New design for Route 273 skirts wetlands

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Drivers will be able to avoid the Avon Underpass, in a few years, because new Route 273 plans include an overpass to be built over the Amtrak railroad tracks.

And plans to have one-way, eastbound traffic through the Avon Underpass.

Preliminary construction work on the new Route 273 will begin this fall, according to Delaware Department of Transportation (DelDOT) officials.

The project was started about seven years ago, but construction of the road was halted by federal Wetlands regulations.

DelDOT officials have redrawn plans, which were unveiled to the public Feb. 16 at Kirk Middle School.

"This project is the same concept as when it was first written," said Joseph Satterfield, DelDOT Project Engineer. "But now it's moved over to avoid the wetlands."

Satterfield estimates the construction, costing from $20 to $25 million, will take about two years to complete.

"We hope to advertise for bids (for contractors) this summer and have some of the utility work, which needs to be relocated, done in the fall," Satterfield said.

"Very little of the (construction) activity will interfere with traffic because it's off the traffic-pattern," he said.

The new Route 273 will be two lanes in each direction.

Traveling towards the City of Newark, the road will begin on the existing Route 273 at Brownleaf Road, it will continue to Del. 4 curving left and go over the existing 273/Ogletown Overpass. Currently, the overpass crosses over Del. 4 near MBNA and ends on both sides into trees.

The new road will then curve to the right near Ogletown Baptist Church, go over the railroad tracks and tie into existing route 273 near the Avon Corp.

"The new road will let truck traffic, that can't go under the Avon underpass, (for height reasons) to get to Interstate 95 quicker," said Tony Frascarella, of Century Engineering—the designers of the project.

University soon to begin parking garage

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Construction of a parking garage on Main Street is just around the corner.

When University of Delaware students go home this summer, construction crews will move in to start building the garage for the University's new student center.

John Brennan, public relations director at the University, said they hope to start construction of the garage in early June.

The four-story garage will replace the existing parking lot adjacent to the university-owned dining hall called the "Abbey." David Hollowell, senior vice president of the university, said students and residents who currently park in the lot will have to find alternatives.

"It will be inconvenient for folks for a while," Hollowell said. "Some students might have to park at the field house."

Hollowell hopes the garage will be finished by March of 1995. The garage will have two exits, one onto Main Street that cash paying and permit holding drivers can exit from, and one onto Delaware Avenue that only permit holders can use.

A one-way connector road will be paved from Main Street to Delaware Avenue and the student center will be built on one side and the garage on the other. Construction of the student center should begin in September.

Hollowell said The "Abbey" will be incorporated into the facade of the new student center, but the "Grille," located in the rear of the same building will be closed during construction and demolished when the student center is built.

It's official: last day of school set for June 15

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

With no more snow days, the last day of school for students in the Christina School District will be Wednesday, June 15.

The Christina School Board approved the new school calendar at their meeting Tuesday night after teacher Sue Mason, representing teachers in the Christina Education Association (teachers' union at the district level), denounced the last minute decision to hold school during Feb. 16-18 in-service days.

"The district is facing a monumental crisis in faith and moral," said Mason. She said the district should have asked the association for their position about the snow make-up days.

"This change in the calendar was made in a short time," said Mason. "Some teachers with small children had to find daycare and others had to cancel doctor's appointments."

She said many teachers only found out about the changes when handing out notes to students saying school would be held or when they heard announcements of the change over school intercom systems.

Flower power, 90s style

Harry Rash's creativity beats the winter blues

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Many Newarkers have spent a lot of time at home lately thanks to the snow and ice, but one Newarker decided his cabinets could benefit from his cabin fever.

Harry Rash, a 27-year resident of Newark, decided flowers might brighten his kitchen, so he cut out pictures from a gardening catalog and decorated his kitchen cabinets and refrigerator. He placed artificial roses above the cabinets and sink to finish the look.

Don't be fooled though, Rash doesn't just subscribe to gardening magazines—he is actually an accomplished gardener.

A couple of years ago Rash grew a three-pound tomato, the largest in Newark, in his backyard on East Delaware Avenue.

Rash's secret is fish. In the spring, he gets some fish from Pathmark and buries them in a mound of dirt to make fertilizer for his crop. He grows string beans, peppers, strawberries and oyster plants in addition to prize-winning tomatoes.

He plants his vegetables in buckets. That way, he can just put the buckets away when he is done for the summer.

He said he grew string beans that were 27 inches long last year.

"All you had to do was stand on my back porch and pick a mess of beans," Rash said. "Three or four would do you."

Rash worked for the University of Delaware for 23 years as the head maintenance engineer and retired in 1974. His wife of 47 years, Zella, died about five years ago.

Rash said he met his wife, who is originally from the Beckley, W. Va. area, when she was working at a munitions plant in Elkton, Md. during World War II. She was staying in a boarding house in Newark and Rash met her on the street when she was waiting for a bus.

Rash, 82, was born in raised in Leipsic. Things were different then, but not necessarily better. He said the mosquitoes were so bad when he was younger that "you could take a pint cup, hold it out the door and catch a quart of them."

He and his sister Mary Collins, 70, of Smyrna, are the only two surviving of 13 children. His parents were John Edward and Clara B. Rash.

Rash and his wife didn't have children. "You couldn't get them from Sears Roebuck," he said.

One of Rash's favorite hangouts is

There were no injuries related this train-car collision on Main Street in Newark last week.

Driver makes a wrong turn into train's path

By TONJA CASTANEDA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

A CSX train traveling northbound hit a car stuck on the railroad tracks at about 7:30 p.m. on Feb. 17. Two people had evacuated the car about 10 minutes earlier.

No one was injured. CSX trains observe a 40 mile per hour speed limit through the train crossing.

Newark police report the driver of the car was traveling west bound on Main Street and turned left onto the railroad tracks, thinking there was a connecting road to Elkton Road.

Newark police unsuccessfully attempted to radio a message to the train conductor about the car on the tracks.

After the train hit the car, it continued several hundred feet and then threw the Buick Roadmaster about 60 feet off the tracks. The car landed near the Deer Park Restaurant.

Police said no charges were filed in the incident.

"I like to tease my sister about the girl at the diner," Rash said. Shirley Clark, a waitress at the restaurant will frequently take a break when Rash is there and sit and talk to him.

Rash's lunch dates will continue because he just renewed his driver's license Tuesday.

"I was tickled to get it," Rash said. "I'm 82-years-old and I never had a minute's trouble."

The license won't expire until 11/8/93. He said, "I've got to make the year 2000."

Just ask any of the loyal Jake's patrons who pay a visit several times a week, and who voted the burgerhouse into the Delaware Today, Wilmington News Journal, and the University of Delaware Review 1993 Reader's Polls. "The people at Jake's are friendly, they know us, and the burgers are so tasty and reasonable, why cook at home?" remarks one of the customers. Landmark Glasgow Arms Restaurant consumed by pancakes, syrup

Newly-named establishment promotes a different sort of dining experience

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

If you and your date can't agree on what restaurant to go to—the Pancake House and Glasgow Arms Restaurant, formerly the Glasgow Arms Restaurant, has the answer—with two eating establishments under one roof.

The pancake house opened yesterday and the pub room will open the week of March 14.

"The biggest misconception is that the pancake house will only be open for breakfast," said Marc Koutoufaris, general manager of operations. "That's not true, it will be open for breakfast, lunch and dinner."

Koutoufaris also operates the Blue Coat Inn and Blue Coat Pancake House in Dover. His father, John, owns the businesses.

He said because the new pancake house has a liquor license and the pancake house in Dover does not, they cannot have the same name.

Koutoufaris hopes in the future the pancake house in Glasgow can take on the Blue Coat name. He said the name will always have Glasgow included in it.

He said the change is taking place because although the Glasgow Arms Restaurant was very well received, the frequency of the occasion did not present itself for people to go there. He said most people only ate at the restaurant for a special occasion or once a month.

"It comes down to an economic issue," said Koutoufaris. "How long can a fine-dining restaurant survive in this market?"

He hopes the change will increase the volume of people eating at the restaurants.

The pancake house will be a family-style restaurant serving breakfast items such as omelets, pancakes and waffles, sandwiches and salads for lunch and seafood, chicken and steak for dinner.

