there is but a small yield, as there are but two trees of each kind in the variety orchard. There will also be a few very early apples in the yellow transparent variety. All of the apple trees are young, and have been grown for size up to the present time. In consequence the trees are not in full bearing yet.

There is a bright prospect for an unusually large peach crop in the main experimental orchard. Professor McCue estimates there will be at least eight thousand baskets of Belle of Georgia and Elbertas this year. While there was a large June drop the trees are still so full that the crop should be thinned in order to insure good size and color in what remains on the trees. From some points of view it is unfortunate that this is so, since the fruit grown primarily for experimental purposes, cannot be properly thinned as in a purely commercial orchard. However, it is probable that the season has been so favorable, that in spite of lack of thinning peaches of fair size and quality will be harvested.

TENANTS ARE WARNED OUT

Work On Dormitories To Begin

All the families living on the south side of Main street, in dwellings recently purchased by Delaware College, have received warning notices to vacate. It is planned to begin the new dormitory, for which $75,000 has recently been given, not later than August first. Real estate agents report a scarcity of houses in Newark, and residents are experiencing difficulty in locating. Possession is demanded by July twenty-fifth.

The old Elliott property is being converted into laboratories.

Injured Child Convalescent

Jennie Tweed, aged twelve years, who was seriously injured when struck by the Newark transfer several weeks ago, was brought to her home in Newark last Saturday. The child has been at the Homeopathic Hospital, Wilmington. All the broken bones are knitting nicely, and the danger due to the pressure of broken ribs on the lungs and heart, is entirely removed. The patient is able to sit up in a chair, and suffers now only from her ankle, which is mending slowly.

Mr. and Mrs. Tweed speak highly of the Homeopathic Hospital and the attention which their daughter received. While there she occupied the "Newark room" which was furnished by Newark about two years ago.

Make Change At Newark

Rebecca Eleanor Barrow, aged 48 years, wife of William Barrow, died at the home of her son, Ralph Barrow, on Chapel street, soon after midnight on Wednesday, June 21st. The deceased has been suffering for two years from the effects of cancer. Since last December she has been growing steadily worse. A short time ago she was taken to the hospital to undergo special treatment, but the disease had progressed to a stage where medical knowledge proved inadequate.

Funeral services will be held from the late residence on Friday, interment in the M. E. Cemetery. A husband, and three sons, Otis, Ralph, and John Barrow survive.

COMPANY E PREVIOUS TO RECENT RECRUITING CAMPAIGN

STATE BOARD SENDS LETTERS TO THE PUBLIC

The Introduction of Card Records
At present only an accident or a piece of extra good fortune makes it possible to learn a pupil's school record after the pupil has quit school, in almost any public school outside of Wilmington. Yet such records are frequently asked for, are frequently needed, and the inability to get them imposes serious loss of benefit upon young people.

In each school there should be a system of card records. One set of cards to contain the list of pupils now in school, the card should show the pupil's complete record, year by year, as he passes through the school. Another set of cards should be made up of the cards of those who once attended the school but left it. Another set of cards should be used to give to pupils when they go from one school to another, to be called transfer cards. The transfer card should contain a complete statement of the pupil's work in school up to that time. These transfer cards given to pupils leaving one school to enter another, would in themselves be a boon to children who change schools during the term, since it would enable them to fit into the new school just where they leave the former school, without the usual loss of a year or more in schooling by "being put back." An oak case containing four drawers, one drawer for each kind of cards and a "supply" drawer, with the necessary cards, would cost from $6 to $8 per school room. This improvement should be commanded by the State Board of Education, the equipment supplied by that Board, and the money appropriated by the Legislature. The entire expense need not be more than $6,000. If appropriated from the State Treasury, this money will not come out of taxes paid locally. The question before the legislature and the citizens will be, should this $6,000 be spent for such a system of school records, or for some other purpose.

Dealing With Schools That Are Too Large

Definite and precise power, adequate in its scope, should be lodged in some Board, whether the County School Commissioner or the State Board of Education, to relieve and to remove intolerably bad school conditions when such conditions exist and the local School Committee neglects or refuses to adopt recommendations for their betterment. An aggravated case of this kind has persisted for several years in one district in the state. Some very small schools exist and are kept open from year to year. Some schools year after year are too large for one teacher, and no relief seems possible. Joint action between neighboring districts might relieve such conditions, but as favorable action by both districts is needed, the action never is taken. Hence the necessity to clothe some Board with authority to act.

A school that is too small, with no outlook that it may become larger, should be closed, and the few pupils cared for in a neighboring school or schools. A school that is too large, with every sign of continuing so, should be relieved, either by the erection of another room and the hiring of another teacher; or several such large schools adjoining each other might combine to erect a single additional room, put in one additional teacher, and there care for the larger or Grammar pupils of both the schools that are too large for one teacher. To effect these changes power should be put into some central Board like the County School Commission to order the changes and to see them carried out, if the local School Committees refuse or fail to act as directed. In the case of the school that is too small, the state has a right to interfere, since the state dividend is being wasted, in part at least, if all of one dividend is spent for four or five children, as compared with neighboring districts where there is a dividend for twenty or more children. Interference is justified when the school is too large, since the children are not receiving what the state is paying for, namely, a good common school education. A Board with sufficient powers could remedy these bad conditions quickly and effectively. Give such a Board the right to use the State Dividend for its purpose, provide it with several portable school rooms for each county, and it can meet the needs of either the school that is too small or the school that is too large. Last year there were 13 schools in the State that were too small, and over 100 white schools that were too large (more than 45 pupils enrolled) during part of the year and in some cases during the entire year.

