Marked Progress Seen In Current Summer School

Director Wilkinson Calls It "Best Term in History;" Large Attendance Smoothly Controlled By Staff

CLOSING DATE IS JULY 29th

In a statement issued from his office this morning, Professor W. A. Wilkinson, director of the Summer School of the University, now in session, characterized it as "the best term in the history of the work here."

"The students this year have been doing good hard work and their accomplishments have assured the success of the session. Few have dropped out since the start. The co-operation afforded the staff of instructors has been most gratifying and reflects great credit on the student body," said Prof. Wilkinson.

There has been a complete absence of friction, either among the students or between the students and faculty, continued the Director. He said the work has been kept up to schedule with little trouble.

Closing Features

The summer term ends on July 29th next. There will be no formal exercises incident to the winding up of the school.

Plans for the annual Summer School dance, the closing feature of the social committee's work, however, are being rapidly formulated. The dance will take place in the gymnasium on Friday evening of this week. Miss Parker, dean of women, is at the head of the dance committee.

The other feature of the closing week will be the community chorus entertainment in Wolf Hall next Sunday evening. Miss Opal Wheeler, director of music at the Summer School, is in charge of the chorus. At recent rehearsals over 100 voices have been represented. Miss Wheeler expects to have at least that many on the platform Sunday.

Mrs. John McComas of Baltimore, a soprano, and Miss Geraldine Edgar, also of Baltimore, violinist, will be the soloists assisting the chorus at the concert. The singers include a number of townspeople in their ranks.

Favorable comments have been heard throughout the community concerning the 1925 series of entertainments arranged by the Service Citizens for the students and townspeople. The artists and lecturers have all been greeted by packed houses at Wolf Hall, and their work has been thoroughly appreciated.

RETURN FROM OHIO

Dr. and Mrs. Palmer Arrived Home Yesterday

Dr. and Mrs. Charles C. Palmer arrived in Newark yesterday from a visit in Columbus, Ohio, where Dr. Palmer went early in the month on business. On the outward trip, they drove 300 miles from Newark to East Liverpool, Ohio, in one day. The trip home was made for the most part in a driving rain. They were gone about two weeks.

OFF TO GIRLS' CAMP

Misses Kathryn Townsend and Josephine Hossinger left yesterday for Dagsboro, Del., where they will join the Girl Reserves, camp at Sandy landing for the balance of the summer. Several other Newark girls are expected to go down for a week at a time in the near future.

"ONE-EYED RILEYS" WARNED BY POLICE

A determined war on autoists who persist in displaying but one beam light, and on others who travel in absolute darkness, has been announced from local police headquarters.

Two careless ones were arraigned last night here and fined $10 and costs. Fair warning is being given the community in this respect, and it is merely a question of $10 in hand or a donation to the State and town strong boxes.

You may write your own ticket.

60th Wedding Anniversary Celebrated Here Last Week By Mr. And Mrs. John A. Richey

Newark people and friends from distant points figured in one of the most unusual of family gatherings last Thursday night. The occasion was the celebration of the sixtieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Richey at their home on East Main street. Both old people enjoyed the party as wholeheartedly as did the score or more of younger guests.

Mrs. Richey, who is 80 years old, was born in Baltimore, but has lived most of her life in Conowingo, Maryland, where she was married. Five years ago, with her husband, she moved to Delaware, living in Marshallton for a while and then to her present home in Newark.

Mr. Richey is probably the last of the famous Susquehanna river pilots of a generation ago. As a boy of 17 he directed barges up and down the treacherous currents of the river, long before railroads and highways usurped the business. At that time huge rafts of lumber were floated down to Port Deposit from as far north as Williamsport. The pilots, familiar with every rock and eddy, were responsible for the safety of the passage. Mr. Richey is a native of Conowingo, and is well known throughout the river country. He is 81 years of age, hale and hearty and still capable as he says "of doing a good day's work."

Thirty-five guests from Philadelphia, Baltimore, West Chester and several nearby points attended the party last Thursday. The supper was served on the Richey lawn, but a sudden electrical storm drove the guests to shelter indoors.

Mr. and Mrs. Richey have three children, four grandchildren, and nine great-grandchildren. The children, all residents of Newark, are Mr. W. Richey, Mrs. J. C. Grier and Mrs. John R. Fulton. Four generations were represented at the celebration last week.

General Farm Tour Planned For August 5th

To Take Place Of Annual Potato Tour, Says R. O. Bausman; To Have Full Day

POULTRY CULLING IS ADDED

The annual potato tour held in northern New Castle County under the auspices of the Extension Service of the University of Delaware, the Farm Bureau and the Granges, will take the form of a general farm tour this year. The tour will be held Wednesday, August 5. The tour will begin at 10.00 a. m., standard time, on the farm of J. Howard Mitchell and Sons, Hockessin.

Tests which have been conducted by the Extension Service of the University of Delaware on Mr. Mitchell's farm during the past few years have shown that on the average Mr. Mitchell has produced from 35 to 40 bushels more potatoes per acre on plots seeded with certified seed than he has on plots planted with seed grown from certified seed. Mr. Mitchell's test plots will be observed this year during the tour.

Farm records recently taken by the Extension Service of the University under the direction of R. O. Bausman indicate that some farmers are annually paying out about 50 per cent of their milk receipts for dairy feed, while other farmers are paying out less than 25 per cent of their milk receipts for dairy feed. Generally those farmers who are paying less than 25 per cent of their milk receipts for dairy feed are producing and feeding alfalfa hay. During the tour Mr. Mitchell's plan of reducing the cost of milk production through the

ORDERED TO SUPPORT

Albert Watson And Wife Figure In Hearing Here

On charge of non-support of his wife and three children, together with other relatives in his household, Albert Watson, Negro, of this town, was put under a support order by Magistrate Thompson here Monday evening.

Mrs. Watson who made the charges, was quizzed at length by J. P. Cann, attorney for her husband. She testified that her spouse deserted her two weeks ago, and no money was forthcoming for the support of the family. She affirmed, however, that when Watson was home he bought groceries every week for the household. Considerable amusement was caused by the witness in answering some of Mr. Cann's questions.

BREAK IN COLLEGE OFFICE

Locks Tampered With In Business Office Last Week

Business Administrator A. G. Wilkinson, of the University, reports that at least two attempts were made last week to break into his office in Recitation Hall. Locks and doors were reported tampered with. No loss either in money or equipment, however, was noticed. A strict guard is being kept on the building.

The pilots, familiar with every rock and eddy, were responsible for the safety of the passage. Mr. Richey is a native of Conowingo, and is well known throughout the river country. ## Painfully Hurt In Fall

An accident, which fortunately was not serious, marred the anniversary party. In going upstairs to get an old picture, Mrs. Richey tripped and fell, spraining her hip. A physician was quickly summoned and rendered treatment. She has been confined to her bed since the fall, but reports today say she will be up and about soon.

Police Dragnet Recovers Car For Local Man

George Leak's Sedan Returned to Him Twenty-four Hours After Theft; Found in Northern Maryland

THIEVES' TRICKS ALL FAIL

To have one's car stolen and recovered again over a hundred miles away, all in the space of twenty-four hours, was the satisfying experience of George R. Leak, garage owner of East Main street late last week.

Auto thieves gained entrance to Leak's garage early Thursday morning last by removing a pane of glass in a window. Once inside they wasted little time in removing the owner's Ford sedan. William Dean, a neighbor, heard the car go out, and down the Lincoln Highway towards Wilmington. It was further traced by Thomas Claringbold, who heard it tear past his farm a half mile away.

Seeking to befuddle possible pursuers, the thieves ran a mile or two toward Wilmington, then turned and dashed through Newark, Appleton and on to Conowingo, where they crossed the Susquehanna River. This fact was established by Mr. Leak, who traced the back trail of the car by a familiar tire tread construction. He lost the trail near Appleton.

Baltimore Police Recover

Returning to Newark, he got in touch with State Police in Dover and in Maryland and awaited developments.

On Friday, the chief of Police of Baltimore County called Mr. Leak and notified him that his car had been abandoned about thirty miles north of the Maryland metropolis, near the Pennsylvania line. The thieves had abandoned the Ford for an Essex coach and were still going when last reports came in.

Mr. Leak proceeded to Baltimore and recovered his car the same day. It was in good running order. Five saw cord tires stolen from Newark with the car were missing, however.

Mr. Leak complimented the Maryland police on their quick action in the case.

New Printing Plant Starts In Elkton

The news was released last Friday that Harry Cleaves, who for nearly fourteen years has been in the employ of the NEWARK POST up on Main street and a craftsman at the shop of Kells down on Welsh Lane, was leaving to go to a new printing plant now being installed at Elkton. The plant will be located in the building used by the Maryland Tool Company and it is planned to be ready for operation around the first of August. To date no announcement has been made public other than a news dispatch from Elkton in the Morning News:

"J. Ben Decker, president of the Victory Sparkler Company, has leased the concrete building formerly used by The Maryland Tool Company, and is having installed therein new machinery for an up-to-date printing plant. Harry Cleaves, for several years at the Newark Post, at Newark, Delaware, has accepted the position as manager of the new project."

Mr. Cleaves came to Newark some fourteen years ago as an employee of the old Newark Post. Last Friday afternoon the craftsmen out in the shop, recalling the days of printing in

LONE BIDDER GETS WORK

Boyce Brothers Receive Contract For Fencing Corner Ketch Road

Although only one bid was received for 200 rods of wire fencing required along the Corner Ketch road in Mill Creek, that being from Boyce Brothers, of Stanton, the Levy Court yesterday, on motion by Commissioner Faulkner, referred the bid to the court as a committee of the whole. County Engineer Grubb said the bid was lower than the bid received two years ago for fencing used along the same road. Commissioner Faulkner then moved the contract be awarded to the Boyce Brothers at their estimate of $833. The motion prevailed.

