Races Scheduled At Fair Hill
For Benefit Of Union Hospital

Annual Benefit Of Late William du Pont, Jr., Renewed For Elkton Hospital With Cattle, Horse Shows, Racing At Fair Hill Estate Near Newark This Saturday, Next

One of the top hunt race meets in the world will be renewed this Saturday on the estate of the late Wm. du Pont, Jr., at Fair Hill, Md., just west of Newark on Route 273, with six races and pari-mutuel betting this Saturday and next. Staged annually for the benefit of the Union Hospital at Elkton, the program includes a cattle show beginning at 8:30 a.m. this Saturday, a horse show conducted by Patricia du Pont at the same time the following Saturday, and six races each day with a 2 p.m. post time.

William du Pont, Jr., who conducted this annual benefit for the Elkton Hospital, died last Dec. 31, at the age of 69, and J. H. Tyler McConnell, his son-in-law and successor as president of the Delaware Trust Co., has headed perpetuation of the benefit program with the support of Mr. du Pont's children.

Family Support

In reorganizing the race committee, McConnell, a director of Delaware Park and a steward of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, has the support of all of William du Pont's children, and his sister, Marion du Pont Scott—well known in the steeplechase world and as a breeder of thoroughbreds. She will be vice-chairman of the race committee.

Among its members are Mrs. McConnell, eldest of the du Pont daughters; and her sister, Mrs. Bruce Donaldson.

Sons W. Henry and John E. du Pont are other members, and the teen-ager William du Pont III is represented by his mother Mrs. Margaret Osborne du Pont, former world's tennis champion.

The Fair Hill race course is just over the Delaware line in Maryland, on the du Pont estate, and auspices again will be those of the Cecil County Breeders' Fair, Inc., and the authority of the Maryland Racing Commission.

In line with past procedure, a cattle show will be held on the morning of the 10th, and a horse show and rodeo on the morning of the 11th.

Ceremonies Held
By CAR Society
At Cooch's Bridge

Last Saturday afternoon at the monument marking the Battle of Cooch's Bridge where the American flag is believed to have been first flown in combat, a wreath was placed by the Delaware State Society, Children of the American Revolution.

Pennell Meyer, president of the Robert Kirkwood Society CAR, presided, and Mrs. Leon Gilmore, senior state chaplain; Linda Ford, Mill Creek Hundred Society president; Judith Elliott, state chairman of Gadsby's Tavern; and Allen Ford, state chairman of press relations, assisted with the program.

After the ceremony, Scott and David Haas of Newark, as little Continental soldiers, led the attendance to the Cooch mansion to greet Mrs. Edward W. Cooch, past registrar general of the National Society.

Mrs. Cooch showed a British cannonball found at Welsh Tract Baptist Church where the Americans made a stand against the Redcoats from behind the church wall, and in a tour of the church at the foot of Iron Hill visitors were shown patches in the wall where a British cannonball had passed through the building, and the Indian Americans from as far as Ohio attended Saturday's ceremonies, Helen Eastman reports.

Dwight H. Holmes
Dies In California
As Auto Hits Pole

A Newark man was killed Saturday in California when the car he was driving went out of control and hit a utility pole on the Lawrence Expressway near Los Angeles.

Police identified the driver as Dwight Howard Holmes, 22, of 70 Chaucer Drive, Brookside. Relatives said Holmes had been staying with his sister, Mrs. Paul Folland, in Sunnyvale since June.

Police said the impact threw Holmes from the car which overturned, a wheel landing on his neck. He was pronounced dead of massive head injuries.

Born in Alabama, Mr. Holmes had lived in Delaware 13 years and was a graduate of Newark High School. He recently was discharged from the Navy after serving aboard the USS Kitty Hawk in the Southeast Pacific.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Harry Holmes of Newark; his father, John Holmes of Bridgeton, N. J.; two brothers, John and Frank, both of Bridgeton and two sisters, Mrs. Folland and Mrs. John White of Pottstown, N. J.

Services were held this afternoon at the Robert T. Jones & Son Funeral Home.

Interment was in Graceland Memorial Park.

$500,000 GIFT

Wesley College at Dover has received a gift of $500,000, President Robert H. Parker announced, the largest single contribution from an individual in the 94-year history of the school. The gift will be used at the donor's request to complete the new women's dormitory now under construction.

16-Year-Old Boys
Charged With Try
To Derail Trains

Local Police Arrest Two College Park Residents For Piling Ties On Track

Two 16-year-old boys were charged by Newark police last Friday with malicious destruction of railroad property, trespassing, and conspiracy to derail a train.

The two, both of College Park, were arrested in connection with two attempts to derail C&D-B&O Railroad freight trains on Aug. 20-21. They were released in custody of their parents pending appearance in New Castle County Family Court.

According to Sgt. William Brierley, the boys piled old railroad ties on tracks in the College Park area. A diesel locomotive struck the obstruction on Aug. 21.

No one was injured by Brierley said there was some damage to the train.

Brierley gave this account of the events.

The two boys first came to two ties and a development directional sign to the tracks, placed, then between the rails in what he said was a plot to cause a derailment.

A railroad track car-ovee saw the ties and sign and removed them about 20 minutes before a freight train was due.

The two boys then returned the following night and piled up 14 sections of old ties on the track and hid in a nearby field to await developments.

Shortly after 2 a.m., a train composed of two diesel engine units and between 80 and 100 freight cars approached but the engineer saw the blocked track ahead and hastily applied the brakes. The guard on the front of the engine struck the pile, causing sparks to fly and timbers to fall. The train came to a 45-min. tie-up, Brierley said.

Brierley said the two boys waited around until after police arrived and then went home.

Railroad and Newark police began an immediate investigation and, according to Brierley, subsequent boasting by the boys led to their arrest.

He said that some of the College Park homes, about 100-ft. from the tracks, could have been severely damaged if cars had left the rails.

"Exotics" To Play
At Smyth Center
Teen-Age Dances

The Exotics, a rock 'n' roll band known by teenage and college students in the Wilmington and Newark areas, is scheduled for a series of Saturday night dances at the Alice P. Smyth Center, Newark YWCA at 318 South College Avenue.

The first session will be this Saturday from 8 to 11:30 p.m. in the YWCA auditorium, and all from 12 to 21 are invited.

The Exotics are appearing this week at the Wilmington Brown Derby, a teen-age night club, and have played to sell-out dances for the past eight weeks at TABS, a Brookside teen-age club.

They feature two go-go girls, five instrumentalists, and a male vocalist.

"Datebook" Article
Honors CHS In 50
Top High Schools

Christiana High School has been chosen by Datebook magazine as one of the 50 outstanding American high schools for 1966.

Christiana High is included in the October issue of Datebook on sale Sept. 5 at newsstands in this area. Datebook's editors, working in conjunction with leading educational authorities, made a survey of American high schools to discover leaders in academic and extra-curricular activities; good facilities; well-trained teachers; and an atmosphere in which students can flourish as individuals.

