DEFERMENT FOR FARM STUDENTS

Board Has Power
To Release Boys
In Agriculture

Local boards have ample authority to defer students of agriculture as men "in training or preparation for" necessary occupations because of the growing shortage of farm workers and farm produce, Gen. William Berl, Jr., state director of Selective Service for Delaware, announced this week.

Regulations covering "necessary men" are sufficiently broad to permit deferment of agricultural students, he said.

"Some misunderstanding," he said, "has arisen on the question of whether or not the local board has the power to defer students of agriculture. I am in receipt of a communication from National Headquarters which dispels all doubt in this matter."

The communication states that "... any registrant found to be a necessary man in any industry, business, employment, agricultural pursuit, government service, or any other service or endeavor or in training or preparation therefor..." may be deferred.

He emphasized that a growing shortage of farm workers and the growing need for farm produce calls for special consideration of all individual claims of men now engaged in agricultural pursuits.

Such, consideration must be given, Gen. Berl continued, in view of a recent statement by Secretary of Agriculture, Claude R. Wickard, which pointed out that the problem of agricultural production already is very serious in some areas.

NATIONAL COMPILES SAFETY RECORD

Fibre Company
Earns Honor
Rolls Standing
For 1940 Mark

The National Vulcanized Fibre Company of Newark was named as one of the five Delaware firms on the national honor roll by the National Safety Council for outstanding industrial safety records during the year of 1940. The ratings were announced by the Delaware Safety Council this week.

The four other plants listed are: The J. H. Mulholland Co. and the L. D. Caulk Co., both of Milford; the Pullman Co., of Wilmington, and the Bellanca Aircraft Corp., of New Castle. All of these plants are also entered in the inter-plant safety contest of the Delaware Safety Council, John R. Fader, acting manager of the council, said.

The local plant had the lowest 1940 frequency rate among organizations in its classification, that of 4.41. This rate is determined by the ratio of accidents per million man hours worked.

The plants were classified in the following general groups: National Vulcanized Fibre Co., paper and pulp industries; the Mulholland Co., wood-working and lumbering; the Caulk Co., chemical industries; the Pullman Company and the Bellanca Corporation, both in machinery industries.

The best 1940 record among large plants in the pharmaceutical and fine chemical divisions of the chemical industries classification went to the L. D. Caulk Co., with a total of 738,000 man hours worked without a reported accident.

An outstanding record of 4,265,572 man hours worked without a reported accident is held by the Pullman Company. This record began in October, 1937, and continued through 1940.

According to ratings released by the National Safety Council, Delaware ranks third in the national contest for industrial safety, trailing the Detroit and Newark, N. J., councils.

LONGWOOD OPERA NEXT WEEK

To Be Given
At Longwood
Starting Aug. 7

Colorful costumes and a wealth of musical talent will give the inimitable stamp of the Brandywinners Ltd., to the Victor Herbert opera, "The Fortune Teller," which will be presented in Longwood Open Air Theatre next Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings.

The interpretation of the music, which is among the favorites of every music lover, is in the capable hands of Frederick W. Wyatt, who has supervised the music work of Brandywinners shows for many years. W. W. Laird, Jr., is production manager and John T. Martin, stage director.

"The Fortune Teller" concerns the attempts of Count Berezowski to marry an heiress. The play opens in the courtyard of Professor Fresco's Ballet School and Irma, one of the pupils, because she happens to wear an identifying snake bracelet becomes the object of the Count's affection. She disappears to break up the affair her brother is having with an opera singer, Madame Pompon and Musette, the gypsy fortune teller, unwittingly is substituted in her place. Sando, the gypsy maid's lover, denounces her and just before the wedding the gypsies help her escape.

The Count insists on going to the forest camp where his "bride" has fled, ignorant of the substitution for the real heiress by Professor Fresco, who was promised a "cut." The two girls meet and there is a confusion of identities, with the count in the proverbial middle, after which the true lovers sort themselves out and live happily ever after.

BOARD PUBLISHES NOTICE OF ELECTION

Voters Expected
To Approve Bond
Issue For Primary
Building August 16

Residents of the Newark Special School District will vote on the proposed $80,000 bond issue for construction of a new primary building on Saturday afternoon, August 16, it was definitely established yesterday by notice of the election issued by Robert S. Galaher, board president and C. E. Douglass, superintendent of schools.

