

Medical Supplies To Be Distributed By Civil Defense

$120,000 in Equipment For State First Aid Field Stations Planned

Emergency medical supplies worth $120,000, enough to equip 53 first aid field stations, are about to be distributed to strategic points throughout Delaware in readiness for use following an enemy attack, Colonel D. Preston Lee, State Civil Defense director, announced this week.

The huge stockpile, packaged by volunteer labor over a period of months, will be cached at points well outside the State's potential target areas—Wilmington and Dover—so that they can be rushed to the scene of a disaster and used to treat casualties on the spot.

The storage points, which will be set up in rural schools and other public buildings outside the possible danger zone, are being selected by county Civil Defense directors.

Most of the cache points, about 47, will be in rural New Castle County and are now being set up by Colonel George W. Dunn, County Director. Four will be established in Kent County and two in Sussex County.

53,000 Casualties!
It is estimated that should Wilmington and Dover be hit by enemy bombers about 53,000 casualties would need immediate treatment. Each of the 53 first aid field stations would have enough supplies and equipment to handle 1,000 casualties during the first six to 12 hours, Colonel Lee said.

After that, the injured would be moved to emergency hospitals. Also, more supplies will then be needed to handle the casualties.

The first aid materials, which now are stored at the State Civil Defense Center at old Fort DuPont near Delaware City, will be transported to selected storage points by trucks from the State Health Department.

Dr. Floyd I. Hudson, Secretary of the State Board of Health, also serves as Chief of the State's Civil Defense and Medical Services Division. He will be in charge of moving the first aid materials to the cache points.

Stockpile
Each storage site will be stocked with enough material to equip one first aid station in field operation. The materials, broken down and packaged for long-term storing by volunteers of the American Red Cross, the American Legion and CD, range from field litter and paper blankets to costly medicines and delicate surgical instruments.

To insure proper packaging of the medical supplies, which must remain in operational condition though stored indefinitely, the volunteers got expert advice from Howard Shurt, packaging specialist at Avon Products, Inc., Newark, which packs cosmetic products for shipping and storage. Mr. Shurt advised a group of volunteer workers, who in turn served as instructors to the others.

The packing took many months. Each first aid station kit includes hundreds of items large and small. These first aid kits are packaged individually, then stored in cartons and wooden boxes.

The entire operation took almost three years of work and planning. In 1951, the Governor's Civil Defense advisory council approved purchase of the supplies with $60,000 in State funds matched by an equal amount of Federal money, on the recommendation of Dr. Hudson.

The award is given annually to the outstanding dormitory of the year in recognition of activities, spirit, friendliness, and general attitude of the residents. The decision is made by the women's executive council, made up of the heads of all the dormitories.

This is the second consecutive year that New Castle Hall has won the honor.

SIMPLE ARITHMETIC!

In discussing some of the economic problems that face individuals and towns throughout the country, a Kansas editor says: "My community is no exception in the general drift of our times. Some in business have inherited the firm from their fathers and grandfathers and are apparently content to accept their lot as 'fate' or something they can't help."

"One thing that bothers me most is the government's discouragement of industry with the younger people. Those receiving welfare are led to believe that whatever they get is due on demand . . . income tax affects a young person's production when he adds more than $600 to his parents' income. It's enough to cause taxpayers to fight but those same taxpayers for the most part have a hand out for subsidy. Employment insurance or some other gimmie that is not earned by the sweat of their brow. We simply cannot run our money through political fingers and have more than we pay in; that's simple arithmetic!"

Senior Class Trip

Thirty-six members of the Newark High School senior class left for the Baltimore and Ohio station Thursday morning for the annual trip to Washington, accompanied by Miss Anne Gallagher and Mr. H. E. Barker as chaperones. The party will return to Newark Saturday evening. Today the seniors will visit the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, and tomorrow will lay a wreath presented by the American Legion Auxiliary on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Sons of Delaware

Some 200 members of the Philadelphia Sons of Delaware made a pilgrimage to Newark last Saturday for their annual visit to the University of Delaware. They were entertained at the Women's College by the May Day exercises followed by the Delaware-Drexel baseball game at Frazer Field, and the annual banquet at Old College.