The three-page race sponsored by the Delaware Association of Police, will begin at 10 a.m. over the Pushmobile Derby track at Millford Crossroads.

Class B for boys from 10 to 12 will be run first, followed by the Powder Puff race for girls.

Class A, for boys 13-15 will conclude the separate events.

The final phase in the day's racing will find the first and second-place winners in Class A competing against their counterparts in Class B.

This last event will determine the 1966 derby champion, runner-up and third and fourth-place winners.

All cars set to race on Saturday must be impounded not later than today at the Kirkwood Army Reserve Center, 3531 Kirkwood Highway.

DSEA President

H. Lewis Miller

The 1966-67 Delaware Teachers' Handbook published by the Delaware State Education Association, Dover, is being sent to all public educators in the state. Association President H. Lewis Miller, of Newark reports.

Featured are several brief articles of importance to professional educators of the state's school system.

The cover design was suggested by Newark's Percival R. Roberts, III, art teacher at Lora Little Elementary School, and now working toward a doctor's degree at Illinois State University.

More than 5,000 copies are being mailed, to every teacher and school administrator in the state.

Interested persons may secure a complimentary copy of the handbook by contacting the DSEA.

A Pair Of First Graders Check In

Two new first graders arrive early at Central Elementary School to have their medical certificates checked by Principal Thomas A. Cobley.

These two young people began their education careers today with over 11,000 other students reporting to buildings in the Newark special school district to start the new school year.

Newark public schools have doubled their student population every seven years since 1945, and are on their way to doing it again!

University Farm Offers Children Tours
With No Lions - Less Familiar Animals

Children from five to eight probably know what an elephant and a lion look like, but they may not recognize common farm animals. Lions and elephants are on TV and in zoos; even horses and cows are featured on TV westerns, but who ever saw a chicken or a pig? And for that matter, a child might very well imagine that cows are only for chasing on horseback if he judged from westerns.

What has a cow to do with that cartoon of the stuff Mother buys at the store? They answer that question daily at the University of Delaware's Newark research farm during the annual farm tour.

Each year the University of Delaware invites school children and kindergarten youngsters to tour the farm. Children have a chance to watch cows being milked and farm animals being fed. They see chickens, cattle, horses, pigs, sheep and other farm animals as well as farm machinery and vegetable and field crops. Many suburban and city children see for the very first time what farmers do, they discover for themselves where their food and clothing come from.

Tours by elementary school classes are scheduled during October, with kindergartens invited to visit the farm, Sept. 26-30. The tours, each lasting about an hour, are conducted Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. through 3 p.m.

Nearly 40,000 children have visited the farm since the tours began in 1957, according to Edward H. Schabinger, Newark County agricultural agent. In 1965 alone, nearly 7,000 school and kindergarten children came for the tour.

Teachers wishing to have their classes tour the university research farm may schedule their visits by telephoning Schabinger at the University of Delaware.

Calls should be made as soon as possible after Sept. 5, Schabinger says, since the number of tours is limited.

Rev. Arthur E. Hardt, tabernacle pastor, and a graduate of Central Bible Institute, Assemblies of God, Springfield, Mo., will be principal instructor with the Rev. Edmund G. Taylor, assistant.

"Salt Marsh" Created At Newark To Test
Mosquito Control Affect On Marine Life

Crabs, grass shrimp and killifish are thriving in a man-made marsh in the heart of Newark. And, if that's not enough, these transplanted downstate are receiving generous doses of experimental mosquito control chemicals. Yet, marsh and downstate are coming along fine.

It's all part of research underway in the college of agricultural sciences at the University of Delaware.

Typical Delaware salt-marsh conditions have been duplicated on the university research farm where Dr. Frank J. Murphy and Robert W. Lake, research associates, and R. Norman Wilkinson and Peter Janz, assistants in the department of entomology and applied ecology, have created miniature marshes complete with salt water and clumps of sodded marsh grass.

They're testing in the "Newark Salt Marsh" to find out how the experimental mosquito sprays affect salt-marsh wildlife. Crabs, minnows and grass shrimp seem to be doing fine. And, as soon as they can, entomologists will bring more kinds of animals—oysters, clams and other species of fish—to their miniature marsh for more testing.

An untrained observer can see crabs snapping aggressively, and fish and shrimp darting about the pools in apparent good health. And university entomologists see much more as they check the animals' response to the sprays.

They test pesticides on both young and adult animals in case the young are more sensitive to the sprays. For example, they've found out that grass shrimp will reproduce naturally despite spraying with a new and promising mosquito larvicide.

Of course, entomologists admit setting up the man-made marsh was not an easy job. They had to bring water from the salt marsh in thousand-gallon tank trucks; they cut sodded marsh grass into small clumps and brought them to Newark. And they still had to catch the crabs—and the killifish—and the grass shrimp.

Although Murphy and Lake constantly test effects of mosquito pesticides, they emphasize that controlling mosquitoes with chemicals is only part of a much broader control program. They are trying to develop non-chemical or biological control methods.

For example, killifish thriving in the Newark salt marsh feed voraciously on mosquito larvae—when they can get to the larvae. University entomologists are trying to make it easier for killifish to get into mosquito breeding areas, in this way encouraging natural control.

"These minnows illustrate the importance of using only insecticides that have been thoroughly tested and proved safe for salt-marsh wildlife," Murphy points out.

The mosquito control division of the Delaware State Highway Department provides funds to support thorough testing of all mosquito control chemicals that look promising. The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service also cooperates in the study.

Painters, Sculptors
To Feature Series
On Seven Evenings

Art Chairman Julio Acuna Plans Free Public Events At U. D. With Top Artists

A series of seven evenings with painters and sculptors has been arranged by the University of Delaware for the coming academic year, and leading artists from New York to Georgia have accepted invitations to show their work at the University of Delaware's department of art.

Once each month, starting in October and except for December, a different artist will discuss and demonstrate his work. The program is free.

"The main purpose of this series, the first effort of its kind at the university in many years," Acuna said, "is to bring these artists into close contact with students and other citizens by presenting their work, their methods, their views of art, and their philosophies."

"We feel that including discussion periods as part of the evening will provide excellent opportunities for involvement by the students and other participants," Acuna added.

The series, open to the public with no charge, is scheduled in Room 130 of Sharp Laboratory on the Newark campus, all with starting times of 7:15 p.m.

The dates and artists:

Oct. 4—Grace Hartigan, Baltimore painter.

Nov. 9—Rowland Elzea, Wilmington painter.

Jan. 11—Charles Parks, Hockessin sculptor.

Feb. 15—Rose Marie Beck, New York City painter.

March 17—Lamar Dodd, Athens, Ga., painter.

April 19—William Freeland, New York City painter.

May 10—Leroy A. Smith, West Chester, Pa., sculptor.

One hour of degree credit may be earned by registering in advance at extension division registration on Sept. 17 at the new field house near the stadium in Newark.

