A 'good' funeral?

By JIM STREIT

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

I'm a funeral goer. I was raised in a family that placed much importance on showing up at times of grief for family, friends and neighbors. It's not fun nor is it something I like. But I'm not hesitant to do whatever I can to help people I know find comfort in the support of their friends and acquaintances.

Christina referendum tomorrow

Upgrades needed at schools in suburbs and in Wilmington

Already a year after a failed capital referendum, students in the Christina District have a minimum of three more years to wait before air conditioning and other upgrades to their classrooms. Even if the vote is yes tomorrow, the earliest that the first school improvement could begin is two years from now.

"The district does not receive full funding for projects immedi-

"If we pass a referendum on April 18, we would not receive partial planning and design funds until November...with the actual work beginning in the summer of 2004 and the final projects being completed in 2006."

Polls will be open from noon many families, is as memorable as Alex Ennis' service last week.

The Ennis family lives at the other end of Rahway Drive. I first met Alex when he was in Cub Scouts with my son. From a distance, I have enjoyed watching him grow.

The news of his tragic death hit me, I suspect, like it struck most other parents when they heard of the senseless accident on Delaware Avenue.

I could not imagine receiving such a phone call nor envisage dealing with the decisions the Ennis and two other families were forced to make. "There but by the grace of God go I," I remembered my parents telling me when I was young and leaving the family of a victim of a tragic death.

But if there can be such a thing as a "good" funeral, I've seen no better example of one than the service for Alex last week.

It was no surprise that St. Thomas Church was packed. The Ennises are friendly, family-oriented people.

What warmed my heart, though, was the dozens — maybe a hundred of more, of Alex's fellow students at

Osborne returns in District 5, Diehl disappointed 2nd time

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The results in last Tuesday's city council election were not a record for incumbent Frank Osborne, but they still gave him a third term in District 5.

Osborne, currently Deputy Mayor on council and representing the district since 1998, was the winner over Bruce Diehl by a vote of 192-160. At a total of 352 voters, approximately 15.4 percent of the 2,274 registered voters in District 5 went to the polls on April 9.

"It was a fairly good turnout," said Osborne following the election. "I'm pleased with the result, of course, but I thought it would be by a wider margin."

Osborne said he did not get any comments from voters in the district which would explain the close outcome. "I don't plan any chances in the things I will be working on," he said.

Osborne won his first term in District 5 in 1998 by defeating incumbent Nancy Turner, who served only one term, by a vote of 419-224. In 2000, he returned to council unopposed.

"I know I lost, but I didn't get beat," said Diehl last week. "If more people had come out, if it hadn't rained — I think I might have won. I only needed 17 votes to tip the scale."

Diehl had a strong showing in District 5 during his failed bid to be Newark's mayor in 2001. Losing the mayoral race by 1,539-1,094, Diehl came very close to taking District 5 with a vote of 275-265.

This time, Diehl said he was very disappointed in the number of voters. "It's very disappointing only about 16 percent of the people in the district bothered to vote," he said. "I went to 98 percent of the households and prob-

On water delayed

Task Force to meet again on May 29 to consider drought emergency

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Mandatory water restrictions seemed almost assured as the water agencies in Delaware prepared for a day of marathon discussions about the worsening drought.

"We're meeting with the Christina River Basin Authority at 10 a.m.," said Newark water director Joseph Dombrowski on Monday. "That's all the agencies in Pennsylvania and Delaware. Then the Governor's Water Supply Task Force is meeting this afternoon in Dover and we should have a decision about mandatory restrictions by 4 p.m."

However, the Task Force decided late on Monday to delay the drought emergency at least another month. Their next scheduled meeting is May 29.

Prior to that date, Delaware officials will hold a public hearing on emergency water restrictions, tentatively scheduled for 6 p.m. on May 23 at the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control in Dover.

Dombrowski said water supplies in Newark were still adequate with "the little bit of rain" and the flow in the White Clay Creek above 14 mgd (million gallons per day) allowing the city to keep using the water treatment plant. "We're projecting that the creek level will drop in early to mid-May — which will be a month earlier than usual," said Dombrowski. "That means we're in a pretty severe drought."

The city of Newark currently is mandated to stop drawing

New York firefighters coming to Newark

■ Reception, hockey game to benefit area children

ALMOST 100 firefighters and family members, including one of the only survivors from Battalion 9, Ladder 35 in Manhattan, and personnel from Ladder 58 in New York City and Engine 45 in the Bronx, are bringing their Thank You America Tour here to thank the many Delawareans who helped in the Sept. 11th relief efforts.

The Thank You America Tour kicks off on Friday with a motorcade arrival at Brandywine Springs Elementary School in the Red Clay School District. Nearly 700 children, parents and teachers and dignitaries will join in the invitation-only celebration honoring all firefighters, EMS workers, law enforcement, U.S. military, postal workers and others who lay their lives on the line for others.

According to event organizer Robert McCreary, the NYC firefighters began the Tour to try to make a difference by helping to raise funds toward local initiatives in the communities they visit.

The National Campaign to Fight for Children and Brandywine Springs Elementary School, which benefit from the proceeds of the weekend's events, will host a VIP Pre-Game Party for the NYC Firefighters on Friday night.

Tickets to the party at the Doubletree Hotel in Wilmington are $30. Available at the door or at Delaware Boscov's stores, they include a buffet, an open bar, entertainment from the

COMMUNITY is the hallmark of the Thank You America Tour and Fire on Ice event coming to Wilmington and Newark this week. Hundreds of children and adults from communities throughout New Castle County are preparing to welcome firefighters from companies which lost members in the 9/11 attacks in New York.

According to organizer Robert McCreary of The National Campaign to Fight for Children, 50 percent of the money raised from the two days of events (see related story Page 1) will go to support the Matt Zabitka Ranch for Terminally Ill Children in Oxford, Pa. "Family and friends of Hall of Fame sports writer Matt Zabitka are spearheading the efforts to raise funds for this ranch," said McCreary.

PTO president Eileen Snyder said everyone at Brandywine Springs Elementary School is hoping their 50 percent of the proceeds will make a dream come true. "We're hoping — really hoping — Fire on Ice will do it for the (playground) fundraising," Snyder said last week.

Snyder said the property which holds the school in Millcreek was sold back to Red Clay School District in 2000 when Hercules Co. no longer had use for it. "The contractor put in a very small playground that only accommodates kindergarten and first grade — it's not big enough for the 5th graders at all."

Every child in the school got to help create a "dream playground," according to Snyder. "We showed them the possible play structures and every idea was considered," she said. "The PTO went over the final plans for safety concerns."

The finished play area, called "Kids Creation...More Than a Playground," includes the play structure designed by

POLICE BLOTTER

Armed man demands ride

STATE POLICE are searching for an armed black male suspect who accosted two people in the parking lot of Harmony Plaza shopping center on Sunday, April 14, at around 1:30 a.m.

Police report two Newark residents were standing near their vehicle in the shopping center when they were approached by a suspect described as a black male with a graying goatee, 35-40 years old, five feet eight inches to five feet six inches tall, 160-180 pounds, wearing faded blue jeans, a blue hooded sweatshirt, and a light blue New York Mets hat, who demanded a ride to an unknown apartment complex on Route 273.

The suspect became belligerent when the pair refused. When they entered their vehicle and attempted to drive away, the suspect produced a handgun, which he pointed at the victim's through the vehicle windshield but did not discharge.

The victims drove from the area without further incident. Neither victim was injured.

Anyone with information about this incident is urged to call Delaware State Police at 323-4411.

Robbery on Barksdale Rd. injures 16-year-old

Newark Police are investigating a robbery that occurred at the corner of Barksdale and Casho Mill roads in Newark on April 8 around 10:10 p.m.

The victim, a 16-year-old juvenile reported that he was walking home when he was struck in the head from behind with an unknown object and knocked to the ground. Two male suspects then demanded the victim give them his money as they went through his pockets.

The suspects then took undisclosed property from his pockets and fled the area in an unknown direction. The victim then made it home to the unit block of Allison Lane and notified police.

The victim was then transported to Christiana Hospital for a laceration to the back of the head.

The victim was unable to give any description of the suspects other than that they were males.

Anyone with information on this investigation may contact Detective Szep at 366-7110, extension 133 or call Delaware Crime Stoppers at 1-800-TIP-3333.

Woman throws trash at city worker

Newark Police report arrest warrants are pending for a 45-year-old woman who allegedly cursed and threw trash bags at a city of Newark public works vehicle and employee around noon on April 1 in Blair Court.

The woman allegedly put out trash weighing over 40 pounds on more than one occasion. City trash collectors leave stickers on overweight trash advising residents about the violation and reason for non-collection.