He said breakfast and lunch will be served all day and dinner will be available at 11 a.m.

He said changes in the interior include adding a 15-seat breakfast counter and eventually a pie and cake case to sell fresh baked goods whole or by the slice.

"We'll be taking down a lot of the current decorations and putting them in the pub room," said Koutoufaris. "We're replacing them with country-lifestyle farm artifacts and animal pictures."

He said the rooms named at the Glasgow Arms will be replaced with nicknames in keeping with the concept such as the "chicken room."

Also, the neon sign outside the restaurant is being replaced with a new one. "It's broken and expensive to fix and parts are hard to find," he said.

"The prices (at the new restaurants) are much more affordable," said Koutoufaris. At the pancake house breakfast ranges from $2.50 to $5.95, lunch is $3.50 to $6.50 and dinner is $5.95 to $10.95.

The Glasgow Pub Room will have booths and an entirely different menu which will serve lunch beginning at 11:30 a.m. and dinner.

NEWARK POST STAFF PHOTO BY TONJA CASTANEDA

Marc Koutoufaris, operations manager of The Pancake House and Glasgow Pub Room, stands near the Glasgow Arms Restaurant sign that has been up since 1938. Koutoufaris said the neon sign will be taken down because repairs are too expensive.

It will offer deli sandwiches and a large selection of steaks.

"The pub room will be more of a local gathering area," he said. "A place to get good food and good conversation."

"We are offering two separate concepts under the same roof," said Koutoufaris.

He said both restaurants will stress quality food and quick service.

He said the staff has mostly stayed on for the change, but more people are being hired to work the morning hours.

"I want the restaurants to be a center point of the community in the local area," said Koutoufaris. "But also a place to go where you're not going for broke or you don't have to save up to go to."

The Pancake House will be open from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

The pub room opens from 11:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. on weekdays and 11:30 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays.

Locals, movie stars and politicians have all pulled in for a good meal

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

An era has ended.

The Glasgow Arms Restaurant, serving the area for over 50 years, ceased to exist Feb. 20.

Two restaurants will take its place.

It was known as the place to go for fine-dining in the 1950s. Movie stars such as Bette Davis, Joan Fontaine and Robert Mitchum as well as politicians and supreme court justices frequented the establishment in the 1940s and 50s.

Gus Slavos opened the restaurant in 1937 on Thanksgiving Day and took in $5 on the first day of business.

"He thought it would be a good location because the future would be on the highway (U.S. 40)," said John Slavos, Gus's son.

"At first we had a very limited menu," said Slavos. "It was just an experiment put on the highway with just one room."

He said in later years, the restaurant was expanded and that first room was used as a lobby.

The restaurant also varied its menu and served lambchops, steaks, roast turkey, fried chicken and seafood.

Two months after World War II, Glasgow Arms Restaurant was closed due to the rationing of gas and tires. "The only car you saw on the highway was an occasional army truck and most people were in the service," said Slavos.

He said his father applied for more gas to drive from his home in Elkton to the restaurant in Glasgow, but was turned down.

The restaurant reopened over three years later in October 1945.

And that's when the restaurant's golden years began.

"They had a saying in the 1950s,

"For the finest place to dine, go to Hotel Dupont. For the finest food, go to the Glasgow Arms," said Slavos.

He said although the restaurant drew customers from as far as Baltimore and Philadelphia, it was local residents who kept them in business.

"When Interstate 95 was built, we only dropped about 10 percent of business because 80 percent of our business was local people," he said.

"We knew people by name who would come from hundreds of miles away to stop by once or twice a year," said Slavos. "We looked forward to seeing them and shaking hands."

"Customers for 30 and 40 years were the rule rather than the exception," he said.

The restaurant was bought by Gus's daughter in the 1970s and John Slavos in 1987. He sold it in 1988 to John Koutoufaris.

Although the closing of the restaurant does not bother Slavos, it saddens those who see it as a landmark.

Woody Stiltner has been eating at the Glasgow Arms Restaurant for 10 years. "It was one of our favorite spots," he said, about him and his wife.

Stiltner said the restaurant's staff made them feel special. "We'll try the new restaurant," he said. "But it just won't be the same."

"I thought it was quite a trademark for the southern end of New Castle County," said Bill Gantz, who has been eating at the restaurant since 1953.

"It was excellent service and quality of food," said Gantz.

He said during the 1950s and 60s to get a 7 p.m. dinner reservation for Saturday, you had to call at least by Wednesday or you didn't get in.

Route 273 plans resume

► ROAD from 1A

Trucks currently have to go down Marrows Road to Del. 4 and then to Route 273 to the highway.

The new route will tie into Del. 4, existing Route 273, Bala Road and at two intersections at Red Mill Road.

This new road will give drivers a straight throughway when traveling Route 273. Currently, Route 273 traffic has to get on Del. 4 to continue onto Route 273.

Two houses are in the construction path. DelDOT has already purchased one house near MBNA America and is currently negotiating for the other house, located near the Amtrak Railroad tracks.

Teachers' union protests make-up days

► SCHOOL, from 1A

"This association needs a commitment by the board that this will not happen again," said Mason.

Superintendent Iris Metts said she does value a good working relationship with the association. She said she did write letters to parents and teachers about the change but some people apparently did not receive the letter.

She said she did respect the association's plea not to use spring break to make up snow days and said it will not be a consideration to make up missed days in the future.

"I received a fax from the Department of Public Instruction two hours before I had to make a decision," said Metts. "Without a quick turnaround time and a public announcement, we wouldn't have been able to hold school."

"We felt in order to make up those days we had to open school quickly," she said. "There wasn't a good decision."

She said if school was not held on Wednesday the students would have been off and then brought to school on Thursday and Friday.

She said the choices were to have school on those days or add them to the end of the school year.

"Maybe in the heat of the summer and in the lateness of the year, people will look at it as a better decision than they do now," said Metts.

Students in the Christina School District have used nine snow days the past two months.

Gov. Thomas Carper forgave three of the snow days—Jan. 20-21 because of energy problems and Feb. 11 due to a state of emergency.

Needing to make up six days, the district acted quickly when the Department of Public Instruction gave them a choice to use staff development days on Feb. 16-18.

The remaining snow days will be tacked on to the end of the school year for June 13-15. Most likely any other missed days will also be added to the last day of school.

Metts made the right decision

Iris Metts, Christina School District superintendent, had to make a tough decision last week that didn't rest well with some teachers. We, however, commend her for looking at the big picture and basing her decision on what is best for the children involved.

Specifically, Dr. Metts decided to scrap three scheduled teacher in-service days on Feb. 16, 17 and 18 and instead use the days for students to make up time lost because of recent snow closings.

As a result of her decision, Dr. Metts was challenged by teachers and some parents attending Tuesday's board of education meeting, who complained that they had already made plans for those days.

It is unfortunate if the change has caused some inconvenience, but if it hadn't been made, there would have been a lot more to complain about.

For one thing, it would have meant students would face almost another week in the summer heat — in unairconditioned classrooms. For another thing, it would have meant plans for summer camp and other activities would possibly be threatened, along with family vacation schedules.

When you're dealing with thousands of families, such a late school year would have surely been a major inconvenience.

SOME MORE THOUGHTS

He probably didn't say 'Jingle Bells'

By SCOTT LAWRENCE
EDITOR

The horses, hitched to brightly painted sleighs, waited anxiously to run.

Steam rose from their bodies as they stood in the chill winter air, their restless movements causing harness bells to ring.

It was late February, 1880-something, and the season's last big snowfall covered Newark with a glistening white blanket.

Snow was welcomed by many of the townspeople because it meant they could once again enjoy sleigh racing, a favorite 19th century winter pastime in these parts.

The races, which were held in town as all-day events, drew an abundance of participants waiting for the chance to show off their best horses and rigs.

I stumbled across an account of such races in a long-defunct Delaware newspaper. The story read: "On Sunday last, the finest of the animals were seen to good advantage, as they were attached to handsome Portland cutters and went dashing over the snow, through the town and out into the country."

Both children and adults drove the horses down a powdery course that extended along Main Street.

The object was to finish ahead of the half dozen or so other sleighs that all left the start line together.

