Chicago Bridge and Iron Co.	$14,480
American Bridge Co.	21,188
Bravo Contracting Co.	21,850
Pittet & Wood.	16,990

Ludlow Valve Co., $60 for 10 in.; $76 for 12 in.
Kennedy Valve Co., $66.75 for 10 in.; $82.75 for 12 in.

Because of the specified weight and other stipulations in the bid of R. D. Wood and Co., it was considered the best and on advice of Engineer Hartman the contract was awarded to them.

U. S. Cast Iron Co., $77.50.
John Fox & Co., $87.00.

NEWARK TRUST COMPANY ROUNDS OUT 15 YEARS OF SERVICE

Declares Semi-Annual Dividend of 15%. Re-elects Board of Directors

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Newark Trust Company held last Monday morning marked the close of a remarkable period of growth covering 15 years since the establishment of the institution. By a curious coincidence the Company declared a dividend of 15 per cent for the six months just closing. A dividend of 10 per cent was declared for the previous six months ending December 31, making a total of 25 per cent for the year—a record equalled by no other bank outside of Wilmington and by only one in that city.

It was decided to continue the liberal policy of paying 2 per cent interest on checking accounts and 4 per cent on savings. No charge is made for handling small accounts.

This company started in business 15 years ago with a capital of only $30,000 and at the present time has resources of nearly $1,000,000. An attractive booklet done in two colors has just been issued by the company showing graphically the growth of the Company since its establishment in 1905. One significant item in that statement is that the undivided profits the first year were $523.11, while this year they were $79,794.50.

At Monday's meeting the following directors were named:

Arthur L. Beals, J. Irvin Dayett, Charles B. Evans, John K. Johnston, H. G. M. Kollock, John Nivin, George W. Rhodes, David C. Rose, Warren A. Singles, Walt H. Steel, Norris N. Wright.

Reorganization was effected immediately by re-electing all of the officers as follows:

President, Charles B. Evans; Vice President, Henry G. M. Kollock; Treasurer, Warren A. Singles; Secretary, David C. Rose; Trust Officer, Russell H. Morris.

MANY ASSEMBLE TO HONOR SERVICE MEN OF THIS VICINITY

STATE MEDALS AWARDED WITH IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY

Music by Continental Band, Speeches, Songs by Rehabilitation Division, Constitute Varied Program

In numbers greater than the seating capacity of the Armory could accommodate, the residents of Newark and vicinity assembled at that place last night to do honor to the service men of this vicinity who were presented with the State medals awarded to them by legislative action. Through an unfortunate circumstance the list of those entitled to these medals was lost and many whom the State thus desired to honor were omitted from the tentative list made up from the records then available. The situation was further complicated by the fact that many from this neighborhood who did valiant service enlisted and registered in other places and were therefore not on the local lists.

Every effort was made by the committee, however, to see that every service man should receive a medal. To that end a number of medals in blank were provided and an earnest appeal made that all persons who know of such omissions notify Representative W. D. Dean or the members of the American Legion in order that justice may be done.

Preceding the regular program the Continental Band grouped on the steps of the Armory, played

READINGS AND SACRED CONCERT DELIGHT AUDIENCES

Many Hear Philadelphia Artists and Enjoy Interpretations of Literature

With the reading last evening of "Peer Gynt," from Henrik Ibsen, Mrs. Salo Friedewald closed a series of five readings from modern literature which the townspeople as well as the Summer School students were privileged to hear. All who had heard Mrs. Friedewald last year and others in increasing numbers each evening heard with delight her masterly interpretation of the varied selections chosen.

The whimsical humor and pathos of "The Heart of an Orphan" by Amanda Matthews on Saturday evening; the sublime spiritual significance of "The Travelling Man" by Lady Gregory, which constituted the strongest kind of a sermon, on Sunday evening; the subtle humor and keen psychology of "What Every Woman Knows," by James Barrie on Monday were all set forth with consummate art of speech and gesture and with lucid, clever, explanatory comment.

From the reading of the first selection on Friday evening, Alfred Noyes' "Sherwood," a romantic drama of the time of Robin Hood and Richard the Lion-Hearted, until the climax last night in Peer Gynt, a rare treat has been afforded those fortunate enough to hear Mrs. Friedewald and a greater appreciation of the good things in modern literature instilled into the minds of her hearers.

Wolf Hall was crowded on Sunday evening for the first sacred concert which was also a community service since all of the churches have agreed to join with the Summer School for evening worship.

The artists, Henry Hotz, basso; Elizabeth Porter Earle, soprano; and Arline Smith, accompanist, of Philadelphia, presented a program consisting of a duet, "Jesus, Thou Joy of Loving Hearts," by Goetze; basso solo, "Now Heaven in Fullst Glory Shone," from Haydn's Creation; soprano solo, "With Verdure Clad," also from The Creation; and a duet, "Jesus, Gentlest Savior," Saint Saens.

The program closed with congregational singing, "Softly Now the Light of Day," for which Miss Gladys Pratt was accompanist.

TELEPHONE OFFICIALS AND PATRONS HAVE CONFERENCE

Former Explain Unsatisfactory Service and Promise Improvement

At the earnest solicitation of S. J. Wright, president of the Continental Fibre Company, following a complaint to the Wilmington office of the Diamond State Telephone Company of poor service here, E. P. Bardo, District Manager, and H. R. Burns, Traffic Superintendent, came here on Monday for a conference with the business people of the town.

This conference was held at the office of the Continental Fibre Company and was attended by S. J. Wright, representing that company; J. Irvin Durnall for the American Vulcanized Company, A. L. Beals, for Curtis and Bro., Inc.; Warren A. Singles, for the Newark Trust Co.; J. Earle Dougherty for the Farmers Trust Co., and George Griffin for the people of the town.

The local representatives presented their complaints and received a courteous hearing from the officials who made no effort to deny the accusations concerning poor service here. They explained however, that several reasons were responsible for these conditions which they were well aware are unsatisfactory. The recent resignation of a very competent chief operator and the inability to secure a satisfactory successor until this week; the unsettled condition of affairs at the exchange where at the present time new switchboards are being installed; the lack of a sufficient number of cables to care for the volume of business done here; and the inability until recently to find a satisfactory night operator, were chief among the reasons given by these men, who explained in detail the efforts made by the Company to better conditions here. The unsatisfactory service between Newark and Wilmington was attributed to the fact that between Newport and Stanton the wires are impeded by shade trees which the owners will not permit the company to trim. Difficulty in procuring equipment has hitherto prevented the covering of these wires, but this will be speedily done, they declared.

They have adopted the policy of giving over the work of night operator to girls instead of men, who have not proved entirely satisfactory. A chaplain will be provided and Mrs. A. E. Maxwell has been secured for that position. A new chief operator has also been appointed, an efficient executive from Chestertown, Md., who goes on duty next week. Various plans for the improvement of the service were amicably discussed and the difficulties experienced by both the patrons and the Company talked over freely and frankly. With the projected improvements the service should be much better within the next month.

