The Rev. Father Dougherty was assisted in the celebration of nuptial mass by the Rev. Father Fitzgerald of Havre de Grace.

The church was beautifully decorated with pink and white blossoms and ferns. Mrs. J. P. Armstrong played the wedding march which was sung by Mrs. H. R. Tyson. The bride wore a becoming gown of white and carried white chrysanthemums; Mrs. Boulden of Perryville, a sister of the bride, who was matron of honor, wore a gown of white with girle of pink, and carried pink flowers. Mr. Charles Murphy acted as best man.

COL. TOWNSEND MAKES FIRST AD- DRESS—URGES STATE CO-OPERATION

Members of the Republican Active Club and their guests, the members of the Hughes' First Voters Club, were addressed at Republican Headquarters in Wilmington last Friday evening by Congressman Thomas W. Miller, Colonel John G. Townsend, Republican nominee for governor; Geo. M. Fisher, nominee for lieutenant-governor; and David J. Reinhardt, nominee for attorney general. The meeting was presided over by Assistant City Solicitor John F. Lynn. Colonel Townsend, the first speaker, in opening his address remarked that he was proud of the fact that he has been a life member of the Republican Club, and suggested that efforts be made to secure more members for the club from lower Delaware. Colonel Townsend made a most favorable impression. He said in part:

"I come not only as one of that plain citizenship which makes up Delaware, but as the nominee for Governor of the State. I come, I think you will agree, not as the choice of any one section, nor of any one opinion; I come, and proud I am, as the man from the ordinary walk of our life, as your candidate, chosen by ordinary people. I so feel the appreciation and (continued on page 4)

W. C. T. U. CON- VENTION CLOSES

Suffrage Endorsed And New Departments Established

Following the election of officers and the passage of some important resolutions, the annual convention of the Delaware W. C. T. U. came to a close last Friday after a session lasting three days, at Delaware Avenue Baptist church, Wilmington. The following were elected delegates to the national convention which meets this fall in Indianapolis: Mrs. Kate Butler, Wilmington, delegate at large; from New Castle county, Mrs. Elsie McVaugh, Hockessin, and Mrs. Napoleon Correll, delegates; Mrs. Fannie B. Joseph and Miss Annie Lynch, alternates; Kent county, Mrs. M. E. Curtis of Harrington, delegate, and Mrs. Harry Herring, of Felton, alternate; Sussex county, Mrs. Lillie Sudler, of Bridgeville, delegate, and Mrs. Daisy Richard of Greenwood, alternate.

Resolutions indorsing the enfranchisement of women in Delaware, the abolishing of the whipping post, the non-granting of the liquor license to persons who do not understand the English language, customs and laws, the petitioning of the Legislature to provide some relief for the feeble-minded and several others were passed at the concluding session of the convention.

Two new departments were organized, one on anti-polygamy, of which Mrs. Lila Aron, of Dover, was appointed superintendent, and the other for mental defectives, of which Mrs. James S. Gamm of St. Georges was elected superintendent.

Seaford was selected as the next meeting place. The report of the credentials committee stated that there were 92 voting delegates present. The convention pledged $137 for work to be conducted by the State W. C. T. U. for anti-polygamy, a newly created department. Other pledges and collections received by the convention amounted to $86.80.

The convention presented to Mrs. Messick, the president, a beautifully fitted leather traveling case, also a bouquet of roses.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE WORK- ERS VISIT NEWARK

Only Begun To Organize For The Fight

Anti-suffrage arguments were presented last evening at the Newark High School building by Mrs. Henry B. Thompson of Wilmington and Miss Lucy Price, anti-suffrage worker from Ohio.

Mrs. Thompson in a few introductory words declared "we all admire the push enterprise, and go, of the suffragists, and wish to say that the criticisms which may be expressed this evening are leveled only at the 'Cause.' The suffragists are active and enterprising, and people say to us 'You are antis, what do you do?' And if we do do we are accused of being just like the suffragists. But we have decided that the people must be educated. Many believe in suffrage because they have been told that suffrage will do certain things. They are told that suffrage like a great wave is coming, but I tell you suffrage has been organized sixty-five years; the antis have only begun to organize—nationally five years ago, and in Delaware only three months ago, for previous to that time we were only a committee. We are starting out, therefore, not on a suffrage hike, but on an anti-suffrage automobile trip. Up to this time our men have regarded suffrage as a joke. This year, however, both of our presidential candidates have declared for suffrage, and they are awakening to the seriousness of the situation. They are asking do we really want to increase our vote by a double vote?"

