Main St. parking open later

AT LEAST ONE PERSON in Newark will sleep better now that city council has voted to allow parking on Main Street after 9:30 p.m.

"This has been a longstanding problem," said Mayor Ronald Gardner. "I know, because I'm the one who got all the calls from people who were towed."

The Mayor added that he was happy about the change, not because of the phone calls, but because of all the "increased business out there at night" drive.

Watching water use

A summer of less than average rainfall has Newark scrambling to maintain water supplies. "Here come the students and still no rainfall," said city water and wastewater director Joseph Dombrowski on Wednesday. "We're going to voluntary restrictions now in case we need to impose mandatory ones."

The mandatory restrictions could come almost immediately. "The demand will jump on Sunday when the first wave of freshman move on campus," said Dombrowski. "If the voluntary measures do not reduce consumption by approximately 20 percent, we will have to impose mandatory water restrictions."

NEWARK POST • POLICE BLOTTER

■ Police Blotter is compiled each week from the files of the Newark Police Department, the New Castle County Police Department and the Delaware State Police by staff writer Julia Sampson.

Police investigate death on S. College

Newark Police are currently investigating the death of a 30-year-old Newark man. According to reports, police were called to the 300 block of South College Avenue Aug. 25 about 2:45 a.m. by a neighbor who reportedly heard a gunshot in a nearby residence.

The body was pronounced dead at the scene and was turned over to the medical examiner's office.

Newark Police detectives and the medical examiners office are continuing to investigate the incident, which police believe appears to have been self inflicted.

Peeping Tom

It was reported to Newark Police that on Aug. 18 about 5:40 a.m. an unknown person was looking into the window of an apartment in Town Court Apartments.

According to police reports the resident of building 31 was walking his dog and noticed a person looking into the window of his apartment. Inside his apartment was a female roommate. The resident went back into the apartment to contact police without confronting the peeping tom. Officers responded and checked the area to no avail. The police have no further information on the identity of the suspect.

Office Burglarized

Newark Police report that between Aug. 18 about 6 p.m. and Aug. 19 about 8 a.m. unknown persons burglarized the office of Town Court Apartments.

According to the report a maintenance worker at the Apartments found the office ransacked and a calculator and copy machine damaged. Items missing include a Motorola pager, several master keys and a roll of postage stamps.

The case has been turned over to detectives for further investigation.

Playground defaced

A complaint was called in on Aug. 19 that playground equipment at West Park Elementary had been defaced.

According to Newark Police reports between Aug. 12 and Aug. 19 unknown persons wrote several words and phrases on new playground equipment at West Park Elementary with black permanent marker.

Police have no leads at this time.

Apartment entered

According to Newark Police a resident at Center Street Apartments reported that between Aug. 16 around 11 p.m. and Aug. 22 around 12:30 p.m. unknown persons were suspected of entering said resident's apartment.

Upon returning to the apartment Aug. 22 the resident noticed a rip in the screen in the kitchen.

According to police on Tuesday, Aug. 19, a friend of the resident drove by to check on the apartment and noticed a light on at the address.

The resident reported that nothing appears to have been taken and the only evidence of forced entry is on the window.

Police have no further leads at this time.

Entered by the roof

Newark Police report that between midnight Aug. 16 and 9:15 a.m. Aug. 18 unknown persons entered Suburban Liquors in Suburban Plaza.

According to police the suspects are thought to have gained entry from the roof of the shopping plaza. Suspects also exited the same way. An undisclosed amount of cash and liquor were taken.

Police are continuing their investigation.

Car stolen

Newark Police report that between 8:30 p.m. Aug. 18 and 9:30 a.m. Aug. 19 a vehicle was stolen from the 300 block of Old Oak Road.

The vehicle, a 1990 Oldsmobile, was stolen from the owners driveway. Police are unable to provide further description of the vehicle. No evidence was left at the residence. The vehicle has not been recovered as of press time.

Police are continuing their investigation.

American Appliance caught again

Attorney General M. Jane Brady has announced the filing of a comprehensive enforcement action in the Superior Court in and for New Castle County, against American Appliance Inc., and its owner and President William C. Rowland. American Appliance, a New Jersey based retailer, sells home appliances, electronic products and computers in Delaware, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

This lawsuit caps the Attorney General's long running investigation of American Appliance's alleged "bait and switch" merchandising practices in Delaware. The complaint alleges that the defendants have willfully, consistently and unabatedly engaged in illegal "bait and switch" practices in its three retail stores located in Delaware. "Bait and switch" is prohibited under Delaware's Consumer Fraud Act.

Consumer complaints and indications of bait and switch originally led to an investigation by the State of Delaware, Department of Community Affairs' Division of Consumer Affairs in 1988.

Newarkers caught in GM drug bust

Newarkers Dennis Bladen, 51, and Steve McIlvaine, 27, were among the 15 men arrested following a 16-month investigation into suspected illegal drug sales at the General Motors Boxwood Plant.

Others arrested include Steve Anderson, 32, Jay Hawthorne, 24, Otis Henderson, 38, Raymond Acton, 39, John DuVall, 38, Luke Isom, 42, Merrill Stanton, 37, Kenneth Dietz, 36, Jerome Lynch, 47, and Gary Wasno, 34, all of Wilmington; Van Calloway, 41, and Glen Johnson, 37, both of New Castle; and James Dennison, 49, of Elkton, Md.

Hawthorne, Lynch and McIlvaine are not employed by GM.

The investigation came to a close on Aug. 21 as New Castle County police detectives, county police K-9 teams and county paramedics assisted by supervisors and security officers from General Motors, executed Grand Jury indictment arrest warrants.

Among the 60 criminal charges were possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, delivery of marijuana, cocaine, phencyclidine and methamphetamine, unlawful delivery of a non-controlled substance and of a prescriptive drug, and maintaining a vehicle for drugs. Other related charges were also filed.

Police seized approximately one quarter pound of marijuana, six grams of cocaine and small amounts of crystal methamphetamine and PCP.

Tuition prices on the rise again at UD

Roselle notes increase is lowest in last 10 years

By MEGAN AFTOSMIS

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Incoming students at the University of Delaware face increased tuition and other fees as the new year begins.

For Delaware residents, tuition is up by $130 over last year to $4,120 for undergraduates and most graduate students, while non-residents will pay $11,750.

The tuition for Delaware residents who are full-time graduate students in the masters in business administration program rose by $170 to $5,190. For non-residents, tuition rose by $500 to $11,750.

"UD is even a better bargain for Delawareans this year," said University President David P. Roselle, "with significant increases in financial aid available from the University, as well as from MBNA America under its new scholarship program."

According to Roselle, 116 Delawareans will attend the University this year with assistance from MBNA. University of Delaware students will also receive approximately $62 million in financial aid from the university and federal government, as well as extra amounts from private sources.

Roselle noted that the tuition rise is the lowest percentage increase in more than ten years. "The University of Delaware is truly one of the best education bargains in the nation, and that fact is increasingly recognized and noted by others," Roselle said.

The University of Delaware 1996-97 meal plan rate, priced at $2,110, was among the lowest of comparable colleges and universities on the East Coast.

Charging the highest rate of $3,450 was Villanova University, while the University of New Hampshire charged the lowest fee of $1,800.

Higher room and board rates for the 1997-98 academic year include annual dining plan rates increasing an average of 3.3 percent or $70, raising last year's price to $2,180. Dining plans can be purchased for a combination of up to 19 meals/week plus points which can be also be used to purchase food.

According to the Trustees, this is the lowest average increase in the last five years for dining rates. The average increase for 1996-97 was 3.9 percent, while in 1992-93 dining rates were increased an average of 6.6 percent.

Meal plans for winter and summer sessions will also increase by 3.3 percent, with winter session prices rising by $12 over last year's price to $372. The five-week summer session meal plan price will increase from $458 to $ 473. The seven and a half-week summer session meal plan price will now cost $650.

Also, effective this month, the rates for residence hall rooms will be increased an average of 4.5 percent. The cost of a traditional, multiple room is going up 4.4 percent to $2,590. The price of a two-bedroom apartment in the Christiana Towers will increase $120 or 4.3 percent to $2,940. Other housing rates were increased as little as 1.6 percent and as much as 4.6 percent.

University housing rates include local phone service, special phone features like voice mail, cable television and data connections.

The University of Delaware 1996-97 housing rate of $2,480 for a traditional multiple room ranked near the middle of comparable East Coast schools, with Villanova University again ranked the highest at $3,860 and Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University charged the lowest rate at $1,396.

An increase in the Student Health Service fee went into effect in June when the cost was increased by $5 to $135 per semester. The health service fee for winter and summer sessions will remain at their current prices.

This increase is comparable to the past increase for the 1996-97 academic year. The Student Health Service fee was increased by $7 this past year to $130 per semester. This follow's an increase in the health fee for winter session last year by $2 to $37.

Other health service fees will be increased by an average of 3.75 percent.

The Student Comprehensive fee will also be increased to $84 for the 1997-98 academic year.

I-95 tolls reduced for weekend

Reduced tolls will be in effect at the Maryland/Delaware I-95 toll plaza from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily Friday, Aug. 29 through Monday, Sept. 1. Normal tolls of $1.25 for passenger vehicles will be only $1 during that time.

According to the Delaware Department of Transportation, heavy traffic on holidays and summer weekends, has traditionally led to traffic back-ups at that location.

Variable message boards will be erected on I-95 to reduce confusion and inform travelers of lowered tolls. In a further effort to limit delay and move traffic smoothly, outside lanes at the plaza will be staffed with added toll collectors.

Drought, influx of students lead to water warning

► WATER, from 1

Water customers are asked to minimize water outside water use, take shorter showers, and repair water leaks. Installing water-saving devices can also help with longterm conservation efforts.

Dombrowski said Newark's surface water treatment plant was off, as it has been several times this summer, because flows in the White Clay Creek were below the mandatory cutoff limit. "United Water company has been struggling to supply their customers and they want us to shut down the plant so what water there is will flow down to them," explained Dombrowski.

According to the complicated interconnection system worked out among northern New Castle County water companies, United can buy additional water from Wilmington's Hoopes Reservoir in times of need. When the treatment plant and wells in Newark are inadequate, United sells some of their "surplus" to the city. "We actually buy back some of the water we have to let flow to United," said Dombrowski. "We've tried to get out of that arrangement but we can't."

