CheckMaster
Plan Adopted
For Convenience
Of Customers

Beginning next Monday, July 14, it will be possible for any man or woman to open a checking account at the Newark Trust Company with an initial deposit of any amount, even as little as a dollar.

No minimum balance will be required at any time, and there will be no monthly carrying charge regardless of how small the depositor's balance is. Checkbooks are free, with no advance payment of any kind. Only 5c is charged for each check drawn and each is deposited.

This is the gist of an interesting announcement just made by J. P. Wright, president, in telling of the plans made by the institution for the installation of the CheckMaster department as an addition to the bank's existing checking account facilities.

The CheckMaster Plan is nationally known as "The Checking Account for All the People," and is now being used by hundreds of thousands of persons throughout the country. It is the original system that

CAMP PLAN

FIGURES RELEASED

48.1 Percent
Of Eligibles
Participate

Current figures on food order stamp sales and the number of persons participating in the New Castle County Food Stamp Plan were released today by Louis Bessmer, Area Supervisor of the Delaware Marketing Administration.

Out of a total of 2618 cases "certified eligible" for food stamps, 1258 cases, or 48.1 percent participated during the month of June. In another way, 7550 persons in 2018 (families) cases were certified for participation by WPA, Old Age Assistance, General Relief, or Veterans Pension. Out of the total population, 53.5 percent participated during the month of June.

The total value of Orange federal food stamps sold amounted to $10,273.00, and the total value of blue state stamps issued amounted to $10,273.00 for the month ending June 30.

These figures show that 532 retail stores are participating or signed up with the Food Stamp Plan in New Castle County. Orange-colored food stamps valued at $133,353.00, and "surplus" food stamps valued at $10,273.00 were issued during the first six months of this year. This represents a total food stamp business in New Castle County of $200,029.50 for the six-month period ending June 30.

The percentage of participants, under public assistance categories followed Age Assistance—14.2%; Aid to Dependent Children (Mothers' Pension)—32.4%; WPA—44.7%; General Relief—9.5%; and "Co-operative" or "Other"—14.6%.

The percentage of persons participating has remained at slightly more than 48 percent for several months past; there is an apparent drop in the monthly caseload. The total certified stamp eligible caseload stood at 2618 last March, whereas the number for the month ending June 30 was 2618.

Nurse Reports

A total of 26 prescriptions were given.

A baby clinic was held each Wednesday with an average attendance of 15. Five cases of German measles, four of mumps, and one of chicken pox were quarantined. Ten birth certificates were delivered.

TELEPHONE SYSTEMS

Almost $3,000,000
Expenditures For State Total

Donald M. Huber, district manager of the Diamond State Telephone Company, reported this week that construction expenditures of the company in the state are nearly $3,000,000, with all parts of the state participating.

The building addition at the Wilmington central office, he said, is scheduled for completion about the end of this year. Excavation has been finished, and the rear wall of the present building removed. Foundations are being placed.

A contract has been awarded the W. D. Haddock Construction Company for restorative construction to the Holly Oak—a one-story lateral addition of five central buildings, Philadelphia Pike at Silverdale Road. Scheduled for completion in September, it will cost $10,000. The company will install switching equipment at a cost of $15,000.

Workmen are framing the roof on the new dial central office building at Dover, Mr. Huber said. Scheduled for completion this fall, the building is part of a telephone development program for Dover to cost about $475,000.

The transfer of Dover telephone to dial operation is tentatively scheduled for next year.

The telephone development program at Seaford will cost about $100,000. Additional central office equipment has been installed, and additional telephone lines erected.

When the building addition has been completed at the Dickinson central office, Ocean View, new dial equipment will be placed there, probably late this year.

The Newport central office also is receiving central office equipment and additional equipment will be placed at the Georgetown central office later this year, Mr. Huber said.

NEW YORK
CHILDREN

Local Group
Working In Cooperation
With Tribune

A committee, again headed by Mrs. Robert T. Jones, is cooperating with the New York Herald Tribune in carrying out the sixty-fifth annual "Fresh Air Fund" program, sponsored for the benefit of New York's poor children. Six of the group which visited Newark last year have returned again this month and local residents are asked to contact Mrs. Jones if they desire a guest for two weeks during July. Arrangements have already been made to accommodate six.

"If you take a child into your home, you may be giving him his first glimpse of what America is really like," Mrs. Jones stated. "Most of them are children of foreign-born parents and therefore it is likely to be his first contact with real American folks, American life, and American ideals. It will be your chance to show him that all people who live pleasantly and prosperously outside the slums are not his class enemies and are not eager to do him and his people injustice."

All children who are sent out by the Fund are given three medical examinations before leaving. In the 64 years of Fund activity, there has never been a case of a "Fresh Aired" bringing contagious disease into a host's home.