This would seem to be a fairly simple accomplishment as long as you had the best weight distribution and fastest horse.

More skill was usually needed, however, because the driver had to contend with steering a vehicle set on runners that made it hard to turn and easy to tip.

He also had to contend with icy patches that could cause his horse to lose footing, tumble, and upset the sleigh.

It would be fascinating to know, when such a situation occurred, what may have come out of the driver's mouth.

I think it's safe to assume it wasn't a rousing rendition of "Jingle Bells."

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

City staff deserves recognition for keeping our streets open

Editor:

I would like to express my thanks to the City Manager, his staff and employees for a job well done the past six weeks in keeping the streets of Newark open.

These have been very difficult times, one ice storm after another, piling snow and ice to levels very hard to control.

Nothing is perfect. Some of us, after much effort cleaning sidewalks and driveways, had them covered again by snow removal equipment. This is a small problem compared to other areas of our state. I don't know of any extended power outages in Newark during this period. Even our trash collections were on time.

Of those of you who complain, how many would take the place of the crews working long hours trying to make Newark streets a safe place for us to travel?

Let all of us thank the City employees for an outstanding effort. Thank you!

IN MY OPINION

When it snows, milk always flows

By DAVID HEALEY
NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

I never bother to watch the weather forecasts on TV anymore. If I want to find out if it's going to snow, I just head down to the supermarket and see if there's any bread and milk left.

I can even predict how much snow we're going to get using a formula similar to the wind chill factor. I call my method the Wonder Bread factor.

If the shelves are mostly full, I know the weatherman is calling for a dusting. Or maybe snow changing to rain.

When the white bread is all gone, along with all the gallon jugs of milk, figure on 2 to 4 inches.

If all you can find are little pints of milk in cardboard cartons and the whole wheat bread is cleaned out, look for 6 inches of the white stuff.

When even the tiny containers of chocolate milk can't be found, and there aren't any hotdog buns, look out. We're in for a blizzard.

After the latest forecast for snow, I stopped by the supermarket to pick up a six-pack of rot beer and some chips. I could barely find a parking spot. People were scurrying toward the store, glancing anxiously at the gray sky. I caught one old man on the elbow as he hurried past.

"What's going on?" I asked, figuring the Russians weren't kidding about their new threat to invade Alaska.

"Didn't you hear?" he said, ripping his arm away. He was wild-eyed with panic. "We're supposed to get 3 inches of snow tonight with freezing rain by morning!"

"So?"

"My God, man, it's going to

snow!" he shouted. "I need bread! I need milk!"

"Wait a minute," I said. "When was the last time someone starved to death during a snowstorm?"

"There was that couple last winter in the car with the baby and they had to make stew out of the floor mats."

"That was in the Sierra Nevadas," I said. "Only an idiot would drive through the wilderness during a blizzard. Besides, they must have made a fortune off the TV miniseries. I'm talking New Jersey Turnpike. Did you ever hear about someone getting stranded and starving to death on their way to Atlantic City?"

"Ice . . ." he stammered, flecks of foam forming at the corners of his mouth. "Snow . . . hunger."

I do remember one time when it snowed pretty heavily on a Friday evening. I left my car on the snowy street in front of my house and walked to the pizza place up the road.

Unfortunately, it had closed early because of the weather.

So I went home and had a peanut butter sandwich instead of a pepperoni pizza with black olives and mushrooms, which is what I really wanted.

Denied by the snow, yes. Starved by the snow, no.

Personally, the last thing I'd want to be forced to eat if I were snowed in would be bread and milk. I hate milk. It squirts out of cows.

I could see running out to the supermarket for microwave popcorn, chips, a frozen pepperoni pizza or two, maybe even a tube of that cookie dough you just cut up and stick in the oven, these are the sort of things I crave when I know I can't get them. Not cow juice and Wonder Bread.

I was still puzzling over this lemming like rush to buy food that will never be used by the expiration date anyway when I noticed a familiar face in a nearby Mercedes.

Sitting in the expensive car was none other than Sonny Cloud, the famous weatherman from Channel 15, "Your Winter Storm Headquarters."

"Hi, Sonny," I said. "Here to make sure you've got plenty of bread and milk for the snowstorm?"

He laughed. "Not me. I stock up on Ho-Ho's and Twinkies, myself. I just like to stop by and watch all the people making me even richer."

"What are you talking about?"

"You think I bought this car on a weatherman's salary? No way. I own a dairy farm and a bakery. When sales get a little low, I just announce in those news flashes between commercials, 'More winter weather on the way, folks! Better stock up on bread and milk. Details at 11.'"

"Is that honest?"

"I don't know about honest, but it sure is profitable. I used to own one of those quick oil-change franchises. But 'Brr. Snow's on the way. Better get your oil changed,' didn't do much for business."

I left Sonny Cloud to gloat as milk flowed from the supermarket doors.

Then I went inside to buy my root beer, some chips, and a jar of salsa.

Boys and Girls Must Be Properly Fed

The warm school lunch is not a lunch served during the morning and afternoon sessions of school, as is sometimes imagined. Neither is it a course in domestic science. It is more warm dishes served with the noon meal to supplement the cold lunch brought from home. We are familiar with the car which farmers exercise in preparing and balancing rations of their stock. It is not unusual for them to have heaters installed to warm the water which their cows drink in cold weather; they realize that under these conditions the cows will produce more butterfat. Heaters are also employed in winter for cooking hog feed. And yet some of these same thrifty people will let their children walk two or three miles in cold and snow to school, eat a cold lunch at noon, and make the cold return trip home before supper. We are slow to realize that our boys and girls must be well and properly fed in order that as men and women they may give efficient service.—Farm Journal.

Show Value of Milk in Children's Diet

No more convincing proof of the value of milk in the diet of children can probably be found than in the results of experiments conducted for several months by the home demonstration agent in Manatee County, Fla. She has weighed and measured over 2,000 children, and has found that those weighing and measuring up to the standard, or a little above, are almost without exception receiving a great deal of milk. The children much under the standard have been receiving little or no milk. Carrying the experiment further underweight children began almost immediately to show gains when milk was added to their diet. With such evidence as to the value of milk it is not surprising that Manatee County has more dairy cows now than a year ago, and the number is rapidly increasing.

The elimination of the Newark Board of Adjustment as the zoning authority a change in the role of the city planning commission and recommendations for downtown Newark were three aspects of a report presented to the Newark City Council Monday night by an ad-hoc committee that reviewed the proposed new zoning ordinance.

The zoning ordinance studied will replace the 1949 version now serving the city of adopted. The committee suggested that for the most part it be adopted.

MY FAVORITE PET CONTEST

This week is dedicated to Fluffy, Spot, Miss Kitty and all their other domesticated friends in the animal kingdom who are contestants in the Newark Post's second-annual pet photo contest.

After much deliberation, our amateur panel of judges has selected winners in five categories. It wasn't easy, and the judges apologize up front if their selections have caused any fur to fly, so to speak.

As many photos as possible have been published. If your's is missing, chances are it was because it was too blurry or too dark to reproduce well.

'Loud party car' offers a different sort of cruise

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Newark Police Officer Curt Davis steps on the accelerator and gets the police cruiser moving in the direction of the call just relayed over the radio.

It's a Friday night and I'm about to find out what happens on an average weekend night in Newark.

We are the "loud party car" for the night and Davis' primary job this night is to respond to complaints of rowdy parties.

The first call we go to is a party. Someone has called to complain about the noise coming from the house.

Upon arriving on the scene and waiting for another police officer to arrive, I witness people scattering as the police show up. One of the college students who lives at the house greets the officers and asks for help.

She said she called police because some rowdy strangers, who crashed their party, will not leave.

The police tell everyone not residing in the house to leave. They take the names of the five women who live in the house and we leave.

It is during the first call that I realize how hard it must be to always be the bad guy. It was especially difficult for me to be on the police side breaking up college parties, since only two years ago I was a student.

While we drive around Newark observing the goings on after midnight, I learn during an eight hour shift Officer Davis drives down Main Street on the average of 15 times.

Our second call is to a townhouse. Three separate noise complaints have come in about the house.