State officials have urged residents to conserve water since July when they met for the first time since 1995 to discuss the possibility of a drought.

Although water supplies were low, the situation at that time was not dire enough to be a drought. However, noting high demand, officials urged residents to cut down on nonessential use of water such as watering lawns and washing cars.

State climatologist Dan Leathers said that precipitation statewide was about 10 percent below normal as of July.

'All aboard' here Tuesday

at 12:30 p.m.

According to Newark planning director Roy Lopata, service on Unicity buses will coordinate with the train schedules.

The N2 Unicity bus running from Welsh Tract Road will arrive at the train station at 7:43 a.m. and 5:32 p.m. The N1 mid-day loop will stop at the station at 11:57 a.m. for persons using the off-peak rail-bus.

In addition to DART Route 33 on South College Avenue, two new bus shuttles will take riders from the Newark Park & Ride, former site of Dannemann's Fabrics, (Route 57), and from the Milford Crossroads area (Route 58).

One-way adult fare for the train or rail-bus between Newark and Wilmington is $2.25. A monthly Intermediate Pass for commuters between Newark and Wilmington is $49. Newark to Philadelphia one-way adult fare is $5; the SEPTA monthly TrailPass is $142.

Train tickets are available on the train in Newark or at the Wilmington or Philadelphia stations. Monthly passes may be purchased at the stations, or by writing to: DART First State, Transportation Stores Specialist, 400 A. Madison Street, Wilmington 19801. Passes should be ordered no later than the 20th of the month to ensure delivery by the end of the month.

During the first month of rail service, parking will be free in the 300 spaces at the Newark station. Beginning in October, parking will be available at the Newark station for $2 per day. Monthly parking is available only for those with a valid SEPTA monthly pass for $20 per month.

Standard bike racks are available in addition to secured bike lockers for rent. Schedules will be available for the new service by late August.

New president takes over at Goldey-Beacom

Goldey-Beacom College starts the new school year with recently-appointed president, Mohammad Ilyas, Ph.D., at the helm.

Ilyas, who joined the college staff in June of 1975 as associate academic dean, is the seventh president since Goldey and Beacom Colleges merged in 1951.

Ilyas' appointment was the result of a national search to fill the vacancy created when William R. Baldt assumed the position of president emeritus after nineteen years as president.

Formerly an assistant professor at the University of Delaware, Ilyas has served as director of the evening division, treasurer, and vice president for academic affairs at Goldey Beacom.

In 1984, he was appointed, provost, a post he held until being named interim president in September, 1996. Ilyas earned his Ph.D. in business education from the University of Connecticut, and was a Fulbright Scholar from 1966 to 1968.

According to college officials, Ilyas was critical in obtaining accreditation for the college from the Middle States Association, and initiated the process for national accreditation from the Association of Collegiate Business Schools and Programs. During his tenure as provost, Goldey-Beacom introduced its first MBA program in 1992 and made dramatic increases in the percentage of faculty with terminal degrees. Ilyas was described by one staff member as the "architect of the Goldey-Beacom curriculum."

Ilyas is also known for his keen fiscal skills, producing 21 year-end budget surpluses while expanding and upgrading faculty and programming.

Nancy Churchman Sawin, chair of the board of trustees, served not only on this presidential search committee, but also on the committee which selected Baldt in 1977. Sawin praised Ilyas' selection, declaring, "Dr. Ilyas' strength in academics and fiscal matters is secondary only to his commitment to Goldey-Beacom and the unique education we provide."

Goldey-Beacom College, founded in 1886, offers graduate and undergraduate degrees with a focus on business. With alumni from 25 states and 66 countries, Goldey-Beacom College is accredited by the Commission on Higher Education of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools.

Parking time lengthens at night on Main Street

ving the decision.

According to Newark Police Chief William Hogan, the amendments to the city traffic ordinance approved by council on Monday night extend the hours of daily parking on Main Street from McKean Place to Elkton Road, and on Academy and Haines streets between Main Street and Delaware Avenue.

"This (9:30 p.m.) parking restriction was initially created in 1990 as the final and most successful solution to the problems we were experiencing on Main Street a number of years ago," said Hogan. "Young people were congregating and loitering on the sidewalks and their 'cruising' on Main Street created traffic jams."

Hogan said his department is still concerned about the possibility of such problems reoccurring. "However, the Downtown Parking Committee and city Traffic Committee believe that new restaurants and businesses on Main Street have revitalized this area making it more attractive to adults," said Hogan. "Complaints from merchants and persons using the restaurants late at night caused us to consider giving this a try."

Police will monitor the change for a year to document the impact of the new regulations. At the end of the year, the police department will submit a report to council with further changes if needed.

Parking meters will remain in operation during the late evening hours with fees increasing to 25 cents for 15 minutes or $1 an hour between 6 p.m. and 1 a.m. for a two-hour maximum. "The increased rate may discourage youth from parking at the meters who come to Newark to 'socialize' on Main Street and thereby recreate the environment that existed in the past," said Hogan. "The two-hour maximum on the meters was recommended to reflect an appropriate amount of time for people to have drinks and a meal at a restaurant."

Councilman Anthony Felicia expressed concern that two hours was not enough time to dine when some places had more than a 30-minute waiting time to get seated. However, District 4 member Thomas Wampler pointed out that diners with that problem could still park in the Newark Parking Authority lots for as long as they like up to 1 a.m.

"I think it's terrific that we've gone from a problem with people hanging out to people not having enough time to do business downtown at 10 and 11 at night," said Wampler.

New meters with the same fees and time limits as those on Main Street will be installed on the west side of Haines Street to increase availability of parking in that area.

No parking will be permitted on Main Street between 2 and 6 a.m. to allow time for street sweeping and to keep the street clear during the early morning hours. "This gives a one-hour grace period between 1 a.m. when meter enforcement stops and 2 a.m. when the no-parking restriction takes effect," said Hogan.

The city hopes to have the new regulations in effect in the next few weeks although no date has been set. New meters must be installed and fees and times must be altered on existing meters. "We will put flyers on windshields for awhile when we start to tell people about it," said Hogan.

Revenue from the additional parking time will be used to hire two part-time parking enforcement officers who will also hand out maps and other information related to off-street parking, parking validation programs, and directions to downtown restaurants and other facilities.

Groom 'slaughtered' at Bachelor Party

Friends and family of Thom Slaughter surprised him with a "bachelor party" at Lowe's in Eden Square recently.

"That's his favorite store," said friend Sue Diamond. "The standard joke in the family was that he would take (his future bride) there for dates if he could."

Slaughter and Barbara Ann Gestwicki, both Newark residents, plan a formal wedding reception at the Christiana Hilton in September. Both were married before and Slaughter already has two daughters and two grandchildren.

Diamond said the wedding party wanted to do something fun and unusual for Slaughter. "We approached Lowe's about it and they liked the idea," said Diamond. "They even set up chairs for us and brought in trees from their garden department."

A barbecue grill was arranged to serve one of the groom's favorite meals, hot dogs and bake beans, on a buffet graced by an ice sculpture of a hammer. "Thom thinks the wedding reception is 'too much' with even an ice sculpture," said the amused Diamond, "so we got one here for him, too."

Fearing problems of yesteryear

ANY RELUCTANCE of the part of Newark city officials to support a return to parking on Main Street after 9:30 p.m. was based on experience — bad experience.

Monday night, as our front page story details, the city council approved a package of parking regulation changes that includes a lifting of the 9:30 p.m. parking ban downtown.

Mayor Ronald Gardner says his phone will be quieter now. In recent months, he was at the receiving end of a flurry of complaint calls from citizens towed from private lots. With this addition of late-night parking spaces, officials believe some of the parking problems that led to aggressive towing will be alleviated.

But it wasn't so long ago that Newark officials were barraged with angry calls about teenage

When then-new police chief William A. Hogan arrived early this decade, his marching orders were to clean up downtown. He and others did so and much of their success has been attributed to the 9:30 p.m. parking ban. Hence, some reluctance to lift it.

We applaud the council and city officials for developing and approving the parking package adopted Monday. Such action would not have been effective in 1990, but it makes good sense today. The plan is well-thought-out by those responsible for maintaining order and should help make downtown Newark a place where adults will want to come to in the evening.

Doctor retires after distinguished career

By ELBERT CHANCE

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

ONE LOCAL RESIDENT describes him as an institution, many know him as a caring friend, and hundreds call him doctor.

On Sept. 1, that respected Newark physician, Dr. C. Royer Donoho Sr., will officially retire after a distinguished career that began more than a half century ago.

Roy Donoho's Delaware roots go deep. His father, Albert P. Donoho, was born in Odessa, graduated from Delaware College in 1894, and enjoyed a fling as a minor league baseball pitcher before beginning his medical education in Philadelphia. After earning his medical degree, he spent several years in Mexico as doctor for a mining company before establishing his private practice in Merchantville, N.J.

When Roy began to consider colleges after graduating from Merchantville High School, his father proposed a tour of his alma mater, and they crossed the Delaware River on the old New Castle ferry to confer with the University's formidable Dean of Men George "Froggy" Dutton. The young man obviously liked what he saw, for he graduated in 1938 after having demonstrated superior scholarly ability and comparable athletic skills on the varsity tennis team. He recalls that two of his classmates, John W. Alden Jr. and Thomas N. Warren, also were outstanding students who became physicians, while Lewis Z. Carey, a tennis teammate, was one of the UD's all-time athletic greats, lettering in four sports.

Following in his father's footsteps, Roy enrolled at Temple University Medical School. A year later he married his college sweetheart, Dorothea Thiel, and two years later, he completed his internship at the old

Dr. C. Royer Donoho, Sr.

Delaware Hospital. World War II had begun, and he'd taken preliminary steps to enter the U.S. Air Force as a doctor when fate intervened.

While an intern at Delaware Hospital, Roy had cared for several patients of Dr. Aristides Mavromatis, a Newark physician whose office was on Delaware Avenue near The Knoll, home of UD president Walter Hullahen. Dr. Mavromatis suffered a heart attack and asked young Dr. Donoho to care for his patients while he was recuperating. Two days after Roy's arrival to take this temporary assignment, Dr. Mavromatis died.

