W. D. SMITH
TAKES JOB
IN CANADAResigns As Head
Of Safety Body;
Has Good Record

Walter Dent Smith, former Secretary of State under former Governor C. Douglass Buck and active in public affairs for many years, has resigned as president and manager of the Delaware Safety Council to accept a position as vice-president of Terminal Warehouses, Ltd., at Toronto, Ontario, Canada. The announcement was made last week.

Mr. Smith will assume his new position on August 1 and devote his entire time to his duties. He and his family expect to move the latter part of July to Toronto where they will reside in the future.

Newly-Created Position

The office of vice-president of Terminal Warehouses is a newly-created position. Frank Kennedy of Toronto is president of that corporation and Paul C. Jones of Toronto is chairman of the board. The company has a large and modernly equipped plant on Lake Ontario. Its warehouse is eight stories high and it handles incoming and outgoing shipments by vessel, rail, and truck and also operates dry and cold storage departments. It has a million square feet of space available for dry storage and a million square feet for cold storage. It is one of the most complete terminal warehouse plants on the American continent.

Thanks Co-Workers

Upon being notified of his selection for the new position Mr. Smith sent the following letter of resignation to trustee duPont, chairman, and to the directors of the Delaware Safety Council:

"Because I have accepted a tender to become vice-president of Terminal Warehouses, Ltd., at Toronto, Canada, I am submitting my resignation as president and manager, effective July 31st."

He has been a great privilege to have with the devoted officers, directors, and members in developing the Council to its present national eminence in the life-saving field, and all of us must find some satisfaction that this work has meant to many life, sight, and freedom from the personal and economic disaster associated with disabling accidents.

"To the many who have aided during my connection with the Council, I express grateful appreciation."

Sincerely yours,

"Walter Dent Smith."

Foremost Safety Leader

Mr. Smith is one of the foremost men in the United States in the safety movement and inasmuch as he will be unable further to apply himself to organized safety promotion he has resigned from various activities connected with it. He has been manager of the Delaware Safety Council for 15 years, during which he established a record that has attracted national attention. He has been president of the Delaware Safety Council since 1936. (Please Turn To Page 7)

NEW RULING
CONTROLS
BULLETINSPostal Limit
Placed On Lists
For Mailing

Because of the new rulings made by the United States Post Office Department, bulletins published by the University of Delaware Agricultural Extension Service will not be mailed to Delaware farmers and others interested in agricultural and home economics information without definite requests for them.

This information was given out this week by Dean G. L. Schuster, Director of Agricultural Extension at the university.

Requests Are Necessary

"While the new regulations make it necessary for requests for bulletins to be on file in either the state or county extension offices, it will not be difficult for interested persons to obtain these bulletins," he said. "Newspaper and radio publicity will be given to each new bulletin published so that Delaware people will have plenty of opportunity to know about them. All that will be necessary to receive the bulletins will be a card mailed to either the local county agent or to the state extension office."

According to Dean Schuster, previously many bulletins were mailed to persons whose names were on a mailing list which had been built up over a period of years. Many of these persons were deceased or had moved so that a large number of bulletins were mailed out to addresses which were non-existent.

Real Needs Met

"The new plan," he said, "will enable the extension service to place informational material in the hands of people who have indicated a definite desire for such material." The new regulations call for revision of the current mailing list of persons wishing to receive types of information and, according to the law, no names may be included on such a list unless there is a definite request from persons wishing to receive material on file.

Persons desiring to continue to receive various types of material are urged by Dean Schuster to write to the Delaware Extension Service or to their county agents and make requests for material applying to subjects in which they are interested.

Will Promote Efficiency

Once these names are on file, they will be added to the mailing list and will continue to receive such material until June 30, 1940, when another request will be necessary. "The new rulings," Dean Schuster says, "will promote efficiency in the distribution of informational publications and material being sent out by the State Extension Service."

4-H Club Junior Council

To Present Banner In Fall

The business meeting of the 4-H Club Junior Council was held in Wolf Hall, University of Delaware, on June 30. President Elizabeth Hersey officiated, according to Gladys E. Walsley, club reporter. New Castle County clubs will participate in an "Achievement Day" program in the fall when the highest ranking group will be awarded the Junior Council banner, which will be retained by the winner for one year.

"Achievement Day," to be held during the day and not at night as in former years, will consist of projects of all New Castle County 4-Hers, such as sewing, canning, swine, poultry, and animal husbandry exhibitions.

The Council's executive committee was appointed to manage and sponsor a parade and a special program to be presented with "Achievement Day."

Miss Walsley, who represented New Castle County at the National 4-H Club Camp in Washington, D. C. last month, reported on her trip. A picnic, planned to follow the meeting last week, was postponed until August 20, due to unfavorable weather.

Rainfall Heavier In June

Following Near-Arid May

Rainfall here during the month of June totaled 5.22 inches, it was reported this week by Town Engineer George C. Price. Following May, when only a quarter of an inch was recorded for the 31 days, gardeners and agriculturists credit the June fall with saving crops and flowers.

Recordings for the year in Newark have been: January 3.22, February 6.35, March 2.94, April 6.18, May 0.25, and June 5.22.

59th Pioneer Infantry

Howard D. Jester, Wilmington, is chairman of the committee for the reunion, assisted by John J. Dugan, Wilmington, and Dewey Quillan, Dover.

Pencader Aid Society To

To Discuss Picnic Plans

The Missionary and Aid Society of the Pencader Presbyterian Church, Glasgow, will meet at the home of Mrs. Margaret Creswell, Cowtown, next Wednesday.

All members are urged to attend the session at which plans will be discussed for the annual picnic.

Meetings Changed

With the meeting of the Council of Newark postponed from July 3 to next Monday night, July 10, the monthly session of the Chamber of Commerce has been moved to July 17.

Both groups use the Council office for a meeting place. The town governing body usually assembles on the first Monday of the month, while the commerce group meets regularly on the second Monday. The changes were made this month due to the extended July 4 week end.

MOVE TO
"SLUG" USEMox Miller Is Arrested After Investigation

Local police cooperating with special investigators for the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Diamond State Telephone Company made the initial arrest Monday afternoon in a prolonged move to smash the practice of telephone users employing "slugs" in coin boxes here.

Four special investigators and local police concentrated their activities last week in an effort to halt this practice which has been growing steadily for the last three years, during the racing meets at Delaware Park. The "slugs" are reported to have been used in several telephone boxes in Newark.

Trial On Thursday

Mox Miller, said to be of Freehold, N. J., was arrested in a local drug store by Chief of Police William H. Cunningham working with the telephone company's representatives. Arraigned before Magistrate Benjamin Eubanks on a charge of using spurious coins, he was placed under $500 bond for a hearing on Thursday, July 13.

Miller, who is said to have come to Newark as the agent for Jockey Dufford, a rider at the recent Delaware Park meeting, is reported to have been released from that post soon after the start of the meet. His presence here since that time has been unexplained.

Special agents assigned to the case by the telephone company were Frank W. Wolf, James Sproul, Rudolph Suisforth, and Alexandra Houston. Officer Leroy C. Hill, another member of the local force, also assisted in the arrest.

Delaware State Police

Capture Escaped Men

Delaware State Police captured Monday two "model" inmates who had escaped from the Broadmeads Prison Farm of Delaware County, Pa., Sunday night.

Theodore McCaulley, 25, of Swarthmore, and Robert Jones, 26, of Chester, were captured near Taylor's Bridge, Smyrna, by Privates Fred Lamb and Winfield Cochran who were on patrol. According to police, the two prisoners were in a parked car and when Lamb and Cochran came upon them, they struggled without a struggle. Neither of the two prisoners were armed.

The men are said to have escaped from the prison in a truck and drove to Marcus Hook. There they abandoned the truck and were on their way down the peninsula taking the back roads, according to police. Both have been returned to the Delaware County Prison authorities.