SANG LAST NIGHT

JEROME SWINFORD
Young New York baritone who pleased large audience in Wolf Hall

Swinford Pleases Big Crowd Here Last Night

Young Baritone Renders Particularly Good Program As Feature Of Week's Entertainments

Before still another record attendance in Wolf Hall last night, Jerome Swinford, of New York, one of the most accomplished of the younger American singers, gave a recital as this week's feature of the Summer School entertainment course. Specially desirous of hearing this concert, music-lovers in the community came to the hall in droves a half hour before the scheduled time for starting. Seats were at a premium before Mr. Swinford put in appearance.

The young baritone, a graduate of Princeton and only recently become well known to the musical world, distinctly pleased his audience here with a well-balance program. His voice is possessed of a rich resonance, and he is full of musical feeling. The handicaps a singer must undergo in Wolf Hall are well known, nevertheless, his voice was in splendid condition and he bowed to heavy applause after each number.

War Brought Him Out

During Mr. Swinford's sojourn at Princeton his connection with the famous Triangle Club and the Princeton Dramatic Association developed the strong dramatic sense which makes his song interpretation so poignant and vital.

While the war could not aid the artist's progress upon the concert stage, still it offered an opportunity for an expression of his musical interest. Enlisted in the Navy, he was put in charge of the music at the Fifth Naval District (Hampton Roads) and organized mass singing

WEDDING CAR CRASHES

Wollaston Machine Damaged In Return From Philadelphia Saturday

While returning from Philadelphia, where they deposited Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rosland, newlyweds, last Saturday night, the big touring car owned by William P. Wollaston, and occupied by his daughter Martha and Mr. Hattley, best man at the wedding here that evening, crashed into a telephone pole in Chester, and was badly damaged.

Miss Wollaston and Mr. Hattley were unhurt in the collision and proceeded home after leaving the car to be repaired.

MUST AMEND CHARTER

In another column, announcement is made of a stockholders' meeting at the Farmers Trust Company here. In authorizing the issuance of more capital stock recently, the Company struck a snag, as such action cannot be taken without amending the charter. This detail will, it is fully expected, be authorized at the coming meeting.

WEST MAIN ST. CLOSED

The Levy Court closed West Main Street from Wilson's lane west to the Armstrong property on Monday morning of this week, while the pike above the town limits is being resurfaced.

Charles W. Colmery, inspector of the work, estimated last week that the street would be open again in about ten days.

Appointments Announced For Next School Year

Board of Education in Meeting Last Night Completes Preparations for Fall Opening Here; New Building Supervisor Named

REPAIRS MADE IN GRADE SCHOOL

The staff of teachers for the Newark schools was practically rounded out last night at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education. Four new instructors were approved and ordered appointed by the Board, and a new general supervisor of grounds and buildings was named. In addition, reports on the condition of the schools were heard, and details preparatory to the opening for classes in the Fall discussed.

Newark schools will open on Tuesday, September 8th, next.

Appointments Made

The following new instructors will assume duties here at that time:

Miss Katherine Jones, of Wilmington, has been appointed teacher in the second grade, succeeding Miss Scarborough, transferred.

Miss Margaret Longaker, of Philadelphia, a graduate of Wellesley College, has been named instructor in Science in the High School, succeeding Miss Gittinger, resigned.

Miss Mary Moore, of Petersburg, Virginia, a graduate of Randolph-Macon College for Women, will succeed Mrs. Edna Green Howard as instructor in mathematics in the High School.

Miss Katherine Johnson, of Parkersley, Virginia, a graduate of Richmond College has been appointed to succeed Miss Antoinette B. Eggen, who resigned as history and health instructor and director of girls athletics.

One resignation was read at the meeting, that of Miss Beatrice Grier, who was appointed in June to be demonstration teacher in the second grade. The Board will likely have this opening filled in a few days.

Engineer Appointed

Andrew Collison, of Wilmington, for some years connected with the engineering department at the Krebs Pigment Plant in Newport, was last night appointed superintendent of grounds and buildings here, succeeding Harrison Gray, who will resume his carpenter trade. Mr. Collison will have entire charge of the buildings in this district.

During the meeting, several minor details connected with the routine work were discussed. It was reported among other things, that the heating system at the Grammer School, had been completely overhauled and put in first class condition. Additional light in toilets were also placed. Walter Robinson, local plumber had charge of the work.

Work is progressing slowly on the grounds surrounding the new school on Academy Street. The athletic field will hardly be in good shape for the next school year, although Coach Nunn expects to play football games on it. A great deal of time must be spent on the field before it can be considered in good condition, it is said.

The Board was fully represented at the meeting last night.

SHED ROW BURNS DOWN

Firemen Respond To Call Here Sunday

A row of sheds on the Christopher White property on New London Avenue caught fire in some manner Sunday last and despite quick work on the part of the firemen, was burned to the ground.

In response to an alarm, the fire truck speeded up New London Avenue, while a group of firemen with several lengths of hose made a connection with a fire plug on Main Street near the residence of Dr. Downes. By the time the engine arrived at the scene and swung into action, the hose from Main Street had been run to the fire and the pressure from the main was sufficient to get the blaze under control.

A large crowd witnessed the excitement from near by vantage points.

Kiddies Frolic At Presbyterian Picnic Thursday

Over One Hundred Attend Annual Outing Of Sunday School At Welsh Tract Church Yard; Sports Furnish Amusement

MOUNTAINS OF GOOD EATS

Favored with ideal weather, the annual picnic and outing of the members of the Presbyterian Sunday School at Welsh Tract, last Thursday afternoon, was a booming success. No sudden storms arose as was the case last summer, and all the food was eaten above and not below the tables.

The cool church grove and the banks of the creek nearby held over 100 people, most of them kiddies of varying ages. Rev. H. E. Hallman, R. W. Heim, chairman of the sports program, and a staff of teachers were present. From time to time during the afternoon and early evening parents and friends of those taking part visited the scene and joined in the fun. Late in the afternoon a treat of ice cream and cake was served, supplementing the gorgeous picnic lunch earlier in the day.

Sports Attract Many

Mr. Heim and his assistants, H. R. Baker and Arthur E. Tomhave, had charge of a sport program for the youngsters, and several interesting contests were held.

Ladies of the church assisted the teachers in preparing the bounteous food for the occasion. Tables were erected under the towering trees along the church yard wall, and there was plenty for all.

A perfect natural wading pool was furnished for the tots in the creek at the edge of the church lawn. All manner of aquatic wonders were performed by the kids in three feet of water. Some wore bathing suits and stirred up quite a commotion out in the middle. The majority, however, were content to roll up dainty starched skirts, doff shoes and stockings and go wading in the conventional manner. While all this was going on, parents sat on the bank and watched for possible accidents.

As a distinctly added attraction, "Cowboy Danny" Medill was present in person with his fiery steed (also in person), and many thrilling turns about the grove were taken by dainty misses, carefully and gallantly steered by "Danny." Outside of the sandwich plate, "Danny's" pony was the hardest working individual on the grounds.

Horseshoe Pitching

Several of the oldsters, a bit over-age for high jumping and sprinting, contented themselves with several spirited engagements with the old time "hoss shoes." A large entry list, was gradually boiled down and the prize went to Philip Myers with no dissension.

In the ladies' quoit pitching, Miss Anne Chalmers carried off first honors.

LAW LENIENT WITH GAMING BOARD MEN

States Attorney Clayton At Elkton, Declares Defendants Were Operating Games of Skill, not Chance.

While the State practically dropped charges of violating the anti-gambling laws of Maryland, preferred against five defendants from Holloway Beach near Charlestown on Monday night in Elkton, Magistrate Gove Scotten resurrected an old "Blue Law" and with that as a precedent, fined the men $5.00 and costs for operating the dart board and other games of skill on Sunday.

On Sunday, four persons, Alfred Green, Kenneth Green, Elmer Smallwood and Albert Percy, were arrested at Holloway Beach charged with operating or having operated games where prizes were awarded to the lucky person. State's Attorney Clayton, decided that the games operated were one of skill, and therefore not in violation of the anti-gambling laws.
However to operate such games on Sunday was in violation of the Sunday laws, it was claimed.

HARRINGTON MAN NEW LEGION HEAD

Convention at Rehoboth Refuses to Endorse Proposed Special Session of Salons.

The annual convention of the Delaware Command, American Legion, closed at Rehoboth on Saturday last,
after a two-day meeting.

The convention refused to endorse a resolution asking for a special session of the Legislature to reconsider the school building program, but did endorse better schools. They also passed resolutions decrying the attempt to decrease the present size of the army or navy.

Rehoboth Beach was selected as the place for the next convention, to be held the third Saturday in July. Officers elected were: Commander, Earl Sylvester, Harrington; vice-commander, Jay L. Holmes, Wilmington; chaplain, Rev. William Gibson, New Castle; historian, Leslie Sweeney, Wilmington; sergeant-at-arms, Thomas Keeley, Wilmington.

Appointed to School

Miss Edith Zebley, of Appleton, has been appointed principal of Big Elk School for the coming school year.

OLD INDIAN SONGS FIND NEW FAVOR

The Liurances, Interpreters of Native Airs, Please Large Audience.

Getting the background and the base for their compositions from original tribal songs of various groups of American Indians, Thurlow-Liurance, composer, and his talented wife, assisted by Miss Lillian Reed, flutist, gave a Newark audience something very different and very interesting in the way of music last Friday evening in Wolf Hall.