Underage drinkers at Newark center

Newark Police charged Guillermo Gonzalez, 18, of Newark with under-age consumption around 12:30 a.m. on April 3 after officers responded to a call about an unconscious person at the Blue Hen Bowling Alley and found Gonzalez passed out in the bathroom.

He was transported to Christiana Hospital emergency room where he was treated for intoxication.

Newark Police arrested an 15-year-old boy from Wilmington and charged him with underage consumption and disorderly conduct at the Newark Shopping Center around 1:05 a.m. on April 4.

Officers reported the boy began making "unreasonable noise and coarse utterances," during a traffic stop of the vehicle in which he was a passenger.

Windows damaged at No Name Pizza

Sometime between 3 and 6 a.m. on April 3, an unknown suspect used a BB gun to damage three windows on the No Name Pizza and Gyro at 250 E. Delaware Ave.

Damage was estimated at $1,000.

13-year-old punched on Barksdale Road

A 13-year-old Newark boy walking on Barksdale Road around 1:30 p.m. on April 1 told police he was punched in the face several times by an unknown suspect described as a Hispanic male, 15-16 years old, about 5 feet, 9 inches tall and having an average build, wearing grey sweat pants and a white sweater.

Anyone with information is asked to call police at 366-7111.

Evening escorts offered at university

IN RESPONSE to a number of recent crimes in areas near the campus, the University of Delaware has expanded its evening walking escort service.

"The University's walking escort service has been in place for more than six years," said Lawrence Thornton Jr., UD's director of Public Safety, "and its primary goal is to enable members of the University community to travel from one campus location to another with a sense of security."

According to Thornton, the service is offered at no charge, and is available every night of the week.

Public Safety student employees primarily serve as escorts, and full-time security guards and police officers are used when demand is high.

The walking escort service is designed to complement, not replace, the established shuttle service that runs in the evenings, Thornton said. The walking service is available to students who need to go to a location not served by the transit system, such as a person leaving Morris Library and returning to Harrington Residence Hall complex.

An escort may be requested by using one of the more than 200 blue light emergency phones located throughout the campus or by calling Public Safety at 831-2222. Callers must give their name, exact location and destination. Escorts are equipped with two-way radios providing instant communication to the Public Safety dispatcher.

"With an increasing number of assaults reported near the campus in recent weeks," Thornton said, "the walking service has been expanded to include some off-campus locations that are close by University property, such as the University Courtyard, School Lane and Ivy Hall apartment complexes and the Prospect and Cleveland avenue areas."

During an average month, Public Safety receives about 150 escort requests, and there was a slight increase during March.

Attorney General meets with Catholic Bishop

Delaware's Attorney General Jane Brady met with Roman Catholic Bishop Michael Salvatore this week to discuss allegations of abuse by priests in the Diocese of Wilmington and procedures for assuring cooperation in the future.

The attorney general issued the following statement after the meeting:

"Any incident of abuse is too many, but so far as we have been able to discover, the problems in Delaware have not been of the magnitude reported elsewhere. The Bishop and I are both committed to the protection of children, the appropriate handling of these cases through legal channels and diocesan policy, and the adherence to Delaware laws concerning child abuse allegations.

"We reviewed all the allegations that had been reported to the Diocese against priests who were not deceased and which occurred in Delaware. There were five such individuals, none of whom are presently performing priestly duties. In addition, we shared the information we had received through calls, letters and email from the public. Each of us will respectively act, as appropriate, on the information we shared."

water from the White Clay Creek when the flow drops below 14 mgd. "We're in discussions about changing that when the reservoir is complete, but nothing has happened, yet," Dombrowski said.

According to Dombrowski, the city was "resting the wells" and still pulling from the White Clay this week. "Usage (by city water customers) is normal — voir, planned for completion by the end of 2003, at the next meeting on April 22. "We're doing everything possible to have those recommendations ready by the next regular council meeting," said Dombrowski this week. "The longer the delay, the more likely we are to have glitches. For instance, the liner cannot be put in during the winter or in the heat of summer — the window of opportunity is spring or fall — so we want to be on schedule for that to be done this fall."

Despite the recent rainfall, most of Maryland and Delaware are still 8-16 inches below normal for the past 12 months, according to the Middle Atlantic River Forecast Center. Data from the National Climatic Data Center indicated the region needs five to seven inches of rainfall per month through the spring and early summer to relieve the region of drought conditions.

Water levels are unusually low at the beginning of the growing season, and already have led to mandatory water restrictions in Maryland, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The U.S. Geological Survey reported that observation wells in Delaware's Kent County show groundwater levels for March are now lower than they were during the drought of 1999 and the severe drought of the 1960s.

Newark's grass clipping pick-ups begin Saturday

The 2002 Grass Recycling Program will begin in Newark on Saturday, April 20, and will continue through Saturday, Oct. 12.

City residents may prepare grass clippings for collection by placing them in a trash can, not exceeding 40 pounds, at the curb each Saturday before 8 a.m. No bags or other yard waste will be accepted.

No grass clippings will be collected on normal collection days. Similarly, no trash will be collected on Saturdays.

For more information, call 366-7045.

Dombrowski. "University of Delaware students will be leaving soon - this may be turn out to be very convenient when they leave, because, as a result, June is normally our lowest month for water usage in Newark."

Dombrowski said water usage in June is high for most other water companies. "We're a little out-of-whack in that regard," he said.

The city of Newark hopes to present city council with construction bids for the city's reser-

Diehl said he ran a very inexpensive race costing less than $500. "It was just me - no committee," he said.

Diehl said he spent the last two weeks before the election personally going around the district. "I got a lot of compliments when I was going around," he said. "Some people remembered me from last time."

Osborne, as well as Karl Kalbacher and Christine Rewa who were unopposed, were sworn in for new two-year terms at council's annual Reorganization Meeting last night.

Schools projects will take to 2006 to complete

► REFERENDUM, from 1

to 9 p.m. tomorrow for people living in the Christina School District to consider $63.75 million in local spending for renovations and construction in district schools. The state will have responsibility for the other 57 percent of the total cost equaling $83.96 million.

Increases to local tax bills, starting in 2003, are also staggered. Based on a district average of a home assessed at $60,000, Fischer said the most that the average taxpayer will have to pay in increased school tax in any one year is about $72 in 2007.

Noting assessed value is not the market value, Fischer said the bills in the first year would rise about $.30 per month for the average household. For years 2004 through 2007, the monthly tax increases would be approximately $2.29, $4.80, $5.45, and $6 respectively.

"After the fifth year, the tax increase starts going down," said Fischer.

Retired educator William

Keene, a past School Superintendent for whom Keene Elementary School is named, noted senior citizens can apply to get up to $500 off their annual school tax bill. "We also have to remind ourselves that a lot of us are going to be selling our homes now that we're retired," said Keene. "Seniors think this referendum doesn't affect them except by more taxes, but better schools will mean better prices for our homes."

Acknowledging problems with contractors meeting deadlines and costs in past capital projects in the district, Fischer said "quality control of each project is of the utmost importance" in the funding and construction timeline.

"A change in the state law, called the 'best value bid,' allows for bids to be evaluated on other factors than just the lowest cost," Fischer said. "In addition, the new law allows the district the option of using our own criteria to 'pre-qualify' contractors before the bidding process begins."

District officials also said they will tap Performance Bonds as needed on all projects, and promised to terminate contractors who fail to meet contract requirements. "We will perform final inspections and retain five percent (of the funds) on each project until all work is satisfactorily completed," said Fischer.

Tomorrow's referendum asks approval for local funding totaling $26,260,800 for upgrades, including air conditioning, at Jones, Brookside, West Park, Smith, Gallaher, McVey, Downes, Maclary, and Wilson elementary schools.

The district needs local voters to agree to pay $15,578,300 to fully air condition Pulaski, Drew-Pyle and Bancroft elementary schools in Wilmington, and Kirk Middle School, and Newark and Christiana high schools in the Newark area.

And, instead of building a new district swimming pool at Christiana High School, the district plans to renovate the existing 26-year-old pool at Glasgow High at a local cost of $454,700, which will save more than $5 million in school taxes.

A new, 800-student middle school and new 840-student elementary school, both needed along the over-crowded Route 40 corridor, will cost $38.5 million with $18 million coming from local taxes.

"The Waterford development is projected to add 731 new homes in 2003," noted Fischer. "We plan for 0.5 children per new home, which (means) approximately 1,850 children."

While state funding is not available for modular classrooms to be used when work at a school is in progress, Fischer said the district considers the units essential. "We're asking for voters to approve this funding from local revenues," he said.

District officials said this approach provides classroom areas free of construction and related dust and debris, and saves time and distraction for teachers and students. "The plan is to have a 'bank' of 10 classrooms that would be used to move students when their classrooms are under construction," Fischer said.