Newark Honors Soldier Dead

With John K. Johnston as grand marshal, Newark's Memorial Day parade began at 9 o'clock this morning as the first part of a two-phase program honoring Newark's war heroes. The parade marched through the principal streets of the town, stopping at each cemetery where graves of the veterans had been decorated by the Newark American Legion and VFW posts, followed by services at the Delaware Memorial Library where Mayor Frank Collins introduced Governor C. Douglas Buck as the principal speaker. Featured with the 1000 marchers were three bands—the Continental Band, a Wilmington VFW group, and the band from the University of Delaware.

Summer School

The University of Delaware summer school under the direction of Professor W. A. Wilkinson will begin June 17 and close July 26. The school is conducted under the general direction of the School of Education and is essentially a teachers' training program. No tuition is required from residents of the state and a nominal fee of $15 is charged non-residents. No examinations are required for admission and all persons who hold teaching certificates are eligible to attend.

Legion Concert

The Lt. J. Allison O'Daniel Post, American Legion, and the Ladies Auxiliary gave a concert on Sunday for the disabled World War veterans at the Perry Point government hospital. The Continental Band with more than 100 Legionnaires, members of the Auxiliary, and friends, made the trip.

Poppy Sales

The Newark posts of both the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars sold out of poppies on Newark's two Poppy Days as 2800 poppies were distributed in the area. Both organizations express appreciation to residents of the community for their support. Proceeds from the poppy sales will go to the various official agencies for the care of disabled veterans.

Fireman's Carnival

The Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company carnival committee is planning to hold the annual fireman's carnival in Newark from July 19-27, and a Hupmobile and a Ford have already been purchased as prizes. In addition to the regular merry-go-round, a ferris wheel will be featured, and the Continental Band has been engaged for the entire week.

City Council

The lateral fees would also be due in 30 days, with 50 cents added for each month of delinquency. Incidentally, the city currently is charging these fees by resolution but needs a full-fledged ordinance to back them up.

The sewer service charge ordinance would set a graduated rate scale based on water consumption rather than the meter size as is now the case. Under the new rates, the minimum charge would be three dollars per quarter for a maximum consumption of 4,000 cubic feet of water per quarter.

The discussion of city's tight financial situation led Council to authorize Francis Neide, city engineer, to draw up cost estimates of the various costly projects that should be financed through a municipal bond issue.

One more project was added to the list at Tuesday's meeting, when it was disclosed that the Nottingham Manor sewer system is in need of expensive improvements.

This was pointed up in a letter from Dr. Edward Gliwa, county health officer, and Harry Chapman, state sanitary engineer, who charged that the Nottingham sewers are "wholly inadequate" and recommended several plans for bringing them up to standard.

The letter was read by Councilman Coverdale, who urged that some action be taken. He was supported in this by Councilman John R. Downes.

Estimated cost of the improvements would be $129,000 according to a survey made two years ago by the city's consulting engineers, but Mr. Neide said the figure now probably would be much higher.

Councilman Samuel Diehl, head of the city finance committee, said that adding the Nottingham Manor project to the list to be covered by the proposed bond issue would increase the burden considerably. Previously, Mr. Diehl had estimated a $500,000 issue would be necessary.

It was pointed out that a bond issue would have to be approved through a referendum of property owners and that this vote would have to be preceded by a mass public hearing.

To answer the taxpayer's questions on the need for the bond issue, the city would have to have its facts and figures ready, it was stressed. This led Council to direct Mr. Neide to prepare the cost estimates.

Councilman Diehl said that getting the approval of the taxpayers for the bond issue would require quite a "selling job."

It was then Councilman Coverdale made his suggestions for tapping new sources of revenue by considering the possibilities of municipal electric power direct to four big local firms which now buy from the power company.