Chandler Outlines Work Done
By Republicans In LegislaturePoints To Budget
And Economy Plan
In Public Letter

Answering critics of the current session of the General Assembly, which is scheduled to re-convene on August 1, Ebe H. Chandler, chairman of the Republican State Committee, directed a letter today from his home in Dagsboro to all citizens in Delaware.

Two accomplishments stressed by the former member of the State Senate who steered his party back into control last year, are the balancing of the budget and no increase in taxes.

"These were the major problems before the Assembly, Chandler points out, and were handled with 'common-sense business methods.' Due to the publicity given to a number of strictly political skirmishes in the Legislature, the constructive work of the body passed virtually unnoticed, he adds.

Benefit Under Administration

The complete missive follows: "As chairman of your State Executive Committee I wish to report on the results of your investments in the Republican Party for 1938-39. My intent is to demonstrate briefly how you and all the citizens of Delaware have benefited under Republican administration in the past two years.

"Now that the smoke has cleared away two very large and vitally important accomplishments of the 1938 Legislature in Dover stand out. 'Delaware's Budget has been balanced. The State is living within its income.

"This has been accomplished without any increase in taxes.

"The real job of any State Legislature is to solve the major practical problems of State government—that of its financial and common-sense business methods. Your Republican representatives did succeed, under adverse circumstances, in enacting a financial plan in a series of bills which kept the State's Budget balanced, provided for its obligations, protected its credit, and laid the foundation for sound future fiscal policies. They did all of this without adding one cent of new taxes.

Defied Pressure Groups

"At a time when pressure groups were proposing additional income taxes, real estate taxes, etc., as a substitute for economy in cutting expenses, your representatives reduced the motorists' registration cost by 16 2-3 per cent, operators' licenses 33 1-3 per cent, and prohibited taxation of personal property.

Care Of Skin Poisoning

Important, States duPont

Summer with its attendant dangers of skin poisoning from poison ivy, oak, and sumac is upon us, according to Lamont duPont, Jr., chairman of the Delaware Chapter, American Red Cross.

"By all means bear in mind that the family must exercise caution in its own back yard to avoid the unpleasant and sometimes serious consequences of contact with poison ivy and its sister plants," Mr. duPont said.

Insects Carry Poison

In a timely plea to the public to look before it steps, Mr. duPont explained that ivy, oak, and sumac secrete an oily substance and that even minute amounts which contact the skin may cause severe poisoning. The poison can be conveyed by the smoke of burning ivy plants and even by insects, he said, and the best cure is prevention through knowledge of what the plants look like.

Mr. duPont stated that affected skin becomes red and swollen and itches violently. Soon small blisters begin to form which may unite to form larger blisters and may become infected from scratching, he said.

"After exposure to these plants wash thoroughly with soap and hot water without delay," Mr. duPont said. "Do not use a brush or other rough material. Then wash with rubbing alcohol and rise in clear water and dry.

Care Of Rash

"If a rash develops proceed as above and use one of the following measures:

"Make a paste by heating a pure soap with a little water until the consistency of lard. Apply thickly over rash, allow to dry, and leave over night.

"Apply dressings wet with solution of epsom salts as strong as can be made, with cold water. Keep the dressing wet.

"Apply calamine lotion purchased from any drug store. At time of Collections during the past fiscal year from all sources totaled $737,655.20 as compared with $702,626.57 during 1937-38.

Total taxes for the past year, exclusive of license fees, amounted to $554,159.27 as compared with $549,255.48 in the year before, an increase of $4,903.79.

Fees for licenses of the establishments handling spirits, wine, and beer were about the same as last year, Cann reported.

Fees from all sources last month amounted to $151,103.45 as compared with $149,763.51 during June, 1938.

Practically all licensees had obtained their new permits at the closing of the offices of the commission last Friday. There were only five who had not renewed at that time.

Nearly 500 renewals of licenses had been secured. There were 750 holders of personal licenses who secured renewals as did about 175 holders of licenses for brewing home-made wine.

FIVE-CENT
REDUCTION
FOR YEAR40-Cent Rate
Fails To Appease
Suburban Council;
Fight Continues

At a special meeting last Friday, the New Castle County Levy Court set up another new tax rate for 1939-40 at 40 cents on the $100 of assessed valuation. The new rate represents a reduction of five cents under the rate set on June 20.

It is estimated that taxpayers will save $123,000 by the five-cent reduction in the original rate of 45 cents. Relief appropriations, which amounted to about $280,000 last year, were slashed to $61,489 in the revised budget.

Claude B. Voshell, receiver of taxes, was ready to start collections on July 1, when the revised rate was announced. The change has forced a delay of at least a month while Voshell's office waits for new bills to be printed and made out.

Efforts are being made to start collections on August 1, with the discount period being extended to September 30. A reduction of five per cent will be allowed for all taxes paid prior to that date.

Association To Fight

The compromise move of the Levy Court in reducing the tax rate is not satisfactory to the Suburban Advisory Council which will continue its fight for the former 45-cent rate.

"We are grateful for the recognition accorded us by the Levy Court," William Kirk, chairman of the council, said Sunday night, "but we are not entirely satisfied with its action."

"We still favor the original rate and we will send another communication to the Levy Court explaining our stand. We hope the council will drop the five-cent increase at its next meeting."

He declined to say what action the council would take if the court did not return to the former tax rate, merely saying that that would be decided later.

Action Not Known

Representatives of the citizens' group who had announced intention of instituting legal action to determine the need for the 10-cent tax increase could not be reached this week.

The Suburban Advisory Council is made up of suburban civic organizations having a total membership of more than 4,000. It was formed during the past session of the Legislature to protect the interests of suburbanites and has grown rapidly.

The council members, meeting last week in Minquanda, voiced strong objections to the 10-cent increase in the tax rate and asked that the Levy Court give a complete accounting of the need for such an increase.

INDUSTRY
EXPANDSGrowth In Egg
And Poultry Line
Is Registered

The poultry and egg industry once more is expanding. Production of chickens was increased in 1938, and a further increase is in progress this year. Production of eggs declined slightly in 1938, but the output during the current year will probably equal, or exceed that of 1937. On January 1 last there were approximately 413,000,000 chickens on farms. On January 1 next there may be more than 420,000,000.

These and other changes in the poultry and egg industry are reported by S. A. Jones of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in the June issue of "The Agricultural Situation." During the past 15 years, the largest number of chickens on farms was 475,000,000 in 1928, and the smallest was 387,000,000 in 1932. But as feed was more plentiful, and as there was an increase of about 7 per cent in the number of chickens during the year.

Partial Recovery

Of the total number of chickens on January 1 last, about 108,000,000 were in the West North Central States. It was in this area that the poultry industry was reduced most during the recent drought years. But as weather conditions became more favorable and feed more plentiful, a partial recovery occurred in 1938. Nevertheless, the number of chickens in these states on January 1 last was still about 16 per cent less than in 1925.

In 1925, the West North Central States had about 30 per cent of all chickens in the United States. The proportion on January 1 last was 26 per cent. Jones says it is expected that with more normal feed conditions, this area will regain a larger share of its relative position in the poultry and egg industry. The East North Central States—next most important in production—also lost heavily in numbers of chickens during the 1930's and on (Please Turn To Page 7)

Fire Destroys Dennison

Fire which started in a rubbish heap destroyed several second-hand automobiles behind the Dennison Motor Company, Main and Haines Street, on Monday. The Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company extinguished the blaze before it could reach the building.

A large crowd was attracted to the scene of the fire by the dense smoke from the burning cars.

"Oaklands" Once Scene

Of Many Gay Festivities

"Oaklands," which overlooks Newark from the southwest, is one of the largest mansions in the neighborhood. Built in 1850, it contains approximately 40 rooms.

The walls are very thick, and the materials used were of the very best, some of the doors being of solid walnut. People who remember its building said the carpenters worked on it for 36 cents a day.

