Newark prepared for emergencies

City manager met with DEMA and other agencies

Newark is as prepared for emergencies as anyone can be in these times of uncertainty and unparalleled disaster.

City manager Carl Luft told council on Monday that he has talked to his staff about heightened vigilance and procedures.

"We take seriously the alert which the FBI has communicated to larger cities (following the bombing in Afghanistan and the offensive put on by the Allies)," said Luft. "There's only so much we can do at our size, but we are moving to improve communications and emergency contacts with local agencies."

Luft met with the city's Emergency Management Team and talked to staff at the Delaware Emergency Management Agency and the Delaware Fire Board. "Police Chief (Gerald Conway) issued a formal directive to his department to be on the lookout if anything out of the ordinary or otherwise significant occurs," Luft explained.

Luft directed all personnel in the utility, public works and parks and recreation departments

U.S. President George W. Bush led a service at the National Fire Academy in Emmitsburg, Md., where the names of the firefighters were added to the National Fallen Firefighters Memorial.

Names of those killed in 2001, including 344 members of the Fire Department of New York who died at the World Trade Center, will be added next year.

In Newark, members of the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company observed a moment of silence at noon on Sunday at the Academy Street station. The names of the 101 firefighters were read followed by the tolling of bells 101 times.

This year's honorees included firefighters

According to Aetna spokesperson John Farrell, an average of 100 firefighters die in the line of duty each year nationwide. Since 1981, the names of 2,181 men and women have been inscribed on the memorial.

"Every firefighter lost is a national tragedy," said Farrell, "and Aetna will continue to work with state and local governments to provide the resources and programs necessary to reduce the number of firefighter line-of-duty deaths."

Officials from the Newark Day Nursery have agreed to lease four rooms at their facility on Barksdale Road to the Newark Charter School, so students can attend classes there next year.

The three classrooms are each about 650 square feet in size, and an 11,000-square-foot multipurpose room in the nursery building will be used for gym classes. The remaining room will be used for storage or for office space.

An additional 100 students are expected next year when the

Reservoir landscape described for city council

Capacity upped by 18 million gallons for $600,000-$800,000 in cost

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Newark's future water storage facility, also known as the reservoir, took on the appearance of a lake nestled in a park at Monday's city council meeting.

Engineering consultants from URS made a public presentation on the status of the approximately 112-acre project expected to be complete on White Clay Creek in September 2003.

The city delivered about 500 flyers to neighbors around the former Koelig site on Old Paper Mill Road inviting them to attend the meeting for the presentation.

Joseph Kula, project manager for URS, said the design for the reservoir is currently 70 percent complete, with the finished plan to be delivered to the city by Dec. 21.

"The current recommendations were prepared after considering 75 or more alternatives," said Kula.

In February, the city approved construction of a 300 mg (million gallon) reservoir estimated to cost $16 million in place of an earlier proposal for a smaller, 245 mg structure. City officials said at that time the larger facility would give residents "two-to-three weeks extra supply of water" in the event of drought.

Renderings of reservoir prepared by engineering consultants URS show a park-like setting around a "lake" with walking trails, an overlook, a red-roofed water intake house, and stationary "sails" providing aesthetic features in the view.

This week, Kula said concerns about water quality and algae required a water filtration system and other changes in design that resulted in a 299-mg reservoir. "But, the city could add approximately 18 million gallons of storage, however, because the wetlands area has been redesigned," said Kula. "Estimate for the additional cost is $600,000 to $800,000."

Kula said the area of trees at the north end of the site would remain, while the reservoir would be centered approximately where the former farm buildings currently stand.

The plans for the alternative reservoirs all include a containment liner system to minimize leakage and control pressure from groundwater as well as a perimeter berm since the structure is to be built "above the rock line."

In addition, Kula said an "inlet/outlet house" with a 65-foot high tower, allowing access to water in the reservoir, will contain a 36-inch pipe connecting to a 25-inch pipeline which leads to the pump station. A steel truss bridge will extend from the access road around the facility to the house. Gate openings beneath the house will permit staff to draw water at different levels for quality testing, according to Kula.

"Monitoring systems on the site will collect critical safety and performance parameters to give early warnings if there is a problem," said Kula. "These items include things like flow rates, water pressure and groundwater levels."

Kula said every effort will be made to mitigate the effects of having a "major public works project" under construction near residences for up to 18 months.

"We will have five "traps" to control sediment and erosion, silt fencing around the entire site and soil will be removed and stored for later use."

Work on the site will be "juggled" to impact as little as possible on the morning rush hour, and flaggers will control construction traffic on and off the site.

Because the facility is largely above the rock level, the project was designed to avoid blasting. "But we will use controlled blasting techniques when necessary and monitor vibrations," said Kula. "We will also limit noise by restricting the work hours for blasting and control dust with water trucks."

The finished site has been specifically designed to serve residents as recreational space as well as a water resource.

"The permanent access road leading to a parking lot, walking trails and the access road around the perimeter of the reservoir will be approximately where the driveway is today," said Kula.

Added landscaping and screening will provide shade for hiking and walking on the site. "At the request of the city, we also plan an overlook so people can view the reservoir at a point looking south towards Newark," Kula said.

The most unique feature of the plan is the stationary "sails" which dot the landscape views presented by URS.

"We asked for ideas to 'class up' the landscape and give it more quality as a cultural or park site," explained water director Joseph Dombrowski. "These are

Crashes kill 13 persons on Delaware roads in September

During the month of September, 13 persons were killed in 12 separate motor vehicle crashes on Delaware roads. Seven of these deaths were alcohol-related. The percentage of alcohol-related fatalities last month was 54 percent of the total, an increase from 40 percent in September 2000.

Acts of aggressive driving, including running a red light, speeding and failure to yield the right of way were listed as contributing factors in six crashes last month.

Body found near Routes 13/40 split

On Oct. 6, the body of a 36-year-old Dover man was found in a wooded area located between the Route 13 & 40 split. The subject has been identified as James W. Hurley III. He was found by acquaintances at approximately 4:25 p.m. The victim advised acquaintances that he had been feeling ill and was last seen resting at approximately 9:30 a.m.

There were no obvious signs of foul play. The cause of death will be determined by the state Medical Examiners office.

Paper Mill Road crash under investigation

The Newark Police Department's Traffic Division is investigating a collision that occurred in the vicinity of Paper Mill Road and Odessa Way in Newark, involving three vehicles on Oct. 5.

At 2 a.m., a 1997 Toyota Corolla, operated by Jeffrey Tuner of Wilmington, 21, was traveling northbound on Paper Mill Road when it collided with a 1998 Plymouth Neon, operated by Cecilia Collazo of Landenberg, Pa., 21, which had been traveling southbound. The Toyota then struck a 1995 Dodge Neon, operated by Katherine Molaski of Newark, 22, which had also been traveling northbound. Turner and Collazo were transported to Christiana Hospital and their status is unknown at this time. Molaski was not injured.