Mr. Coverdale said that an effort on Council's part to develop new sources of revenue might help in its job of "salesmanship" regarding the bond issue.

Heart Association Directors

Directors of the Delaware Heart Association have approved an $18,000 budget, one-half of which will be used directly for support of local medical research on cardiac problems in the next fiscal year.

The association's annual meeting was held last week in the Delaware Academy of Medicine. Insurance problems arising from employment of persons with heart ailments were discussed and officers and directors were elected.

tap-on collection rights in order to defray the cost of the line, for which it was charged by the city.

This action came after Council voted an ordinance amendment which would exempt the public school district from paying out-of-city rates. At present, this measure only affects the Medill School but it also will apply to any future school built outside the city limits.

Councilman Coverdale and Harry MacLary voted against the measure. Councilman Downes voted for it, though he said his "conscience was against it."

GRIZZLY BEAR

Outside the areas in which they are deliberately protected it is doubtful if anyone these days can get much experience from a free, wild Grizzly Bear inside the limits of the United States. True, they may be seen in our National Parks and in our zoos but this is a far cry from the days when Grizzlies were more or less the dominating animal in much of the western half of the United States and the western third of Canada. On the whole, this is probably an improvement but it seems unfortunate that somehow a more mutually satisfactory arrangement could not have been worked out. Human nature and bear nature being what they were, it was hard to reach a natural reconciliation and as is usual the bear paid the price.

Many of us have had plenty of opportunities to see free Grizzlies in our National Parks, particularly at the points where they are fed for the entertainment of visiting tourists. Those of us fortunate to have visited these parks before the present enormous numbers went to them had more intimate and sometimes more startling experiences with them. To probably many persons, however, a Grizzly Bear is an enormous animal interested primarily in chasing and killing hunters or live stock. To those who have read Seton's story of Wab, the animal is one to be admired and pitied. Probably none of these accounts give us the true story of the animal.

An adult male Grizzly Bear may be over 8 feet long and stand 4 feet high at the shoulder, which is higher than one finds in the related Black Bear. Grizzly males may attain a weight of 1,150 pounds. The females are smaller in size and weight than their mates. Both sexes are colored a yellowish brown with a gray or "grizzly" wash. The Alaskan Brown Bear is larger than the typical Grizzly, reaching a weight of over 1600 pounds and is probably the largest carnivorous mammal on earth. There is much difference of opinion as to the proper classification of the Grizzly Bear group. Some give the Alaskan Brown Bear rank as a subspecies, while others recognize it as a distinct species. Some 86 forms have been recognized as being distinct by the zoologists.

Grizzly Bears mate for the season. The 2 to 4 young are born 236 days after the breeding takes place and each weighs about 1½ pounds and has a length of about 8 inches. At 3 months of age, the young Grizzly weighs about 12 pounds. At 3 years, it reaches breeding age and usually by 25 years it has completed its normal life span.

The food of Grizzlies includes not only larger animals like deer, cattle and horses, but sheep, snakes, birds and even ants. They may also eat fruits and other plant foods when necessary.

Generally Grizzlies mind their own business but when crossed by another animal they can put up a prodigious fight. The track of a Grizzly shows the hind foot reaching a length of 11 inches as against a corresponding length of 6 inches in a Black Bear.

It is hoped that these magnificent creatures may never become extinct. The National Wildlife Federation is interested in reasonable protection for all animals in danger of extinction.

Dean Schuster

He holds membership on the Committee on Organization and Policy of the Land Grant College Association, and has been a member of the College Accreditation Team of the Middle States Association. Dean Schuster is a member of the American Society of Agronomy, a Fellow of the American Society for the Advancement of Science, and holds memberships in Phi Kappa Phi and Alpha Zeta, the honorary scholarship society and the honorary agriculture fraternity, respectively.

The graduating class of 1953 at the University of Delaware dedicated their yearbook, the Blue Hen, to Dean Schuster.