When we arrive, four people are walking out of the house. They quickly quiet down when they notice police officers.

A 30-year-old man who lives at the house takes all the blame for the noise. And is quick to quip, "You know what they say, it's not a party until the police show up."

The officers tell them of the three complaints they have received and ask them where they are going.

The officers let the four proceed with their plans of going to the Deer Park Tavern as long as the sober one drives.

Next, we spend some time at a police roadblock on East Delaware Avenue. Police are checking every car asking people if they have been drinking. The police check for signs of drinking, such as glassy eyes and an odor of alcohol.

If those signs are apparent, the person is asked to walk heel to toe in a straight line and to stand on one leg for 30 seconds while police check the person's balance. Failing these tests, a person is given a breathalyzer test.

The first man I watch taking the tests is doing so because he was naked when he pulled into the checkpoint.

The breathalyzer test shows the man is stone cold sober. The man is released.

While at the checkpoint, I watch Officer Davis arrest a 17-year-old minor for the underage consumption of alcohol and carrying a concealed deadly instrument.

The minor is given a breathalyzer and tests 0.07. Because he is under age 21, he should have tested zero. He is not charged with driving under the influence because his alcohol content does not reach 0.1.

The officer, the minor and I get into the police car and head back to the station.

After the minor's picture is taken, Officer Davis wakes up his mom to the words every parent dreads, "Your child has been arrested."

Just as the officer is about to lock the minor in a cell his mom arrives at the station. It was not a pleasant to see the family in this situation.

Davis describes his job most of the time as seeing people at their worst.

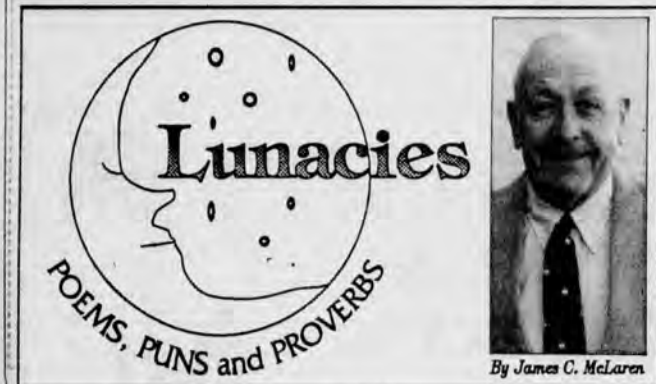

I have always had respect for police officers, but now I have a new understanding for what they deal with and the way they handle all the negativity in their line of work.

I now know why police officers say they need to keep a sense of humor in their job.

Newark Police Officer Curt Davis has been with the department for six years. He has been a police officer for four years and was a dispatcher the two years before.

Uncommitted criminals are often unsure of their convictions.

Author's note:

Lunacies like these have been inflicted on my poor wife, children and colleagues for years. They have been greeted by both groans and guffaws — the latter, perhaps, to pacify the punster and offset a further barrage. To its victims, punning can be seen as a disease, since any laughter, however sparse, can be contagious. I hope Post readers will tackle this word-play nonsense with zest, thereby assuring them Eternal Joy and a letter from Ed McMahon.

Hemlocks suffer the effects of several pests

There's hardly an evergreen more beautiful for its graceful habit than Eastern Hemlock.

A native of cooler northern regions and higher elevations, this plant can become a successful addition to the landscape when given special care. Protection from drying winter wind, generous application of organic mulch and judicious irrigation during summer drought will all help this plant survive in the harsh conditions of the lower Delaware valley.

There are three pests that can severely shorten the useful life of hemlocks. These pests often prey most successfully on mature trees that are already struggling from the effects of neglect or insult over the years. One is easy to identify, whereas the other two are inconspicuous. Unfortunately, all three are seldom treated before irreversible damage has happened.

Hemlock woolly adelgid is a type of aphid which produces cottony masses of wax over its egg sacs. This is the obvious signal of infestation that will become especially noticeable now through June. People often call to say they have "snow" or "puffs of cotton" at the base of the needles.

NEWARK OUTLOOK

FROM THE STAFF OF THE COOPERATIVE EXTENSION OFFICE AT UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

Low levels of woolly adelgid can be present for years before the population explodes and becomes really noticeable. A healthy tree can tolerate this pest until environmental stresses or human activity weakens the plant enough.

Like all aphids, woolly adelgid has piercing, sucking mouthparts to

A tree service company is the only real treatment option of you want to have your hemlocks for years to come.

extract sap for food. In addition to removing nutrients that would have gone to feed the plant, woolly adelgid injects a toxic saliva that further causes needles to become yellowed and stunted. Enough loss of leaves will result in twig dieback and even death of the tree.

Choice of pesticide is not particularly challenging, but the average homeowner doesn't have the power equipment necessary to drive a fine covering mist into dense hemlock foliage. A tree service company is the only real treatment option if you want to have your hemlocks for years to come.

The other two serious hemlock pests are fiordinia and cryptomeria scales, close cousins to adelgids. Like their woolly cousins, scale insects suck plant sap. The biggest difference here comes with the difficulty in detecting them. They are well-disguised with their flattened wax shells of translucent pale beige to brown. Both inhabit the underside of needles. Use a magnifier to help confirm their presence.

A bad case of fiordinia scale gives a tree a "whitewashed" look, because the young males produce silvery threads. A lighter infestation often mimics the bronzy discoloration typical of spider mite damage. Fiordinia scale is especially common on older, stressed trees.

Cryptomeria scale, as its name

This week's author: Jo Mercer implies, is very cryptic and hard to detect because its waxy cover is very small, translucent and flat. Again, due to the seriousness of these pests and the difficulty of spraying with low pressure home equipment, call in a commercial company to do the job.

I've seen lots of these pests alone and in combinations on trees in the worst sites—full sun, windy open areas, hard baked earth, periodically flooded and poorly aerated soil. These trees were distinctively thin leafed, and dull yellow-green rather than deep green. If you have trees that fit this description, prompt action could prevent their premature removal from your landscape.

Try sinking your teeth into these sensational desserts

When we talk about Italy and the United States, we are talking about two different eating systems.

In Italy, sweets, pastries, the kind of things that we call desserts in this country, are consumed at breakfast and at breaks throughout the day. We do that as well.

However, when dinner is over in the evening, we look forward to another sweet of some sort. Italians don't seem to think that way. Dinner is not a means to sweets.

CORNETTI (Serves 6)

This very simple desert is common in the coffee bars and pastry shops of Northern Italy. Our version is a quickie, since we doubt that you are going to make your own lemon custard from scratch. This works well and will delight the kids.

1 envelope Bird's Custard/Dessert Mix—Use Jell-O pudding mix if Bird's is not available in your area.
3 tablespoons sugar
1 1/2 cups cold milk
1 tablespoon finely grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons brandy
6 fresh breakfast croissants

GARNISH

Powdered sugar

Prepare the custard mix according to the instructions on the envelope, adding the lemon rind and brandy when finished with the cooking of the custard. Allow to cool.

Cut each croissant down the back and, using a piping bag, fill each with a bit of the custard.

Sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve.

MACEDONIA (Serves 4-6)

This popular dish is simply fresh fruit salad marinated in a sweet wine or liqueur. It is found throughout Italy, though it's origins are in the South where fresh fruits are grown and prized.

Use only fresh fruit, freshly cut up, and then marinate in sweet Marsala.

1 cup grapes
1 cup pineapple
1 cup cantaloupe
1 cup honeydew
1/4 cup fresh whole-mint leaves
1/2 cup sweet Marsala wine

In addition to the above recipe you might wish to throw in a splash of grappa—dry Italian brandy. That would certainly make the dessert salad stand up!

TIRAMISU (Serves 6)

While some Italian writers claim that this dish is actually quite old, it seems to have become really popular in this country just during the last few years.

In any case you can find it now in any Italian coffee shop here in America and in many bars in Italy. I must warn you, this is wonderfully rich!