The mansard roof and bay windows were not on the original building, and are said to have spoiled the artistic effect somewhat. It is a house of unusual interest and one that appeals to the imagination of young people.

Three Sisters Remain

Back in the Gay Nineties, before there were so many college dances, "Oaklands" was a popular place for the young people of Newark to gather. The three sisters, who now own and occupy the property, were all beautiful dancers. They taught most of the young people of that period the art.

It is not known where these ladies acquired their knowledge of peripatetic, but it may have been back of the nymphs in the oak groves back of the mansion. Certainly they seemed to know all about dancing and they generously taught it to others.

The polka was the popular dance of the period and there were many who learned its intricacies at "Oaklands."

Were Trained Skirts

The old halls often resounded to the strains of Sousa's stirring marches, played on the piano for the two-step, which was also in vogue at that time.

The mother of the present owners was very fond of young people and delighted in having them around her. She was a perennial chaperone at college dances. I can see her now, with her queenly carriage, her white ruffles, and trained skirts.

Thanksgiving and New Year's were favorite times for entertaining at "Oaklands," and there were (Please Turn To Page 7)

Improved SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

University of California

(Released by Western Newspaper Union)

Lesson for July 9

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts are listed and suggestions for individual and group work are given.

JEROBOAM: A MAN WITH A GREAT OPPORTUNITY

LESSON TEXT—1 Kings 11:24-31.

GOLDEN TEXT—In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy path.—Proverbs 3:6

Strength of personality apart from good character will not assure success but will, on the other hand, cause only intensified failure and disaster. We may even add divine promises of blessing which are given on condition of right living, and the man of courage and strength without good moral or spiritual character will only dissipate both promise and power and will become what is even worse than a failure—a bad example and a leader of wickedness.

I. Opportunity and Treachery (vv. 26-28)

Opportunity misused may become a curse, but that is the result when a man takes what might be a blessing and turns it into a blight. The life of Jeroboam is a warning against such sinfulness and at the same time it offers us an occasion to encourage young people to make the most of their opportunities for the glory of God.

That which commended Jeroboam to Solomon was that he was a man of courage and industry (v. 28). That combination will carry a man or woman to unlimited heights. The world is so full of timid and lazy folk, that the one who has a heart of valor and a willingness to work hard stands out in bold relief. Every sensible employer knows that fact and is quick to lay hold of and advance such an individual. Times are hard and work is scarce, but opportunity still knocks at the door of the boy or girl, man or woman who is brave and diligent.

The sad thing was that there was treachery in the heart of Jeroboam. Had he been willing to wait God's time he would have received all that he ultimately received and more, but his strength of personality did not include good character, and he at once began to plot against the king who had given him his chance to develop and advance. Let us teach our young people to be loyal and true, as well as to be brave and ambitious.

II. Promise and Condition (vv. 29-31, 37-39)

God had reached the end of His patience with Solomon. He who had begun on his knees in the house of God, seeking wisdom that he might rule his people right, had come to the end of his life in apostasy and in wicked indulgence of the wishes of his heathen wives. Through his prophet Ahijah, God made known the purpose to divide the kingdom into ten tribes and two—a separation which knew no reunion while Israel was in the land.

Jeroboam was promised the ten tribes with the assurance of the great blessing which had been given to David, but this was definitely on the condition that he would "hearken—walk—do—keep" (v. 38) God's statutes. The fact that he failed only emphasizes the folly and wickedness of the man, for he went on his way to destruction in spite of opportunity and blessing. Men are doing the same thing today. Oh, that we teach this lesson might be enabled to stop some such prodigal on this coming Lord's Day.

III. Danger and Exile (v. 40)

Although Jeroboam in accordance with God's promise did ultimately come to his throne, it was by way of danger and a flight into Egypt. Solomon determined to destroy him and Jeroboam had to flee into exile. If he had gone God's way to the throne and had abided God's time, he might have spared himself both danger and exile in a heathen land. Perchance some one who reads these lines is just now languishing in the exile of an Egypt of despair because he has failed to obey God. To such a one we say, do not follow Jeroboam who went from exile on into greater sin and sorrow. Turn back now, seek God in confession and contrition, and if need be, in salvation. Get back to God's way and enjoy His blessing.

In making application of the lessons learned from the life of Jeroboam, let us not fail to point out that all down through the historical records he is referred to repeatedly as the man "who made Israel to sin." "Jeroboam's sins were not the sins of a common man. It is only kings, and kings' counselors, and popes, and bishops, and ministers, and elders, and such like, who can sin and make nations and churches and congregations to sin. But they can do it. And they are doing it every day. . . . The commonest and meanest man among us has more than enough of this terrible power of both sinning himself and making other men to sin" (Alexander Whyte).

To Be Saved

When a man is saved he is saved from something that does him harm. But that isn't all. He is saved to something that is good for him and everybody he comes in contact with.

LET THEM HELP

MILDRED SZEMORE

"Is that the twelve o'clock whistle?" Mrs. James hastily gathered up her mending. "I had no idea it was so late. Time passes so quickly!"

"It certainly does," replied Mrs. Blake. "Won't you stay for luncheon, Margaret? Ellen has it nearly prepared, and she is so proud of her biscuits; she has just learned to make them. She will be disappointed if you go."

"Thank you, since you put it that way, how can I refuse? Jean and Betty are visiting their grandmother today, and it is lonely at home."

Buttered White Biscuits

A few minutes later, as she buttered a fluffy white biscuit, Mrs. James said to Ellen, "My dear, you certainly are an accomplished cook. I'm not surprised that your mother is proud of you. I only wish that Jean were as interested in cooking and housework as you are. You're the first girl I ever knew who liked to do dishes."

"Oh, thank you, Mrs. James," Ellen laughed. "I can't say that I really like to wash dishes, but Mother says that we have to do the things we dislike in order to do the things we like, and I love to cook, and, of course, cooking requires washing dishes. So I just do them!"

Disliked Dishwashing

"What a happy thought! I have never looked at it in that light, myself, and I must confess I have never had much love for dishwashing, either. That has been one reason I haven't blamed Jean very much when she rebelled against it."

Later they heard Ellen singing at the unpopular task. "How do you do it, Grace?" Mrs. James asked. "I have so much trouble getting Jean to take an interest in housework. No doubt it is lack of proper training, but I have tried to teach her. Ellen is so different from other girls, though. I suppose that is the reason you can get her to do so much."

"You are wrong, Margaret. Ellen is no different from other girls of her age, but I have always shared duties with her, and now she assumes them without protest. 'I can't understand how you do it. What is your secret?'"

There Is No Secret

"There is no secret. When Ellen was just a tiny girl she was naturally interested in everything Mother did, just as all small children are. If I had to make a pie, she was given some dough to roll with her toy rolling pin and make into a small one. She baked loaves of bread in her doll pans, and also cakes and cookies. It hindered me at times, but I realized that if that eager interest were ignored it would die, so I encouraged it. Then, as she grew older, I let her cut the cookies and gradually learn to cook. While it took a great deal of time and patience, I have been rewarded many times over. Now, on Saturdays, which Ellen calls

"Mother's day off," she takes charge of the kitchen immediately after breakfast, and until time to start dinner in the evening, it is her responsibility. This leaves me free on Saturdays to catch up the tag ends of the week's work. I usually have a number of things that I can't find time to finish earlier."

Picture Made Clear

"Grace, you have given me a clear picture of the mistake I made with Jean. When she was little and wanted to help, I wouldn't allow it. I thought I could not take the time to have her in my way; I could get through so much more quickly alone. I didn't realize the harm I was doing to the child and to myself. It won't be easy to undo. But I see now that Jean is not to blame, so I shall have more patience with her. We'll talk the problem over together. She is very sympathetic. I think she will want to do her part, and she and I will be able to interest little Betty."