Any voter can go to any polling place anywhere in school district

ANY resident of the Christina District who is at least 18 years of age may vote in the capital referendum on April 18 between noon and 9 p.m. Voters do not have to own property and they do not have to be registered to vote. Proof of identification, including a driver's license or state of Delaware I.D. card, must be presented at the time of voting.

Qualified voters can vote at any one of the polling places, regardless of where they reside in the district. For example, a person can vote during the workday in Wilmington, or go to a polling place in Newark on their way home.

Motorcade here on Saturday

► FIRE, from 1

Red Alert Band and a chance to meet the NYC firefighters.

Other VIP's confirmed at the party include boxing champ Smokin' Joe Frazier, Philadelphia Flyer Dave "the Hammer" Shultz and Miss Delaware Erin Cooper.

A motorcade procession at noon on Saturday, April 20, leads the trip down Main Street in Newark to the University of Delaware's Fred Rust Arena. Among participants expected in the motorcade are Mayor Hal Godwin of Newark, motorcycle units from Newark, Seaford, Harrington and Delaware City police departments, a SWAT van, motorcycles and cars from the New Castle County Police, fire equipment from Aetna and Wilmington fire companies, an ARFF Vehicle and personnel from the Delaware National Guard and Clydesdale horses from the County's Mounted Police.

Fire On Ice, an exhibition ice hockey game between members of the NYC and Wilmington Firefighters and Police starts at 2 p.m. at the ice arena. "The teams from New York and Wilmington will have an exhibition game," said PTO president Eileen Snyder of Brandywine Springs Elementary School. "It's hard for us to know who to root for exactly."

Snyder said the NYC firefighters, and other celebrities will sign autographs at the game. "It's really kid-friendly - everyone gets a program which has blank pages for the autographs," she explained.

Frazier, Shultz and Cooper will also be at the hockey game and Olympic Ice Skaters Tiffany Scott and Philip Dulebohn will perform during intermission.

Members of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity at the University of Delaware were also excited about the event last week. "This is going to be really big," said Alpha brother David Fatherree. "We're selling tickets for the hockey game and putting flyers all around campus about the events."

the children, a fitness area, basketball courts, and a StoryBook Garden and space for an outdoor classroom.

The play structure, already ordered from Recreation Resources Inc., will be installed May 17 to 19 by an army of parents and community volunteers from local civic associations and the Jaycees much like an old-fashioned barn-raising, according to Snyder.

"It's like a family here," said Snyder. "Our principal (William F. Cooke Jr.) talks about community all the time - he's the force behind this dream."

In addition to working on schools projects, volunteers at Brandywine Springs Elementary School are among people and groups receiving an Outstanding Volunteer Award from Governor Ruth Ann Minner this month. According to the nomination information, "the entire school culture is dedicated to volunteer service" in the community.

Students, parents and teachers started working immediately after the school opened to raise money for the new playground. Even the students were involved in the fundraising, collecting change in the school lobby and planning to hold a Swap Shop last fall.

Then came Sept. 11, 2001.

"When 9/11 happened, the kids had a lot of questions," Snyder said. "They wanted to know what they could do to help?"

The children decided to send the entire $500 raised for the playground from the Bobcat Swap Shop to the Children's Aid Society's World Trade Center Fund instead.

Meanwhile, the playground efforts went on. A Paw Packs raffle of nearly 200 donated goods and services was the biggest fundraiser for the school community. "That was huge," Snyder explained. "We raised $9,000 just from that. We also had a corporate breakfast for sponsors and we're selling commemorative bricks that will go in a path in the Storybook Garden."

But, the school was still far short of the $100,000 needed for the playground. "Then in December someone told me about the Fight For Children Campaign and they agreed to let us participate in the Thank You America Tour," said Snyder. "Frank McCreary has been fantastic."

Snyder said the staff and parents at Brandywine Springs are ready to collapse after three months of non-stop efforts to organize the school visit and promote the events. But, it will all be worth it when the playground's done. "The whole thing is for the kids," she said.

Christina students deserve better

There are still naysayers out there who want to hold the condition of school buildings for ransom until the Christina District School Board creates neighborhood schools.

If the referendum scheduled for tomorrow does not approve spending for upgrades in schools, it could be late in this decade before thousands of kids spend a day in air conditioning or without concern about rusty and deteriorating boilers in the basement.

The money requested by the Christina District will not be modifying classroom space or other items which will need revision if the Neighborhood Schools law is ever fully implemented. Students of all ages need adequate buildings in which to learn.

And, even if this week's referendum is approved, the last projects on the list will not be complete until the year 2006.

The upgrades needed now will benefit kids in Wilmington and kids in the suburbs. With mandatory summer school still planned for this year, sweltering classrooms will become all too evident in many locations.

Our children, and their teachers and staff, deserve the best we can afford to provide. It's not going to get any cheaper — and state money is not going to always be there.

Go out and vote tomorrow for a better learning environment for our school children in the Christina District.

more heading to the poll booths on April 18.

I understand that repairs and renovations are needed to our district schools, as well as the building of new schools, but can not vote for approving this referendum until the Christina School District puts an end to busing students into Wilmington. After rail-roading the plan set forth by the Neighborhood Schools Committee and defying State law, the school board is asking for my vote.

Since the Christina School Board will not recognize the desires of it's constituents or abide by mandated State law, this course of action may be the only option to finally put an end to busing. When neighborhood schools become a reality there will be an even greater need for funding which means another referendum.

No lack of revelance

To: The editor
From: State Rep. Stephanie Ulbrich

It was my privilege to attend ceremonies honoring the 3,456

The Medal of Honor was established 139 years ago to honor our military personnel "for gallantry, at the risk of life, above and beyond the call of duty."

Over that time, 14 Delawareans have become Medal of Honor recipients. The venues for these individual heroics have ranged from our own Civil War battlefields to the Tunisian desert.

Most of these battles were not remarkable. No history book will detail how Charles H. Pierce, an Army private who enlisted at Delaware City, held a bridge against a superior force of Filipino rebels in 1899.

And despite his noteworthy name, not many historians will recall Capt. Henry A. Du Pont's action at Cedar Creek, Va., where an artillery unit under his command checked a Confederate advance after the Union line had been broken.

However, their lack of historical relevance in no way diminishes the bravery of these Medal of Honor recipients nor does it relieve us of our responsibility as Americans of the debt we owe them for their selfless actions.

appeared on the ballots, and that the ballots marked (x) before the written names of the annexation candidates where the other candidate was not crossed off should be counted. Had these votes been counted W.J. Lovett, annexation candidate would have polled a majority over T.J. Buckingham. It has also been said that many people living in the newly annexed territory, hearing that their candidates were not eligible did not come out to vote.

Italian Bistro deserves chance in Newark

By MARK SISK

NEWARK POST GUEST COLUMNIST

WHAT ARE SOME of the qualities of a perfect restaurant for downtown Newark? Consider these: a restaurant that serves family-style meals in a building that was once a vacant eyesore and is now award-winning for its exterior and interior; a restaurant that reversed a 25-year trend in American retailing and moved from a mall to Main Street?

This restaurant exists in Newark right now, and it is called The Italian Bistro.

The desire of the Italian Bistro restaurant to serve alcoholic beverages to complement its dinner service, has been the subject of considerable public speculation and comment in recent months.

Some of this has been accurate; some, at least as reported to me, has not been accurate.

I represent the Italian Bistro in these matters but I ask you to consider my personal perspective on alcohol in Newark.

My last appearance in front of Newark's city council was on Nov. 26, 2001. My first appearance was in the spring of 1970, when, as a representative of Newark High School, I appeared on some matter or other (Frank Osborne was sitting on both these occasions!)

I served as deputy city solicitor and city prosecutor, for the city of Newark, from 1979 to 1995 and as counsel to the Newark Parking Authority intermittently from 1979 until the Parking Authority was reabsorbed by the city in 1998.

I am not giving you my resumé to attempt to impress you; I am simply stating that I particularly appreciate the difficult task that the city has in setting policy, and that the police and others have in executing it.

I have seen first hand the effects of alcohol in court - broken families, disturbed neighborhoods, students whose futures are marred by arrests while under the influence of alcohol, vandalism, drunken driving, etc.

I well understand and endorse the concerns of those who believe every new application to sell alcohol on Main Street should be looked at with the greatest care.

Nevertheless, a fair examination of the facts, as opposed to some of the speculation and rumor surrounding this issue, indicates that limited alcohol service, which I describe below, is in the best interest the community.

Sisk

The Italian Bistro located moved to Main Street from the Christiana Mall, a welcome reversal in the Main Street-to-Mall trend that decimated downtown business districts beginning in the 1970s.