"STUFF THAT COUNTS"

The test of a man is the fight he makes,
The grit that he daily shows;
The way he stands on his feet and takes
Fate's numerous bumps and blows.
A coward can smile when there's naught to fear,
When nothing his progress bars,
But it takes a man to stand up and cheer
While some other fellow stars.
It isn't the victory after all
But the fight that a brother makes;
The man, who, driven against the wall,
Still stands up erect and takes
The blows of fate with his head held high,
Bleeding, and bruised, and pale,
Is the man who'll win in the by and by
For he isn't afraid to fail.
It's the bumps you get, and the jolts you get,
And the shocks that your courage stands,
The hours of sorrow and vain regret,
The prize that escapes your hands,
That test your mettle and prove your worth;
It isn't the blows you deal,
But the blows you take on the good old earth
That shows if your stuff is real.

For The Homemaker's Eye

Personal Attention to Marketing Necessary

These days when everything is so expensive housewives should endeavor to do their own marketing. Although it may be both troublesome and inconvenient to do so, the manifold advantages secured should afford ample compensation. The price of many perishable articles of food is largely influenced by the daily supply and those who go to the store or market are likely to have a fall in the market prices brought to their notice. In purchasing perishable food or something one dislikes a repetition of the temptations to buy too liberally because it happens to be unusually cheap must be resisted. Then it is well to remember variety is an important factor in the daily fare. And with an ever increasing supply of fresh and preserved vegetables and fruit and aided by a collection of recipes monotony may be avoided.

The care of purchased food after wise selection must also be taken into consideration as an important part in the cost of living. It must be taken care of immediately on its delivery, stored in proper receptacles and placed where it will keep best.

Eggs should be washed with a dampened cloth before putting them in the refrigerator; the same applies to milk and cream bottles. Egg shells are porous and if not clean on the outside any bacteria there may enter and cause rapid spoiling of the egg. Fruit should be wiped dry and kept in a cool, dry place. Salad greens and vegetables should be carefully washed and picked over. The coarse parts should be used immediately for soup or flavoring sauces. After being thoroughly cleaned they should be wrapped in cheese cloth and kept in the refrigerator. Meat, poultry and fish should be removed from the wrapping immediately, as paper absorbs the juices of the meat. Fish or other food with a strong odor should be kept in a covered dish that the odor may not affect other foods. Bread should be kept in a covered box and separate from cake. Flour should be kept in a covered tin or crock, that when empty should be washed, scalded and dried in the sun if possible. Cereal should be taken care of in a like manner. Butter absorbs all foreign odors, therefore it should be kept in a separate compartment in the refrigerator.

In using canned goods contents cans should be emptied as soon as opened. Many buy goods by the name of the food only rather than by the name of a guaranteed brand. Every household should have a list of goods that have been analyzed and pronounced pure by a recognized specialist on the subject.

The law permits the use of preservatives and artificial coloring. This leaves the right of selection in the hands of the housewife.

Scalloped Macaroni

Cook a quarter of a pound of macaroni in equal parts of milk and water and add a slice of onion and two whole cloves. When tender drain, rinse with cold water and drain again. Cut into small pieces and mix with four ounces of grated cheese, salt and paprika to taste and two tablespoons of melted oleo. Have ready four large scallop shells, brush with melted shortening and pour into each two tablespoons of thick tomato puree (canned tomato soup is excellent). Add the macaroni, cover with buttered crumbs and brown in a quick oven.

Sour Milk Biscuits

Sift two cups of flour, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt and one-half of a teaspoonful of soda together and rub in one tablespoonful of butter. Add a cupful of thick sour milk and drop the dough in spoonfuls in greased muffin tins. Bake 20 minutes.

Hot Cabbage Salad

One quart of finely shaved cabbage, two tablespoonfuls of bacon or pork fat, two large sliced onions minced very fine, one teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper, one half cupful of vinegar, one teaspoonful of sugar. Fry onion in fat until it becomes yellow; then add other ingredients. Pour the hot mixture on the cabbage. Stir well. Serve at once.

Vegetable Pie

In the bottom of a deep pie pan place a layer of sliced tomatoes, either fresh or canned, add chopped parsley, a little minced onion and a layer of sliced cucumbers. Sprinkle with sugar, pepper and salt. Over the top spread a layer of mashed potatoes, seasoned with salt and pepper and butter. On top of the potato layer sprinkle grated cheese and let bake until it is nicely browned.

Caramel Mousse

Two cups sugar, three eggs, one quart milk, one pint cream. Melt the sugar in drying pan; stir until melted. Add cup hot water; simmer till dissolved. Scald the milk; pour hot milk on the well-beaten eggs, add melted sugar and cook in double boiler till smooth, stirring constantly. When cool whip the cream, pour in custard little at a time; stir well. Freeze like ice cream.

Maple Mousse

Beat the yolks of four eggs and add one cup maple syrup and boil about three minutes. Then add when cold one pint of whipped cream and lastly add the whites beaten stiff. Pack in ice and salt three or four hours before serving.

Graham Cookies

One cup rich sour cream; one-quarter cup white sugar; one teaspoon soda; one teaspoon salt; no flavoring. Use one cup white flour, add graham flour until stiff as cake. Drop from spoon into baking tins. This should be rich, and soft enough to spread, and should be tender when baked.

Success and Smiling Not Always Associated

It is possible to frown too much, and it is possible to smile too much. Admirable telephone advertising has impressed upon people's minds the truth, "The voice with the smile wins." It wins some things, not everything. And the constant repetition of the phrase might cause too much concentration on smiling.

While a man smiles he does not think. If you will smile now, automatically, and then try to think of something serious, you will find that instantly you must get rid of the smile before you can do any thinking.

Smiling takes the place of thinking, just as wagging the tail with a dog takes the place of watchfulness. No good watchdog wags his tail for a burglar.

It is not difficult to guess why the smiling face is always welcome.

If a man is not thinking he cannot be planning mischief.

When he is smiling you know that he is not thinking. He is simply in a pleasant frame of mind.

In the ancient days, when a stranger's arrival might mean a pleasant visit or an attempt to kill, the first thing was to study the face.

If it was a face with the jaw set, an earnest look, and deep lines over the eyes, look out, there might be trouble.

But if it was a smiling face, with the muscles around the mouth relaxed, everything was all right—barring hypocrisy. We always know that we can get the better of a person that does not think. The smile indicates absence of thinking, therefore the smiling face, with no plot behind it, was welcome.

Be as cheerful as circumstances will permit. Smile if you can when you see others, but don't imagine that the smile is the most dignified expression of the face; far from it.

Caesar was not smiling when he crossed the Rubicon. His face won, but it wasn't "a face with a smile." And Washington wasn't smiling when he crossed the Delaware through the ice. He also won. And Newton was not smiling when he worked out the long series of calculations that established the truth of the theory of gravitation.

The face with the smile is pleasant to look at, but if you study in their odd moments the men that have really won in a big way you will find usually a pretty serious expression on their faces.

Success and smiling go together a certain distance, but not all the way.