The polls for the special election will be open from one o'clock, P. M., until eight o'clock, P. M., Standard Time, with voting to be conducted in the high school building located at the Northeast corner of Academy Street and Lovett Avenue.

With local sentiment strongly in favor of a new elementary building, there is little doubt that the issue will carry favorably by a large majority. Construction of the proposed twelve to sixteen room building is expected to begin this fall and be ready for occupancy next year.

The portable building, formerly used to house one of the primary grades, was sold last week and razing of the structure is now under way. W. S. Hamilton, proprietor of the Newark Printing Company, will erect a modern building where it now stands, directly behind the Armory, and move his printing establishment to that location upon its completion.

Cost of the proposed primary building is estimated at $150,000 with approximately $90,000 to be provided by the state and the remaining $60,000 to be raised locally by the bond issue.

DELAWARE POULTRY EXHIBITS

Displays To Be Shown In October
At Harrisburg

Seeking to bolster public recognition of Delaware's giant poultry industry, the education and research committee of the Delaware Poultry Improvement Association is planning to stage an exhibit at the Northeastern Poultry Producers Council Exposition to be held at Harrisburg, Pa., during October.

The association's committee is basing the exhibit theme on consumer education, stressing the value of Delaware's quality broilers.

J. Hugh Davis, Millsboro, chairman of the committee, has announced that the exhibit will be financed by funds obtained from all branches of the State's poultry industry. He maintains that growers, hatcherymen, equipment suppliers, feed dealers, dressing plant operators and poultry buyers should be interested in keeping the consuming public informed of the superior qualities of Delaware-produced birds.

"This is the first year for some time," reports H. L. Richardson, University of Delaware poultry specialist and secretary of the Delaware Poultry Improvement Association, "that Delaware has attempted to have an exhibit at the annual northeastern States poultry exposition. The association feels that Delaware, with its mammoth poultry-producing facilities, should certainly be well represented with an attractive State exhibit."

Exhibit space is available at no cost from exposition officials. Funds now being secured by members of the poultry association will be used only for staging the display.

FARMERS ADVISED TO RESEED

Necessary To Avoid Forage Shortage In 1942

Livestock farmers are bemoaning the fact that recent rains came too late for saving newly-seeded pasture and hay grasses, the crops that were seeded last spring with the hope that they would be the life-giving forage feeds for all kinds of farm animals when they started producing sizeable growth next year.

To those farmers who are pondering the problem of providing hay and pasture for their livestock during 1942 in the face of this season's failure of grass and clover that was seeded in the grain mixture, C. E. Phillips, assistant agronomist at the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station, is recommending reseeding to avoid a 1942 forage shortage.

Phillips suggests that stubble land to be reseeded should be plowed just as soon as possible. The best time to reseed is about the middle of August. And Phillips advises the use of a cultipacker or land roller to make sure that the seedbed is finely prepared and well firmed.

Maintaining that much of Delaware's hay land is under-fertilized, agronomist Phillips urges farmers to apply 300 to 400 pounds of a 2-12-6 or a 2-8-10 fertilizer to the acre before seeding the emergency forage crop even though the wheat received a generous fertilizer application.

Delaware farmers participating in the 1941 Agricultural Conservation Program may plant emergency forage crops without incurring payment deductions for exceeding their total soil-depleting allotment, according to a recent AAA ruling.

Forage crop reseeding directions, just prepared by Phillips, may be obtained from George Worrlow, New Castle County agricultural agent.

DOLLAR DAYS — AUGUST 8 - 9

More than three thousand eight-page circulars heralding Newark Dollar Days, to be observed here next Friday and Saturday, will be delivered to rural residents of Newark within the next few days.

In addition to this, the Newark Chamber of Commerce has arranged to award a total of $40 in CASH to Dollar Day Shoppers. The awards, ranging from a $15 first award to ten $1 awards, will be presented on the front lawn of the Academy Building at seven o'clock Saturday evening — rain or shine. All persons must be present to be eligible.

There are no strings attached to this offer. Coupons will be given free, at each store displaying the Dollar Days placard, with every cash payment of 50c — these coupons will determine whether or not you receive one of the cash awards.