Several Newark area doctors already had entered military service and another local physician, Dr. E. Earle Weggenmann, was himself experiencing medical problems. To meet this serious shortage, a group of civic leaders, among them Dr. Wallace Johnson, prevailed upon Roy to establish his practice in the city, a decision that proved a blessing to the community.

Within weeks the new arrival had become company doctor for the National Vulcanized Fibre Company, student physician for the University, and physician for the Army Specialized Training Program affiliated with the UD. Throughout the war years, he was on call seven days a week.

Initially Dr. Donoho was a general practitioner operating from Dr. Mavromatis' former Delaware Avenue office, but in 1948 he purchased a lot at 266 S. College Avenue from the Fraternal Order of Red Men where he built a modern office that opened the following year. He has practiced in that location for 48 years, sharing the building for the last quarter century with his son, Dr. Christopher R. Donoho.

Fewer swivel chairs in Washington

Departments at Washington are announcing big clearance sales of swivel chairs.

This is good Republican argument. The last administration purchased more swivels (they go round in such restful circles) than any in history.

Fewer swivel chairs is the great need of America — and Harding is selling them at reduced prices.

Fewer swivel chairs means "fuller dinner pails." Fewer swivel chairs means Peace and Prosperity — one time synonymous terms.

Why not again?

Opening exercises at new colored school here

David Boyles, president of the Colored Patent-Teacher Association of this district, has announced that Saturday, Sept. 2, has been set as the date for the official opening of the new colored school, on New London Road.

'New fangled' time

When the local public schools open on next Tuesday they will have daylight saving time, the same as in the Spring.

There were rumors afloat that the schools would use Standard time but this was denied by Superintendent Owens.

New strategy could lower taxes

Newark City Council authorized a consulting firm Monday to evaluate the manner in which money in the city's $13 million pension fund is being invested. The city's investment strategy hasn't been reviewed since 1966.

The upshot could translate into a lower tax rate for residents depending upon what city officials decide after the review is completed. But the impact will not be felt of 10 to 20 years, said Carl Luft, city manager.

Pushmobile collision mars race

An accident that marred what was an otherwise fun filled afternoon on Aug. 22 wasn't entirely unexpected, according to one long-time observer of the Delaware Push Mobile Derby.

"We've been an accident waiting to happen for six years," said Karen Beattie, promotional director for the event.

The mishap occurred when a car veered out of control through one of the hay bale barriers and collided with Sandy Tordella, of New Castle.

Tordella, 29, was left with an assortment of bruises and cuts, some of which required stitches.

State Rep to attend national convention

To: The editor
From: Rep. Richard A. DiLiberto Jr.
House of Representatives,
14th district, Newark

"We must all hang together, or assuredly we shall all hang separately," said Benjamin Franklin on July 4, 1776, at the signing of the Declaration of Independence. The same may be said today for the role of states within the federal government. When united, states exhibit tremendous power; when divided, the entire union suffers.

Delegates from our 50 states will join representatives from our commonwealths and territories for the 23rd annual meeting of the National Conference of State Legislatures (NCSL) on Aug. 6. In Benjamin Franklin's hometown of Philadelphia, legislators and their staff will exchange new ideas and information to keep our states — and consequently the union — strong.

In recent years, Congress has supported a concept known in legislative circles as "devolution." The theory behind the movement is to shift power from the federal level to state governments. States generally favor this trend, as long as the dollars that supported the program on the federal level come along with the responsibilities they must assume. NCSL works to provide state legislatures with a strong and cohesive voice as the federal system "devolves."

That is why attendance at the NCSL annual meeting is crucial. How our state reacts to devolution, and the issues that come with it, not only will greatly influence how we attain our goals, but will also determine how ably we meet future challenges. By learning about successes and failures from other states, we can avoid costly mistakes and look at more cost-effective programs to address our most difficult issues.

This year, I am proud to serve as a vice-chairman of the NCSL's Law and Justice Committee. The meeting will provide me with the opportunity to bring home ideas to our Delaware House Judiciary Committee. Legislators who attend the annual meeting also have the opportunity to meet with senior members of Congress and high ranking officials from the Clinton administration.

I believe it is important to represent our state at this important national conference. I look forward to sharing the information I obtain from the meeting with my colleagues in the legislature, the media and with my constituents.

Doctor's career comes to end

► CHANCE, from 6

While continuing his general practice, Roy's interest in the study of allergies increased and, after taking a number of special courses and passing requisite examinations, he became a board certified allergist in 1974. He subsequently became head of the Allergy Service of the Medical Center of Delaware, a post he held until the early 1980s when he was designated an honorary staff member. He has continued to teach and gave his final lecture to Jefferson Medical School students training at the Medical Center early this year.

It was the late William D. Murray, then Blue Hen football coach and athletic director, who invited Roy to become UD team physician. He began that assignment with one of Delaware's informal teams during the war years, 1943-1945, and continued through Dave Nelson's tenure and for many years with present coach Tubby Raymond. It was Roy who recommended that the growth of the UD athletic program demanded the full-time services of a sports medicine physician. At the conclusion of his association with the football squads, he received a special service award from the University.

Roy's first wife, Dorothea, a talented artist, died in 1991. Daughter Mary, son-in-law Wayne Anderson and granddaughter Dorothea Anderson are all UD graduates. His present wife of five years, the former Donna Grant, shares Roy's enthusiasm for golf, and their plans after his retirement include a trip to Western Canada, possibly next summer. But Newark, both agree, will continue to be home base.

Reminiscing about his long career, Roy spoke first not of the many patients he has helped, but of the first one he lost.

"It was president Hulihan, a man I greatly admired," he explains, "and if we had known then what we do today, he might have had a much longer life. But he had been operated on for a kidney stone and his surgeon kept him in bed in the hospital. He died when a blood clot developed. Today we would have had the patient up and moving soon after the operation to prevent that problem."

■ The author, when not on the golf course, can be heard each fall as the familiar voice announcing University of Delaware home football games, a job he has done for four decades. Chance is a longtime

A bounty of basils

A Bounty of Basils

The fortunes of basil (Ocimum basilicum) have varied through the centuries. Ancient writers were a mixed group of vilifiers and champions of this modest annual. On the one hand, basil was accused of causing digestive upset and intestinal worms, eye damage, and coma and scorpions in the brain. Conversely other writers of the time praised the virtues of basil in the treatment of nervousness, as well as its contribution of delicious flavor to foods.

Some folk tales hold that basil was an herb of a creature known as the basilisk. This dragon could kill with its gaze and breath. A French saying that translates as "he's sowing the basil," meaning that one is having a fit of cursing, owes to the belief that basil seeds would sprout only if the gardener verbally abusing the seeds as they were planted. With this colorful background, it is a wonder that basil has become one of the most common herbs found in the average cook's kitchen. French and Italian cooking tradition have made the most of the natural affinity of basil for all sorts of foods, especially tomatoes, garlic, and chicken.