What the fund asks of the hosts is that he give a child between the ages of 6 and 12, a home for two weeks. Take him or her into the home and make him feel a part of it. The fund does not ask for contributions. All expenses for the "Fresh Aired" trip to and from Newark are provided for. You give one of life's unfortunates a comfortable bed and three good meals a day.

The Red Cross room is open at the Newark New Century Club from 9:30 until 4:30 o'clock on Tuesdays. Mrs. Walter Hullihen, president of the local chapter, announced yesterday.

During the month of June, workers put in 2,315 hours on sewing, surgical dressings, and knitting. The following articles were completed: Surgical dressings, children's, women's, and men's sweaters, socks, and mufflers; women's and girls' dresses and skirts; hot water bottle covers, baby's socks, bottles, gowns, dusters, and bath robes; boys' shirts, men's pajamas and bathrobes.

Two new electric sewing machines have been purchased. "While the response to requests for workers has been good," Mrs. Hullihen stated, "it is not nearly good enough for a town the size of Newark."

Sewing to be taken home may be obtained from Mrs. Thomas D. Mylrea, East Park Place, production chairman, and wool for knitting is in charge of Mrs. Hullihen.

EXTENSION
PUBLISHED

24-Page Report
Of Activities
Is Released

The 24-page 1940 Annual Report of the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service issued last week tells in text and pictures of the activities of farmers, homemakers and farm boys and girls who work with county agricultural, home demonstration and 4-H club agents and the State staff of the Extension Service. The three main sections of the report—known as Extension Bulletin 35—deal with farming, homemaking and rural youth.

Under the heading—"An Advancing Agriculture"—the report's introduction reads: "Change is necessary and expected for youth. But change in old age shows a progressive spirit undaunted by the trials and troubles that are sure to come with long years of growth. And Delaware farming is old, as old as the beginning of the nation that is today these United States. Delaware farming has changed time and again during its 200-year history and is changing today as conditions call for changes that mean progress."

In the annual report itself is the clue to its value for Delaware farm folks—"This review of work of the Extension Service for 1940 reveals an advancing agriculture, an agriculture that, at the close of 1940, is as important as at any time in the past as our nation swings into an all-out defense endeavor. In 1940, work of the Extension Service reached 8,386 of the 10,213 Delaware farm families. Because it tells of the activities of a group of men and women working entirely for rural progress in Delaware, this report is a guide for those farmers, homemakers and farm boys and girls who want to obtain assistance and guidance from the Extension Service."

Copies of the new bulletin are available from the county agricultural, home demonstration or 4-H club agent.

DAIRYMEN, HOMEMAKERS TO TOUR MARYLAND

Western Part Of State To Be Covered On Two-Day Trip

Dairy farms, farm homes, roadside markets and a cooperative farm women's market in Western Maryland will be on display for Sussex County dairymen and homemakers during a two-day tour, July 15 and 16. The tour is being sponsored by the Sussex County Dairy Herd Improvement Association and Sussex County home demonstration club members.

Starting from the Matapeake Ferry at 7:45 o'clock, standard time, on the morning of Tuesday, July 15, the trip will be made by auto. Farmers and homemakers going on the tour should provide for their own transportation. C. W. Baker, University of Delaware farm management specialist, has been accompanying the tour with the help of Sussex County home demonstration agent Miss Gertrude Holloway and assistant agricultural agent, Frank Gordy. Stops scheduled for the first day of the tour include Clarksville in Howard County, New Market in Frederick County and Damascus in Montgomery County. A sight-seeing trip through nearby Washington has been arranged for the first evening in Maryland.

On the second day of the tour, dairymen will spend their time at the dairy plant and farm of the University of Maryland and the dairy division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Beltsville Research Center. The homemakers' last four day is to be spent at the Bethesda Farm Women's Market at Bethesda, Maryland, and Greenbelt, the rural resettlement community.

Dairymen and homemakers in other parts of Delaware have been invited to the Sussex County tour on July 15 and 16. Those planning to make the Maryland tour are requested to make their reservations to Miss Holloway or Frank Gordy at the Post Office, Georgetown, by Saturday, July 12.

SUSSEX IS TOURED BY POULTRYMEN

30 Cars Filled With Farmers Take Trip

A modern caravan—30 cars filled with more than a hundred hatching-egg producers—toured Sussex County poultry farms last week to inspect new houses, poultry pastures, summer shelters and turkeys and chickens.

Poultrymen whose farms were visited during the day-long tour included Roy Barwick and Fred Seeley, Greenwood; Herman Ockles, Seaford; Walter Conaway and Norval Pepper, Concord; William Prettyman, Harbeson, and Joe McIlvaine, Angola.