THE FILLING

1 1/2 cups espresso or triple-strength regular coffee at room temperature
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup brandy
2 egg yolks
1 pound mascarpone cheese—find in Italian markets; the weight may be 1/2 or 1 ounce less
1 8-ounce package ladyfingers—find in Italian markets
4 ounces semisweet chocolate, shaved—use a box grater or a truffle cutter

THE FRUGAL GOURMET

By JEFF SMITH

THE ICING

1 cup fresh whipping cream
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar

GARNISHES

Cocoa powder for dusting
Additional shaved chocolate

Stir the espresso, sugar and brandy together in a mixing bowl until the sugar dissolves. Remove 1/3 cup of the coffee mixture to another bowl and set the remainder aside.

Whisk the egg yolks into the 1/3 cup of coffee. Add the mascarpone and whisk together just until smooth. Do not overmix or it may begin to separate.

Line the inside of a 9 1/2-by-5 1/2-inch loaf pan with a large sheet of wax paper. Tuck the wax paper into the corners of the pan, being careful not to tear it.

If you have another identical loaf pan, carefully press it inside the lined pan so that the wax paper will take the shape of the pan.

Dip the ladyfingers one at a time into the reserved coffee mixture and begin to place them crosswise in the lined pan. The ladyfingers should be soaked with the coffee and will expand a little. This will take only a few seconds; be sure not to soak them so long that they fall apart.

Continue with more ladyfingers, lining the bottom of the pan lengthwise with them. You can trim them if they don't fit exactly.

Spread on half of the cheese mixture. Sprinkle with 2 ounces of the shaved chocolate. Layer again in the same manner with seven more ladyfingers, the remaining cheese mixture and the remaining shaved chocolate.

Top the loaf pan off with the remaining soaked ladyfingers. Fold the wax paper up around the top of the pan, cover the pan tightly with plastic wrap and refrigerate for 6 hours.

Invert the chilled loaf pan onto a serving platter and tap the bottom of the pan to remove the loaf. Remove the wax paper. Place the cream, vanilla, and confectioners' sugar in a bowl and whip until stiff.

Spread the whipped cream all over the inverted cake in an attractive manner. You may want to use a pastry bag to decorate it with the whipped cream.

Place the cocoa in a fine strainer and dust the top of the cake. Sprinkle with additional shaved chocolate. Slice and serve.

CHERRIES IN BRANDY OR GRAPPA (Serves 4)

This is a quick way to prepare cherries packed in brandy, a favorite in Italy. These go well over ice cream and make a rather flashy dessert.

1 16-ounce can Bing cherries in heavy syrup
1/2 cup brandy or grappa (dry Italian brandy)
1 1/2 tablespoons sugar

Drain the cherries, reserving the syrup. Place the drained cherries in a small bowl and add the brandy or grappa; set aside.

Simmer the reserved syrup and the sugar in a small saucepan until reduced by half.

Allow to cool and add 1/4 cup of the reduced syrup to the cherries.

Cover and allow to marinate in the refrigerator overnight.

Serve plain in little bowls along with the juice or serve over vanilla ice cream.

Maya civilization comes to life at the University Museum in Pa.

Many times in these columns you have read of my delight when other disciplines mix with the arts. An exhibit which just opened at the University Museum at 33rd and Spruce Streets in Philadelphia is a delight for this reason — and many others.

The topic of the new exhibit is the excavation of Maya civilization in its jungle ruins. It is called "Time and Rulers at Tikal: Architectural Sculpture of the Maya." This exhibition, exhilarating to the eye and the mind, details the discovery of 1,000 years of Maya history unearthed during the largest and most complex Maya exploration ever undertaken. The time period of the exhibit, 100 BC. to 900 AD.

Through large scale photos and drawings creatively arranged, "Time and the Rulers at Tikal" shows the work of University Museum archaeologists over a period of almost two decades, the fifties and sixties, in Tikal, Guatemala. Tikal was one of the great Maya cities and held a wealth of art and religious architecture. Much new information was discovered about the Maya rulers as the result of this exploration. Now, the University of Pennsylvania is sharing all of this with us.

The Tikal expedition was led by Dr. William Coe and involved more than 150 researchers from our country, Canada and Guatemala. The years of work set new standards for research into the world of the Maya, standards that are now being used throughout the world.

The show is under the co-direction of Christopher Jones, a specialist in Maya hieroglyphs, and Arthur G. Miller, a Maya art historian. Again, the mixing of arts with other disciplines. Mr. Jones said, "One of the goals of the exhibition is to show visitors that the Maya had a rich and productive civilization in the past." The exhibit does just that, and more.

It is one of those many exhibitions now at the museum that offers something for every age level and most interest levels in the family. The adult may appreciate the beautiful sculpture and the younger members, the mystery that surrounded the end of this well-developed civilization. Everyone can appreciate the beauty captured in the exhibition.

Interest in the exhibit at the University Museum has heightened with the news that the Maya Indians of Chiapas are rebelling against the Mexican government in efforts to reclaim their ancestral lands. The Maya, who built cities throughout Mexico, Guatemala and Honduras during the first millennium, left a cultural strength to their people that has sustained them and help them resist subjugation since being conquered by the Europeans almost five centuries ago. According to the University Museum's Pam Kosty (ever my source of meaningful information) "The Maya, more than any other native American people, have been able to maintain their connection to their cultural past."

The recently opened exhibit includes drawings and photos of Maya gods and rulers, sculptures and hieroglyphs as well as a 15-foot model of the Great Plaza as it looked 1,200 years ago. The superb model provides a sense of the grandeur of the acropolis, plaza, market place, terraced temples and other architectural works at Tikal during a period when the Maya produced their greatest art. A cut-away model shows how the old buildings were buried under the new ones.

Another interesting section of the show examines how the Maya rulers helped keep their power by changing the calendar from a cyclical to a linear format, building large temples of their dynastic ancestors and using hieroglyphs to legitimize their power.

Photographs in another section show objects uncovered during the excavation, including pottery, jade and stone monuments. Because of a prior agreement with the Guatemalan government, the original works must remain in that country. The photographs provide us with a tremendous vicarious experience.

If the show really interests you, there is a new six volume report on the Maya excavations at Tikal just published by Dr. William Coe. Also of note, the museum will hold its 12th Annual Maya Weekend on April 9 and 10. There will be more than a dozen experts discussing Maya archaeology in Belize. For information on these special offerings, you may call 215-898-4890.

Museum hours on the University of Pennsylvania campus are Tuesday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. Admission is $5 or $2.50 for seniors and students with valid ID. Children under six, when accompanied by adult, are free.

This is one of the temples excavated at Tikal. This and many other photos, drawings and works of art of the Maya people are now on exhibition at the University of Pennsylvania Museum.

It is easily accessible from Newark by taking I-95 to I-76, getting off at the Civic Center exit. Follow the signs to the Civic Center and drive past it to the next traffic signal. Turn right and there you are. You can take Amtrak or SEPTA since 30th Street Station is only a short walk from the museum. Go and enjoy!

Wrestlers grapple for state tourney berths

St. Mark's dominates Independent

By JOHN HOLOWKA
NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

GREENVILLE — To some people, Number 13 means anything but bad luck.

St. Mark's crowned seven individual champions and advanced all 13 wrestlers to the state tournament this weekend at Delaware State College.

"We did think we'd get everybody qualified," said Spartan Coach Steve Bastianelli. "We feel if somebody is good enough to make this team, they should be good enough to place in the top four positions."