Children who are deprived of their fair and proper chance to secure good schooling, because they are not aware of their loss, are dependent upon the school officials to plead their cause and their claims. Not to call attention to these facts would be failure to perform an official duty.

Charles A. Wagner,
Secretary of the State Board of Education

Old St. Anne's Church was erected in 1705. The building was built of bricks brought from England in 1668, in the reign of "Good Queen Anne." The building is in fine condition and carefully cared for. Near the church stands a tree of great size and height which is said to be, with one exception, the largest tree on the Atlantic coast. One of its huge arms stretches for a distance of 45 feet over the church pathway. There is a large and well kept cemetery surrounding the old church, enclosed recently with a substantial brick and cement wall, colonial in design, at a cost of over $2,500.

The old colonial communion silver is still in use in the daughter church in Middletown. The Rev. Percy S. Donaghy is the present rector of the parish.

POPULAR NOVEL IN PHOToplay

At Newark Opera House Next Friday

When Bluebird Photoplays decided to make a screen version of the story of "That Lass O' Lore's," which lately found such remarkable favor as "Secret Love," with Helen Ware as its screen-star, they had intended to advance a series of novel-screened productions, but circumstances changed their plans. The Bluebird people, however, retained one more production in their schedule of features based on both a stage play and a printed story—"Rupert of Hentzau."

So strong is its theme and so splendidly did it adapt itself to photoplaying that "Rupert of Hentzau," which will be seen at the Newark Opera House on Friday, June 23rd could not be denied. Whatever else might be discarded from the Bluebird arrangements this stirring Anthony Hope piece had so many bracing situations and cleverly realized dramatic possibilities in its favor, that good business judgment impelled the producers to give it to the public in screen form.

Then, too, Jane Gail had acted the principal female role, and that meant much in added favor bound to result from the showing of "Rupert of Hentzau" as a Bluebird feature. Miss Gail measured up to every standard required, and so artistically realized the role of Queen Flavia that it would have been unfortunate indeed, if the presentation of the film under any other patronage than Bluebird had been accomplished.

Henry Ainley was the artistic creator of the dual role of Rudolf Rassendyll and King Rudolf V of Ruritania in "Rupert of Hentzau." The Bluebird presents a sequel in "The Prisoner of Zenda" in which it will be recalled that Rassendyll was crowned king, in remarkable circumstances, because of his striking likeness to the real monarch. This resemblance is essential to fulfill the requirements of "Rupert of Hentzau"; hence Mr. Ainley plays both roles.

Cast with a company of splendid actors and actresses in support, with Charles Rock a leader among the players, the Bluebird feature has been prepared with the same superior methods of production and equipment, that marked the earlier pictures in this remarkable program of photo-dramas.

Straight to nature the producer has gone for some of the most beautiful settings for stirring scenes of sensational accomplishment ever presented in photoplays. Wide-stretching countryside, stately forests and flowering hedges; the search for unusually beautiful landscapes has been rewarded with richness of detail that will delight the eye while interest in the splendid acting is intensified.

Rodney Tablet For Nation's Birthplace

Philadelphia City Council on Thursday passed an ordinance reciting that whereas there is no authentic portrait of Caesar Rodney in existence, the Caesar Rodney Chapter, D. A. R., be granted permission to place in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, a bronze tablet to his memory commemorating his famous ride from Dover to that city to secure the vote of Delaware for the Declaration on July 4, 1776.

Felled Town Officer With Hatchet

George F. Oliver, who conducts a warehouse business at Aikin, near Perryville, left his automobile unlighted, one night last week in front of Owen's store in the latter town. Edgar Barrett, the town bailiff, called Oliver's attention to the matter, and when the latter paid no heed started to arrest him. Oliver resisted and struck Barrett on the head with a hatchet, rendering him senseless for a time. Oliver surrendered and waiving a magistrate's hearing gave bond for his appearance at the September term of Court at Elkton.

Will Share Large Estate

Among the heirs of Joseph Hendrickson of Philadelphia, who died last December leaving an estate of $1,500,000 are a number of Delawareans. His sister, Mrs. Joseph L. Carpenter, Jr., of Wilmington, will receive $600,000 and his nephew, J. Frank Delaplaine of Philadelphia, a like amount. Mrs. Ella Woodward of Marshallton, and Mrs. William Carpenter of Centreville, Mr. Hendrickson's half sisters, will receive $100,000 each. Anna and Chandler Hendrickson, children of the late William P. Hendrickson of Wilmington, half-brother of the testator are bequeathed $50,000 each. Mr. Hendrickson's controlling interest in the Ajax Metal Company of Philadelphia, has been sold to other stockholders for $700,000 and the rest of his estate consists of cash and securities.