The speaker took her hearers back to the Stone Age, referring to the evolution of law, and the divergent duties of man and woman. "No two people can be head of a family," she declared; "no company has two presidents—there must be a president and a vice-president. Men are the natural lawmakers; they have made the laws for generations and they make them as well as they can be made. In reading history we find accounts of women at different periods demanding and attaining governmental control. You all (continued on page 8)

WAGE WAR AGAINST SALOON

Epworth League Adopts Resolu- tion At Recent Convention

The Wilmington District Epworth League convention which was in session for two days last week at Newport M. E. church, came to a close on Friday, with an address by the Rev. Herbert B. Randolph, D. D., pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal church, Wilmington.

A resolution providing for a united effort to banish the saloon for the country was passed in the afternoon. Forty-four delegates and eighteen ministers were in attendance. Professor and Mrs. Harold C. Case gave several selections.

The Junior League hour was in charge of Miss Carrie Dempsey of Galena, Md. She gave some practical suggestions for work that the juniors can do. About fifty juniors were present.

DELAWARE DEFEATS P. M. C.

Delaware College opened its football season last Saturday with a decisive victory over Pennsylvania Military College at Chester. The score was 21 to 0. About 100 students accompanied the team to Chester, and marched in military formation to the football field preceded by the college band. The game proved that, in spite of the absence of several veteran players who are on the Mexican border, Delaware has a team that will be a credit to the college. On both offensive and defensive the best game for Delaware was played by Weldin, Selby, Looze, and Fidence. Clancy, a new man who comes to Delaware from Colby College, Maine, played a remarkably good game at end. Now that the team has shown its mettle, the students are looking forward with confidence to the games with Haverford, Western Maryland, Dickinson, etc.

Beginning on Wednesday the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will run a special train from Wilmington to Newark each morning, to accommodate students living in Wilmington who commute. This train will leave Delaware avenue at 7.45 and arrive here at 8.10 o'clock. Such a train was practically a necessity to make the new schedule in Delaware College a success. First period is at 8.15 o'clock. To make this class students who used the B. & O. were required to get a train at Delaware avenue station at about 6.30 o'clock, the next train getting here too late for the class.

Big Fire At Dayetts Mill

Old Landmark Destroyed—Work of Rebuilding Begins At Once

Fire of unknown origin on last Thursday destroyed the large flour mills of J. Irvin Dayett, at Cooch, causing a loss of $31,000, $12,000 of which was not covered by insurance. Following the visit of insurance commissioners today, the work of rebuilding will begin at once.

Mr. Dayett lives with his family about two hundred feet from the mill. His daughter, who was awakened by the barking of a dog about 2 a. m., first discovered the blaze. The alarm was immediately sounded but before help came the fire had spread over the building.

Newark firemen were summoned but were handicapped in their response by a heavy fog. When they arrived there was no chance whatever of saving the main mill building.

In addition to the main mill, known as the clover mill, two smaller buildings adjoining were also burned. The firemen managed to save the elevator building, a short distance from the mill, although on fire several times. In saving the structure it was necessary to pump thousands of gallons of water into it from the race, and it is feared this water totally destroyed the value of the 5,000 bushels of wheat stored there.

Mr. Dayett's greatest personal loss was on the contents of the mill. There were stored in the buildings, 13,000 bushels of wheat, and large quantities of oats, corn, flour, and dairy food. Practically all of this was destroyed.

During the remained of the week thousands of bushels of wheat smoldered within the demolished walls, the pile at times cracking and breaking into flames. On Tuesday morning, fanned by the high wind, the fire again became menacing and Newark firemen were again summoned, and a steady stream was thrown upon the burning grain and debris from 8.30 until noon.

In the meantime Mr. Dayett has been busy with plans to take care of his local and foreign business. Ground has already been broken for a new warehouse and an office opened to handle the feed business. One carload was received today and another will arrive in a few days.

