GREAT BIG DOORSTEP SEATS NOW AVAILABLE

E 52 Players Presentation At University November 1, 2

One of the major problems in connection with the production of "The Great Big Doorstep" at the University of Delaware on November 1 and 2 is finding old enough clothes for the Crochet family, who comprise most of the cast. "Since the United Clothing Drive," says C. R. Kase, director of the play, "people seem to have nothing but new clothes. It's easier to get Spanish moss up here from Louisiana for the scenery than to find old clothes in Delaware."

In the cast, as guest actors, are two local residents, G. Taggart Evans and L. Parker Thomas, both of whom have been prominent in the activities of the University Drama Group. Mr. Evans plays the part of the "Commander" and Mr. Thomas that of his "wealthy" brother Dewey, who is not above passing out rubber checks to make the Crochets happy.

"The Great Big Doorstep" will be given two performances only, on the evenings of Thursday and Friday, November 1 and 2. The Box Office in Mitchell Hall is now accepting reservations during the hours of 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 P. M. daily, Monday through Friday.

NO. CHAPEL STREET IS COMPLETED AT $13,198

Many Modern Improvements Embodied In New Project

Completion of the North Chapel Street project was announced last week by Supervisor George E. Ramsey who personally supervised the project which has greatly enhanced that section of town and which will prove a decided boon to motorists using this street.

Long an eyesore, full of holes and with no side-walks, North Chapel Street has been completely resurfaced, widened, drained, sidewalks installed until today it is one of the most modern and satisfactory products of good engineering within the corporate limits.

Undertaken just 45 day ago, the work was done by Mulderic and Barkley, contractors, at a cost of $13,198.00 and completed in record time to avoid danger of freezing weather. The street level from the B & O overhead bridge was raised and the crossing made smooth. The street has been widened to 30 feet and paved with amiesite.

Curb and gutters have been installed on both sides with a three-foot sidewalk on the East side so mill employees and residents of that area may walk in safety. Six inch catch basins and a 24 inch drain has been laid the entire length of the new street providing adequate drainage directly into the creek where the old overhead bridge abutments have been reinforced in concrete to prevent the creek from washing and undermining them.

Beginning just north of the B & O track, the street runs into a wide, gentle curve connecting with the paper mill bridge, surveyed and aligned with proposed plans for a new bridge by the State Highway Department.

AFGHANS KNITTED

Need Funds For Wool

Ten new afghans have been completed and will be turned in to headquarters in Wilmington today for distribution at Valley Forge, Halloran, and Thomas M. England Hospitals, where they are greatly in demand by the arm chair brigade of wounded soldiers.

Squares for the afghans were knitted by people of this community during the summer months, and put together by Mrs. J. E. Rothrock and Mrs. Robert T. Jones.

Many knitters are anxious to continue this work and contributions of wool or money for the purchase of wool may be given to Mrs. George Dutton or Miss Carolyn Chalmers. There will be no drive for funds but since all who have had a part in the work are well aware of the need it is expected there will be no let up in this most important and timely activity.

Workers are also needed in the sewing room which is open every Tuesday.

NEWS ABOUT LOCAL BOYS IN SERVICE

Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Helmbreck of West Delaware Avenue have received the following letter dated September 18, from their son, Earl J. Helmbreck, Seaman Second Class, serving on the USS Bon Homme Richard.

"Today at 0800, I got my first good look at the Japanese mainland. We pulled in and anchored off the Yokosuka Naval Base. It is near Yokohama and Tokyo. From where we are anchored it doesn't look too bad, but the Army has been here for almost three weeks repairing things for our troops when the bulk of them arrive. I have been topside most all of the day looking things over with a pair of high powered field glasses.

"I wish that you were all here to witness this very spectacular event, but I guess that we all can't see it, so I feel pretty lucky being one of the chosen few. There are ships all around us on every side, of all types; from large Essex carriers to small gunboats. There are many small Japanese fishing boats in the harbor, and their occupants, Japanese fishermen of course, seem awed at the great strength of Naval power assembled here before their eyes. Maybe they never believed or were even told that the United States had so large a Navy."

Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Ewing have received word from their son, Private First Class Raymond I. Ewing of his safe arrival in Otaru, Japan. Private Ewing was stationed at Fort Monmouth, N. J. before being sent to the Pacific. He was stationed in New Guinea and the Philippines before being transferred to Japan with a Signal Co.