The Liurances have traveled widely throughout practically every Indian colony in the country, living and talking with the natives and picking up the music of their race. Then, the composer, with consummate skill wove into them melodies to offset the natural harshness of their tones, drama-tized them and explained them one by one, as they were given from the stage. All in all, it was a most satisfactory evening of music. While it was a far cry from some of the music airs picked out on the piano to the finished song, the trained ear could catch the relation through the scale range used in their composition.

"Ghost Pipes," a Sioux melody, and "Weeping Waters," gathered from the Chippewas, caught the fancy of the audience, and drew a decided response.

Mr. Liurance, near the close of the program, played the ever popular "By the Waters of Minnetonka," his own composition. "The haunting melody, and downright beauty of this little classic won for him a very hearty burst of applause.

Mrs. Liurance throughout the program displayed a rich, though not robust, voice, admirably adapted to the type of music on the program.
She sang all her numbers in native
Indian costumes.

County Agent, In Monthly Report, Surveys Crop Conditions Through Local Territory

The June report of R. O. Bauman, County Agent, which was made public today, follows:

Potato Demonstrations

Climatic conditions this season have been extremely adverse to the potato crop. The potato demonstrations purport to show the relative value of certified seed potatoes and seed potatoes grown from certified seed. At this time it is not possible to observe a difference in the plots seeded with certified seed and those planted with seed grown from certified seed. However, this same condition has been experienced practically every year, but when the plots were dug the certified seed on the average has produced from 35 to 40 bushels more per acre than the non-certified seed. The tests made during the last few years have demonstrated that it would be difficult for a farmer to invest money more profitably than to buy certified seed each year.

Sweet Clover Demonstrations

The weather conditions have also been severe on the sweet clover demonstrations. The new seeding of alsike and red clover over the entire state is practically a failure this year. However, the sweet clover demonstrations show a fair stand. The farmers with whom these demonstrations are conducted feel that the stand is poor, but it is my belief that with favorable conditions through the remainder of the season that a very good stand will be realized. The growing habits of sweet clover are somewhat different from other clovers. It makes very little growth until the nurse crop is removed. After removing the nurse crop, however, the growth made usually is phenomenal. Counts made on these plots indicate an average stand of from one to three plants per square foot. If this stand holds a very good crop will develop. There is this fact that is outstanding, that on those demonstrations on which a mixture of alsike and sweet clover was seeded there is not a trace of alsike, whereas, the stand of sweet clover is fair.

Mr. Harold Schabinger, of Felton, has 24 acres of sweet clover which he is using for pasture. In April he turned into this 24 acres, 40 head of stock and the sweet clover has furnished abundant pasture for this entire herd. Only 3/4 of a ton of dairy feed has been used during the summer and a heavy milk production has been maintained. According to the demonstration on Mr. Schabinger's farm the carrying capacity of sweet clover is practically two head of livestock per acre.

Soy Bean Demonstrations

Soy bean demonstrations are looking very well and with favorable growing conditions the rest of the season give indication of producing good yields. Some of these plots have been drilled in rows and cultivated with the corn cultivator while others have been drilled solid and have been cultivated with the harrow.

Alfalfa Demonstrations

The alfalfa demonstration started

THE LOCAL PAPER

"A good local paper makes a good local community," says the Spokane Spokesman - Review. "The well-edited paper is a distinct advantage to its community and serves a need that will always exist. It prints the current news of the community and with a capable editor, it becomes a real factor in the up-building of the community. It can and does accomplish much for the common weal. It reflects the character of the community itself. It aids materially in the direction and assistance of all community development, both industrial and educational. It could not survive one year if no need existed or it failed to fill the wants."

We want and invite communications, but they must be signed by the writer's name—not for publication, but for our information and protection.

In the spring on the farm of Mr. A. B. Johnson, of Middletown, shows a splendid stand. The alfalfa was seeded with oats as a nurse crop. The oats have recently been cut green for hay, thus giving the alfalfa a much better opportunity. In spite of the extremely dry weather the stand is exceptionally good. With good growing weather Mr. Johnson will get a light cutting of alfalfa yet this fall. Tentative plans have been made for the starting of alfalfa demonstrations this fall on the farms of Geo. C. Burge, Middletown; Frank Hufnal, State Road; and L. C. Hofecker, New Castle.

Farm Management Tour

A farm management tour will be conducted in the southern part of the county later in the fall. Several farms which show the better organization and better labor incomes according to the farm management survey of the Middletown area will be visited. The plan of organization and the practices of these farms will be observed at first-hand. It is also likely that special attention will be given to the growing of alfalfa, soy beans and sweet clover during this tour.

Farm Management Survey

The tables compiled from the farm management survey of the Middletown area are now practically complete. I expect to spend the major part of the next two or three weeks writing the bulletin covering the survey. Several facts of special importance to the farmers of this area have been brought out through the survey.

NEW PRINTING PLANT PLANT AT ELKTON

Olden times, went through the traditional ceremony. There is a tradition that the work table in a printing plant, known as the Stone, was first an old Tomb Stone. From that story comes the fact that the shop in a printing plant is usually known as the Chapel. At all conferences and consultations the printers gathered around the Stone in the chapel. So last Friday afternoon in keeping with this custom the Craftsmen at Kells gathered around the Stone and gave their fellow workman good wishes, offering him in true printers' style "luck" and the colophon "Good-speed" from this latest edition from Kells. It was recalled at the Chapel exercises that this makes four to go out from the shop at Kells; Jack Schultz is now secretary of the Boston Typothetae, Carl Justice runs a plant at Crisfield where Kells had the honor to christen his press the "Old Chris Press of Crisfield." William Cole, a boy from this community, served his apprenticeship at Kells and from all reports is doing well and is enthusiastic in his Philadelphia experiences. Mr. Cleaves makes the fourth and returns to Elkton to associate with the new project mentioned.

VACATION SCHOOL ENDS

Demonstration Scheduled in Church Friday

As a closing feature of the daily vacation Bible school being held at the Presbyterian Church here, a demonstration will be given in the church on Friday evening of this week at seven o'clock standard time. Friday is the closing day of the school. The attendance this summer was large, and the work very satisfactory. Miss Annabel Jarmon and Ida MacMurray had charge of the classes.

A Dream at Kells

When we build

"WHEN we build,
let us think we build forever.
Let it not be for present delight
nor present use alone.
Let it be such work
as our descendants will thank us for,
and let us think,
as we lay our stone,
that a time will come when those stones will be held sacred because our hands have touched them, and that men will say as they look upon the labor and wrought substance of them
'SEE! This our Fathers did for us.'
—John Ruskin.

Shop Talk

Kells Honored by Sesqui-Centennial

Rather interesting days down on Welsh Lane at the shop called Kells. The Craftsmen at our shop are a bit proud of the compliment paid us last week by the officials of the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition of Philadelphia to be held in 1926, marking the 150th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, and readers will pardon a just pride in our making this announcement. The publication of the Declaration of Independence and Constitution of the United States of America as arranged and printed at our shop has been accepted by the Exposition, and the publication, quoting from Colonel Collier, director general of the Exposition, "is designated as official souvenir of the Exposition." This is no ordinary compliment and we admit that we feel proud and believe justly so. Our Constitution story is an interesting experience. Some day we hope to write the story from those experiences and our files.

Some three years ago we attempted to secure copy of these documents and, surprising as it may seem, failure met us at leading book stores of the country. Readers will recall that we then ran these documents serially in the Newark Post, which, by the way, brought forth most interesting and startling comments. There were those who read it for the first time since their school days in that bold twelve-point type. This was followed by a small edition which we gave to our friends, only to be followed by an order from the Jos. Bancroft Company of Wilmington of some 2500 copies to be bound in their own book cloth, which were distributed to every man, woman and child in their employ. Harry Harkins of the Hotel du Pont caught the idea and placed a copy in every room of his hotel, printed in a special edition. And then the letters began to come in ordering single copies or numbers for gifts to friends or to organizations; then a New York hotel, The Waldorf; a Washington hotel, where Congressmen and Senators read it and were surprised, and then on. Other editions were printed and then the High School and University graduates of the whole State of Delaware received a special copy with their diploma; and then another edition, inquiries coming from North, East, South and West,—rush Christmas orders, banks giving it to their employees, The Continental Fibre Company getting out a special edition to give with their compliments to their trade; then civic organizations and then again The Lions Club of Wilmington and The Rotary Club of Wilmington securing special editions to give to each club in the United States. It reached some thirty different bindings, and compliments and comments and kind words from friends, strangers all over the country, and an occasional word from up in Canada.

We presented it to the Sesqui-Centennial for their consideration and suggested it as a souvenir and it was eagerly—pardon the pride—adopted. We have sold copies now in every single state in the Union and scarcely a day passes without one or more orders. Just this week inquiries came for single copies from New England; a request for quotation on a hundred up in New York State; out in Kansas and Nebraska there come inquiries and requests for cost of various editions. The Sesqui-Centennial edition is planned to be bound in buff and blue, the Colonial colors. There will be a frontispiece—a facsimile of the Declaration of Independence and a five-page insert in facsimile of the Constitution from a photograph made for us just previous to this document being placed in the Library of Congress. On the cover will be embossed the Old Liberty Bell from a special copyright design. The compliment paid to us, we think, comes from the dignified appearance of our typography, the care of its printing, and arrangement of its pages; that is the compliment to the printer. The tribute to the State of Delaware is even more gracious and worthy: Rodney's ride made possible the designation of Delaware's star in the Flag and the action of our fathers in first ratifying the Constitution gave it recognition at all official functions as the First State. An interesting comment, too, can be made that the edition will be printed at our shop in Newark on a road leading from the Old Academy, where three of the signers of the Declaration of Independence were educated, to Cooch's Bridge, where the Flag was first unfurled in battle. So we announce with pride the compliment paid our State, paid our community and paid this little printing plant in recognition for this service rendered. It was one of the red letter days in our short but certainly interesting and eventful history.