The "Joy Venders" of the World

A shabby Italian stood in the narrow street of the tenement house district of a large city. He had a wheezy organ from which came forth unmelodious notes to which the children skipped about on the pavement. He had what pleased the children still more, a grotesque little monkey wearing a tiny velvet jacket with bells on it. The monkey had a velvet cap and faded green silk trousers. It had a leather collar to which was attached a long length of chain that kept it from going any farther than its master wanted it to go. It carried a tiny cup which it held out for pennies, and it performed little tricks that made the children laugh and shout. Happiness was in the very air of the narrow street. A friend who was with me said:

"He is one of the joy-venders of the world—isn't he?"

I had never thought of an organ-grinder and monkey in that light before, but when I came to think of it, it seemed to me that it was a good name for both the man and the monkey. They gave joy to the children and left a trail of merriment behind them.

On a corner farther down another Italian stood with a great cluster of balloons in the gayest of colors that seemed struggling to escape from the control of their owner. He was a vender of gay spheres of joy and therefore served a good purpose in the world.

I heard it said of a woman recently, "You begin to smile as soon as Annie appears, and she is sure to set you to laughing if she stays very long."

Here was another of the joy-venders of the world. "Makers of joy rather than pain."—Exchange.

"Let George Do It!"

From Massachusetts, the self claimed seat of American culture, comes the interesting news that a fourteen-year-old boy has captured the prize in the bread-making contest held at one of the country fairs. Equally interesting addenda gives the information that he also did seventy-six hours of housework and used another forty-eight hours in doing errands for his mother.

Some fortunate girl will sooner or later capture this paragon of domesticity. His mother is indeed developing a treasure for some young person whose ambition may possibly lie rather along the lines of political endeavor than housework. The encouraging part of it is that with servants almost impossible to obtain and equally impossible in demeanor when once secured, and with so large a proportion of the women taking a superlative interest in national and State affairs, there will still be some one left to see that the family is fed.

"Let George do it," is coming to have an uncanny significance. At all events, there is one "George" in Massachusetts who seems to know how.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Danforth Bush, chairman of the State committee on reorganization.

Handsome Is That Handsome Does

The old fashioned maxim holds good in the world of furniture as well as that of men, and solid worth is what counts in the long run. But there is no reason for sacrificing beauty to worth when the two can be combined.

The furniture we sell proves this to be true. Constructed on the best and most durable lines, it not only proclaims from every curve that it is handsome, but will verify its claims by doing handsomely.

It is the great test of the good furniture maker to produce pieces which combine lightness and delicacy of design with solidity and durability. Our furniture is made by masters of the trade.

We should be delighted to show you our stock at any time.

Mothers' Column

Twenty-second article of series for Mother's Column contributed by the Medical Consultant of the State Reconstruction Commission, submitted by the Commission through the Clearing House of the Delaware State Program.

Constipation

Constipation is one of the commonest ills of childhood and while it may at times be one of the easiest to overcome, there are cases in which it will be found most difficult to cure. It is caused practically every instance by some fault of the diet. There are a great many other causes, such as pro-lapse of the rectum, impacted feces and so forth, but these are few compared to the number arising from dietary causes. The breast fed baby normally has from one to four stools a day depending upon the quality of the milk. The milk of some mothers contains a high percentage of fat, which causes more frequent stools. The movement should not be difficult nor cause straining, but should be soft and yellow. If it is hard and formed the baby is constipated.

The cause of this in the breast-fed baby is usually to be found in the mother. She may be constipated or may not take sufficient exercise. Excessive tea drinking is often the cause. If none of these commoner causes are found, her milk should be examined. It may be that it contains too much protein, or may be lacking in fat. In this case her diet must be regulated. Medicines should be avoided as much as possible. Small doses of milk of magnesia are very good, or a teaspoonful of olive oil, orange juice or prune juice.

Cow's milk is more apt to produce constipation than human milk, and should be carefully made up so that the percentages are as near that of human milk as is possible. It contains a higher percentage of protein, which, as I have said above, is constipating, and also a lower percentage of sugar. For this reason formulas are made up which consist of diluted cow's milk with added sugar. Oftentimes lime water is added to increase the alkalinity of the milk, and this may cause constipation. In some cases the form of sugar used, oftentimes cane sugar, may cause it, in which event the sugar should be changed to lactose or dextro-maltose. Boiled cow's milk often produces it, and this can be averted by using clean raw milk, or by using the mild laxatives above mentioned if boiled milk must be used to assure safety. The addition of cream to the formula may sometimes cure the constipation. However, none of these changes should ever be made in the baby's formula without the advice of a physician who is well-trained in infant feeding. No mother should ever change her babies' formulas in any way without such advice.

In some cases where the constipation is obstinate, it may be found necessary to employ more drastic measures than those described above. In these cases a small dose of castor oil or extract of cascara may be given. Enemas of soap suds and warm water are most effective if rapid evacuation of the bowels is desired. All children should be trained early to evacuate their bowels daily, and it is surprising at what an early age this habit can be formed. Merely put the child upon the stool every day at a certain time and it will soon be found that he will wait for this time to come and not soil the diaper.

Think the Best of Everybody

It is better to think the best of everybody till we are forced to change our opinions. To live in a world where everyone was worthless would be about the worst fate imaginable, but suspicious people very often make just such a world for themselves. If we take it for granted that everyone is a fraud, till the contrary is proved, we are as bad off, practically, as if we were spending our existence on a planet peopled by the unworthy. Better to be deceived into thinking the world better than it is, than to make the fatal mistake of thinking ill of others when they do not deserve it.

If you are not ready for something more than you are doing opportunity might as well take a nap, so far as you are concerned. The people who grumble over their lack of chances are generally those who lack preparation. To be ready for a big thing, is an invitation to opportunity.

Why Black Cats Are Accounted Lucky

Why have black cats nearly always been accounted lucky? Ireland is by no means the only place where superstitions about black cats are or were rife. In Egypt cats were regarded with great reverence. Archaeologists have found them in tombs of kings and princes. Australians have a curious legend about cats. Mityaro, the moon, they say, was a native cat who fell in love with some one else's wife and was driven away to wander ever since. To them a cat, black, gray or white, prophesies only bad luck. In Japan and China a black cat is regarded as an extremely dangerous demon, often possessing as many as two or three forked tails and having the power to change itself into an old woman. The Chinese believe if a cat leaps on or walks over a corpse it will cause the corpse to rise up at once. Any person passing through the room would be in danger of being seized by the corpse when in that state and would be killed immediately. In Egypt, according to ancient writings of Herodotus, if a cat died in a private house by a natural death all the inmates of the house were obliged to shave their eyebrows.

"A POCKETFUL OF SUNSHINE"

A pocketful of sunshine
Is better far than gold;
It drowns the daily sorrows
Of the young and of the old;
It fills the world with pleasure,
In field, and lane, and street,
And brightens every prospect
Of the mortals that we meet.

A pocketful of sunshine,
Can make the world akin,
And lift a load of sorrow
From the burdened backs of sin,
Diffusing light and knowledge
Through the thorny paths of life
It gilds with silver lining,
The stormy clouds of strife.