Felled And Robbed By Footpad

John Norris of Marshallton, last Tuesday night found Jesse Jones, a resident of the town lying unconscious along the B. & O. R. R. near Red Clay Creek and brought him to his home, where Dr. L. H. Ball revived him. He stated that he left a trolley car and started to walk home along the railroad. Near Kiamensi he met two men, one white and the other colored. The latter handed him an envelope and asked him to read the address. As he was about to do so he was knocked on the head and fell senseless and remained so till revived by Dr. Ball. His assailants robbed him of $4.35, all the money he had about him. He was found to be suffering with brain concussion and was probably stunned with a black jack.

Skull Crushed In Crane Drum

Joseph Doneski, aged 17, employed in operating a large crane in the Manganese Steel Company's plant at New Castle, was caught in the machine and his head was drawn into the drum last Tuesday and was probably fatally injured before he was rescued. He was rushed to Delaware Hospital where it was found that his skull was fractured and little hope was felt for his recovery.

Barn And Stock Burned

Lightning one night last week fired and destroyed the barn and contents including the clover hay crop, on the Clayton Kirby farm near Harrington. Three horses and two mules perished in the flames. A bolt struck the home of Clarence Jordan in the same section and passing under a bed on which an infant was sleeping wrecked one side of the room and passed out the chimney. A tenant house on a farm near Magnolia was also struck and burned with its contents.

Kent County Levy Court has authorized advertising for bids for $25,000 of good roads bonds the last series of the $100,000 issue sanctioned four years ago by the Legislature.

Dean Winifred J. Robinson, of the Women's College, in a report submitted to the trustees last week, presented the following figures:

Enrollment	62
1914-15	62
1915-16	62

Home Economics lab.	1,134.12
Physics lab.	533.49
History-Charts	50.00
Library	3,000.00
	$128,822.85

Miss Robinson stated the greatest need of the Women's College to be a new dormitory. This should be ready for use by September 1919. The Dean requested the trustees to take up the matter of arousing public sentiment at once, so that the members of the next Legislature may know they are merely expressing the wish of the citizens of the State in making and appropriation for the purpose.

As a result of the Students' Loan Fund, established this year by the Women's Clubs of the state, three students have been able to remain in college, who otherwise would have been obliged to withdraw at the end of the first term.

Announcement was made of the new course in agriculture to be offered at the Women's College this fall. This is the only college in the United States to offer such a course to women, and the response will be observed with a great deal of interest.

ENDOWMENT FOR OLD SWEDES

Special Services Last Sunday

Historic Old Swedes' celebrated its 217th birthday anniversary on Saturday, the occasion being made memorable by the presentation of a $50,000 endowment fund, by the largest communion service ever held in the building, and because of the unusual attendance at the services. Bishop Kinsman officiated.

Following the Nicene Creed in the order of the service, the vestry of the parish and the trustees gathered about the time-honored chancel of the church and the Rev. Kirkus, in the name of the vestry of Trinity Parish, presented the endowment fund to Bishop Kinsman, who received it as the representative of the trustees of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Delaware, thus making a fitting culmination to the kindly and generous spirit that has been shown to Old Swedes' church during the months in which the fund has been gathered.

In his sermon Bishop Kinsman told of the work of the church and of its glowing record in the history of the diocese of Delaware.

Anniversary At Historic Church

The two hundred and eleventh anniversary of Old St. Anne's Episcopal Church, near Middletown, was observed last Sunday, a large crowd attending the services. The historic building—the second oldest in Delaware—and its surroundings are in an excellent state of preservation. At the morning service, at 10.30 o'clock, the Rev. J. D. Hall of the Galilee Mission of Philadelphia, preached and the Rt. Rev. F. J. Kinsman made the afternoon address at 2.30 o'clock.

A Word to Trespassers

In the total of 3387 trespassers killed by the Pennsylvania Lines east of Pittsburgh, in the years from 1907 to 1915 inclusive, the country lost economically, the services of many trained men, since out of this total only 1400 were unidentified, which means mostly tramps. This does not take into account the suffering involved by the other 1979 trespassers, and their families. Among this number were boys and girls, women, laborers, farmers, engineers, masons, carpenters, students and representatives of every known trade and profession. The daily average of those killed by American Railroads while trespassing on railroad property, and thus violating the law, shows that fifteen persons are killed every day in the year. There are laws against trespassing in almost every state of the Union, and arrests and fines are made for violating this law. Unfortunately, however, few people are deterred from trespassing by the prospect of a few dollars fine. Owing to the activities of the railroad police, the figures have been decreased greatly. The Pennsylvania Railroad, which spends annually $25,000 in this work alone, through their police department make on an average more than 6000 arrests yearly, and 88 per cent of those arrested are convicted. The trouble now is, not so much with the illegal train-rider or tramp, but with the suburban commuter, and the factory hand, who desires to "make a short cut" or save a few minutes time.

We are terribly agitated about tuberculosis, cancer, and other diseases, and rightly enough; any steps for the decrease of the annual death rate from those causes we commend, and laud, but the difference between a disease and a trespasser is that the former is most frequently contracted, involuntarily and unwittingly, whereas the latter frequently and deliberately invites death. He chooses of his own will to take a deadly risk. "It is better to wait at the grade crossing, than at the doctor's office."

The people at the polls can make their public officers do their duty, but their public officers cannot at any and all times instill into the minds of the people discretion, or ideas of caution and "Safety First." That, they must do themselves, and unceasingly do.