In the course of his long period of service on the staff of the university, the dean has published a considerable number of scientific treatises and articles which have contributed greatly to the advancement of agriculture in Delaware and beyond the state's borders.

In 1926, he was one of 20 agronomists to be chosen throughout the nation for a tour of the British Isles and Continental Europe. He has also traveled widely throughout this country, Canada and Mexico.

Sometime during the summer, Dean Schuster will assume new duties continuing his service in his chosen field with the Foreign Operations Administration as agricultural college adviser to the 20 agricultural colleges of Brazil, with headquarters in Rio de Janeiro. He will be accompanied to Brazil by Mrs. Schuster.

Dean and Mrs. Schuster reside at 120 Townsend Road, Newark. They have two children, a daughter, Mary Lee, who was graduated from the University of Delaware as a bachelor of arts in 1940, and a son, William, also a graduate of the university with the degree of bachelor of arts in electrical engineering in 1943.

Choirs To Receive Methodist Awards At Sunday Service

The annual presentation of junior and youth choir awards will be made Sunday at the Newark Methodist Church, at the 11 a.m. service when the two choirs will sing.

Immediately after the morning service, Bertram D. Gable, director of music, will meet with youth of the 10th, 11th, and 12th grades of the next September to discuss the formation of a new youth choir for that age group. This will also provide for an intermediate choir to be comprised of youth in the 7th, 8th, and 9th grades. The new Youth Choir will assist periodically at the 11 a.m. service next fall, and the intermediate choir at the 9:30 a.m. service.

Registrations for the two sessions of church school (9:30 and 11 a.m.) beginning October 3, are still being received. Registration cards are available at the church office.

Vacation church school will be held from June 21 through July 2. The first planning session for the school will be held Monday, June 7, at 7:30 p.m.

PARENTS, PLEASE NOTE

Questionnaires concerning plans for the Junior Canteen are being distributed to all sixth grade pupils in the Newark school district for delivery to their parents. The parents are urged to fill out the questionnaires for return to the schools by Monday, June 7.

County Assessment Figures May Delay City Tax Billings

The city's property tax bills, usually mailed out by July 1, probably won't get to the taxpayers this year until August 1, Councilman Samuel Diehl, head of the city finance committee, said yesterday.

The bills cannot be made out until the annual property assessment is completed, and this has been delayed because Council still is debating what method of assessment to use.

Usually, the city simply takes over the county's assessment figures, but the latter generally have been increased this year as a result of a new and extensive county property survey.

For this reason, some councilmen object to using the new county assessment. Meanwhile, the finance committee is studying the county figures and is expected to make a recommendation to council.

At the same time, a special committee is drafting a city budget for the forthcoming fiscal year. The committee includes: E-Councilman Frank Durnell, who formerly headed the finance committee; Charles Cole, duPont Company accountant; Mr. Diehl; and Charles Long, city secretary.

Milk Off-Flavors Can Be Prevented Specialist States

Delmar J. Young Advises Dairy Farmers On Ways Of Protecting Product

Off flavors in milk are giving some dairymen gray hairs, says Delmar J. Young, extension dairy specialist at the University of Delaware. When such milk is refused by the dealer it can mean an economic setback for the farmer.

These unpleasant tastes and odors can come from feed, bacteria, absorbed flavors, chemical changes in milk composition and foreign materials. Young assures dairy farmers that they can combat off flavors by careful attention to feeding practices, sanitation and cleanliness in handling milk and milking equipment.

He gives the following recommendations: For garlic, strong silage and other feed flavors, guard against using them in the feed supply. Feed the cows good quality hay or silage within six hours after each milking. Various bacteria cause bitter, fishy or fruity flavors. Quick, thorough cooling of milk is most important, along with strict cleanliness and protection of milk from cooler to plant.

Absorbed or "barny" flavors come from musty barn air breathed by the cow at milking time. Good ventilation and clean barns will help prevent this trouble.

