

DELAWARE COLLEGE.

DELAWARE COLLEGE }
NEWARK, March 28th, 1881. }

To the Honorable, the General Assembly of Delaware:

The following statement is respectfully submitted in compliance with a resolution passed by the Legislature in February, 1879, requesting that biennial reports of the College should be made to the General Assembly.

STUDENTS.

Since the report made to the Legislature two years ago, the whole number of students connected with the College has been seventy-eight; of whom thirty four received the benefit of scholarships—eleven from Sussex County, eight from Kent and fifteen from New Castle. Others, however, have received instruction free of the charge of tuition, and, practically, all those who have possessed the requisite qualifications as to age and learning have received free tuition, whenever it has been made manifest that their pecuniary circumstances rendered it necessary. It has been the aim of the Trustees to reduce the cost of education as far as was consistent with the existence of the Institution, in order that the benefits of education might be more widely diffused.

The number of students admitted since the first of September, 1880, the beginning of the present scholastic year, is twenty-two. This is a greater number than has been received during any year since the year of the re-opening.

Other additions to the Freshman Class are expected at the beginning of the next term, April 6, 1881.

GRADUATES.

The first graduating class since the re-organization was that of 1873, and there have been altogether sixty-six graduates up to the last Commencement.

CONNECTING WITH THE FREE SCHOOLS.

For the purpose of connecting the College more directly and intimately with the Free Schools of the State, the Board of Trustees, at their regular meeting in June, 1880, lengthened the Literary and Scientific Courses from a period of three years to four years each, and dispensed with the examinations in Algebra and Latin as prerequisites for admission to those courses.

Thus, whilst the standard of scholarship is preserved and the requirements for graduation remain unchanged in the courses referred to, yet by this action of the Trustees the pupils from the free schools, when properly instructed in the ordinary English branches, may enter the College without being compelled to incur the expense of a private or select school. Some students may not choose to take the whole course of four years, and in that event they would be entitled to certificates of proficiency for a shorter period.

The Classical Course remains as heretofore, and is about the same as in a majority of the Eastern Colleges.

As the free schools become more efficient in the branches of learning assigned to them, we confidently expect an increased number of well prepared students from their ranks.

COLLEGE BUILDING AND DEBT.

The College building is at this time in good condition ; and there is no debt upon the Institution except, as was reported to the Legislature in 1879, the debt contracted for the purpose of carrying to graduation those students that were admitted under the provisions of the act of 1873, establishing a Normal Department. The amount of this indebtedness is $2,000, the interest on which has been regularly paid.

LIBRARY.

The Library of the College contains about 6,000 vols., including in the list many standard and valuable works. We are adding to it at this time the new edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica. There are, also, three other libraries belonging to Literary Societies in the College, and embracing about 2,000 vols. of choice and instructive reading.

There is, also, a select cabinet of minerals to which the students have access in the course of their studies.

STATE CHEMIST.

The Professor of Chemistry is ex officio State Chemist, and as it is his duty to analyse samples of fertilizers sent to him for that purpose, the students have afforded to them an excellent opportunity to witness the practical texts thus applied in that important department.

VACANT PROFESSORSHIP FILLED.

The Professorship of Physics and Agricultural Science made vacant by the resignation of Prof. E. D. Porter, has been filled by the election of Prof. J. Albert Rheinhart, of Westchester, N. Y.

INSTRUCTION.

The instruction in all of the Departments of the College is given directly by the Professors, and all of the students are required to take part in the daily recitations of their respective classes. This regular demand upon their diligence and attention secures greater accuracy and thoroughness than is generally realized where the classes are larger and, consequently, the individual recitations fewer.

DISCIPLINE.

The preservation of order has given comparatively little or no trouble. During the last seven years no case of discipline involving either expulsion or suspension has occurred.

HEALTHFULNESS.

The College is located in a region proverbial for its healthfulness, and experience proves its reputation in this respect well deserved, for it appears that in a period of more than thirty years there have been only three deaths among the students.

INCOME.

The only reliable income of the College is that arising from the proceeds of the Land Grant made by Congress in 1862. The receipts from this source amount to $4,980 per annum. The income from students is expended in keeping up the repairs of the building, renewing apparatus and increasing educational facilities generally.

There are no colleges in this country now supported exclusively by dues received from students. Preparatory schools and academies, whose pupils are mainly composed of a more youthful class, may reach a fair degree of prosperity without endowment, but Colleges, which are restrictive as to age and scholarship, must have resources independent of their tuition fees.

COMPARISON WITH OTHER INSTITUTIONS.

Many of the Colleges established under the provisions of the act of Congress of 1862 received additional endowments from their respective States, and a number of them received large donations from both states and individuals. Notwithstanding these advantages over Delaware College she need not fear to compare results if the relative amounts received from the General Government are taken into consideration.

STATE COLLEGE AND STATE PRIVILEGES.

Our State enjoys the privilege of educating thirty students free of any charge for tuition, and numbers of Delaware College graduates, and a still larger number of those who took partial courses of study, are scattered through the community and are taking their places as useful and enterprising citizens.

It is the only College belonging to the State, and has just claims to encouragement and aid from the State. An institution that has accomplished so much with such slender means, and in spite of so many adverse influences, is fairly entitled to, at least, a word of friendly recognition. Delaware College is neither sectarian nor partisan, but insists upon the inculcation of both morality and patriotism; and, therefore, might be safely trusted by all parties and denominations as the head of the educational institutions of the State. There is nowhere any efficient system of public schools unconnected with the higher education; and in our own State a thorough identification of the interests of the Free Schools and Delaware College would be mutually beneficial, and would, consequently, greatly promote the welfare of our little Commonwealth.

Very respectfully,

Your ob't servant

W. H. PURNELL,
President of the Faculty of Delaware College.