Mr. George Dobson of 50 Choate Street has received word from his son, Corporal Roger Dobson, that he is in Tien Sin, China. Corporal Dobson is with the First Marine Division and states that where he is in North China it appears untouched by war. Mrs. Marguerite Dobson, his wife, resides at Claymont where she is employed.

The space occupied by this column was originated some eight years ago by one Charles H. Rutledge who conducted the first weekly column of personal comment for the primary purpose of airing opinions, criticisms and news commentaries on sports events.

It has digressed considerably from its original purpose in these past few years and had many authors — each changing the name of the heading to suit his individual fancy . . . or, in our case, to suit the suggestion of reader C. A. Moore who came through with the 'Wareabouts' brainstorm and won a then much coveted cartoon of Camels much to the dismay of the one smoker in our household who was forced to abstain for a week due to the scarcity of coffin-nails at that time.

Rutledge, or The Roamer, under which nom de plume he conducted his 'Roamings' is now in the public relations department of the du Pont Company. His comments were replaced by 'Flash-es' of Bill Fletcher who graduated to an executive position with the Forest Products Company and is now serving with the U. S. Cavalry (horse), goodness knows where.

After Flash came a quiet, studious young chap who bore the moniker of Frank Megargee. Frank really spread the intellectual kind of stuff and wrote interesting items but they were usually over our head . . . way over. Frank also managed to worm his way into Uncle Sam's khaki and is now in Hawaii with the signal corps after sojourns in England, France, New York and points unmentionable.

Frank was followed, in this space, by diversified writings of the sage Judge J. H. Rumor who called his 'Shots' and wrote under the disguise of 'Sure-Shot'. His 'Shots' weren't always sure but they commanded wide reader interest. When the Judge left us, several months ago, we were forced to either discontinue the column or write it ourselves. So, it is the public that pays and we are privileged to inflict this anguish upon our readers.

But, the point we started out to make is that it no longer is strictly a sports column. As a matter of fact it's more potpourri than anything else (with emphasis on the first syllable). It has come to the point where it emanates opinions and instructions on how to vote, what this town needs, school, town and county politics, the length of time between drinks, suggestive jokes, how to change diapers, lodge and Sunday School notes, a little society, gossip and some dirt.

We are gratified when someone says they have read this tripe. But, guess they have to get their two bucks worth somehow. It's surprising how many people submit ideas for other people's education and edification and the various things some persons are most interested in . . . Oh, Oh, can't end a sentence that way.

Occasionally we throw bouquets, sometimes we toss a few bricks but always it's in the spirit of good, clean fun and no personal affront intended. In this instance we are moved to comment and compliment Town Supervisor George E. Ramsey on the splendid conditions of Newark streets despite wartime restrictions and material hardships.

The Council has done an excellent job of patching, repairing and keeping local streets in good condition and residents sincerely appreciate this fact although we doubt that many of them ever take the trouble to express themselves.

Our police force, too, is one of the most modern, best organized and efficient of any town of similar population. This is not only a credit to Chief Cunningham but to all the boys who serve in the interest of Newark taxpayers. One instance of their alertness was demonstrated early Friday morning when a German prisoner of war, escaped from near Baltimore and sought by the F. B. I. in five states, was apprehended by Patrolman Sam Tibbitt as he attempted to hop a B & O freight train near the local station.

Fire Chief Elmer Ellison does an outstanding job, not only as titular head of the Aetna Hose, Hook & Ladder Company, but as superintendent of the Street and Sewer Department. Huey Morris may not be indispensable but the Council couldn't find a better man for his job. The office force is pleasant, courteous and efficient. The town bankroll is eminently satisfactory . . . what the heck have we got to gripe about.

We are in receipt of a signed letter from a rural lady who has some constructive suggestions to make and we chose this way of making them public. Categorical, she says:

1.—What Newark needs is a place where people can sit and wait for the bus. The Deer Park veranda is too far from the shopping district and there is no other place to rest one's feet.

2.—To the D. A. R. Legion and other patriotic organizations — A survey of the textbooks used in local schools in social studies, noting what is excluded as well as included. What facts and ideas relating to history are being taught?