First New Wheat Brings $4 a Bushel

The record price of $4 a bushel was obtained Wednesday on the floor of the Chamber of Commerce for the first new wheat to reach Baltimore. The receipts, however, were of exceptionally fine quality and had been well handled by the grower.

There usually is some competition among grain dealers to buy the first new wheat. It is a matter of sentiment with them, and as the supply generally is small it brings a somewhat artificial price. Therefore the price for this lot is not taken as an indication of what the average receipts will sell for when they begin to arrive more freely.

It is anticipated, however, that good prices will be paid throughout the crop season.

Every indication points to the heaviest yield of wheat around Middletown in many years, and the quality seems to be good. Some of those who have examined the heads closely are of the opinion that many of the fields will produce 35 bushels per acre, which is an exceptionally heavy crop. Threshing began this week.

"THINK IT OVER!"

If you think you are beaten, you are,
If you think that you dare not, you don't.
If you like to win, but you think you can't,
It's almost a "cinch" you won't.
If you think you'll lose, you've lost,
For out in the world you find
Success begins with a fellow's will,
It's all in the state of mind.

Full many a race is lost
Ere even a step is run,
And many a coward falls
Ere even his work's begun.
Think big, and your deeds will grow,
Think small, and you'll fall behind.
Think that you can, and you will;
It's all in the state of mind.

If you think you're outclassed, you are,
You've got to think high to rise;
You've got to be sure of yourself before
You can ever win a prize.
Life's battles don't always go
To the stronger or faster man;
But soon or late the man who wins
Is the fellow who thinks he can.

FORMER NEWARK YOUTH SIGNAL HONOR

Harold Cook to Represent Boy Scouts in International Conference

The following article taken from the Sunday Times of New Brunswick, New Jersey, tells of the signal honor won by Harold T. Cook, 16 year old son of Melville T. Cook, formerly plant pathologist at the Delaware College Experiment station. Dr. Cook has now a similar position with the New Jersey Agricultural Station at New Brunswick. The older son, Harvey, is in college and during the summer vacation is doing reportorial work for The Elizabeth Journal. This young man is also an Eagle Scout.

The Times states:
"Harold T. Cook, son of Dr. Melville T. Cook, of Livingston Manor, has been signally honored, having been adjudged the best boy scout to represent this city in the International Exhibition at London. He leaves Hoboken on the U. S. Army Transport, the 'Pocahontas' the morning of Tuesday, July 6th, together with 310 others, represent the best young manhood in Boy Scoutdom in America.

"The award came as a surprise to the recipient, for until a private subscription to meet the expense of the trip was raised, it was not the intention of the New Brunswick Council to send a representative. But business and professional men of the city believing that Cook's standing as an Eagle Scout, the highest standard obtainable by a boy scout, should not go unrewarded, and patriotically came forward with the needed funds to finance the tour. So the finances of the New Brunswick Council will not be touched.

"Young Cook, not knowing of that which was in store for him, made no preparation to earn the honor. The 'chosen three hundred' who will represent America gathered at Fort Hamilton on Friday, where they will remain until embarkation. The Pocahontas, which will take the boys across the Atlantic, will also carry some of the athletes who will fly the Stars and Stripes in the Olympic games at Antwerp, Belgium. Tomorrow morning (Independence Day) the scouts will participate in a parade in New York City.

"Cook and his fortunate associates will be gone six weeks. The greater part of the time will be spent in London, the most interesting city in the world, not even excluding Paris and Vienna, and while there, the American youths will visit many noted places including Westminster Abbey, the Tower, House of Parliament and St. Paul's Cathedral.

"Historic France will not be overlooked, and while in that country, the scouts will be the guests of the government. The battlefields will be visited as well as the American cemeteries at Romagne, Belleau Wood and St. Mihiel. If possible an opportunity will be given each scout to visit the graves of fallen heroes from his home town.

"While in London, the American visitors will camp at Haver Castle, Kent, the famous country estate of Lady Astor, the first woman to be elected to the House of Commons. The scouts are gathering on the invitation of the British Scouts and the Prince of Wales.

"The tour, which will last six weeks, will be most interesting and instructive and is the result of devotion to scoutcraft. Cook has been a close student of this interesting work enabling him to become an Eagle Scout, a distinction conferred on only 5 other New Brunswickers.

"The Denver boy scout band of fifty pieces will accompany the fortunate 310.

Some of the workmen on the new Christian church buildings were complimenting Rev. Brink on his ability to help out in about any place necessary. He gracefully admitted that he was a pretty handy man, but said his skill was nothing compared to that of a stone cutter he once knew. The curious part of it was that the mason was a nigger who had only one arm.

"How does he manage it if he has only one arm?" questioned one of the men.

"Why," said Brink, "he holds his chisel between his teeth and hits himself behind the head with the hammer."—Winamac (Ind.) Democrat.

Nazimova's Taste in Dress Simple

Despite the fact that she wears the most luxurious and gorgeous costumes when appearing in her screen productions, Nazimova in private life wears the most common-sense dresses she can obtain. The great Russian actress, now appearing in "The Heart of a Child," a picturization of Frank Danby's novel, in her own household is the most model of sensible and economic dressers.

"Of course," she replied once to the question, "I like to dress my parts as they should be dressed. Off the stage I do not care for them. I generally black, and the plainest, least expensive things."

Nazimova finds her recreation and relaxation from the strenuous work before the camera each day in music. On an evening after a particularly tiring day at her studios she will take her violin and play over some of the great Russian folk melodies of which she is particularly fond. Nazimova is an amateur violinist of no mean ability.

The rugged country of the West, with its vast stretches of open plains and its magnificent snow-capped mountain ranges, has appealed strongly to Nazimova because, as she confesses, it reminds her of her own native land of Russia. She has even bought a large estate at Laurel Canyon, near Los Angeles. But though the West reminds her of Russia she has no great desire to return to her native country.

The speed with which Nazimova who is appearing in "The Heart of a Child," mastered the English language is a remarkable sidelight on her character and a sensational record of its kind. When she arrived in this country in 1905 she knew but three English words.

When she remained here contracts were offered her if she would learn English. She undertook the task immediately, and within five months' time she did this with the instruction of a tutor who worked with her for four hours a day.

Tom Mix's Pony Well-Trained

"Tony," Tom Mix's famous pony, is considered the best trained animal on the screen. The cowboy star, whose latest Fox production, "The Daredevil," is full of daring feats, says that "Tony" always does the right thing at the right time. "And that's more than most men do," added Mix.

A prosperous farmer has gained the reputation of being the stingiest man in his town and consequently is not a general favorite with his neighbors.

He owns an old horse which, to put it mildly, is very thin. As if to make up for lack of flesh on its body, however, the animal has a head many sizes too large. The other week he went to the expense of a new collar for the animal. A few minutes after the delivery he was back at the saddler's with the collar.

"Don't you know nothin'?" he blurted out. "You've made it too small. I can't get it over his head!"