FIRST AID FOR EYE EMERGENCIES

DR. JOHN W. FERREE, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR,
NATIONAL SOCIETY FOR THE PREVENTION OF BLINDNESS, INC.

Are you prepared in case of an eye emergency? Despite the best in eye protective programs, an eye accident may strike—either at home, at play or even on the job. It is estimated that each year there are more than 422,000 eye accidents in industry, in schools, at home and at play. With such overwhelming numbers, you never know when you will be called upon to aid someone injured. Knowledge of first aid for eyes may some day mean the difference between sight and blindness for you, a family member or a fellow worker. These special emergency tips are divided into four major categories for easy reference.

BLOWS
For a blow to the eye or a "black eye," apply cold compresses immediately for about 15 minutes per hour. A black eye could mean serious internal damage to the eyeball and should be seen by a doctor.

SPECKS
Do not rub any speck or foreign body that gets into the eye. Lift the upper lid over the lower lid and let tears wash out the particle. If the speck doesn't wash out, keep the eye closed with a light dressing and seek medical attention.

It is most important to keep in mind that these are first aid measures only, and you should never attempt any other form of self-treatment or self-medication for eye diseases or refractive errors. A free gummed sticker listing these first aid tips for the shop, school or home medicine cabinet may be obtained by writing to National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, Box 426, Dept. A, New York, N. Y. 10019.

Terrible Termites

Scare Householder

Unduly, Bray Says

The termite probably scares more people, in an economic sense, than any other insect. Yet, they work slowly and damage they do can be repaired, according to Dr. Dale Bray, chairman of the department of entomology and applied ecology at the University of Delaware.

The springtime swarming of termites may be the first warning homeowners have that termites are living nearby. In the spring some of the winged, reproductive members of each termite colony decide to start their own families, so they swarm to locate a place to settle down.

If you see swarms, look at some of the insects closely. If their bodies are "pinched" in the middle they probably are ants and you can relax, Bray says.

The body of a termite is about the same thickness from one end to the other.

Examine the wings also, he advises. There is usually a dark spot on each of the front wings of the ant. Termites do not have these spots.

Termites actually live in the soil, but wood is their only food, so they build a network of tiny tunnels to reach the wood in the house. Beams in the cellar, or the sill under the front door—in fact, any part of the house made of wood—is exactly what they are looking for. They will even go through a concrete block wall with ease, if there is a tiny crack in it.

There are other ways to check for termite infestation, Bray points out. Mud-like tubes, about one-quarter inch wide, on foundation walls are their way of getting from their home into yours. If you find these tubes, break them and look for worker termites, which are small white insects without wings.

Also, check all points of the house where wood touches the ground or where the concrete slab meets the walls of the house. Use an ice pick and check for places where the pick will go into the wood easily.

A sawdust-like powder around the tunnels is left by insects other than termites; these insects are not as destructive as termites.

If you are sure your home does have termites, have it treated to get rid of them, Bray recommends. The homeowner can do it himself, but this is not recommended because it is difficult to do a thorough job.

For this reason, deal only with reliable exterminators, Bray cautions. The job should be done within a few weeks after you discover the insects. But, don't be rushed into action, he adds.

Termites work slowly; there is no great hurry, provided you do something within a few weeks. Don't be frightened into hiring the first pest control operator that comes along.

Homeowners with questions about termites and exterminators may obtain information from county agents near the department of entomology and applied ecology at the university.

Planting, Moving Of Perennials Due With Early Fall

Early fall is an ideal time of the year to plant or move favorite perennials. Madonna lilies, oriental poppies, peonies and iris are dominant and should be planted now, according to Robert F. Stevens, extension horticulturist at the University of Delaware.

Although most other lilies are planted in September or October, madonna lilies should be planted in late August. Madonna bulbs need time to root and make new top growth this year. They should only be divided and moved when they are so overcrowded that flowers are small and few in number.

Plant the bulbs 2-in. deep and if the garden soil does not have excellent drainage, put a layer of clean sand under the bulb.

Ponies are best planted in the early fall for flowers late the next spring. Spring plantings will grow, but the ponies will not flower the first year.

Iris should be divided now, according to Stevens. They will produce better flowers if divided every four or five years. Cut the rhizomes or thickened roots with a spade or knife and replant with the rhizome just below the soil surface.

Check the roots carefully for borers and discard all affected parts.

No Diversion For Wheat Offered With 1967 Crop

Paul B. Hastings, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee, reminds wheat farmers that no diversion program will be in effect for the 1967 wheat crop.

Wheat program participants will be able to qualify for domestic marketing certificates and price-support loans.

Hastings said that it is particularly important for farmers with small wheat allotments to remember that diversion payments are no longer available.

Many of these farmers have been diverting all or a part of their wheat allotment acres for payment in recent years; however, no income can be derived from the wheat program in 1967 unless the crop is planted.

24 Killed in Maryland With Highway Accidents

Twenty-four persons were killed on Maryland highways last week according to the survey published by Maryland State Police.

Thirteen of those killed were drivers; six were passengers; and five were pedestrians.

Alcohol was a contributing factor in 12 of the deaths; speed in 16; and "driver error" was present in 20 of the fatalities.

Maryland's highway death toll for 1966 has climbed to 494—up 11 per cent over the same period last year.

Fieldhouse, Reed, Ryder Report Ripening Research

Vegetable growers can expect an entire season's crop of tomatoes, peppers and lima beans to ripen at one time and for a single harvesting operation.

Research reported at University of Delaware Farm and Home Field Day indicates that use of growth retardants can effectively concentrate ripening and increase yields of many vegetable crops.

The study was conducted at the Georgetown Substation by Dr. Donald Fieldhouse, associate professor of horticulture, Paul E. Reed, research associate, and John C. Ryder, Jr., graduate assistant in the department of horticulture.

Original Stretch Fabric Offered With Knitwear

Knits are news. Widely used for women's coats, suits and dresses, and even for children's and men's clothing, knits are one of the major recent textile developments, according to Janet Reed, extension clothing and textile specialist at the University of Delaware.

A fourth of all the yarn used in fabrics today goes into knit goods, and this use is increasing each year.

Consumers like knitwear. Knits are comfortable — the original stretch fabric — and easy to care for. They are a boon to travelers and busy homemakers because they resist wrinkling.

Leonard To Speak For Unitarians' Opening Service

Richard D. Leonard, minister of education for the Community Church of New York City, will address the Unitarian Fellowship of Newark this Sunday on "Why Religious Education?"

The Fellowship at 420 Willa Road, will hold this opening service of the fall at 11 a.m., but subsequent services will be at 10:30.

Registration for the Sunday School also will take place this Sunday. A nursery is available for younger children, and a special program is planned for older children the first Sunday in lieu of individual classes.

Mr. Leonard, who has served the Community Church for seven years, also is working on his MA in education at Columbia Teachers College. He received his BA from Yale and his BD from Union Theological Seminary. He is the author of "March to Montgomery."