The cause of the collision is still under investigation. Anyone who witnessed this collision is asked to contact Officer Paul White at 366-7111.

Newark Police arrest 79 persons at disorderly incidents

Oct. 5, through the early morning hours of Oct. 7, the Newark Police Department conducted enforcement aimed at curbing alcohol violations and disorderly behavior throughout the City. Numerous University of Delaware students were contacted and subsequently arrested at parties where underage drinking was prevalent.

The department made arrests in the following categories: Underage consumption/possession of alcohol-56; open container of alcohol-6; disorderly premise/loud party-16; possession of marijuana-1.

County make arrests in handguns burglary

On Friday, Oct. 5, County Police investigated a burglary where several handguns were stolen from a Milltown Road home. Investigators recognized the inherent dangers of additional guns on the street and after receiving few leads, decided to notify the community by way of the Reverse 911 system.

County Police notified nearly 1,000 homes in the area of Milltown Road near Grendon Farms on Oct. 9. Within hours, Detective Matthew Tower received a page from the police department's automated voice-mail system. The page was from a caller who stated he had received the phone call and subsequently realized his fiancée's son was in possession of electronic equipment. The youth could not provide a legitimate explanation as to where he received the item.

Detectives went to the home of the 17-year-old located in Woodmill. After interviewing and arresting the suspect, police responded to a second address in the Village of Lindell. They recovered one of the stolen handguns from the 15-year-old male resident.

The investigation then led detectives to a third residence of a 17-year-old-male in Meadowood. Police recovered a second handgun from the home and arrested the teen. Investigators secured a search warrant for a fourth home, located in the Abbey Walk Apartments, and recovered stolen jewelry. A 16-year-old male resident was also arrested after a third gun was recovered nearby.

Police charged the first 17-year-old and the 16-year-old with burglary, theft of a firearm, criminal mischief, conspiracy, and theft. The 17-year-old from Azalea Drive was charged with burglary, theft, conspiracy, and criminal mischief. Due to the ongoing investigation, detectives linked the initial two suspects to an additional burglary that had occurred on Sept. 28, in the community of Meadowood.

Robbery at liquor store under investigation

Delaware State Police are investigating a robbery that occurred on Oct. 2, about 4:28 p.m. at the Paper Mill Liquors, located at 370 Possum Park Road. A male suspect entered the business and removed two bottles of liquor from the shelf. As he began to walk out of the store, the 47 year-old male clerk confronted the suspect about paying for the items. The suspect lifted his shirt and displayed what appeared to be a handgun that was tucked in the waistband of his pants.

Troopers are looking for a white male, 20 to 25 years-old, 5 feet, 7 inches tall, and weighted approximately 170 pounds. He was last seen wearing a white T-shirt and khaki cargo pants.

No one was injured in the incident and troopers believe the same suspect is responsible for a robbery at the same location back on Aug. 1.

Fight at McKean High School

Delaware State Police are looking for the suspects involved in a fight at McKean High School on McKennans Church Road on Oct. 9, at 2:25 p.m. A 1996 Lexus 400 and a 1995 Mazda Millennium pulled into the lot of the school and four suspects got out and attacked two 10th-grade students as they were walking out of the school. The suspects fled before school staff and state police arrived. The two victims were taken to the Christiana Hospital where they were treated for cuts and abrasions. One of the suspects may have suffered a broken jaw. The investigation is still ongoing and no arrests have been made at the time of this report.

to take extra precautions and notify supervisors immediately if they see anything unusual in areas which impact the public services.

"This would include things like unusual odors not happening before, or just observing in a 'picky type of way' we didn't before this."

The city water source is under regular scrutiny and testing by the city's water quality engineer Bill Zimmerman. "His hiring in March 2000 turns out to be pretty timely," said Luft.

On Tuesday, Luft said the city was ordering additional "chlorine residuals" test kits that water department employees can carry with them. "This way more employees will have them, and they can be used right on the site if anything seems unusual."

Luft said residents should do as President Bush and others have advised and try to live a "relatively normal life at this time. "But, be vigilant about what goes on around you," he said.

The city is also planning a memorial for the victims of the Sept. 11 disasters. "We're working on details for a small memorial and trees to be planted probably at Olan Thomas Park (at Paper Mill Road and Cleveland Avenue) for those who died," said Luft this week. "That park is near the center of the city."

Parks director Charles Emerson said a different tree would be planted for each location where planes crashed: a sugar maple which is the state tree of New York, an eastern hemlock, the state tree of Pennsylvania, and a dogwood, the state tree of Virginia, the location of the Pentagon headquarters outside Washington, D.C.

City council also voted in September to donate $5,000 to the World Trade Center Disaster Relief Fund. Mayor Hal Godwin said the American Red Cross is using monies from this fund for rebuilding and cleaning up the disaster site in Manhattan.

kevlar sails on permanent poles anchored at various points in and around the reservoir."

Following the presentation, city council voted to approve the increase in capacity to 317 million gallons. Dombrowski stated that a facility of 322 million gallons would have been needed for the city's "biggest" drought-of-record in 1963. "We also are still under negotiation about what we can take out of the creek," said Dombrowski.

Currently the Delaware River Basin Authority requires Newark to let 14 million gallons per day flow by before drawing water from White Clay Creek for local residents. "If that changes, there could be a risk of shortage during drought," said Dombrowski. "Even the 300 mg range is still darn close to what we need in any drought situation."

City manager Carl Luft said money for the additional capacity came from future options for the project. "We can look at those options when the time comes, and would rather do that than borrow more and add to the debt burden," said Luft. "We also didn't want to cut into the contingency fund for the project, because we are already encountering studies and tests not included when we approved this."

Among the contingencies is a "viewscope" and archeological studies required by the State Historic Preservation Office. "This will allow people in the future to see what people used to see when they looked at the property," Luft explained. "We knew this was a possibility but not a certainty. Current estimates of the cost for the study are about $100,000."

Luft said the city does not want to fence the site, but "it is a lake" and constitutes an attractive nuisance for the city. "If it was in existence right now, under the current circumstances and national alert, we would have extra security in place similar to what Wilmington has at their reservoir," said Luft. "As it is, we will have parks and rec get together with the police and public works people when we're nearer to completion to discuss security. The property will definitely be secured, just as other parks are in the city."

City council delays requirement for sprinklers to January in Newark

Public hearing for provision regarding single-family rental conversions will be held on Oct. 22

By MARY E. PETZAK

Newark's city council gave existing and new homeowners a brief reprieve this week from regulations to install fire sprinklers. The newly adopted amendment does not take effect until Jan. 5, 2002.

Council passed an ordinance on Aug. 27 requiring sprinkler systems in all new structures and houses, as well as all prefabricated structures moved into Newark or moved within the city, existing structures which undergo a change in primary use or which receive renovations to more than 50 percent of their area at any one time, and any single-family homes converted to rentals in the future.

In passing the new regulations, councilmembers specifically stated they did not want to affect any projects already in progress.