At the Norval Pepper farm, those on the tour heard Mr. Pepper tell about his poultry pasture. This permanent pasture mixture consists of three to five pounds of ladino clover, three pounds of blue grass, six pounds of alsike, three pounds of medium red clover, three pounds of timothy and two pounds of red top to make up the 20 pounds per acre that Pepper seeds around the first of September for best results. Pepper advised the poultrymen to have tests run on their soils to determine fertilizer and lime requirements before seeding the pasture mixture.

In the sandy soil, characteristic of Sussex County, Pepper says the pasture mixture grows best when the ground is rolled tight, the seed is sown and the ground is rolled again. Mr. Pepper says he likes a cultipacker for the rolling because it doesn't leave a crust like a regular roller. The Pepper permanent poultry pasture is clipped frequently.

"Good poultry pastures," says Mr. Pepper, "produce one-fourth of the farm's poultry feed during the growing season. There's something in the grass and sunshine that birds get on poultry pastures that you don't find in any feed bag."

New poultry houses and shelters observed during the tour are designed to give maximum bird comfort with resulting greater egg production, particularly important when Delaware's broiler industry is creating a steady demand for hatching eggs.

Newark, Delaware, Thursday, July 10, 1941

THE JAPANESE SITUATION

Whether or not this government will use the Navy as an active belligerent in the Battle of the Atlantic, is a question that no one but possibly the President can answer. Whatever the eventual decision, there are a number of important obstacles in the way of concentrating our fighting ships in the Atlantic—of which the most important is the strange Empire of Japan.

For many years, the American people have been accustomed to swift changes in the status of U. S.-Japanese relations. Both sides have done considerable diplomatic bluffing. Many times alarmists have said that the two nations were standing at the very brink of war. But, so far, nothing much has happened, outside of a few minor incidents which were swiftly settled, such as the sinking of the Panay some years ago.

Now, according to a number of responsible correspondents who know the Japanese character and Japanese conditions, there is a chance that matters will at last move from the talking to the shooting point. Here are the principal reasons they use to substantiate that position:

First, Japanese leaders are confident Germany will win this war, and they believe that, therefore, the future of Japan will depend on the future of Hitler's "new order." So they are determined to carry out their Axis commitments to the letter.

Second, they are convinced that this country cannot be frightened or argued out of its present position—a position which says, in effect, that if Japan moves into the South Pacific, we will use force to stop her. Inasmuch as the Japanese leaders are also convinced that Japan must dominate the lands and great resources of the South Pacific Islands if she is to survive as a first-class power, they have come to the point of view that eventual war is certain and there is little use in longer trying to prevent it.

Third, working on the assumption that war is inevitable, the Japanese strategists feel that this is the time to fight it, while the United States has its hands full in the Atlantic and must attempt to dominate two oceans with a one-ocean fleet. By 1946, the U. S. will have a formidable two-ocean fleet, and then, think Japanese naval men, Nippon's chances of winning a war would be extremely poor.

Fourth, Japan knows her position is precarious so long as she must depend for the bulk of essential supplies, such as steel and petroleum, on the United States. Therefore, it is reasoned, the thing to do is to strike out and obtain by conquest essential raw materials for herself.

This government is taking Japan plenty seriously. The bulk of our fleet is operating in the Pearl Harbor area. The Atlantic fleet is small and its few capital ships are mostly obsolete and slow. Large concentrations of aircraft, particularly Flying Fortresses, have been sent to Hawaii and even farther east. Air-raid shelters have been built in the Philippines, and practice air alarms are set off periodically.

The cool heads in our naval high command do not discount the Japanese fleet. They think our ships are better, and our gunnery more effective. We have a definite edge in the quantity and quality of carrier-based aircraft. And we have a larger fleet. Even so, the navy men feel, it would be a considerable job to lick Japan, and would require all our energies for a considerable time.

It is significant that recent pronouncements of Japanese statesmen have become very blunt. Premier Matsuoka scarcely bothers any more to conceal his dislike for the U. S. and his admiration for the Axis. Germany's successes in Europe have stiffened Japanese spines, and encouraged Japanese saber rattlers. The result is that the Pacific can accurately be described as a tinder box today.

WHO SAID IT FIRST?

"Verify your quotations" is old advice, but the advice is sometimes difficult to follow. In the case of many famous sayings it is hard to find out who really said them first. There are many instances of striking phrases which have been attributed to prominent persons who had really borrowed them from others.

For example, Lincoln's reference to a "government of the people, by the people, and for the people." Almost identical words were used by John Wycliffe in the 14th century, and by Robespierre, Thomas Cooper, Joseph Story, Daniel Webster and Theodore Parker long before Lincoln uttered them at Gettysburg.