Visitors will be welcomed by the Fellowship to hear the Rev. Leonard's address and to participate in the coffee hour and discussion after the service.

EVERY SIXTEEN MINUTES...

Every sixteen minutes blindness strikes one American. This tragedy of minutes adds up to the estimated 416,000 persons in the United States who are already blind.

In the next 12 months, 32,700 more will lose the precious gift of sight. Yet half of all this blindness is preventable.

No miracle drugs or magic cures are required. Only the conscientious use of already-available information on eye health and safety by every adult and child in this country would cut in half the yearly tragic toll of blindness.

Frank Boys Offers Advice On Care With Pesticides

Treat pesticides with respect; they have been developed to kill insects, rodents and fungi. In general, pesticides make our food more wholesome, plants more attractive and our lives more pleasant, according to Frank Boys, extension agricultural chemicals specialist at the University of Delaware.

Boys is the author of a new bulletin "Pesticide Precautions," published by the Cooperative Extension Service at the university and the Delaware Safety Council. It contains detailed recommendations for safe pesticide usage for farmers and home gardeners.

Copies are available from county agents or from the Mailing Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark.

The public is invited to hear the experiences and testimonies of these missionaries.

MARGARET J. KOMAR, A. W. RAHN MARRIED

Miss Margaret Joyce Komar and Arthur William Rahn were married Saturday at 2 p.m. in Newark Methodist Church, Newark, with the Rev. J. Jervis Cooke officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Komar of Newark. Mr. Rahn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Rahn of Newark.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk organza with Alencon lace trim. Her veil of silk illusion was held by a lace and pearl-trimmed pill box hat. She carried a cascade bouquet of symbolium orchids, bridal roses, carnations and feathered mums.

Matron of honor was Mrs. David L. Stummel of Newark. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Lee P. McMaster of Cambridge, Mass., Miss Marjorie Rahn of Newark, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Joseph J. Slobojan of Newark.

They wore gowns of light aqua silk organza and matching headpieces. They carried cascades of deep aqua carnations and feathered mums.

Best man for his brother was Robert A. Rahn of Atlantic Beach, N.Y. Ushers were Robert W. Carroll of Bel Air, Md., Stephen R. Komar, of Newark, brother of the bride; James J. Mackrell of Newark, Leo P. McMaster of Cambridge, Mass., and David P. Rahn of Newark, brother of the bridegroom.

After a reception in the social hall, the couple left for a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains. They will live in Syracuse, N.Y.

The bride was graduated from Newark High School and attended the University of Delaware. She is employed by the Bank of Delaware in Wilmington.

Mr. Rahn is a graduate of the University of Delaware, where he was a member of Kappa Alpha Order. He is studying for his Ph.D. at Syracuse University.

DOROTHY NICHOLS TO WED IN OCT.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Nichols of Newark announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy L. Nichols, to James T. Thorpe, also of Newark.

Food Sense □ Not Nonsense

The Shape Of Enrichment

Casting a big shadow is nothing new for the thiamine molecule. Improvement of our diets, since 1911, which bread was enriched with B-vitamins and iron, has far surpassed fondlest scientific hopes. Today's enriched bread, no matter its shape, carries food-power.

Enriched breads, like diamonds, regardless of their shapes, are a girl's best friend; man's best friend, too. Whether enriched bread comes to market in the round, on the square, or rolls or buns, each shape carries foodpower through enrichment.

The primary purpose in enriching white bread, flour and cereals was to make use of nutritious, economical, and universally-enjoyed foods to distribute thiamine, riboflavin, niacin, and iron quickly and abundantly to everyone. Twenty-five years ago this improvement was urgent. Changes in the diets of Americans by the 1930's had skimmed B-vitamins and minerals from the food supply. People were shunning cereal foods and pork.

Enrichment dramatically corrected the shortages. By 1951, the nutrition deficiency diseases of the B-vitamin-shy years had all but disappeared.

Today's estimates indicate that enrichment adds about 1/4 more thiamine, 1/5 more iron and niacin, and 1/10 more riboflavin to our diets than would be available if bread, flour, and cereals were not carriers of these nutrients. The shape of enrichment is excellent. It is a sterling success in the annals of public health.

COTTON IS CHIC AND COMFORTABLE, and when it's used in a fashionable design such as this crocheted sweater-blouse, it's sensational! So many important fashion points are worked into today's pattern. A flattering squared neckline, the new long hip length and the all-year-round wearability of cotton yarn.

COLORS AVAILABLE FOR EVERY OCCASION

For a most feminine and lovely top, try an elegant crew; for a bright and smashing blouse use a deep skipper blue, trimmed in red (absolutely great with a navy pleated skirt). For the most dramatic look of all, fashion your sweater with deep chocolate brown and wear it with a long slim skirt. So many marvelous looks are possible because of the great color range available in the cotton "Knit-Cro-Sheen" yarn used for this sweater. As you can see, it is a design which can literally take you through the day, from morning to gala evening.

PRETTY AS A PICTURE

This will surely be a fashionable addition to your sweater collection and I know you'll enjoy working with a cotton yarn. Free instructions are available by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Needlework Editor of this newspaper along with your request for Leaflet PC 3086.

MAKE THE DOORBELLS RING

YOU CAN BE A POLITICIAN

A politician, according to the dictionary, is someone who is versed or experienced in the science of government. In less elegant terms, he is someone who understands and takes an interest in the affairs of his city, state and country.

And, when his interest becomes active, when he works at it, he becomes "the most important politician in the world" because he then is party to making the final decisions in our political life.

Who, today, are the politicians?

Actually, they come from all walks of life. In fact, during the past five years more than half a million people have taken political action courses and have prepared themselves for responsible party work. Today, precinct committeemen, members of their block and precinct organizations, and candidates' campaign staffs are increasingly made up of professional people, of labor leaders, and young business executives, of anyone whose primary interest is good government.

The very people who are active in political party work are the same people who support and work for school issues, or their local community drives.

They are volunteers who have no personal axe to grind. They are motivated by two things:

- They want to make their voice heard in government, and in formulating the policies and platforms of their party.
- They want to have a part in persuading good, qualified men to run for office, and then in working to elect these men.

This is the image of today's politician. And there is a place in his party for everyone who wants to take part.

Political organizations are made up of people—nothing else—just interested people.

BLINKERS vs. THINKERS

BY DICK MANSFIELD

September is "Back-to-School" month for all the boys and girls in our state. With this influx of children crossing our streets—walking on highways—and playing in areas which should be restricted—the motorist must be more alert and safety-conscious than ever before.