The Bistro took what had been a failed Charcoal Pit and made it into a building that it won the A Better Newark award from the Conservation Advisory Commission.

I was consulted by the Bistro in fall 2001, when the issue of alcohol service arose. The Bistro does not maintain it was misled in any way by the city. (However) when the Bistro learned of the general zoning problems and specific deed restrictions on this particular property, it had already started the project and was sufficiently committed to Newark and Main Street that it continued its million-dollar expenditure to open.

The Bistro does not seek a license to operate a bar. Any alcohol service would be in connection with the service of meals.

The Bistro, if allowed to serve alcoholic beverages as part of its service of food, is agreeable to any rational restriction of that service.

One of the proposals from the Mayor's Alcohol Commission is to permit council to consider a special use permit to impose any conditions it wishes. These might include hours of service, manner of service - you name it.

The Bistro has no plans for "happy hours," drink specials, or other promotions solely directed to drinking, and a carefully drawn special use permit could formalize this.

Also, under the proposal as set forth by the Commission, any permit would "sun-set" after three years and city council could renew it or decline to renew it, as it saw fit.

The general manager of the Bistro and I appeared at a meeting at Newark United Methodist Church recently, to discuss the general issue of alcohol in downtown Newark.

We were graciously received, and appreciated the opportunity for dialogue with the Church's membership.

The Caffé Gelato, an excellent restaurant across the street from the Methodist Church, has had limited service of alcohol for some months. This service was approved by city council in advance.

The Bistro seeks to do what Caffé Gelato is doing - serve alcohol responsibly for limited purposes.

'Milk and Eggs' paintings at Brandywine

NOT ONLY does the Brandywine River Museum come up with some of the most interesting and beautiful art exhibits in the nation but also the public relations department under Halsey Spruance comes up with some of the most innovative names for the exhibits. A case in point is the current exhibit "Milk and Eggs: The American Revival of Tempera Painting, 1930-1950."

During the 14th century in Italy it was listed as the primary medium for painters. The use of tempera began to fade in the 16th century when pigments ground in oil became more widely used.

While both sides of the Atlantic are represented, and at the risk of being parochial, I would share the names of these local artists who also worked in other media that you may know: John W. McCoy, Peter Hurd, Franklin C. Watkins, Andrew Wyeth and N.C. Wyeth.

The subjects of the paintings are quite diverse including abstraction, portrait, landscape, animal and groups of people subjects. Plan to spend some time in this gallery. You will find it most

Now to the title. Why the words "Milk and Eggs" for the show? It is a very clever way to remind us what the tempera medium really is. While there are many types of tempera paint, the most common binders of the substances are the yolk of a chicken egg and a component of cow's milk. To this is added the color or there are many ancient works extant to prove the point.

Actually, the history of tempera painting predates oil painting. It draws its name from the Latin (you can tell I was a humanities major can't you?) "temperare" which means blending or mixing. It has come to mean the egg/milk form I described above.

While I knew the medium was old, it took some research to find the first mention of it in the writings of a 12th century monk named Theophilus Presbyter.

the 19th century in this country, as interest in classical, renaissance and gothic art grew, that our artists began to devote some of their time and their talent to "milk and eggs." The Yale University School of Fine Arts was one of the first centers of the revival. A number of the artists in the current exhibit are from the New Haven area. They followed the Art Students' League in New York City and the trend took hold around the United States.

What makes it work? A divorce lawyer looks at marriage

By Mary Martin Niepold
Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — He's seen some of the best go separate ways. He's helped many of the most powerful make sure the kind of life they've become accustomed to won't slip away.

He's Raoul Felder, maybe this country's best known divorce attorney.

Frequently it's the woman he represents (as in the female sides of Mike Tyson, Anthony Quinn and Mick Jagger).

Sometimes, it's high profile husbands, as in Larry Fortensky versus Elizabeth Taylor, and more recently, New York Mayor Rudolph Giuliani versus Donna Hanover.

In Felder's world, it's up to him to try to make love-gone-sour taste sweet nonetheless. Given more than 30 years of sorting out the ways of fractured love and $500-per-hour fees, Felder has a unique view of what makes good marriages work (he and his own wife, attorney Myrna Felder, have been married for 39 years).

And though he resists talking about his own life, he's a staunch believer in two things for anyone going into marriage:

One, get a pre-nuptial agreement, regardless of your economic level.

And two, try to maintain a mutually agreed view of what constitutes love, commitment and shared goals.

Every partnership is unique, says Felder, and complete with faux fireplace, works by Picasso and Groz, wing chairs, a sofa, memorabilia — from ceramic monkeys to tin soldiers — and a needlepoint pillow stitched with a slogan, "It ain't easy being king."

A natty dresser with hundreds of pairs of velvet slippers, Dunhill suits and custom-made shirts, Felder spends an hour delivering deadpan assessments of the state of divorce (cracking 50 percent of all marriages, according to some statistics, with a quadruple increase between 1970 and 1996) and what it might take to avoid it.

He sounds like his buddy Jackie Mason, the comedian, but he's dead serious about the pitfalls of love he's battled in splitups.

Unsurprisingly, Felder urges a pre-nup for everybody, not just the rich and powerful. Since serenity as well as money is at stake, retain two lawyers, he says: "If there's just one lawyer, you can say he's not protecting my interest, and you want to avoid that."

"You have to err on the side of making sure the thing is going to stand up, then worry about the delicate interpersonal dynamics later. I've had many cases over the years where the marriage never took place because of the pre-nuptial," he says, explaining that the pre-nup is a great way to find out what you might not have seen in the other person until the discussion of money went to paper.

When it comes to love — certainly, if you go back one generation.

"My parents in the last years of their marriage — it was like they lived in a hotel. My mother was in one room, and my father was in another room. That described many marriages in those days. You just didn't get divorced."

To build relationships, it's good to encourage your partner's individuality and interests, he says. Too much togetherness is not necessarily a good thing.

"It's like geometry, an angle. You start out with the lines very close to each other, but as you extend it into space, it goes out. I think marriage is like this, too."

"You want (your partner) to absorb new experiences, so new aspects of character and personality emerge."

Arguments happen, but argue creatively to find a common goal in the marriage,

Famous divorce lawyer Raoul Felder has advice to keep the happy couple smiling long after the wedding is over.

he says. "There's one argument, a veiled, 'I hate you, I hate you.' Then it's like they're going to fight over. That's just an exercise in hostility. The other thing is you could argue over some intelligent decision. 'Where is the child going to to to college? I believe in this, you believe in that.' This is what should be going on, but much of the time it's not."

Rommel and General Montgomery in the desert. They just pick a piece of sand

There's a test Felder recommends to clients who are considering ending a marriage. "A woman will come in and say, 'You know, I don't know whether to leave or not leave. He's not a bad person.' It's very simple. I ask her, 'When he does on a trip, do you feel better? Or do you feel worse?' Some women will look up and say, 'I feel like a load off my shoulders when he's gone.' Or others will say, 'I feel like a lost sparrow when he's gone.'"

"So life gets reduced to very simple terms."

How to keep your wedding within budget

By Kathy Scott
Special to the Whig

Before you start planning for your wedding, you will need to make a budget. To get started, here is a typical breakdown of a wedding budget:

- 3% — invitations
- 5% — flowers
- 7% — music
- 7.5% — bride's dress and accessories
- 8.5% — ceremony fees.

invitation design, take it to a speedy printing service. Such services usually offer color prints for less than 50 cents per copy. You'll have to purchase envelopes, small tissue paper sheets and stamps, but you'll still save a bundle.

If you have more budgeted for invitations, you can choose a traditional invitation with gold, embossed highlights and the tissue papers and envelopes included.

ented friends who will provide music for the wedding. If you're planning a reception, give your DJs a list of your favorite dance tunes, so they'll be ready to go when you are.

Bridal gowns

This purchase will be one of the most important, so start shopping early and think through a decision. You will save yourself valuable time and money if you know the style that most interests you

Photographers

You will need to hire photographers fairly far in advance of your wedding. Ask them about taking pictures before, during, and after the wedding. Find out what their cost is to do just the ceremony. It may be less expensive for you to buy disposable cameras and let your guests take candid shots of the reception.

Reception

Every partnership is unique, says Felder, and whether it's a 60-40 or 90-10 partnership, he says it's still a partnership. Rarely is it 50-50; it's how the two individuals operate together which determines dynamics, harmonious or otherwise, he says.

Felder has been called a publicity hound, and a look at his office won't contradict that impression. His firm's entrance on the 30th floor at a trendy Madison Avenue address has signage for fictional detectives Philip Marlowe and Sam Spade hugging the front door. Down the hall is the attorney's private office, a large baronial space paper. When it comes to love — which is after all the reason most people say they're joining — it's smart if the future husband and wife are on the same page there, too. "I don't know what love is. It may be what you do in the back seat of cars when you're 17 years old. It may be looking for Dulcinea in 'Don Quixote.' There are all kinds of love. Who knows? What is successful for one is not successful for another."