Even the Golden Rule, which appears in two forms in the New Testament, was expressed by Confucius five centuries before Christ, and by other ancient teachers.

Perhaps the most catchy phrase ever uttered by the late William Jennings Bryan contained his "crown of thorns and cross of gold" metaphor, which is credited with securing his nomination for the presidency in 1896. It has been and still is generally believed that the phrase was original with Bryan, but the Congressional Record shows that it was spoken by Congressman Samuel W. McCall in a speech several months before.

No one whose words have been appropriated by another could have shown a better spirit toward his imitator than McCall showed toward Bryan in this instance. When questioned about it later, McCall said:

"Yes, Bryan borrowed it from one of my congressional speeches. And probably I stole it from somebody else."

IMPORTANCE OF LITTLE THINGS

THE BASEBALL CAP

Today, my husband, who is a merchant, came home with a thoughtful and pleased expression on his face, and said, "Mary, I have just observed one of the finest examples of parental guidance in character development that it has ever been my pleasure to witness."

I asked him to tell me about it, and this is the story he related.

"Yesterday the high school principal's little boy came into the store and asked to see the baseball caps. I showed them to him, and he was greatly pleased with the twenty-five-cent ones. But when he heard the price his small face fell, for he hadn't that much money to spend."

"Haven't you any for twenty-two cents?" he asked hopefully. "You see, sir, that's all the money I have. Maybe you could find one somewhere that is worth just that much."

"Sorry, old chap," I said, "but we don't have any twenty-two-cent ones today. These are all we have, and they are twenty-five cents each."

"He looked somewhat crestfallen for a moment, then brightened up perceptibly as he said eagerly, 'Would you let me take one home if I gave you these twenty-two cents now and brought in the other three cents Saturday?'"

"I said I would be glad to make that arrangement, and he left the store with the coveted cap in his possession.

"This afternoon he came in again and gravely laid the extra three cents on the counter. I said, 'Well, how do you like your new cap by this time?' and he answered, 'I like it fine, but I haven't worn it yet. I don't think my father and mother liked very well to have me buy it without having the money to pay for it. They put it away and said I must first earn the extra three cents which I owed and come and pay my bill here before I could wear it and call it my own.'

"Then he looked up earnestly and said, 'I had to wash dishes three times to get the money to pay for the cap, and heaving a small sigh, 'I'm sure glad that's over. Then, as he smiled rather roughly, 'I guess I had better wait until I have enough money next time.'

"I think that's a very good plan," I answered.

"As he was leaving the store he called back over his shoulder brightly, 'Oh, boy! I'm sure going to enjoy wearing that cap today!'"

"Pretty good logic for a seven-year-old boy," said I to myself, "and what a splendid way his parents chose to help him come to that conclusion!"

FOOD for THOUGHT

"Help your Child to Enjoy Every Meal"

Many mothers would rejoice if holiday appetites would last the year around. Children who usually toy with their food can really go to town with a holiday dinner.

Children look forward to a holiday dinner. They know that at this one meal they are sure of good food and a happy family.

There is much which parents can do to help children to enjoy every meal. Mealtime should always be a happy occasion. Scolding and punishment have no place at the dining table. All of us have experienced a sudden loss of appetite when we have just received bad news, or when someone has hurt our feelings. Our digestive juices have stopped and, even if we force ourselves to eat, we can no longer digest food with our usual efficiency. In the same way we cannot expect a scolded child to have much of an appetite for food. Children love to help themselves at meals. Food for children should be planned so that they can handle it with as little outside assistance as possible. A child will often have a special liking for milk if he can pour it for himself from his own small pitcher. Fingers can handle raw vegetables such as celery, carrot strips, turnip strips, etc. Celery. A mixed salad can be made easy for small hands to manage. Many grownups hesitate to cut lettuce with a fork and so leave it on their plates. Children usually do the same unless the lettuce is cut in small pieces which easily slip into place on a spoon or fork.

Authorities on child feeding believe that a child will eat best if there is little fuss about his food. If a child refuses to eat a well balanced breakfast it will hurt him to go until his next regular feeding time when he will be hungrier. Fussing to get him to eat more or feeding him an hour or so later both seem to teach him not to eat at his scheduled time.

Too much candy will destroy a good appetite for other less exciting food. A child who has a poor appetite should not be allowed candy and desserts until he learns to enjoy the other more necessary foods.

Allow your child to participate as much as possible in the planning and preparation of food and he will probably enjoy the food better.

A LITTLE THING LIKE AN IDEA will serve to fill these paragraphs this week, but strangely enough our thoughts keep drifting ahead a few days when we'll be doing nothing but eating, sleeping, and fishing.