Just about this time last year the Grolier Club of New York, through its Board of Censors, accepted our de Luxe edition of the Constitution and honored us by placing it on their shelves and it was with no ordinary pride that we framed their acceptance. It would be very interesting indeed for us to tell you the first order asking for the first copy of the Sesqui-Centennial edition. We ask the pardon of our friends for this boast but we believe they will share the enthusiasm of the compliment paid us all. And thus the days down at Kells go interestingly on.

day: Mrs. Kendall, son and niece, of dren of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Rose; and Delaware Avenue; Allison Manns, Gladys Buttles, daughter of Mrs. youngest son of Dr. and Mrs. Manns; Buttles, all patients are reported as David C. and Mary Jane Rose, child-doing nicely.

"What the Democratic Party in Wilmington needs" says Mr. Wickes' State News, Dover, "is cool, level-headed, thoughtful, deliberate leadership—and harmony in the ranks."

When an editor can crowd all these adjectives into one sentence, he's pretty safe. It's always good to make things difficult.

And by all means, several gross of "good five cent cigars" as the late lamented "Tom" Marshall opined.

After a streak of two successive days, St. Swithin went into a batting slump last week. He has been benched for the balance of the season.

"I was born twenty-two years before I ever heard of Bryan," says Wright C. Dizer, Delaware's greatest hot weather politician. Funny how people spoil a good thing as they grow older, isn't it?

No need for youngsters to read Horatio Alger now. Send them to "Dave" Rose. When he gets through pumping Florida profits into them, "Sink or Swim" sounds pretty dull.

"No Monkey Business" by William Jennings Bryan, an eminent realtor from Florida, will be in the bookstores soon. Mr. Bryan will be remembered by many of the older folks as the man who made the practice of running second an art. He usually followed the Bell Ringers at the afternoon Chataqua back home.

The eminent National Press in Washington comes to bat with this one:

"If the United States wasn't the greatest place in the world in which to live, why is it so many people try to get in it?"

If they think this is a witty remark, our Aunt Minne has the measles.

Razzing The Congressman

Former Congressman Samuel E. Winslow, of Massachusetts, is of the opinion that there is too much ill-considered criticism of members of Congress. Washington swarms with lobbyists representing various interests and movements having axes to grind. When their demands are not met they build a fire under the Congressman with the folks back home and too many people are willing to echo complaints and charges made against their representatives on Capitol Hill. Mr. Winslow says in an article printed in the current number of the National Republican (Washington):

"So far as I have been able to determine individuals of a constituency or a member of Congress neither hold nor initiate much censure of their representative unless it be through the unavoidable and desirable differences of opinion in respect to the viewpoints of political parties. It is not until the propagandist of one sort or another begins to stir things up that individuals discover that their long time respected citizen, at the moment a member of Congress, is a bonehead or a man incapable of appreciating the true inwardness of things. Once this depreciation of a member of Congress is started within his constituency the propagandist through local representatives and by virtue of this, that, or the other influence, keeps it going. Friends from 'back home' begin to send in letters and telegrams, trade and commercial organizations 'resolve' and transmit by 'unanimous vote' of this, that or the other committee or board, and they deluge Congress with these communications.

Mr. W. A. Michael Mayor, of Belleville, Ont., is getting up a book of remembrances of United Empire Loyalists with names of all living descendants. Mrs. J. W. Suddard is a descendant of Henry Hamilton Anslay, U. E. L.

John B. Miller is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Rounds at Wyoming this week, and enjoying the fishing at Bower's Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rounds, of Wyoming, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Miller last Sunday.

NEWARK GIRL WEDDED SATURDAY

MRS. HARRY R. ROSSLAND

Mrs. Rosland before her marriage here Saturday, was Miss Marian Gallaher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gallaher, of West Main street. The wedding was one of the largest held here in years.

Gallaher-Rosland Wedding Here Saturday Center Of Interest In Social Circles

One of the largest weddings held in Newark in years occurred Saturday evening last in the Methodist Episcopal Church when Miss Marian C. Gallaher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Gallaher of West Main street, became the bride of Harry R. Rosland, of Worcester, Massachusetts. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Frank Herson, pastor of the church, at seven o'clock.

It was a very pretty affair, and attracted guests from all parts of Delaware and from neighboring states. Prior to the wedding, the bride was the guest of honor at several parties arranged by her college mates and friends in the community.

Large Wedding Party

A maid of honor and six bridesmaids comprised the wedding party as it proceeded down the aisle of the church to the strain of the traditional Lohengrin wedding march. Miss Ann Gallaher, elder sister of the bride, was a most attractive maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Anna Frazer, of Newark; Miss E. Lucille Roe, of Price, Md.; Miss M. Blanche Derriekson, of Marshallton; Miss W. Faye Moore, of Milford; Miss Ruth Anne Russell and Miss Anne E. Kane, of Wilmington. Robert Hattley, of Rochester, N. Y., was best man. The ushers were Joseph Hassum, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Thomas Glendon, of Worcester, Mass.; Pierce Crompton, P. Arundel Armstrong, Earl Ramsey and F. Johnson Rowan, of Newark.

Just prior to the entrance of the wedding party, Miss Ingrid Rosland of Brooklyn, a sister of the groom, sang three solos, "O Promise Me," "I Love You Truly," and "At Dawning." She was accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Howard F. Crawford, Jr., who also played the wedding march.

The bride wore a gown of white flat crepe, the skirt being draped with rose point lace with a tulle veil held in place with a wreath of orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of bride roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Miss Ann Gallaher wore French blue georgette, with an overskirt of blonde lace and carried a mixed bouquet of pink roses and delphiniums. The bridesmaids were garbed alike in pink georgette with godets of blonde lace. The frocks were all trimmed with roses of the same material in a deeper shade. They carried yellow roses and delphiniums.

Miss Rosland wore a gown simply made, of peach colored flat crepe. Mrs. Crawford, who before her recent marriage was Miss Olive Porter, of Newark, wore her wedding dress of white satin trimmed with Chantilly lace. The bride's mother wore a handsome gown of orchid georgette.

Many At Reception

Due to the great number of people at the wedding, it was decided to use the Theta Chi fraternity house, just across from the Gallaher home, for the reception. That this was a wise move was evidenced by the attendance. Over 250 people attended the reception, it is reported. A beautiful array of wedding gifts were on display in the Gallaher home and were much admired by friends of the bride and groom.

During the reception, which occurred immediately following the wedding, delicious refreshments were served under the direction of Walter Powell, local caterer.

Later in the evening the bride and groom, accompanied by Miss Martha Wollaston and the best man, Mr. Hattley, left for Philadelphia, where they commenced their wedding trip.

Mrs. Rosland is well known and very popular in the community. She is a graduate of the local High School and of the Women's College, class of 1923. Since her graduation she has been engaged in teaching in West Virginia. Through her college career she was well known for her musical talent. The couple will make their home in Worcester, where Mr. Rosland is in business.

PLEASANT VALLEY CLUB IN LAWN FETE

Elkton Band Engaged for Big Affair Saturday Next.

A Lawn-Fete and Band Concert will be given on the playgrounds of the Pleasant Valley School, near Newark, Saturday evening, July 25, 1925, for the benefit of the Pleasant Valley Community Club.

The Committees have been appointed for the following booths: Ice Cream, Cake, Candy, Pie, Soft Drinks, Hot Dog, Fancy Articles, and Novelties. Many other features will be introduced during the evening.

Music will be furnished by the 23-piece Elkton Band from Elkton, Md.

This is the second of the series of social activities to be given before the opening of school this fall. # Continental Team Downs Yorklyn In Fibre League Game 9 - 4

Local Fibremen Clout Ball Hard; Smith In Form

Hitting of Gregg, Colmery and Moore Feature Saturday's Battle; Enemy Pitchers Held Little Mystery Over Ball

"LEFTY" FANS TEN BATSMEN

Their batting machine working on all cylinders and Mr. Lefty Smith very much in the limelight with his sweeping curves, Continental Fibre downed Yorklyn easily on the Newark field Saturday last; score, 9-4.

The home club allowed little grass to grow on the basepaths during the afternoon. Runs were registered in all but three innings of the game. The Fibremen went into a two-run lead in the second, then piled on four more for good measure in the big fourth. This turned out to be enough for the day, but they kept packing away at Lamborn and Williams until the game was called.

Locals Hit Viciously

Some heavy clotting by Griff Moore, Colmery and Bud Gregg featured the game. Young Gregg tore off two singles and a double for his share of the party, Colmery maced out a single and double and little Griff whaled the ball over the left field fence as his contribution. As it happened, Griff trotted around all by himself, as there were no playmates on base at the time.

The tantalizing shoots of "Lefty" Smith were entirely too good for the Yorklyn stickmen. In his six innings on the rubber, "Lefty" allowed but four hits. He retired in favor of George "Shorty" Chalmers, erstwhile High School star. "Shorty" continued the good work, although being touched up for five hits in the three frames he worked. In all, fifteen gentlemen from Yorklyn fanned the atmosphere and sat down during the afternoon. Smith struck out ten of them, and Chalmers did the rest of the dirty work.