Strong, slightly salty flavors due to chemical changes are noticed among cows in late lactation, old age or suffering from under infections. Check each cow as you milk. Good fertilized pastures with Ladino clover and orchard grass will help these cows.

Foreign odors can be picked up from water, milk cans, medicines, fly spray, paint, gasoline or any strong-smelling material used about the barn and milk house. Keep a watch for these possible taste-contaminating materials.

We then that are strong might hear the infirmities of the weak, and not to please ourselves.

—(Romans 15:1)

What are kindness, charity, love of neighbor, tolerance, patience, at the noble qualities of bearing and bearing with? "The infirmities of the weak"? However, if we express those qualities with among self-satisfaction, they are of small, fleeting worth.

Washington Snapshots

The prophets of gloom and doom, along the banks of the Potomac and elsewhere throughout the nation, seem to be getting more than a little nervous because their predictions aren't coming true.

They see the economy making the transition from war to peace without too much difficulty—they note that the Eisenhower administration appears to be moving steadily forward on an economic program designed to free business from government interference and thereby to stimulate the kind of economy that will bring about genuine full employment, not only during this year but in the years to come.

Permanent Cure Sought

In other words—and to the confounding of the socialist schemers—the administration is working toward effecting a permanent cure for unemployment, rather than attempting to rub a little snake-oil on the symptoms of it.

Fact of the matter is, as Washington observers are pointing out, that average employment in the first three months of this year was 69 million men and women, which, as Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey notes, is the highest number of people employed during that period of the year in any year in our history except for the first three months of last year following President Eisenhower's election.

Shady Characters Can Be Murdering Your Prized Lawn

Too Much Shade Harmful To Grass, Tree Experts Counsel; Urge Prunings

Shady characters may be getting away with murder right in your own backyard.

In other words, trees may be the culprits if grass is dead. Lawns are constantly being killed by too much shade, which cuts off the life-giving sunshine.

Proper pruning is one solution, tree experts advise. Thinning of branches, so that sunshine can filter through, has helped develop many fine lawns under partial shade conditions. Sometimes tree branches droop lower than is desirable. Removing these sunshades permits rays to better reach grass areas beneath trees in morning and late afternoon.

More drastic measures call for removal of excess or unwanted trees. Shade trees should be spaced at a minimum distance of 40 to 50 feet for best results. If there are too many trees, neither the trees nor the grass can develop properly. Those specimens which are not needed should be taken down.

To make sure that both trees and lawns will flourish on the same site, the new home owner should seek professional advice before choosing his arboreal surroundings. Many lawn troubles stem from a poor choice of trees or from too many trees. Part of the problem is competition of tree roots and lawn for available moisture and nourishment.

But chosen properly, spaced properly and cared for properly, trees should be an asset rather than a liability for a beautiful lawn.

First Presbyterian Brookside Service Scheduled Sunday

Rev. Edward Fish Plans
Initial Rites In School;
Building Plan Announced

The new Brookside Community Presbyterian Church will hold its first services this Sunday when the Rev. Edward Fish, will conduct a service at 10 a.m. in the Brookside School.

First session of the Sunday school is scheduled for 9 a.m. Sunday, June 20.

The young congregation will not be long without a church building, however, since construction of a $50,000 chapel will begin in two weeks. Plans call for a chapel with a capacity of 250 and a six-room educational building.

Chapel Site

The chapel will be erected on the corner of Montvale and Marrow Roads, opposite the Brookside shopping center.

The chapel is of the so-called "flour-de-lis" construction, a standard design which the United Presbyterian Church Board of American Missions has constructed across the country.

The exterior will be of sandstone and red brick construction. The sanctuary will consist of a divided chancel, with the front of the chancel of plywood construction and the furnishings, pulpit, lectern and paragon around the chancel of ponderosa and white pine. The paneling will be of white pine, the window sills of marble.

