WHAT IS CAPITALISM?

The head of one of America's largest banks recently had this to say concerning capitalism: "Business must have capital. What is capital? Savings. Whose savings? The people's, yours, your friends, your neighbors.

"Everyone who saves something from his earnings and puts that money to work, or has it put to work for him, is a capitalist. "That is the American way, the way in which America has been built. Capitalism is democracy—at work."

That's simple, and it's sound. Capitalism is a term too often used to mislead the uninformed and create political discord. The truth is that capital is the collective invested savings of millions of people-the man with a hundred dollars, the woman with five hundred. That's what the capital in the nation's banks consists of. The average bank deposit is small. But put millions of those accounts together and you get real money—the money that goes to build homes, to start businesses, to expand industries, to make jobs, and to do the thousand and one things necessary to keep industry expanding and employing labor.

The nation's bankers are simply the custodians of this capital They don't own it. They are hired managers, responsible to their depositors and controlled by the strictest kind of laws. It's their job to put it to work where it is safe-and where it will be employed in building up the wealth and the resources and the economic and social values of America. The great majority of American families are capitalists. Their future security depends on invested savings in industries, in life insurance, in land. Any political trend which weakens our private enterprise system, strikes at individual

A WORD TO SCARE US

If one is over 30 years old, the chances are two to one that he has "periodontoclasia." The word itself is a jaw-breaker, sufficiently formidable to frighten us, and the disease it represents is nothing to joke about. It is commonly known as pyorrhea, and next to tooth decay is the most prevalent dental disorder, according to the Dental Institute of America.

Broadly speaking, pyorrhea consists of diseased pockets about the teeth, the tissues supporting which become irritated for various reasons causing lowered resistance to the invasion of germs. In time, the germs destroy more supporting tissue, the tooth is loosened and often lost. Pyorrhea literally means a flow of pus.

"Neglect and ignorance account for the starting prevalence of this disease," says the Institute, "for dental science has evolved a simple and highly effective method of treatment. Vast numbers of people are losing their teeth from sheer lack of dental care."

Statistics by some authorities indicate that the percentage of America having pyorrhea range about as follows: At 20 years, 10 per cent; at 30 years, 50 per cent; at 40 years, 80 per cent; at 50 years, 90 per cent or more.

Records show that in nearly all advanced cases there is evidence of total neglect of professional dental attention over a considerable period of time.

So whether we call it pyorrhea or use the more fearsome term periodontoclasia, we should look out for this highly prevalent disease, and have it treated early, thus preserving health and possibly extended life.

house in Marinette, Wis., Mayor Richard Murray put this sign outside his office door: "Burglars! Don't break in. Call for a key if you want to look around."

The water faucets at the home of Ray Guerin in Binghampton, N. Y., spouted flames if a match was touched to them. Investigation revealed a pocket of gas near Guerni's new water well.

The American Institute of Laundering recently reported a business boom for the past year, due, they claim, to campaign "doodlers"—who drew maps and forecast results all over the nation's tablecloths.

TO BETHLEHEM

Jerusalem is called the Holy City. In times past it had its holy temple and holy of holies. Even now it has its holy sepulchers and churches and mosges. But the most tender and sacred spot on earth for mankind must ever be Bethlehem, because it was the birthplace of the Holy Child.

The history of the world, it is true, is told in movements, but the center and driving force of all movements are personalities and events. The greatest Personality beyond compare even to set foot on earth was born in Bethlehem over 1900 years ago.

Each passing year since, has seen the world of Christendom turn back in thought and song and worship to the scene of that holy, marvelous birth and to the One who was born there. Was there ever a year when we needed to do that more than in this year of our Lord 1940?

In the words of the shepherds, then, "Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us" (Luke 2:15).

The Hostess Takes It Easy

By Katharine Fisher Director, Good Housekeeping Institute

There was a time when to invite ten or more people to a "sit-down dinner" took all the courage we possessed. But today, even though our dining room may be small, we are learning how to entertain easily and happily almost any number of people. In fact, for entertaining, more and more of us are adopting the simple, delightfully informal buffet meal—a meal which appeals to men and women alike, and which does not limit the number of your guests to the size of a dining room table.

One of the nicest things about a buffet luncheon, dinner or supper, is that it is always so flexible. For example, if your home is small, and you have invited quite a few guests, all you need is a fair-sized table, placed where it is most convenient, on which to arrange the buffet fare, and enough comfortable chairs in the same room or in adjoining rooms.

The buffet menu should be such as to minimize the dangers of holding a plate on the lap, and so foods that need knives, or that must be served in sherbet glasses, thould be saved for some other time. Limit your menu to two courses: a main course of one or two hot dishes, with relishes, sandwiches or a buttered hat bread, a hot beverage, and a crisp, crunchy salad, and a dessert.

Arrange the entire main course, with the necessary china in piles, the silver and napkins in place on the table. (The water and glasses may be on the Interest of Good Housekepins and the piles to take a plate, help themselves to food, ailver, and a napkin, and then find a comfortable chair. You may have one or two of your friends serve at the table if you like, but you can manage without this help.