However, in council meetings that followed numerous people, including the staff from the University of Delaware, complained they had projects and construction underway which would be impacted by the law.

"It became apparent that the new ordinance lacked what council intended as far as grandfathering or dealing with these properties who were considered to be 'already in the mill' at the time of passage," explained city secretary Susan Lamblack in a memo to the city manager.

The matter was referred back to staff in September, and proposed amendments were drafted to address the situation.

The ordinance passed this week requires fire suppression systems for all new structures in Newark, except those "within approved subdivisions" which will have received permits and/or commenced construction before Jan. 5.

Steven Robinson, an attorney for Pulte Homes, said the amendment would be welcome for his clients. "We believe, in general, that sprinklers are a good thing but need to plan for them and engineer for them when planning construction," Robinson said. "This change will allow them to do that."

Accessory structures 1,500 square feet or larger, added to a property after Jan. 5, 2002, also must have sprinklers. In addition, all prefabricated structures moved into Newark or moved within the city, existing structures which undergo a change in primary use or which receive renovations to more than 50 percent of their cubic interior area at any one time after Jan. 5, 2002, must have sprinklers under the new provisions

Councilmember John Farrell, who sponsored the original legislation, said the ordinance uses the term "fire suppression systems" instead of sprinklers in order to allow for the optimum system for a given structure. "Some fire suppression systems use a 'dry chemical powder' instead of water because there are places where water is not appropriate," said Farrell, a volunteer firefighter. "This term covers all types of occupancy and allows builders to use the system most cost effective for occupancy."

The provision regarding single-family homes converted to rentals was separated from the original ordinance to be considered by city council in another subsequent amendment on Oct. 22.

Councilmember Karl Kalbacher and other residents are concerned that this requirement, which Kalbacher said would cost "a minimum $13,000," will unfairly impact some homeowners who wish to rent out their residences.

In addition, Kalbacher believes the value of properties not converted to rentals will be lessened in neighborhoods where rentals are likely.

"The real question is (whether it is) reasonable to impose a steep financial burden on compliance for a home-rental conversion, or should it be left to the citizens of Newark to decide?"

Sorority sisters backed in the substation joining other University of Delaware students in Derby Days competitions sponsored by the Kappa Epsilon Chapter of the Sigma Fraternity last Saturday. Funds from the annual event go to the Children's Miracle Network. This year, the students sent one-third of the proceeds to the Red Cross for the relief efforts in New York and the balance to the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia.

Airline security is not a luxury

A quarter of a century ago, air travel was mainly for the affluent or persons on a once-in-a-lifetime-trip. For the present generation, it is as casual as a day at the mall.

And, despite the terrifying events of a month ago yesterday, most of us personally know one or more people who have traveled on planes since Sept. 11. Many vacations, family visits or business trips were not put off even if travelers were nervous.

The accounts of their experiences vary, however, when it comes to what is supposed to be increased security. Some had all their bags opened and searched. Some had one piece examined more carefully, but not opened. Some were patted down like criminals; some had a metal-detecting wand passed around them.

Some had none of this occur and proceeded through airports exactly as they had done a hundred times in the past.

One person we know traveled through metal detectors at two airports, going and coming on a trip 10 days after the hijackings, with a single razor blade and a one-inch penknife undetected in a forgotten corner of her purse. The items were discovered only during a routine annual cleanout of the seasonal article. She felt pretty good about her trip up until that moment.

Failures of airlines to provide uniform or consistent inspection for carry-ons are just one part of the security problem. Many airlines do not have fail-safe screening for the checked luggage, which has contained explosives in past airplane disasters.

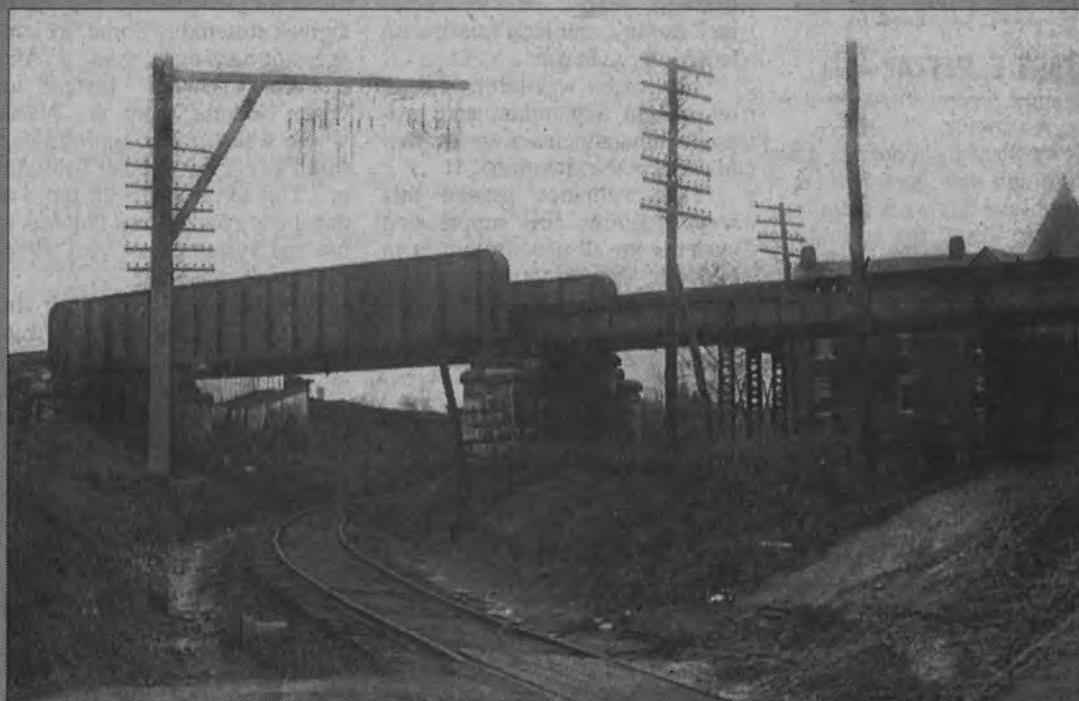

And in one every-passengers-nightmare case, a mentally unbalanced man kicked in the cockpit of an plane and forced others traveling with him to become their own protectors.

The Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year holidays are fast approaching. Airline companies are anxiously hoping that passengers, like students, families and friends, will make the trips they have made at those times in past years.

They need the profits. We understand. But we need the guarantee that those loved ones will all arrive as planned.

Demand security from your carrier. The cost may be greater in dollars, but think of the savings in lives.

I would be most grateful, if by publishing this letter, any of your readers might be able to assist me in the search for a branch of my family who emigrated from Scotland in the early 1920 and settled in Newark.

I am interested in the family of Edward Gabriel, a tailor by profession, born in Turriff, Scotland and his wife Catherine. They had three daughters, Barbara, Edwina and Margaret who were all born in Glasgow, Scotland.