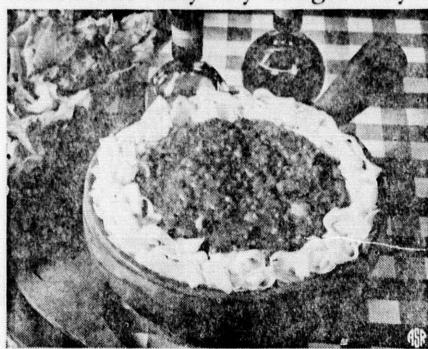

Accidents are the leading cause of death of school-age children, warns the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission. Motorists have a responsibility to protect the child life of our community, and so do the parent and teachers. The motorist must drive with care and always be aware of the child because children are impulsive and unpredictable when absorbed in play. The parent has a responsibility of living safely at home and on the highway, thus setting a good example for the child to follow. The teacher has a responsibility to teach the child safety in a way that he understands and that adds meaning to his everyday experiences. Everyone of us should accept our responsibility to our children—the goal is a rewarding one—the protection of our children.

Let's send them back to school reassured that everyone is doing his part to protect all our children against death and destruction on the highways.

If you have an interest in the political affairs of this country, then you are already a politician. The question is: How good a politician are you? Are you willing to sit on the sidelines and let others run the show? Or are you determined to do your part, to make your influence felt, as the most important politician in the world?

The need is there; the choice is up to you.

Beef: The Busy-Day Budget-Way

When budget-minded ground beef is coupled with staples from the cupboard, high fashion beef stroganoff comes off the quick and easy way. Canned tomato paste and beef consommé are instant flavor partners for the sauce, while evaporated milk blends the whole to the desired rich creaminess. As the savory beef mixture simmers in the skillet, noodles can be cooked to complete the dish.

Quick Beef Stroganoff

1/2 cup butter
1 medium onion, sliced
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1/2 cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste
1 can (10 1/2 oz.) beef consommé
1 cup evaporated milk

Melt butter in a large skillet. Add onion, green pepper and ground beef. Fry over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until meat is browned and onions are tender. Remove from heat. Sprinkle in flour, a little at a time, blending well after each addition. Add salt, pepper, garlic powder and Worcestershire sauce; stir to blend well. Slowly stir in tomato paste, consommé and evaporated milk. Cover skillet and simmer over low heat until thickened slightly, about 15 to 20 minutes. Serve over hot cooked noodles. Makes 6 servings.

York Fair To Open With Headliners Of Show Business

Pennsylvania's biggest Fair, the York Inter-State, opens next Tuesday continuing daily afternoon and night thru Saturday, Sept. 17.

Famous personalities have been booked for the fair, with a real headliner every day, plus vaudeville acts each day, and the Broadway revue "Star Time" on stage every night.

There will be harness races Tuesday through Friday afternoons, and the mile-long million dollar midway will feature shows and rides.

There will be exhibits of livestock, agricultural products, and farm machinery, with competition between 4-H boys and girls.

Opening Tuesday will feature Gary Lewis and the Playboys; Wednesday will offer Brenda Lee and the Casuals; the Grand Brothers, favorites on the Andy Williams TV Show, will be the attraction on Thursday; and Friday evening and Saturday afternoon and nights Jack Kochman's auto show "Hell Drivers" will provide thrills and spills.

GOP Picnic Slated Sunday At Christensen's Farm

Republicans of the 24th Representative District will hold a picnic this Sunday at the Earl Christensen Farm on Wrangle Hill Road. The picnic is open to the public and refreshments will be available.

Republican candidates have been invited to meet their constituents.

Turn off Route 40 at Wrangle Hill Road, proceed approximately one mile, and the Christensen Farm lane is on the left side of the road.

Nan Nichols and Earl Christensen are chairmen of the picnic.

Food Fair Elects Ronald L. Fine As Vice-President

Ronald L. Fine, former director of the departments of real estate, law, construction, maintenance, and civil affairs of the southern division of Food Fair Stores, Inc., Miami, was elected Sept. 6, as vice-president of the supermarket chain.

Fine will be in charge of Food Fair's chain-wide real estate, construction and maintenance operations and will be based at the firm's headquarters in Philadelphia.

These positions were held by Jack M. Friedland who was elected president of Food Fair on Aug. 16.

Food Fair—the nation's fourth largest retail food chain—operates more than 850 supermarkets along the eastern seaboard, in California and Nevada.

An attorney and member of the Florida bar, Fine, 36, joined Food Fair's real estate department in 1957 and rose to director of the department.

A graduate of the University of Miami, where he was president of the student body, he received the degrees of bachelor of business administration and bachelor of law.

Georget'n Substation's Quarter-Century Provides Aid For Mankind's Basic Needs

Food, clothing and shelter—three of man's basic needs—come from the farm, and American farmers backed by research and education, are able to supply an abundance of food and fiber for a rapidly growing population.

The University of Delaware Georgetown Substation has produced research findings that have helped make this agricultural achievement a reality.

This year marks the 25th anniversary of the purchase of the substation farm.

"The First 25 Years," a bulletin written by J. Frank Gordy, substation director; W. T. McAllister, extension economist; E. M. Hahn, associate professor of horticulture; and Jerry Webb, agriculture editor, at the University of Delaware, gives a history of the development of the substation and the services it has offered and continues to offer Delaware agriculture.

The farm that became the substation was purchased in August, 1941, and the first research projects began in May, 1942. Apple soil management studies, strawberry fertilization and watermelon and peach variety trials were among the first experiments. Plans for a broiler house also were made that first year.

Since then, thousands of experiments have been conducted. Substation scientists test new crop varieties important to Delaware, including corn, soybeans, lima beans, potatoes, watermelons, tomatoes and peppers. Research results have helped farmers stay in business by pointing out best varieties available.

New varieties that gained wide acceptance—including Bethel and Delmar soybeans; Thaxter lima bean; Delmar tomato and Delaware Belle pepper—were developed at the Georgetown substation.

The bulletin points out that the Bethel soybean, planted on 20,000 acres in Delaware in 1963, increased gross returns to growers by approximately $100,000.

Research at the substation on poultry disease control has made great strides, officials report. Sulfa drug treatment for coccidiosis control was tested at the substation in the early 1940s, and accepted by the industry, the treatment has saved growers millions of dollars in chicken losses.

The use of aureomycin to control infectious synovitis in poultry was established at the substation, and its use is world-wide.

Poultry research helped the Delaware peninsula maintain its position as a leader in poultry housing and environmental control, the bulletin states. Studies on insulation and mechanical ventilation made it possible to maintain optimum broiler house temperatures, and experiments with an electronic computer formulating broiler diets, raised nutrition levels.

Irrigation experiments conducted during the past 10 years showed profit of irrigating certain crops; best times to irrigate; and interaction of irrigation with other cultural practices.

The staff at the substation also diagnoses plant and animal problems; the station serves as a pick-up point for soil tests, and provides facilities for hundreds of educational meetings each year.

Information on such things as crop production methods, farm management techniques and homemaking skills is made available by the substation to the people of southern Delaware.

The bulletin "The First 25 Years," includes further information on the history and future of agriculture, as well as the substation.

The bulletin is available from the Mailing Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark.