Three Wings Planned

The "flour-de-lis" is descriptive of the planned complete structure which calls for three wings. When the need arises a large auditorium can be constructed with a capacity of 500 or more persons at which time the chapel could revert to a marriage or devotional chapel.

Mr. Fish has taken up residence with his wife and son, Tommy, in the parsonage on Montvale Road. He is a graduate of Sterling College at Sterling, Kan., and the Xenia Theological Seminary in Pittsburgh. For the past three years he has been pastor of the church at Tilden, Ill.

HISTORICAL REVIEWS OF THE NEWARK AREA

by Ethel M. Hill

Today I am feeling apologetic, particularly toward Pike Creek. I had promised myself I would try to find the original owner of the farm with the 1883 date stone. But after talking with many friends and going to Wilmington to the Court House — and thanks for the kindness of Mr. Burton Heal, keeper of records — I was able to get track of one farm — of Charles Springer.

This was ordered to be surveyed "him on the west side of Red Clay Creek, 1883, adjoining the farm of Samuel Barker near Barker's Bridge. I must confess I got lost trying to locate a "big oak on the edge of a stream west of a buttonwood near the top of a hill" — those trees have been gone for a century.

Of course the man who owns the farms knows how to locate it but to the novice looking at those old surveys it is all Greek.

In this letter Charles Springer tells of owning two plantations, the farm of Samuel Barker near Barker's Bridge. I must confess I got lost trying to locate a "big oak on the edge of a stream west of a buttonwood near the top of a hill" — those trees have been gone for a century.

Charles Springer was born in Stockholm, Sweden in 1858, a son of Christoffer and Beata Salina Springer. His mother was lady in waiting to the Queen of Sweden and his father was architect in the Royal Exchequer. They lived opposite the church of Clara in Stockholm.

Leaving Home

One summer morning in 1767 a boy of eighteen stepped from the doorway of a stone house in Stockholm, turned to wave good-bye to his mother and entered the carriage which waited at the curb. The boy was being sent to Johan Leyonberg, Sweden's minister in London, who would direct the lad's education, especially in the English language. Some time passed, the boy studied and was ready to return home.

In a London street he was set upon by ruffians, a cloak thrown over his head and he was hurried on board an English merchant vessel in the Thames — transported, a prisoner, to Virginia — and there sold in bondage. The next five years must have been a hard one for a person who had led such a sheltered life and who was by training and disposition a student. But it made of him a man of full stature.

At the end of his period of servitude — five years — Karl Christoffer Springer, or Charles Springer, as we know him, made his way through 400 miles of wilderness, northwest to the settlement of the Swedish people at Christians on the Delaware River where the record of his long life of service occupies an important place in the early history of Delaware.

Many letters were written to the home folks in Sweden but for many years few reached their destination.

A Letter At Last

At last, on May 23, 1893 a letter was received from John Thelin, postmaster of Gothenburg, expressing the King's interest in the affairs of the Swedish settlers in America.

Charles Springer translated this letter and was chosen to prepare an answer. He being now the most suitable among them to read and write Swedish.

This letter, dated May 31, 1893, reached Sweden safely and preserved in the Royal Archives in Stockholm.

The next day Charles wrote a letter to his mother. It was now 17 years since he had seen her.

The original of this letter is also preserved in the Royal Archives in Stockholm, Sweden.

Charles Springer wrote many letters to James Steel, secretary of the Provincial Land Office as well as many to the Swedish government. He occupied the office of justice of the peace, justice of the Court of Oyer and Terminer, justice of Court of Common Pleas of New Castle County, and was held in great esteem by the members of Old Sweden's church which he worked so hard to build.

Charles Springer's letter to his mother: "My highly honored, dear mother: I can now thank God, make known to you dear Mother, my doings and life at this time. First of all it is very deplorable to be so far away from you my dear Mother, from brothers, relatives and in such a far away country, and particularly as I can not get any communication from you for all that I have written to you many times, except for one received from you in England.