With the temperature squelching any thoughts we might be able to develop at this point, we're resigned to an agonizing half-day of attempting to bang out enough paragraphs to fill our column quota for this week and it's only the mental picture (wonder if the bass will be biting) of a week of L. O. A. F. I. N. G. that keeps us going.

WITH THE GEE-GEES NOW spreading their havoc at other tracks, a strange silence has invaded Newark and residents who have been virtual babbling brooks for the past thirty days would now put the Egyptian sphinx to shame as far as keeping quiet is concerned.

The departure of the horses and the discontinuation of Delaware Park for another year, has deprived local residents of their main topic of conversation—and although many of them are much less talkative than they have been, they'll be a lot richer after the next couple of horseless weeks gives them the opportunity to recuperate from June's losses.

BY THE TIME THIS COLUMN reaches the mailbox, we'll be well on our way to the mountains and if, through sheer will power, we're able to avoid a repetition of the Rip Van Winkle episode, we'll be on deck again on July 14.

It took us exactly three hours to locate our fishing equipment, but the pleasure to come should justify the effort. Even if we don't bring back anything funny, we should at least collect a couple of good stories that'll make next week's labors lighter.

YOUNG BOYS IN NEWARK have a lot to be thankful for and members of the older generation are to be commended on the interest they have taken in providing recreation for the youths who find their leisure time more than taken up by the playground program.

With the recreation center's baseball and softball leagues and the American Legion's baseball combine, practically every young sportsman in town has an opportunity to run off surplus energy.

Ball playing on streets and vacant lots (rapidly being filled) has been replaced by a program of athletics under the intelligent supervision and the boys not only gain the benefit of recreation but learn fundamentals of the sport in which they will undoubtedly excel their predecessors.

Boys instructed from the time they're big enough to shoulder a bat should certainly prove more apt pupils than those who report in their sophomore or junior year and the program promises to produce some mighty fine athletes in years to come.

Much like Pop and Junior's electric train on Christmas Day, the children have also found that the playground could be used to advantage and quito, horseshoes, softball, etc., are played nightly on the high school field.

More and more, children and grown-ups are beginning to recognize the benefits to be derived from the set-up and the playground promises, in time, to become a local institution.

Don't however, overlook the fact that financial support is necessary to keep giving — and giving. A reserve fund to back a cause supported by voluntary contributions is always a handy thing to have.

LOCAL KIDS WILL AGAIN BE given an opportunity to match their skill in a swimming meet which will be staged by Ralph (Irish) O'Connell in the University of Delaware pool.

Last year's competition aroused so much interest and attracted so much attention from townspeople that it is certainly worth repeating and when those little "fish" start burning the water up, they certainly make it berli.

Watching the youngsters from day to day and from year to year, "Irish" has seen many a young citizen, even hesitant about putting his feet in the pool, slowly overcome his fear of the water and rapidly get into the "swim."

STANTON

Stanton, July 9—The Rev. Frank O. Baynard, pastor of the Stanton Methodist Church, was in charge of all services on Sunday. Holy Communion service was observed at the morning service, and in the evening the topic was "Missions."

On Friday evening, July 11th, prayer meeting will be held at 8:00, in the form of the old class meeting. The Rev. Baynard extends an invitation to everyone to attend. Rev. Baynard is conducting a series of study meetings on the various books of the bible at these sessions, and urges a regular attendance for this course of study.

The Stanton Church is conducting a daily vacation bible class which opened for sessions on Monday, and will continue until July 18th. All children of the community are invited to attend, and there will be capable teachers, with a well planned and well balanced program. Sunday, July 20th, will mark the closing of the school and special exercises will be held, and certificates awarded.

PRESBYTERIAN USHERS HANDED REVERSES BY PLAYGROUND, SOUTHSIDE

Continental Still Setting Pace In Playground Softball Circuit With Two Victories; C. Y. O. Triumphant In Lone Start; 1940 Champs Fourth

With Bill (The Kid) Gillespie working on the mound, the Playground All-Stars registered its second victory in the Playground Softball League as the Presbyterian Ushers were victimized by a 4-2 count.

Gillespie, who limited the Ushers to six safeties, kept his opponents scoreless in five of the six frames played and the defeated combine was able to score only two runs in the fourth frame. The Playground combination opened the contest with a two-run splurge in the initial frame and scored the deciding runs in the third.

In a game played last week, Southside also handed the Ushers a 6-3 setback. Working on the mound for last year's champions, P. Rose held the Presbyterians to three safeties, while his mates were pounding the offerings of McKenry for seven bingles.

Continental, with two victories in as many starts, continues to pace the circuit, while C. Y. O. was victorious in its lone start of the season. The Playground team has registered two wins in three games to earn the third spot, while Southside is fourth with one win in three starts. The Presbyterian Ushers bring up the rear with three defeats in as many contests.