The Continental team played errorless ball, and some clever fielding marked the struggle. Two errors by Quinn of Yorklyn marred the perfect play on their side. The score:

Bel Air Loses In 9th

When Havre de Grace arose in their wrath in the dying stages of their game with Bel Air Saturday and drove in one run, one of the best games of the year in the League came to a close. Seven runs in the first two innings by Havre de Grace was gradually overcome by the Harford Countians and the score was tied in the eighth.

Elkton Topped From League Lead Saturday

Perryville Downs County Seaters; Rising Sun Beats Elk Mills And Goes To Top

For the first time in several weeks Elkton has been forced to relinquish her hold on first place in the Tri-County League. After winning the first half banner easily, the County Seaters went right back into the van as the second spasm started two weeks ago.

Saturday last Perryville blasted them from the top rung in a tight game, score 3-1, when Gillespie, the Railroaders' ace, held the strong Elkton batsmen to six scattered hits. Robinson pitched another splendid game, and allowed only six bingles himself; they happened at unfortunate intervals, however, and were productive of runs when least wanted. Elkton fielded almost flawlessly during the game, the work of Boyle at third standing out as the best performance. Bobby Watkins, a Newark boy, led his club at the bat with two hits. Williams and Crawford were the leading sluggers for Perryville. The score:

Elk Mills Goes Under

Three runs garnered in a thrilling eighth inning rally put the bacon in the hands of Rising Sun on Saturday in a slashing game with Elk Mills. The Sun boys managed to squeeze out with the game well in hand.

Elk Mills pushed three markers across in the first inning and looked like winners until McGovern weakened in the eighth and the damage was done. By reason of this victory, Rising Sun went into first place in the league standing.

DECIDE ON ONE GAME FOR PENNANT

The game to be played at Providence last Wednesday evening to decide the winner of the first half was postponed on account of rain. There has been no date set for this game yet but the two teams have decided to play a single game instead of a three-game series as planned at first. The date for this game will be decided in a few days.

Charlestown, 8-6

Scarborough's Home And Evans' Hitting Feature Game Saturday; Dean Is Hurt

Providence defeated Charlestown Saturday on the latter's grounds by the score of 8 to 6. Providence hit Anderson in bunches, Evans being the leading hitter for the visitors with three safeties. Scarborough hit a home run with one man on base in the third inning. Dean twisted his knee in the first inning and had to retire from the game. Miller, who relieved him, accepted six chances and cracked out two hits.

H. Algard, with four hits, led the attack for Charlestown. The score:

Friends of Professor O. W. Mosher, of last year's University Faculty, will be delighted to hear of his recent honor, that of receiving his Doctorate degree Ph. D. from University of Toulouse, France. More than his degree, it was awarded Sumum cum laude.

Professor Mosher is returning to America in the next few weeks and will visit friends in Newark around the middle of August. His genial good nature, his violin so popular in town as well as University circles, and his exceptional honors just gained will be received with genuine appreciation.

Ready For Easton Golfers On Saturday

Locals Hope to Down Marylanders in Second Inter Club Match Over Newark Course

All is in readiness for the much heralded invasion of the hills of White Clay Creek by the 'Shoremens of Easton, Maryland, on Saturday. The occasion is the second of a series of matches between the Newark Club and the Talbot Country Club of the Maryland town. Last Friday week, Easton and Newark tied up the first match 14-14.

Manager Paul Pie, in charge of the busy as a one-eyed cat in a bird store these days. The spirit of "do or die for Newark" is being injected into his athletics in great gobs. A great deal of importance attaches itself to this match, as a victory for the locals will give them a decided advantage in the series. If Easton wins, the next match will be played there on a course distinctly not to the liking of Newarkers.

Just who will compose the personnel of the Newark team Saturday has not been divulged by the inner council. Some changes will likely be made, in an effort to turn back the invaders.

The matches will start shortly after lunch hour Saturday, and will conclude when one or the other of the impressaries cry "Enuff."

ANOTHER PORCH PARTY SATURDAY

Announcement has been made that the delightful series of weekly porch parties at the Country Club will be continued and another one held on Saturday next, beginning at 2.30 o'clock, daylight saving time.

Mrs. Walter Hullahen and Mrs. George E. Dutton will serve tea during the afternoon and will be hostesses. Members of the club together with their wives and families are cordially invited to attend the party.

NEWARK PRO LEAVES TO PLAY IN "OPEN"

A. D. Ginther In Philadelphia Participating in Pennsylvania Championships

A. D. Ginther, professional at the Newark Country Club, left Monday evening for Philadelphia where he will likely enter the Pennsylvania Open Golf Championship match being played this week over the stiff Merion course.

Mr. Ginther expects to make his entry upon his arrival in Philadelphia. He was unable to place his name on the list at the Merion Club last week when he played a practice round there, as no one was authorized to accept entries. Max R. Margton, in charge of the tournament, could not be reached, and Ginther returned to Newark. His name, therefore, does not appear in the list of published entries.

The Pennsylvania open calls for 72 holes of medal play and is expected to be decided today.

Both Mr. Ginther and Robert Seasholtz, who accompanied him on the practice round last week, state that the championship course at Merion is one of the hardest in the East.

NEARLY PARALYZED IN FALL FROM LOFT

Port Penn Youngster Is Painfully Hurt In Father's Barn Monday; Will Recover Use of Limbs

Falling over twenty feet from the opening to a wheat loft to the barn floor on Monday, Elmer Ellis, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ellis of near Port Penn, was badly hurt and for a time partially paralyzed about the lower limbs.

SPIVUS DECIDES TO TAKE UP GOLF

The following letter has been received at this office. Although it is of a personal nature, permission has been granted for its publication.

Cooch's, Del.
July 20.

Mister Editor:

Having decided to take up this game of Golf or Golf or what have you, please send my Post to Sally Ann, I'm too busy reading McSmithers on "Putting."

I just placed an order for a box stall at that place what used to be a meadow up on Quality Hill. They tell me you got to have a bunch of them sticks. I thought one was plenty. They have also tried to give me some lessons on account of me bein' new to the game, but they can't fool an old horseshoe pitcher like me. I says to them to just stand from under and let me get a crack at the damn thing.

You just got to be firm with some people, you know.

J. SPIVUS.

Young Ellis and a playmate, Robert Fleming, were playing about the barn while the wheat was being staked away in the loft by his father. After the wagons and men had departed, the two boys took a ride on the hoisting tackle, being pulled up to nearly the roof of the barn by his companion. He suddenly lost his grip on the rope and plunged to the floor.

The alarm was given and the injured boy rushed to the office of Dr. Ellis, in Port Penn, where treatment was given him.

Monday night the youngster was reported to be greatly improved, having regained the use of his limbs. The injury seemed to center about the spinal column. He will recover.

Fighting Cabbage Flies

The white butterflies hovering over your cabbage plants are laying eggs from which green caterpillars or "cabbage worms" will hatch. They match the green of the leaves and often go unnoticed even after the injury they cause is apparent. In the home garden they may be picked by hand, but for any considerable number of plants a spray is desirable. A teaspoonful of paris green, two of lead arsenate powder, or four of lead arsenate paste, is mixed with a gallon of water. There is no danger to those who eat cabbage sprayed with a mixture of this strength. Certainly there is no danger in using it while the plants are young.

Investigations made by the plant disease specialists at the State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva have demonstrated the value of corrosive sublimate in combating the disease which prevails in the cabbage seedbed. The fact that the treatment has been found by station entomologists to be highly effective in controlling the ravages of the cabbage maggot in the seedbed adds materially to the value of the method to the cabbage grower.

Screening cabbage seedbeds to protect the young plants from maggot injury is a thoroughly established practice, and due to practical considerations, will be followed by growers generally. Under exceptional conditions, however, screening may favor the development of certain diseases of young cabbage plants, and an effort has been made to discover some method which will effectively overcome this injury.

Cabbage plants have been grown quite successfully in the open without serious loss from maggot when corrosive sublimate has been applied to the base of the plants at the critical time in the development of the maggot. It was discovered in the course of this work with cabbage maggot that the diseases which trouble young cabbage plants in screened beds may be held in check in open seedbeds by this same application of corrosive sublimate. Methods of preparing and applying the poison solution are fully described in Station Circular No. 76, which may be had free of charge upon request. The root rot of delphiniums or larkspur, and the disease known as bacterial blight of this popular flower are also readily controlled by the corrosive sublimate treatment.—New York World.

Solons Happy In Love Feast At Rehoboth Beach

Small Attendance Marks Reunion of Members of 100th General Assembly Saturday Night; Governor Addresses Group

NEWLY-WED SPEAKER FETED

All outward differences laid aside and basking in the very essence of magnanimous geniality, a scattering of members of the 100th General Assembly of Delaware gathered for their annual reunion at Rehoboth last Saturday. Gentlemen who flung taunts at each other in the heat of battle at Dover last Spring, sat meekly side by side and discussed Evolution, Prohibition and the peach crop. The hatchets were buried deep at Rehoboth. The attendance was smaller than expected, several members being unable to get away at the last minute.

The chief feature of the reunion was a banquet Saturday evening, served in the Belhaven dining room. Representative George Sebald, of Wilmington, the chairman of the joint House and Senate committee named to arrange the affair, being the toastmaster. Governor Robert P. Robinson and Secretary of State William G. Taylor were the guests of honor. Many of the members were accompanied by their wives and some by a few friends.

The dinner included an excellent menu and the service was all that the Belhaven Hotel is noted for. During the banquet music was furnished by the Seneca Serenaders of New York. One of the amusing incidents of the evening was the presentation of a mysterious box to Speaker Henry C. Downard and his bride of a few weeks. The presentation speech was made by Representative (Mrs.) Florence M. Hanby.