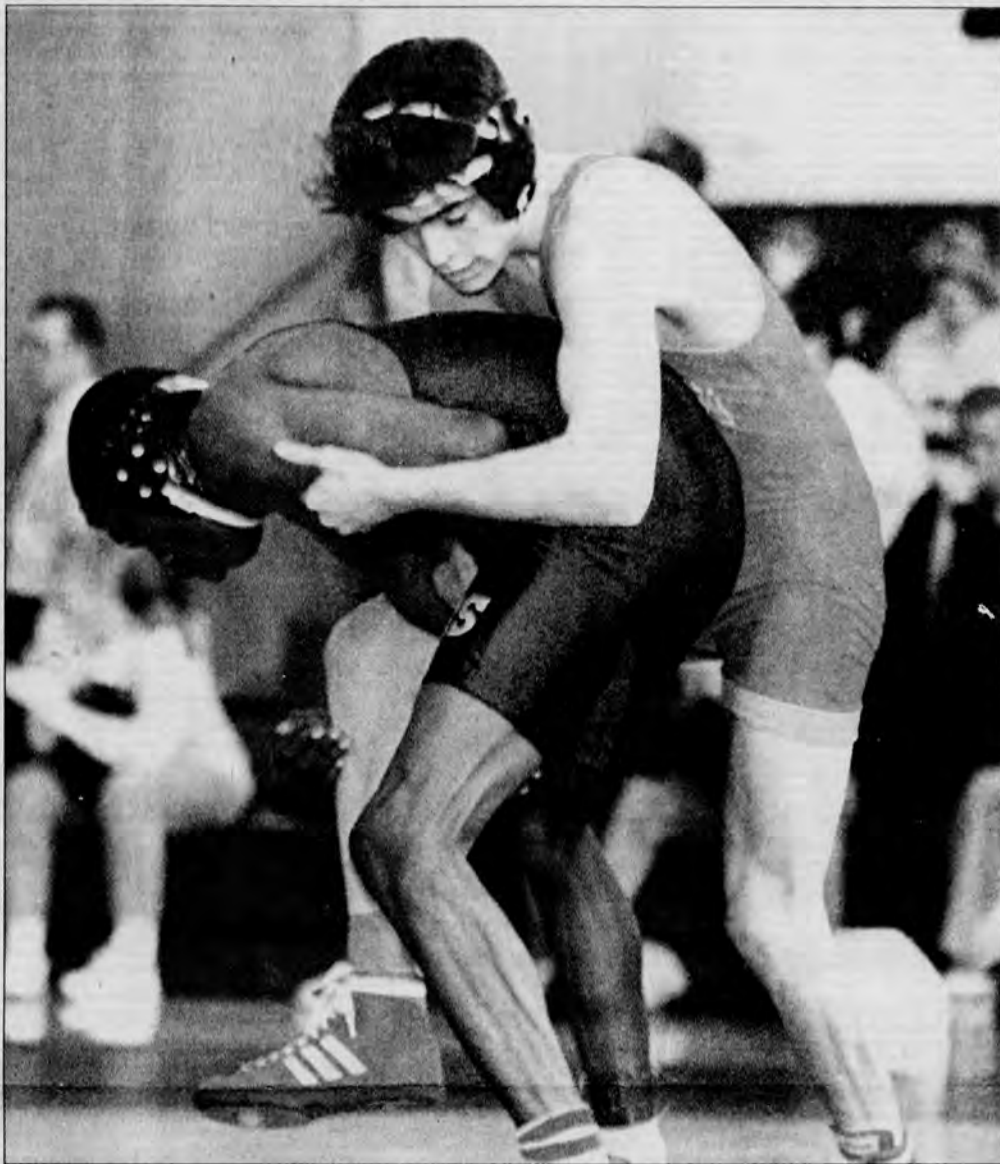

"This meet and the state meet are so different; the Independent tournament is small, really just a qualifier," Bastianelli said. "I don't feel there is really any momentum we gained from winning. But we've been in 16-team tournaments three times this year, and most teams don't see that kind of competition much or at all. That will give us some added punch."

For St. Mark's Kyle Talley decided Sallies' Tom Davis 9-5 at 103 pounds to get the meet rolling, and at 112 Spartan John Jacobs defeated Mike Kane of Salesianum 12-4.

At 119 Don Waters from Sussex Tech edged Spartan Joe Amon 6-5 with a final-second takedown in one of the evening's closest bouts.

"That was tough loss, but I think he learned from it,"

Glasgow's Craig Vettori won the 119 pound championship at the Blue Hen Conference Wrestling Tournament last weekend at Glasgow High.

Vettori shine in Blue Hen

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

GLASGOW — William Penn may have run away with the team title at last weekend's Blue Hen Conference Wrestling Tournament, but the Vettori's had the best family showing.

Glasgow's Craig Vettori won the 119 pound title, defeating William Penn's Joe Bond 14-7 in the final, and brother Marc coached the Dragons to a respectable fifth place finish while advancing seven wrestlers (up from two last season) to this weekend's Individual State Championship Tournament.

The younger Vettori's win over Bond avenged a 9-6 loss earlier in the season and sent last year's 112-pound state titlist into this weekend's tourney on a positive note.

"The last two weeks of the season are what I really strive for," said Vettori, who beat Bond 10-5 to win last year's state title. "It's the only thing that's important."

Vettori's three-match march to the conference championship improved his season record to 20-3 and his career record to 101-23, becoming Glasgow High's only 100-win wrestler.

Brother Marc, a 22-year-old in his first year at the helm of the Dragons' wrestling program, beamed over his brother's success, as well as the strong showing of the entire team.

"When the season started I got everyone together and said 'I only want people who are going to give 110 percent,'" Marc said. "My job is to build a program for the future."

St. Mark's girls win state swim title

Freshman Morelli sets record to help Spartans

By JOHN HOLOWKA
NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

St. Mark's broke a pair of records, placed swimmers in every event and won its first-ever girls state title last week by outswimming parochial school rival and defending champion Padua at jammed-pack and boisterous Carpenter Sports Building.

The Spartans, which went unbeaten in dual-meets this year, tallied 100 points to Padua's 82.5. A.I. du Pont finished third and Newark placed fourth with 62 points in the 39th swimming and diving competition.

St. Mark's victory was buoyed by freshman Lauren Morelli's record-breaking swim in the 100 backstroke (58.69) during the preliminaries and her first-place finish in that event one day later. Morelli eclipsed the previous record of 58.77 set in 1993 by A.I.'s Carla Stetter.

"I just wanted to win the (championship) race," said Morelli, after clocking a 59.05 in the finals. "I wanted to help St. Mark's win its first (state swimming title). I was really concentrating on my backstroke and trying to get points for the team; I knew we needed it."

"I was a little more relaxed (in the preliminaries); but that's all right. I feel great. I kept training this year and working hard with Team Delaware. I'm just happy I won."

St. Mark's held a narrow 67-58 lead over A.I. du Pont after the 200 freestyle relay team of Lindsey Gildea, Morelli, Leslie King and Megan Iffland took first with a time of 1:40.89, a new state record that broke the previous mark of 1:41.50 set by A.I. in 1991. The Spartans solidified that lead following Morelli's 100 backstroke victory.

"That made a big difference," said St. Mark's Coach Mike Ramone. "One problem we had last year was we didn't have those top contenders. But this year with the freshmen coming in, we had a really strong feeling we had the swimmers to win. We just needed to get the lower sixth, seventh and eighth places. And we did do that."

The Spartans placed 15 swimmers and divers through 13 events and gained valuable points by winning eight places out of the top three.

"It was the freshman that got us those top places, but it was the seniors, juniors and sophomores that got us the points and the win," Ramone said. "This is a first in the history of the school. We've won championships in a lot of other sports, but never swimming. It feels good."

Padua, which beat Newark last year for team honors in the state meet, won five events, including the 200 medley relay (1:52.50) and the 400 freestyle relay (3:43.15). Alicia Swiderski won the 50 freestyle (24.60) and the 100

Should William Penn leave Blue Hen?

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

The William Penn wrestling team romped through another Blue Hen Conference wrestling tournament last weekend. That was certainly not unexpected; but is it good for the sport?

That's the question William Penn Coach Jack Holloway was wrestling with last weekend.

The Colonials, year-in and year-out, have proved they are the class of the Blue Hen Conference. This year William Penn is one of the best teams anywhere. According to USA Today, the Colonials are ranked 24th in the nation.

"No question, this is one of the better teams," Holloway said during the tournament. "It's a national caliber team that can wrestle anywhere in the country.

"But nobody should be able to do what we did in this tournament."

Holloway admitted that he is considering petitioning the proper powers to pull William Penn out of the Blue Hen Conference in wrestling. It's not something he would do to help William Penn, even though he concedes it might be beneficial, but something to help wrestling within the conference.

Wrestling people are concerned for their sport more than for themselves. Holloway sincerely wants to do what's in the best interest of the sport. He thinks that with William Penn removed from the picture, the rest of the league will have a chance to win some titles. If schools have a better chance to win, maybe more kids will

Newark, Christiana split pair of weekend basketball games

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

Revenge can come quick when you play consecutive games against the same opponent.

