Military Notes

The Juniors who are going to Plattsburgh are receiving preliminary instruction in rapid fire target practice. The purpose of the special training is to fit the men to uphold Delaware's record in marksmanship in that camp.

Company B of the R. O. T. C. Unit will be given a banquet next Thursday night, May 21st, in recognition of its winning the battalion honors.

The following Sophomores have applied, and have been granted permission to attend the R. O. T. C. Infantry Camp at Plattsburgh: Edwin H. Beatty, Frank R. Grier, Leroy M. Haitsch, John E. Harper and Floyd G. Hubert.

Delaware will be represented in camp this year by sixty-five men: sixty Juniors and five Sophomores.

James H. Deputy has been recommended as an instructor for the C. M. T. C. Camp for the month of July at Plattsburgh, New York.

Derelicts "Tapped"

Immediately after lunch, the Derelict Society held its second annual "Tap Day" exercises last Saturday. These exercises were begun last year with the view of initiating a tradition on the campus. It is a unique method of announcing the selection of members for the coming year.

George Madden, an alumnus and charter member of the society, gave a short informal talk on the history of the organization. He, likewise, summarized its high ideals which ultimately involved the best for Delaware. Those men selected by the fraternity to carry on its work next year are: C. L. Owens, J. Mannix, R. Taylor, J. M. Cherpak, J. King, M. Prettyman, R. Atkins, R. W. Gregg, R. Torbert, L. Kramer, R. Hayes, M. Hanson, and F. Barkley.

Last Open Night

May Day celebration at the Women's College will be ended by a small dance Saturday evening, from seven-thirty to eleven o'clock. The attendance is expected to be large, since many of the guests will stay over for this open night. This will be the last of the series of Saturday night dances which have been given at the Women's College this year. The music will be furnished by John Poole and his orchestra.

Local Stars Win With Ease From Opponents

The University of Delaware Tennis Team easily defeated the Drexel Institute Team of Philadelphia by a score of 5-1, on Wednesday, May 13. Some matches were played on the courts in the rear of Wolf Hall, and others were contested on the courts at the Women's College.

The home team won all of the four singles matches played. This feat had not been done this season and is quite exceptional. Captain Malloy started the match by defeating Captain Miller of Drexel with little difficulty. The second match, Creamer vs. Brandt, was rather one-sided, Creamer winning by a large handicap. Turner managed to defeat his opponent, although the match was forced into extra sets. Both men played steadily and accurately. Jones by consistent playing, won his match with Rogers. Malloy and Creamer were victorious in their doubles, whereas Meredith and Hoffecker were unable to check Taylor and Mitchell.

The Drexel team is considered of good playing ability, having defeated St. Joseph's College recently by a score of 6-0. The Delaware team travels to Washington Friday and Saturday to play Catholic University and George Washington University.

Fraternity News

The Theta Chi Fraternity is giving a farewell bridge party this evening in honor of Dr. and Mrs. F. M. K. Foster. J. G. Lewis, F. W. Ladue, National Secretary of the Theta Chi Fraternity, and H. J. Buck of Hampden Sydney College were visitors at the House Sunday, May 10. Ten Theta Chi's have made arrangements to attend the Annual Spring Formal Dance given by the Kappa Chapter of the Theta Chi Fraternity at the University of Pennsylvania this evening.

Plans for the Sigma Nu Informal Dance have now been completed. The affair will be held in Old College Hall, May 23. George Madden's orchestra has been engaged to play.

D. C. Cathcart, Leo Connell, William Carroll, and Raymond Rickards attended the Annual Formal Dance of the Eta Chapter of the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity at Muhlenberg College last Friday.

The members of the Kappa Alpha Fraternity motored to Wilmington last Sunday and attended the morning service at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church.

A Student Expresses His Opinion On the Subject

This week John Leach, President of the Student Body of Delaware College, gives his ideas on this topic, "What Delaware Needs Most," which we are trying to treat from all angles:

"I have no fanatical zeal for any panacea of our college ills, but I do feel that our outstanding need is the desire or will to learn. We hear numerous criticisms about the ability of the members of the faculty, lack of equipment, etc., but if we consider the thing thoroughly do we not find at bottom that we ourselves are most at fault?"

"A little bit of honest work done now and then—a real desire to improve one's self would go a long way towards the amelioration of our condition. It wouldn't physically incapacitate anyone to open a book at least once a month. Why not vary our discussions once in a while, too, from the inevitable and inseparable trio: bad liquor, similar women, and sports? These things are no doubt very edifying but it must be granted that they do become monotonous. We could certainly derive some benefit from occasional discussions of current events, literature, or cognate subjects, even were we to indulge in them only as penance for our sins."

"Thus, having first cast the beam from our own eye, we can then turn our attention to the mote in the eye of the faculty."