Should marriage be forever? Felder will say only that the idea of divorce wasn't fashionable back in the early 1960s when he married. "And

8.5% — ceremony fees, rehearsal party, attendant gifts, limos

9% — photography
10% — wedding rings
10% — honeymoon
40% — reception

Using these pointers and ideas, you can plan a wedding within your budget.

Invitations

Many people have computers, scanners, high-tech printers, and the skills it takes to produce professional-looking projects.

If you know people who have this kind of technology and skill, give them a call. You can put your heads together and create an invitation that is unique to you.

After you've completed your envelopes included. Flowers and music

Silk flowers, ribbon, and greenery can be purchased at a hobby shop. You, or a crafty friend, can produce boutonnieres, bridesmaids' bouquets, mothers' corsages and even the bridal bouquet.

If you're not that creative, look at bridal magazines and see what you can comfortably manage. Current trends feature long, wide green tape wrapped around the stems of calla lilies, hydrangeas, and gladiolas.

Accents are minimal

Music is often provided by the church organist if you're having a religious ceremony. An organist costs anywhere from $50 to $200.

Again, you may have tal-and money if you know the style that most interests you before you start shopping.

Gowns can be rented, borrowed or bought. Prices run from the ordinary to the remarkable.

Rental shop deals often include the dress; free cleaning; free alterations; discounts on accessories, bridesmaids' and flower girls' dresses; and a helpful, knowledgeable staff. The drawback is that you won't have a dress to pass on to future generations.

Buying a dress can be as financially rewarding as renting. Almost all bridal shops have racks of sale dresses that are beautiful as well as cost-efficient.

Do keep in mind that many sale dresses are an "as is" purchase.

Reception

Your reception may be as elegant or as simple as you wish. Even when cutting corners, the reception will take the biggest chunk out of your budget.

Having an early afternoon wedding will keep you from having to serve a meal. If you do decide to have a meal, it can be as plain as cold-cut croissant sandwiches with salads or as elaborate as a catered prime rib dinner. The sandwich theme, including a piece of wedding cake, will run less than $5 per person; a catered dinner, much more.

There are numerous books available that focus on receptions and all other wedding events. Check out your local bookstores and library for ideas.

As you work to stay within your budget, remember that the individual item figures don't have to be set in stone. If you find you don't need as much money in one area, divert it to an area where you do need the money.

As long as you stick to your budget, you might even save a little extra "pocket money" for your long-awaited honeymoon.

NEWARK OUTLOOK

Celebrate a legal 18th

YOUR teenager turned 18 and is now legally an adult — or are they? I had heard from teachers, prevention specialists and other parents about what most teenagers think is the norm. I did not realize the complications involved until I was faced with it myself.

A child turns 18 and legally is considered an adult. But emotionally are they ready for all the responsibilities of adulthood? Do you remember if you were mature enough at 18 to move out, get married, purchase a home, and raise children? I know I wasn't.

Fortunately, my parents helped me ease into the transition of adulthood by providing me with limitations to keep me safe. Without their rules to bounce my choices against, I would have been in trouble.

At 18 it is not legal to drink alcohol. What I have learned is that many parents think it is OK to host co-ed parties in their homes under the premise that they are keeping the teenagers safe. (This is starting as young as sophomores.)

The teenagers are invited by the parents to come to their house, stay under their roof, party in their basement and spend the night. Some parents even serve the alcohol. There is a fine and possible jail term associated with this offense.

Even if the adults do not serve alcohol, students have told me they can sneak it into the party. They tell me that the parents never come to check on them so it is easy to do.

Does having a good time always have to be centered on

SEEING DOUBLE & TRIPLE

There are twins,
triplets everywhere
at Red Lion
Christian Academy

AN unusual phenomenon seems to have taken place at Red Lion Christian Academy (RLCA) on Rt. 71 in Bear.

The school happens to have a rather large population of sets of twins and triplets. In the 850 student at the school, there are 16 sets of twins, one set of triplets and a set of triplets enrolled for next year.

"It is really amazing," Cheryl Lacy of RLCA said. "Twins occur once in 89 births and triplets occur one in every 7,900 births. So we are almost 50 percent more than the normal population."

The sets of twins span the grade levels with one set in preschool, two in prekindergarten, one set of twins and a set of triplets in kindergarten, two sets of twins in second grade, two sets in third grade, five sets in fourth grade, one in sixth grade, one in tenth grade and one in the first graduating class at RLCA.

Some siblings seem to appreciate each other and the special bond that seems to exist between multiples while others seem to have the typical relationship between two siblings that are close in age and in close quarters.

Second graders, Gabriel and Grant Gentry, have their differences as most brothers at the age of eight do. However, Lucas and

Twelfth: Kristen and Gary Syvy

By Christine E. Serio

While doing the same things seems to be a problem for the Thomas twins, Jill and Katie Bielicki are happy to ride horses together and double their wardrobe by sharing clothes.

Fellow fourth grade twins, Brittany and Brianna McCarthy, feel "normal" as twins.

"I guess I like being a twin," Brittany said. "I don't know what it's like not being twins."

Lindsay and Kristen Hsu, fourth graders, think it is "cool" because sometimes we finish each other sentences and say the same things at the same time," Kristen said. Gary and Kristen Syvy, the oldest set of twins in RLCA who are in twelfth grade, agree that there is a special connection between twins, but feel more like "regular" brother and sister.

"Since we are boy and girl twins it seems like we are just normal brother and sister," Kristen said. "But sometimes I'll say something and he was thinking the same thing."

Fifteen year old tenth graders, Jeremiah and Andrew Kappler "love being twins" and use their unspoken bond to their advantage on the athletic fields. The brothers play basketball and soccer and on the basketball court "sometimes I will just pass the ball and know where Andrew is without looking," Jeremiah said. Though their numbers are differ-

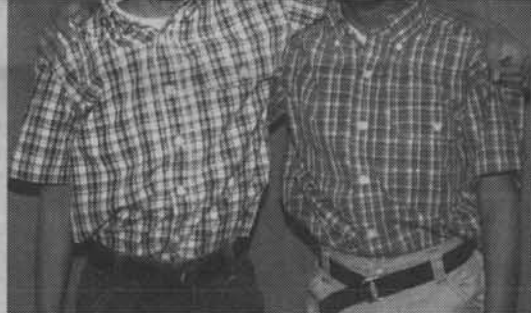

Does having a good time always have to be centered on whether or not alcohol is available?

Also, where can teens socialize after 11 p.m. at night? Some options are the bowling alley, or a movie theatre, but there really isn't a place for them to just gather together legally. So having teenagers come to your home is a good idea. Parents just need to set a good moral example and make sure they are following the law. What is wrong with a party that has an end, and includes pizza, popcorn, soda, a movie, singing happy birthday, having an old-fashioned birthday cake, and throwing around some confetti? Maybe we need to have a little more of this kind of fun.

The bottom line is that parents need to be parents by giving teenagers limits that are expected to be met so they can learn to make good choices about what is socially and legally acceptable. It starts and ends with the parents not the teens. Now can you find a video that is worth showing and appropriate for young men and women? Good luck! That is a discussion for another article on the media.

ences as most brothers at the age of eight do. However, Lucas and Ryan Haas, who are also in the second grade, enjoy being twins because they "share everything."

In the fourth grade, the sets of twins have varying types of relationships. Many seem to enjoy being twins while others, such as Haley and Casey Thomas said they "fight a lot because we do the same things all the time."

without looking," Jeremiah said. Though their numbers are different, referees sometimes confuse the twins and give a foul to the wrong brother, Andrew said.

The Kappler twins are the oldest in a family of eight children, but know their younger siblings can tell them apart and don't view them as different.

"We are just two big brothers," Jeremiah said.

POST GAME

Mench makes it to the bigs

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Half asleep on the couch, something caught my eye scrolling across the bottom of ESPN's baseball coverage.

Mench - RBI single.

Yep, that's Newark's own Kevin Mench, who had been called up to the Majors by the Texas Rangers.

That hit was Mench's first in the bigs. But it wasn't the highlight of the week - at least from my perspective on the couch.

That came the next night when the same ESPN scroll across the bottom read - HR - Mench (1).

Holy cow! Did I read what I thought I read?

Well, that meant staying up for Baseball Tonight on ESPN. Sure enough, the show confirmed it.

There was a highlight of the former Blue Hen nearly sprinting around the bases in his first career Major

Jackets suffer first loss of the season

By ED MEYERS

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Newark High School's possible thoughts of an unbeaten season went by the wayside last Thursday as visiting Brandywine scored a narrow 9-8 win over the Yellow Jackets in a game that went down to the final out.