Large, yellow Dollar Day placards will indicate each store offering Special Dollar Day values. All merchants of Newark are invited to participate in this annual event, whether a member of the Chamber of Commerce or not. There is no cost or obligation entailed.

Your attention is called to the special Dollar Day section of this newspaper where you will find more detailed advertisements of the participating stores and a complete account of the Cash Awards and manner of presentation.

We assure you that many merchants have gone to great pains to offer exceptional values for these two days in an honest effort to make Newark Dollar Days an outstanding sales event in 1941. You will find many items priced well below normal and we urge your patronage of the stores advertising in this Dollar Day edition.

PLAYGROUND PET SHOW

The Newark Playground and Recreation Center will hold its annual Pet Show on the high school athletic field tonight at 7:30 o'clock. All parents of children having entries in the show and other interested residents are urged to attend.

Many of us contribute annually to the playground and swimming pool fund. We all feel that it is an excellent project for the children during summer months . . . and, after we have contributed we promptly forget all about it and feel under no further obligation.

That's all fine and good. The Playground and pool could not be operated each summer without our financial aid, to be sure. But, our obligation should not end with a contribution.

Playground directors would appreciate a visit from residents of the community and suggestions or criticisms concerning the operation of different departments.

The Pet Show tonight, for instance, is an annual event that draws numerous entries and much interest — from the children. But, all too few adults will be in attendance.

The twilight baseball and softball games are hotly contested and several really tight games have been bitterly fought out but few adults have been there to witness them.

Take a half-hour off tonight and drop over to see the Children's Pet Show. You'll enjoy it and the children will take a great deal more interest and pride if they know their parents and adult friends are also interested.

ALUMINUM RESPONSE

Newark came through again last week when Mayor Collins made an appeal for aluminum in support of the national drive being made in cooperation with the National Defense Program.

More than a half-ton of aluminum was contributed to the campaign, locally. The back room of the Council office was piled high with pots, pans, cups, plates and aluminum articles of every description — some of them appearing to still be quite new while other pieces were battered and worn to a point where they were of no further value except to be melted up and used again for defense items.

Newarkers responded nobly to the call. To Mayor Collins goes much credit for his conduct of an excellently planned campaign and to local Boy Scouts goes additional credit for their personal services in solicitation and otherwise.

British reports of war actions are generally intended to be reliable, an impartial survey shows, with very little falsification for propaganda purposes. The Admiralty always admits warship losses, although sometimes withholding news of vessels damaged. Reports of the Air Ministry and the Middle East Command are also said to be highly trustworthy.

The world's oldest mummy, that of the Egyptian Ra Nefer, who lived about 4,000 B. C., and the remains of Queen Berengaria of England, who died about 1230 A. D., were shattered by German bombs which struck the Royal College of Surgeons in London. The queen was the wife of King Richard I, known as the Lion-hearted.

A parrot belonging to Dr. Louis Spector of Chicago went on a hunger strike when his master was drafted into the army, and continuously calls "Lou, Lou."

SULPHUR DUST CUTS BROWN ROT

Manns Urges Treatment Of Peach Crop

Early varieties of the annual peach crop that helps add to the fame of rural Delaware are now moving out of orchards. And peach growers, continually striving to make the product of their orchards even bigger and better than ever in size and quality, are taking a lesson gained from last year's packing operations.

Growers faced big losses of packed fruit during last year's wet harvest season when brown rot disease appeared on peaches while they were being packed and marketed. So this year, a grower is applying a coating of sulphur dust to his peaches as they are being graded and packed.

Dr. T. F. Manns, plant pathologist at the University of Delaware, says that the coating of sulphur dust kills spores of the ruinous disease that mars the appearance and quality of even the best peaches.

A special duster attached to peach graders makes application of the dust a quick and easy job. Ordinary dusting sulphur will take care of brown rot control. And a pink sulphur dust is now on the market allowing treatment of varieties having pink coloring without detracting from their natural appearance.

"This season's treatment of peaches," reports Dr. Manns, "is mighty important because brown rot does most damage in wet weather. And we've been having plenty of rain lately."

FOOD for THOUGHT

"Help your Child to Enjoy Every Meal"

Many mothers would rejoice if holiday appetites would last the year around. Children who usually toy with their food can really go to town with a holiday dinner.

Children look forward to a holiday dinner. They know that at this one meal they are sure of good food and a happy family.