On the Lines of Pittsburgh, the Pennsylvania Railroad carried during the last three years 320,000,000 passengers without a single accident fatality, while during five of the last eight years 1908, 1910, 1913, 1914 and 1915, more than 520,000,000 passengers were carried over the same lines (East of Pittsburgh) on 4,000,000 trains, without a single one of them being fatally injured in a train accident. The Pennsylvania Railroad is doing its part to convey its patrons safely to their desired destination. Surely, to ask the co-operation and caution of the public, on and near the railroad, is not asking too much.

RESPECT FOR DUTY

Scarcely do we realize it, but today all over this country men are rallying to the call of the president. Without blare of enthusiasm, without perhaps sensing just why, there are enlisting the strong young men of the Country. Some with desire for excitement, some with the expression of wanderlust, some with serious sense of duty. At an economic loss, which in many instances amounts to sacrifice, men are rushing to the call of the Nation.

Whether we agree with the policy of the Administration or not, whether it is a repetition of the former Mexican escapade under Bryan, whether it is merely a political stroke, it is none the less a call from the head of the Nation. As such, every mother's son who responds is deserving of our honor. When a man dons the uniform, there goes with it the spirit of The Flag itself. He who assumes this task has right reason to be proud and takes a responsibility which needs his best sense of manhood. Nor should those who remain at home speak lightly of this enlistment. We need show more than a passing respect.

Whatever the outcome, whether needed or not, this response of the Nation causes us to take heart. To see the action of business men in releasing members of The Guard, and the youth, without questioning, accept the call, reassures us that American manhood is still in vogue.

NO DICTATION

Picking candidates for the rural districts for the coming campaign seems to be an energetic pastime of some of our Wilmington friends. Judging from past observation, this activity will have but little effect in Pencader Hundred. Speaking for the Republicans, it is a prided fact that the voters usually decide this matter for themselves. With every campaign, Court House political observers pick a man and forward instructions for his nomination and election. Curiously enough, the voters have selected their own man and what is more, elected him. "The most independent district in the State," is a comment often said sneeringly but Pencader takes keen pride in the reputation.

It is believed that this campaign will duplicate the success of other years. Any outside influence, prompted by selfish ends will be disastrous and sternly resisted by the better element of the citizens. What Pencader should or should not do, can be best judged by the voters themselves. As Republicans, with minds set on Republican victory, they have no inclination to change their policy heretofore practiced with success. Any movement or suggestion that in our minds tends toward defeat—this success will be met with stern rebuke.

OPEN AIR SERVICES

With July only a short ten days away, the thoughts of the church-going folk of the community turn to the union services held for several years past on the college campus. Although no definite plans have been announced to date, there seems little doubt if left to the choice of the churchgoers, the decision would be practically unanimous in favor of the union service. By next Monday there will be perhaps two hundred visitors—students at the summer school—to add to the spirit of the meetings. Would not the quiet hour, on the campus, under the old lindens, at the close of the day, an hour spent in fellowship with those representing all denominations and all creeds, become to these young people from all parts of Delaware, one of the pleasantest memories of the summer session at the State college?

Why not have a good live committee, made up of members from all the churches, to work out the details of the meetings? Would it not be splendid to raise the money necessary for a musical director, such as Mr. Mack, who illustrated the possibilities in the average audience at the M. E. Church last spring? Why not all get together, and have a series of splendid twilight services? If some one will start the movement everybody will join in. Let's do it!

THE COLLEGE MAN IN POLITICS

"Have absolutely nothing to do with politics," is the advice of a big business man to one of last week's graduates. This man is what the world terms a success, worth probably a quarter million dollars, made by hard work and a streak of what is called luck. His advice is merely, not to run for office but to stay out of politics because to quote him, "no man can have anything to do with politics and be an honest man, and make money."

This advice is one often given to the young man starting out in life. Full of ideals, a high sense of honor, eager to play his part in the world's welfare, he gets these sordid words from the Man of the World, whose material success has been the cause of too much honor.

It is useless to argue with our business friend. His self satisfied success has dulled his ear to the plea of a citizen's duty for which there is no wage for performance. He has bluffed and bluffed the world and won a bank account. All his energy has a dollar and cents value. He sells his life and effort for a material consideration.

But enough. The world, either in business or in politics need the youth, the energy, the truth and ideals going out from our college. Defeat of honest purpose may sometimes sicken but let us hope will not kill those ideals. The nation and state has served well in training these men, and can well expect some service in return. The advantages enjoyed by them, should make some community better. A shameful neglect, if they do not very earnestly see that it is so.

We do not urge, ask or expect every man to become actively engaged in politics to the point of making a public career. But we do ask every college graduate, in the field, in the office, on the farm, to exert in a very practical way his influence on the government of his nation, state and community.

This is the great Preparedness needed today. Outside of a National crisis, far too many of our best men are neglecting the duties of common, every-day citizenship. And with shame we admit it, because it doesn't pay or will lead to the odium designated by the word "politician."