Contractor Wells of Townsend will arrive next week to start a new building on the site of the old mill, which was originally built in 1836.

WINTER EGGS IN DELAWARE

A. M. Pollard gives the fifth of a series of practical articles on Eggs and How to Get Them on the ordinary farm under ordinary conditions. This article tells how to guard against Broodiness and discusses the elimination of certain strains and weak members.

Undesirable Features—I want to say a few words about certain undesirable features which are becoming too common. I refer to the increase of broodiness among Leghorns, and also to troubles connected with the organs of reproduction.

Broodiness, the maternal instinct, is, or should be, absent in certain breeds. Its reappearance is due to reversion. Broodiness can be eliminated by strict methods of breeding. Reversion is not due to foods nor to methods of feeding. The silly argument that some food constituents cause broodiness are what may be expected from the ignorant. Leghorns which show any signs of broodiness at any time, should never be used as breeders. The trouble originated in one or two prominent strains which have been extensively distributed. As these strains are becoming more inbred, without specially guarding against broodiness, the trouble is increasing. This point is well known to many breeders, and in other countries, there are thousands, that is, members of Breeders Associations and similar organizations, who know that broodiness in Leghorns is purely a question of breeding.

If a hen becomes only slightly broody for a few days, a proportion of her progeny will inherit the tendency. If two birds having the broody instinct slightly developed, be mated, some of their progeny will inherit the tendency in a greatly increased degree.

As regards weakness in the organs of reproduction, the same remarks apply. Breeders are warned against using a hen as a breeder if she has at any time had trouble in laying, such as protrusion of the vent, too many soft-shelled eggs, etc. The armchair "director authority" writes that these troubles are due to forcing foods. As regards the laying competition that point may be dismissed. The birds are not forced. Further than that, it may be pointed out that if these troubles were of modern origin, the time during which such cases of inherited weaknesses could have been produced, is too short. It is absolutely foolish to argue that modern breeding methods cause the trouble. We are breeding more birds, and we are taking accurate note of causes of sickness and death. Therefore, more cases of these troubles are recorded. What precisely is the fact is as follows:

In certain strains, there are weak members. This is true also among mankind, and also stock of all kinds. The weakness may be in some organ. The tendency to weakness is hereditary, and appears in a definite ratio among the descendants of the faulty parents. Knowing this, it becomes a matter for the careful breeder to breed right, and he can succeed if he works on approved methods. As a rule the trouble is not prominent among the more experienced breeder's flocks. In several cases, out of a pen of ten birds, bred by one person, several birds have come to an end through some trouble connected with the organs of reproduction. Unfortunately some of the less experienced breeders still force their fowls. They use patent foods, spices, and other injurious nostrums, and they, in spite of repeated warnings, use green bone indiscriminately. There never was, in my mind, any question of general deterioration. The contrary is shown in the public records. But as our entries in the competition increase in number, so do the efforts of bad methods of breeding make their appearance, and hence the words of warning. Without the incentive of our egg-laying competitions, it is doubtful if breeders would so carefully develop their stock. The fact that in a few years, from the beginning of a handful of careful breeders, we have now some hundreds, bids one hope that as the years pass, the majority of the poultry owners in this state, will, by adopting scientific methods, breed sound, healthy stock only, and of the greatest economic value.

Motorcyclist's Skull Crushed

Arthur D. Hadley, aged 21, of 1613 West Ninth street, Wilmington, while riding on a motorcycle on Sunday afternoon of last week, collided at Gilpin avenue and Union street with an automobile owned and driven by James T. Skelley. The cycle struck the middle of the car and Hadley was thrown heavily. He was picked up senseless and taken to Delaware Hospital where it was found his skull had been fractured. He died later in the evening. Oliver Corrigan of 1812 Union street, was riding with Hadley on a seat on the rear of the cycle but escaped injury when the collision occurred.

Modern Market For Wilmington

After investigating Wilmington markets, a representative of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, recommends a modern market house in place of the King street market, the abolition of the office of clerk of the market, and a non-partisan marketing commission with a superintendent of markets. He also suggests the erection of an enclosed market building on King street between Fourth and Eighth to take up an entire block. The Market Commission after public discussion will consider and act upon the report.