Farm Workers Wanted

Wales, the country believed to have had the world's greatest unemployment problem ever since the World War, now has a shortage of farm workers. Men who have spent all their working lives on the land have left to find work at better pay in the various Government factories established throughout the principality. Faced with the prospect of reducing their live stock and leaving their land untended, farmers are reported in Cardiff to be considering an appeal to the Ministry of Agriculture to find them men from other districts.

Jelly Kettle Wisdom

"WIN friends and influence people?" That's what this poor and ginger jam does best! Make it this very day if you'd reap the reward of half-again more glasses and just see how it saves on cooking time:

Ginger and Ripe Pear Jam
4 cups prepared fruit
¾ to 1 cup dried crystallized ginger
7½ cups sugar
1 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, peel, core, and crush completely or grind about 3 pounds fully ripe pears. Dice about 1½ pound crystallized ginger. Measure sugar and prepared fruit. Add ginger, mix well.

Bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 1 minute.

Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for just 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent foaming. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 11 glasses

FOOD for THOUGHT

By CHARLOTTE SPENCER

Nutritionist, State Board of Health

Family meals should be adapted to suit the needs of hot weather. It is just as essential to emphasize the protective foods—milk, eggs, vegetables, and fruits, but we may change the way in which we prepare them. Ease of digestion, preservation and preparation as well as the heating effects of certain foods all need special consideration in planning good summer meals.

Hot weather makes every member of the family more liable to digestive disturbances. Every mother knows that this is true with children, and we are beginning to be aware that it is also true with adults. Hot weather causes a normal relaxation of all the muscles, including those of the digestive tract. For this reason foods which are easy to digest should form the basis of the summer diet. Salads, fruit desserts, gelatin, or milk desserts, and eggs are a good summer substitution for pork, gravies, pan-cakes, hot breads, and pastries, which were used in the winter.

Bacteria grow much faster in summer and so foods spoil more rapidly. Protein foods, as meat, eggs, and fish are especially liable to spoilage.

Disastrous Results

If there is any doubt as to whether or not food has been properly stored, it should not be used since disastrous and even fatal results may follow.

Flies are a special health menace to foods since they spread disease. All food must be kept screened or covered.

Certain types of food may actually cause additional heat production in the body. Excesses of meat should be avoided since meat does have the stimulating action. Large amounts of ice cold foods or drinks also stimulate heat production. If the stomach is suddenly and thoroughly chilled, the body will respond with an emergency production of heat.

Perspiration causes a marked loss of water and salt from the body. Many people find that the addition of one-eighth of a teaspoon of salt to a glass of drinking water helps prevent fatigue and heat prostration since it replaces the water and salt lost in perspiration.

We adapt our wardrobe to the special demands of hot weather. Let us also adapt our food.

PROTECTION should be provided against destructive termites by proper insulation at time of building. A strip of metal—copper, copper iron alloy or similar material—should be installed between the foundation and the wood construction. The strip should be bent down and out to form a drip. This prevents entrance of the pests at the most vulnerable point.

Metal frames are advisable for basement windows to make protection complete. If wood frames are essential, application of a durable exterior paint will afford some protection.

Q.—Suggest method and formula for painting new galvanized iron. A.—Since surface conditions make paint adhesion difficult, brush thoroughly with solution four ounces copper sulfate, copper chloride or copper acetate dissolved in gallon of water.

This places out in thin deposit, roughening surface so paint will stick. When surface is dry, brush lightly and rinse with water, after which apply paint.

Or better yet allow metal to weather several months until surface has roughened sufficiently to receive paint.

Experience recommends paint composed of 12 parts soft paste red lead, 10 parts raw linseed oil, one part turpentine, one part liquid drier, because of its great adhesive and rust-inhibiting qualities.

Q.—How can we get rid of earthworms without killing our grass? A.—Apply arsenate of lead in proportion of 5 pounds to each 1,000 sq. ft. of lawn. May be mixed with water and sprayed on with watering can, or mixed with dry sand and applied in like manner.

YOUR KNIFE NEEDS

By Katharine Fisher

Director of Good Housekeeping Institute

Since cutlery plays such an important part in the kitchen work, it will pay you to take time to consider just what you do need in the way of knives for your kitchen. Starting off with the most frequent tasks, we come first to the paring knives. It's best to have two, one at the sink, and one at the work table. Then there's always one where you need it, or for any helper you may have. A utility knife, slightly larger and stronger than the paring knives, has many uses. And there's no substitute for a grapefruit knife to loosen the sections of grapefruit and oranges.

KATHARINE FISHER
Director of
Good Housekeeping
Institute

There are paring knives with different-shaped blades to choose from. Pick up each one and do a little imaginary peeling and paring to get the feel of the knife and the comfort of the handle. There will be one that seems easiest to use and best fits your hand.

You need a good carving knife, that substantial, sturdy tool with its stiff blade and curved point that takes care of both raw and hot meats and gets in and under the joints of a fowl. And you just can't get along without a good slicer, which is a bit longer and narrower than the carver, with a slightly flexible blade. Thin, even slices of cold meat, fruit cakes, and pound cakes fall away neatly from its efficient blade.

A good bread knife won't let you slice even though you may buy some breads sliced. And of course there is bread to be cut very thin for sandwiches and Melba toast, and you will have to slice your homemade breads yourself. Any bread knife approved by the Institute will cut clean.

We, at the Institute, feel that spatulas are indispensable. These flexible tools have so many uses. Each of our kitchens has three sizes. The small narrow one slips even the tiniest cupcakes out of the pans and spreads the icing on them; and loosens, without breaking, the edges of jellies, or individual custards or puddings in turning them out. The medium-sized spatula, a little longer than a dinner knife, is used to remove larger cakes, meat loaves, etc., from their pans, and for such purposes as scraping up doughs that stick to the board or table. The shorter spatula, that is as broad as a pancake turner, is used for just that—turning pancakes, eggs, meat cakes, and foods that are cooking in a skillet or on a griddle. Just the tool for lifting rolled cookies from board to baking sheet, and for removing them from the sheet when baked.

Include in your cutlery a two-tined fork large enough to give you a good grip in lifting a roast out of the pan and to hold firmly foods you are slicing. For carving, however—which is cutting toward you—always use a real carving fork with a protecting finger guard. For testing the doneness of vegetables and other foods that are cooking, add a smaller kitchen fork.

And don't overlook our good friend, the kitchen shears, which snip off carrot, beet and celery tops, clip the cord used in trussing poultry, trim the pastry of pies. Good kitchen shears are even strong enough to cut off the wing tips of poultry. The tool of a hundred uses, we say.

Germany Has Interest In Lapland Mines

Acquisition of Czechoslovakia has resulted in Germany securing an interest in the Freja mining company in the Lapland section of Sweden. The company is partly controlled by the Vitkovice iron works of Moravia, which was occupied by Germany along with Czechoslovakia. This gave Germany an interest in the two companies.

Germany is believed not to have gained control of the Lapland company. The Freja company produces about 375,000 tons of iron ore a year. Stockholm reports it also owns iron at Kossulkuille, Sweden. German concerns recently acquired interests in several small Swedish iron mines.

Safety Hints

According to the Delaware Safety Council, more Delawareans were killed last year in home accidents than in traffic accidents. Seventy-two people were killed in homes as compared to 70 killed in automobile accidents. The largest single type of accident is the fall—41 of the home fatalities were due to falls—falls from makeshift step-ladders, down stairs, on loose rugs, from a thousand and one little things around the house.

To keep your family free from falls, check over your house now and eliminate the hazards. Look for loose stair treads, broken and cluttered stairs, small loose rugs on polished floors and unlighted stairways. Have a small step ladder around the house to use, so you won't have to stand on a chair or table top. The time to think of safety is before the accident happens.

Suggestions About Lightning

Here are some suggestions from the Council on how to avoid being struck by lightning.

During severe electrical storms, remain inside a building, if possible, and near the center of the room. If there is any choice of shelter, choose large metal or metal frame buildings first, buildings protected by independently grounded lightning rods, second, and any large buildings in case either of these are not had.