3.—To the churches, clubs and organizations interested in child and social welfare — A similar survey of the textbooks used in reading and literature instruction."

"Personally, I am convinced that there is a definite relationship between the exclusion of ethical teaching in school and the increase in juvenile delinquency throughout the country. What do others think? Or, do they?"

Well, there it is. Do you think?

JULIAN'S INTERCEPTION AND RUN GIVES HENS 6-6 TIE WITH WEST CHESTER

Coach Bill Murray's Delaware Eleven Tangles With Johns Hopkins Gridders On Frazer Field Saturday Afternoon At 2:30; Hen Improvement Predicted

The University of Delaware Blue Hens will attempt to rack up their first victory of the 1945 informal season Saturday afternoon when they meet an invading Johns Hopkins eleven on Frazer Field at 2:30 o'clock.

Smarting from a 6-6 tie with West Chester State Teachers College Rams in their first game of the season, played at West Chester Friday night, The Hens showed considerable promise and should profit by their loss and another full week of practice drills and scrimmage which included intensive blocking and tackling sessions.

Right end Sam Julian grabbed a West Chester lateral pass midway in the second quarter of Friday night's contest and dashed 45 yards for the first touchdown that put Delaware out in front 6-0 in the first game they have played since rolling up a 45-0 score over Western Maryland in their final game of the 1942 season.

LABRADOR RETRIEVER WINS TRIAL

A Long Island Labrador retriever, Shadow's Ebony Bob, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Howes Burton, and handled by Paul Elliott, took first place in the Open All-Age Stake at the retriever trials held Sunday afternoon at Lum's Pond under the sponsorship of the Del-Bay Field Trial Club of Delaware.

The trials, first ever held in Delaware under the sanction of the American Kennel Club, attracted a gallery of 250 persons.

A Chesapeake Bay dog, Chesacraft Baron, owned by R. M. Crawford of Long Island, and directed by Charles Morgan, also of Long Island, was runner-up to Ebony Bob, and in placing won enough points to gain his field trial championship.

Third place in the Open went to Bayle, a Chesapeake, owned and handled by Vance Morris of Dover. Fireflies of Deer Creek, a Labrador retriever, owned by Mrs. H. E. LeGear of St. Louis and handled by Mr. Morgan, was fourth. The reserve winner was Big Chief, a Chesapeake, owned and handled by W. C. Holden of Dover.

Bayle, third in the Open Stake, finished first in the Novice Stake. He was handled in this event by his owner. Second place went to Seabee Brant, a Chesapeake, owned and handled by J. Everett Lofland of Dover, Del.; Shore Duke, a Chesapeake, owned and handled by Dr. W. L. Parrott of Dover, Del., was third and Submarine Skipper, a Chesapeake, owned and handled by John S. Hopkins of Newark, Del., was fourth.

A field of 14 dogs took part in the Novice Stake while 21 were entered in the Open. The morning work was with pheasant while blind retrievers were made in the afternoon.

SALESIANUM HANGS 12-6 DEFEAT ON NEWARK HIGH AT WILMINGTON, FRIDAY

Pass Interception And Ninety-Seven Yard Run By Frank Kelly Accounts For Sallies Victory In Last Five Minutes; Tommy Silk Gives Sparkling Exhibition

With their season average cut to .500 by virtue of their second consecutive defeat at the hands of a Wilmington school, Coach Stanley Gibbs' Newark High School Yellowjackets are preparing to play hosts to Claymont on the local gridiron Saturday afternoon. The kickoff is slated for 2:15 P. M.

Frank Kelly's interception of a Newark pass and his 87-yard touchdown run in the last five minutes of the game, gave Salesianum a 12 to 6 victory over Newark High in a football thriller at Wilmington Park Friday night.

Tommy Silk, outstanding Newark player of the night, attempted to halt Kelly's journey, but a perfect block by Ed Gormley, Sales' left guard, cleared the way for his sprint into payoff territory.

The game, witnessed by 2,500 fans, was the hardest fought of the season with Kelly's run highlighting a new of plays that found the ball traveling the length of the field on numerous occasions.

Throughout the game, the Gold of White encountered difficulty in halting Sales' fullback. The Yellowjackets' slippery backfield star worked off gain after gain through the Sales' line and when in trouble it was Silk who booted the Jackets out of danger.