Death From Electric Shock

While coupling wires connecting transformers of lines supplying electric current to other towns on the peninsula, E. D. Mushrash, late of Oil City, Pa., General Superintendent of the Eastern Shore Gas and Electric Company was instantly killed on Wednesday evening at the power plant in Laurel. He was stooping under a series of high tension wires and his arm chanced to strike one carrying 6600 volts. He was thrown against a transformer and killed instantly. Local Superintendent H. L. Richardson was holding one wire which Mr. Mushrash was handling and was shocked by the current which passed through his body.

Alpha Process Plant Burned

Boys playing ball on Sunday afternoon of last week noticed smoke coming from the plant of the Alpha Process Company on the East side of the Market street causeway near Guthrie's lane and turned in an alarm from a nearby box. The firemen had a long battle with the flames and worked till 11 p. m. About half of the plant was destroyed together with a large amount of leather strippings piled in bags in the front and rear yards as also some valuable machinery recently installed. The loss is put at $10,000, covered by insurance. The plant is not operated on Sunday and the watchman and a few other employees who were about the premises cannot account for the blaze. The Crew-Levick Oil Company's distributing station adjoining the plant on the south was in much danger. The Fame Company rolled out many barrels of oil from the store-room. A building 50 feet from the tanks caught on fire several times but the flames were checked. A broken main limited the water supply and some of the engines pumped direct from the Christiana.

Fine Old Mansion Burned

The mansion house, erected in 1824, on the farm of Thomas V. Craven, a wealthy glass manufacturer of Salem, N. J., located three miles east of Middletown was burned late on the night of September 30. The tenant, Richard C. Manlove, and several members of his family were asleep when the fire started in the upper rooms of the rear wing where the colored help slept. A young daughter of the tenant was awakened by the smoke and the family was aroused. Many residents of Middletown and the firemen with their chemical apparatus hurried to the scene and saved most of the contents of the house. The house was fully insured and will be rebuilt as the substantial brick walls are still standing. Mr. Manlove secured a dwelling in Middletown and moved his effects there. It is thought that a lamp left burning in one of the rooms of the servants who were absent at the time, caused the blaze.

DEFINING AMERICAN INSTITUTIONS

At no election since the Civil War, has the issue been so clearly drawn as at the election only three weeks away. The spirit of American institutions will be redefined. We are to decide at the polls what we represent. Not only what we stand for in our commercial relations, nationally, but what the Nation stands for in its dealings with foreign powers. The question arises, whether graceful Princeton quibble or straight American is to be our National tongue; whether academic theory or every day facts are the basis of thought. Defend or condemn, we must admit that American thought and American policy as expressed by the present Administration during the past four years, is radically different from that of the past. Whether this shall maintain, or go back to rugged Truths, clearly defined and strongly defended, is the issue. Internal affairs are important but not to be compared with the decision of what constitutes America and American policy. This policy as now being expressed is in direct contradiction to the ideas and practices of the Republican Party. Here in Delaware Republicans have opportunity and responsibility of placing Republican votes in the National Congress. In the office of U. S. Senator the Republican Party have by primary and regularly constituted convention, renominated Senator H. A. duPont. That in itself is sufficient to warrant his support. But further, a life time experience in National Service makes him peculiarly fit for the National emergency. In Foreign Diplomacy, Preparedness, few Senators are so well qualified to serve as he. As Senator from Delaware, he has served on most important Committees. While looking after the State's interest, he has never been an office filling politician. He has taken a broader view—that of thinking and acting Nationally—something that cannot be said of the Junior Senator.

But aside from all this, he is the regularly elected Republican nominee. To oppose him, is to lend aid to the Democrats. The opposition of the so-called third party (A. I.—Allee) is based on personal hatred. When this hatred becomes so intense as to be a party to defeating the Republican candidate for U. S. Senator then we doubt not only their judgment but their honesty. Either Senator duPont goes to the Senate or a Democrat goes—that is the issue. If Republicanism means anything there is no doubt of the result. What is needed now is that the Republicans of Delaware proceed to present their platform and nominees to the public intelligence.