Despite its first defeat in six games, Newark coach Curt Bedford, in his seventh season, wasn't overly concerned.

After the loss he said, "Hey, this is April and I'm not worried.

If this was the end of May, I'd be worried."

Newark jumped out to an early 3-0 lead over the Bulldogs in the first inning as it got to starting and unbeaten pitcher Jake Doyle for four hits and a walk.

After Steve Selk drew a walk to load the bases, Jacket starting pitcher Erec Spiese rapped a ringing single down the right field line, driving in Kisner and Callahan.

Outfielder John Parkinson then singled down the first base line as Selk scored before Doyle retired the next three batters in order.

Spiese lost his control in the second inning with one away. Dean Whethan was safe on an infield error and then walked three of the next four batters, forcing in a run for the visitors.

Brandywine knocked Spiese from the mound in the third, sending 11 men to the plate as it scored five runs on six hits, a walk, and an outfield miscue.

The key hit was a two-run double to deep left field by Bulldog shortstop Greg Marcin for a 6-3 advantage.

Brandywine added two more runs in the fifth inning off relief pitcher Greg Moore on three hits, two walks and another infield error for an 8-3 advantage.

But Newark came back with a rally in the bottom half of the fifth, scoring four times to cut the Bulldog lead to just 8-7.

Kisner started things off with a single over short. Callahan followed with a deep single to left and Selk was safe on an error at third, loading the bases with no outs.

Kisner scored on a wild pitch as Spiese drew a base on balls to keep the bases full. Parkinson smacked a pitch to deep center for a double as Callahan and Selk scored and Brandywine's Doyle was chased from the mound.

Designated hitter Josh Newhard hit a sacrifice as Spiese scored. Dan Perkins drew a walk but then relief pitcher Dan Santobianco, who began the game as catcher, got shortstop Andy Ficarra to hit a fly ball to center which Brian Thiebault caught for the second out. His relay to home nailed a runner at the plate for an inning-ending double play.

Steve Spiese had relieved Moore on the mound in the fifth and Brandywine scored what amounted to the winning run in the sixth, scoring once on an error, sacrifice and two singles.

The Jackets came back in the home half of the sixth as Santobianco gave up four walks to load the bases and force in a run, but then the strapping catch-

Lemon's single lifts Spartans to win

St. Mark's tops archrival Sallies in Governor's Cup championship

By JOE BACKER

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Senior infielder Greg Lemon's seventh inning single lifted St. Mark's to a 4-3 victory Saturday night over arch-rival Salesianum in the Championship game of the Delaware Stadium Corporation's Governor's Cup Tournament. The triumph marks the Spartans third tournament title in five years.

Lemon's last inning heroics at the Frawley Stadium, ended a classic pitching duel between St.

down and stuck out the side to end the inning.

Romanczuk, who struck out 14 Sals, but walked six batters, said he didn't have his best control while warming up before the game.

"The mark of any good pitcher is to get the job done without your best stuff. I didn't have my 'A' game, but I battled all night and was able get some outs when they were needed," he said.

St. Mark's struck for two runs in the bottom of the second. With two outs, designated hitter Mark Lemon reached on a single, and then advanced to third on a single by shortstop Pat Dougherty and an error. Both players scored on a triple to left center by Spartan third baseman Jimmy Okoniewski.

St. Mark's took its first lead of the night in the fourth when sprinting around the bases on his first career Major League home run.

It was a good week that seemed a bit overdue.

Mench has deep Newark roots. Not only did he play his college baseball at the University of Delaware where he was the NCAA Player of the Year. But he also played his high school ball at St. Mark's - where he was the state's Gatorade Player of the Year.

Well before each of those, however, Mench played as a Little Leaguer at Newark American Little League.

In fact, he helped lead Newark American to within one game of the Little League World Series. No team from Delaware has ever gone farther.

Newark American was beaten that year by Shippensburg in the Eastern Regional in Bristol, Conn.

Shippensburg went on to win the United States championship before falling in the world championship game.

Mench obviously had a great career at St. Mark's. But it seemed his collision course with the Majors began at the University of Delaware. He was awesome his junior year, crushing over 30 home runs - a school record.

The junior All-American helped lead the Hens to the NCAA Tournament where they eventually lost to Florida State.

He was named the Player of the Year in all of college baseball. That's pretty heady company. Most of those honors go to players from collegiate baseball powers like Florida State, Arizona State, Mississippi State, Texas, etc.

Mench's start in Texas was so good one of the ESPN commentators said Juan Gonzalez (who got hurt allowing Mench to be called up) better get back in the lineup or he'll be like Wally Pipp - you know the player Lou Gehrig replaced in the lineup because of an injury.

OK, so that seems a little far-fetched. But, hey, it was an ESPN guy saying it, not some fan half asleep on the couch.

St. Mark's girls start well

By JOE BACKER

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Developing a sense of unity is important to any sports program, but for the St. Mark's girls soccer team, creating a sense of cohesion is one of its primary goals.

Spartan coach Tom DeMatteis said his first goal is for the girls to play better eachtime they step on the field.

"We want to get more comfortable with each other as the season moves along, and peak at the end of the season," he said.

That formula seems to be working out well, as the Lady Spartans are 4-0 to start the year.

"Yes, I guess you could say we're off to a pretty good start," said DeMatteis, as St. Mark's goes for its third consecutive girls' title.

The Lady Spartans return five seniors to the starting lineup just like last season.

This year's ensemble includes center-halfback Shannon Bradbury, who was last year's co-player-of-the-year in Delaware. In last week's game against Lancaster Mennonite, Bradbury scored the game's only goal to lead St. Mark's to a 1-0 victory.

She's joined by fellow seniors Michelle Huynh-Ba, a forward with four goals in the first four games; wing-fullback Carly Falgowski; and key reserves Alicia Roberts and Lisa Marinucci. All five have worked hard and become co-captains of the team.

DeMatteis said the team starts with the seniors, but the bulk of the players are from the junior class, while there's also a handful of sophomores and several freshman on the squad as well.

One of the team's strong points is the defense. The Spartans goalkeeper is third year starter Lauren Lewandowski. DeMatteis said Lewandowski was in goal for all or most of the action in St. Mark's 17 shutouts last year in 19 victories. The backup keeper is Kristin Lucente, who DeMatteis said is "a solid and very capable player."

On the defensive side of the field, the Spartans lost sweeper Sherry Smith to graduation. Smith is now playing Lynchburg College in Virginia. Smith will be replaced by Joana O'Donnell, who moved over from wing fullback. Kira Downing and Kelly McCauley round out the defense.

DeMatteis said the Spartans should be well balanced on offense. Huynh-Ba, Melissa Samio and Kristen Coar make up the front line. Samio was the leading scorer last year.

Look for some underclassmen to come off the bench to give the starters an occasional breather.

The midfielders will also be counted on to make a significant contribution to the 2002 Lady Spartans. DeMatteis said Bradbury, along with Kay Holden and Jeannette Benson will be asked to help control the tempo and flow of each game.

Earlier this week, St. Mark's was scheduled to play Catholic Conference rival Archmere, who's been ranked in the top five this season. DeMatteis said his team had a couple of tight games with the Lady Auks last year. The squad also has another out of state game later this month, and a number of tough games against Blue Hen Conference teams this season.

"But if we work hard together as a team, we should do well the rest of this season," said DeMatteis.

classic pitching duel between St. Mark's pro prospect Mark Romanczuk and Salesianum's Jesse Magee. With the score tied 3-3, and no outs, Lemon laced a single to center field, chasing home pinch hitter Bobby Hoover, who had reached second on a tough- chance fly ball to short left center by way of a Sals' error.

Lemon said he was just glad to get his bat on the ball.

"I tried to lay down a bunt to move the runner over, but when I got two strikes, I wanted to make solid contact," he said. "Magee did a heck of a job over there, so I'm happy I was able to put the ball in play, and make something happen," said a tired, but happy, Lemon.

the night in the fourth when catcher Tim Doherty was hit by a Magee pitch, advanced on a sacrifice by Mark Lemon, and then scored on a fielder's choice infield grounder by Dougherty.

The Sals wasted no time in tying up the score. In the top of the fifth, Romanczuk was uncharacteristically wild, walking three batters and allowing the Sals to tie the score 3-3 when Sean Gill came home on a bases loaded wild pitch.

Spartan coach Matt Smith said his mound ace struggled much of the night, but hung on for the victory.

"Give Sallies credit, they hit the ball hard, but we were able to make some plays when they were needed," he said.

Smith added the game was typical of the rivalry between the two schools.

"It's usually a one or two run ball game whenever we play each other, so we still have two regular season games still to play, and those should be a lot of fun, too," he said.