Catherine died in Newark in 1970 and Edward died there in 1978. I am compiling a family history and if any members of this family are still in the area I would very much like them to contact me.

My email address is jgbarc@sol.co.uk (James Barclay).

Stubborn fire in Elkton Saturday

Fire about midnight Saturday was discovered in the house belonging to the Alagia estate on East Main street, Elkton. Singerly Fire Company responded and called the Newark, New Castle, Middletown, North East, Perryville and Chesapeake City fire companies and in thirty minutes seven companies were on the scene at work.

At one time it looked as if the entire row of frame houses would be a prey to the flames.

The firemen worked until about three o'clock Sunday morning, and are to be congratulated on—their heroism and the way in which they worked to save adjoining properties.

The fire adjoined the store of Henry M. Biddle, which was not burned, and was only about 100 yards from the Elkton gas works.

Herbert said he has customers who can't even afford to pay for the oil on a budget plan, and that the older citizens on a fixed income are not even ordering oil because they can't pay for it.

Councilman wants to unmask city manager

"There's nothing wrong with having people not know who you are if you're the city manager," says Peter Marshall, who is in his seventh year in that position for the City of Newark.

But Councilman William Coverdale does not agree, and he is suggesting that council hire a complaints officer to help Marshall handle residents' concerns.

Coverdale said, "those who do try to contact Marshall with complaints have difficulty reaching him. 'I've had difficulty reaching him," said Coverdale.

Coverdale says he is still upset

Cancelled football games due to crises happened in past

By Elbert Chance

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

When Delaware's season opener with Rhode Island was delayed for more than 40 minutes by a severe thunderstorm, and the third game with West Chester was canceled because of terrorist attacks, many fans asked whether similar incidents had occurred in the past. The answer is yes.

In the early years of the 20th century, cancellations were not uncommon. A 1902 game with Maryland (Baltimore) was substituted for a scheduled game with Johns Hopkins. Games with the Williamson Trade School and Maryland Agricultural College were canceled in 1906, as was a game with New York University in 1908.

A significant scheduling change occurred in 1941. The Blue Hens had completed their 1940 campaign with five consecutive victories under new coach Bill Murray, and were scheduled to open the 1941 season against Juniata on Sept. 27.

But 11 days before the kickoff, Juniata Coach M. R. Swartz notified officials at Delaware and Drexel that his team would be unable to play its first two games because of an infantile paralysis epidemic in Pennsylvania. Only one case had been reported in Huntingdon, but a number of Juniata students were from "heavily affected" areas, making precautions advisable. The opening of classes at Juniata had been postponed from Sept. 10 to Oct. 1.

Despite the limited time available, Coach Murray announced that he would seek a replacement, and he found one in nearby West Chester. This unanticipated beginning evolved into a spirited neighborhood rivalry that has extended to the present day. Oddly, it was the West Chester game that was canceled this year.

Another longstanding series ended in 1953—but not as had been planned. Delaware and Pennsylvania Military College (now Widener University) had agreed to meet for the final time in 1953 after 42 games dating to 1896. The standing (20-19-3) suggested a balanced competition, but the Blue Hens had won nine of the ten games played since 1940. It was apparent to officials and fans of both institutions that Delaware had grown too strong for a respected, but outmanned opponent.

But the scheduled final game was never played. The worst early season storm in local history blanketed the state with 11.9 inches of snow and ice, and weathermen reported a record low 21-degree temperature during the Nov. 7 weekend. Four deaths resulted from heart attacks.

Because of treacherous driving, snow-clogged parking lots and difficult playing conditions, officials of both schools agreed that cancellation of the game was prudent.

Another tragedy, the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, led to the cancellation of virtually all American sporting events on Nov. 23, 1963.

The Delaware team had arrived at its Sunbury, Pa., motel on Friday evening and was awaiting the following day's game with Bucknell at nearby Lewisburg when the decision to cancel was made. Eighteen seniors on Delaware's undefeated team had been anticipating their final game against the Bisons (6-3), but the players and coaches boarded their bus at 11 p.m.

Delaware Valley Chorale season has beautiful music by Brahms, Bach

Two of the most beautiful choral works in all of music are on programs of the Delaware Valley Chorale this season. They are Johannes Brahms' "Ein deutsches Requiem" and Johann Sebastian Bach's "Magnificat." They are to coincide with great feasts of Christian churches during the DVC's 2001-02 season. As I am sure you can guess, "Magnificat" is set for the chorale's Christmas program and "Ein deutsches Requiem" is the major work on its Good Friday concert.

Giving chronology its due, let us begin with The Holiday Cheer concert on Sunday, December 9 at 3 p.m. The "Magnificat" is the "perfect" Christmas piece for a number of reasons. First, its text is drawn from a scriptural quote of the Blessed Virgin Mary about the coming birth of the Christ child, "Magnificat anima mea dominum." (My soul doth magnify the Lord.) Second, the work was composed for and first presented at a Christmas concert in 1723. Third, Bach says so! It truly is a joyful work and most appropriate to the Christmas season.

The Delaware Valley Chorale will be accompanied by a chamber orchestra for this concert with Charles Walker on the podium. Also on the program will be music of Hanukah and some holiday favorites.

Keeping a long standing tradition, the DVC will offer a Good Friday Concert on Friday, March 29 in the Cathedral of St. Peter, Sixth and West Streets in Wilmington. It is here that the German Requiem will be performed with the concert beginning at 8 p.m. The chorale will be accompanied by piano with four hands.

One of the first distinctions one may draw between this Requiem and those of so many of the other composers is that its text was not drawn from the "standout" source of the Catholic "Missa Defunctorum." All of the text is drawn from scripture. The work opens with great reassurance and text drawn from St. Matthew 5:4 "Selig sind, die da Leid tragen, denn sit sollen getroset werden" (Blessed are they that mourn; for they shall be comforted.)

Brahms' German Requiem occupied his attention for more than a decade. He completed it in 1868. There was an abortive performance in Vienna in 1867. It wasn't finished and, according to critics of the time, the performance was terrible. On Jan. 31 of the following year, Brahms' mother died and he set about to complete the work. It was premiered on Good Friday 1868 in Bremen with many accolades coming to the composer. Audiences have been enjoying it ever since. It is the only work on the Good Friday program.

The Delaware Valley Chorale will offer two other concerts this season. One is on Sunday, February 12 at 3 p.m. and the other on Sunday, May 19, also at 3 p.m. "An American Valentine" will be their February offering. It is an eclectic program of home grown composers. Featured on this program will be love songs by James Mullholand including "Heart, We Will Forget Him," and "A Red, Red Rose;" Leonard Bernstein's "Make Our Garden Grow" from "Candide;" Norman Dello Joio's "Song of the Open Road;" Aaron Copland's "Five American Songs" and Moses Hogan's arrangements of American spirituals.

"Choral classics" is the title of the May 19 concert and it will include Motets by Johannes Brahms and Felix Mendelssohn and the major work, Franz Joseph Haydn's "Lord Nelson Mass." A fine season of choral works for DVC's 16th year.