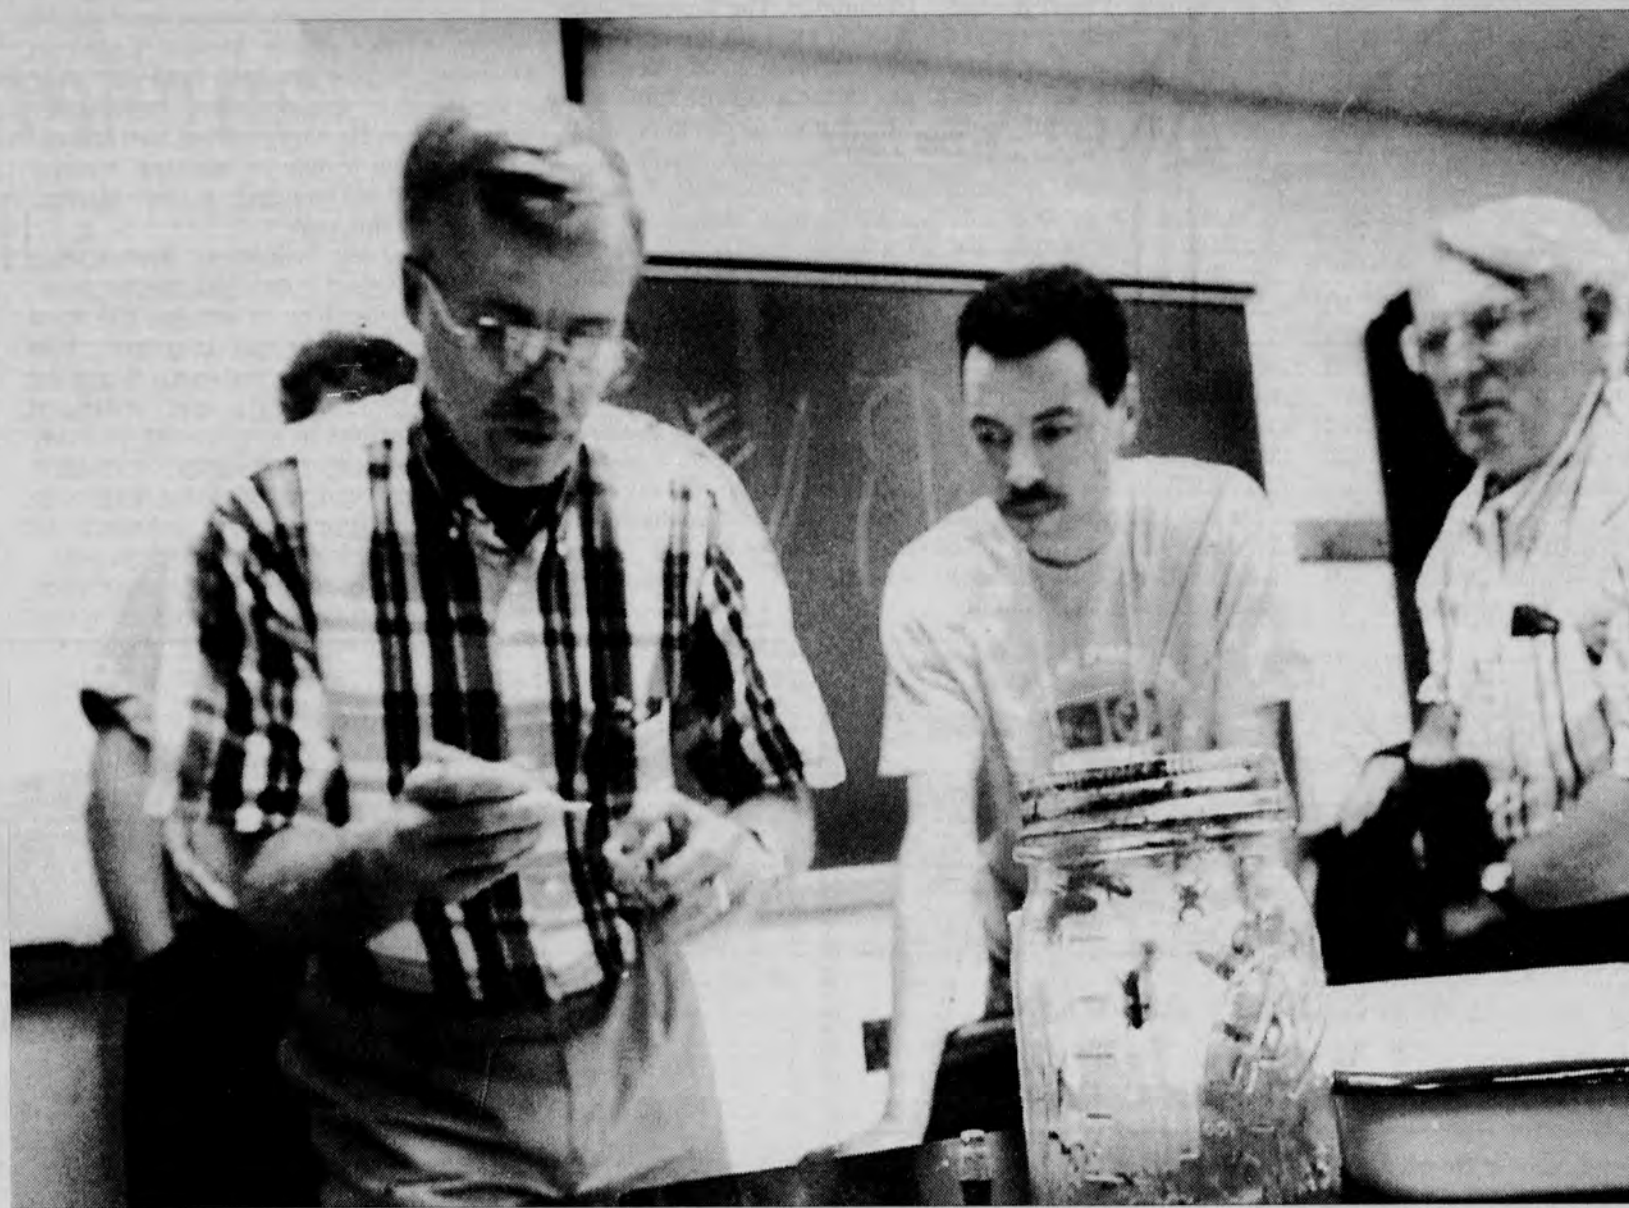

By Jo Mercer

Although the summer is nearing an end, you can still grow enough basil from seed outdoors to enjoy its spicy-sweet flavor and fragrance. Basil is easy to grow and should be one of the herbs included in even the most modest of herb gardens. Although most of the common basils grow to be 18 inches tall, a few varieties stay below 12 inches and are well-suited to container gardening. Basils grow best in full sun but will tolerate some afternoon shade. Carefully prepare the soil with humus, lime to have a pH between 6.5 and 7.0 and fertilizer at the rate of one-half cup 10-10-10 over ten square feet. Sow the seed after danger of frost, or start the plants indoors eight weeks before setting out. Staggered plantings two weeks apart up until about the first of September will give a continuous harvest through the summer. Basils need moist, but not soggy soil in order to grow their best.

Harvest basil leaves by pinching out the stem, not just individual leaves. This will help promote side branching and increased yields. Basil flowers may also be harvested for edible garnish in dishes and herbal vinegars and oils. Since the varieties of basils will cross pollinate, it will be difficult to save seeds that are true-to-type if you or your neighbor grow an assortment. Buy fresh seed for varieties each year to be sure you can grow what you want.

So, what else can you do with this refreshing herb? I like to whip up a double batch of basil pesto to freeze for use as a quick pasta din-

What's all the buzz about bees?

By LAURA SANKOWICH

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

AS A PART OF THIS YEAR'S conference for the Eastern Apicultural Society, both novice and experienced beekeepers could get answers about the nectar-gathering insects with the painful sting.

The one-week session hosted this summer by the University of Delaware gave aspiring beekeepers from as far away as Panama and Uruguay insight into the world of bees.

"Everyone comes from different (places), and we can all learn a little from each other," said Nancy Troup, a master beekeeper from Maryland and instructor for the course.

"You don't just meet people that keep bees — we're like a fraternity of people that share the bond of bees."

The two-and-a-half-day course for beginners included a pamphlet of information to supplement lectures on beekeeping, honey-gathering, and bee-raising as well as aspects of basic biology.

According to Dewey Caron, one of the program's coordinators, a beekeeping conference is held every year but the last time the program was offered at the University of Delaware was 11 years ago.

An average number of participants for the one-week conference is between 400 and 600 people, Caron said that over 450 people were expected this year and approximately 100 would participate in the short courses.

Approximately 35 people enrolled in the level one course, according to Caron. The course instructed aspiring beekeepers on "what bees are," including their biology, the basics of maintaining a colony, and beekeeping.

"The honey bee is not domesticated," said Caron, "so people need to know how to handle them properly."

Dewey said that the course is important for beekeepers who are just starting out because they learn how to keep bees for the first few seasons and also how to make a profit from them.

However, Dewey said that only about five percent of all beekeepers are in it for commerce. The other 95 percent are hobbyists like New Jersey resident Cathie Skove.

Skove began beekeeping as a hobbyist and is now active on a state and local level. "When I started beekeeping, I had two hives," said Skove who now owns and maintains 13 hives containing over 50,000 bees each. Skove said when she bought the bee hives she didn't know anything about beekeeping.

"I have taken courses at Rutgers," said Skove, "but this course is more advanced and it goes into more detail for people that are more than just hobbyists," Skove said.

"You learn the technical aspects of it, such as pollination and how to set up a business."

Skove hoped to learn new ideas in beekeeping from other members of the conference. "I sell honey and also beeswax ornaments, such as little rabbits and ducks," she explained.

Skove said the sales of her bee-generated products helped to defray the costs of beekeeping, and she hoped to "break even" on her investment even if she doesn't make a profit.

"People start bees for lots of reasons other than honey or pollination," Dewey said. "Some people (just) do it as a hobby and find bee keeping enjoyable. They like natural things and may keep them to help their garden along."

Dewey said often the intent of those who sell honey for a profit is merely to pay back their initial investment.

The beginners course cost $65, which did not include on-campus housing or meals that are available during the class. Also featured in the class were hands-on demonstrations of beekeeping procedures and how to extract honey.

The conference also featured several workshops, guest speakers and honey bee demonstrations as well as competitions for honey cookery, mead, arts and crafts, beeswax, and the best labor-saving devices in honey gathering.

Russian Ballet at Grand Opera House

DANCE IS CERTAINLY a very important part of the performing arts. It is, indeed, one of the oldest arts of all. There is some very good news for those who enjoy dance in our area this season and I would begin today with that news.

The Russian Ballet Theater of Delaware will be making its permanent home at Delaware's Center for the Performing Arts, The Grand Opera House! It has certainly appeared at the Grand in previous seasons, but its home had remained The Playhouse. Now the Russian Ballet Theater of Delaware takes its place to follow the Delaware Symphony Orchestra and Opera Delaware to the Grand.

I will be sharing more news about RBT and the season they have planned but today my topic is the other dance programs to be offered us at the Grand during the 1997-98 season.

Ken Wesler and his colleagues at our Center for the Performing Arts continue to bring us the best local, national and international companies in all branches of the arts.

There will be four offerings and the first will be on Tuesday, January 27 at 8 p.m. It is, in my opinion, the best visiting company they will offer us at 818 Market Street this season, Ballet du Capitole de Toulouse. This is one of France's greatest ballet companies. It makes its home at and draws its name from the more than four centuries old

THE ARTS

By PHIL TOMAN

Theatre du Capitole de Toulouse. That theater itself is an artistic history lesson, but not for us right now.

The Georgian State Dance Company will be on the boards of the Grand Tuesday, February 10 at 8 p.m. Georgia is one of more interesting of the Russian Republics in many ways and music is one of them. This company will present Georgian ballads, poems, songs and dances is their very colorful folk costumes. The Grand's Roy Wilbur tells me they will do everything from demonstrating chivalry to celebrating a wedding feast.

The very new and very modern Alvin Ailey Repertory Ensemble will hold forth Sunday, March 15, at 7 p.m. This group is vitality in dance. The pump life into the American dance scene and will dazzle us that evening. The Ailey group is home to some of our nation's "cutting edge" choreographers who can carry audiences to electrifying new heights of marvel.

Ole! On Wednesday, March 18 at 8 p.m., the Jose Greco II Flamenco Dance Company will be stomping the stage with great rhythms. For almost 50 years the name Jose Greco has been synonymous with everything flamenco. Now the mantle has passed to his son and the younger Greco is carrying on the great tradition.

As I mentioned earlier, this is all in addition to the offerings of our own Russian Ballet Theater of Delaware to be staged at the Grand Opera House.