Too much attention is being given to those with personal grudge, desired for personal gain and personal hatred. They are for Republican victory or against it—that is of their responsibility and decision.

The issue before campaign managers is duPont or Wolcott. No doubt exists in the minds of any citizen believing in the principles of the Republican Party.

COL. TOWNSEND MAKES FIRST ADDRESS

the responsibility that I announce to you, as my only pledge, my strongest determination in this contest, and my best service if elected. With this, I present my case, not personally, but as your candidate. In that view I am glad that our ticket is representative, in that it is chosen from the various walks of life and various phases of thought.

"If I have any of the qualifications necessary to serving the State, it is the fact that my work has brought me in touch with people all over the State. In the woods as lumberman, at the cashier's window, in the directors' room, as a producer, as a business man, my experience has been such that I can in some degree feel the needs of these men. My work and association with them have made us acquainted. They can express their views in my language, and actual experience in their work, has given me an appreciation and understanding of their point of view. This living with them, working with them, has given me an experience that will, I believe, enable me to measure up in some degree to the honor you have bestowed on me. I can by this experience better feel their needs. My contact with the mechanic, the farmer, the business man, the work I have done gives me a better sense of appreciation. I feel their needs, because I feel them myself.

"Speaking of this understanding and appreciation of the needs of the day, I have felt that Delaware is about to make another stride in advance. The relationship of Wilmington and the rural sections is one solely of understanding, a better acquaintance and appreciation of each other's needs. Neither can attain its greatest success or realize its fullest opportunities without the co-operation of the other. Rural Delaware needs Wilmington's aid and support, likewise Wilmington needs the co-operation of the country districts. Surely, we have reached the conviction that one is vitally essential to the success of the other. The growth of your city demands, no doubt, legislation. Consideration and careful working out of your plans, not only adds to your efficiency but to the rural growth. If I can be in any way the medium of a better understanding and closer relationship, I should be proud indeed. This is a campaign not for sectional superiority but for State advance. And there is much to be discussed, thought out—much to be done.

"If Delaware is going to keep pace with the hustling changes of the day, it behooves us to give our time and energy to the task. This old state, prided as the Union's first, has a history and tradition of which we cannot be too proud. We read of the struggles and achievements, making our state what it is today. Those leaders of thought and action make up our proud and boasted roll of honor. Thinking we may catch their secret of success, we read of their problems and the way they faced them. But no, our problems are different, our issues are not the same. We can catch only the inspiration. It becomes us then to take increased determination from their success, and face, with honesty, our problems as they with such sterling integrity faced theirs. Only by such determination can we measure up to our responsibilities. New conditions exist. Their lives and history bring out the issue of the hour—a determined expression of manhood.

"In speaking of Delaware's history and her roll of honor, we can well feel proud of the part that the Republican party has played. Its representatives have figured in the council of the nation's progress, its record in state administrations is a well-earned boast. Today, the party awaits challenge. We stand on our record. Questions of national thought can well be discussed by our representatives. In the state, the administration just drawing to a close, serves well our ambition. Charles R. Miller, of Wilmington, nominated by a representative of my home county, has served well the whole state. In his administration, as well as in that of his predecessors, we can show years of constructive legislation. We can only promise to carry on the work, much of which has been so far advanced. We can only promise to meet our problems as did he, and others who preceded him, with determination and with idea of service.

"At the risk of everything personal, they have given their best. And this best is something of which the whole state is proud.

"In all this, I have spoken of Delaware as a Delawarean. As such I feel. Coming into the state over twenty years ago, I owe to Delaware whatever success has been mine. For this success, for the honor that has been given me, I owe a debt of gratitude that can never be paid. Whatever I am, Delaware has made me. In view of her past, I hesitate. But so honored by you, I read of manhood expressed with honesty in facing the problems of a past day and pledge my best to those of our day."

Colonel Harvey's Decision

Colonel George Harvey, one of the strongest friends the Democratic administration ever had, says he cannot support that administration any longer because he is sure that the Republican Party with Hughes as leader "is better equipped to give the country military and industrial preparedness, government by and for the people and national honor and opportunity." So one by one the Democratic leaders are acknowledging the failure of the Democratic Party to keep its pledge and to give us an efficient business government.