Newark girls lacrosse team looks to rebuild

Aimee Elwell, in her first season as Newark High's girls lacrosse coach, wants things to stabilize for the Yellow Jackets.

"There's been a high turnover rate in coaches here," she said. "That has been due in part to having college students as coaches who leave when they graduate and that's been a big part of the inconsistency."

But Elwell, who was an assistant and applied for the job after the head coach left last year, thinks this year's squad's strength is "more team effort." Last year there was too much individual play, she said.

The new coach played club lacrosse in college, graduating from West Chester with a degree in physical education.

"We're better in fundamentals, which is a drastic improvement and there certainly isn't a lack of interest with 40 girls coming out for the team."

Elwell stated. "I actually had 50, but had to cut 10," she said.

The Lady Jackets, who were 4-12 last year, have won just once in five tries this year, but Elwell feels the team performed well despite the defeats, especially to Brandywine, Caesar Rodney and St. Mark's, three of the top teams in Blue Hen competition.

"We'll be ready to play better," she emphasized.

There are nine returning lettermen for Newark, led by senior goalkeeper Monique Boone and Jayme Fields, one of three tri-captains who plays coverpoint.

Riane Buckley, coverpoint, and Caitlin Gamel-McCormick, 3rd man, are the other lettermen back.

Keeler gets his first chance to see Blue Hens up close

UD begins spring football practice

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

For the first time since the 1966 season, someone other than Tubby Raymond blew the whistle to start spring football practice at the University of Delaware last week.

New Blue Hen head coach K.C. Keeler, who succeeded Raymond as head coach of the Delaware football team last month, led his team into a month of pre-season drills beginning last Wednesday.

Per NCAA rules, Delaware will take part in 15 practice days, finishing with the annual Blue-White Spring Game May 4 at 7 p.m. at Delaware Stadium. All practice sessions as well as scrimmages scheduled for April 20 and April 27 at Delaware Stadium are free and open to the public. There will be an admission charge for the Blue-White Game May 4.

The Blue Hens are scheduled to practice each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday afternoon at approximately 3:30 p.m. Nearly 100 candidates are expected to be on hand.

This year's spring drills promise to have plenty of surprises as Keeler, a former Blue Hen starting linebacker and a 1981 graduate, takes over the helm for his former coach. Raymond retired in February following a legendary 36-year career as head coach of the Blue Hens in which he became just the ninth coach in college football history to amass 300 wins. He also led the Blue Hens to three national titles and 16 NCAA playoff appearances.

Keeler, who formed an NCAA Division III dynasty at Rowan College over the past nine seasons, leading the Profs to five national championship games and 88 victories, inherits a team that returns seven starters on defense and two on offense. The Blue Hens posted a 4-6 record a year ago, the first losing campaign for the Blue Hens since 1987.

Keeler plans to institute a no-huddle, spread offense, and with just two starters returning on offense, junior fullback and leading rusher Antawn Jenkins and junior offensive guard Jason Nerys, there will plenty of battles for playing time during the spring. Among other top returning offense players are sophomore quarterback Mike Connor and junior center Matt Graviot. Among the newcomers to watch are redshirt freshmen Brian Ingram and Justin Long who will battle for the two starting wide receiver spots.

Jenkins led the team with 131 carries for 570 yards and five touchdowns last season while Connor became the starter midway through the season and threw for 580 yards and one touchdown in four games. He was the first true freshman to play quarterback for the Blue Hens since 1951.

Defensively the Blue Hens will be among the top units not only in the Atlantic 10 but in the nation. A total of seven starters return, including all four defensive backs and two linebackers. Leading the unit will be senior linebacker Dan Mulhern, a two-time All-Atlantic 10 selection and a candidate for the Buck Buchanan Award, presented to the top defensive player in NCAA I-AA football. Mulhern, who earned first team All-East honors in 2001, led the team in tackles with 83 a year ago to go with 11 tackles for loss and four quarterback sacks.

Also returning are two-time All-Atlantic 10 defensive end Femi Ayi, who has 11 career sacks, and an outstanding secondary that includes veterans Mike Adams and Ricardo Walker and sophomore cornerback Sidney Haugabrook, the 2001 Atlantic 10 and ECAC Rookie of the Year who intercepted six passes a year ago.

Blue Hens sweep Towson

Stadium dedicated to Bob Hannah

Following an emotional stadium dedication ceremony honoring legendary University of Delaware Head Coach Bob Hannah, the Blue Hens responded by pounding out 16 hits and 13 runs to rout Towson University 13-2 in the second of a three-game Colonial Athletic Association baseball series at Bob Hannah Stadium Saturday afternoon.

Delaware (19-14, 5-3 CAA) jumped out to an early lead and held a four-run advantage before the Blue Hen offense put the game out of reach for Towson (15-16-1, 3-5) with a six-run rally in the fifth inning. Kris Dufner kicked off the scoring spree with a three-run triple, and was then followed by back-to-back home runs by John Schneider and Doug Eitelman.

On the mound, Delaware freshman Jason Rogers held the Tigers in check allowing just one earned run and five hits while striking out a career high nine batters picking up the victory in his first conference start.

Continuing his recent hot hitting streak, Dufner went 2-for-5 adding a double to go with his triple, as he has now batted .571 (8-for-14) with three doubles, six RBI, and six runs scored over the last three games.

John Schneider also added a double and an RBI to go with his two-run home run, and Steve Harden added a pair of doubles as well.

Five of Towson's seven hits went for doubles, and junior outfielder Joey Marozzi was the only Tiger to record more than one hit, as he slapped a pair of singles.

One of the most successful coaches in the history of college baseball, Hannah was inducted into the American Baseball Coaches Association Hall of Fame in 1991 and is also a member of the state of Delaware Baseball Hall of Fame.

He led the Delaware baseball program to national prominence during his 36-year tenure, leading the Blue Hens to 12 NCAA Tournament appearances, 11 conference titles, and a berth in the 1970 College World Series. He was named league Coach of the Year eight times.

He posted a career record of 1,053-464-6 from 1965 until 2000, becoming just the 22nd Division I coach in college baseball history to reach the 1,000 win plateau.

Delaware completed its three-game sweep of Towson with an 18-4 blowout Sunday.

Blue Hens junior outfielder Reid Gorecki fell a double short of hitting for the cycle as he went 3-for-5 with a triple, a home run, a single, while knocking in two runs and scoring three runs himself.

Schneider also recorded three hits for the game, with a double and three RBI, and Dufner doubled for the fourth straight game, finishing 2-for-5 with two runs scored and two RBI.

Starting pitcher Rich McGuire picked up his second consecutive victory going seven innings giving up two earned runs and eight hits while striking out three batters.

Offensively for Towson (15-17-1, 3-6 CAA) shortstop Brian McKenna batted 3-for-5 with an RBI double and a solo home run, while Bobby Paduano and Joey Marozzi chipped in a pair of hits each.

The Hens won the first game of the series 6-5 in 10 innings Friday afternoon.

Freshman Brock Donovan delivered a bases-loaded sacrifice fly scoring Dufner with the winning run.

Christiana girls lax off to rough start Jackets drop first game of season

Christiana girl's lacrosse coach Robert Kurland has seen his team get off to a slow start. The Vikings haven't done well thus far in Blue Hen Conference competition.

The Vikings, who posted a best-ever record of 6-10 last season, haven't won a game so far and were completely outclassed by scores of 14-3, 20-7, and 17-4, losing to St. Mark's, Concord and Archmere respectively.

Kurland, in his first season as CHS coach, is a veteran lacrosse participant, having played in colleagues haven't much.

Top returnee is Kaitlyn Whitenight, a defenseman who is co captain with Adrienne Saltz, a midfielder.

Other top seniors include Rachel Beeson, defense; Brittany Bensch, goalkeeper; Erin Groom, attack; and Amy Grace, defense.

Junior lettermen are Ruth Hines, midfielder; Lauren Lemon, attack; Loretta VonBirgelen, and Michelle Pellegrino, both midfielders.

Katie Haldeman, attack; Elizabeth Matthews, midfielder;

Christiana player Erin Murphy.

Kurland picked Concord, Brandywine and Caesar Rodney as the top teams in the league and hopes things improve as the season progresses.

"I enjoy lacrosse a lot," he said, "and I think things will pick up as the team gets game experience."

The Vikings were slated to play at Newark this afternoon. The remainder of the schedule: Apr 19, A.I. duPont; Apr 24, Caesar Rodney; Apr 26, at St. Mark's; Apr 29, Haverhill; Apr er/pitcher struck out the side to end the frame.

Newark went down in order in the seventh as the No. 7 ranked upped their record to 4-1, 4-0 in Flight A of the Blue Hen Conference. The Jackets, previously ranked No. 2, fell to 5-1 and 2-1 in league play.