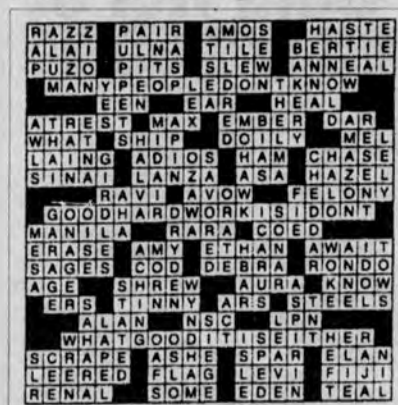

Turning once again to the first offering, Ballet du Capitole de Toulouse will offer us a program choreographed by George Balanchine, late of the New York Ballet. Works will include Serge Prokofiev's "Prodigal Son," Felix Mendelssohn's "Scotch" Symphony (No. 3 in A Minor-Major,) Igor Stravinsky's "Rubies" and Alexander Glazunov's "Raymonda Variations." There is certainly something in that program for anyone and everyone who likes any form of ballet.

The company was formed by the centuries old theater whose name it bears in the 1800s. Its purpose was the support the operas produced there and provide the divertissements the French so love in their opera performances. While it certainly has, and still does, fulfill its original mission, its reputation of dynamism, precision and quality have placed it in a class with the country's finest companies.

The company has earned praise on both sides of the Atlantic for "Swan Lake," "Romeo et Juliet," "Don Quixote," "Giselle," "Coppelia," "Petrushka," "La Sylphide," "Sleeping Beauty" and many others. Some of the great choreographers and directors of the ballet world have worked with them. It will be an evening not to be missed.

For individual tickets or some great deals on combinations of the dance programs offered this season, please contact the Grand Opera House. You may stop by the Grand box office at 818 The Market Street Mall, or reach them by phone at 302-652-5577 or 1-800-37 GRAND; on the World Wide Web at <http://ameristar.net/grand/> or E-mail at GRANDOPERA@AOL.COM.

ner. My favorite pesto recipe comes from Joy of Cooking. You can also enliven a frozen or carry-out pizza with a sprinkling of chopped basil leaves.

But if you really want to wow some special guests with a refreshing appetizer on one of the remaining hot days, try this unusual but captivating TOMATO-BASIL SORBET.

To make 1 quart, combine 1-1/4 cups basil syrup (See below), 2-1/2 cups fresh tomato puree, 1 tablespoon tomato paste, 1/4 cup red pepper vodka (see below) and 1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice.

Freeze in an ice cream machine or in the freezing compartment of your refrigerator. If you use the freezer, stir the frozen sorbet to break up the ice crystals and refreeze. Stir again, if desired, refreezing each time, to produce a smoother sorbet.

Serve in small bowls with a sprig of basil.

BASIL SYRUP

Boil together 2 cups sugar, 1/4 cup chopped fresh basil and 5 cups water. Immediately reduce heat to simmer for 5 minutes.

Cover and refrigerate the syrup overnight, then strain out and discard the remaining solids.

A danced-crazed old Elk Enjoyed Lawrence Welk,
And giddily pranced to his band.
He loved fox-trot and waltz
And accompanying schmaltz.
He had wunnerful times: simply grand!

An embattled store Mouse
Was en route to poorhouse.
He had outspent his fundings for cheese.
Feeling weirdly entrapped,
And financially strapped,
Mouse begged for some honey from bees.

Why was a pirate jailed for taking an infant's footwear?
He was found with bootee.

When did a piano-loving elephant giggle?
When they tickled his ivories.

The lessons of life need to be both nurtured and filtered for those qualities that endure.

A carnation in one's lapel may not signify the joy and tranquility of its wearer.

■ Author's note: Lunacies like these have been inflicted on my poor wife, children and colleagues for years. They have been greeted by both groans and guffaws — the latter, perhaps, to pacify the punster and offset a further barrage. To its victims, punning can be seen as a disease, since any laughter, however sparse, can be contagious. I hope Newark Post readers will tackle this word-play nonsense with zest, thereby assuring them Eternal Joy and a letter from Ed McMahon.

NEWARK POST ♦ OBITUARIES

■ Local obituaries are printed free of charge as space permits. Information usually is supplied to the paper by funeral directors. However, for more information, contact Julia R. Sampson, who compiles this column. Call her weekdays at 737-0724 or fax 737-9019.

Ann Bryant Geiger, credit representative

Former Newark resident Ann Bryant Geiger died Thursday, Aug. 7 of cancer at her sister's home in Middletown.

Mrs. Geiger, 59, was a credit representative with F. Schumacher and Co. in Newark for seven years. She retired in 1996 and moved to Florida shortly after. Her first husband, Ronald J. Bryant, died in 1982. Her second, Charles Geiger, died in 1995.

She is survived by her son, John R. of Newark; daughters, Donna Cavanaugh of Sarasota, Fla., Kim A. Morton of Davie, Fla.; brothers, Charles and Joseph Crossan, both of Wilmington; sister, Veronica Woerner and Eleanor Baer, both of Bear, Jacqueline Cain of Middletown, Geraldine Sharrock and Joan Nagowski, both of New Castle; and six grandchildren.

A memorial service was held Aug. 12 at Doherty Funeral Home, Pike Creek. Burial was in Gracelawn Memorial Park, New Castle.

In lieu of flowers the family suggests contributions to Delaware Hospice of Dover.

Bill Earl Vaughn, pressman

Bear resident Bill Earl Vaughn died Saturday, Aug. 9 of emphysema at home.

Mr. Vaughn, 67, was a trade pressman with The News Journal in Wilmington for eight years. He retired in 1984. Earlier he worked as a pressman for several other newspapers, including the Miami Herald, the Nashville Tennessean, the Virginia Pilot and the Washington Post. He served in the Navy in Guam. Mr. Vaughn was a member of Cornerstone United Methodist Church in Bear.

He is survived by his wife of 47 years, Betty Sue; sons, Thomas of Middletown and W. Broox of Elkton, Md.; daughters, Sue Ellen Rolka of Hedgesville, W.Va., and Hope E. Ward of Newark; brothers, James M. of Kill Devil Hills, N.C., and Roland D. of Hialeah, Fla.; and 10 grandchildren.

A service was held Aug. 13 at Cornerstone United Methodist Church, Bear. Burial was in Delaware Veterans Memorial Cemetery, Summit.

The family suggests contributions to Cornerstone United Methodist Church or the American Lung Association of Delaware, 1021 Gilpin Ave., Wilmington 19806.

Jeffrey M. 'Turtle' Miller, HVAC mechanic

Newark resident Jeffrey M. 'Turtle' Miller died Friday, Aug. 8 in Christiana Hospital of injuries sustained in an automobile accident, New Castle city police said.

Mr. Miller, 38, was an air-conditioning and heating mechanic for several years. He served in the Army.

He is survived by his son, Jeff, and daughters, Ryan Miller and Angela Miller, all of Wilmington; brother, Clifford H. Jr. of Bear; and sisters, Margaret M. Smith of Townsend and June V.M. Stapleton of Puyallup, Wash.

A service was held Aug. 14 at Beeson Memorial Services, Bear. Burial was in Delaware Veterans Memorial Cemetery, Summit.

Dorothy Lang, wildlife woodcarver

Newark resident Dorothy Fishpaw Lang died Thursday, Aug. 7 of breast cancer in Christiana Hospital.

Mrs. Lang, 70, was a wildlife woodcarver who exhibited throughout the region. She had studied under several woodcarvers, including Ernie Muellmatt, Rosalyn Daisey, Jan Calvert and William Veasey, her family said. She received the 1987 Volunteer of the Year plaque from Tri-State Bird Rescue and Research of Newark. While living in her native Baltimore, Mrs. Lang served on the board of the Baltimore District Federation of Women's Clubs and the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs and was a charter member of the Maryland State Parliamentary Association. After moving to Delaware in 1963, she served on the Delaware State Associations of Parliamentarians, and was a member of the Upper Eastern Shore Parliamentary Unit, Elkton, Md., and the Women's Club of Newark. She had served on the board of the Delaware Federation of Women's Clubs. She taught classes and individuals in correct parliamentary procedure at various

NEWARK POST ♦ PEOPLE NEWS

Maier attends Emerging Leaders program

Representative Pamela S. Maier (R-Drummond Hill) was among 50 people selected to attend the recent Program for Emerging Political Leaders at the University of Virginia Darden Graduate School of Business Administration.

The conference, sponsored by the Darden Graduate School, focused on participants' leadership potential in public service, as well as the importance of values and ethics in government. A variety of presentations from leading political leaders were combined with cutting-edge leadership concepts from the School's faculty.

State legislators who have recently begun their careers in public service and have demonstrated the skills needed to attain positions of greater political responsibility were selected to participate in the program.

DeIDOT improves roadside appearance

DeIDOT hopes to make getting stuck in traffic a more enjoyable experience.

In conjunction with the Delaware Center for Horticulture, the department is taking a new approach to care of roadside vegetation.

Called Naturalistic Roadside Planting, the new program aims to improve the appearance of right-of-way, while reducing long-term maintenance. The I-95 corridor, between Delaware and Lancaster Avenues in Wilmington, will serve as a pilot site.

Plans call for the establishment of desirable native plants, in natural groupings, as a hardy and largely self-managing landscape.

Phase one of the two-part program will involve the removal of dominant invasive plant species and dead trees; initiation of a scheduled trash removal program; and the establishment of a meadow grass cover. Naturally spaced groupings of desirable trees will remain.

Further removal of overcrowded, or unhealthy plants, and supplemental plantings are planned for the second phase. A committee of horticulture professionals is in place to assist DeIDOT in identifying the appropriate planting scheme. The development and implementation process is expected to be long-term.

Chemical treatment for eradication was performed in March on select populations of undesirable plants. DeIDOT's contractors will be on site cutting and chipping dead plant material within the next week.

Areas that are exposed as a result of this work will be reseeded with native grasses.

UD's a good buy according to Money

The University of Delaware ranks 64th in Money magazine's eighth annual ranking of top values in four-year undergraduate schools in America.

UD also was ranked 14th out of the 25 best buys in the Mid-Atlantic area.

Featured in the magazine's September issue, the ranking of 150 schools is based on an analysis of cost and academic quality at more than 1,100 colleges.

The magazine used 16 measures of educational quality, including entrance exam results, faculty resources and deployment, library resources, instructional and student services budgets, four-, five- and six-year graduation rates and default ratios on graduates' student loans. These data were then compared to tuition and fees to arrive at a value rating.

The 47-page college guide calls the top 100 schools "the elite values in college education today."