There is much which parents can do to help children to enjoy every meal.

Mentality should always be a happy occasion. Scolding and punishment have no place at the dining table. All of us have experienced a sudden loss of appetite when we have just received bad news, or when someone has hurt our feelings. Our digestive juices have stopped and, even if we force ourselves to eat, we can no longer digest food with our usual efficiency. In the same way we cannot expect a scolded child to have much of an appetite for food.

Children love to help themselves at meals. Food for children should be planned so that they can handle it with as little outside assistance as possible. A child will often have a second glass of milk if he can pour it for himself from his own small pitcher. Fingers can handle raw vegetables such as carrot strips, turnip strips or a piece of celery. A mixed salad can be made easy for small hands to manage. Many grownups hesitate to cut lettuce with a fork and so leave it on their plate. Children usually do the same unless the lettuce is cut in small pieces which easily slip into place on a spoon or fork.

Authorities on child feeding believe that a child will eat best if there is little fuss about his food. If a child refuses to eat a well balanced breakfast it will not hurt him to go until his next regular feeding time when he will be hungrier. Fussing to get him to eat more or feeding him an hour or so later both seem to teach him not to eat at his scheduled time.

Too much candy will destroy a good appetite for other less exciting food. A child who has a poor appetite should not be allowed candy and desserts until he learns to enjoy the other more necessary foods.

Allow your child to participate as much as possible in the planning and preparation of food and he will probably enjoy the food better.

Anyway, three-year-olds do not bore us by telling of cute things their parents say and do.

GOLF FANS ARE WATCHING with increasing interest progress in the President's Cup Tournament, a handicap competition, which may bring together in the final round the principles in the championship wind-up staged a few weeks ago.

Providing an anti-climax to the title battle, another tussle between Roland Wollaston, champion, and B. F. (Sank) Richards, runner-up, looms as almost a certainty and if their last engagement can be used as a measuring stick, the return bout should prove a hum-dinger from start to finish.

FOLLOWERS OF THE SPORT WILL recall very vividly the veteran Wilmingtonian's powerful stretch drive which almost turned certain defeat into victory until the three-putt fiasco on the thirty-sixth green. Those who had the energy to follow the match saw Richards, trailing six down at the end of the first 27 holes, stage a gallant comeback to force the match to completion on the thirty-sixth hole where he three-putted for a five, giving Wollaston a halve and a one-up victory.

Richards' roaring finish in the championship finale bears out the opinion of most members of the local club—that he is one of the best if not the best competitive golfer in this section. His great stretch run after three rounds of erratic shooting certainly emphasizes this general opinion.

The fact that he was able to come roaring back after missing short putts, misjudging approaches and actually dubbing a No. 2 wood shot that would put even a beginner to shame is all the more to his credit.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO SHOOT sub-par golf to be a good medal player.

On the other hand, Wollaston, several years younger than the Wilmington ace, is a comparative newcomer to the "larrup and look" sport. Tall, with powerful arms, he's equipped, physically, to send a golf ball on a lengthy joy ride—and does.

He's established a reputation of being one of the longest drivers off the tee, an honor which he shares with his closest rival, Richards, and George Anderson, who reigned over local linksmen a few years ago.

Although, like every other golfer, he has actually been overheard murmuring "Oh, pish tosh!", "gosh all hemlock!" and other strong expressions after a particularly bad shot, "Hotz" showed no display of temper in his first championship encounter. There was plenty of reason to mutter at least an "Aw, fudge!" during Richards' whirlwind finish, but instead, he even managed a wry smile now and then.

ACCURATE WITH HIS APPROACHES and deadly with a putter, "Hotz" possesses all the prerequisites of a big-time performer and his faults aren't anything a few more years of experience won't cure. Of all his virtues, his confidence shines out as his most valuable asset.

Thus far, Richards has marched through three foes, Wayne Brewer, Wallace Williams, and George E. Dutton, Jr., a campaign which has carried him to the semi-finals of the President's Cup tourney where he will meet Dr. J. A. Paradisi. Wollaston, who drew a bye in the opening round, has turned in only one triumph, a decisive 6 and 4 win over J. M. Grant. He is slated to meet Robert Thoroughgood in the quarter finals and, if successful, H. B. McCaulley in the semis.