"Over his head?" replied the saddler. "Man alive, it wasn't made to go over his head. Back him into it!"—Chicago Daily News.

Pastor Is Welcomed Back By the Fold

Rev. Walter Clyde, pastor of Head of Christiana church has returned after a five weeks' trip through the middle West where he has been visiting friends and relatives in Iowa, Minnesota and elsewhere. He reports that the farmers in the middle West are elated over the prospects for the largest crops in years. Farm help there, as elsewhere, is scarce and is obtainable only upon payment of $100 per month and board with Saturday half holidays. Many eastern college students are among those who are taking advantage of this opportunity to make money during vacation time.

Upon Mr. Clyde's return, a number of his parishioners gathered at the Manse to welcome him back. A very enjoyable evening was spent and much pleasure expressed that the pastor had returned and will fill the pulpit next Sunday.

Services will be held at the usual time—Sabbath School at 10 o'clock and public worship at 11.

BEWARE OF "MOTOR MADNESS"

Reckless Driving and Joy Riding Exact Appalling Toll of Life

The summer season of motor tragedies has opened in record-breaking fashion. In New York City, which largely sets the pace for the whole country, the number of tragedies on the road show an increase over last year of more than 26 per cent. In the month of June, 1919, fifty-seven persons were killed by motor vehicles on the streets of that city. That was an appalling and most discreditable record. But this year, in the first twenty-five days of the month, no fewer than seventy-two lives were thus lost. At that rate we hesitate how many such tragedies occur in the whole United States during the year.

A writer in a British automobile journal has recently described the United States as "motor mad," and it is impossible to escape pleading guilty to the indictment, though not perhaps in the way in which he meant it. His reference was to the vast number of cars in use, and indeed in that circumstance there are not lacking indications of insanity. There is far more truth than poetry in the tales of families mortgaging their homes in order to buy cars. Many who never felt themselves peculiarly able to keep horses and carriages now drive about in cars. Partly because of a desire to "keep up with the neighbors" and partly because of the strong fascination that there is in motoring, they run themselves into debt for the sake of what is really a luxury. This is no doubt a serious evil.

But the motor madness which we have in mind is far worse. We mean the madness of reckless driving, to which we venture to say 90 per cent of the accidents are due. This is of two kinds, the merely foolish and the wantonly criminal. Of the former a striking example was exhibited in New York the other day, when a family went out driving in a high-powered car, and one of the children, a girl of fifteen, entirely inexperienced, was permitted to sit at the wheel and drive. The natural result was the demolition of the car, the killing of the girl driver, and the serious, if not fatal, injuring of two other members of the party. The incredible folly of such a performance is patent to all after the event. But it is repeated many times every day, and is responsible for many tragedies of the road.

On the same day, in the same city, a hilarious gang of "joy-riders" in a big, swift, heavy car ran into a smaller car and killed its two occupants, and then hastened away, with number-plate concealed or removed to avoid detection. Ingenuity would be taxed to devise an excuse for such conduct that would not leave the perpetrators under the imputation of wanton and even intentional criminality, amply deserving the extreme penalty of the law. And there is no error in saying that a large proportion of the fatalities reported in the daily news can be attributed to such conduct, or conduct differing from that in degree only and not in kind.

Fools and criminals we shall doubtless always have with us. But that is a reason why their folly and their crime should enjoy immunity. In other matters of far less importance we are strict and severe. But there seems to be a strange laxity and indifference toward these outrages on the public highway. Two or three deaths a day from bubonic plague would throw a city into a panic, and emergency action of a stringent kind would be taken. But that number of automobile butchers is passed over as a negligible trifle, or as a matter of course. There is a motor madness of folly and crime in the perpetration of the tragedies. There seems also to be a motor madness of indifference if not of actual condonation of doings which should rouse government and public to swift, stern action. It is monstrous that the avenues of the nation's metropolis and the public highways generally should be infested with perils greater than those of old on Hounslow Heath.—Exchange.

Students and Faculty Establish Self Government

The Self-Government Association of the Summer School affected permanent organization on Friday by electing the following officers: President, Miss Roberta Burton; vice president, Mr. Paul Judy; secretary, Mrs. Sarah Whiteman; treasurer, Miss Eugenia Brown. The officers with Miss S. Catherine Johns, Alice Roop, Mary Fillingham and Mary C. Hoey constitute the executive board of the Association, which will name at once committees on Entertainment, Dormitories, Dining Room and Ushers.

Miss Lotta Clark, director of social activities and instructor in Community Civics, presided at the meeting and announced that the faculty of the Summer School will be governed this year by the same regulations that control the activities of the students.

The social committee planned a party which was held at Warner Hall after the reading on Saturday evening. Dancing and games constituted the entertainment.

Veterans of Foreign Wars Form Post Here

On Wednesday evening of last week there was established here a post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, an organization which has been in existence for about 20 years, but for which few men have been eligible until the recent world conflict. The purpose as stated is to promote and maintain fellowship between those who have shared kindred experiences in foreign lands. It is not, according to the Commander, antagonistic to the American Legion, as many are disposed to believe, but stands for the same high ideals, the same sturdy Americanism. Almost 90 per cent of the members of this organization are also members of the American Legion.

With a display of great enthusiasm, which was heightened by the spirited playing of patriotic selections by the Minnehaha Band, the Post was organized with the following officers:

Commander, Benjamin F. Harris. Senior Vice Commander, J. H. Hurley.

Adjutant, R. H. Pierce.

Quartermaster, G. Michaels.

Chief of Staff, Daniel A. Yates, assisted by Mr. Lang, a veteran of the Spanish American War, officiated.

"This action gives Newark the honor of being the first town in the State to have a Post of this patriotic American organization," stated Commander Harris last night. "It extends a hearty invitation to men who have served in France, Belgium, Italy, Russia, Cuba, Haiti, Porto Rico or in hostile waters, to become members. All Civil War veterans upon presentation will be made honorary members. This new Post will be known as The Capt. J. Allison O'Daniel Post of Newark, Delaware, in loving memory of our brave and courageous comrade who died on the field of honor. We offer our sincere thanks to the Red Men's Band of Minnehaha Lodge, No. 23, of Newark. We also wish to express our heartfelt appreciation of the co-operation of the people of Newark in making our Post a success."

Mr. Carter with his usual happy turn of phrasing paid eloquent tribute to the service man making no distinction between him who served on alien soil and him, who obeying the command of his government, gave less glorious but not less necessary service in the homeland. He expressed the regret of the service men and of the community that the speaker of the evening, Honorable Everett C. Johnson was unable to be present. He read a telegram from Mr. Johnson in which he explained his inability to be present and commended the loyalty and self-sacrifice of those whom the State delighted to honor. The chairman further explained that in the emergency thus created he had appealed to Dean Laurence Smith of Delaware College to step into the breach and tell something of what service that institution had rendered in the war period. This Dean Smith proceeded to do, remarking facetiously that he had been "drafted" by the chairman and like all drafted men would "do his bit."