Avoid the immediate vicinity of electric light circuits, lightning conductors and downspouts, screened doors and windows—especially if they are open—stoves and fireplaces, telephones and any metal objects which project through the wall or roof.

If you are caught out of doors, keep away from isolated trees, wire fences, hill-tops, wide open spaces, small sheds and shelters in an exposed position. Try to reach thick timber, a cave, a depression in the ground, a deep valley or canyon, or the vicinity of a steep cliff if any of these are nearby.

THE TAX SQUABBLE

The inconsistency of humanity is being well exemplified by the chortlings of the ambiguous Suburban Citizens' Association concerning the tax rate in New Castle County for the fiscal year 1939-40.

Following the 10-cent increase announced on June 20 and the resulting squawks of protest by the association in question, the Levy Court did some revising of the budget, slashed relief appropriations, announced a second new rate of 40 cents on the $100 of assessed valuation. This represents an increase of only five cents over the 1938-39 rate.

Yet the Suburban Citizens' Association continues to yell, threatens court action, promises a lengthy legal fight. We can imagine their reason for objecting to tax rates were they residing in any of the nine counties on the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

For instance, these tax rates are worth looking over: Queen Anne's 84 cents; Cecil 93 cents; Talbot $1.12; Worcester $1.25 (an increase of 50 cents this year); Somerset $1.60; Dorchester shows a 40-cent jump; Wicomico a 25-cent increase, and Caroline two cents. Consider these figures with the total rate of 40 cents in New Castle County!

Taking for granted that members of the Suburban Citizens' Association are representative of the cross-section of American citizenry, a good example of inconsistency is provided.

Where taxes are direct, aimed at them, can be seen in full view, they threaten fight over a five-cent increase, yet they will elect and re-elect an administration at Washington that loads them down with all forms and types of burdensome, indirect levies. Blissful innocence!

Adding to the general furore of the moment in New Castle County is the ridiculous criticism being aimed at Claude B. Voshell, receiver of taxes. Rates, their establishment, assessments and the like are none of his affairs. His only job is to collect the taxes due the county government.

Criticism of his office in this situation is not only unfair, but it becomes ridiculous when his record is considered. The collection of taxes for 1937, for instance, has been 97 per cent completed, and 92 per cent of the taxes for 1938 have been received. Collections reported have been settled without error or adjustment, which speaks volumes for the efficiency of the receiver's office.

No doubt the fight for the 35-cent rate will be continued, but the Levy Court will have its hands full to handle any kind of a relief problem next winter unless enough money is collected to meet obligations. That's something to remember, too, and relief costs vary beyond prediction.

MR. SMITH GOES TO TORONTO

Announcement of the decision by Walter Dent Smith to accept an executive position with a large Canadian storage concern, effective August 1, was received by his widespread circle of friends in Delaware with mixed feelings. They are truly glad that his outstanding talents have brought him another advancement on the ladder of life. But having enjoyed the pleasure of contacts with him, they cannot help but regret his departure.

Words are inadequate to express the true qualities of the man who has resigned the presidency of the Delaware Safety Council. Ambitious, thorough, capable, successful—each term fits Walter Dent Smith—yet he has never failed to wear his cloak of enviable qualities with anything but poise and grace.

A rare man, indeed, he has never been charged with having used friends as stepping stones. Rather, his genial disposition, his cordial response, his ready attentiveness, his unerring memory, and his thoroughly democratic attitude have always been at the disposal of his friends.

Help concerning his friends has been that which he is ever willing to extend. His advancement is a tribute to his effort, ability, and accomplishments.

A graduate of the University of Delaware, he has filled numerous public positions of trust. He has never failed to fill them in anything short of a satisfactory manner.

Delaware loses a truly valuable citizen with the departure of Walter Dent Smith, but Delaware, proud of his advancement, wishes him Godspeed, continued success, and a life of harmonious happiness.

Adios, Doc!

WEEK TO WEEK in WASHINGTON

Struggle For Power

President Roosevelt has wielded the greatest power ever given by Congress to a President in peace times. Now Congress is withdrawing some of these grants and Mr. Roosevelt hurls back the charge that the Senate is giving money control back to Wall Street. Sharp divisions have marked the proceedings of the Congress in recent weeks. The President's attempt to start a movement for the early adjournment of Congress irritated the statesmen.

Uppermost among the questions of the day are:

First: Will Mr. Roosevelt run for a third term?

Second: Will Congress follow up its condition victories and by merging the strength of the anti-Roosevelt forces pass some last hour measures that will upset the "emergency" laws that transferred legislative authority to the President?

As to question number one, the President makes no commitments, because announcement of his candidacy for a third term would arouse greater opposition than now exists in the Congress. So that answer is deferred.

Regarding question number two—the answer is that Congress has been a spender, and has helped raise taxes and increase the deficits, and has reenacted New Deal theories instead of returning to old legislative principles, that interfered as little as possible with the constitutional and democratic rights of the States.

With a record like that, the opposition to the New Deal is in the weakest kind of position to regain power—and the Republicans and anti-Administration Democrats are now making a final effort to redeem themselves. If they succeed then they may still hope to round up an organization that will be in shape to appeal to the voters.

The struggle for power is being fought out in Congress. The discussions furnish the facts and arguments on all sides of every public question. It is now the time for everybody to follow up all sides of the debate, as it will be presented before Congress adjourns. By following this simple suggestion the reader will be able to form correct conclusions about the fundamental issues of the 1940 presidential campaign before it starts.

The final struggle for power has begun.

Prices For White Rabbits

Time was when a white rabbit could be pulled out of almost any old hat and be had for the pulling. But that day is gone and like those of our youth, will return no more, if recent bids are dependable.

Reports from Washington state that the Administration has bid $500,000,000 of Other People's Money for one shopworn, mangy-furred white rabbit named "Good Neighbor." Although "there are no such animals" the money will be blithely handed out to any nation whose people promise to try to find, catch and, if possible, deliver such a White Rabbit which exists only in the minds of brain-trusters motivated by brain storms.

Who but a brain-truster ever believed that a good will, mutual respect and good neighborliness could be bought with money?

Naturally the Administration never stated that it would try to buy good will with this half billion dollars. It instead proposes to buy good will with this half billion dollars so that they may purchase United States manufactured goods should they be so disposed.

Private capital, during the splurging nineteen twenties, to its everlasting regret, learned that possible profits coming from purchase of one's goods with money one lends, are snares and delusions. A decade or more ago these same nations upon which the Administration now is determined to force a half-billion dollars sought and borrowed from us billions of dollars. And where is that money now? It is in default—gone where the woodbine twines—away up to the head waters of Salt Creek to be seen no more by those who loaned it.

The President blames this wholesale defaulting upon the greed of the lenders for profits, called those loans "ancient frauds" and thereby encourages every unprincipled debtor nation to continue unashamed in default.

Should Congress be supine and approve the Administration's half-billion dollar loan recommendation and then should the money be loaned hither and yon the time inevitable will come when the borrowers of these public funds also will be in default. When that time comes will some future President of the United States place the blame for the defaults upon the greed of today's political leader-lenders for power?

Doesn't man in the mass have sense enough to come in out of the rain?

Selling Man

"It was Lindbergh and not a committee that flew the ocean . . . Ford and not a planning board that applied mass production . . . Bell and not a scientific society that enabled us to send the voice around the world . . . Berlin and not the musicians' union that wrote Alexander's Ragtime Band . . . Kettering and not the League-to-Fix-Cars—Anybody-Can-Drive-One that put a self-starter on automobiles."

Thus did Paul Garrett, Director of Public Relations for General Motors, emphasize his attack upon today's confused, hopeless and bewildered group psychology, while declaring that our basic problem of building prosperity for tomorrow will be solved in this country through establishing the individual's belief in his opportunity to grow, acquire and achieve.