Newark High (13-6 overall, 8-5 Flight A) dominated Christiana District rival Christiana (12-9, 8-5) in its 76-57 win last Friday but the Vikings returned the favor with a thrilling 63-62 overtime win over the 'Jackets Tuesday night.

Jerry Moore followed Damon Bagwell's missed driving layup with a putback as time expired to give Christiana Tuesday's win. Moore's heroics came after Newark missed the front end of a one-and-one free throw with seven seconds to play. Bagwell pushed the ball up court, driving all the way to the basket. His shot rolled off the rim but Moore was there for the rebound.

"[Christiana] had five people under the basket for the rebound and we only had one," said

Newark Coach Jim Doody, who could've notched his 250th career victory with a win Tuesday. "We didn't play with nearly the same intensity [as Friday's big win]."

As could be expected Christiana Coach Ron Hollis with the turnaround.

"The kids played with a whole different attitude," he said comparing the two games. "We played a lot of one-on-one Friday but played much more like a team [Tuesday]."

The game, which featured 15 lead changes, see-sawed all night.

After Newark led much of the second half, Christiana battled back to take a 52-48 lead with 3:30 left in the fourth quarter. The 'Jackets, on the strength of four straight Collyn Rypley free throws, tied the game with 2:55 to play in the final quarter.

A tip-in by Christiana's Chris Washington, who scored a career-high 21 points, grabbed 12

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

MIKE FORTMANN - GLASGOW

Mike Fortmann is fast becoming double-trouble.

The Glasgow High junior won the second straight year's 39th DSSAA Swimming and Diving Championships at Carpenter Sports Building.

Fortmann, who won the 50 freestyle last year, captured the 100 butterfly for the third straight year and won his first 200 individual medley for his fifth championship title in three years.

"I really wasn't feeling up to par all week," said Fortmann, after logging times of 2:00.12 in the 200 IM and 53.22 in the 100 butterfly. "This is my second year in a row winning two events, and I couldn't get nervous. I had to keep telling myself to get motivated."

"I think I was looking ahead to resting up this week before (trying) to qualify for the Jr. Nationals at the Mid-Atlantic Championships (at Carpenter this week)."

To qualify for the Jr. National competition, Fortmann would have to swim a time of 52.09 or under in the 100 butterfly to qualify, over a second better than his state championship performance.

Fortmann turned in a personal best and defeated Jay Lynch of McKean by .35 seconds in the 200 IM and beat Salesianum's Chris Devlin by .32 seconds in the 100 butterfly.

"I think this year, I felt better about winning the 200 IM," Fortmann said. "I swam it in my freshman year and finished third. I wanted to redeem myself. It means a lot to me since this is a very good meet in Delaware. You meet a lot of people here."

Glasgow girls end Wm. Penn's 87-game streak

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

GLASGOW — The Glasgow High girls basketball team accomplished something no other Flight A school has been able to do for six years.

The Dragons knocked off defending state champion William Penn 47-40 Wednesday afternoon to put a halt to the Colonials' 87-game conference winning streak.

The win improved Glasgow's record to 17-2 (12-2 in Flight A) — the best mark in school history. The

The WDAS/Coca-Cola All-Stars basketball team, featuring former NBA star World B. Free, will play the Glasgow High faculty and staff Friday at 7 p.m. at Glasgow High.

The game will benefit the Glasgow basketball program. Admission is $2 for adults, $1 for children.

Dragons' victory also assured a second-place finish in Flight A — just one game behind William Penn (15-6, 13-1) — their highest finish since 1984 when they won the conference title.

"This is a great win," said Glasgow Coach Larry Walker. "I've been telling the girls all year that they were a good team; they proved that to themselves [Wednesday]."

An 8-2 spurt early in the fourth quarter broke open a nip-and-tuck game and gave Glasgow a 38-31 lead.

come out and more fans as well.

It certainly is an interesting idea. Holloway is careful with his words not wanting to seem like the arrogant power who has outgrown the rest of the conference.

"It would only be temporary and

The Colonials never were able to get closer than four points the rest of the way.

"We didn't do anything different," Walker said. "We did the same things we've been doing all year. We just played well."

Junior guard Toni Burke led the Dragons with 13 points while junior forward Chas Friant added 11. Lakisca Rahming added nine points, Laurie Brosnahan eight and Shamarra Mason six to help the Dragons to their biggest win in a decade.

Wednesday's victory by Glasgow coupled with the Colonials' 15-point win over perennial Catholic Conference power St. Mark's Tuesday could give the Dragons confidence entering next week's state tournament.

"No question about it," Walker said. "They blew out St. Mark's; it's got to help our confidence."

Glasgow also beat Caravel 49-23 Tuesday.

The Dragons were led by Burke's 16 points and Brosnahan's 14. A 15-0 second quarter run gave Glasgow a lead it would never relinquish.

Caravel boys look to state hoop tourney

By MARTY VALANIA

BEAR — The Caravel boys basketball team won two games this week to enhance its chances of making the Delaware High School Boys Basketball Tournament, which gets underway next week.

The Bucs ripped West Nottingham (Md.) 70-39 and beat Polytech 57-45 to improve their record to 13-6. The wins were the fourth and fifth straight for the Bucs.

Caravel will host Perryville (Md.) Friday night and travel to Sussex Tech Saturday in its last regular season games before a possible state tournament appearance.

"We're looking forward to making the state tournament," said Caravel Coach Lou Bender, who is in his second year at the helm of the Bucs' basketball program.

Caravel has been led by senior forward Mike Monger, who has averaged 22 points per game this season. Jason Rosseel is averaging 15 points and 13 rebounds while Scott McFarland is also averaging 15 points per game.

"Offensively, they've been carrying the load," Bender said of his three high scorers. "Then we get somebody else to chip in between six and 10 points and we've been doing OK."

Bobby Sartan, Jeff Goff, Jon Markle, Jim Frazier and Danny Barnes have rotated among the other two starting positions.

"We've developed some depth,"

Bender said. "We've got some good young players."

Monger led the way against Polytech, scoring 22 points and grabbing 11 rebounds. Rosseel scored 14 and McFarland 11 to aid the cause.

Against West Nottingham, Rosseel scored 14, McFarland 12 and Monger 11. Rosseel also dominated the boards grabbing 16 rebounds.

"It's been a real treat to watch someone like Jason Rosseel go from being a skinny little JV player to an outstanding player," said Bender, whose team went 15-7 last year before being knocked out of the state tournament in the first round by Tower Hill. "He's a great student and is now being recruited by some colleges."

breaststroke (1:06.74), while sister Lindsay took the 500 freestyle with a time of 5:10.01.

"Padua has strength; they have a lot of top-notch swimmers and when those swimmers get in the water and swim their swim it's hard to beat them," Ramone said. "But the key for us was every race we had people that placed."

Glasgow's Kari Kleinburd won the 200 freestyle (1:57.03) and the 100 butterfly (1:00.27), and Christiana's Cheryl Emmitt took second place in the 200 and 500 freestyle events. Newark's Jackie Lowe finished second in diving (369.35).

"It was a lot of fun. I'm happy with the way everybody swam," said Newark Coach Dave Arles, whose team lost their only dual-meet this season to the Spartans. "This team stuck together all season long. St. Mark's had the sharper team; they swam really well."

A.I. du Pont won the boys competition with 103 points and Salesianum was second (94).

Newark won two relays and finished third with 65 points and St. Mark's was fourth with 46.

Glasgow totaled 22 points and finished in a tie for eighth position with Mount Pleasant.

For the Yellowjackets, the 200 freestyle relay team of Dave Benin, Dirk Williams, Joe Smith and Chris Snyder took first with a clocking of 1:32.09 and the foursome of Benin, Williams, Robert Cronin and Snyder won the 400 freestyle relay (3:22.28).

KLOCKARS HONORED FOR BANNER CAREER

Former Newark High diving and volleyball star Amanda Klockars was honored last Friday at halftime of the Newark-Christiana basketball game.

Klockars, also the 1993-94 Newark Post Athlete of the Year, was awarded a plaque and a banner (the first female to be so honored) to be hung in the Newark High gym commemorating her four consecutive state diving championships.