Non-traditional students get college help at Cecil

Cecil Community College in Northeast, Md., is currently offering innovative programs for senior citizens, adults and high school students.

Instead of the customary discount usually offered to senior citizens, tuition fees will be completed waived for classes in which seats are available during the fall semester. Course fees are assessed when applicable, however.

"Cecil Community College offers a full range of interesting and challenging classes that appeal to the senior community," said Dr. Dee McNeely-Greene, associate dean of student services and learning resources.

Classes may be taken for credit or audited. Registration for senior citizens will be on Sept. 2 from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The fall semester begins Sept. 3.

Adults who lack time during the week can attend college classes on Friday nights and Saturdays beginning Sept. 5.

Additionally, adults can get college credits for life and business experiences through the Assessment of Prior Learning program. Credits are applied to certificate or degree programs offered at CCC.

Finally, a 50 percent tuition reduction is available for qualifying juniors and seniors who want to earn college credits while still in high school.

For more information on classes offered or other details, call the college at 410-287-1000.

Area football teams prep for season

Glasgow hopes for fast start to season

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

IN HIGH SCHOOL football optimism always seems to run high on the preseason practice fields. This year there seems to be good reason for that feeling at Glasgow High.

The Dragons return seven offensive starters from last year's team including All-Conference senior running back John Adams, who rushed for nearly 1,500 yards last season. Most of those returnees come at the skilled positions, including the quarterback and receivers.

"We really have a good nucleus back," said Glasgow coach Dave Scott, who is beginning his 10th year as the head of the Dragons' football program. "We have some legitimate players — gifted enough to play at the next level. They've also been part of the program for the past three years and really know what we're doing."

In addition to Adams in the backfield, Glasgow returns senior quarterback Ike Wilson, who started last year before getting injured.

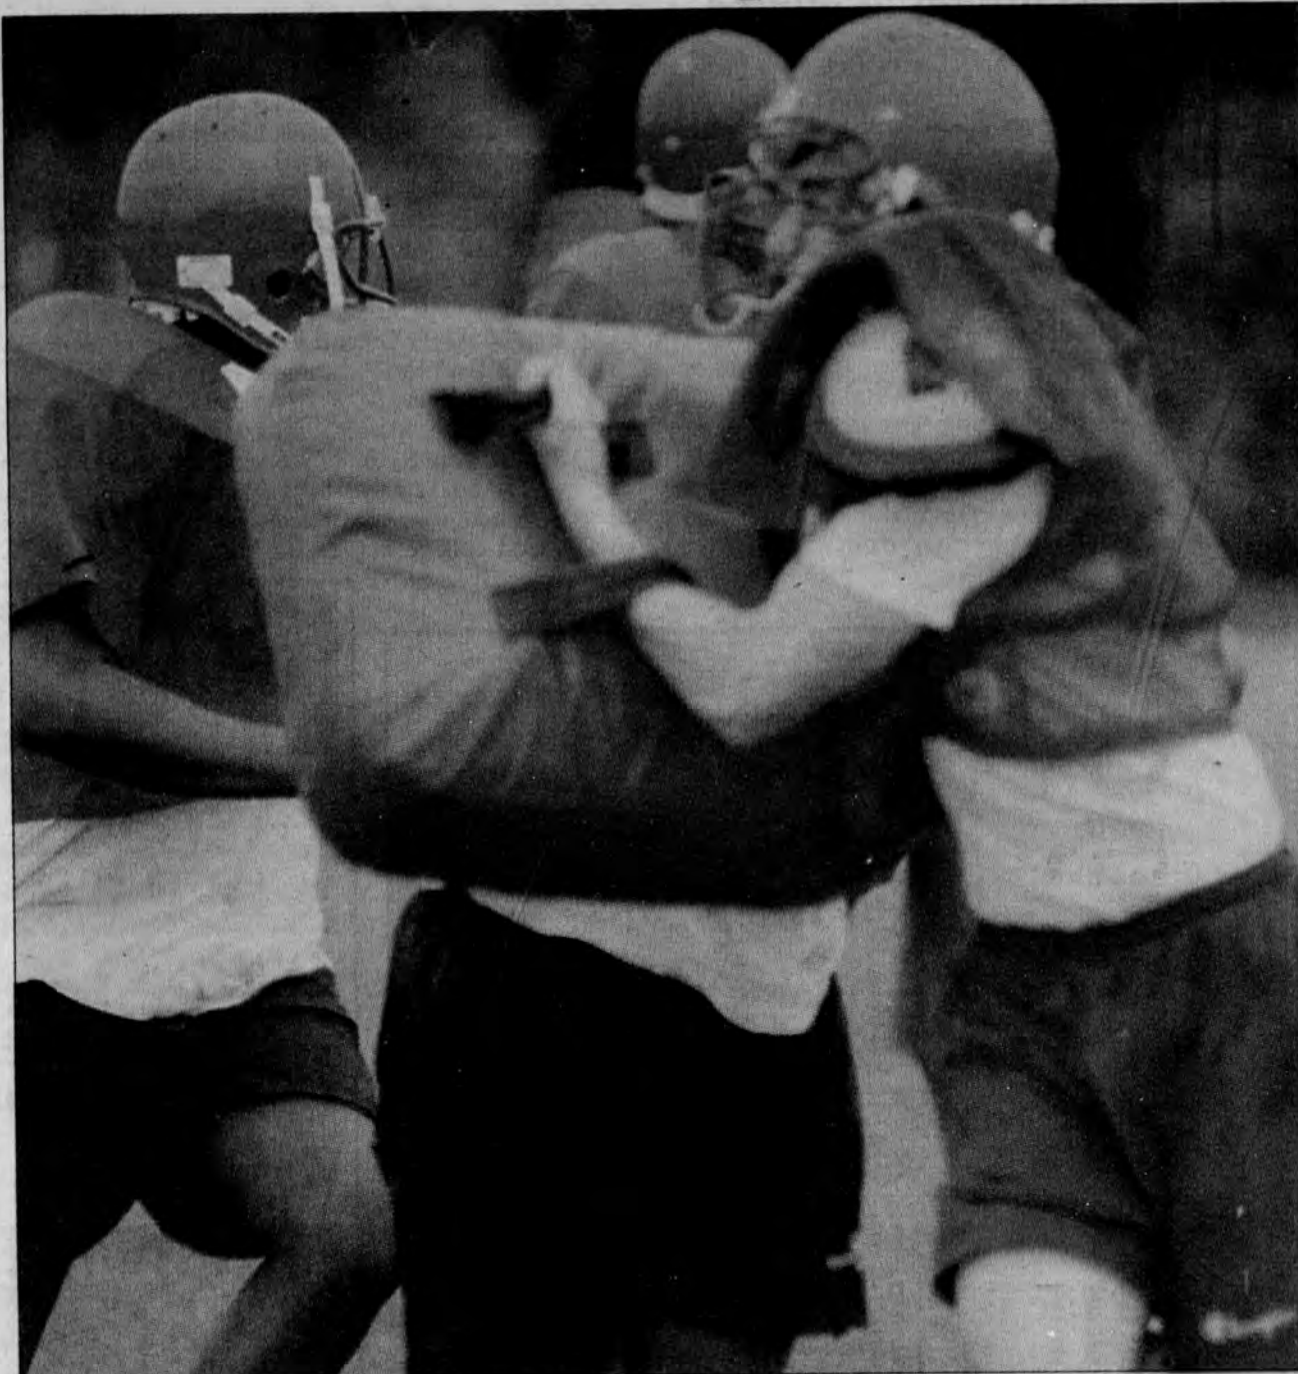

"He's been playing for three years, but the problem is he's suffered a lot of injuries," Scott said. "But he can be a very good player for us."

The fullback will be senior Sharvin Swain with junior Eddie Thompson also seeing some time in the backfield.

Senior Brian Miller, who has won two state sprint titles in track, returns as the split end. Junior Joe Swift adds even more speed to the Glasgow offense.

"He ran a 4.28 40 [yard dash]," said Scott. "We'll try to get him the ball in various ways at tailback or spread end."

Up front the Dragons will be anchored by senior Bobby Bryant — a 6-3, 280 pound guard who has attracted a lot of attention from Division I colleges.

Sophomore John DiStefano and junior John Potts will vie for the center position while seniors Eddie Ryan, Eric Poole and Sean Sampson will battle for the other guard slot.

Senior Brian Timpson and junior Rashami Hammock will be the tackles.

Senior Lee Geissler returns at tight end.

The defense will have a lot of the same faces as the offense.

The line will consist of Bryant and Isaac Allen at defensive ends with Timpson and DiStefano at the tackle positions. Junior Lee Levering and senior Maurice Owens could also see time in the interior of the defensive line.

Swain and Geissler return as the inside linebackers with juniors Jeff Saunders and Stewart Douglass manning the outside positions. Junior Chad Whitehead and sophomore Chris Reid could also contribute inside.

The secondary will consist of Thompson, Miller and Swift.

The Dragons will also have a strong kicking game with senior Kevin Krevchuck handling the punting and placekicking chores.

"He could be one of our most recruited players," Scott said. "He averaged 41 yards per punt last year and is can consistently make kicks from 40 yards and in."

Glasgow faces a difficult schedule that includes Caesar Rodney, Middletown and Dover as its non-league games. The Dragons also face an always tough Flight A slate.

Newark eyes another title shot

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

NEWARK HIGH has been to the state championship game in each of the past two seasons only to be beaten by William Penn each time. This may be the year the Yellowjackets get over the hump.

Newark returns just about everybody from what was arguably the state's best backfield a season ago. Juniors Richie Parson and Ty Broomer will team up with senior Corey Wallace to handle the bulk of the running game.

"We ran the ball very successfully last season," said Newark coach Butch Simpson. "And we have three of those four backs back."

Senior Bobby Johnson will handle the quarterback duties.

Johnson started seven games last year and the Jackets compiled a 6-1 record during the span.

"Bobby is a poised player," said Simpson. "He runs very well, has good speed and can throw the ball."

Junior Charlie Porter will back-up Johnson this season.

Seniors Radee Prince and Ron Rogers and juniors Justin Caserta, Brandon McClennon and Toby Guinn add quality depth to an already-strong corps of running backs.