Politics, as spoken of, needs more ideals, more honor, more men. It may be a dangerous fight, but one which no college man should shirk or dread. The trouble today is that too many of our business men refrain for fear of injuring their trade and lots of college men are too proud to be in politics. Shame on both. "Of the people, by the people, and for the people," is scoffed at as a political platitude. It is true only when each and every man plays his part as a citizen. Politics today needs the thought and honest force of every college graduate. And no graduate will do his full stint of life unless he gives his country and his fellowman, the thought resulting from his four years' Preparedness.

Oh, says some critic, just talk. In reply, we ask, Who will represent your community at the next session of the State's General Assembly? Does he represent your ideas? Is he typical of the Community's best thought? It is within your power to decide. Say naught in criticism if he serves you unwisely.

THE BUSINESS ROOM BOAST

Disgustingly sad are the boasts of some of our American citizens of our soaring exports, our lessened imports, increasing financial strength, accumulating gold reserves. Disgustingly sad, we say, when we realize for what this wealth is being made. An American citizen, as good as loyal as any of Mayflower glory, though born and reared in Germany, in sight of Heidelberg said to us the other day, "Talk anything American to me, except her present prosperity. I can't stand that. America's success is killing my kinsmen back in the old home town. I love America. It's mine by adoption. Ill fight, if need be, against The Fatherland. But don't ask me to applaud our success. It's stained with blood. Increasing dividends here are made from bullets, that are killing my kinsmen. Don't boast of that."

It is sad, isn't it? Put yourself in our friend's place. Let us hesitate to talk of increasing exports this campaign. The flag represents a nobler supremacy. We are not questioning the right or wrong—but it is disgustingly sad—this business boom boast.

NEWLY DISCOVERED

POEM BY WHITTIER

O. R. Washburn sends us a newly discovered poem, as he thinks, by John Greenleaf Whittier. He has been unable to find it in any of the published books of the Quaker poet's work, and as it appeared Sept. 3, 1831, in the Brattleboro, Vermont, Messenger, it is possible that it has been lost until Mr. Washburn dug it out of some old family papers last week. At that date Whittier would have been 24 years old the following December and could have had little reputation as a writer, though he was that year editing the New England Weekly Review, and may have printed the poem here given in that publication and seen it copied by other papers. Those who have a copy of his poems will do well to cut this out and paste it into the book as one of the fine examples of his lofty spirit. We print the poem as it was found in this newspaper of eighty-five years ago:

Adoration (J. G. Whittier)

Look unto heaven!
The still and solemn stars are burning there,
Like altars lighted in the upper air,
And to the worship of the great God given,
Where the pure spirits of the unerring dead,
Reclaimed from earth, and sanctified might shed
The holiness of prayer!

Look ye above!
The earth is glorious in its summer wreath—
The tall trees bend with verdure, and beneath
Young flowers are blushing like unwhispered love;
Yet these must change—earth's glories be no more,
And all her bloom and greenness bend before
The ministry of Death!

Then gaze out there—
For holy skies are o'er thee; and the high
Mysterious things of God's immensity
Are leading upward like the wing of prayer!
And heaven's own language to the pure of Earth,
Written in stars of Nature's mighty birth,
Is burning on the sky!

Oh, turn ye, then,
And bend the knee of worship; and the eyes
Of the pure stars shall smile with glad surprise
At the deep reverence of the sons of men:
Aye, kneel in worship till the stars grow dim,
And the skies vanish at the thought of Him
Whose light beyond them lies!

HOW SAVINGS GROW THE PAPER FOR THE BUSY MAN

The Value Of A Savings Account

Philadelphia Record Gives News In Concise And Attractive Form

The July American, in their department, "An Idea for Fathers and Mothers," gives an illustration of how small savings grow in the story of a grandfather who in 1849 deposited eight dollars to the credit of a babe in arms, whose parents were about to leave to become pioneers in the West. The amount has never been withdrawn, nor has any further deposit been added to the original eight dollars. In sixty-seven years the pass book has been sent only three times for the entry of interest—"dividends" as they are called by this bank—the last entry having been made to January first, 1916.

The average man has less than an hour to devote to newspaper reading on weekdays. The daily issue of "The Philadelphia Record" therefore gives him the news in concise and attractive form, so arranged that he can grasp the essentials of the day's history of the world without a moment's loss of time and find in any particular item under its appropriate classification, just where he is accustomed to look for it. Sunday, however, is a day of leisure. The Sunday newspaper reader has time for mental recreation, and demands it. The Sunday issue of "The Philadelphia Record" gives it to him, copiously, and yet with the discrimination that marks the difference between first-class and indifferent Sunday reading.

Table with 2 columns: Date, Amount. Rows include Dividends to July 1887 ($57.36), Dividends to Jan. 1908 ($79.64), Dividends to Jan. 1916 ($145.00), and a total of $198.79.

In reply to inquiry the bank has stated that the interest for the year 1915 alone amounted to $7.70, so in one year the interest now amounts to almost as much as the sum deposited in 1849."

SUFFRAGISTS PLAN BIG CONVENTION

Leaders Return From St. Louis

Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles, leader of the suffrage forces of Delaware, has returned from the two big political conventions, enthusiastic over the work of the "Votes for Women" delegates to the conventions. Mrs. Hilles is now arranging for the first annual convention of the Delaware Congressional Union of which she is chairman, to be held at the Hotel duPont July 7th. The convention will be an all day session opening at ten thirty in the morning, and at two thirty in the afternoon. Prominent speakers have been engaged, but these details have not yet been worked out. It is hoped that Miss Mabel Vernon who is visiting her former home in Wilmington, will be able to address the convention. Miss Vernon, who is now a resident of Nevada, has been attending the Democratic convention at St. Louis. Mrs. J. W. Brassington, president of the Delaware Equal Suffrage Association, also attended both the Republican and Democratic conventions.