One of his expeditions caught the local eleven flatfooted as he faked a kick behind his own goal line and then starting back five yards, picked up 2 yards before being hauled down by Jimmy Hagan.

Two fumbles marred the first period advances of both teams, but Newark early in the second quarter scored on a drive from their own 30-yard line that ended with Silk plunging through center from the six-yard mark for a score. This tally was followed by Sales' first real touchdown three for they took over on their own 25 and from that point with Fran Roddy, Jim McFadden and Kelly in the starring roles, the ball was moved to the Newark five where DeShan took one crack at it.

NEW STATE RESIDENTS MUST SOON REGISTER

November 5
Deadline To Register For Next Election

Every resident of Delaware who moved into the state since the general election in 1944, and intends to vote at the general election next year, must make a declaration of intent to become a citizen of the State before November 5.

Under the terms of a law passed by the last session of the Legislature, such declaration is mandatory before the residents are eligible to register as voters.

The procedure, as outlined by the new law, is for the new residents to appear before the Board of Registration in the county where they reside and make their declaration which is recorded and a certified copy given them without charge.

When registering for a general election this certified copy is displayed to the registration officials and accepted as evidence of citizenship and intent to reside in this state.

The provision requiring the declaration to be made one year prior to the date of the next general election will require that all residents effected by the new law will have but about two weeks in which to comply with the regulations.

Inquiry at the offices of the various boards of registration reveals that only a few persons have thus far appeared there in compliance with the new law.

Morning Services At The Head Of Christiana Church

Services will be held in the morning at the Head of Christiana Church on Sunday, October 28. Sunday School will begin at ten o'clock and morning worship at eleven o'clock.

Superintendent Frank H. Butterworth will be in charge of the Sunday School. Classes will study the lesson, "Temperance Begins in the Home". This is Temperance Sunday.

The pastor, Rev. Evan W. Renne, will deliver this sermon at the morning worship on the subject, "The Law and the Gospel". This is the fourth in a series of sermons on the Epistle of the Galatians.

OPA UNIT IS FORMED

To relieve local war price and rationing boards, being reduced in Delaware from 11 to four under the rationing curtailment program, an institutional rationing department division has been set up in the Delaware district OPA.

The local boards will be thus relieved of handling rationing problems of institutions, restaurants, and hotels.

Willard G. Hanby, food specialist with the district office, has been assigned as supervisor of the new district office division. He will start sending out ration coupons or checks to the institutional users of rationed foods Nov. 15 for the November-December allotment. This work will be finished Nov. 30.

The division will handle the rationing needs of all restaurants, hotels, and institutions in the state. Charles W. Hardesty, Delaware district OPA director, announced.

Hotels, restaurants, and institutions received a 25 per cent extra allotment with their September-October rations to carry them through the early part of November.

'Jackets Lose

the Yellowjackets' line for a two-yard advance, but the half ended before the locals had another opportunity to run a play.

Although the door closed on their first scoring chance, the Sallies took up where they left off in the second half and, after taking over on their own 14 yard line, began an 86-yard advance that ended with DeShan going over for the score. The all-important extra point at this stage of the game was missed, when the Gold and White elected to toss a forward pass that was batted down in the end zone.

Immediately after the score, the Sallies again dug deep into Newark territory, losing the ball on a fumble on the two-yard line. The Sallies took the ball for the second time in the quarter to the six-yard line, where three forward passes were grounded and then it became the Yellowjackets' turn to stage a parade down the field.

This drive continued from their own six to the Sallies six where the play-off scored. Jim Faulkner shot out a pass to his left side of the line intended for Don Griffin, but the Newark quarterback never got his hands on the ball as Kelly beat him to the spot, took the ball on a dead run, and when Silk attempted to interrupt his journey, Gormley tossed a perfect block and Kelly made a long journey for the touchdown.

The Sallies had an edge on statistics, reeling off 12 first downs to Newark's 10.

1946 DAIRY PROGRAM IS ANNOUNCED BY WORRILOW

Farmers Gain By Following Eight-Points On Production

Delaware's 8-point program for 1946 has been announced by George M. WorriLOW, Associate Director of the Agricultural Extension Service, University of Delaware. This is the fourth year that the program has been presented to the Nation's dairymen by the Department of Agriculture and the Dairy Industry Committee, in cooperation with State Extension Services.