Smax and Crax Closes

It is just a week ago that the Footlights Club put their little revue "Smax and Crax" into the storehouse. The final performance was given in Newark last Friday night. Owing to the fact that Roger Taylor was ill, Yanowitz had met with an accident, and that John Dale was broadcasting from Lit Brothers, a college version was substituted for the original production.

The show opened with a fast-stepping act introducing Hill, '26 and Truitt, '26 and was followed by "What Price Gloria" written by James Grant, '26 and hurriedly rehearsed by Snyder, '25, Walker, '25, Miller, '26 and Stroud, '27. Then came Ryon, '28 and Coale, '27 in a laugh-producing hit. The surprise of the evening followed when Doctor Patterson and Green, '25 came on the stage and romped away

The "Ag" Club Banquet was held Tuesday, May 12, at 6 p. m., standard time. J. Paul Skewis was toastmaster. The speaker of the evening, Mr. J. D. Blackwell, Director of Vocational Education of the State of Maryland, was introduced by Dr. Heim, a former classmate. Mr. Blackwell's subject was "Factors Which Make for Success in Life." Other speakers were Dean McCue, Dean Dutton, and J. W. Marshall, President of the Ag Club.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE OF I. N. A. AT URSINUS

Delegates Addressed by Men Prominent in Journalism

The Eleventh Annual Conference of the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association, which was held at Ursinus College, May 8 and 9, was a decided success. Registration of delegates took place from two to seven P. M. in Bomberger Hall. By seven-thirty o'clock, most of the delegates representing college publications in the Intercollegiate Newspaper Association had arrived, and an excellent dinner was served in Freeland Hall. After the dinner, the guests heard such prominent speakers as James Melvin Lee, Head of the School of Journalism, New York University; President Omwake of Ursinus College; George W. Douglass, Chief Editorial Writer for the Evening Public Ledger; and W. Hampton Moore, former Mayor of Philadelphia.

The regular business session was held Saturday morning, May 9. Shimer, Editor-in-chief of "The Gettysburghian," and past President of the I. N. A., presided over the editorial discussion group; and Berry, Business Manager of "The Review," and former Treasurer of the Association, was Chairman of

Del. Debaters Win

The Delaware College Freshman Debating Team composed of Philip Cohen, Joseph Craven, captain, and Leslie Moore, defeated the Freshman Debating Team of St. Joseph's College, composed of Joseph Grady, Francis Lammen, and Thomas Dunkin, in Wolf Hall, last Wednesday night. The subject of the debate was: "Resolved: That the adoption of the provisions in the Immigration Law of 1924 for the exclusion of the Japanese was the best policy for the United States to pursue." Delaware defended the affirmative side of the question, and received a favorable decision by unanimous vote of the judges. Mr. Channing Wagner, Mr. Caleb Burchenal, and Mr. James Hughes were the judges. Mr. Wagner is principal of the Wilmington High School. Both Mr. Burchenal and Mr. Hughes are prominent Wilmington attorneys. Dr. Owen Sypherd presided.

Both the judges and other spectators were loud in their praise of the Delaware Team. The victory over St. Joseph's gives the "Frosh" a clean slate of two victories and no defeats. Early in the year Temple University's Freshman Team was defeated by Delaware's First Year men. No other debates are scheduled for this year.

BALTIMORE POLY FIRST IN INTERSCHOLASTICS

Large Crowd Attends Annual Field and Track Meet

Many persons visited the University last Saturday to witness the thirteenth annual Interscholastic Field and Track Meet on Frazer Field. The competition, as usual, was divided into three classes: Class I for preparatory schools; Class II for first grade high schools, and Class III for secondary high schools. In Class I Baltimore Poly carried off the honors of the day with thirty-five points. It was followed by West Chester Normal with thirty-four points, and Gilmore County with twenty-three points. West Catholic was the winner of Class II, while Vineland High came second and Wilmington third. The competition between the latter was very strong. Du Pont High School again duplicated by taking Class III honors. Dover High took second place. Three new records were established for the meet. They were the one mile relay in Class I, by Catholic High, the shot put in Class II by West Catholic, and the broad jump in Class III by Easton. The big event of the day for Delaware men was the Inter-Fraternity Relay. It was won by Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity. The winners had trailed for three laps but finally won the lead by the splendid running of their anchor man, Tilghman.

W. C. D. Frosh Beat Sophs

The Freshmen of the Women's College triumphed over the Sophomores in the annual field meet last Saturday. The class of '28 showed its prowess by piling up a score of 197 points over the 192 points of the Sophomores. In the running and jumping events the two classes were about evenly matched, but the Freshmen won the basketball game by a score of 18-8. The tennis tournaments have not been played yet. The Freshmen were awarded a loving cup for their superior showing.