NEITHER SHOULD EXPERIENCE much trouble in moving to the payoff division although anything can happen in a handicap golf match.

Should they both move into the finals, Wollaston will be forced to yield two strokes to the veteran who can be counted on to make the most of his handicap.

The match, if played, should prove well-worth watching, so store up a few calories and prepare yourself for a short pilgrimage around the Newark Country Club golf course.

PLAYGROUND FIRST HALF WON BY SOUTHSIDE; GIANTS DRUBBED BY DARKHORSES

Winners Continue To Pace Loop In Second Half With 12-2 Conquest Over Giants; Leaders, With Four Victories, Have Yet To Taste Defeat

Undeclared in four starts, the Southside diamondmen walked off with the first half title in the Newark Playground Baseball League, and then proceeded to take the lead in the race for second-half honors by handing the Giants a 12-2 defeat.

Dougherty worked on the mound for the champions, limiting his opponents to one hit in the five-inning tussle while his teammates were pounding out 13 bingles from the offerings of Miller and Grant.

In the only other second-half game scheduled this week, the Giants were awarded a forfeit victory over Lumbrook.

The Darkhorses really turned on the heat in their final tilt of the first half when they bombarded two Giant hurlers for 18 hits and a score of 23-4. The victory moved them into second place in the final first half standings with two wins against one defeat.

Only one member of the winning team failed to hit safely as Dom Cataldi paced the barrage with four hits in six trips to the plate. Casho worked on the mound for the winners, limiting the opposition to four hits.

In scoring the one-sided triumph, the Darkhorses scored in every frame, starting the proceedings with a 12-run barrage in the first innings. They tallied two in the second, two in the third, one in the fourth, four in the fifth, and two more in the sixth.

The Giants finally pushed across a run in the fifth and then tallied three in the seventh to climax the scoring.

Dirt track automobile racing, directed by Ralph A. Hankinson, and featuring many of the country's outstanding drivers, will bring the fair to an official close, Sunday, September 14.

Night grandstand entertainment will center around a colorful musical revue, supported by an afternoon and evening program of circus and vaudeville acts. Fireworks will ring down the curtain on each nightly stage show.

THREE-WAY SOFTBALL DEADLOCK DEVELOPING

Continental Win Over Ushers Will Create Three-Way Tie

With only one second-half game yet to be played, a three-way deadlock for top honors looms in the Newark Playground Softball League. Tied for the top spot now are Southside and Playground, each with two wins against a single defeat.

Continental, first-half winner, is also expected to move into a play-off spot. Now in third place with one victory in two starts, the Millmen are expected to down the Presbyterian Ushers on Monday, thus moving them into a play-off post for the second half honors.

In games played this week, the Playground team pounded out a 16-1 triumph over the Ushers, while Southside was being handed a 13-3 trouncing at the hands of Continental.

In scoring their overwhelming triumph, the Playground, slugging behind Kelley's effective hurling, tallied six runs in the opening frame, three more in the fourth and climaxing their scoring with a big seven-run rally in the fifth.

Continental, in knocking Southside out of a definite second-half title into a play-off, started right from the opening gun and scored four times in the first, five in the second, one in the fourth, another in the fifth, and two more in the sixth. Southside notched a counter in the second and then climaxed the scoring in the seventh with a two-run splurge.

DR. CAMERON OUTLINES VACATION HAZARDS

Drowning Took Toll Of Twenty Lives In State Last Summer

Summer is the time when almost everyone looks forward to vacation and renewed health but care needs to be taken, or what starts out as pleasure may end in tragedy, warns Dr. Edwin Cameron, executive secretary of the State Board of Health.

Take swimming, for example, one of our most popular hot weather recreations. It is splendid exercise and lots of fun but exceedingly dangerous if swimmers become careless.

Last summer Delaware had 20 deaths from accidental drowning as compared to 28 deaths from influenza thru-out the state for the whole year. Three deaths from drowning have already occurred this year in the state.

Do not swim directly after eating. Do not swim or bathe in streams polluted by sewage.

Avoid shallow water diving, and be sure there are no submerged objects you may hit.