Newark was slated to play at Christiana Tuesday and hosts William Penn on Thursday.

Christiana has 20 girls out for the team, but most have very little experience. There are six seniors, five juniors, four sophomores and six freshman.

Of the upper classmen, 12 have seen some action, but most and Amy Stevenson, defense/goalkeeper are sophomores who saw some action last year.

The remainder of the squad consists of Jaclyn Tatnall, defense, a sophomore, and frosh Amanda Aschendorf, Katie Rawls, Rebecca Salmon, Jessica Stevenson and Clair Winn.

Kurland is assisted by former

Newark girls seek improvement

► LACROSSE, from 10

Junior returnees include Deena Anderson, defense, and Lauren Hamilton, attack, the other two captains, as well as Kim Kostas, 1st home; Rachel Mathieson, and Kelly Ott, both attackmen.

Meghan O'Neill, center, and Loren Reinhardt, point, are both junior starters as well.

Katie Bartling, defense; and Elizabeth Garcia, 3rd home, also starting juniors, are non-lettermen.

Rounding out the team are sophomores Stefanie Busch, Morgan McCollum, Katie Reinhardt and Larkin Salemi.

Hamilton leads the team with 13 goals and three assists so far this year while Kostas has six goals and nine assists. McCollum and O'Neil each have five goals. Boone, the top goalie, has 42 saves from 73 shots on goal for 57 percent.

Elwell feels Dover, Glasgow and A.I. duPont will be other tough teams.

Members of the junior varsity squad include Shayna Maley, junior; sophomores Tessa Bates and Melissa Kelly as well as tri-captains Rachel Finkley, Diana Hechter and Quinn Logan.

Freshmen on the team are Molly Alberici, Beth Chamberlin, Katie Davis, Lindsey Ervin, Liz Hopkins, Kelsey Hughes, Una Kim, Caitlyn Lewis, Danielle Lindbergh, Emily Magnani, Jill Monack, Keri Saxton, Jessica Seador, Janet Su and Jill Wisor.

Newark was slated to entertain A.I. duPont Tuesday and Christiana today.

The rest of the schedule: Apr 18, at Dover; Apr 22, at Concord; Apr 23, Glasgow; Apr 29, at Archmere.

May 1, at Brandywine; May 3, Ursuline; May 8, at A.I. duPont; May 13, Concord; May 15, at Christiana.

NEWARK POST ♦ OBITUARIES

► OBITUARIES, from 13

Home in Pike Creek. Interment was in All Saints Cemetery in Wilmington.

Linda Ann Butler, worked at UD

Former Newark resident Linda Ann Butler died on Sunday, March 10, 2002.

Mrs. Butler, 52, had worked in food service at University of Delaware, retiring after 25 years of service. She was a 1969 graduate of Newark High School and enjoyed reading and needlework.

She is survived by her father,

William H. Butler of Daytona Beach, Fla.; sister, Betsy L. Lioy of Lewes; and several nephews, great-nieces and great-nephews.

Services were held at Spicer-Mullikin Funeral Home in Newark. Interment was in Red Clay Creek Presbyterian Cemetery in Wilmington.

James Daniel Romano, lifelong Lodge member

Bear resident James Daniel "Danny" Romano died on Sunday, March 10, 2002.

Mr. Romano, 83, was formerly of New Castle and Holloway Terrace. He had been a mason contractor and was later employed by Clarence Burris and Sons, retiring in 1978 after 30 years of service.

He was one of the founders of the New Castle Moose Lodge #1578 in 1954 and served as the first governor from 1954 to 1956. He attained the Pilgrim Degree of Merit in 1967, the highest degree attainable in the order.

For many years, he was the administrator and secretary of the lodge, retiring from full time service in 1992, but continuing in the administration of the lodge on a part time basis. Mr. Romano also assisted as membership director in founding lodges in Camden-Wyoming #203 and Smyrna-Clayton #2460.

He is survived by his wife, Jean M. Gottorf Romano; children, James E. Romano of Wilmington, Wayne A. Romano of New Castle, L.G. "Pete" Romano of New Castle, D. Barry Romano of Newark, Chris D. Romano of Holt, Mo., Sheila M. Barnette of New Castle, and Mary E. Romano of Atlantic City, N.J.; two step-children, Patricia D. Sechrist of New Castle, and Richard D. Hutchinson of Bear; sisters, Iolene E. Brown of New Castle, and Eva E. Thompson of Viola; 21 grandchildren; and 14 great-grandchildren.

Services were held at Holy Spirit Church and at the New Castle Moose Lodge, both located in New Castle. Entombment was in Gracelawn Memorial Park in New Castle.

Robert L. Renn, retired from Exxon

Newark area resident Robert L. Renn died on Monday, March 11, 2002.

Mr. Renn, 83, was born in Shamokin, Pa., and moved to Delaware in 1955. He was retired from the Exxon Corporation and was a member of Ogletown Baptist Church. He was an ordained minister, a deacon, a Bible teacher and scholar, and a singer.

He is survived by his wife of 59 years, Jean Wertman Renn; son, Robert A. Renn "Grace" of Newark; daughters, Marcia Rotenberry and Sandra Renn, both of Newark; four grandchildren; 10 great-grandchildren; sisters, Ann Reem of Sunbury, Pa., and Flo Ruths and Ruth Shuey, both of Shamokin, Pa.; and one niece. Service and burial was private.

Bertha M. Cox, owner This-N-That Shop

Newark resident Bertha M. "Poochie" Cox died on Tuesday, March 12, 2002.

Mrs. Cox, 69, was born in Oak Hill, W. V., and moved to Delaware in the early 1950s.

During her first years in Delaware, she worked as a secretary for Avon Corporation and for Chrysler Corporation, and later as an executive secretary at the Emily P. Bissell Hospital.

Following her secretarial career, Mrs. Cox, along with her husband, founded the former Cox Cedar Fencing Company. They later established the former This-N-That Shop and American White Water Tours on the New River in West Virginia. Mrs. Cox continued to operate This-N-That Shop until her retirement.

She was a member of Calvary Baptist Church and enjoyed crafts, reading and writing poetry.

She is survived by her husband of 51 years, Leonard; children, Debra L. Cox and her companion David Stephenson of Newark, and Timothy W. Cox and his wife Michele of Newark; sister, Patricia Kohan and her husband John of Newark; sister-in-law, Beverly Zeiders of Elkton, Md.; one granddaughter; several nieces and nephews; and Daniel Stephenson of Newark.

Services were held at Calvary Baptist Church and the Spicer-Mullikin Funeral Home, both in Newark.

Interment was in Gracelawn Memorial Park in New Castle.

Facts are facts

► UPFRONT, from 1

Newark High School. In our day-to-day lives, we adults draw strength from our youth. This was never more true that day.

This throng was complemented by the NHS principal, many teachers and staff, and the Christina superintendent of schools. Even one of Alex's teachers at Downes was present.

Also in the sanctuary was Delaware's attorney general Jane Brady, who had met Alex during one of his many recent extracurricular achievements.

Tom Jensen, the priest at St. Thomas, did as well as any human could — lay or laity — offering comfort and hope while interpreting an event that is the impossible to explain. He was eloquent and inspirational beyond any expectation.

What I'll most remember, though, was when Alex's dad went to the pulpit. With composure garnered from his faith and with, at times, a smile on his face, Rick thanked those present.

Speaking directly to those from Newark High School, he expressed his family's appreciation to those who helped make what became Alex's last days the best of his short life.

He recalled the closeness of his two sons.

Rick spoke of Alex's recent evolution into a forward-thinking young man and his son's interest in the NHS prom next month and making a college selection.

I imagine that I'm not the only person who marveled at this grieving father's fortitude, courage and ability to offer such a loving tribute.

I often profess "something good comes out of something bad."

But facts are facts.

In his remarks, Alex's father referred to unfortunate decisions that contributed to the tragic accident.

If one teenager at NHS or elsewhere makes a right decision as a result of this tragedy, we all can be grateful, as grateful as the Ennis family will forever be for the gift of Alex.

2002 FREELANDER

INTRODUCING THE FREELANDER. It's a Land Rover through and through. Which means in addition to its powerful V6 engine, permanent all-wheel drive and five-speed automatic transmission featuring CommandShift with sport/manual modes, you'll be treated to heated mirrors, a leather-wrapped steering wheel and rich, eight-speaker CD audio. And just like its predecessors, it's already receiving accolades, earning Automobile Magazine's 2002 All-Star Award for Best Small Sport-utility Vehicle. But with a starting price of just $25,600, the Freelander proves there's always new territory to cover — even for a Land Rover.

The most well-traveled vehicles on earth.