He told of the three hundred or more Delaware graduates who held commissions in the Army and expressed a doubt that many other colleges of this class made a finer record. Seventy per cent of the young men who received military training here, won commissions, a record which reflects credit on the training received at the State college. The bewilderment of the military authorities as the war dragged on and the age limit was reduced to 18; their desire to train the necessary officer material and the consequent establishment of the Student Army Training Corps with the difficulties attendant thereto were explained lucidly and entertainingly. The function of the college during the war period in maintaining a training station for two contingents of limited service men and the achievement in the after the war period in establishing a Rehabilitation Division, were commented on with facts and figures that made clear to many the remarkable features of these much misunderstood types of service.

This address was followed by a solo ably rendered by Victor Lyons, a member of the Rehabilitation Division, who sang to accompaniment by Professor C. B. Edwards, leader of the Continental Band, "The Tumble-Down Shack in Athlone." In response to repeated and enthusiastic encores he sang, "Where the River Shannon Flows," and was compelled to repeat his first selection.

Reverend Frank Herson in prefacing a solemn, eloquent benediction, asserted that he was the only Herson not engaged in the conflict, three brothers and seven nephews having participated. He explained this remarkable circumstance by quoting the commonly accepted statement that "an Irishman loves to fight."

An octette from the Rehabilitation Division, Messrs. Lyons, Christian, Finkbone, McKerran, McElroy, Snook, Robinson and Campbell rendered several selections to the delight of the audience who used every noisemaking device in compelling the bashful young vocalists to repeat the performance—"whee they did," as Benny Potts would say.

Dr. R. W. Cooper was then introduced as one who served with the American Army in France for nearly two years and whose varied experiences there would make interesting telling if he could be induced to talk of them. He explained his reluctance to do this but was prevailed upon to change the subject of his address and tell some intimate personal anecdotes. He told of the state of Paris in the troublous period between April and September, 1918, when no one knew just what the Germans would do. He told of the emptying of the hospitals of American wounded only to fill them again with other wounded. Narratives grave and humorous of his experiences as Registrar at the American University followed in succession and were enjoyed by the audience who listened with intense interest. Tribute was paid to the splendid spirit of the American soldier and to the effect this spirit had on the after period.

Following the singing of the Star-Spangled Banner the medals were awarded to the service men who had not already received them and refreshments were served by a group of young ladies. The band played at intervals during this social hour and some of the guests danced.

PASTURE FOR HOGS HELD TO BE ESSENTIAL

Expert Tells Four Reasons Why and Advises As To Crops

The following timely article was prepared recently for boys' and girls' clubs by Thomas A. Baker, head of the Department of Animal Husbandry at Delaware College, in co-operation with the Club department. It contains much information which may be used with profit by adult pig raisers as well.

Value of Pasture for Hogs

Pasture has come to be regarded as essential by the majority of swine growers in this country. It has almost become a necessity for profitable pork production and without it many farmers would be forced out of the hog raising business. These are a few of the many advantages of pasture:

1. Hogs on pasture are more healthy. They get plenty of much needed exercise in foraging for their food; their digestion is more vigorous and they use their food to better advantage. Furthermore, pastured hogs are comparatively free from the diseases and parasites which cause so many losses.
2. There is less labor in caring for hogs on pasture. The time spent in feeding and cleaning the pens is reduced. Running water can often be provided.
3. The fertility of the land is increased.
4. The pasturage eaten by the hogs reduces the amount of grain necessary and the result is "more profit." This is the greatest advantage of all.

Permanent Pastures

We find three pasture crops which are generally adaptable to Delaware conditions: alfalfa, red clover and mixed grasses.

Alfalfa is universally acknowledged to be the best and cheapest pasture crop. It comes early and stays late, repeating year after year. A properly managed field of alfalfa will furnish pasturage continuously throughout the growing season. Alfalfa has a high protein content and many successful hog raisers feed on high protein concentrate, such as tankage, to their fattening stock when this pasture is available. The claim has been made that hogs can be successfully grown on alfalfa without grain. This, however, is a mistake as no pasture crop will make satisfactory gains without some grain. Care should be taken that alfalfa is not too closely grazed as the crowns will be injured and the next year's stand may be ruined.

Red clover does not equal alfalfa as a pasture, but nevertheless it is a most excellent crop and is adaptable to many soils where alfalfa will not grow. A clover pasture may be obtained more quickly as it takes a year to get alfalfa established.

Mixed grasses are a source of forage found on all farms and are well suited to hogs. Blue grass, orchard grass, timothy and red top are the most important and they will be found growing in various combinations, depending on the soil type. One great advantage of mixed grasses is that they are available very early in the spring. The disadvantage of this crop is that the growth is checked during the hot summer months and some other crop must be provided. A satisfactory system is to use mixed grasses for spring and fall pasture and to have some annual crop such as rape planted for summer feeding.

Temporary Pastures

Rape is the most satisfactory of the temporary pasture crops. It grows quickly on all types of soil and makes a rank growth. It should be sown as early in the spring as possible and should be ready for feeding about July 1st. It may be sown broadcast, in drills, or in rows far enough apart to cultivate between. The latter method is preferable as a greater growth is secured and the pigs do not trample the plants to any extent. When pastured down to four or five leaves per plant it should be allowed to recuperate. Where two fields of rape are planted and the hogs changed back and forth continuous pasturage may be provided during the summer and fall. Rape is almost as high in its contents of protein as alfalfa. This is a point that is often not considered. Draft Essex is the best variety for pasture.

Rye and wheat when sown in the fall make good pasture for the early spring. These crops are only available for about a month, however, and can only be used in combination with other crops. Oats have never proven very satisfactory except when planted in mixtures.

Soy beans have been used with fair success in certain parts of the country. They are ready for pasturing in the latter part of the summer and fall. They are frequently used to follow rape but they are inferior to rape in amount of forage produced per acre.

Various mixtures are recommended for temporary pastures, consisting of oats, Canada peas, soy beans, rape and vetch in different combinations but these mixtures have never shown any advantage over separately planted crops.

Number of 100-pound pigs one acre of pasture will carry and for how long:

Crop	Average No. of head per acre	Average No. of days they may graze
Alfalfa	13.4	132.4
Red clover	12.6	107.5
Rape	18.4	76.5
Blue grass	13.0	118.1
Rye	15.0	90.5

"MIDSUMMER DAYS"

With a ripple of leaves and a tinkle of streams
The full world rolls in a rhythm of praise,
And the winds are one with the clouds and beams—
Midsummer days! Midsummer days!

The dusk grows vast; in a purple haze,
While the West from a rapture of sunset rights,
Faint stars their exquisite lamps upraise—
Midsummer nights! O midsummer nights!

The wood's green heart is a nest of dreams,
The lush grass thickens and springs and sways,
The rathe wheat rustles, the landscape gleams—
Midsummer days! Midsummer days!

—W. E. Henley.

Origin of the Classical Phrase, "Got His Goat"

There are lots of highly educated people with college degrees who do not know the origin of the classic expression, "Got His Goat."

This fine literary phrase, so far-reaching in its psychic import, originated in East Aurora.

It was first used by Ali Baba.