Keynoting the recent convention of the Advertising Federation of America, Mr. Garrett declared that the chief difficulty in stimulating sales is not with the products themselves, which rank high in public esteem, but with individuals who are sick in spirit, as dependent individuals make dependent customers. "No individual can have sufficient faith in himself to buy with a zeal who does not have faith in the continuation of a system of enterprise that will leave him free to exercise his ingenuity in devising a livelihood that, once earned, he can count his own," the speaker asserted.

The advertisers were told their first task was not to sell certain products but to sell man on himself, to restore to him his sense of responsibility, to make him see that he is still in his own master, to comprehend and dispel the prevailing illusions that are killing individual initiative.

"The challenge is to interpret truths that create an atmosphere where jobs will grow," Mr. Garrett concluded, "and when our people understand that opportunity is theirs, they will walk with a firm step. Then there will be 'men aplenty'—millions of them—seeking opportunity unafraid, whose belief in tomorrow will make them good customers of today."

Private Enterprise

Out of all the efforts of the Federal and State Governments to regulate the industrial, economic and human affairs of the nation there appears to have settled down on humanity at large a stranger belief than has been shown in many years in the integrity of independent private business.

During former years employers and employees fought their differences to stand-stills with the result that they seem to be understanding each other better than they did before the days of strong trade unions. A sense of justice prompts the American Federation of Labor to condemn the Congress of Industrial Organizations and the National Labor Relations Board and charge that both of them are not fair to the public, the industries and to other trade organizations.

From every quarter arise stronger pleas than have been heard in many a year in behalf of jobs for workers in independent enterprises under private management. Unlimited spending, waste and ruinous taxation have laid heavy burdens on private business.

Besides, successful businesses are not necessarily monopolies and large corporations could not make substantial gains by working against the public interests. This is frankly admitted by authorities that used to put all kinds of business leaders and employers on the spot.

The Federal Trade Commission issues quite a commendatory report on the automobile industry. It goes into the relations with dealers, allowances for used cars, financing and other subjects. The Commission notes the strong and healthy competitive conditions in the automobile manufacturing industry and the substantial benefits that the consumers receive therefrom.

The National Temporary Economic Committee after examining into patents, insurance companies and other matters relating to private enterprise finds much that is worthy of commendation.

The Congress, too, moves steadily forward towards an old goal, that of encouraging independent initiative in private enterprise.

The Relief Agencies

Despite political ball-tossing there will be plenty of money for the WPA, PWA and the NYA during the coming year. The New Deal policy of Federal control will be continued and the work will go on, as usual, Congress mixed matters up somewhat but failed to make the basic changes that included the threat to turn relief matters over to local authorities.

During the recent two-year period when no wheat program was in effect, the largest wheat acreages in the history of the United States were planted—31 million acres in 1937, and about 30 million acres in 1938.

LENDING PROGRAM.—President Roosevelt's latest spending program differs substantially in principle from any of the previous plans he has proposed for disbursing huge sums of the taxpayers' money for the avowed purpose of stimulating economic recovery. His current proposal to lend $3,860,000,000 for various and quite dubious "self-liquidating" projects is subject to all the criticisms made against previous spending programs. The chief of these criticisms is the simple one, now amply demonstrated that such pump-priming undertakings will not bring about a sound and permanent economic recovery. The fact we still have 11,000,000 unemployed is evidence of that fact. Likewise, this present spending program will add to the present and future tax load of the country, which even now is bearing down heavily on everyone. The New Deal apparently realizes that the country has become aroused over the astronomical national debt and the pinch of taxes, for the current plan is framed to evade the Budget Act and the statutory limitation of the national debt by undertaking to carry on this operation outside of the budget. This proposal is nothing more or less than pump-priming in a new guise.

NEUTRALITY.—A question of grave importance faces the Congress in the neutrality problem. It should and must be settled in the best possible way before this Congress adjourns for the summer. The overwhelming majority of the people of this country want to keep America out of war. The overwhelming majority of Congress want to keep America out of any foreign war. The question is how? There is great sentiment for a so-called "cash-and-carry" position of neutrality. On this basis we would extend no credit to any belligerent once a conflict began. We would not permit our ships to carry cargoes to the ports of any such belligerents. These countries could buy goods at American ports for cash, take title to them, and carry them away in their own ships. Thus keeping American ships and American citizens out of combat zones. The argument against such a "cash-and-carry" plan is that such a policy would penalize the smaller, weaker nations, while throwing added advantages and aid to aggressor nations. Those opposed to this plan would prefer to give the President the power to determine aggressors in any conflict and to embargo shipments to the victims of such aggression. That, of course, in the true sense of the word is not neutrality, since we as a nation would stand in judgment of the conflicting nations and determine the aggressor nation. These are some of the phases of the all-important problem of achieving the best method of staying at home and attending to our own business, of being neutral and remaining free from foreign entanglements and foreign wars, which Congress must solve before recessing for the summer. Under no circumstances will I cast a vote that will involve us in foreign war.

Heat Stroke And Prostration Care Is Recommended

July And August Are Dangerous Months; Capt. Ray Gives Advice

"The layman must bear in mind that heat stroke and heat prostration, though caused by similar weather conditions, require entirely different treatment," Captain Henry Ray of Red Cross Highway First Aid Stations in Delaware, said today.

With heat waves already blanketing many sections of the nation and July and August inclemency ahead, Capt. Ray brings timely warning to a prospective sweating public and lists the cause, symptoms and emergency treatment for both heat stroke and heat prostration.

"Heat stroke is caused by exposure to heat, particularly the sun's rays. Prostration is caused by exposure to the sun's rays or indoor heat."

Stroke Symptoms

"Heat stroke symptoms are headache, red face, hot and dry skin, no sweating, strong and rapid pulse, very high temperature, victim usually unconscious. Heat prostration symptoms are pale face, violent and cool skin with profuse perspiration, weak pulse, low temperature, victim often faints but seldom remains unconscious more than a few minutes."

"Heat stroke treatment includes placing patient in supine position with head elevated; cooling body with bath or placing person in sheet and pouring on tap water; no stimulants. Heat prostration treatment consists of placing patient supine with head level or low, applying external heat if needed, giving stimulants and salt."

Captain Ray said to call a physician without delay in either event.

Paris Teaches History Through Street Names

Paris has a new plan for teaching history. It consists of explaining the meaning of the names of some of its streets. Thus the Rue du 4 Septembre commemorates the fall of Napoleon III in 1870, and consequently the creation of the present regime. The Rue du 29 Juillet recalls another revolution, the one which disposed of Charles X, and the Du du Decembre of the coup d'etat carried out by the future Napoleon III in 1851.

The Rue du 11 November (1918) and the Rue du 14 Juillet (1789) need no explanation, the teachers say. There is also a Rue du 10 Avril in Toulouse and it commemorates the battle fought near that town in 1814 by Marshal Soult against Wellington's troops advancing from Spain.

Soiled Silk Lampshades Make Shabby Rooms

Nothing makes a room look shabbier than soiled silk lampshades. Like grimy gloves with a dainty frock, they can spoil an otherwise charming effect.

First remove metallic braids or ribbons, and if bindings are glued on, tack them into place. Then, after dusting or brushing, remove loose surface soil, plunge the shade directly into a tubful of mild lukewarm soapsuds, using a small soft brush to help remove ingrained grime. Rinse thoroughly in clear lukewarm water and dry in a current of air or before an electric fan.

Swim With Safety Is Object Of Red Cross Training

Girls in swimming class learn proper pressure method of resuscitation of victim of drowning.

EVERY year shows increasing thousands of people engaging in water sports, flocking to beaches and pools, and to unprotected swimming holes while picnicking and camping. Yet deaths by drowning have shown a steady decline in the past 25 years, until from a former annual death toll of 12,000 persons, now only an average of 7,000 persons needlessly surrender their lives while at play in the water.