The account now amounts to almost twenty-five times the original amount. The entries on the pass book deposit page are as follows: 1849, June 19, Deposited $ 8.00; Dividends to July 1887 57.36; Dividends to Jan. 1908 79.64; Dividends to Jan. 1916 145.00; Total $198.79.

Good fiction appeals to the whole family—and there are scores of other features in "The Sunday Record" that help to account for its eager reception in cultivated homes. Its departments devoted to sports, fashions, domestic science, society, music and the drama, invention, art, the school and the nursery, set the standard in their respective fields. Its varied appeals to the serious and the humorous side of life interest young and old of both sexes. The addition of its new story section makes "The Philadelphia Record" a complete Sunday newspaper.

Religious Meetings At Delaware Next Year

A series of twelve Sunday afternoon meetings for the discussion of modern religious problems is to be held next year in Purnell Hall, the Delaware College Y. M. C. A. Mr. Frederick J. Pohl, instructor in English has arranged the program and has secured the co-operation of several members of the faculty. The purpose of the meetings, according to Mr. Pohl, is to enable the students of Delaware College to gain religious inspiration from men who believe that complete education means something more than the development of the body and the training of the intellect. Man is a spirit possessing a body and a mind. Any education which does not take cognizance of this fact is a partial failure.

A belief in the will-building power of a sane and manly religion is back of the movement to develop the religious activities of the Delaware College Y. M. C. A. The meetings will be entirely free from any suggestion of denominationalism, and will not give opportunity for a lecture or sermon by the leader in charge, but will allow for a free discussion of a previously announced subject by all students present.

Mr. Pohl has been assisted in this work by Mr. James C. Hastings, '17, Prof. C. A. Short, and Dr. K. R. Greenfield. The tentative program giving dates, names of leaders, and subjects, is as follows: Oct. 15, 1916, Dean E. L. Smith, "What is Christianity?" Oct. 22, 1916, Dean E. L. Smith, "Gambling." Oct. 29, 1916, Mr. R. R. Pailthorp, "What do We Come to College For?" Nov. 5, 1916, Mr. R. R. Pailthorp, "Darwinian Evolution and Christianity."

Nov. 12, 1916, Mr. F. J. Pohl, "Things Essential and Non-Essential About Jesus: Faith."

Nov. 19, 1916, Mr. F. J. Pohl, "Relations with our Fellowmen: Friendship."

Nov. 26, 1916, Mr. F. J. Pohl, "Relations with Christ: Cross-Bearing."

Dec. 10, 1916, Mr. F. J. Pohl, "Relations with God: Prayer."

Dec. 17, 1916, Jan. 7, Jan. 14, Jan. 21, 1917, Dr. K. R. Greenfield, subjects to be announced.

Jan. 21, 1917, President S. C. Mitchell, "Christ's Place in a College Education."

Laws and Ordinances Pertaining to the Town of Newark

Sometime recently we printed, for the Council of Newark, copies of all the Acts of the General Assembly relating to the Town of Newark and all the Ordinances passed, and in effect, by the Council of Newark.

This book of 132 pages, with marginal notes and indexed, bound in cloth-board, is a very valuable reference to every citizen interested in the town. We also printed another book of 54 pages with blanks for notes, a copy of all the Ordinances relating to the Government of Newark, bound in paper. Through a misunderstanding we printed several copies over the order.

In order to close the account of this job, we are offering, while they last, a stolen farm. But the man answered him not again; fulfilling the law of peace.

So this man lived; fighting not at all. His wife went to the asylum from overwork, and the strain of living with a Perfect Man. His children had little education and were clothed in poor garments. He himself became ill from poverty and worry and finally died, with few to mourn his departure.

Now when Fighting Frazier's eldest son was grown he went into the man who had taken the farm and said unto him: "Come, let us be friends! I will rent from you the farm and you can live in the city. I will give you a big rent. It is the farm of my fathers." So the robber rented the farm unto the young man and departed. And the son moved there with his young wife and tilled the soil. Also he took all the law would allow, and disputing the title of the landlord, refused to either pay any rent or to move away. Also he made the landlord, now bowed with years, fear for his life; for his conscience was his accuser. So for four years the young man waxed strong and the landlord was afraid. And the young man said unto him: "I am within my rights, whatever the law decides. Yet will I be merciful. Restore unto me this land you stole from my father who was Weak in the Attic and I will be your friend and counsellor; I will protect you from all evil men in your old age and you shall die in peace." And seeing that the young man was a good fighter, the old man restored unto him the farm, and when he died he left him one-half of all he owned; even of money and cattle and lands and stocks; a very great possession, for he said: "He is a man after my own heart." And the young man took the property and taught his children and his grandchildren daily, that he who fighteth not for his own is worse than an infidel.