"When I was in London and had in mind to return to Sweden, my native land, after going to school learning the English language, reading and writing and had become well versed in the art of arithmetic, and as I say was about to return home again, then I was kidnapped and against my will brought on board an English ship to America, in Virginia, and when I came there, like cattle being brought to market I was sold at auction to work in the worst slavery for five years.

"My work was unbearable, extraordinary so in the day time in the summer. Then I had to prepare the land for planting tobacco and Indian corn. In the winter my work was mostly to cut down wood and clear of the land for planting. I have, God be praised, honor and glory, overcome it all.

"When I had faithfully served my time, I heard accidentally, that there were Swedes at Delaware River in Pennsylvania which during the Swedish regime was called 'Nya Sverige' (New Sweden).

To Delaware

"As I said, I undertook the burdensome journey of some 400 miles, and when I arrived there at the Delaware River, I met there the old people, and they treated me in a very friendly manner.

"And when I had been there about a year and a half then it pleased God to send and vouchsafe me a most virtuous wife by the name of Maria Hendrichsdotter whom I married December 7, 1803, and with whom it has pleased God to vouchsafe me three children all three of them daughters; and she is even now with her fourth child. May God grant her a good delivery.

"As regards my activities here I wish to say that I am a reader in the Swedish congregation here and serve it because now we have no minister, for they are all dead.

"I serve the congregation and the

Nine Scholarship Awards Announced For U.D. Students

J. Allen Frear, Guest Speaker At Newark High School Grad Celebration

The winners of four alumni and five alumnae scholarships for the next academic year at the University of Delaware have been announced by John E. Houtt, dean of students.

The winners were chosen by the alumni scholarship committee under the chairmanship of Raymond B. Duncan, instructor in science at Newark High School and by the alumnae scholarship committee under the chairmanship of Miss Dorothy E. Markert, director of guidance at Newark High School.

The largest award, the $500 Dr. George A. Harter Scholarship, has been presented to John W. Terres Drexel Hill, Pa., a graduate of Upper Darby High School. The Harter Scholarship is renewable beyond the freshman year upon satisfactory scholastic attainment.

The $400 Dr. W. Owen Sypher Scholarship has been granted to Gerald E. Davis, a senior at Wilmington High School, who was a freshman year upon satisfactory scholastic attainment.

A similar $400 award, the Dr. Samuel Chiles Mitchell Scholarship, has been given to David F. Norcross, Moorestown, N.J. and Frank J. Carroll, another member of the June class at Wilmington High, will receive the third $400 grant, the Dr. Walter Hullahen Scholarship.

The three $400 awards are granted only for the freshman year.

Miss Frances E. Hamilton of Wilmington, whose brother was awarded a $1,000 Atlas Powder Company scholarship two weeks ago, today was named one of five winners of alumnae scholarship awards at the University of Delaware.

After scholarship awards went to Miss Patricia L. Bryan of Westfield, N.J.; Miss Jeanne A. Garland, Havertown, Pa.; Miss Velta M. Peterson and Miss Patricia J. Samples of Wilmington.

Miss Hamilton, a senior at the Alexis I. duPont High School, will receive the Winifred J. Robinson Scholarship valued at $400.

Miss Bryan, Miss Garland, and Miss Peterson, also received $400 scholarships. Miss Bryan was awarded the Everett C. Johnson Scholarship, Miss Garland has been named winner of the Emma P. Warner Scholarship, and Miss Peterson will receive the Class of 1918 Scholarship grant.

The Edge Moore Alumnae Chapter Scholarship of $150 has been given to Miss Samples, who will be graduated this year from the Mt. Pleasant High School.

The inscription on the Liberty Bell reads: "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof."

Drowsy quiet fell upon the Rimmers' living room as the Mrs. switched off a late-evening radio program of mood music and leaned back in her chair.

"I like the old songs so much," she remarked, "that I'm afraid I'm getting old."