The President And Women's Suffrage

Addressing the president of the Woman's Democratic Club of Portland, Ore., a few days ago, President Wilson wrote:

"As a very sincere advocate of the extension of suffrage to women, it seems to me a very great disservice to the cause that partisan use should be made of it, particularly at a time so critical as this, when the question is about to be determined whether we shall keep the nation upon its present terms of peace and good will with the world or turn to radical changes of policy which may alter the whole aspect of national life.

Mr. Hughes might, of course, take advantage of a similar opportunity to indorse partisan activity by the equal suffragists; for the very reason upon which Mr. Wilson bases his disapproval. But thoughtful people friendly to equal suffrage, looking beyond this campaign, and to a time beyond remembrance of its asperities, will, in our opinion, be disposed to hold that the policy followed by the suffragists of Illinois is the policy that should be followed by the suffragists of the nation.

Suffrage is not a partisan, but an ethical, question.

BOYS AND GIRLS VISIT SPRINGFIELD

it does me to meet the boys and girls who are going to make history. You are the picked boys and girls from our state about to go to meet the picked boys and girls from all over the country. I assure you it is a great opportunity. As we grow older our habit of observation becomes less keen. I urge you to see with quick eyes and alert minds, and store away in your mind helpful memories from this trip.

"Ruskin, the great art critic, it is said, would not allow his boy or his girl to see a poor picture because he wanted them to get the ideal fixed in their minds. You are going to see the products of the farms—products that have been brought to the greatest perfection known. You are going to get new ideals, which we hope will become fixed." Professor Hayward emphasized the responsibility that rests upon every member of the team. "The government is spending the money to send you," he said, "but the government expects a return in your enthusiasm and the encouragement which you will henceforward lend to extension work in Delaware." He urged the contestants to write reports of the trip and give them to the papers, in order that the State may know of the opportunities that are to be found in Delaware. "I sometimes think," the speaker said, "that the people of Delaware don't begin to appreciate the opportunities they have. It is human nature to think that 'just over the mountain' there are better things. We want you boys and girls to help people realize that right here in Delaware we too have good things. About four years ago a green boy from the city entered the agricultural department at Delaware College. He decided to try, in his second year, for the cattle judging team to be sent to the National Dairy Show. The professors thought, 'He'll never make it.' He had hardly seen a cow before he came to the college. But the boy worked early and late, and when the tests came he showed himself to be among our best. He made the team and went to Chicago, where the show was then held. He judged with forty-eight boys from sixteen big states, winning among all that number second place, and also winning for himself a four hundred dollar scholarship at a great western university. You do not know when your actions are going to count to a wonderful advantage. I urge you to act at all times during the trip in a way that will win credit for yourselves and Delaware. In the meantime we shall follow you with our thoughts and good wishes, and wait to rejoice with you over those prizes."

The Springfield Exposition has been planned by the States Relation Service of the Federal Government.

Recruiting Stations Closed

Failure to obtain sufficient recruits for the National Guard to justify necessary expenditures of that service caused the War Department last Saturday to authorize departmental commanders to discontinue guard recruiting when results do not warrant continuance.

Since President Wilson issued the proclamation mobilizing the guard for Federal service at least three commissioned officers have been employed by each guard regiment in recruiting work. The expense of the campaign has been met by the Federal government.

"True Blue" Class Holds Reunion

The "True Blue" class from Jackson Union Sunday School met at the home of their teacher, Miss Mary E. Kimble, Appleton, on Saturday, September 30. This class was organized in 1909 and has met with their teacher annually. The meeting was called to order by the class president Miss Emily A. Scott. Minutes of the last reunion, Oct. 16, 1915, were read by Secretary, Miss Elsie F. Wingate. After singing the class hymn, "How Firm a Foundation," the Scripture lesson, Philippians IV 4.13, was followed by a prayer. The class aim is personal honor, loyalty to each other and to God. The secretary's report showed the members of the class having highest record for attendance to be Miss Mary H. Brown, Miss Clara A. Couden, Miss Emily A. Scott. The report of the treasurer, Mrs. J. Cecil Creswell, showed that the amount on hand Oct. 16th, 1915, was $6851. The free will offerings for missions since then and including September 30 were $11.35. Also at Christmas $2.28 was contributed and sent to the International Sunshine Society.