The American Red Cross, which has led in water safety instruction and life saving in the nation for 25 years, attributes this encouraging decline to increased knowledge of safety rules in swimming, the widespread knowledge of resuscitation of the drowning person, and increased protection of the swimmer at beach and pool.

Red Cross chapters throughout the nation sponsor training of life savers, and 82,000 persons were trained in this vital knowledge during the past year.

The instruction by the Red Cross is not only water-proof the individual swimmer, but it teaches him how he can, with greatest safety to himself, be most helpful in saving the life of a person in distress.

When Swimming

American Red Cross Release

Man did not and does not naturally belong in the water. He lives, walks, eats and sleeps on land. His whole physical make-up; posture, body-temperature, breathing apparatus, shape, and arrangement of arms and legs, specific gravity, functions, everything, has been developed and is arranged for terrestrial living. There is literally nothing to indicate that there is anything natural about his aquatic activities, yet an unbounded curiosity, a dominant will, and a marvelously adaptable brain and physical structure have not only urged him to develop a form of locomotion suited to his needs in the new element, but he has found comfort, relaxation, and enjoyment in the experience, but at the same time experience has taught him that in the water there are definite limits beyond which he cannot safely go and that there is a certain amount of knowledge of water conditions which he must acquire.

Certain Basic Facts

Everyone knows certain basic facts about the water and about bathing. Water can suffocate (drown) a person if it closes over the mouth and nostrils for a more or less indefinite period of time; a few seconds in some cases, minutes in others. Likewise, it is well known that the length of time that a person can stay in the water without succumbing to exhaustion and exposure also has limits, depending upon the temperature of the water and the endurance of the individual. Some persons cannot stand more than a few minutes of immersion while others may stay in for several hours without ill-effect. It is common knowledge that to move about and to keep from drowning in deep water, one has to learn how to swim. No one, as far as the records show, ever walked directly into the water and swam away without previous knowledge of, or practice in some form of swimming stroke. While it is quite true that any number of persons who could not swim have fallen, or been pitched into deep water and yet were able by strenuous effort to keep their heads above water, and in some cases actually made a little progress, the fact remains that they have not been at ease nor could they continue their efforts for very long.

Facts Are Fundamental

These facts are fundamental and well known and need only to be repeated to children as they come to the age of understanding to insure a certain amount of water safety to the race. But this is not enough. The record down through the ages of the millions who have drowned, despite this basic knowledge, bears witness to the fact that there are other factors in aquatic experience that have to be considered. Although much has been accomplished in safeguarding the lives of those who bathe and a system of rescue has been worked out to aid those who get into difficulty, it is a fact that real safety in the water is largely a personal matter; that is, every person from the time he first enters the water until his taste for bathing ceases, should steadily acquire the knowledge and the skill which will enable him to take care of himself under all except the most unusual conditions.

Skill In Emergencies

So, it is to the sometimes well known, but too often unknown knowledge of water conditions and the skill employed in meeting emergencies, that this first part of the text is devoted. Every person who seeks recreation in the water needs to know certain things about being safe in the water from the time he takes his first plunge. As his aquatic skill increases, so should his parallel his development as a swimmer with certain definite safety skills which are wholly personal country and yet about which some confusion of thought exists. Briefly, it has been stated that a person should wait for an hour. Somewhat vaguely it is understood that the process of digestion and vigorous exercise do not go together and that a person may suffer a stomach cramp and drown as a result of going into the water too soon after eating. Not one iota of scientific evidence has ever been adduced to prove that this is so, but unfortunately in thousands of cases clearly indicates that the rule is not without reason. No one knows exactly what happens in cases of stomach cramp and plenty of doubt still exists concerning its causes. However, this question is not nearly so important in relation to eating and swimming as another for which plenty of evidence exists.

Early Exercise Discouraged

Any physician, physical director, instructor or coach would discourage anyone from indulging in golf, a strenuous tennis, or squash match, a football, baseball, or basketball game, or any equally vigorous sport, immediately following the consumption of a hearty meal. There have been too many cases of nausea, indigestion, and heart attacks noted in this connection. The same rule has not always been applied to swimming in the belief that it is a gentle exercise. Nothing could be further from the actual truth. Swimming is a vigorous exercise for more than ninety per cent of those who indulge in it.

The knowledge necessary for safe swimming is not only a matter of effort to stay on the surface and make some progress. It is really only the experienced bather who knows how to stay afloat with very little effort.

Period Of Waiting

It has been stated far too loosely that a person should wait until his meal is digested before entering the water. This is not scientifically true. The time necessary for complete digestion is usually so long that there would be literally no time for swimming, except for a few minutes immediately preceding the next meal. A better statement of fact would be that the initial processes of digestion are well under way before entering the water which would be well within the hour or hour-and-a-half period usually prescribed.

Distention Of Stomach

A hearty meal fills the stomach with semi-solid material; not only fills it, but causes it to distend beyond its normal dimensions when at rest. The process of digestion causes the stomach to occupy more than its usual space in the abdomen and results in pressure upon the other organs, a condition to which adjustment is made normally without ill-effect. While food remains in a semi-solid state and while the formation of gas may be contributing to the distention of the stomach, the pressure is more or less constant and violent exertion at such a time could, for example, cause the heart to labor unduly, frequently bring about acute distress. When the stomach content has been liquefied to a certain extent and any gas which may have been formed has been eliminated, the stomach returns to a somewhat normal state and the pressure is relieved. Then and then only is it really safe to enter the water to swim.

Although no definite proof can be elicited for the statement, it is reasonable to suspect that many of the drownings attributed to stomach cramp have actually been cases of heart-failure, due to the combination of over-exertion, and distress caused by abdominal distention.

Legion Series

tain the youthful tossers on August 10, 11, and 12.

Playing their first game of the season under the Legion banner, the O'Daniel diamondmen stopped a team of ex-Legion stars at Frazer Field Saturday, 3-1.

But Is Loser

Handled by Eddie (Mouse) Morgan, Goldeny College captain and a former Legion catcher star, the "grays" were off to a one-run lead in the initial frame when Smith got a life on Sheaffer's error and scored when Griffin dropped Butts' loft to center.

The Legion knotted the count in the third, when Taylor was safe on Morrison's bobble and tallied on Burke's single. The deciding markers were chalked up in the sixth. Morrison's second miscue, a pair of infield outs, Taylor's single, and a pass from Griffin to Butts for the final runs.

Bill Butts, Pennsylvania Military College hurling ace, was the losing pitcher.

25 YEARS AGO IN REVIEW

July 8, 1914

OBITUARY

James W. Horgan

James W. Horgan, aged 70 years, died at his home, Depot Road, on Thursday, July second. Funeral services were held on Sunday at 2 o'clock. Interment, Welsh Tract Cemetery. A wife and one son survive.

Mima Willis

Mima Willis, the ten-year-old daughter of Mrs. Lee Willis, died Saturday night from typhoid fever after an illness of only a week. Mima was a pupil in the fifth grade last year, from which she passed with honors in June. By her sweet thoughtfulness and winning ways she had endeared herself to teachers and schoolmates. Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock in St. Thomas' Church. Interment in the adjoining cemetery. A mother, a brother and a sister survive.

WEDDINGS

Muhleisen-Thomas

The marriage of Miss Juliette Muhleisen of Strasburg, Germany, and Mr. Otto Thomas was announced today.

Miss Muhleisen arrived in New York yesterday morning on the steamship Vaterland where friends accompanied her to Newark. The Rev. Father Dougherty officiated at the ceremony yesterday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas left on the B. & O. for their honeymoon. They will reside in Newark where Mr. Thomas is one of the officials of the Jacob Thomas Wall Paper Company. Mr. Thomas studied for several years in Germany where he met Miss Muhleisen. He returned to this country about a year ago.