Gift For Bride

She gave the box to Mrs. Downard and there were demands that she open it. This Mrs. Downard did rather gingerly and after digging into a lot of paper she finally brought to light two little dolls. There was a general laugh and then calls for a speech. Mrs. Downard thanked the donors and Speaker Downard made a few humorous remarks.

Governor Robinson was called upon as the first speaker and he told his auditors what a fine thing he thought these reunions are. He thought it especially fitting for the law makers to renew acquaintances after the storm and strife of the legislative session and he expressed the hope that this would not be their last meeting.

Secretary of State Taylor followed and he commended the General Assemblymen for the excellent work they did during the session. Representative Louis A. Drexler, of Bethany Beach, said he thought it a good idea for the legislators, after elected, and before the regular session, to get together and to get acquainted and to study some of the problems they will have to solve so they will not be strangers to one another and ignorant of their work when the General Assembly actually gets under way.

Brief speeches were made by Senator William F. Allen, of Seaford; Senator LeRoy Kramer, of Wilmington, and Representative James C. Hastings, of Newark.

FIRES OVER THE LINE

New London and Elkview Barns Destroyed Last Week

Lower Chester County, Pa., was the scene of two large fires late last week. At Elkview, a large barn used as a garage by Malcom Chambers was struck by lightning. Firemen saved two automobiles but much other property was destroyed. The loss was about $10,000.

The barn of Stanley Lebo, of New London, was destroyed after being struck, with a loss of $12,000. It contained all the hay and wheat just harvested from the farm. Surrounding properties were protected by the firemen from West Grove.

NEWARK IN THE OLD DAYS

From "Newark Past And Present" By James T. Vallandigham, Jr., And Egbert Handy

In the latter part of the last century, and the first years of this, many odd, eccentric characters lived around here. Among others were 'Squire Russell, famed for his stories of the Revolutionary war; Joe Ogle, who, like Bob Warnock of whom we have spoken, had the uncanny reputation of being a wizzard; old Bill Clemens, the butt of many jokes, and last, but not least, Phil Gillan. Gillan was a short, thick-set man of Falstaffian proportions. His principal occupation was that of a nail maker, for in his day all nails were made by hand; but he also kept a little tavern near the academy, where Mr. Pemberton lived until recently. Being of a jovial disposition, and full of anecdote, naturally he was a great favorite with the academy students, who used often to visit him, and listen to his jokes and stories. Some of the boys having discovered that "old Phil," as he was familiarly called, was a Catholic, determined to play a joke upon him reflecting upon his religious belief. So the night before St. Patrick's day, they fixed up a paddy, a lay figure, placed a necklace of Irish potatoes around its neck, and hung it in front of Phil's door, after labelling it "St. Patrick." When Gillan discovered it in the morning he was furious, he took it in, dragged it through the dirt, hid it away, and, concealing his feelings, bided his time for revenge. By skillful manoeuvres he was able to find out the guilty parties. As he appeared indifferently, the fun loving students who had prepared the dummy in a short time came over to Phil's house to rally him over the ignominious figure of his patron Saint. Apparently Gillan took it in good part, but suddenly locking the door, he drew a sword, and dragging out the dirty form which they had prepared, he swore with furious oaths that they must go down on their knees and kiss St. Patrick, whom they had insulted. It was a filthy object, for Phil had made it as dirty as possible, but he was not to be trifled with, so down on their knees each of the boys got and with Phil's flashing sword held over them they solemnly and penitently pressed their lips to the loathsome bundle of rags which they had made up.

Phil was a great fellow for practical jokes. An undertaker named Allen, who lived in the house now occupied by Professor Wolfe, was the victim of one of his pranks. Mr. Allen was noted for the promptness with which he attended to his business, a serious and sedate man, and therefore not much on the outlook for jokes. Where Mr. Enos Rambo now lives, at that time an old Scotchman resided, named David Scott. His wife, who was generally known as Katie Scott, was a very large woman, very broad at least. Old Phil Gillan procured a pole, and cutting a notch on it sent it to Mr. Allen with an order for a coffin for Mrs. Katie Scott, the length of the pole represented the length of the coffin required and the notch marked the supposed breadth. This mode of measuring for coffins in that day was not uncommon, and Mr. Allen was only surprised at the extreme breadth. Remembering, however, the great obesity of Mrs. Scott, he concluded it was all right, and went to work, and made one of the most extraordinary receptacles for the dead ever manufactured in this country. Mrs. Scott, whilst this was going on, was not only not dead, but in her usual vigorous health. Having finished the coffin early the morning after the order for it came, Mr. Allen sent a boy with it loaded up in an old-fashioned hearse. There was no public road to Mr. Scott's, and the poor boy had a wretched time of it, getting through the woods and then through a swamp that intervened between Newark and his destination. Just as he got out of the swamp he met old man Scott, "Where are you gangin' to wi' that thing?" said Scott, with open eyed wonder. "I'm taking it out to bury Mrs. Katie Scott." "Katie Scott! Katie Scott! She's na' dead, you fule, tak' it back, it shant come on my land; tak' it back wi' you, and that right quick." The boy turned and made his tedious progress back to his employer. Mr. Allen was very angry and much excited when the boy made his report; he concluded the boy had become frightened, or been imposed on by some one, and promising him a good thrashing upon his return, he took charge of the coffin, which was on account of its extraordinary shape, by no means an article he wanted left on his hands. After a most disagreeable journey he at length approached Mr. Scott's house, and was met by that gentleman, now thoroughly aroused and indignant, "Where you gangin' this time wi' that ugly auld box?" "It's for Katie Scott," calmly replied Allen. "And are ye a crazy loon at Newark now, that ye are deein' to bury a live woman! I tell you Katie Scott is na' dead, and if you don't tak' your auld box off of my place it will be waur for you." Mr. Allen disconsolately returned, and it was years before he found out who was the perpetrator of this ridiculous joke. Poor Mrs. Scott has been buried nearly a century ago, but it is needless to say that her last resting place was not in the "auld box," so irreverently spoken of by her husband.

William Clemens, spoken of above, was also fond of jokes, but he was often the butt of others. Having had a quarrel with Mr. Joseph Hossinger (an uncle of the late Joseph Hossinger, Esq., President of Newark bank), who at the time kept a tavern at the lower end of the town, he was persuaded by Dr. Forrester and other fun loving wags to send a challenge to Mr. H., being assured that it would not be accepted. He was somewhat disconcerted when it was promptly taken up. The preliminary arrangements by the seconds were made with a business like alacrity, which excited a feeling of something like disgust at the heartlessness of man in Clemens' bosom. Nor were his feelings much soothed when the parties all reached the ground, at the display of lint, bandages, and surgical instruments, ostentatiously made by Dr. Forrester and a brother "Sawbones." But he really was pluck, and though he did not know that instead of bullets the powder in each pistol was covered with ginger bread, he manfully took his stand. Both pistols were fired at the word, and Mr. Hossinger (who was in the joke) instantly fell. The doctors rushed up and bent over his prostrate form. Meanwhile pale and horror stricken Bill Clemens stood in his tracks, but when Dr. Forrester held up a bundle of lint he had dextrously stained with blood, which he had brought with him, it was too much, Bill struck for the woods and was not seen around Newark for many a long day.

About the commencement of the century a company of light horse was formed in White Clay Creek Hundred. Its officers were: Captain, James Miles; 1st Lieutenant, Henry Whiteley; 2d Lieutenant, John Herman. This company numbered some fifty men, and was well drilled. In those days, from very necessity, almost every one rode well on horseback. Fox hunting was a favorite sport indulged in by the best and most prominent of the citizens.

In the campaign which resulted in the election of Jefferson to the presidency, party feeling ran very high here, as the parties were pretty equally divided. Old 'Squire McBeth, who built the house in which Mr. Caulk now lives, was an earnest adherent of Jefferson's. At his request a bright young Irishman, who lived with the father of Andrew Kerr, Esq., wrote a campaign song. Mr. Kerr could only recall one verse, which was:

"Do you want to know where the Democrats are?
There's Dominie Waugh, Sammy Meter,
There's Joe at the tavern, and Ochiltree too,
They've joined the Doctor with a hullabaloo."

Dominie Waugh, was the Reverend Mr. Waugh, Principal of the academy, Joe at the tavern was Mr. Hossinger, who kept a hotel at the time, and the Doctor was Doctor Forrester. These were all prominent Jefferson men. This young Irishman, Lambert, was a man of fine education and possessed of considerable talent; he was very popular, and when he was accidentally drowned in White Clay creek, there was universal sorrow amongst all acquainted with him. It was generally believed that he was the illegitimate son of a distinguished nobleman of Ireland.

In 1837 the Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore Railroad was built, along by but not through Newark. For some reason objection was made to the road being built through the town, and it was located nearly a mile south of the village. Great regret has often been expressed that the railroad was not built nearer, and much inconvenience has been experienced on account thereof. A variety of reasons have come to our ears to account for the action of the people at the time, and the objections made, but none that appear satisfactory. Railroads at that time were a novelty, and all kinds of evils were prophesied by the old fogies of the day if that terrible creature of the nineteenth century, the locomotive, was permitted to pursue its iron course very near or through the town. Just before the completion of the railroad as far as Elkton, a mysterious murder took place just over the Maryland line, not more than three miles from Newark, Miss Mattie Polk was the victim; she was a lady of considerable property, about fifty years old, healthy, prosperous, and of cheerful disposition. She suddenly disappeared and her body was never found. A man of very good family, residing near here, was suspected of the crime, but circumstances of a suspicious nature also involved a man named Stackhouse. The latter was arrested, and tried in Elkton, but as it was impossible to prove the "corpus delicti," he was discharged. Years afterwards he died in the far West, and we are reliably informed that on his death bed he confessed the crime, and in his confession exculpated the gentleman of whom we first spoke. This confession, or a copy, was sent to the latter, and is said to be still in the family of the gentleman referred to, who has long been dead.