Selection of Druids

A number of men in the Freshman Class were seen on the campus last Saturday shortly after lunch, wearing pieces of green ribbon in the bottom button-hole of their coats. These ribbons are the pledge symbols of the Druid Society, the honorary Sophomore fraternity, which has a Chapter at Delaware. Those men of the Freshman class who have been chosen to constitute the society next year are: F. B. Creamer, D. W. Loveland, C. Gurney, W. Derickson, F. Wright, H. Maier, W. Reybold, V. Litchenstien, R. McLucas, G. Poole, W. Rosier, G. Moran, J. Wilson, J. Jones, and G. B. Pusey.

COLLEGE HOUR

The program of College Hours this year was the best ever presented in this University. The speakers were, for the most part, persons of wide reputation and great ability. They were drawn from all fields, and spoke on a wide variety of subjects including drama, literature, art, law, history, politics, and the natural sciences. Such a wide scope of topics gave a balance to the program, which was rather uncommon prior to this year. Appreciation is due those who were instrumental in securing the lecturers and in arranging the schedule.

The Delaware College Orchestra has not been much in evidence at College Hour this year. Formerly, it was a large, active organization and it furnished good music. We realize its value after having been without it for some time. There should be enough talent in the Student Body next year to form just as good an orchestra as we have ever had before. Plans for its reorganization should be started before college closes, to have it well under way by fall.

IDEAS ABOUT IDEAS

College educators have failed to impress students with the importance of the inter-relationship of courses. Professors are satisfied to instill in the minds of their students the rudiments of the subjects which they teach, without once laying stress upon the fact that all branches of learning are more or less complimentary. Students remember courses by the symbols that represent them, and by the class-room in which they are taught. A lecture on English, or any other subject, is stored away in its own little compartment in the mind, and is not used until some direct reference brings a remnant of it to light again. The same data, if catalogued by a process of association with relative information on another topic is more readily available and is, therefore, more valuable.

It is hardly possible to appreciate the brilliant Elizabethan period in English history without an acquaintance with Shakespeare's interpretation of that period. To know Carroll, the author of a fantastic child's tale, as an astute mathematician, is to remember him with added interest. Dark Russia is best understood by those who read the works of her melancholy geniuses. Newton was struck by more than ideas—so it is by the inconsequential that we remember the monumental in his career.

The mastery of a great mass of unrelated facts should not be the ambition of a college career. More to be desired is the ability to weigh facts on their real value, and to record them in the mind by a process of association. Constructive thought is necessary but the results merit the effort.

EGOISM AND ALTRUISM

"Yes, yes—I know—but listen to what I have to say," says one undergraduate.

"You've got some good ideas there. Let's see what you think of my plan," says another.

There is a vast difference between the first student and the second student. The first is an egotist and has much confidence in himself. He thinks that the other man should accept his opinions and ideas without objection. Here is a typical case of rank egotism.

The second student, the one who is not quite so sure of himself, and who honors the opinions of the egotist, is the altruist. This man has some regard for others as well as for himself. Already he has gone a long way toward finding his true social status.

The egotistical undergraduate is an individual with individualistic aims. He may be able to render that "service" of which we hear so much at Delaware, but, after all, he has had too much "I" in his accomplishments. He has cared too little for the opinions of his contemporaries. "Service" which is rendered by the egotist is too self-centered to be of real value.

Members of the faculties of the University of Pennsylvania and of Swarthmore College are to be the speakers. After the dinner there will be a dance in Sussex Hall.

Here are some more suggestions concerning "What Delaware Needs Most":

1. A large electric sign, reading "This is the University of Delaware—the only institution of its kind," set up in the center of Frazer Field. This will be good advertising as all the passengers on the B. & O. will read it.

2. A statue of "destructive criticism" erected in the basement of Recitation Hall.

3. A premature growth of trees in front of the Library so that the fact that this building is ill-proportioned will not be visible to the casual observer.

4. Instead of lectures at College Hour, what would be more appropriate than a series of Chautauqua entertainments; such as, a magician, a ventriloquist, trained poodles, lady acrobats, a saxophone quartette, educated seals, a negro spiritualist, and a contortionist.

5. A special building for the collegiately love-sick who, at present, employ the periodical room in the Library as a rendezvous in which to stage-whisper their feeble-minded terms of endearment.

6. A slogan.

7. H. L. Mencken.

Blue Hen Out Soon

The Blue Hen will not be published until May 21 or 22, because of an unavoidable delay at the establishment where it is being printed. Such was the announcement given out by F. R. Warner, Business Manager of the publication, after recently interviewing the publisher of the book.

The 1924-1925 Blue Hen promises to be a fine publication. This year the expense of printing the biennial has been greater than in former years. The book is printed in colors and is almost entirely formal. It has a Malloy covering which has been very attractively designed.