Egg-Laying Records At College Farm

For the fourth time in the present year a pen of five birds at the international egg laying competition, being conducted on the college farm, has made a perfect score, laying thirty-five eggs in seven days. Pen 72, White Leghorns, Rollin S. Woodruff, Williamatic, Conn., is the latest one to make this record.

Perfect scores are very rare, not more than one pen usually winning this honor in each competition. There has been an appreciable decline in the number of birds laying perfect scores since the first of June, only 109 birds making the record in the thirty-second week as contrasted with 157 in the thirty-first week. Last week's score of 2525 eggs is 318 greater than the score for the corresponding week in the third year, and the difference in totals for thirty-two weeks between the third and fifth years is 940 eggs, the third year holding the larger total, 56,275, the present year's total amounting to 55,335 eggs. Four weeks it is believed will wipe out the difference.

1915 in Bell History

SEVENTY-TWO months ago, sharp upon a period of world peace, all Europe burst into flame.

We, in this country, stood aghast. A giant shadow, born of war, was cast over our commerce and industries, and only the insistent Americanism of this country's determined men of business has held us to our course.

Yet during 1915 the Bell System, unflinching through history's most amazing year, gave to the world the two greatest achievements of communication: in January the Transcontinental Telephone Line linked the Atlantic with the Pacific, and but a few months later came wireless telephony—the human voice, disdaining even wires, flashed from Washington to Honolulu and to Paris!

Of such progress, ever continuous, we are proud, and we believe the American people likewise are,—for it gives ample evidence not only of the existing confidence between the public and the company, but every promise that the requirements of the future will be fully met.

SKETCHES FROM LIFE BY ISRAEL ANDIRON

The Gospel of Bran

A certain man had a store and many clerks, a large appetite, a wife and three children. They lived at a hotel and three times a day and once each night the man ate beef and mutton and potatoes and rice and pie. Also he ate olives and cheese and coffee and many other things; so that he waxed fat and his veins were clogged with ham and eggs and his eyes bulged out and he rolled when he walked, like a prize porker. Now his wife ate Effiminated Fodder and skim milk for breakfast, a slice of orange for lunch and "taters" and tea for dinner; so that she was a frail and Spiritual Creature and took to water-color painting and the New Thought. Also his sons were Easy Feeders and cared not for much meat.

And there came to that place Professor Bran Sawdust, N. G. to the King of Samoa, an expert in the cause of Neutralized Foods. He gave a lecture during which were many who had never felt they were sick before began to groan over their sinful stomachs. Therefore they formed a Society for the Depreciation of Eating and sang hymns to the great idol Bran. They advocated pebble soup for pale people and went about mourning for the grossness of their fellow men. And the man with apoplexy in his blood became converted, he and all his house, and sang the praises of oat chaff and the simple mtd.

Thus the man ceased from three pounds of steak in the morning and soon he could run half way round the block. He waxed strong on prune soup and oyster shell flour and recommended the diet to all.

In forty days he had all his family living according to the schedule laid down by Professor Sawdust and they were gathered to their grandfathers within two years. And the merchant gave gifts unto the Prophet of pebble soup and said it was too late to save them when the Professor arrived. And taking the money, the Professor went quietly unto another city and ate beef and mutton and rice and pie, with olives and cheese and coffee and many other rich foods; for he was famished from his diet of bran. So the Prophet died from acute indigestion on the day the merchant married him his second wife. The physicians came unto the body of the prophet and went away with souvenirs, saying: "He died because he had ruined his stomach with Improper Food."

The Pacifist

In Samcity there lived a man with a violent temper and very great strength. He quarreled much and laid hold on many men and was known as a Dangerous Person. Also he had all that was coming to him, or he and every one else knew the reason why. He married the girl of his choice and had five children and day by day they lived in their own house and fared sumptuously.

Now in the process of time there came unto the place a preacher of peacefulness, and he lifted up his eyes and went over the tendency of men to use force. Also he gathered many converts and among them was the man of fighting habits; even he known as Fighting Frazier.

Now Fighting Frazier desired to be a star in the crown of Peace. Therefore, whenever any man wronged him, he rewarded that man. If he found any defrauding him, he gave to that man double what he was being robbed of. Also he reviled not those who reviled him. To do good unto those who did good unto him did not interest him, but to steal his chickens was to make sure you could borrow his mules in blowing time and get ten dollars on demand.

So Fighting Frazier lived; and in five years he had bills against all his acquaintances and the boys laughed at him as he drove past.

Now a certain rich man laid claim to an old deed to all his farm and made violent threats against him if he dared to refuse to deliver over to him his land and houses and all his pleasant fields and orchards. The people all cried that it was a fraud and shame, but the pacifist walked humbly and made no war. He took his cattle and his wife and five little children and went to live in an old tenement house abandoned of men. And as he went the man who had despoiled him reviled him as a thief and robber who had long lived on subjects except one, are counted as promoted, as the chance of their making up the one subject is very good. In the grades below the High School the teachers are guided largely by their opinion of the pupil's ability to do the work of the next grade. Final decision in every doubtful case is made after a careful study of the pupil's school record and his general attitude toward his work.