In 1851 Dr. Palmer Chamberlain built a foundry, nearly opposite to the Deer Park hotel. This was afterwards purchased by Blandy & Brothers, who carried it on for several years. Lewis L. Allen is now the proprietor, having purchased it from Blandy & Brothers several years ago.

The first bank in Newark was established in 1855. The act to incorporate it was passed February 26th, 1855. Under its provisions the following gentlemen were appointed commissioners to open the books, secure subscriptions to stock, &c., viz.: James L. Martin, Frederick A. Curtis, William McClelland, James L. Miles, Benjamin Caulk, John Miller, Daniel Thompson, Solomon Leache and Joseph Hossinger. This bank, now a National bank, is still in existence, and in splendid financial condition. The officers are: President, Joel Thompson; Cashier, George W. Lindsey; Teller, George W. Williams.

Of many changes we will speak in their appropriate place, in treating of the churches, societies and industrial institutions and in the history of the Academy and College. In connection with the latter topic, it may be well to mention that, when the college was first opened and for years after, Rev. Samuel Bell was principal of a large and well conducted female seminary. He was succeeded by his son-in-law, Rev. Mr. Hood, who carried on the school in the building near the depot, known as Linden Hall. Miss Hannah Chamberlain also conducted for many years a female seminary, with eminent success, part of the time in what is now the Deer Park hotel.

From 1800 to 1860, the years were uneventful, the Academy and then the College gave a little zest to life, and the pranks of the students sometimes enlivened our annals; only the dark tragedy of poor Roach's murder rippled the even surface of the hum-drum existence in a little town. The village gossips told their tales, the scandal mongers, as in a hundred other similar places, rolled as sweet morsels under their tongues, stories of secret shame about their neighbors, sometimes with, sometimes without foundation; but slanders and slandered alike sank into the grave, and were again and again replaced by their imitators. "The old, old story" was told a thousand times by bashful swains to blushing maidens, and marriages, births and deaths brought to each home circle in its turn the wonted joyous smile or wail of sorrow. In the village taverns the wise cross-roads politicians for three generations "many a time and oft," proclaimed the country ruined. The "Alien and Sedition laws" were fiercely discussed, Tom Jefferson's extreme democracy, the embargo, and the Hartford convention in their turn were subjects of angry debate. The "removal of the deposits" by "old Hickory" excited as much interest in this old village as if the United States Bank had been located here. The hard cider campaign of "Tippacano and Tyler too" aroused an enthusiasm, that yet exhibited itself when some of the "oldest inhabitants" are interviewed upon the subject. Up to 1861, close on the border of the great North, as we were, an Abolitionist was looked upon as some abnormal creation, not to be classed with respectable citizens of well balanced minds. But while in all these years, young men committed their usual follies and old men until death clung to their prejudices, it was an honest, a moral, and a law abiding community.

Farm Population Declined During '24

Rush Cityward, However, Is Not As Great As In Other Years; Mountain States Show Decrease

The farm population of the United States decreased approximately 182,000 during 1924, according to estimates based on a survey of 25,000 representative farms made recently by the United States Department of Agriculture. This is a drop of .6 per cent during that year, the estimated farm population on January 1, 1925 being 31,134,000 compared with 31,316,000 on January 1, 1924. This estimate includes not only the agricultural workers, but all men, women and children living on the farms on that date.

The movement from farms to cities, towns and villages in 1924 is estimated at 2,075,000; the movement to farms was 1,396,000 making a net movement from the farm population of 679,000 persons, or 2.2 per cent. Births among the farm population during 1924 are estimated at 763,000 and deaths at 266,000, leaving a natural increase of 479,000 which reduced the loss due to the cityward movement to 182,000 or .6 per cent.

A similar estimate made in 1922 showed a loss in farm population of 460,000 as against 182,000 in 1924. The gross movement from farms to cities in 1922 was 2,000,000 compared to 2,075,000 in 1924, a slight increase. The gross movement back to the farms in 1922 was 880,000 compared to 1,396,000 in 1924, a very decided increase. The net movement from farms to cities in 1922 was 1,120,000 or 3.6 per cent and in 1924, 679,000 or 2.2 per cent.

Two geographic divisions, the New England and South Atlantic States, showed a net increase in farm population for the year 1924, of .9 per cent and .2 per cent, respectively. All other divisions showed decreases, the Mountain States leading with a loss of 2.3 per cent.

The decrease in farm population due to the cityward movement, not taking into account births or deaths, was highest in the Mountain States, 4.3 per cent, followed by the Pacific and West South Central States. In all other divisions, except New England, the percentage of decrease due to the cityward movement was equal to or less than the average for the whole United States, 2.2 per cent. New England alone showed a gain of .3 per cent, since more people moved from cities to New England farms than left farms for cities.

The movement from farms to cities was found to be at the highest rate in the Mountain States, 13.8 per cent, followed by the Pacific, New England, Middle Atlantic, and East North Central States in order. In the movement to farms from cities, the Mountain States again lead, with 9.5 per cent, followed by the New England, Pacific, Middle Atlantic, and East Central States.

MARSHALLTON BUS

LINE MERGED NOW

Wilmington Traction Company Absorbs Business, Giving Through Service.

It was reported early this week that negotiations for the purchase of the rolling stock and good will of the United Peoples' Bus Line of Marshallton by the Wilmington and Philadelphia Traction Company, would be completed this week, and the line merged with their present route to Newark.

In line with the policy established by the traction interest, the purchase was not considered a surprise. The Chester-Wilmington line as well as the Newark line is now being operated by the Traction Co.

The United Peoples line operated two of the largest buses making regular trips in the State. It is likely that these buses will be refitted and placed on the road again to supplement those running to Newark.

No inkling of the purchase price or other details were included in the report by the traction officials.

DELAWARE CHARTERS MAY BREAK RECORD

2,654 Were Filed Up To June 30th Last At Dover, Report Says; 1920 Was High Year.

That the charter business is still a profitable one for the State of Delaware is indicated by the number of charters filed during the last past six months in the Secretary of State's 30. While the year 1920 was the heaviest year for filing charters in the state, it may be exceeded by the year 1925, if they continue during the next six months as they have during the past six months. The above number of charters filed during the past six months, does not include a great number of increases, especially during the month of June, there being in one day, two increases of fifty millions, while another day recorded an increase of ninety millions. During the month of January, 1925, there were 421 charters filed, twenty-two of which showed a capitalization ranging from $10,000,000 to $40,000,000, the remaining 399 charters ranging in capitalization from ten millions to five thousand dollars. The state tax paid with the filing of the January charters was $73,303.57. During the month of February, there were 412 charters filed, twelve of which ranged from $10,000,000 to $50,000,000, the remaining 400 having capitalization from ten millions down to two thousand dollars; state tax paid with filing, $58,387.08. During the month of February, there were 481 charters filed, seventeen of which had a capitalization ranging from ten millions to $125,000,000, the remaining 464 having capitalization ranging from ten millions down to $2,000. The state tax paid with the filing of charters for this month was $81,863.96—Milford Chronicle.

POULTRYMEN URGED TO WATCH SOIL ON RANGES DURING JULY

Dangers of Contamination From Bare Earth Is Serious, Says Expert; Need Careful Attention.

Now that mid-summer is here, says a New York expert, and the chickens are half grown, the problem becomes especially urgent, that the poultry keeper watch his soil condition on the growing range. The chicks have been running around the houses for many weeks, and the soil is very apt to be killed for many feet all around the colony houses.

The bare ground becomes contaminated quickly and the filth from the droppings and the possibility of intestinal parasites from the accumulated material and from infestations of worms, all make it complicated and serious. If, for any reason, your pullets are not growing as they should, if their shanks are not yellow and their combs are not bright red, in all probability, they are infected with coccidiosis, or possibly worms; both a result of intensive rearing conditions.

There is no reason for the poultry keeper to lose any pullets in the summer, but it is a fact, that many are lost, due to diseased conditions.

Examine All Dead Birds

The first problem in meeting an emergency of this kind is to determine what the cause is. Any birds found on the range which have died should be given a post-mortem examination to determine the cause. If it is intestinal parasites, as tape worms or round worms, slitting the intestines lengthwise will divulge the presence of these pests. The secondary symptoms of worm infection will be the loss of appetite, emaciation and shrunken, pale comb.

If, on the other hand, it is intestinal infection, due to an excessive amount of coccidia, it will be evidenced by loss of color in shanks, thinness and enlarging of the walls of the intestines, and infection and hardened areas of the caeca or blind dux. Whenever these conditions are present, the first thing to do if possible, is to move the colony houses over to a new location, on fresh ground, where they can be removed from the infection. If this cannot be done, the next best thing is to plow the ground immediately adjacent and around the houses, and seed it deep with buckwheat, thus turning under the filth and dirt where the birds cannot get in contact with it. The seeds at this time of year will germinate and the birds scratch them out and eat them.

THE SALESMAN AND HIS AUTOMOBILE

"Sales cost records are proving daily the economy of automotive transportation for salesmen," said R. H. Grant, general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor company.

"The average expense per call incurred by the salesman driving an automobile is lower than by rail due to the fact that the salesman using a machine makes three times the number of calls and spends more time with each customer. He will make calls which otherwise he would skip were he limited by rail transportation.

"In addition a salesman who drives an attractive car up to the customer's establishment enjoys a peculiar psychological advantage over the salesman who arrives on foot. Unconsciously the buyer accords more rapid and courteous attention to the man with the car."