"Why do you say you're afraid?" George asked. "If you and I hadn't long ago made our peace with the good Lord, I could understand. But—"

"Oh, I didn't mean it that way, George. It's just—"

"It's just that so many of us seem to think there's something disgraceful about getting on in years," George interrupted. "The way we try to conceal our ages, or knock off a few years. Why do we do it?"

"Well, I suppose it could be a matter of pride, I don't know, really, George. What does it matter, anyway?"

"It matters a lot, I think," George countered. "We've over-accented youth, seems to me, in advertising and that sort of thing, to the point that no one or nothing else seems to count. If anything's disgraceful, it's that—not the fact of growing old."

"Everybody does, of course," Mrs. R. said slowly. "You begin the minute you're born—growing old, I mean."

"Sure," George agreed. "So, what's to be ashamed or afraid of about it?"

SERMON OF THE WEEK

by Gladys J. Peterson,
Moody Bible Institute

Years ago, grandma crossed a busy street. The policeman on duty stopped her and told her that he was trying to make people obey the law, and the law was: cross streets only at intersections, and only with the green light. Grandma promised that she would never cross on the red light again.

It became a family joke... the time grandma got bawled out by a cop. But never again, no matter how much of a hurry she was in, did she cross a street without waiting for the green light. In the impatience of adolescence we often tried to hurry her across a street against the light. "I promised that policeman NEVER to cross a street against the light," she would say, and we had to restrain ourselves and wait with her, although there wasn't a car in sight.

Promises

Many promises are made and broken these days. Some seem to break every promise they make. Others are more conscientious (like grandma) about keeping their promises. Few people, however hard they try, and yet who is able to keep every promise they have ever made?

There is One, however, who has given us many "exceeding great and precious promises" (1 Peter 1:3), and yet who is able to keep every promise He has ever made. That One is the Lord, who, the Bible tells us, "is not slack concerning His promise" (1 Peter 3:9).

God has also promised many things in this life to those who love Him and try to serve Him. Among these blessings are: companionship — "There is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother" (Prov. 18:24); guidance — "I will instruct thee and teach thee in the way which thou shalt go: I will guide thee with mine eye" (Ps. 138:3); pleasure and joy — "In thy presence is fullness of joy; at thy right hand there are pleasures forevermore" (Ps. 16:11); peace — "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you" (John 14:27); yes, and even happiness — for "whoso trusteth in the Lord, happy is he" (Prov. 16:20).

church by reading the word of God, and explaining it on the basis of a Swedish book of Homilies and by the singing of hymns. I have served the congregation going on the fourth year. Besides this I have two plantations which I have bought, and on them, I live and move about, sowing all kinds of seeds.

"And I have also livestock for the needs of my house, and I live, God be praised, in such manner that I and mine suffer no want."

"My highly honored mother, let me hear from you and my dear brothers and how they are situated. I have news from you. It would make me heartily glad and it has been my highest desire, before I depart this life, that I may hear of your good situation."

"We who are Swedes have received a letter from our King in Sweden to the effect that he upon our communication will send us ministers and Swedish books of which there is great need and they have no one among them to write for them except me which I have done."

I am indebted for this letter from Charles Springer to his mother, to Mrs. Courtland B. Springer, Past State Genealogist of Pennsylvania, 1950-53.

Self-Inflicted Shot Kills Man In Chestnut Hill Home

George Marshall Aument, 38, of Chestnut Hill Road, near Newark, was found shot in the head at his home late Sunday afternoon, and pronounced dead on arrival at the Wilmington General Hospital.

Coroner C. Everett Kelley said the wound was self-inflicted. He said Aument left a note saying "family trouble" was the reason for the act.

Aument shot himself through the right temple about 5:45 p. m. while sitting on the bed in his room. His father, mother, sister, brother-in-law, and nephew were standing in the back yard, heard the shot, and found him lying across the bed. Aument was still alive when taken from the room.

Cancer eventually will strike one of every five Americans according to present rates. Strike back by supporting the American Cancer Society.