ENDS 46 YEARS IN FEDERAL SERVICE

Well-Known Ornithologist Retires At Age Of 71

Dr. Harry C. Oberholser, internationally-known ornithologist, has retired from government service after 46 years of duty with the Fish and Wildlife Service, United States Department of the Interior. He was stationed at Washington, D. C.

The 71-year-old scientist was to have been retired last year, in accordance with the Civil Service regulations, but President Roosevelt signed an order extending his appointment for a year to give Dr. Oberholser time to finish a three-volume work on the birds of Texas.

A leading technical ornithologist in America, Dr. Oberholser was one of the first scientists to take part in the federal government's large-scale studies on the migration habits and distribution of North American birds. In 1920, he organized the federal government's bird-banding work, and he later directed the first nation-wide migratory waterfowl inventories.

Author of some 800 technical and popular publications on birds, he has been the first to describe and give scientific names to 650 bird forms. Other ornithologists have named several birds in his honor, including a genus of green-tailed towhees called Oberholseria, a species of flycatchers named Empidonax oberholseri, a subspecies of thrashers called Toxostoma curvirostre oberholseri, and others.

During his years with the Federal agency, Dr. Oberholser became known in legal circles for his ability to identify species of wild birds by examining their bones or feathers. He was frequently called into Federal and State courts as an expert witness in cases involving wild duck bootleggers and sellers of other migratory birds.

Well-Known Educator

Dr. Oberholser is also well known as an educator and lecturer. He was Professor of Zoology at the Baltimore Forest School (North Carolina) summer sessions from 1904 to 1910, and was Professor of Zoology of the American University graduate school in Washington, D. C., from 1920 to 1935.

For many years he has been a regular contributor to The Auk, Bird Lore (now The Audubon Magazine), and other periodicals.

Outstanding among his publications is "The Birds of Louisiana," a large volume describing all species of birds found in that State. "Birds of Texas," a 3-volume work he has recently completed in manuscript form, describes in detail the 824 forms of birds found in the Lone Star State. These represent about three-fourths of the kinds of birds found in the United States.

Joined Federal Government in 1895. Dr. Oberholser was born in Brooklyn, New York on June 25, 1870, a son of the late Jacob and Laveria Church Oberholser. He attended elementary schools in Brooklyn and the Pratt Preparatory School in Shelburne Falls, Massachusetts. In 1895 he went to Washington, D. C., and later enrolled at the George Washington University, where he obtained his A. B. and M. S. degrees in 1914, and Ph. D. degree in 1916.

On June 30, 1914, he married Mary Forrest Smith, of Washington, D. C. Dr. and Mrs. Oberholser live at 2905 18th Street, Northwest, Washington, D. C.

Dr. Oberholser joined the Federal Service on February 1, 1895, when he received an appointment in the Division of Ornithology and Mammalogy, of the Department of Agriculture. He continued with the organization when it became the Bureau of Biological Survey, and later, when it was consolidated with the former Bureau of

Only one tournament, the E. B. Wright Memorial, remains on the schedule. Golfers will qualify for this competition on August 23. The schedule for this event is as follows:

Aug. 30 — First round; Sept. 6 — Second round; Sept. 13 — Third round; Sept. 20 — Fourth round; Sept. 27 — Final Round.

He is also a member of the British Ornithologists' Union, Australasian Ornithologists' Union, South African Ornithologists' Union, and the Bombay (India) Society of Natural History.

Will Continue Bird Work

Following his retirement Dr. Oberholser plans to accept an invitation by the Cleveland (Ohio) Museum of Natural History to become its curator of ornithology. Pointing out an interesting coincidence, the Fish and Wildlife Service said that this invitation was extended after the museum was faced with a vacancy caused by the selection of Dr. John W. Aldrich, its former curator of ornithology, to succeed Dr. Oberholser in the Federal Service.

TO SINK WELL AT NEWPORT

Estimated Cost Of Project Listed At $1,500

Newport, July 9.—The Town Commissioners of Newport at their meeting on Wednesday evening in the town hall awarded a contract to Ridpath & Potter for the development of an artesian well, to be located on the town property in Stoneham. It is proposed to put down a 12-inch casing to the water-bearing sand and then develop the well with an eight inch pump. The work will be started this week, and the estimated cost of the project is $1,500. At the completion of the well, it is proposed to install a modern pump from that well to connect with the town water system.

The commissioners are also investigating the possibilities of improving the present water system, making certain changes which will supply additional water by changing the present methods of pumping. This additional supply of water is being arranged due to the surrounding developments which have recently been taken into the Newport town limits.