Besides the weekly offerings for Jackson Union S. S. the following contributions have been made. For lamp for Jackson Hall, $7.20; benefit the Union Hospital at Elkton, $5.50; for pastor of the Head of Christiana Church, $5.00; for International Sunshine Society, $5.00; for Home Missions, $5.00; for foreign missions, $5.00. The amount now on hand is $47.16.

Miss Isabel A. Scott, vice-president, read a report of the catechism work of which she has had charge. Two members of the class have completed the Beginners' Catechism and two others the Westminster Shorter Catechism. Others are making good progress in this work. The class president next gave a report of the prayer services of which she was leader. These have been conducted monthly and on Good Friday, with excellent interest and co-operation on the part of the class. A number of Bible chapters assigned by the teacher have been memorized and recited at Sunday School. Since the last class reunion seven "True Blues" have united with the Presbyterian Church and one with the Baptist church.

The election of officers followed the reports and resulted as follows: president, Miss Emily A. Scott; vice-president, Miss Edith A. Robinson; secretary, Miss Mary H. Brown; assistant, Miss Isabel A. Scott; treasurer, Miss Elsie F. Wingate; assistant, Miss Clara A. Couden; press reporter, Mrs. J. Cecil Creswell; teacher, Miss Mary E. Kimble; first assistant, Miss Evelyn F. Kimble; 2nd assistant, Miss Emily A. Scott. Two new members were elected, making a total attendance of fourteen "True Blues" and one visitor. A committee was appointed to receive Christmas post cards to be sent (not later than Nov. 1st) to Miss Annie Ferguson, a missionary in China, also material for making children's clothing, to be sent to an Italian mission in Philadelphia. As a closing hymn "God be with You" was sung and the class adjourned. The fourteen members present were photographed in groups on the green. The class was then invited to the dining room where refreshments were served. As it was then growing late all the "True Blues" bade their teacher Good-night, having spent a most enjoyable day.

"THE CRIMSON STAIN MYSTERY"

FEATURING MAURICE COSTELLO AND ETHEL GRANDIN

"The Crimson Stain Mystery."—Episode No. 1.

Synopsis of First Episode

The great city of New York is in a state of mind bordering on panic. Prominent men whose names are household words are murdered by an unknown assassin—strangled to death! Robbery is invariably the motive.

Dr. Burton Montrose, a famous scientist, discovers a biological element which he believes will improve the mental faculties of the human race, in time producing a race of super people. Applied in secret upon human subjects, the discovery reacts, changing them into cruel relentless murderers who have for their leader one Pierre La Rue. No one knows of the doctor's connection with the murders except the murderers themselves.

There is a hue and cry. The police, spurred on by the newspapers, bend all their efforts towards the solving of the mysterious murders, but find themselves completely baffled at every turn. The Examiner, the biggest newspaper, attacks the police for their failure to apprehend the criminals, and assigns Harold Stanley, son of the owner, to run down the only clue obtainable—an ante mortem statement made by a victim that the leader of the killers has a Crimson Stain in his eyes!

Harold Stanley and Florence Montrose, daughter of Dr. Montrose, are sweethearts. Walking one evening he tells her he is working on the mystery, when suddenly they see silhouetted on the window of a house three figures, one of whom is strangling the other, while the third is spurring him on to the deed. While Florence runs for help Stanley breaks into the house. In the darkness he is attacked by the murderer and he sees the Crimson Stain in the killer's eyes. Florence returns with the police in time to save Stanley.

That evening Stanley, his father, and Robert Clayton, an artist, are dinner guests at the Montrose home. During the evening, while Stanley, Florence, and Clayton are in the music room, Stanley's father is murdered in the dining room while alone. Florence discovers the body and sees the Crimson Stain who makes good his escape upon the approach of Stanley and Clayton who are attracted by Florence's screams.

Stanley vows never to rest until he has avenged his father's death.

About sixty leading taxpayers of New Garden township, Chester county, met last week and favored the improvement of the road leading from Toughkenamon to the Delaware line by township and individual subscription. Engineer N. R. Rambo of West Chester, was selected to supervise the work. The road for a distance of about four miles will be graded and improved and surfaced with slag which gives satisfactory results. the rest of the road to the Delaware line will be improved in the same manner.