Bonded Fabric For Winter Easy To Sew, Comfortable

Although the thermometer says it's still summertime, homemakers are already buying fall and winter fabrics to make their cold weather wardrobe. A large number of those fabrics are bonded—the outer or face fabric is permanently attached to a lining.

Bonded fabrics are so popular because they are easy to sew, and comfortable to wear, according to Janet Reed, textile specialist at the University of Delaware.

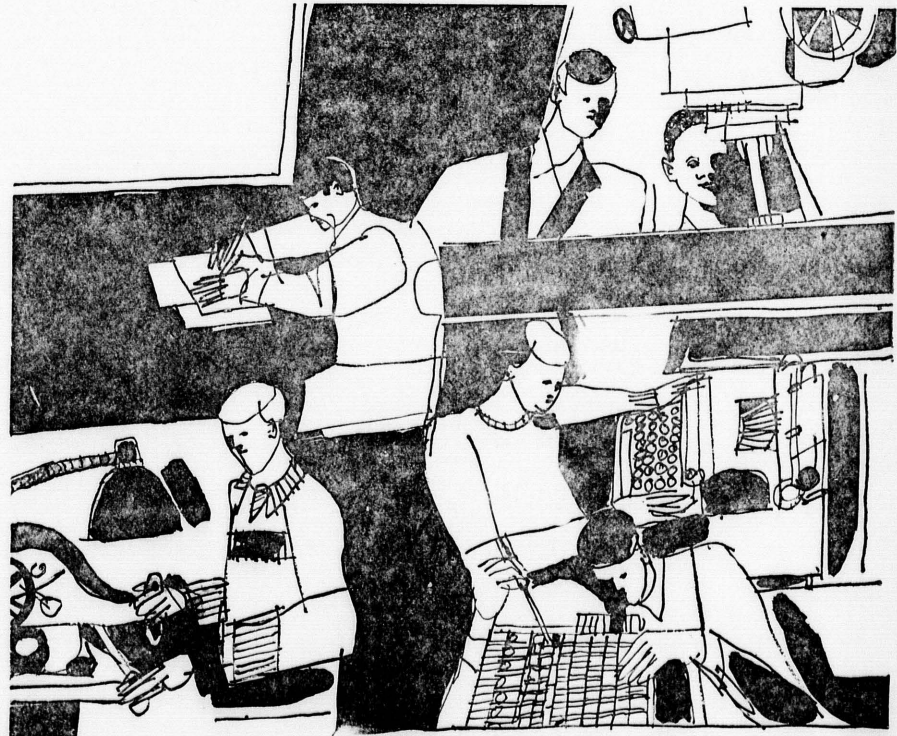

In addition, bonding adds body and often gives the appearance of a better quality fabric than the face fabric by itself.

Food Prices Rise Less In Contrast With Other Items

Prices have risen for almost everything people buy, but higher food prices receive the most attention, according to W. T. McAllister, extension farm management specialist at the University of Delaware.

While it is true that food prices have advanced, McAllister says they have not changed as much as most other items. Clothing and shoes, for instance, have gone up even more. However, the price change on non-food items is not as noticeable even though the amount of change may be proportionally greater.

Because food is a daily or weekly purchase, any change in price is easily remembered. Clothing is bought less often, so price changes are less noticeable.

Prices are going up because they reflect the demand for goods in relation to the available supply, McAllister explains. That demand is largely determined by purchasing power of the buying public. The United States, for the most part, has full employment and rising wages.

Even though industry is running at full production, the supply of goods is not quite up to the demand, so prices are bid up slightly. Also, as wage rates go up, prices must advance in turn, unless productivity of the worker increases as the pay increases. Since the higher prices increase living costs, wages again go up, causing continuous upward spiral of wage and price increases.

The wage-price spiral is the principal element in today's inflation, according to McAllister. Of course, there are ways to restrict the rate of inflationary growth, he points out. For instance, the national government has given guidelines on wage increases to labor organizations and industry for contract negotiations.

Interest rates were increased to encourage saving part of workers' take-home pay and to discourage borrowing since credit is an important part of total buying power, McAllister explains.

McAllister concludes that inflation can be controlled if the people really want it controlled. However, it isn't possible to have more jobs, higher wages, liberal credit, growing government services and benefit programs, and lower taxes, without having higher prices and inflation.

do pennies make a difference in your food bill?

You bet they do.

And we should know.

We built our business by saving pennies for generations of folks like you.

For instance, take our policy on multiple-priced items.

If an item is priced 3 for 25¢, the price for one is obviously 9¢.

But what happens if you want two?

Do you pay 2 times 9¢ or 18¢?

Not at A&P.

We sell it at 2 for 17¢.

That's the fair way—the A&P way.

Yes, in the food business...

in food budgeting, pennies make a difference.

We watch them for you and for us.

Kent-Sussex Raceway To Launch Meeting With 40 Nights Of Racing This Saturday

HARRINGTON, Del. — All systems are go for the Saturday launching of a 40-night harness meet at Kent and Sussex Raceway, with a majority of the Eastern Shore's master reinsmen and top trotters and pacers ready to display their wares.

Post time will be 8 p.m., with two daily doubles offered — one on the first and second races and the second on the eighth and ninth events. The program this year again calls for nine races nightly every Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, with 16 events carded on Friday and Saturday nights.

Stable space is packed to capacity with 579 horses ready to compete in the track's 21st meeting. The raceway ran out of stall room over two weeks ago, yet applications still flooded the office of William W. Shaw, director of racing.

Horsemen began checking their charges into the grounds last week-end from neighboring tracks at Ocean Downs and Brandywine. Returning to battle for driving laurels are Walt Warrington of Elkton, and Everett Hobbs of Harrington.

Warrington posted the most wins last year, 30, with Hobbs the leader in the Universal ratings system. In

Loren Kline's Hen Booters Face 13-Game Schedule

Delaware's soccer team, which had its best season ever last year, will play a 13-game schedule this fall, opening Oct. 4, at Washington College.

Coach Loren Kline's Blue Hen booters, who set Delaware records for goals and victories in compiling a 7-4-2 record last year, will play seven home games and six on the road.

Drexel replaces Western Maryland on the schedule, but the other 12 opponents return from last year.

William W. Shaw

45 starts the homegrown reinsman counted 13 wins, 11 seconds and nine thirds for a 491 percentage.

Racing officials will offer familiar faces during the fall meet. John E. Ducharme of Conoverville, Pa., returns as presiding judge. Joining him as associate judges are Fred B. Greenley, Jr., of Felton and Cecil Wheatley of Federalsburg, Md.

Fishing recently with Admiral Bill Verge in the Severn at Sherwood Park on Maryland's western shore. Paul Schneider reports plenty of action with rock, white perch—yes, and sunfish.

"We caught some rock about two-inches long," Paul said, "and then things improved. We managed to catch a few keepers."

Admiral Verge, who happens to be Young Schneider's father-in-law, has returned from Florida to live in retirement near his alma mater, the U. S. Naval Academy. And the fishing is somewhat dim in contrast with that experienced by the Admiral on Florida's East Coast.