Music Director Charles Walker brings impressive credentials to the podium. He is a graduate of the University of Delaware and the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia. He is currently on the faculties of three schools, the Westminster Choir College, Rider University and Rutgers University. He has taught at the Tanglewood Festival Institute, the Manhattan School of Music and the Hochschule fur Musik in Vienna. He has been a tenor soloist with opera companies and orchestras on both sides of the Atlantic.

All the concerts will be held at Aldersgate Methodist Church except the Good Friday concert which will be performed at St.

Peter's Cathedral. For more information or to order tickets write to: The Delaware Valley Chorale, P.O. Box 4623, Greenville, DE 19807.

Dale Samson Levin, the nursery's executive director, said she will be glad to have the Charter school students at the location. "We had a wing that was occupied for three years by the Head Start program," said Levin, "and they consolidated all their locations, so we have the space."

Many of the Charter school students also go to the nursery for after-school care, Levin said, so they are already familiar with the facility.

Christina invites public to review revisions to proposed renovations

Christina School District is seeking public input on proposed renovations to the District's nine elementary schools located in the suburbs, and building a new District swimming pool. The average age of the buildings that need renovations is 43 years, and the oldest, Jones Elementary, was built in 1934.

Public meetings to review the revised proposals will be at Bancroft Elementary, Oct. 17, 7 p.m. and Gauger-Cobbs Middle School, Oct. 18, 7 p.m.

Meetings were held throughout September with the Site Councils at each of the nine school buildings to review the planning documents and submit requests for additional work, or recommend revising the renovations as outlined.

District spokesperson Lisa McVey said District officials

Bancroft Elementary, and Elbert/Palmer Elementary. Some of these schools are currently partially air-conditioned.

State officials recently said they support adding air conditioning to any school upgrades considered for certificates of necessity, as well as installing air conditioning in new construction.

Copies of the proposed major capital renovations for each of the nine schools is available through the building principals, or at the Public Information Office, 83 E. Main Street, for a complete package, including the proposal for building a new swimming facility. These documents are also being loaded on the District Web site at www.christina.k12.de.us.

School fundraising got a boost recently when the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs from Felton donated $1,500 to purchase eye screening equipment for the nurse's office.

Kids can make a difference

Are you a kid or do you know a kid who wants to make a difference in your community? Sometimes there can be so many options for community service that it can be hard to figure out where to start.

The following is based on "Ten Steps to Successful Service Projects" from the book "The Kid's Guide to Service Projects" by Barbara A. Lewis.

1. Figure out what you want to do. Base your decision on your interests, what you can afford in time and money, and what you would enjoy doing. It's unrealistic to think you will enjoy a community beatification project if you don't like getting dirty and messy.

2. Involve others. If you feel you need the help, recruit friends, family members, fellow students, and neighbors who are interested in your idea. Volunteering can be a lot of fun when you work with a group.

3. Find a mentor. It's important to have an adult to help you work with other adults whose help or permission you might need.

4. Make a plan. Decide where to meet, how to get there, your goals, create a schedule for your project, and create a budget. Make sure your project fits your resources. Is it too big, how can you make it better?

5. Involve the people you are serving. Does that senior center want your help? Does that stream need to be cleaned? Make sure you ask about the needs of your recipient, and what times and days are best for them.

6. Decide on a location for your service. Will you go to them or will they come to you? Make sure either location has everything you or they need.

7. Get permission. You may need permission from your parents, teachers, neighbors, minister, or town mayor. Your mentor can help you with this.

8. Let people know what you are doing. Create and distribute fliers, send out press releases and advertisements to your school, civic association, church, local paper, and community center.

9. Fundraise. You may need money or supplies. Either can be donated. You'll be Joan and Bill Bliss, shown here at the home Bill Bliss built in Newark, have shared the road of life in more ways than one for more than 34 years.

Thirty-four years after meeting, the Blissés are living up to their names.

Bill Bliss, a 59-year-old explosives expert, said his partner in life is what keeps him so happy.

"There's a song by Bette Midler called, 'The Wind Beneath my Wings,'" he said. "That's Joan, my wife. She's the wind beneath my wings."

couple started "dating" Bill Bliss shows up at local bars, with Joan on one arm and a t-shirt on the other.

The wife is there to serve as Bill's devoted dance partner. The t-shirt he brings to change into when the one he arrives in gets soaked with sweat.

"It seems like as soon as my friends turned 30, they dropped off the face of the earth," Bliss said. "I have no idea why other couples don't go out in Newark."

One night not so long ago, the Blissés sat at Klondike Kate's restau-ting his moves in front of the mirror," Joan said of her husband. "He's a real twinkle toes."

It is no surprise that Bill and Joan first met on a dance floor.

It was at the T Bar in Chester, Pa., and the song playing was "Expressway to Your Heart" by the Soul Survivors when Bliss, fresh out of college, spied his future wife across the room. Though nervous, he maneuvered over and asked her to dance.

"Then, every time I called to ask her on a date, she was busy doing some-ject is never completely finished, she said, with a roll of her eyes and a smile.

The garage is his newest work-in-progress, and if you ask, Bliss will point out the textured ceilings and explain that he painted the walls to look like leather.

In the middle of the space are a set of giant "disco" speakers which he got from one of his sons. Both sons are disc jockeys at local bars, including their parents' favorite hangouts, Klondike Kate's and the East End Cafe. Bliss, who loves rock but also enjoys the facts together and have a great idea.

10. It's important to look back over your experience once you have completed it. What went well? Would you do it again? Where was there room for improvement? What did you learn about yourself and your community? It's a good idea to share your answers to these questions with an adult or friend, or to write them down in a journal, write a poem or essay, or create a song.

There are several resources in New Castle County if you are interested in volunteering or need help with a project. The Volunteer Link can refer you to local organizations based on your interests through the Delaware Office of Volunteerism at 800-815-5465. The New Castle County 4-H office can either refer you to a club or help you out with your community service ideas at 831-8965 or 4-h@udel.edu.

wind on the streets of Newark, riding around on the back of the couple's Harley Davidson '99 Dyna Wide Glide. And college students will recognize both of the Blisses as the bar patrons with the most wind beneath their dancing shoes.

But the pair were not always this happy-go-lucky.

In 1991, after 24 years of marriage and two children, Joan Bliss felt her relationship with her husband was getting old. "I felt like I had been 'the mom' for such a long time, it was time to start doing things for me again," she said.

"She came to me and said, 'I think we should start dating again, so I said, 'Oh, okay,'" Bliss recalled. "Then she said, 'I mean I think we should start dating each other. I said, 'Oh, great!'"

At least twice per week since the cal meals - a chicken usually when I called someone three times, that's it - I didn't try to call them again. But I called her the fourth time and that fourth time was a charm."

Bliss shrugged off the term as one of endearment. "At least they're not calling me 'Pop-Pop,'" he said.