In the stable of Ed. Geers was a very fast horse known as Prince Regent. This horse was of a very nervous disposition, and when in a box stall by himself—especially in a strange place—fretted and suffered from homesickness. Ed. Geers bought a goat from Ali Baba and put it in the stall with the horse, and the horse and the goat became very chummy. When they would take the horse out to trot on the track he would seemingly look forward to the moment when he could get back and relate his experiences to the sympathetic goat.

There came a day when this horse was to trot for the Futurity Stakes in Buffalo. All went well and it looked as if Prince Regent had a sure thing. The bets were all in favor of Prince Regent.

But at midnight on the day before the race, some one got in the barn and stole the goat, and the horse so pined for his mate that he seemed to lose heart, and by the afternoon when the time came for the horses to be called, Prince Regent lost his nerve.

"What's the matter with that horse?" somebody said, as they noticed the animal's drooping ears.

"Why, somebody has got his goat," said Ali Baba.

And so the phrase has gone clattering down the centuries, like a tin kettle to a dog's tail. It has been fixed in the current coin of speech.

"We have got his goat." That means the man is done for and out of the game.

Build for yourself a strong box,
Fashion each part with care;
Fit it with hasp and padlock,
Put all your troubles there.
Hide therein all your failures,
And each bitter cup of quaff;
Lock all your heartaches within it,
Then sit on the lid and laugh.
Tell no one of its contents,
Never its secrets share;
Drop in your cares and your worries,
Keep them forever there.
Hide them from sight so completely
The world will never dream half;
Fasten the top down securely
Then sit on the lid and laugh.

—Dyersville (la.) Commercial.

"A HOME COMING"

Perhaps the most impressive and significant picture in the art gallery in the Chicago Exposition of 1893 was a small painting entitled "Breaking Home Ties." Crowds moved to tears by tender memories, stood for hours before it. It touched the heart strings, and typified the moving force of America—home.

When John Howard Payne in a far off land, wrote of "Home Sweet Home," he touched the one mighty chord that swells into the chorus of the Union.

When Senator Warren G. Harding stood before his friends and neighbors in his own home town, when he permitted his memory to picture the scenes of long ago, when his heart was touched by the kindly and wholesome greetings at home, he typified all that is best and all that is hopeful in America.

Senator Harding's home coming is the first real sign of the Nation's home coming. In simple words, in touching language, the leader of the Republican party tells his own home folks that "government is not of supermen but of normal men, very much like you and me."

The Senator's simple and telling words told the story of patriotism, when he said of Marion: "We all played the game together, because it was our game. * * * It is a waste of God's rich endowments to assail and destroy when all the flowers of life bloom best in the soil of sympathy and encouragement."

This is the spirit of optimistic loyalty to country, to America. It is a superb definition of patriotism. It is the key to Senator Harding's life, now opened before the American people. Is it not an inspiration?

Pointing to his own home town and its wonderful growth, the Senator said: "No superman did it, no one man did it. Now make the application. This wonderful land of ours is but the aggregation of communities * * * and the necessary harmony of purpose must lie in council, in the wisdom of plural leadership, not in the glory of supermen."

Here is our guide for future activity as a nation. Here is the beacon leading to a safe harbor. Here is the great lesson of the home coming of Senator Harding. It breathes the spirit of union, it tells the story of America, it signifies the home coming of a misled and misguided Republic.—Edward N. Dingley.

Epworth League Institute In Dover This Week

The third annual Epworth League Institute of the Wilmington M. E. conference is being held at Wesley Collegiate Institute, Dover, this week.

Delegates are present from the entire conference territory and many from outside of its limits.

The institute is run on the plan of the Great Silver Bay and Northfield Conferences. The best talent of the Methodist Episcopal Church are members of the faculty. The recreations for the week will be under the guidance of the best recreational directors. While the morning will be spent in study of the different phases of the work of the church, the afternoons will be spent in rest, recreations and hikes—and the prominent annual feature is a straw ride to Barratt's Chapel, a mecca for Methodists throughout the country. The recent General Conference took note of these institutes throughout the United States, and through the bishop's address urged their support by all pastors and district superintendents.

Carnival On at Elkton

A carnival land lawn fête under the auspices of the Elkton Cornet Band and the Elkton Athletic Association, opened Wednesday night, to be continued the balance of the week, on the base ball grounds in Elkton. The affair is quite a big attraction. The net receipts will be divided between the two organizations. Saturday night a dance will be held in the Elkton Armory.

A chorister who wanted to sing the hymn, "I love to steal a while away," etc., when he got as far as "I love to steal," found that the metre would not suit the tune. He tried another but got stuck again when he got as far as "I love to steal."

Whereupon the pastor, with a smile, remarked:
"It is very much to be regretted. Let us pray."

WHAT DOES IT ACTUALLY COST TO KEEP A COW?

Facts and Figures Compiled to Show Whether or No It Pays

What does it cost to keep a cow for a year or to produce 100 pounds of market milk? To answer this question in terms of labor, feed, and other costs factors the Dairy Division of the United States Department of Agriculture has been collecting for several years facts and figures from various sections of the country. The results for northwestern Indiana, typical of many farms supplying the Chicago market, are now available in bulletin form. In collecting the information the department worked in co-operation with Purdue University.

Outstanding Results

To give permanent value to the figures, the investigators determined the cost of milk production chiefly in terms of feed, labor, and other important factors. Thus by applying current values to any of the items a dairyman, or anyone else interested, may compare his present costs with those published by the department. Practical farms owned or handled by resident farmers were used in the investigation.

Among the outstanding results are the following:

The unit requirements for keeping a cow one year were: Concentrations, 1.02 tons; dry roughage, 3.64 tons; hauling and grinding concentrates, $1.53; bedding, 0.36 tons; pasture, 1.36 acres; human labor, 164.5 hours; horse labor, 16.2 hours; overhead and other costs, $27.11. Credits other than milk: Manure, 8.8 tons; calves, 0.87 of one calf.

Feed and pasture comprised 57.6 per cent of the total cost of production; labor, 19.5 per cent; overhead and other cost, 22.9 per cent. The total cost was offset 22.3 per cent by calves and manure. A different percentage relationship would exist, however, if present prices for the various items were used.

Shows Average Yields

The extent to which cows of high production save labor was shown clearly by comparative figures for the 25 herds studied. The owner of one herd of cows averaging 9,200 pounds of milk annually had to feed and milk only 9 cows to obtain the same quantity of milk as that given by 12 ordinary cows in other herds. The results mentioned, together with other details, are given more fully in the new publication department Bulletin 858, "Requirements and Cost of Producing Milk in Northwestern Indiana."

The Christiana Community Association at a meeting held Friday evening announced that $76 was cleared at the carnival held recently on Lough's lawn.

A committee was appointed to look after the installation of a fire plug in the town. There is at present no means of protection against fire except by chemicals.

Newport Up and Doing

A community gathering was held by the Women's Club of Newport on Friday evening on the new playgrounds. The program was devoted to an exhibition of playground work, volley ball, basketball, quoits and a sing.