"It's something I think I'll really appreciate in 15 or 20 years," said Klockars, who is now attending Villanova University.

The plaque also noted Klockars state record of 400 points in last year's state diving competition — the highest total ever in the state by a male or female.

"I joked about it my freshman year," Klockars said of the banner. "But I never really thought it could happen."

Delaware defeated Towson State 4-2 Friday to advance to the championship. Forcino, the tournament's Most Valuable Player, provided a goal and an assist in the win. Tim Chaum had 38 saves in goal. Mark Buell and Chaum were named to the All-Tournament team.

The Hens will close out their season this weekend in the Atlantic Collegiate Hockey League playoffs at Penn State. The third-seeded Hens will play second-seeded Rhode Island Friday at 5 p.m. Saturday's championship game will be at 3:30 p.m. rebounds and was an intimidating force inside all game, gave the Vikings a 54-42 lead with 2:25 to play.

Newark again responded with a Mike Pollock (17 points) basket inside and two Freeman Williams' (12 points) free throws to go ahead 56-54 with 1:40 left.

Anthony Laws (10 points) tied the game with an off-balance 19-foot jumper with 10 seconds left.

Newark's Rypley hurried the ball upcourt but as he drove into the lane the official (the same official that called Rypley for a foul with three seconds left in the 'Jackets' one-point loss to Mount Pleasant earlier this month) called him for carrying the ball, preventing a possible game-winning shot.

Doddy declined comment on the call or the official.

"I thought we were a much better team [Tuesday]," Hollis said. "I think when we play like a team instead of one-on-one, we can play with anybody in the state."

It didn't appear that way Friday as Rypley scored 23 points to lead Newark to a convincing 76-57 victory over the Vikings. The 'Jackets' win halted a two-game slide in which they were blown out by both Mount Pleasant and William Penn.

Jerry Pritchett and Williams scored 19 and 12 points respectively to help lead the Newark effort.

"Considering how flat we were the last two games, this is really a good win," Doddy said after his team's win. "This team really showed character after getting beat up twice in a week."

Christiana finished its regular season Thursday against rival Penn while Newark played rival Glasgow Thursday.

SPARE THOUGHTS

A bowling column contributed by Blue Hen Lanes

School cancellations and bowling cancellations due to bad weather go hand in hand.

The winter of '94 has played havoc with league schedules. Just one of the many leagues to suffer is the Thursday Morning Sparetimers League. Due to icy road conditions we all experienced, this league missed two weeks in a row. One bowler who came back last week ready to roll was Jan Lopez.

The 154 average bowler started off the morning with five more strikes to finish with a personal best 267 game. Jan, of Welsh Tract Road in Newark, has been bowling for 30 years. Her efforts put her on top of the league for high game scratch and earned her two BRC Awards as well as a WIBC Award.

The Monday Night NFL Jacket League reports a fine performance from Chris Knox of Elkton. Chris achieved two personal bests with a 693 series — a whopping 168 pins over his series average.

Finally, from the Monday Madness Mixed League, an excellent performance turned in by Gary Snyder. Snyder, rolled a 703 series — 187 pins over his series average and 129 pins over his previous high series in the league.

Bastianelli said. "(Amon) dominated and controlled the entire match but it slipped away from him at the end. Next time if he holds the final eight seconds, he wins."

At 135 R.J. George (St. Mark's) decisioned the Sals' Pete Quercetti 14-2, Mark Bosick (140) recorded a technical fall over Archmere's Luke Jones Archmere 17-2 and at 145 Stan Spoor was awarded an injury default over St. Elizabeth's Brent Christopher after leading 12-4.

"R.J., Spoor and Bosick looked real good," said Bastianelli. "But there are still some places where we need to improve. It's such an individual thing. Some of the losses we took pretty hard because we thought we could have won, and in some of the wins we thought we wrestled poorly."

"We want our level to come up. I mean if we put 13 wrestlers into the state tournament and they wrestle poor, where are we?"

For the Spartans, Phil Manolakis decisioned James Compton of Sanford 7-5 in overtime and at 171 Jamie Ludica wall-potted Tatnall's Jamie Wilks from Tatnall 25-10 and was awarded a technical fall at 5:50.

Steve Sanna (132) of St. Elizabeth decisioned Spartan Brad Simendinger 14-10 and at heavy-weight Fred Krapf from Tatnall edged Rick Houck (St. Mark's) 5-3.

Frank Brommell (189), Mike Kissinger (153) and Randy Nowell (125) all won their consolation matches for the Spartans.

Caravel's Dave Caldwell also advanced to state's with a third place finish at 103.

St. Mark's finished the season with a 9-3 record in dual-meets with losses coming to nationally ranked William Penn and Pennsylvania powerhouses West

Luckily, I had some great seniors who understood that and just did a great job all year."

The Colonials, ranked 24th in the country by the USA Today, easily outdistanced second-place Alexis I. Du Pont 321.5 to 188 to capture the team championship. William Penn advanced 12 of its 13 wrestlers to the finals winning seven of them.

It was the first time that the Colonials advanced as many as 12 wrestlers to the finals.

"This is definitely one of our better teams," said William Penn Coach Jack Holloway. "It's a team of national caliber; it can go anywhere in the country and compete."

Flight B champion Hodgson had the best local showing, finishing third, qualifying nine for states, advancing three to the championship round and crowning one champion — 112 pounder Chris Foster.

"This is the most we've ever had in the finals," said Hodgson Coach Jerry Lamey. "We have nine going to states; I'm happy. It's been a good year. The kids have worked really hard and the assistant coaches have done just a super job."

Foster knocked off William Penn's Dan Eye 5-2 in the final receiving two third period stalling points to seal the win.

Newark's Jerry Harrison was the only other area wrestler that won a title. Harrison beat A.I.'s Omar Colon 19-7 to win the 189-pound weight class. Harrison's performance led the 'Jackets to a fourth-place finish.

Justin Cassels, of Newark, advanced to the 140 pound final before falling 9-2 to William Penn's Don Fromal and Christiana's Jason Zayakosky fell 12-9 to the Colonials' Daryl Mergenthaler in the 125-pound championship.

Other local wrestlers finishing in the top six and qualifying for this weekend's state tournament were: at 103 — Dave Thomas (second place, Hodgson), V.J. Leonard (third place, Glasgow); at 112 — Latecia Neal (third place, Christiana); at 119 — Vic Keeler (third place, Hodgson), Mark Lovelace (fifth place Newark); at 125 — Greg Antonelli (fourth place, Hodgson), Lew Fanny (fifth place, Newark), Jonathan Barton (sixth place, Glasgow); at 130 — Nigel Demby (third place, Hodgson), Joe Marra (fourth place, Newark), Jason Mills (fifth place, Christiana); at 135 — Jeff Jones (second place, Hodgson), Andy Manning (fourth place, Newark); at 140 — James Boone (sixth place, Hodgson); at 145 — Rick Wilson (fourth place, Glasgow), Jerry Milstead (fifth place, Newark), Jeff Boyd (sixth place, Hodgson), 152 — Jon Hackett (third place, Glasgow), Brian Anker (fourth place, Hodgson); 160 — David Stonebreaker (fifth place, Glasgow), Damian Wampler (sixth place, Newark); 189 — Tim Walz (fifth place, Christiana); HWT — Pete Steil (fifth place, Glasgow).

Tips from the Cecil County Sheriff's Office on how to avoid becoming a crime victim.

- Keep your car and house locked, even while you are at home. Keep ground floor windows secured.
- Park in well lit areas and away from cars, vans or other large vehicles that obscure your view of the vehicle.
- If you return home and find that your home has been entered, do not go inside. Go to someplace safe and telephone the Sheriff's Office or police.
- There are some precautions that can be taken to strengthen your home against break ins. They include:
 - Install deadbolts on all doors.
 - Install a door viewer (peep-hole)
 - Trim shrubbery around ground floor windows and doors. Burglars will use this for cover when entering a home.
 - Arrange for mail and newspaper pick-up if you are going to be away from home for any length of time.
 - Install a timer for lights if you are going to be away for any length of time. Ask a neighbor or friend to come and check your home, while you are gone.
 - Ask the Sheriff's Office or police to come and do a "Home Security Survey"