Those persons with impaired hearts should avoid violent water sports, keep physical limitations in mind, and give

HORN-SALL MATCH TO HIGHLIGHT FAIR CARD

Veterans To Vie In Three-Heat Match Race Aug. 2

A three-heat match race between Ted Horn, famous Indianapolis driver and the veteran dirt track pilot of the east, Bob Sall, will be a highlight of the Kent and Sussex Fair professional sanctioned auto races on Saturday, August 2, it has been announced by Secretary Ernest Raughley.

For the fifteenth consecutive year the speed events at the fair will be under management of Hankinson Speedways. The veteran operator, Ralph A. Hankinson, in his 31st year of speed sport endeavor, will be opening his 1941 fair season.

Points in the 1941 world's championship dirt track title will be awarded as well as in the current Hankinson Circuit Championship, which was won in 1940 by Horn.

Sanction will be under the Consolidated States Racing Association, under franchise of which Hankinson opened his season at Reading, Pa., in April. By a working agreement the Penn-Race association drivers will be allotted a portion of the program.

A field of three dozen speed demons from south, midwest and the east have entered to compete in the ten-event program, 75 percent of which will be from reverse or inverted starts in which the fastest cars in the time trials will start in the rear positions. Previously seven events have marked the card at the Harrington Fair, which at one time was the battleground of the famous Winn-Frame duels.

Sall, the only driver to ever win the eastern and southern AAA crown, is "hot" this year to win the world's title and prove that his added years have not dimmed his ability.

Promoter Hankinson is calling the match event a "race between age and beauty". Sall having the years and Horn the looks.

Time trials will start at 12:30 o'clock and first of competitive events will get under way at 2 p. m.

their hearts as well as their entire bodily mechanism plenty of rest between periods of activity.

This applies, too, to "week-end athletes." Exercise is most beneficial when taken easily and gradually. It is foolish to go from a quiet every day life to violent continued vacation exercise.

Long hours of auto driving measurably decrease the driver's efficiency and render him an increasing hazard on the highway. Safety requires motorists to avoid long, uninterrupted periods of driving which cause nervous and mental fatigue.

Expose yourself gradually to the summer sun in slowly increasing doses. Sunburn is both painful and dangerous.

If you perspire freely and feel droopy from the heat, stir 1/8 of a teaspoonful of table salt in a glass of cool water, and drink it slowly. It is good protection against heat exhaustion, says Dr. Cameron.

Boil your drinking water if the supply comes from an unknown or an unprotected source. It may be polluted even though it looks clear and sparkling. The Sanitary Department of the State Board of Health tests the water supply of all service stations in the state. Of the 350 tested, only five proved unsafe, according to the report of Richard C. Beckett, State Sanitary Engineer.

Ticks are another out-door vacation hazard. They are usually picked up from grass or weeds close to the ground. Boots laced over trouser legs

Victorious over George F. Anderson, former club champion, by a 6 and 5 margin in the opening round and winner over M. D. Darrell by a decisive 6 and 5 count in the second round, Dutton loomed as a probable finalist. He proved no match for the veteran Wilmingtonian who finished in the runner-up spot in the club championship.

After being forced to play 36 holes before scoring a 3 and 2 triumph, Wayne C. Brewer in the opening round won a non-too impressive 3 and 2 win over Wallace Williams in the second, Richards was able to turn the pressure when it was needed to score his victory.

Dr. J. A. Paradisi was handed a 6 and 5 defeat by R. H. Morris while H. B. McCaulley marched into the semi-final round via a 2 and 1 win over Ted Roland Wollaston, club champion, slated to meet Robert Thoroughgood in the other quarter final engagement.

First Round

Dr. J. A. Paradisi defeated Harry Williams, 1 up; M. J. Fidanzio defeated Dr. L. A. Stearns, 3 and 2; Morris defeated Don Tammany, 1 up; Robert Stewart, Sr., defeated 1 up; Taggart, 3 and 2; B. F. Richards defeated Wayne C. Brewer, 3 and 1; Charles Walters, 3 and 2; George Dutton, Jr., defeated George F. Anderson, 6 and 5; M. D. Darrell, by 7; Beck defeated Ted Ingham, 2 and 1; D. help to protect men walking through forested areas. The lack of the neck and head are favorite feeding places. Careful examination of heads, especially children, at least twice a day may reveal a tick in time to prevent a bite for a few Delaware ticks carry the virus of Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever. Examination of the whole body, advisable after exposure to ticks, bitten take a toothpick or the sharp end of a match stick, dip in kerosene and turn the tick in the tick bite in order to cauterize the tissue.