Miss Marie Haughey led the sing. Harold Keats, executive officer of the Wilmington Community Service, made a short address, in which he praised the Newport Club for its work, stating Newport was taking the lead in this kind of work in Delaware.

A short address was made by Miss Ella Johnson, president of the club.

The session was so successful that the club has arranged to make it a regular Friday night affair.

Your Life Insurance

You insure your life for the protection of your loved ones. The same forethought should also prompt you to surround the proceeds with every safeguard. Otherwise, the money may be dissipated and your purpose will not be fulfilled.

Many estates consist largely of life insurance. The insurance money comes into the hands of the beneficiaries at a time when they are least capable of assuming new responsibilities. Also, they may be entirely inexperienced in business matters. Waste and sometimes a total loss of the money often is the result.

You can forestall the mistakes of inexperience by arranging to have all or part of the proceeds of your life insurance placed in trust. Thus a permanent income will be provided for your beneficiaries.

Ask for booklet "The Equitable Trust Plan" for creating and enlarging an estate, which explains how your life insurance can be safeguarded.

REPUBLICANS TO SELECT TICKET AUG. 24

State Committee Fixes Date For Nominating Party Candidates

The Republican State Central Committee held a meeting in Dover on Friday, together with the Kent County Republican Committee, and discussed general campaign affairs looking toward harmonious action leading up to the November election.

In the afternoon the State Committee selected August 24 as the date for the State Convention to nominate candidates for governor, congressman and State officers. The primaries will be Saturday, August 21.

Alfred Raikes, Dover, was elected the negro member of the State Committee from Kent county. This appointment has been pending since the State Convention when there was a contest over the re-election of Raikes, the Kent county delegates being divided on his selection for another term.

Chairman Warner and Secretary Grantland of the State Committee both expressed satisfaction over the outlook of the coming campaign throughout the State as well as nationally. There was a good attendance of both State and county committeemen.

Chairman Warner, Secretary Grantland and some of the State Committeemen went to Georgetown to confer with members of the Sussex County Republican Committee there.

GEORGETOWN IN LUCK!

Has Abundant Supply of Sugar Through Generosity of Governor

When practically every section in lower Delaware is experiencing a sugar shortage, Georgetown, through the generosity of Governor John G. Townsend, Jr., has the largest supply within a year. Governor Townsend is one of the most extensive operators of syrup factories in the east, having about fifteen plants which are devoted in the spring to preserving strawberries for the large syrup, extract and jam manufacturers of the country.

Hundreds of barrels of sugar are used annually in preserving the berries, and at the close of the season it has been the custom of Governor Townsend to release the surplus for the accommodation of the people, especially during the shortage of the past three years. For the past two days his employees have been busily engaged disposing of the commodity to the residents of Georgetown, and those who desired to purchase could obtain from five to one hundred pounds. There is such a clamor for the sugar that those in charge of distributing it are kept busy from morning until night disposing of it.

Practically 20,000 pounds have been distributed within the past two days at 22 cents a pound, thus meaning a saving to the people of 6 cents a pound. It is stated that the reason for the large surplus this year is due to the fact that the crop of berries in the central part of Sussex was not as large as the firm anticipated and therefore they did not have occasion to use up the supply.

WILL MOVE THIS WEEK TO VIRGINIA

Dr. and Mrs. Mitchell to Leave Sooner than Was Expected

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Mitchell are making preparations to move to their new home in Richmond, Va., in a week or so. Their son, Morris R. Mitchell, came on from the South last week to assist with the packing.

Dr. Mitchell, whose resignation takes effect in September, originally planned to remain in Newark until that time. Since, however, he and Mrs. Mitchell will spend their vacation in Boothbay Harbor, Maine, during the early part of August, they decided to move before rather than after the vacation period.

Dr. Walter Hullahen, the new president, will probably move here the latter part of September. He is expected July 22, however, for a conference with college officials.

During the absence of Dr. Mitchell the affairs at the college will be in charge of Dean E. Laurence Smith.

Dr. Greenfield Sails for Europe

Dr. K. R. Greenfield expects to sail this week on the "McKeesport," a vessel operated by the Green Star Line. He will be accompanied by Irving Reynolds, a graduate of Delaware College in 1917, who has just taken his degree in law this spring. These two will be the only passengers on the "McKeesport," which will land at Antwerp, Belgium, in about two weeks. This will give them an opportunity to see the Olympic games in progress there during July and August. They will later proceed to England where they will spend most of the time until their return the latter part of September.

According to published reports appearing in the Wilmington and Baltimore papers, Dr. Greenfield and Dr. Reynolds were to have sailed in June on a cattle boat. Dr. Greenfield left about that time for a visit with friends in Chester-town, a fact which led to the belief that this report was true.

Dr. Greenfield was in town the first of this week.

Pall Mall Club Ties

Score at Chesapeake

The Pall Mall Club journeyed to Chesapeake City last week and tied the score, 4-4, in a seven inning game. The features of the game was the pitching of Lange for Chesapeake City. He allowed only four hits, two of which were made by Carter, while the home team found Smith for nine.

Bumper Wheat and Hay Crops in Vicinity

Farmers in the immediate vicinity of Newark, from all appearances have no cause for complaint this season either as to crops or weather conditions for harvest. The wheat has been cut and gives every evidence of being a bumper crop. Hay was never better and is bringing $45 a ton. Potatoes are in good condition and will without doubt produce a record crop. Help is scarce and high, but as one progressive farmer puts it "You can get the help if you pay the price, and the prices of farm products seem to warrant it."

Some of the finest fields of wheat seen in years are those on the Huber, John F. Richards, C. P. Wollaston, and Charles Lafferty farms. On the latter property is one of the best fields of corn in the vicinity.

Very few of the farmers have threshed yet. Some hay has been packed and threshing in this vicinity will be on in full blast here next week, it is thought.

REPRODUCES CONTINENTAL PLANT IN MINIATURE

"Bert" Everson Makes Paper Model and Mounts It on Bakelite-Dilecto

An interesting piece of work which is attracting much favorable comment, is on exhibition in the window of the Newark Inn. It is a clever reproduction in miniature of the entire plant of the Continental Fibre Co., erected on a block of Bakelite-Dilecto 13x31 inches and made entirely of paper.

This remarkable achievement is the work of Albert Everson, affectionately known to his hosts of friends as "Bert." In a comparatively few days, with no instrument other than a penknife, he fashioned the perfectly proportioned Fibre Plant, including in it every detail—office, shop, hose houses, water tanks, trucks, horses—even J. P. Wright's Marmon car in front of the office.

Everson was formerly connected with the Bakelite-Dilecto department of the Company and has always maintained a keen interest in its development. Several years ago he received injuries in a road accident, from which he never recovered. His mechanical genius manifested itself during his convalescence in the construction of a "river," which was the apple of his eye and which afforded much pleasure to him and to his friends. For the past few months he has been confined to the house and with indomitable spirit has whiled away the hours with such activities as that mentioned above. With a megaphone, he greets from his bedroom window his former fellow workmen at the Continental