While the guesta are enjoying second servings of the main course to which they have been invited to help themselves, you will have an opportunity to clear off the serving dishes from the buffet table and arrange the deasert course and necessary silver on it. When the table is reset and ready for dessert, ask the guests to leave the soiled main-course plates on one or two small tables placed conveniently in the dining room or one of the other rooms, and then to serve themselves to the dessert. Of course, if you have a maid, the can take care of rearranging the table for dessert, etc., leaving you free to cerry on your duties as horless.

Some of you may have a large home and spacious rooms. Then you will add to the comfort of your guests by placing small tables—bridge tables are good—here and there in the dining room and adjoining rooms for the guests to sit at after serving themselves at the buffet table. Men, in particular, sometimes get tired of balancing a plate on their knees! Use your dainty bridge-table covers, napkins, and flat silver in setting up these tables. Or arrange the silver and napkins on the buffet table as suggested before. If these set-up small tables are going to be in the way while guests are arriving, you can push them back against the wall or set them up after the guests arrive. You will find the guests eager to help.

The next time you have a party, try the buffet-meal idea. Here's a u, with recipes, to help you.

the games which are stated for Fayior gymnasium.
Included in the quartet of invaders slated to tackle the Hens are American University. Washington College, Pennsylvania Military College, and Dickinson, four schools which are rated on a par with the Blue Hens.
Loyola College, of Baltimore, victorious over the Hens in their opening encounter, could furnish no measurement of Delaware's Strength. The Maryland outfit shuns football in favor of the speedler sport to which it de-

Maryland outfit shuns football in favor of the speedier sport to which it de-voted most of its time and was already boasting of a triumph over Georgetown by the time it hit Newark. On the other hand, Philadelphia Tex-tile, victims of the Hens in the second clash here prior to the Christmas vaca-tion, seldom produces enough opposi-tion to get a line on the true calibre of the Delaware team.

the Delaware team.

So it remains for the next four game to reveal the true story.

home games, the first of which will be played in Taylor tonight.

American University, the first of the four opponents, is expected to bring a classy quintet to Newark which will provide plenty of opposition for the Hens in their effort to mark up their second conquest of the 1939-40 season. Washington College, a team that has monopolized the court victories in a long rivalry, will furnish the opposition on Saturday night, while Pennsylvania Military College will invade the local boards on Jan. 14, followed by Dickinson College the next night.

The schedule will then take the Hens away from home for three consecutive litts until Feb. 15 when they will play host to Drexel Tech.

Showing signs of slowing up after the long holiday, the local courtmen have been paced through several rigerous drills, and they are gradually rounding into shape after the lay-off.

Due to his "field day" against Philadelphia Textile when he accounted for eight field tosses, Conrad Sadowski is pacing the Hens in the scoring department with a grand total of nine double deckers and two foul conversions for 20 points in the two games played to date. He is closely followed by Freddy Mitchell who has hung up eight field goals and the same number of fouls for 18 points, while Carty Douglass has dropped seven action shots and two conversions for 16 points. Other point scorers who have contributed to the team's 87-point total are: George Barlow, 14; Capt. Bill Gerow, 13; Benny Crescenzi, 3; Howard Jarvis, 2, and Lew Selby, 1.

Coach Ed Bardo's mermen, victorious in their only start against West Chester.

With Charlie Weldin, Jacket forward, pacing the field, the Newark High School basketball team chalked up its first victory of the season Monday night in the local gymnasium, a 26-12 triumph over Conrad.

Weldin accounted for three action shots and seven penalty conversions to chalk up 13 points.

The locals took the lead at the start and after leading 7-5 at the quarter, boosted the margin to 13-8 at the intermission. Continuing to outshoot their opponents, the Jackets score eight points to the Redskins' four in the third period, and climaxed their conquest with five points in the finale while the invaders were held scoreless. In the preliminary engagement, the Newark Reserves turnd back Conrad's substitutes by a 23-13 count.

DEFENSE COURSE IS OPENED AT UNIVERSITY

The first course to be offered by the wiversity of Delaware under the $9,000,000 appropriation for National Defense Education under the United States Office of Education was started on Tuesday, it was announced by Dean Robert L. Spencer, head of the university's school of engineering.

This course in motion and time analysis, is the study of the basic theory behind modern methods of mass production, especially in the assembly of small parts. It is these production methods which have placed the United States in the lead in American industry. The modern assembly line is one of the applications of the fundamental theories developed in this study.

The purpose of the motion and time analysis course is to provide training suitable for engineers, foremen, and supervisors in plants manufacturing or assembling small equipment by modern production methods. The course be distinctly on an engineering college level and men who can not meet these admission requirements will not be admitted to the course.

The instruction will consist of 32 hours of lecture and recitation, 48 hours of lecture and recitation, 48 hours of preparation. The textbook to be used is "Time and Motion Study" by Barnes. This course is identical with that now offered to junior and senior engineering students in the school of engineering. Instruction will be given on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7:15 to 9:45 for 16 weeks.