The commissioners also discussed WPA projects which had been started, and which have been held up due to the WPA labor rolls being decreased. The town will take steps to complete the work now under way.

KNOW YOUR MONEY

And Avoid Loss Due to Counterfeits

TO THE AMERICAN PUBLIC:

The United States Secret Service and your police wish you to KNOW YOUR MONEY, and through this nation-wide educational program aim to suppress the major crime of counterfeiting.

Observance of these few simple rules will safeguard the pocketbooks of the Nation. Therefore, I urge every person to carefully study the rules and to follow them.

The United States Secret Service is grateful for the whole-hearted cooperation which it has always enjoyed from your police officers, and we now solicit the assistance of every American citizen in this effort to prevent crime through this modern method of education, instead of the age-old method of prosecutions and imprisonment.

Chief, U. S. Secret Service.

HOW TO DETECT COUNTERFEIT BILLS

1. KNOW YOUR MONEY!
2. COMPARE the suspected bill with a genuine of the same type and denomination. Observe carefully the following features:

- (a) PORTRAIT: Genuine is lifelike; stands out from oval background which is a fine screen of regular lines; notice particularly the eyes. The counterfeit is dull, smudgy, or unnaturally white; scratchy; background is dark with irregular and broken lines.
- (b) SEAL: On genuine, sawtooth points around rim are identical and sharp. On counterfeit, sawtooth points are usually different; uneven; broken off.
- (c) SERIAL NUMBERS: Genuine have distinctive style; firmly and evenly printed; same color as seal. Counterfeit, style different; poorly printed; badly spaced; uneven in appearance.
- (d) PAPER: Genuine bills are printed on distinctive paper containing very small red and blue silk threads.

3. RUBBING a bill will NOT prove whether it is genuine or counterfeit; ink will rub off of either.

4. REMEMBER—NOT ALL STRANGERS ARE COUNTERFEITERS, BUT ALL COUNTERFEITERS ARE LIKELY TO BE STRANGERS.

TYPES OF CURRENCY

The only three types of currency printed by the United States Government for circulation are:

1. FEDERAL RESERVE NOTES, which bear GREEN serial numbers and seal.
2. UNITED STATES NOTES, which bear RED numbers and seal.
3. SILVER CERTIFICATES, which bear BLUE numbers and seal.

PORTRAITS

Denominations of bills may be identified by portraits, as follows:

WASHINGTON	on all $1.00 bills
JEFFERSON	on all $2.00 bills
LINCOLN	on all $5.00 bills
HAMILTON	on all $10.00 bills
JACKSON	on all $20.00 bills
GRANT	on all $50.00 bills
FRANKLIN	on all $100.00 bills

CHECKING ACCOUNT IN THE

CheckMaster PLAN

NO MINIMUM BALANCE REQUIRED AT ANY TIME!

For a trifling cost, you enjoy all the conveniences of paying by check, without ever having to "keep up" ANY balance in the account! It's better to pay by check than cash, because it's risky to keep money on hand or carry it around. It's also easier and more economical to issue a check than bother with a money order. Your check for a dollar or $1,000 costs you just a nickel.

Compare: A money order for $2.50 costs 6 cents; for $10, it's 11 cents; a $25 money order costs 15 cents; and so on up to 22 cents for $100.

Besides the economy and convenience, a check is more business-like and makes a better impression than cash or money order—and your CheckMaster check looks just like any other check. You can open a CheckMaster account in person or by mail.

OUR PRESENT CHECKING ACCOUNT FACILITIES CONTINUE AS HERETOFORE...CHECKMASTER IS A NEW, ADDITIONAL SERVICE.

FRAUDULENT CLAIMS TO BE CHECKED

Prosecution Predicted By Dr. Wharton

General prosecution of persons fraudulently claiming benefits under the Unemployment Compensation Law was predicted in a statement issued by Dr. Charles M. Wharton, Executive Director of the Unemployment Compensation Commission.

At its last meeting, Dr. Wharton explained, the Commission reviewed reports showing that in spite of the fact that the percentage of fraudulent claims were small compared to the total number of claims, there were still enough cases of this type to warrant serious consideration and definite action.

In the last case referred to the Attorney General's office for prosecution, Dr. Wharton pointed out, the offender had received six months' jail term.

Most of the cases coming to the Commission's attention involve persons who had originally claimed benefits while unemployed, but who found other work or returned to their old jobs and continued to make claims and receive payment at the same time.

A careful check is now being made on each claim and the cooperation of employers is being enlisted in notifying the Commission of all persons whom they hire in order that such list of hiring may be checked against the current compensation file.

While the Commission has been reluctant to take drastic action in the past, Dr. Wharton explained, it now believes that after two and one-half years of benefit payments it is necessary to take definite action to prevent abuse by dishonest persons.