The number of copies which will be available for purchase will be limited, and reservations should be made for copies by making a deposit with any one of the following men: J. T. Ash,

P. R. Rinard, F. R. Warner, A. L. Simon, R. Muhlig, and W. J. Lank.

Century Club Meeting

The New Century Club of Newark held its meeting last Monday afternoon in Residence Hall. The members of the club were the guests of Miss Robinson. Mrs. Heim, president of the club, presided at the business meeting. Following the business session, Mr. Rodney Sharp gave the guests a very interesting talk about his recent trip to New Zealand. Dean Robinson then took her guests to the Warner Room where refreshments were served and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed.

with the honors of the evening. Dr. Patterson handled a banjo and musical saw with greater ability than the leader in "Blackstone's Blowing Buglers." It is rumored that this team will tour Europe next summer giving the folks a real treat.

Following the huge success of Dr. Patterson the club decided it was useless to proceed any further but managed to get through the program via Stroud's dancing, Sagnella's and Givan's music and Walker and Green's nonsense. Although the Newark show could not compare with the Wilmington representation the local folks seemed to gobble it up like Indians chewing sassafras root. John Pool and his Band deserve special mention for they provided the best merriment of a delightful evening.

Sailing West to India

SINCE the days of Christopher Columbus men have felt the call to "sail due west to find India." In an organization like Westinghouse, such pioneering spirits find happy haven as research engineers. Their every thought is a question—every energy bent to discover new and more effective answers to baffling problems.

Immediately Westinghouse began to build alternating current machines of high voltages, for example, the problem of insulation became acute. For thirty-five years high voltages and insulation have formed an endless chain of problems. As voltages have been increased, improved insulation has been demanded. As insulation has been bettered, voltages have been still further increased.

One striking contribution of Westinghouse research engineers has been the perfection of an entirely new insulation material—Micarta. Possessing many of the qualities of metal, paper, fiber, mica, gum, rubber, Micarta differs in radical respect from all of these.

It serves industry indirectly as improved insulation material, and also directly because of superiorities when used for gears, propeller blades, and the like.

Only the imagination can set a limit on the field for the research engineer—or for an organization that centers around him.

This advertisement is one of a vocational series, outlining the fields for engineering achievement in the Westinghouse organization. A copy of the entire series will be sent to anyone requesting it.

Del. Teachers' Conf.

More than a hundred State high school teachers gathered at this University on Friday and Saturday, May 8 and 9, for the seventh annual conference of high school teachers. The conference opened with a banquet in Old College, Friday evening, at which Mrs. William K. du Pont was toastmistress. Governor Robert P. Robinson, who was expected to be a guest, was unable to attend because he had been called to New York on business.

Dr. Walter Hulihan, on behalf of the University, and Dr. F. M. K. Foster, on behalf of the faculty, extended greetings to the visitors. Following the welcome, many of the high school teachers of the state gave short talks.

At 9.30 o'clock Saturday morning, an address was made before the teachers by Professor C. J. Rees, of the University faculty, on "The Typewritten Examination." Principal M. Channing Wagner, of the Wilmington Schools, gave a talk on "Extra-Curricular Activities in the High School." Discussion followed both these talks. John Shilling, Assistant State Superintendent of Public Instruction discussed matters pertaining to the State Department of Education.

Most of those who attended the Conference were present at the Interscholastic Field and Track Meet held on Frazer Field Saturday afternoon.

Student Council Dance

The annual Inter-Scholastic Dance given by the Student Council last Saturday evening to visiting athletes proved a most delightful affair.

The Armory was decorated to represent a huge spider web. The dancers caught in its meshes were expected to act up to their parts as trapped insects.

Madden furnished excellent music.

the Business Division. Much was accomplished in both sections. About twenty-five college papers were represented by their respective Editors and Business Managers. Each Editor gave a short account of the policy of his paper, its features, and the number of paid subscriptions obtained from the Student Body and Alumni. In this way, an exchange of ideas was effected, which was of much value to those present.

After all business had been transacted, election of officers for the coming year took place. W. Lee Starke, Editor-in-Chief of "The Targum," Rutgers College, was elected President of the I. N. A.; Dunham, Editor-in-Chief of "The Phoenix," Swarthmore College, Vice-President; Deane, Allegheny College, Secretary; and Woodside, Business Manager of "The Dickinsonian," Dickinson College, was elected Treasurer.

The twelfth annual conference will be held at Swarthmore College next year. "The Review" was represented at the Conference by J. C. Eyer, Delaware College Editor; E. E. Berry, Business Manager; Miss Ady, Women's College Business Manager, and Miss Nunn, Assistant to Miss Ady.