"We have a lot of backs and really they're all interchangeable as far as playing each of the positions," Simpson said.

If the need should arise, Johnson not only has some good people to hand the ball off to but he will also have some fine targets to throw to.

'Rounding up' just in time for fall

BEFORE THE FALL SPORTS season even starts, the Christina School District athletic teams received one of the biggest windfalls they could've ever hoped for.

Yes, the policy of rounding up has come just in time for the school year and, thus, just in time for the three high schools to take advantage on the athletic fields.

The first advantage comes in the pure number of people now eligible to play. Goodness, if you're even close to the district's cutoff point of a 1.75 grade-point-average, you're in.

Soccer and field hockey coaches reportedly had to order new supplies because of the extra student-athletes who showed up at last week's opening practices.

Football coaches were beaming at the prospect of the big numbers.

"We're not sure, but we may be able to go two-platoon at both the varsity and the jayvee levels," said one enthusiastic coach. "We can't quite yet on the freshman team, but we anticipate when school begins we'll get more ninth-graders out."

And while the extra bodies are a huge help, there is no bigger advantage to being able to round up than when it comes to the final score itself.

Coaches, players and fans alike are dreaming of the possibilities.

Trailing 29-21 late in the fourth quarter against nemesis William Penn, Newark needs a touchdown and the two-point conversion to tie.

Newark returns strong nucleus for new coach

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Newark High's volleyball team will have a new coach to help guide some familiar faces as the start of the 1997 season approaches.

Coach Jennifer Mayer will have five seniors and several other players with varsity experience aiming to spike the competition.

"We're trying to break in and train our new setter, and that's going to be the key in making it work," Mayer said when asked to assess her team's outlook.

"There's a real strong corps of returning seniors who should do very well.

Andrea Clarke, Meredith McIntosh, Megan Hoosty, Paige Cunningham, and Mikeal Gaines are the returning seniors. Clarke and McIntosh were all-state selections last season.

Defense could spark success at Christiana

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Winning seasons have become a habit at Christiana High and this year should be no exception.

A big key to the Vikings winning this year will be a strong defense, which returns seven starters from last year's 6-4 team.

"This defense has a shot of really being something special," said coach Bill Muehleisen, who begins his ninth year at Christiana. "Our secondary is young but it has a good deal of experience."

Leading the defense this year will be senior outside linebacker McDonald Roberts.

"He's our one legitimate I-A prospect," Muehleisen said of his senior. "He's a good player, a good leader and a good student. He'll go somewhere next year."

Other senior returnees on defense include Andrew Ransone, defensive end Brian Haman, defensive tackle Travis King and defensive end Sheldon Marchman. Defensive backs Dennis Scott (junior) and Virgil Rush (sophomore) also are back.

Offensively the Vikings will be led by senior running back Calvin Carr — a first team All-Flight A selection last year. Senior offensive guard Mike Hollingsworth is back to help anchor the offensive line while senior Ronnie Nickle and Brian Salerni return as split ends.

Senior quarterback Jimmy Murphy gets his chance to guide the offense this year.

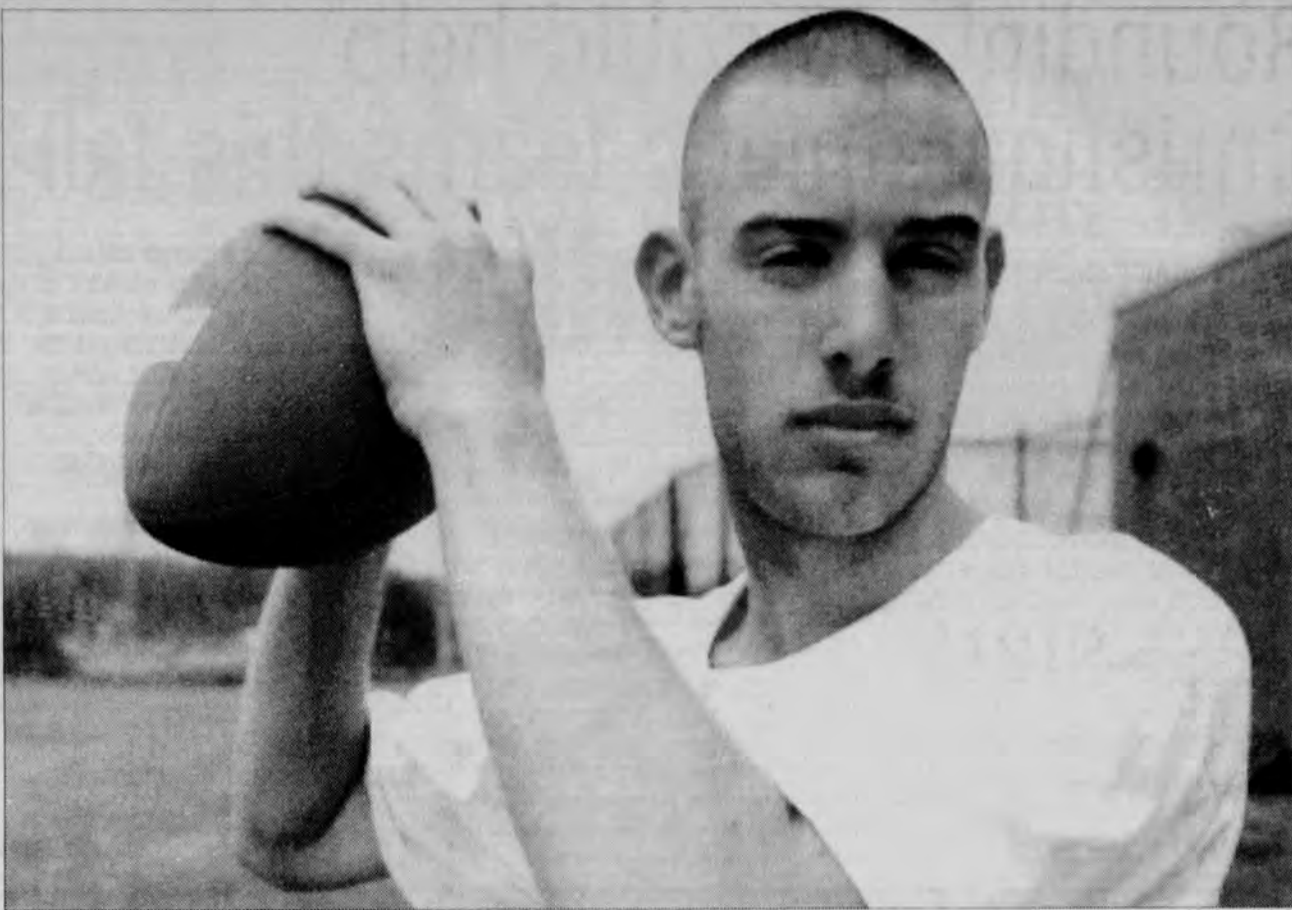

"He's got a great arm but he can run as well," Muehleisen said. "He can also throw on the run and that will enable us to do some different things."

"Jimmy could prove to be one of the most exciting quarterbacks we've ever had. A lot of that, though, will be determined by our offensive line."

"Our line will be dominated by seniors who have been in the program," said Muehleisen said.

Joining Carr and Murphy in the backfield will be fullback David Anderson and running back Lincoln Caldwell. Senior Kris Vento will move from outside linebacker to tight end.

"We think that will be a move

Christiana senior Jimmy Murphy will start at quarterback for the Vikings this season. Christiana coach Bill Muehleisen said Murphy could be one of the most exciting quarterbacks the school has had.

that will really help us," Muehleisen said.

Muehleisen, different than most schools, will try and stay with a two-platoon (players just playing offense or defense but not both) system this fall.

"We're committed to it," he said. "That's how we've practiced so far."

The Vikings will again face a difficult schedule with the season's first four games being against St.

Mark's, Seaford, Dover and Newark. Flight A favorite William Penn is just two weeks after the Newark game.

"It doesn't change," Muehleisen said of Flight A which he has long said is one of the toughest high school football conferences in the region. "William Penn will be the number one team in the state and Newark will also be very good."

"Plus we play St. Mark's, Seaford and Dover. I don't think anyone plays a tougher schedule."

Despite the tough schedule, Christiana should be very competitive.

"Well, we have a chance," Muehleisen said. "But we don't know yet."

"We do have a very good senior class. They've worked real hard, they get along great and we think they provide great leadership."

very tough," Scott said. "Newark and William Penn should be good again."

Nevertheless, Scott feels that his team has worked hard and will be very competitive.

"We have that good nucleus of seniors," he said. "They've worked hard in the weight room and I think we'll really get the effort from them. This is their last chance."

Rounding up could help Christina athletic teams this fall the line of scrimmage ... pops to the outside ... just one man to beat ... there he goes! Richie Parson is off to the races - a 67-yard touchdown run. The score cuts the lead to 29-27 with under a minute to play in the game!

► POST GAME, from 18

What's this - Newark is sending its kicker on to the field. The Yellowjackets are not going for the two-point conversion!

The kick is up and good and the Jackets still trail 29-28. I can't believe it!

Yes, Bob but don't forget the new Christina rounding up rule. If Newark can just hold on for the last 45 seconds, its score will be rounded up to 30 giving the Jackets a huge win.

Oh, I forgot about that Larry. You're right! What a huge break. Newark can finally get by its nemesis!

And don't forget all those sports that use point totals or an index to determine who gets in the post-season tournament - and the seeds of that tournament.

Another possibility, not yet implemented but probably right on the horizon, is the rounding down scenario.

Just think of the player that turns 19 years old after July 1. That person, by rounding down his or her age to 18, will be eligible to play. And, of course, if we go to 19 why stop there. What about 20-year olds?

Can you imagine how good a team could be if it could field 20-year olds that only have to get a few D's on their report cards?

Yes it should be a banner year for the athletic teams within the Christina School District.

The only problem will be when they play each other. I guess when that occurs, they'll have to revert back to the old-fashioned way of legitimate rules and scores to determine the winner.

But, always remember, if a team is not satisfied with that real result, it can always appeal to the district office.

Newark looks for line

► NEWARK, from 18

Frank Kurz and Phil Rooney may also contribute.

The one question mark on offense is a familiar one to Simpson - the offensive line.