"We find that the kids actually wait for us to get up and dance," continued Bliss, wearing a Harley Davidson t-shirt and holding a Deer Park t-shirt for later. "It will be nine o'clock and the music is playing but the dance floor is empty. Ten o'clock comes and the dance floor is empty. At eleven o'clock we finally say, 'I guess it's up to us,' and get up there, then all of the sudden, everyone else is up there dancing."

But, even the leader of the pack needs a little practice.

"Sometimes I come home and he'll be downstairs with the radio on, pracsistent with her because usually when I called someone three times, that's it - I didn't try to call them again. But I called her the fourth time and that fourth time was a charm."

Bliss said his wife has always lived up to her married name. "Two things that make a marriage last are understanding and laughing," Bill said. "Joan has the ability to laugh about things that normally make people grimace. She's been behind me 100 percent on everything."

And not just on his Harley. Joan Bliss stood by her husband's decision to go into the explosives business; now he is a contractor, in business for himself.

She was behind her husband in 1984 when he decided to build their Newark home. He designed the plans and built most of the house himself. But the pro-plans to get a lot of use out of the speakers while working on his next project - fixing up his motorcycle.

After that, who knows? He'll figure something out, for sure. And whatever it is, Joan Bliss will back him up. But on this particular night at Klondike Kate's, there was only one thing on the Bliss's minds.

It was almost 10 p.m. and their sons were getting ready to start spinning records. Joan Bliss was getting antsy. She was ready to dance.

Bliss finished up his chicken sandwich, settled the bill, and eyed the dance floor. Time to get to work.

He grabbed his wife and headed out onto the empty dance floor, their sons spinning discs and their fellow bar patrons looking for leadership. Sure enough, one by one, others followed.

Flu shots scheduled in area

The Center for Disease Control recommends that everyone age 50-or-older receive flu vaccine. The recommendation was lowered from age 65-and-older because one quarter or more of people between ages 50 and 64 have chronic medical conditions that could place them at higher risk of serious illness or death from influenza.

Due to a possible delay in supplies, the CDC recommends that for this season, emphasis be placed on those aged 50-64 with chronic medical conditions, in addition to all people age 65-and-up and persons of any age with a chronic medical condition.

People who are allergic to eggs or have an acute illness with fever should not receive the vaccine.

The public flu clinics are: Monday, Oct. 15, Weston Senior Center, 1 Bassett Avenue, New Castle, 9:30 - 11:30 a.m.; Tuesday, Oct. 16, MOT Senior Center, 300 S. Scott Street, Middletown, 9:30 a.m. - 12:00 p.m.; Wednesday, Oct. 17, Newark Senior Center, 200 White Chapel Drive, Newark, 9 a.m. - 1 p.m.; Thursday, Oct. 18, Happy Harry's University Plaza, Newark, 5 - 8 p.m.; Wednesday, Oct. 24, Happy Harry's Main Street, Newark, 5 - 8 p.m.; Thursday, Oct. 25, C & D Senior Center at Liberty

POST GAME

A nice gesture by St. Mark's

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

St. Mark's High and its soccer team made a wonderful gesture before its game with Holy Cross (of New York City) Saturday afternoon.

The Spartans raised $1,000 in donations from students and in a pre-game ceremony presented a check for that amount to Holy Cross coach.

Eleven Holy Cross alumni are still listed as missing from the Sept. 11 attacks on the World Trade Center.

Some worked in the office building and some were part of the rescue effort.

In a time when many people have already given something to the relief efforts, it was nice to see the St. Mark's community dig a little deeper for Holy Cross.

Christiana girls win Christina Cup cross country

By JOE BACKER

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Christiana High's girls cross-country team placed seven of the top 15 runners to win the annual Christiana Cup cross country meet held Monday afternoon at Carpenter State Park.

Enya Spencer of Newark was the overall girls' winner, while Christiana's Amberlee Wheeler finished second. Christiana won with 29 points, Newark finished second with 31, and Glasgow recorded 81 points on the day.

The event is held each year involving the Christina School District's three high schools, Christiana, Glasgow and Newark.

Christiana's boys didn't fare as well, but finished a strong second. Newark boys garnered the first place trophy with 15 points, by having the top five finishers.

The Vikings finished second with 48 points, and had three medalists, Chris Supon, (6th place); Dustin Gordon, (10th place); and Cedric Willis, (15th place).

Glasgow's boys finished third with 80 points.

Viking's first year coach Kevin Conley said his girls really gave it their all.

"I'm very proud of my team, they showed a lot of character. I told them beforehand to leave it all out on the course, and they certainly did run their best," he said. This was the first time a team other than Newark has won in a dozen years.

The Viking's Stephanie Watrus finished third overall in the girls division and set a new school freshman record. Conley said Wheeler's time also set a new school record for runners.

"This team really amazes me now, and they will only get better since I only have one senior, (Wheeler), two sophomores and five freshman," he said.

The girls meet came down to a matter of a split second. Christiana was able to pull out the victory on the strength of their seventh, eighth and ninth place runners finishing just ahead of several Newark runners.

Newark dominates Brandywine

Jackets jump to big lead

By JOE BACKER

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Newark gridgers had too much running, passing, blocking, defense and special teams for Brandywine High to handle during last Saturday morning's 50-6 victory in a Blue Hen Conference Flight A contest.

Newark's thunder and lightning offense proved to be as ominous for Brandywine as the lousy weather. The first half was played under cold, rainy and windy conditions, with occasional heavy showers.

The 4-0 'Jackets got on the scoreboard on their second possession of the game.

After a short drive, quarterback Erec Spiese found John last time in school history. Northeastern, by the way, followed its big win over the Blue Hens with a loss to mighty Harvard last week.

UD, on the other hand, came back with a vengeance, knocking off a good New Hampshire team 49-36.

After the Northeastern loss, it was hard to imagine this team being capable of scoring 49 points against anybody. The players and the coaching staff did a wonderful job of getting attitudes turned around.

The key now is to see if Delaware can keep it up. Many thought the Hens were on the right track after their big 35-7 win over UMass. But then came the Northeastern debacle.

The Hens will face a stiff test Saturday at Delaware Stadium as nationally ranked Hofstra comes to Newark.

Butter & Butch

Former Newark High stars Butter Pressey and Butch Patrick are having reasonable senior seasons for the Blue Hens.

Pressey, hampered by injuries early in the year, has 170 yards and two touchdowns on 23 carries. Like in earlier seasons, he has a terrific yards-per-carry average of 7.4. Pressey also has caught four passes for 95 yards and two touchdowns, including one of 51 yards.

Patrick has run the ball 23 times for 137 yards — a 6.0 yards-per-carry average. He also has scored a touchdown.

MacElroy has fine senior season

Former Caravel Academy player Dan MacElroy is enjoying a fine senior season for Army.