Some years ago, we had the pleasure of fishing with the veteran sailor on the Chester River near Millersville, Md.—and our luck was less lustrous than his experience with his son-in-law.

It was the only time this editor has had the pleasure of casting from a skiff rowed by a U. S. Navy admiral.

Edwin C. Rodgers, Auburn, Ala., and Army alumnus now residing and fishing out of Nashville, Tenn., unlabeled an impressive long line from a fly rod over Potomac Creek just outside of Frederickburg last Saturday, as we were guests at the Biscoe beach house of the parents of the bride, after a morning wedding and reception in the Virginia church and colonial mansion beside the Rappahannock River.

Ed Rodgers didn't catch any fish, but after all his heart wasn't in his fishing after a hectic day in which he officiated as best man at his son's wedding. But he gave a good demonstration of how to handle the light rod and a long line.

And young son Joe Rodgers well emulated his parent, while another son, Terry, caught the fish of the afternoon—a fingerling rock, and a luscious catfish—on hamburger pilfered from the barbecue party.

Fluke, weakfish, dolphin and albacore have taken the spotlight in the 1966 Cape May County fishing scene this week, according to reports being received from 80 weighmasters who record fish in the Jersey Cape's 31st annual fishing tournament.

Fluke or flounder fishing has centered in the ocean off the county's inlets and in lower Delaware Bay, where party and private boats have been doing well with fish in the two to eight pound class. Fish have been reported up to the 13-lb. 5-oz. fluke entered by Ronnie Smith, 12-year-old angler from Wenonah, N. J. His fish was caught in Great Egg Bay on a minnow, and was weighed by John Wulff of Ocean City.

Weakfish action, which started late in Delaware Bay this season, is producing excellent catches of trout in the one to two-pound class.

Boats out of rental liversies along Delaware Bay are reporting catches of 100-125 weakfish per boat. Anglers are scoring best with shedder crab and squid.

Interior Linemen, Defensive Backs Pose Hen Problem

Delaware Football Coach Harold Raymond listed the interior line and defensive backfield as major problem areas on the eve of the Blue Hen's first fall practice session.

The Hens began twice daily practices on Frazer Field last Thursday morning in preparation for the season opener with Hofstra at Delaware Stadium on Sept. 24.

Finding some strength at center, guard and tackle is the first item on the coaches agenda. Only three of the Hens 16 returning lettermen earned their letters as interior linemen.

Raymond, starting his first season as head coach after 12 years as Dave Nelson's backfield assistant, is counting on sophomores to fill gaps in the line.

"We have a lot of first-year players coming up," Raymond said, "and we are hopeful that aggressive enthusiasm will help make up for their inexperience."

Linebackers Bill Laughlin and Bob Novotny, Guard Henry Vollendorf, Tackle Ward Spisso, Offensive End Jim Crabb and Defensive Ends Steve Schumacher and Dave Conner are sophomores in contention for starting jobs in the line.

Raymond indicated that several of his veteran linemen may see action both offensively and defensively this year.

Herb Slattery, two-time All-Middle Atlantic Conference choice as a linebacker, also will play offensive tackle; Captain Ed "Sandy" Sand will be an offensive guard in addition to his regular defensive end duties; and Guard Lee Hackney of Newark will be in the lineup as a linebacker.

And All-Conference Middle Guard Bill Neiger is available for two-way duty.

Raymond has three veterans—Ken Bills, Jack Hoopes and Don Keiser—returning to the defensive backfield.

All-Conference Safety Bruce Carlyle has graduated and the Hens new coach is looking for a capable replacement.

The Hens are in better shape offensively. Brian Wright, heads a strong corps of running backs, and Junior Frank Linzenbold should be ready to take over as the Hens No. 1 quarterback.

Delaware pass receiving record holder Mike Purzycki returns as the split end, and Crab should be able to handle the tight end duties.

Slattery will be the offensive tackle on one side, but the other tackle job is up for grabs.

Sand and either Vollendorf or Hoopes will be the guards, with senior Russ Bonadonna the top center candidate.

Mrs. R. H. Osterloh Wins Ladies Day Golf At NCC

Mrs. Robert H. Osterloh won the blind hole golf event in Ladies Day play at the Newark Country Club last Tuesday, with Mrs. John N. McDowell second; and Mrs. William H. Bohning third.

Mrs. Robert Westcott and Mrs. Bohning were program chairmen for Ladies Day golf.

Viking Booster Club Plans Bake Sale For Projector

The Christiana High School Viking Booster Club will sponsor a bake sale on Friday, Sept. 16, from 1 p.m. to the Food Fair in the Brookside Shopping Center.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to help purchase a projector to be used by athletic teams at the school.

Trolling boats have been sighting some white marlin, but the hottest off-shore action has been with dolphin and albacore.

Jim Thompson of Stone Harbor boated a 16-lb. albacore while fishing aboard the Bivo with Capt. Bert Bivins out of Cape Island Marina, Cape May.

In dolphin competition, a 27 lb. 12 oz. bull was reported by Bill Kunik of Longport, N. J., and Joseph J. Thomas of Bethel, Conn., caught a 24-lb. dolphin while fishing aboard the Carlyn out of Stone Harbor.

An offshore fishing trip earned a Jersey Cape citation for a Maryland fisherman, George Curtis, of Sparks, Md., boated a 39-lb. cod while fishing aboard the party boat Bucky out of Cape May.

In other action, anglers fishing from small boats in the inland waterways are reporting good catches of blues in the one to 2½ pound class in the sounds and county's inlets. The blues are hitting trolled spoons, feathers and plugs, and bucktails and plugs cast to schools of fish on spinning tackle.

Anglers are reminded that the Jersey Cape Fishing Tournament will continue through Dec. 31. All anglers are urged to enter their catches in this fishing event. There is no entry fee, and no advance registration is required.

OFF AND RUNNING by John I. Day Spendthrift Apropos

Spendthrift Farm would seem to be an apt name for the breeding establishment of Leslie Combs II, the man who organized syndicates that paid $1,251,200 for Nashua and millions more for other potentially great stallions. However, the name is not a commentary on the big-money operations of Breeder Combs, his syndicate partners, or those sportsmen who have paid $12-$44,600 for the 439 yearling Thoroughbreds bred and marketed at Keeneland by Combs in the past 17 years.

While his racing heritage goes back to his great-grandfather, the name is not a commentary on the big-money operations of Breeder Combs, his syndicate partners, or those sportsmen who have paid $12-$44,600 for the 439 yearling Thoroughbreds bred and marketed at Keeneland by Combs in the past 17 years.

Starting in 1937 with a modest 127 acres, which included the paddocks in which Spendthrift had romped, Combs has built Spendthrift Farm into a 4,700-acre operation employing 171 men and caring for some 400 Thoroughbreds including 32 stallions and an annual crop of some 150 yearlings.