The Making Of A Ten Ton Bell

Process Today Differs Little From The Methods Used By Monks Of Old

The modern method of making a great ten-ton bell has varied very little, except for the improvements due to machinery and to new methods of tuning, since the time the monks made their own, says the Washington Post. First the bell is designed on paper, then a core of brickwork is made the required size, and covered with loam and sand. This is formed into the shape corresponding to the inside of the proposed bell by means of an instrument which is worked round and round like the arm of a compass until the right curves are molded.

For the outside shape a cast-iron case is used and lined with baked sand and loam, made bell shape in a similar manner. On this baked lining are chiseled the inscriptions which will afterward appear on the bell.

The case is then placed over the core, leaving a space between the two, which is the exact thickness of the new bell, and the whole is securely bolted to a cast-iron plate at the bottom. It is then baked for two or three days in order to get rid of all moisture, since the slightest trace of dampness would cause sparks of the hot metal to fly about during the filling process.

Meanwhile the foundry men have been getting ready and for several days have been anxiously watching a low furnace containing several tons of bell-metal—an alloy of copper and tin.

When the metal has reached the right temperature the furnace is tapped and the molten liquid is poured into a giant ladle and brought alongside each of the six molds, which have been placed in readiness down the middle of the "shop." Then taking care that the flow is continual, for the presence of one bubble of air would mean a faulty bell, the fiery metal is poured into the space left between the case and the core of each mold.

After some days, according to the size of the bell, the metal cools. The case is then lifted off, revealing the outside of the bell, which is turned over and the core chiseled out.

FAMOUS OLD FRIGATE MAY BE SAVED AS RELIC

Elks Hope to Raise $300,000 For Preservation of "The Constitution" Through National-Wide Appeal.

Plans to raise $300,000 to save the famous frigate "Constitution" or "Old Ironsides," as she is better known, have been announced by John G. Price, of Columbus, Ohio, Grand Exalted Ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. The plan will be forwarded by the Elks and the officers of the lodge expect to raise the money from the 1,000,000 members of the order and from the school children of America. It is stated that the plans have the approval of Secretary of the Navy Wilbur.

It is planned to have a speaker visit every school room in America to tell the story of "Old Ironsides" again and to enlist the sympathy and efforts of the children in saving her from dissolution. No contribution of more than ten cents from any one child will be accepted.

This history of "Old Ironsides" is, of course, well known to every schoolboy. She was launched in October, 1797, and from that time on her record was a memorable one. Her exploits in the War of 1812 and against the pirates of Tripoli will never be forgotten.

The tough planks which won for her the name of "Old Ironsides" came from the forests of Georgia and her masts were of New England pine. Paul Revere, on a government contract furnished the brass and metal work which went into her.

In 1836 the Navy Department ordered her scrapped. But Oliver Wendell Holmes the young poet penned his famous lines which stirred the country and her "tattered ensign" was kept waving.

The ship served as a training ship for the Naval Academy for many years and finally in 1897 she was towed into Boston harbor where she now rocks idly at her moorings, her stout planking waterlogged and her masts and rigging long vanished.

Plans for her preservation include the building of a new hull and fitting her out as a patriotic shrine for the coming generation.

New Highway From New York to Florida Is Planned; Will Cut Through Delaware

A new automobile trail from New York to Miami, Florida, passing through Wilmington and on down the State through Smyrna, Salisbury, Md., Cape Charles, via Norfolk, Va., and through the Carolinas, Georgia to Florida, has been developed by the Coastal Highways Association, which, when completed, will shorten the distance by about 300 miles, and will comprise hard-surfaced roads all the distance.

John F. Harlan of Wilmington, who has been in all the principal towns of the Delaware-Maryland Peninsula, including Smyrna, in development of his advertising plan, has been aided by all towns in laying out the new route and has assisted in making arrangements in the various towns for the proper advertising of the new trail. The new trail from Wilmington goes direct to Salisbury, Md., and thence to Cape Charles and Norfolk. From Norfolk, the trail runs through Suffolk to Raleigh, N. C., to Columbia, Augusta and Waycross, Ga. The roads through North and South Carolina are built of concrete and other hard surfaced materials, and form a most important section of the new trail. From Waycross, Georgia, to Jacksonville, Florida, the road is good, and from Jacksonville to Miami, this same condition continues.

acre in the Bear Station section was that reported from the farm of Charles Diehl. Thirty-six bushels per acre was threshed from one of his fields, another yielding 28 bushels per acre, making an average per acre for his whole crop of 32 bushels.

Other large yields have been reported, none, however, equalling the record of 36 bushels. The wheat crop was exceptionally good this season, all farmers reporting large, firm heads and light straw.

Interesting State Statistics

Auto License Receipts, Income Tax News And Divorce Increases Among Items Released Recently At Dover

The following interesting reports, condensed for quick reading, have been recently issued from various headquarters in Dover and Washington, D. C. They apply to affairs within our State and make interesting information for readers of THE POST:

Income Tax

According to reports issued by the Treasury Department at Washington the income tax payments from Delaware for the year ending June 30, 1925, showed a decrease of $516,382. The total tax was $5,310,321, as compared with $5,826,703 last year. The income taxes amounted to $6,563,344 and the miscellaneous taxes to $1,746,476.

It was announced that these figures were subject to change as they were based on telegraphic reports from this district.

Internal Revenue Bureau receipts for the country for the fiscal year 1925, made public at the Treasury, aggregated $2,584,010,847.50.

This amount exceeded all estimates slightly and is a result gratifying to Administration officials and Congressional leaders interested in tax reduction, inasmuch as it is only $212, 168,409.56 less than the total receipts for 1924, despite the substantial tax reductions which prevailed in 1925.

The income tax receipts fell short of the 1924 receipts of $1,841,759,216.50 by only $80,077,675.16 while miscellaneous taxes were $122,090,734.40 less than the $94,419,940.26 collected in 1924.

Auto Licenses

Receipts of the Automobile Titling Department of the Secretary of State's office for June were $25,278. S. D. Prouse, in charge of the department, reports the receipts as follows:

Pleasure cars	$14,870.00
Pleasure car registrations	1,337.00
Trucks	154.00
Truck registrations	324.00
Motorcycle (31)	155.00
Motorcycle re-reg. (5)	5.00
Tractor (13)	655.00
Tractor re-reg.	1.00
Dealers	225.00
Trailers	76.93
Operators' licenses	5,907.00
Chauffeurs' licenses	537.00
Extra weight	13.00
Dead wagon	10.00
Public service permits (50)	50.00

$24,836.00
Liens and encumbrances... 442.00

$25,278.00

Divorces

Divorces are increasing and marriages rapidly decreasing, reports to the Department of Commerce from nine representative States reveal.

A matrimonial census showed that in the year 1924 divorces had generally increased a little more than six per cent, while marriages had decreased about six per cent.

Out of the nine States, Nebraska was the only one to show a decrease in divorces. This state had 183 fewer divorces in 1924 than the previous year, but marriages fell off 53.1 per cent.

South Dakota was the only state reporting an increase in marriages for last year. Cupid's darts were aimed correctly 6,401 times, an increase of 2.3 per cent, but 586 divorces were issued, an increase of 4.3 per cent.

The states reporting increases in divorce and decreases in marriage were:

	Marriage Decrease Per Cent	Divorce Increase Per Cent
Delaware	7.7	12.1
Connecticut	3.3	2.6
Rhode Island	9.3	9.8
Maryland	1.3	3.7
Maine	6.2	1.1
New Jersey	3.9	7.9
Wisconsin	10.5	9.1

The census of all the states will not be concluded for several weeks.

May Exceed Budget

Motor vehicle fees collected by the automobile department of the Secretary of State's office for the first five months of this year (January 1 to May 31, inclusive) total $588,638, according to a report made last week. While these figures have not been compared with those of previous years for the first five months the receipts are thought to be much larger than any previous year for the first five months.

The budget estimate for the automobile license fee receipts for the entire year is $605,000. The last seven months of 1924 the automobile fees amounted to $84,000 and they should be equally as large this year. This being the case the total receipts for the year will greatly exceed the budget estimate as they are now within $15,000 of the $605,000 estimate.

The two-cent gasoline tax brought into the State $148,322.20 for the first six months of this year ending June 30. The budget estimate for this revenue for the entire year is $300,000. The tax for the last six months of last year amounted to $184,097 and it is expected it will be equally as large the next six months which would more than bring in the budget estimate.

COLORED MAN'S $25 SPEEDSTER CATCHES FIRE, PILOT, UNAWARE OF FLIGHT, DRIVES SERENELY ON

While Charlie Boyle, a well known Negro of this town, was amazed at the sudden willingness of his $25 Ford speedster to run right out from under him last Sunday, he little dreamed that all the energy was being generated by a nice tidy little blaze which enveloped the rear end of his vehicle.

Charlie was cruising along the Cooch's Bridge road south of Newark when Eugene Stiltz happened along and saw the young coveit bearing down on him. When appraised of the fire at his back, Charlie is said to have become quite disturbed.

The speedster was hurried to the Cooch farm nearby where Wallace Cook, for the nonce, assumed the role of fireman and signed up with the volunteer organization right then Messrs. Cook and Stiltz hurried several buckets of later on the fire. Charlie, the pilot, led the cheering section. It was discovered that a leaking gasoline tank was allowing the fiery fluid to drip down on the hot exhaust pipe. The blaze was soon smothered.

Later, Charlie confided to his friends in need that although his wagon only cost $25, it was worth $1000 to him. "Such a valuable be-loom was, in that cast, worth saving" said Pete Stiltz Monday.