CARELESS SMOKERS WARNED

Smoking materials carelessly used are among the most frequent causes of fires. Be careful in disposing of used matches and cigarette butts. Keep matches out of the reach of small children. Never smoke in bed.

Take no chances in leaving children alone in the house. They might be trapped should a fire occur. Fires often spread very rapidly. Save life first. Let the fire department save your property.

Oil rags or waste should be kept in closed metal waste cans outside the house. Never hang oily rags in a closet. The spontaneous ignition of oily rags has been responsible for many serious fires.

Prepare for fire safety by using fire-resistant materials wherever possible. Eliminate the hazard of sparks on wooden shingle roofs by using fire-retardant roofing. Construct chimneys safely.

Teach everyone in the family to be careful of fire, to watch stoves, fireplaces, electric irons and all other possible fire causes, and every day to remove old rags, papers and other rubbish.

Hot ashes should never be placed in wooden barrels or near wooden partitions. Use metal barrels for ashes and for rubbish. Covers on the barrels add to cleanliness and fire safety.

Inquire of your fire chief, when buying a fire extinguisher, to be certain of getting the right type. Know what to do should a fire start. Never run with your clothing ignited; smother the fire with a blanket or rug.

Prompt Alarms...

Send your cleaning work to the dry cleaner or use fire safe cleaning fluid. Never use gasoline or kerosene to start or quench a fire. Flammable liquids cause the greatest number of fatal home fires.

Wiring should be kept in safe condition. Replace frayed cords. Have an electrician make needed repairs. Always disconnect the electric iron when leaving the room. Use only standard fire plugs.

Alarms should be given promptly when fire is discovered. Do not attempt to fight a fire unaided as it is likely to spread beyond control. Know the location of the nearest fire alarms box and understand how to sound an alarm.

Safety may depend upon repairing a defective flue or stovepipe before starting the fire for the winter. Have the chimney cleaned. Keep the principles of fire prevention always in mind and never take a chance with fire.

Thawing frozen water pipes with blow torches or open flames is dangerous. Sparks may lodge out of sight and cause fire to spread through concealed spaces. Use hot water for thawing, or call a plumber.

Encourage others to save life and property from destruction by fire. Support fire prevention programs. Demand adequate public fire protection facilities including fire department equipment, water supplies and fire alarm.

A box picnic was held Monday at Riverview Beach by members of the Forest Oak 4-H Club and their leader, Mrs. Irvin Steele.

The five young people who represented Red Clay Creek Presbyterian Church School at the Young Peoples Bible Conference at West Nottingham Academy, Colorado, Md., have returned home. They were Jane Klair, Ruth Steele, Mary Alice Pearson, Marion Eastburn and Betty Burkey.

The Esther Isaacs unit of the W. C. T. U., met last week at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Cooper, vice president. Discussion was held on ways and means to increase alcohol education.

Check Plan

made checking facilities available without requiring any minimum balance. The bank's only requirement is that the depositor have enough in his account to cover the checks he draws.

Checkbooks are issued free to depositors without any restriction as to the number of checks that may be issued, and are exactly the same as those used in the commercial department of banks. There is nothing on them to indicate that only a small balance may be on deposit.

"We are pleased, indeed," says Mr. Wright, "to announce the introduction of the Checkmaster Plan to the Newark area. Please note that this Checkmaster Department will supplement our present checking account facilities which will continue as hitherto. One of Checkmaster's chief purposes is to serve those who did not enjoy the convenience of a checking account heretofore."

"Checkmaster has been outstandingly successful in hundreds of towns and cities of every type and size throughout the United States. All over the country, the response from the public is most enthusiastic."

"An account in the Checkmaster Plan will make it possible for the depositor to pay bills promptly and conveniently by check at home or wherever he finds himself. It allows the depositor to shop or travel without the risk of carrying large sums of money."

"We know that the plan will find an immediate and continuing reception in our community because it meets a vital need. The bank's charge of five cents is considerably less than the cost of an average money order, which many people without checking accounts use as a substitute for a check. Besides, a check eliminates the time and trouble of getting the money order."

"We wish to emphasize that there is no initial fee for the opening of a Checkmaster account. This service is so amazing and so revolutionary that occasionally someone gets the impression that the dollar is in the nature of a fee. Remember, too, that the checking account can be opened with any sum."

The announcement also points out that the Checkmaster plan is so simple in principle and operation that an account can be opened quickly and easily by mail. Signature cards are sent to prospective depositors to be filled out and these are returned to the bank with the initial deposit.

The Newark Trust Company has resources of approximately $2,300,000. The bank was founded in 1905 and is a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation with each account insured up to $5,000.