Mumford noted that over 500 white marlin have been boated or released off Ocean City so far in 1966 and predicted a 100-boat tournament this year, bigger than any of the seven preceding tournaments.

Grand prize is for the largest white marlin of the tournament, and there also are awards for top scores of one day for men and women; for team fishing, for the entire tournament, and for the youngest angler, 8-16.

More than $4,000 in trophies await winners in the eighth annual Carling-Ocean City (Md.) Marlin Club's White Marlin Tournament, Sept. 15-16.

Paul Mumford, president of the Marlin Club, said the tourney will be preceded by registration and a hospitality hour at the club at 7 p.m. next Thursday.

Tyler McConnell Reports Officials Of Fair Hill Races

J. H. Tyler McConnell, chairman of the Fair Hill race committee, has announced the appointment of 17 officials for the thoroughbred meeting to be held this Saturday and on Saturday, Sept. 17.

Stewards for the six-race, pari-mutuel programs on the estate of the late William du Pont, Jr., will be Joseph A. Planagan, veteran official at major tracks in Maryland and Delaware; Fitz Eugene Dixon, president of the National Steeplechase and Race Association, and Stewart Janney, Maryland horseman.

John E. Cooper, executive secretary of the NSHA and racing secretary at Fair Hill, will serve as a placing judge in company with Austin A. Brown, assistant general manager of Delaware Park, and Algon Craven, of Radnor, Pa.

Clark M. Pardee, Delaware Park superintendent, returns as clerk of the course, assisted by A. Nelson Sills, his Delaware Park aide.

Carlisle Cameron has been reappointed starter for the Fair Hill events and will double as clerk of scales. Kenneth W. Fowler is the timer.

Patrol judges include Pardee, Carl Furr, John Fisher, Philip E. P. Fanning, and Lewis Murdoch.

Paddock judges are Ronald L. Maher and Francis W. Wells.

Lionel Langford will be in charge of the mutual department.

The Fair Hill programs will consist of two steeplechase events, two hurdle races and two turf races each Saturday.

Daily double wagering will be offered and a first-race post time of 2 p.m. will be in effect.

All proceeds go to the Union Hospital of Elkton, annual beneficiary of the Fair Hill meetings.

John M. Morris Appointed As MAC Publicity Director

John M. Morris, sports information director at the University of Delaware, has been named publicity director of the Middle Atlantic Conference.

A native of Delta, Pa., Morris was a member of the sports staff of the Baltimore Sun and news editor of the Centre Daily Times in State College, Pa., before joining the Delaware staff in 1964.

He received his bachelor of arts degree in journalism from Penn State in 1963, and during the summers of 1961 and 1962, was a sports writer with the Atlanta Journal.

He is a member of Phi Kappa Sigma, Sigma Delta Chi, the National Football Writers Association, and the College Sports Information Directors of America.

He and his wife, the former Katherine Bassett of Springfield, Pa., reside at 260 Elkton Road in Newark.

Smart-Whitman Duo Scores Low Gross On Labor Day

Gertrude Smart and William J. Whitman scored low gross, and Mrs. Elwood Statler and Chauncey Dean, low net in the Labor Day Scotch Foursome golf event at the Newark Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beddow were second low net; Mrs. James Dolan and George Weber, Jr., third; Mrs. Chauncey Dean and Elwood Statler, fourth; Mrs. William Lair and Tom McKenna, fifth; and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kubicek finished sixth.

Chauncey Dean won the hole-in-one event for men, and Miss Strat won the women's event.

FOR MEN ONLY
The Orpheus Club of Wilmington, a men's singing group, is seeking new members. For 50 years the club has been a Wilmington tradition with a repertoire running from popular songs and show tunes to semi-classical and sacred music. Under the direction of Bruce Hennickson, band director at DeLaWarr High School, Orpheus rehearses every Monday from 8 to 10 p.m., beginning Sept. 12, at Wilcaste Center, 2809 Pennsylvania Avenue, Wilmington. Membership is open to all men 18 and up, and no audition is required. Just come to Wilcaste any Monday evening beginning Sept. 12.

Viking, Yellowjacket Gridders To Play Saturday Morning In Soap Ticket Tests

After impressive scrimmage sessions last Saturday against Archmere and Dover, Coach Bob Hoffman's Yellowjackets face a scrimmage against the new McKean High School gridders on the Newark High School field at 10 o'clock, and Coach Bill Horney's Vikings go against Brown Vocational High School on the Christiana field at 10:30 a.m.

Admission to the Yellowjacket workout is a bar of soap, but Athletic Director Carmen Leto at Christiana wants no soap for his athletes — "a dollar donation is what we need," the former Dover coach said yesterday. The public is invited.

Hoffman's lettermen include an all-veteran backfield of Quarterback Lou Stengari; Halfbacks Dick Kelley and Dave Ward; and Fullback Jim McDonough.

And Stengari and Kelley were starters with Hoffman's 1965 Blue Hen Conference champions.

Tackle Conway Hayman, and Larry Tucker, end, are the letter-winning linemen.

Hoffman has 12 seniors on his squad, including the six lettermen. Other seniors expected to see action with the 1966 edition of the Yellowjackets are Brian Ginty and Sam Jackson on defense; Dave Graybeal, a defensive end; Kevin Kennard, guard; Ken Woodward, center; and Orville Wright, end.

Sophomore Sylvester Tucker is playing behind Stengari as quarter, and Dan Winteringer and Fred Conkey are displaying talent as halfbacks.

Bill Fletcher and Tyrone Wood are outstanding candidates for fullback assignments, and Gerry McCormick, a big tackle, "has a pretty good shot" at the job, Hoffman said.

Other leading candidates for varsity positions are Tommy McDermald and Bob Russell, guards; Tom Bratton and Grier Murray, centers; George Toulson, end; and Larry Smith and Keith Walker, tackles.

Horney's Christiana starting backfield includes letter-winners Dave Clauss at quarter; Mike Horney and Joe Thomas, the halfbacks; and Jeff Heath and Jerry Perry are a toss-up for the starting fullback spot.

Horney has an all-letterman forward wall with the exception of one end, and Carl Gibson, a senior now, who did not play as a junior after sophomore seasoning, appears a likely candidate for this spot.

Lettered linemen include Greg Kracher at end; Tackles John Bonner, Gary Loyd and Alan Peoples; Guards George Arbeiter and Roger Hunt; and Center Dick Rhodes.

Rhodes is being pushed by Vernon Orndorff, a junior, for the center position.

GOOD SCHOOLS!
Among the many advantages to living in the Newark area, are the excellent schools — and public schools opened this morning for some 11,000 pupils. The Newark special school district includes 10 elementary buildings, three junior high schools, and two senior high schools — all modern and fully equipped, and staffed with competent, dedicated educators.
For a home in the Newark district, stop in at the friendly real estate office of H. G. Young Associates and ask Mrs. Anne Bader for Carl J. Young, Bill Murray, Dan Reese, or Gibby Young.