The punter has a 40.1 yards per punt average on 21 punts through the Black Knights first four games of the season. MacElroy's best game came Sept. 8 in a 24-21 loss to Cincinnati. He averaged 44.1 yards a punt on seven kicks. This included his career best 70-yarder.

Army beat Houston 28-14 last week for its first win of the season.

Glasgow trounces A.I. 56-0

By JOE BACKER

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

It was the kind of game coaches and teams either dream about playing, or have scary nightmares about, and hope to avoid at all cost. Friday night's Blue Hen Conference match-up between Glasgow and A.I. DuPont was a "dream come true" for the Dragons, and a "night to forget" for the Tigers. The final score, 56-0 in favor of Glasgow, tells most of the story line of this contest.

Senior halfback Antoine Haskins set the tone early for Glasgow, scoring the first two touchdowns of the game on runs of 42 and 10 yards. Throw in his two-point conversion, and Glasgow quickly had a 14-0 lead.

Later in the first quarter, junior halfback Brandon Bazemore blasted through the Tiger defense on a 36-yard run to build the lead to 21-0. Meanwhile, A.I. DuPont struggled to mount any type of offensive consistency against the rugged and improving Dragon defense.

Glasgow coach Mark DelPercio said everything went right in this game.

"We were very consistent in that first quarter tonight, but I was honestly surprised at how well we moved the ball on them," he said.

With DelPercio beginning to make substitutions, the Dragons tallied three more times before halftime. Quarterback Shawn Lane had an impressive second quarter, hooking up with Craig Richardson on a 40 yard pass play, and then scoring himself on a two-yard plunge. Fullback Van Shorts, who also boots the extra points, scored from four yards out to build the halftime lead to 42-0.

There was less action in the abbreviated second half, since the remainder of the game was played with a moving clock due to the huge Dragon lead. But, the crowd was brought to its feet when Patryck Depa ran back the second kickoff 87 yards for another Glasgow score.

Reserve running back Barry Worthy finished the scoring later in the third quarter.

10-yard touchdown pass. Moments later, Drew Kisner powered his way through the Bulldog defense for a 68-yard score and a 12-0 lead with six minutes left in the first quarter.

With Brandywine mounting its first drive of the day on the next possession, Newark forced a fumble, allowing Kevin Wiggins to rumble into the end zone from about 15 yards out. The game was essentially put out of reach with less than a minute left in the first quarter when Spiese hit Austin Kisner on a 19-yard pass play. Spiese's second touchdown of the quarter brought the score to 24-0.

Newark coach Butch Simpson said his troops played very well despite the conditions, against a spirited opponent.

"Brandywine has a young team, so I think they'll show good improvement over time," he said.

Newark put up three more scores before the half on runs by Austin Kisner, Andrew Ficarra and Sam Cotton. The team's tandem of female place-kickers, Brianna Filigeri and Jen Baird each booted through an extra point to bring the halftime score to 44-0.

Brandywine coach Julius Flynn said the first half was a learning experience for his team. "We have a lot of freshman and sophomores on the roster, so now

St. Mark's soccer tops Holy Cross

By JOE BACKER

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The St. Mark's soccer team avenged last season's only loss in an a nearly perfect year by downing Holy Cross (NY), 2-0 Saturday afternoon at home.

The Spartans' only defeat one year ago came at the hands of the Queens, New York school, in a 1-0 double-overtime thriller played last October at the University of Delaware's campus in Newark.

This year's game was different from the outset, compared to last season's defensive struggle. The Spartan's took command early, and never relinquished control throughout the contest. High scoring Ryan Edwards rammed home the first goal at the three-minute mark of the first half on a well-designed play. Edwards delivered his eighth goal in the last four games after receiving a pinpoint pass from Jeffrey Mangat.

St. Mark's coach Tom DeMatteis said this was definitely the Spartan's best game of the year, so far.

"It was good to get the early goal, and then we just played very well all over the field this time," he said.

The Spartan's kept up the offensive pressure, and kept Holy Cross off balance throughout the first half. St. Mark's doubled the lead at 33:15, when Matt DelleCave found the range on a pass from Greg DiDiego. DelleCave's first goal of the season gave the Spartan's a 2-0 half-time lead. Holy Cross managed only one shot in the first 45 minutes of play.

DeMatteis said the second goal was his team's best play of the season.

"The play started deep in our defense zone, but the team worked the ball extremely well down field, and some excellent passing led to the goal," said DeMatteis.

Neither team was able to score they've had a chance to play against a very, very good team," he said.

After a scoreless third quarter, and with the sun finally peaking through the clouds, Brandywine got its only score of the game on a spectacular run by senior running back

Lamar Putney. The six-foot, 190 lb. Putney broke through the line of scrimmage at the 12-yard line, veered to his left, then raced 88 yards down the sideline for the touchdown. After a two-point conversion pass failed, the Bulldogs trailed 44-6.

But that's all Brandywine would get the rest of the day.

With the game clock running, and less than two minutes left, Cotton scored his second touchdown of the day on a two yard run. Newark's final short drive was set up by an onside kick that misfired.

Delaware gets big win over UNH

The University of Delaware offense returned with an explosion Saturday, rolling up 480 yards in a 49-36 win over New Hampshire in Atlantic-10, football action.

The offensive outburst came one week after Delaware was held to an all-time low 56 yards in a 20-7 loss at Northeastern. Sam Postlethwait was 8 of 13

Shawn MacLean connected on three of those attempts.

The Blue Hens were led by Darrell Edmonds' 17 tackles. Sidney Haugabrook, who had intercepted four passes in the previous two games, added 15 tackles.

scoring effort was thwarted when sweeper Jared Hugart made a rare offensive rush. After faking keeper Greg Sheehan out of position, Hugart tipped the ball towards the net, but defenseman Markus Fredoni made a great diving kick save.

St. Mark's dominance was reflected in the shots category. The Spartans fired 16 shots at Sheehan, while the Crusaders were credited with only one shot all game.

Holy Cross coach Paul Gilvary said this was another good game between two excellent teams, "We expected another tough game, but they were all over us this time," he said.

The Spartans are now 7-2 on the season, while Holy Cross, the two-time defending New York state Catholic league champion falls to 9-2.

Prior to the game, St. Mark's presented a check for $1,000 to Gilvary.

U of D Football - vs Hofstra 10/13

Blue Hens hope to continue momentum

No. 9 Hofstra will provide tough test

What a difference a week makes.

On the brink of seeing its season go down the drain last week, the University of Delaware football team (2-3 overall, 2-2 A-10) now looks ahead to Saturday's game against No. 12 Hofstra with a great deal of optimism.

That optimism stems from a 49-36 victory over New Hampshire – a dramatic improvement from the futile effort at Northeastern.

"If you came from where we came as a team to win a game," said Delaware coach Tubby Raymond, who is now just two wins shy of the 300 career-win mark. "They you'd be giddy too."

The Pride presents an even bigger challenge for the Hens. Along with its national ranking, Hofstra brings a 4-1 regular season and conference record to Delaware Stadium. Only league-leader Rhode Island (36-25) has beaten the Pride.