The instructor in charge of the course is Dr. D. U. Greenwald, who holds the degrees of B. A. from Grinnell College, M. A. from Iowa State College, Ph. D., from Iowa State College, and B. S. in M. E. from Iowa State College, and experience in this field. Dr. Greenwald is now employed as instructor in the school of engineering of the university in charge of the courses in industrial management.

L. A. STEARNS ADDRESSES GROWERS

At the recent meeting of the New Jersey State Horticultural Society, Dr. L. A. Stearns, entomologist for the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service, told Jersey orchardists that control of the first brood is needed to stamp out truit losses caused by the codling moth, No. 1 pest of apple orchards.

The present Delaware orchard spraying program is based on codling moth activity facts compiled by Stearns and his co-workers at the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station. A petalfall spray and seven cover sprays are included in the program. Four of the seven cover sprays are for control of the first codling moth brood while the last three are designed to reduce second brood fruit injury.

Marshallton, Jan. 8—Winter activities are quest from the Town Commissioners of Bellefonte that two copies of the Boy Scout Troop No. 53 at St. Barnabas P. E. Church were outlined at the meeting of the troop Wednesday increased from three to four pounds for each 100 gallons of spray. Either a spreader and sticker or a summer oil is added to the more-important, first brood sprays.

In many Delaware orchards, there is usually need for doing other things besides spraying to be sure that coding moth damage is held in check. Among these supplemental practices are scraping and banding of trees, storage of infested containers, tightly closing packing houses where the peats might be overwintering and destruction of wormy drop and cull fruit.

Since effective methods for the protection of apples against the ruinous attacks of codling moth have been worked out, Dr. Stearns suggest that every grower use the recommended practices in a way that will meet the particular requirements for pest control in his orchard.

TREATMENT SUGGESTED

Roaches are called waterbugs by omemakers and are pests in the home in winter as well as summer. They may be seen around the kitchen sinks or scurrying across the kitchen or batter from floor when the lights are snapped on. These pests can be easily and cheaply removed from the home. Water-bugs remain in cracks and crevices or in other dark places during the day but come out at night to feed on crumbs left on the floor and to get water in and about the kitchen drain.

"The unsightly roaches are easy to control with a little effort," says John M. Amos, assistant entomologist for the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service of the University of Delaware. "The poison recommended for use be seen around the kitchen sinks of

"The poison recommended for use against roaches or waterbugs is sodium against roaches or waterbugs is sodium through which can be obtained from the drug store for about 40 cents a pound. Usually a pound of sodium sodium fluoride is more than enough for several treatments of the average roach infestation found in any house. The material is a white powder and is dusted lightly into all cracks and crevices where the insects are known to occur. If the dust is put out too thickly like insects are repelled. They do not walk through the poison and get it on their bodies. Contact of the poison and insect must take place if the pests are their bodies. Contact of the poison and insect must take place if the pests are going to be killed. A small, convenient duster can be obtained from the five and ten cent store which has a small spout suitable for directing the poison into the hiding places of the so-called waterbugs."

Amos urges care when handling sodium flouride. He says it's best to keep it in a labeled container and out of the reach of children, irresponsible persons and pets.

The roach treatment should be re-peated once or twice at three-week in-tervals to kill the young that hatch from eggs

COVER all water pipes exposed to freezing temperature.

When located in an unheated cellar, porch, garage, etc., effective protection is provided by a commercial covering made of a layer of hair felt and a layer of wool felt. In severe climates where extended periods of below zero temperature is common use double thickness, staggering the joints and seams to assure a tight covering.

Such covering is obtainable in three foot lengths, split along one side to fit around pipe. Metal bands are used to fasten securely.

When exposed to weather, bind a jacket of roofing paper around the wool-felt covering with copper wire. Sink underground pipes below the frost line to climinate danger of freezing. Required depths will vary as to climate and location.

Q: Which way will I get the best extent was to climate and location.

freezing. Required depths will vary as to climate and location.

Q: Which way will I get the best exterior paint, by mixing the ingredients on the job or by purchasing it ready-mixed?

A: Since highest quality exterior paint, whether mixed on the job or purchased ready-mixed, must contain fundamentally the same basic ingredients, both types should prove equally effective.

However, by mixing paint on the job from paste, white lead there is limittees latitude as to its formulation. It is a simple matter to vary standard formulas to meet local climatic or environmental conditions, producing paint particularly suited for each coat on any surface. Besides, paste white lead and linseed oil, when reduced to painting consistency, costs roughly but $2.40 per gal, which is a substantial saving over other paint approaching it in service and durability.

Q: Suggest method for mending approaching it in service and dura-bility.

Q: Suggest method for mending, cracks in iron stove caring.

A: Fill cracks with cement made by mixing iron fillings and water glass, using anticent filling to form a thick parte. Stove heat hardens cement, providing firm joint.