Learn to recognize poison ivy and avoid it for ivy poisoning is a pain way to spoil a vacation, says Dr. E. H. Hynson, director of the Division of Communicable Disease Control, recommends as a preventive agent, fresh ointment, made up at the store, consisting of 10% sodium borate mixed in cold cream (cleansing cream). Rub this skin before exposure and wash as soon as possible after going there area where you are near the plants. After exposure, wash with strong soap, preferably laundry soap, is helpful. Always wash away from clean areas so as not to spread the poison. Washing the area with a solution of 5% tannic acid or even stronger tea has been found to alleviate the pain.

Delaware has few poisonous snakes but copperheads are occasionally found along the Brandywine and in Sussex County look well where you walk. A snake bite should be selected with an eye to the danger that turns in break piles or other spots that might hide snakes.

If you should be bitten make a tourniquet of a handkerchief, cord or cloth and twist tightly enough to slow down circulation so venom cannot spread to the body. Suck the blood from the wound only if there are no cuts or sores in the mouth, because venom can enter the body that way. See a doctor as quickly as possible. His injection of antivenin may save your life.

HOW TO DETECT COUNTERFEIT COINS

1. KNOW YOUR MONEY!
2. RING all coins on a hard surface. Genuine coins sound clear and bell-like. Counterfeits sound dull.
3. FEEL all coins. Most counterfeit coins feel greasy.
4. COMPARE the reeding (the corrugated outer edge) of a suspected coin with one known to be genuine. The ridges on genuine coins are distinct and evenly spaced. On counterfeit coins they are poorly spaced and irregular.

HOW TO CASH GOVERNMENT CHECKS

1. KNOW YOUR ENDORSERS!
2. DEMAND definite identification of the payee.
3. COMPARE endorsement on check with signature on identification.
4. WPA workers carry cards with identification number, signature and physical description. If you cash WPA checks, compare these three things and make sure the description fits that of the person presenting the check.
5. BE CAUTIOUS about cashing a check on which the payee's address is far removed from your place of business.
6. REMEMBER—You may lose the amount of any Government check which has not been endorsed by the rightful payee.
7. MAKE A CHECK BEFORE YOU TAKE A CHECK!!

New York, July 30 — Commerce bows to music! No longer will the sound of aeroplanes on their way to and from La Guardia Field disturb concert audiences at New York's Lewisohn Stadium. The high notes of Lily Pons, the delicate tones of Yehudi Menuhin's violin, the orchestra itself will no longer have to compete with the unwelcome noise of the motors. The planes now have other paths to follow during concert performances.

A new radio program, "For America We Sing", was inaugurated July 22, as radio's contribution in behalf of the Treasury Department's campaign to promote the sale of defense bonds. Stars of opera and concert are donating their time and talent for the weekly program. Dorothy Maynor, the well-known negro soprano, and Frank Munn, tenor, opened the series. The following singers are already scheduled for the future: Helen Jepson, Frank Parker, Rose Bampton, Robert Weede, and Gladys Swarthout. The artists are all native Americans and the music presented will be entirely by American composers.

Lucy Monroe is a shining example of a two-career woman. Not only as an artist does she keep up a busy radio, opera and concert schedule, but as a business woman she is Director of Patriotic and American Music for RCA Victor.

Rudolph Serkin, piano virtuoso, takes the humble attitude that what may turn out to be fine music in the concert hall is sometimes just plain noise to one's neighbors when the program is being prepared. So he considerably keeps two pianos in his New York apartment, in rooms as far apart as possible. He practices for a while on one, then goes to the other room to continue. "That gives the neighbors at each end a rest," he explains.

Summer days make one's thoughts turn to hobbies. Here are some of the whims and fancies of celebrities of the musical world: Rose Bampton and her husband, Wilfred Pelletier, have probably the world's largest collection of figures of penguins... Harold Bauer, pianist, likes to garden... James Melton has made a study of fine cookery. He also likes to play baseball and he has some fifty antique automobiles, one dating as far back as 1898... Josef Hofman has many inventions to his credit... John Carter grows choice vegetables and is an expert mechanic... Victor Babin enjoys chess, and so does Toscha Seidel... Jose Turbi pilots his own aeroplane.