As has been the case over the years, Hofstra will bring a strong offense into Saturday's contest. The Pride – in its first year in the Atlantic-10 – enters the game leading the conference in scoring at 38.4 points per game and are also first in passing offense (330.8 yards per game).

"From here on out, it's basketball on grass," Raymond said of the up-tempo offenses his team will face the rest of the season. "It gives you a lot of problems. We'll have a fit in here on Saturday with Hofstra. They have a very fine quarterback who's setting records all over the place."

The record-setting quarterback is Rocky Butler. He has thrown for 1,654 yards and 17 touchdowns in his five games.

In addition to Butler, Hofstra has two fine receivers in Kahmal Roy and Charlie Adams. Roy has 39 catches for 703 yards and 10 touchdowns while Adams has 30 catches for 642 yards and seven touchdowns.

"Their offense has been high octane," Raymond said. "They run the same plays and are very similar to the New Hampshire offense."

Defensively, Hofstra ranks in the lower middle of the league, providing hope for a Delaware offense that looked re-energized against New Hampshire.

"We came together," Raymond said of the effort against UNH. "We realized that if we didn't adopt a new profile, we might not win another game."

"Each guy has to realize what he can do for the team and do it to the best of his ability."

Quarterback Sam Postlethwait had his best game as a starter, completing 8-of-13 passes for 253 yards and three touchdowns. All three scoring passes were long (30, 51 yards and 83 yards).

"Sam justified our faith in him," said Raymond. "He played like an old-fashioned Wing-T quarterback. It's like in baseball. When you look for the home run, they're hard to come by. If you do what's right, the long ball will take care of itself."

Hofstra coach Joe Gardi also noted the improvement.

"The biggest difference I see is that the quarterback is growing up," Gardi said. "He's more into his groove and he's running the offense well." The UD offense churned out a season-high 480 yards last week.

Raymond credited the offensive line for its effort.

"They did a very good job," the coach said. "They're the same people as Northeastern. They stayed low, blocked hard and had no missed assignments. Everybody went after it."

Gardi is also worried about the Delaware defense – especially its line that dominated its offense in last year's 44-14 Blue Hen win on Long Island.

"The Delaware defense is as good as ever," Gardi said. "There's no change there. Our biggest test will be for our offensive line. Last year we didn't do a good job. They dominated us."

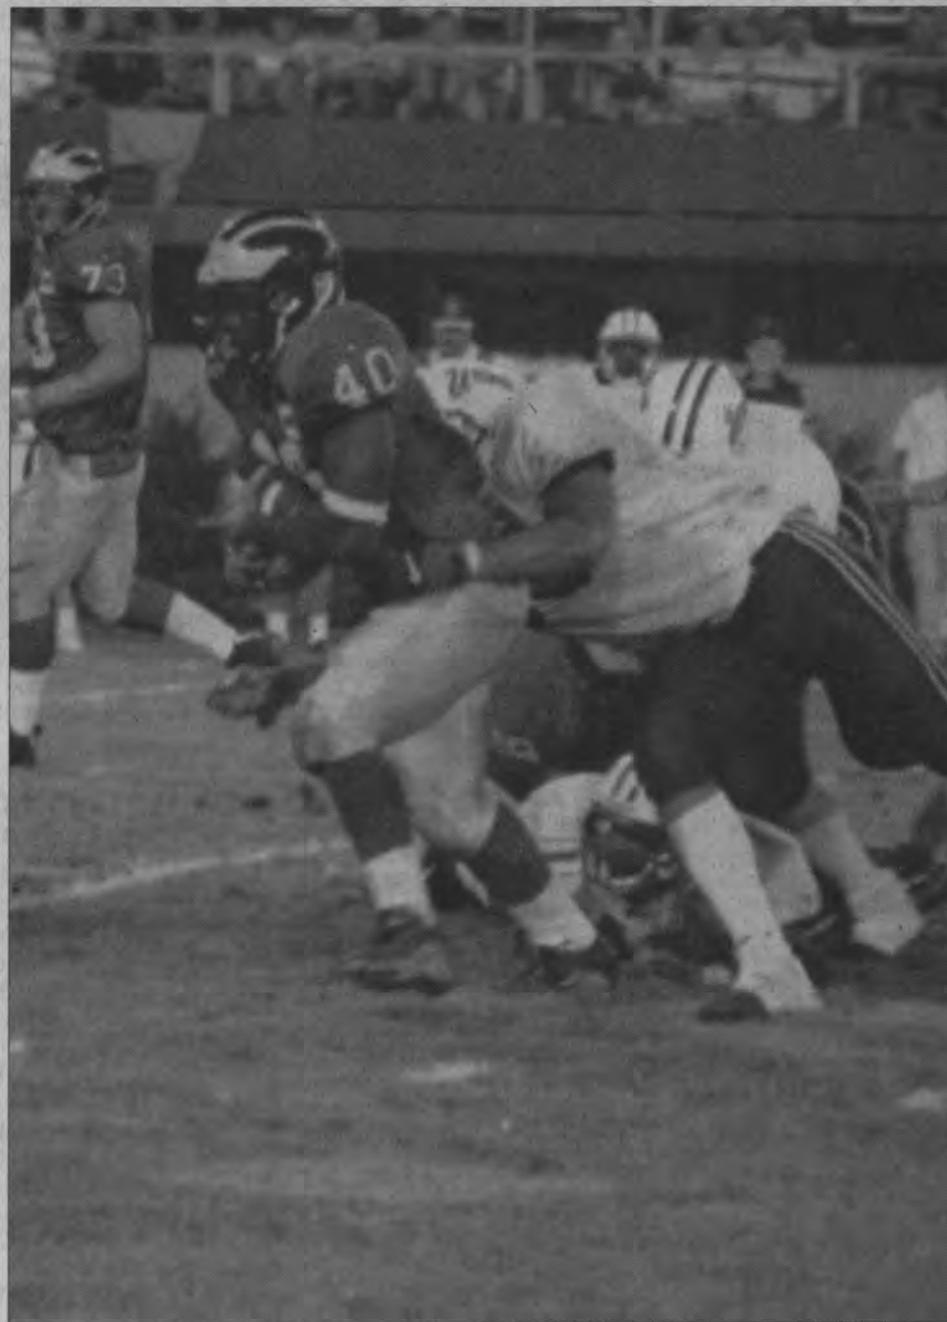

"They're a great defense, they play hard, physical and they hurt you."

Title a long shot

If the Hens want to have any shot at winning a share of the conference title, they must beat Hofstra – and, for that matter, everybody else on the schedule.

Rhode Island and Villanova are both 3-0 in league play while Hofstra, Maine and William & Mary all have just one loss. Delaware still faces William & Mary and Villanova. Maine still has to face William & Mary, Villanova and Rhode Island.

Rhode Island still has to travel to Richmond and will play New Hampshire and Maine at home.