"Each of the last two years we've had to start a season by building an offensively line basically from scratch," Simpson said. "We returned just one starter each of those years."

This year the situation is the same.

The only returning starter is junior guard Danny Strengari (6-1, 195). However, there is a group of seniors - Tighe Exelby (5-10, 220), Jim Greso (6-0, 212), Chad McCracken (5-10, 263) and Josh Rutherford (5-10, 268) - that will compete for the other positions. Also in the offensive line mix will be juniors Todd Hobson (6-0, 215) and Corey Scott (6-3, 313), sophomores Karlo Britt (6-3, 245), Kwame Harris (6-6, 300) and Micah German (6-4, 214) and freshman Orien Harris (6-2, 245). The Harris' are brothers and the brother of All-State lineman Duevorn Harris, who is now playing at Colgate.

"We have a lot of young players and some will play," Simpson said. "We really are trying to emphasize size this year. You really have to play against the people we play against. We're fortunate enough to have some big bodies of our own."

The defense will have many of the same faces as the offense.

Wallace, Strengari, Exelby, Rogers and Prince are linebackers as is Delcastle transfer Caserta.

"We got out the tape and found out that he had 13 tackles, a fumble recovery and a sack last year against us," Simpson said of Caserta.

Adams will line up as defensive end. Rutherford and McCracken will play on the line while Parson and Johnson will be in the secondary.

Other seniors expected to contribute on the defensive side are defensive end Jesse Brown, defensive backs Donnie Johnson, Antwan Bell and Ray Johnson and linebacker Josh Scheib.

Juniors that could play will be Guinn at linebacker, Anthony Latsgo at defensive end, Rooney at defensive end, McClenon at defensive back. The Harris brothers could also see time along the defensive line.

Ray Johnson and Porter are competing for the punting job while Rob Brennan is expected to handle the placekicking chores.

While many coaches claim to have a very difficult schedule, Newark's slate is hard to beat.

The Yellowjackets' first five games of the season are against Salesianum, Caesar Rodney, St. Mark's, Christiana and William Penn.

"We'll find out early," said Simpson about how good his team will be. "I always feel terribly rushed during preseason anyway but this is really that way. We are fortunate that we have a week off in between our first and second games."

Clearly, Newark's obstacle remains William Penn, the two-time defending state champs. The Colonials return a host of players from last year's team.

"Let's put it this way," Simpson said. "We've lost five games over the last two years and four of them have been against William Penn. How do you think I feel about William Penn?"

"Really, though, I have tremendous respect for William Penn and what they do. They run a great program and do things the way they should be done. They get the results they deserve."

For fans who want to make early arrangements, the scheduled meeting between these two heavyweights will be Oct. 11 at 7 p.m. at Newark.

That may only be the first time those two teams play this year.

Experience key to Glasgow volleyball success this season

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

First-year coach Robin Dunlap inherits a Glasgow volleyball team that returns nearly everyone from last year. Now he hopes to fine tune it into one of the state's best.

"We have a very good group back," said Dunlap of a team that finished third in Flight A last season and qualified for the state tournament. "We just have to keep working hard to get ready for the season."

Heading the list of returnees that will play the front line are seniors Jill Biggs, Erin Anderson and Kristin Nau. All-Conference and all-state setter Natalie Dunlap, the coach's daughter, also returns.

Seniors Jamie Sassaman and Cheshia Harding return in the back row. Senior Brandi Redrow will be the off-side hitter.

Sophomore Lashanda Simpson and junior Candice Bowman will also contribute to the front line while sophomores Jessica Marley and Terry Mangini could also see some time in the back row.

Although he's a first-year coach, Dunlap has had the opportunity to coach some of the team's players when they were younger and played in CYO.

"It was kind of tough in that I only found out that I was going to get the job a couple of weeks ago," he said. "So I haven't had a tremendous time to prepare."

"But we hope to improve the way we pass and run a quicker offense," Dunlap said. "We'll look to have more middle hits."

Dunlap also noted that five players played on a winter volleyball team should be a big help.

"It's not like some other teams where the whole team plays in the winter," he said. "But in the past we've only had one so this was a big improvement."

With all the returning players and the experience gained in the winter, Dunlap thinks his team could be among the top four in the state.

"St. Mark's and Newark and Archmere should be very good," he said. "Hopefully we can be up there too. But, really, anybody can beat anybody and we'll have to keep working hard."

"The good thing with this team is that we are pretty good now but we also have a good chance to improve as the season goes on."

Glasgow opens its season Sept. 6 in the Alexis I. DuPont Tournament.

Christiana hopes for another run at state v-ball crown

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

DESPITE THE LOSS of several key players to graduation, Christiana High's volleyball team, which finished second in last year's state tournament, appears stocked with enough talent to make another run at the title.

Coach Kim Huggins will be able to draw on the experience of 10 seniors to try to match last year's 16-5 season.

"Sometimes you can call it a strength and sometimes it might not be a strength in that we have 10 seniors," said Huggins, who is starting her fifth season as coach.

"You can't ask for more experience in that kind of a squad, but in the same respect, when only six people can play, keeping the team together is probably going to be my biggest challenge. I have great hitters. I have a great setter. I've got a great all-around team. If someone can't do something, there is someone who can to step right up to do it."

"When you have seniors on the bench, keeping them happy is going to be real difficult for me."

Returning starters include seniors Jen Pruitt, who has started since her freshman year and is the setter and co-captain; Ashley Moe, co-captain and outside hitter; Stacey Lumb, outside hitter; and Tawanda Thomas, middle hitter.

Also returning with varsity experience are seniors Cody Allen, middle hitter; Andrea Palady, outside and middle hitter and defensive specialist; Kelli Thomas, a defensive specialist; Jennie Furman, outside hitter; Shevonne Wells, outside hitter and a defensive specialist, and Diana Bradley, a transfer from New Castle Baptist.

Huggins said sophomore Sara Beatty, an outside hitter, may also either start or get plenty of playing time.

"They have the potential to go as far as they want," Huggins said of her team's prospects.

"The sky is the limit with this group. It's going to be a matter of whether they can stick together as a team for three more months, because a lot of them played together in the winter."

Team bonding this year is probably going to be the toughest part of our game."

Jon Sley and Brienne Flagg return as Huggins' assistant coaches.

Mayer new coach at Newark

► V-BALL, from 20

Rossetti will help fill a variety of roles, while Mayer plans to use Christina Ferrara, junior Whitney Anderson, a transfer from Sanford School, and junior Courtney Butterworth mainly in the front row.

Mayer said the most important position on a volleyball team is the setter, thus putting some pressure on Burchfield and Klatzkin.

"They're the quarterback."

They've got to run the floor," Mayer said. "It's nice to have a very experienced setter because they're used to running the court and don't have to compete with personalities. But they're working on it. They've come a long way."

"I'm looking for a lot of leadership from our seniors to make their job easier, but (setters) need to run the court."

Mayer, who is assisted by Brenda Kibler and Lisa Phipps, came to Newark to teach and find a coaching job last year after seven years at Lake Forest. This past winter, she coached for First State Volleyball Club, and her team was comprised mainly of players from Christiana.

"It's going to be fun playing against them," Mayer said with a laugh.

Computer company to build new office in Christiana

COMPUTER Sciences Corporation (NYSE:CSC) has entered into a long-term lease agreement with The Commonwealth Group to construct a new office facility in Christiana.

The facility, to be completed in June 1998, will support local employees who have joined CSC following the award last May of a contract calling for CSC to manage DuPont's global information systems and technology infrastructure, as well as selected applications and software services.

The 150,000-square-foot facility will be built on a 13-acre wooded site adjacent to I-95 known as Christiana Corporate Center. The site is owned by The Commonwealth Group, a full-service commercial real estate firm based in New Castle, which will develop and lease the facility to CSC. The building will be constructed by InSite, a construction firm based in New Castle.

"Information technology is one of the fastest-growing industries in the U.S., and Delaware is proving to be the location of choice for companies in the information technology business," said Governor Thomas R. Carper.

"Through its partnership with DuPont and new site in Christiana, CSC joins a growing list of I/T firms providing quality jobs in Delaware. I welcome the employees of CSC to their new location and wish the company continued success in the upcoming years."

Added Tom Williams, president of the CSC business unit that supports DuPont, "CSC is clearly putting a strong stake in the ground as a local employer, and we expect the entire state to benefit from our aggressive growth plans. We are true partners with the state in our commitment to creating jobs and supporting the Delaware economy."

In addition to the 800 employees to be housed in Christiana, CSC has another 250 employees at a data center CSC purchased from DuPont in Newark. Also in Newark, about 105 CSC employees work at a J.P. Morgan data center, supporting the company's information technology operations.

CSC had $5.8 billion in revenues for the 12 months ended June 27, 1997.

Headquartered in El Segundo, Calif., the company has nearly 44,000 employees in more than 600 offices worldwide and provides clients with a wide range of professional services, including management consulting, information systems consulting and integration, and operations support. More information about Computer Sciences Corporation is available at <http://www.csc.com>.

Entries sought for building excellence

Commerce Bank and The Philadelphia Business Journal are sponsoring the the annual Building Excellence Awards of the Delaware Valley and encourage the entry of all real estate projects completed and occupied within the last three years (January 1994 to June 1997).

Entries will be judged by a five-member panel of professionals, including: Edmund N. Bacon, planner, architect, author and former executive director of the Philadelphia City Planning Commission; Donna Murray, senior business development specialist, Delaware Department of Development; Carmen Italia, president of the Montgomery County Industrial Development Corporation; James R. Nelson, president of The Architects Studio Inc. in Wilmington; Warren Huff, senior planner, Philadelphia Planning Commission.

Projects must be located within the 15-county area of the Delaware Valley (New Jersey: Burlington, Camden, Gloucester, Salem, Cumberland, Ocean, Atlantic, Cape May; Pennsylvania: Philadelphia, Montgomery, Bucks, Delaware and Chester; Delaware: New Castle, Kent).

Applications can be obtained by calling Commerce Bank's Tamara Lanza at 609-751-4079 or the Business Journal's Grace Spellman at 215-238-5126. Completed entry forms must be received by Friday, Sept. 12.