A recent message by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson to dairy farmers states:

"Nutritional authorities have for many years urged more milk and dairy products in the American diet. With the end of war and the readjustments that necessarily follow the discontinuance of war requirements for dairy products, the dairy industry emerges better prepared than ever before to provide adequate milk to meet nutritional standards. The dairy farmer can best meet the challenge of consumer needs if he produces high-quality milk and cream on an efficient basis. Farmers stand to gain by following the production methods contained in the following eight points."

1. — Feed each cow for economical production — Cows differ in their ability to convert a given amount of feed into milk. Every cow should be fed according to individual milk-producing capacity, if she is to produce at her most profitable rate. Good pasture and high-quality roughage are the first essentials for efficient milk production. Since roughage is usually the cheapest feed, every cow should get all she can eat. Grain fed according to the individual production requirements of each cow will increase returns.

2. — Improve grasslands to save milk dollars — As a rule, pastures are the most neglected acres on the farm. Good land seeded to suitable pasture grasses and legumes will give good returns at a great saving in labor, for the cows do the harvesting. Pastures and meadows should be kept producing at maximum capacity, for they furnish the foundation for the most economical ration for dairy cows. Fertilization, reseeding, and rotation grazing are some of the practices that improve the efficiency of pastures.

3. — Use best methods of curing roughage to retain feed value — Green forage well fertilized land contains the essential nutrients a dairy cow needs for maintenance and for milk. Forage crops should be harvested when they contain greatest feeding values. A special effort should be made to get hay cured in the mow or stack with the least loss of leaves and color. The silo also may be used to save a crop that can't be cured properly for good hay.

4. — Keep production records for better herd management — Only by the use of milk-production records of each cow in the herd, together with feed-consumption records and analysis of these records, can the dairy farmer manage his herd with maximum efficiency. Such records show the farmer the contribution of each cow in the herd, her level of production, her feed consumption, and her relative efficiency. Membership in a dairy herd improvement association or a record system of his own will help the farmer improve production efficiency.

5. — Breed for improved herd replacements — Dairy farmers with high-producing herds will always be in a more favorable position than farmers with low-producing herds. A sound breeding program which produces heifer calves that will be better than the cows they replace is the best guarantee for continuous herd improvement. The extensive use of progeny tested bulls, proved for their ability to transmit high levels of production, or the use of sons of such bulls out of proved female lines, will provide herd replacements with the right kind of milk-production inheritance.

6. — Product quality milk and cream for greater returns — The quality of dairy products depends largely on the quality of milk and cream. Fundamental factors affecting quality are cleanliness of cows and equipment, proper cooling and prompt delivery. To insure maximum consumption of dairy products, high quality is of the utmost importance.

7. Plan lay-outs, equipment, methods to cut labor costs — Convenient arrangement in lay-out of buildings and lots will decrease labor costs. A change in operations will often save much time and labor. Improved equipment and methods are constantly being devised to save time and labor.

8. — Maintain herd health for maximum efficiency — Only a healthy herd is capable of producing at its maximum efficiency. A healthy herd is fundamental to the production of high-quality milk.

ROTARIANS HEAR BOY SCOUT TALK

Bright Future Predicted For Organization

The regular Monday evening meeting of Newark Rotary Club at the Country Club was presided over by President Sam Handloff.

Warren Buckingham, of Middletown, was visiting Rotarian. Other visitors were Harold Unruh, of Wilmington, and Jim Garner, of Newark, President of Newark Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The speaker of the evening, presented by the Program Chairman, Joe Bryan, was Fred Wellington, Scout Executive of the Delmarva Council, as well as a Rotarian from Wilmington.

Mr. Wellington told of the amazing growth of the Boy Scouts even in the past year. Also, the outlook for continued growth in the future is very bright. Mr. Wellington based this latter opinion on the fact that he has had many expressions of interest from men presently in the Service.

Next week's program will be presented by Chairman Wm. S. Hamilton. He has persuaded William E. Douglas, a Rotarian from Wilmington and President of Golden College to speak. His subject, "Rotary Experience", should be of very keen interest to those present, and it is hoped that a full turnout will be on hand.