ASK TRUCKS TO AID IN HIGHWAY PROBLEM

Transportation Emergency In Prospect For Fall Months

Highway transportation can solve an acute shipping problem that is predicted for September and October, according to a statement issued today by H. V. Daniel, Secretary, Associated Petroleum Industries of Delaware.

"The United States Department of Commerce is urging shippers to move all possible commodities during the summer to help relieve what they believe to be a tight freight car situation," Mr. Daniel stated. "Opinions as to the ability of the railroads adequately to cope with the situation differ, but are practically unanimous that the transportation capacity will be severely taxed."

"Highway transportation is able to meet this national emergency, providing state and federal agencies cooperate in keeping taxes at their present level and that unreasonable barriers between states as to sizes and weights are eliminated. Any further curtailment of motor truck production would obviously serve to aggravate a potential transportation bottleneck."

"Industry and defense recognize the value of highway transportation and, should it be restricted in any way, the effect would be immediately serious. Regardless of the transportation problem, motor trucks have eventually solved the difficulty. Where speed, dependability and safety are factors, highway transportation is no experiment. Today it is the most rapidly expanding form of transportation and the most convenient and economical. Regardless of the shipping problems of the future, most of them can be solved by motor trucks supplementing other forms of our great national transportation facilities."

PLANT NOW FOR WINTER VEGETABLES

Fall Gardens Insure Fresh Food To Can

Besides providing needed vitamins and minerals when consumed fresh, vegetables that are canned now and during the remainder of the growing season will give variety and nutritive value to winter and early spring diets. So maintaining a home vegetable garden and canning surplus fresh vegetables serves a dual purpose—saves money and provides healthful foods during most of the year.

Miss Pearl MacDonald, nutritionist at the University of Delaware, reports home vegetable garden production less than normal this year due to dry spring weather. But she adds—"Delawareans have another chance to make the home garden produce vegetables. And the fall gardens that result from planting now or in the near future will insure enough vegetables for eating fresh during early fall months and for canning and storing."

Vegetables recommended for planting now are snapbeans, beets, carrots, turnips, Chinese cabbage, celery, kale, seven top turnip and endive.

On two pages of the 56-page Extension Bulletin No. 34, entitled "Home Vegetable Gardening," Miss MacDonald gives facts on the use of vegetables as a health food. She tells why vegetables are important in every diet, how much vegetable foods people ought to eat, the ideal sizes for a home garden and the selection of vegetables for the home garden.

Also in the bulletin—a two-page planting guide, a list of varieties that do best in Delaware, a chart showing how to mix sprays for control of garden pests and a section devoted to garden planning and soil care.

"Home Vegetable Gardening" may be obtained, without cost, from the county agricultural, home demonstration or 4-H club agent.

GARDENS AT HOME POPULAR

Survey Shows Only One Percent Does Not Have Garden

When Miss Louise R. Whitcomb, home management specialist at the University of Delaware, wanted to get some information about home gardening in Delaware, she circulated a questionnaire among members of Delaware home demonstration clubs and their friends.

A summary of facts contained in questionnaires that were returned by 1,643 families reveals that all but one per cent of the families had some sort of a home garden. Most of the gardens reported on in the survey were around a half-acre in size. Only about half of the families reporting worked their garden plantings during the entire season.

Vegetables most commonly produced in the more than 1,600 home gardens included beans, beets, cabbage, carrots, corn, lettuce, onions, peas, peppers, tomatoes and turnips. About a fourth of the families—usually small families having large gardens—said that some garden produce was sold.

Even though most of the families answering the questionnaire had gardens, they purchased peas, corn, beans and tomatoes during the winter.

Miss Whitcomb found that homemakers she questioned had some questions of their own. For during the garden survey, she received some 2,700 requests for information on vegetable canning, garden pest control, garden planting dates, best garden vegetable varieties for Delaware and vegetable storage.

Information revealed by the questionnaires has led Miss Whitcomb to conclude that the average farm garden could be planned more carefully with a greater range of vegetable varieties to include more greens. The questionnaires also indicated a need for working the home vegetable garden over a greater length of time each season and that farm families are spending too much cash for canned vegetables that could be produced at home. Miss Whitcomb feels that the home garden gives the farm family an opportunity to do its part in the National Defense Program by producing healthful food at home.