REVIEW OF NEW-ARK'S SCHOOL YEAR

The most important step forward was taken in the beginning of this school year when the Board decided to start the entering class on the new four-year High School Course arranged by the State Board of Education. The three year course was so thoroughly organized and established that it seemed unwise to compel pupils who had partly completed this course, to adjust themselves to the new course. The class just graduated and the class to graduate next year, are three-year pupils. Likewise the pupils pursuing the two-year Commercial Course will be allowed to finish their course the coming year. The latter course has met the needs of those pupils who either did not care for the College Preparatory Course or did not feel that they could afford the time necessary to complete the longer High School course; and doubtless it is a matter of regret to many that the new State course does not allow commercial subjects as such to be taken up till the beginning of the third year and then only as a part of the four-year course. However, it does provide for a half year's work in Penmanship for all pupils during the freshman year, and a half year's work each in Bookkeeping and Commercial Geography for those pupils who do not elect Latin during the second year of their course. The Board in making their recent announcement that no new class would be started next year in the two-year Commercial Course, was merely complying with a condition imposed by the State Course. Whether the demand for commercial subjects during the 3rd and 4th years would be such as to justify the Board's employing a special teacher to give these subjects, is a question that could not be satisfactorily answered until the end of another year, when those pupils who have just finished their first year's work will become eligible to elect these subjects.

During the year special emphasis was placed on spelling and Penmanship throughout all the grades. The prizes offered by the Parent-Teachers' Association served a useful purpose in arousing many of the pupils to their best efforts in the difficult task of learning to spell. Marked progress was also made in Penmanship. Practically every pupil in the Grammar Grades learned to write with the muscular movement. Penmanship properly learned, like any other art, becomes a real pleasure, and it is the purpose of the teachers to require this movement in all writing.

All wishing to take work are urged to be present next Monday morning, June 26th. The importance of punctuality cannot be overestimated.

DELAWARE AGRICULTURISTS ORGANIZE

To Promote Interest In Pure Bred Stock

The Board of Education at Harrington has appointed John R. Brittingham, principal of the high school for the coming year to succeed Professor Snyder, resigned. There were over twenty-five applicants for the position.

The Diamond State Holstein-Friesian Breeders' Association was organized at the home of Daniel O. Hastings, near Dover, last Thursday. Daniel O. Hastings was elected president, and A. B. Arkcoll, of Hockessin, secretary and treasurer. Messrs. Hastings, Arkcoll, A. C. Smedley of Wilmington and John Lester of New Castle were appointed a committee on constitution and by-laws, and when they report, which will be at a special meeting to be called when the report is in shape, the organization will be completed by the election of other officers.

Any owners of pure bred Holsteins or any dairyman who is an owner of a pure bred Holstein bull, is eligible to membership, which can be obtained by communicating with Mr. Arkcoll, at Hockessin, rural delivery.

The present members of the association, in addition to those mentioned above are, Harry B. Clark of Kenton, H. C. Passmore, Wilmington; J. D. Reynolds, Smyrna; A. H. Donovan and P. E. Pleasanton of Macdonough; W. Jester, Felton; N. Price, Middletown; St. Joseph's Industrial School, Clayton; E. H. Donovan, Brenford; J. Irvtn Dayett, Cooch's Bridge; R. Bryan, Lewes; G. T. Bryan, Nassau; W. T. Boyce, Stanton; James Tyler, Middletown; W. A. Rosencrans, Homestead farm, Dover; C. Hanratter, Clayton; J. C. Mitchell, Hockessin; John Short, Milford; W. C. Felton, county agent, Sussex county; F. A. Carroll, agent in dairying.

This is the first association of the kind in the State. Its purpose is to encourage the breeding of pure bred cattle, and it is proposed to buy at wholesale in carload lots. Meetings are to be held on the farms, and there is to be general co-operation. At the meetings there will be prominent speakers from other states.

Officers Spend Week In Camp

The officers of the Organized Militia of Delaware spent last week in camp at State Rifle Range below New Castle where they were instructed by United States army inspector-instructor, Lieutenant U. M. Diller. The officers made an excellent showing in rifle practice and seven qualified as expert riflemen, seven as sharpshooters and five as marksmen, making a total of 19 out of the 23 in camp to qualify on the range. Lieutenant Diller went direct from the camp at the range at Sea Girt, N. J., where he was detailed by the War Department as one of the instructors at the instruction camp of the officers of the New Jersey National Guard.

Money Spent On Roads

According to the annual report of the County Engineer, James Wilson, which was submitted to the Levy Court of New Castle county last week, the sum of $76,445.26 was spent on road work by the hundreds in the county during the past year, while the total receipts in that behalf, aggregated $104,531.83, leaving a balance, April 1, 1916, the end of the year, of $28,086.57.

The total assessment for road purposes, outside of Wilmington (there being no road tax in the city) amounted to $21,697, while the tax, at 40 cents on the $100, aggregated $86,789.63.

As some of the roads have been improved by the county and are being maintained by it, this releasing the hundreds, and as some hundreds have been freed of debt, Mr. Wilson recommends a reduction in the road tax rate, if the Levy Court considered this wise, suggesting a lopping off of five cents, which would make the rate 35 cents on the $100.

The report was received and filed and 300 copies ordered printed.

The assessment by hundreds, last year, was as follows:
Appoquinimink . . . . . $ 1,139,163
Blackbird . . . . . 797,883
Brandywine . . . . . 3,658,103