Richards-McDonald

Mr. J. Howard Richards of Hockessin, and Miss Elizabeth McDonald of Faulkland were quietly married in Philadelphia last Thursday. The announcement came as a surprise to their many friends. Mr. and Mrs. Richards left immediately following the ceremony for an extended motor trip. They are expected to be away for about a month.

Teacher Elected

Miss Elsie Davis of this town has been elected as teacher for the Overflow in the primary grades of the local school. The Board is fortunate in securing Miss Davis for this position. Her success at the Oglethorpe school for the past two years has been a subject of neighborhood talk.

Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Grier and Miss Eldridge of West Chester, Pa., and Mr. Earl Grier of Beltsville, Md., spent the Fourth with Mrs. Rebecca Wilson and family.

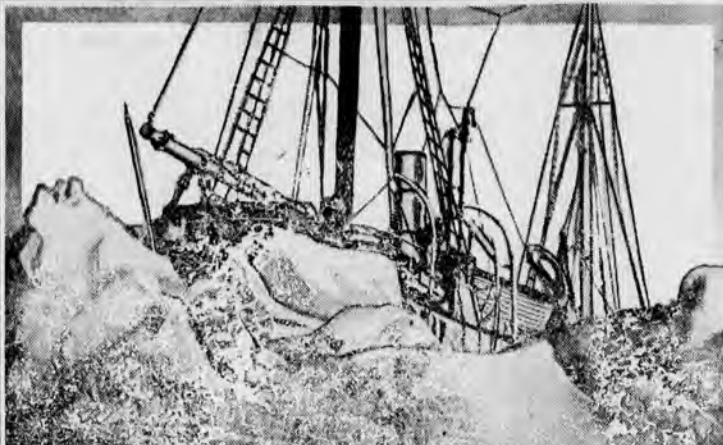

A merry party of young folk from Newark celebrated the Fourth by a launch party on the Chesapeake. The crowd boarded the launch Florence at Charlestown and sailed to Betterton where they remained until Sunday. Among the number were Misses Grace Merrick, Dorothy Lloyd, Jennie Moore, Edna Bayles, Messrs. Guy Gray, William Gregg, John Barrow and Clarence Jester.

In Mexico, before its conquest by Spain, the Aztecs had neither horses nor refrigerators. To satisfy their emperor's craving for fresh fish, relays of racing Indians carried the fish all the way from the Gulf of Mexico to the mountains of the interior. They covered a distance of 200 miles in twenty-four hours.

ANTARCTICA, NEW ELDORADO, DRAWS MAJOR POWERS OF WORLD

ANTARCTIC VETERAN: Lincoln Ellsworth, flying conqueror of the North and South Polar regions, upon whose claims to territory in the Antarctic rests much of the chances of U. S. victory in the brewing international dispute centered within the "last horizon."

IN SOUTH POLAR GRIP: Motorship Wyatt Earp, base craft of Ellsworth Antarctic expeditions, held fast in grip of ice pressure in South Polar seas nearby to Antarctic ice shelf. Ship is now owned by Australia which is preparing new ventures into disputed unknown territory.

PIONEERING AMERICAN: Richard E. Byrd, rear admiral retired from the U. S. Navy, whose explorations in Antarctica, with those of Lincoln Ellsworth, have given Uncle Sam a claim to a big portion of Antarctic continent.

WHITE WATER: The Australian research vessel, Discovery II, ploughs its way through the ice floes surrounding Antarctica.

BACKBONE OF ELDORADO: Crest of range in the South American Andes. The valley-like foreground is merely a dip between high Chilean peaks, and almost matches in height the snow-capped summit in the background.

"BERG": This monosyllabic alarm sounded from a wide lookout in Antarctic wastes means that a piece of polar glacial mountain has detached itself from the continent and gone adrift in the Antarctic seas.

By ELIZABETH ALBRECHT

The frigid "Third World" about which the Greek philosophers theorized is occupying the practical attention of the leading nations of today.

At the lower axis of the earth, the ancient savants predicted, there would some day be found a frozen land mass where a new kind of life would be lived.

Whether believing the Greeks or not, modern major powers are devoting expert consideration to Antarctica, that white and silent region constituting one of the greatest continental portions of the globe.

It is again the Have and the Have Not countries who are seeking a piece of the great wealth which is believed hidden within the "last horizon." The Haves, of course, will not relinquish what they own or any part of that to which they may have a claim; the Have Nots must find new sources of supply for what is not obtainable at home.

The United States, England and Australia, Norway, Germany, France and Japan, among others, say they are entitled to at least a part of the glacial desolation into which Captain James Cook sailed in 1773.

Of Antarctica, Sir Douglas Mawson, Australian explorer, says geological research is certain to disclose ore deposits. "Already, copper, molybdenum, lead, zinc, antimony and other useful metals have been recorded as a result of our own work," he has stated.

In 1935, Sir Douglas declared: "There would be no difficulty in establishing land settlement at a few favored spots along the coast, provided commercial developments can offer sufficient inducement. Thus, should reasonably rich mineral deposits be located in accessible localities there need be no delay in working them."

"I visualize," he continued, "that before long operations will be conducted from Australia and New Zealand into the southern regions much after the plan of the Hudson's Bay Company. . . . Such a system of exploitation should not be long delayed. These Antarctic territories are important, and our respective governments should take the necessary steps to preserve and develop this inheritance."

Australia, seemingly in line with the recommendation of Sir Douglas, has just purchased from Lincoln Ellsworth, American explorer, two airplanes and a specially-equipped motor ship for Antarctic reconnaissance. At the same time, the Washington administration has projected tentative plans to send a map-making expedition into the South Polar regions to do topographical work in areas already explored by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and Ellsworth, two Americans who have claimed much of the disputed continent for their country.

Nazi Germany, after aerial surveys from the base ship Schwabenland, is attempting to jump Antarctic claims long ago conceded to

Norway at least by virtue of sustained whaling operations along the coast. France has laid claim to Adelle Land in the Australian sector, and had her claim redefined in 1935. Japan, via a comparatively casual adventure in the region, plus subsequent whaling operations, is voicing a right to territory there. Ellsworth and other authorities share the opinion that the mountain ranges which he discovered in the interior of the South Polar continent are a continuation of the Andes, the eldorado range for much of the wealth of South America. Chilean copper, of course, has been found in the region on which the United States has put an import tax against it. Ellsworth believes that the lean-claimed terrain on the side of Antarctica, where a submarine dip would again become a valuable part of the continent, one knows for a certainty within the vast, white silence. It seems certain that some going to find out soon.

belongs, the authorization for the expenditure of the funds appreciated. It also corrected many of the controversial and useless expenditures contained in former WPA legislation.

GOVERNMENT SPENDING TODAY AND 1932—About 7 years ago, Mr. Roosevelt was elected to the presidency largely on his promise to reduce government expenses. His campaign strategy was based on the idea that when a family or a government spends more than it earns, it usually ends up in the poorhouse. He also used to advantage the recklessness of Mr. Hoover's spending policies. But since Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal have come into power, he really showed us what a real spending spree looks like. Seven years ago he promised that the expenses of the government were to be reduced to the level of 1932 by at least 25%. Today the government's expenses are three times what they were in 1932, and today, neither Mr. Roosevelt nor the administration worry about these huge expenses nor do they even apologize for them. Instead, they try to justify this vast accumulation of debt for the last six years, and have provided themselves for the convenient, although not convincing logic, which will make huge government expenditures a permanent thing. At this rate, it seems inevitable that inflation must come, and when it does, it may leave in its wake a mental and moral breakdown of our cherished institutions.

PUBLIC DEBT STAGGERING—This year, "pump priming" by the administration will be used again in another attempt to get out of the current depression. This will probably mean more taxes for business, which will make it even still harder for the business man to keep his head above water. As the fiscal year ends, here is the administration's story in actual figures:

Total Income . . . $ 5,800,000,000
Total Outgo . . . 9,250,000,000
Deficit . . . 3,450,000,000
Public Debt . . . 40,900,000,000