The Consolidated Film Corporation recently tendered the critics of the different trades papers and newspapers an informal luncheon. After enjoying the sumptuous repast, the guests adjourned to the Metro projection room and witnessed an advance showing of the first two episodes of "The Crimson Stain Mystery," which will be shown by the Newark Opera House Company, beginning this Tuesday evening.

Three episodes give promise of a thrilling and absorbing serial that will undoubtedly hold audiences in suspense from the first to the last episodes.

Maurice Costello and Ethel Grandin play the leading role and are given ample opportunity to show their ability. They are supported by an excellent cast comprised of Thomas J. McGrane as Dr. Burton Montrose, Olga Olova as Vanya Tosca, the adventuress; William H. Cavanaugh as Felix Driscoll, N. J. Thompson as Jim Tanner, and The Crimson Stain Mystery (?) as Pierre Le Rue. The story is as follows:

Harold Stanley (Maurice Costello) is the son of a big newspaper owner and editor, and is working on his father's paper. Men in New York are being murdered wholesale by a band of stranglers, the police being helpless to stop them when the story begins. Stanley and Florence Montrose (Ethel Grandin), while walking one night, witness the murder of a man, silhouetted against a window curtain, by the straglers. While Florence goes for the police, Stanley breaks through the window and for the first time the band is seen at work. Harold sees a crimson stain in the eyes of the leader of the gang. Stanley's father offers a reward of $10,000 for the capture of the Crimson Stain band. That same night, while dining at the Montrose home, is strangled to death.

Dr. Montrose (Ethel's father) is an eminent scientist and discovers a biological element which he believes will improve the mental faculties of the human race, but, when tested, reacts, making murderers instead. The doctor is in no way suspected of his connection with the band.

In the second episode, Stanley takes charge of his father's newspaper and uses all his efforts to capture the murderers to avenge his father's death. The gang decide to kill Stanley, and Vanya Tosca is sent on ahead to Clayton's studio to put Harold out of the way.

Florence visits Clayton's studio and La Rue threatens to kill her. Stanley, coming up the stairs at that moment, hears her screams and goes to the rescue. He meets Tanner and a fight takes place. In the meantime, La Rue hypnotizes Florence and carries her out through another door just as Stanley breaks in the main door. Tanner takes Florence in an auto and makes for the den of the band. Stanley, looking out of the window, sees them and gives chase in his auto and rescues Florence. When they arrive at her home, her father states that only the one who hypnotized her can bring her out of the trance. —Adv.

Carty Harris, colored, charged with stealing a Holstein bull from the farm of the Hamm brothers at Cowgill's Corners, near Dover about three weeks ago, which he got another man to drive to Millington, Md., where it was recovered from a butcher to whom it had been sold, was located on the Cunningham farm, near Kenton, last week by Constable Van Sant, and Chief of Police Hurd, of Dover, acting on information from Detective Murphy, who had traced Harris but was unable, owing to illness, to go and arrest him. Harris had worked for the tenant on the Cunningham farm and went there on the night following the theft. He promptly surrendered when cornered.

Telephone courtesy means more than mere politeness. It means consideration for the feelings and convenience of others.

This is just as important in business as in social intercourse. In a telephone conversation the party to whom you are talking forms his judgment of you entirely by what you say and how you say it.

Good manners and amiability never fail to make a favorable impression and greatly facilitate good telephone service.

SAFETY-FIRST TRAIN RETURNS TO CAPITAL

Half Million View Exhibit

The Safety-First train which stopped in Newark last May and was visited by hundreds of local citizens, returned to Washington, September first, after a successful tour of four months, covering 9,400 miles over four different railroads. This all-steel train of 14 cars visited 87 cities and the exhibits were viewed by over 530,000 persons.

This unique exhibition of the activities of the Federal Government, consisting of 10 cars of exhibits, after inspection on May 1 by the President, members of his cabinet, and other Government and railroad officials at Washington, made a tour during May and June of 4,000 miles on the Baltimore & Ohio system, visiting the following cities in the order named: Philadelphia and Chester, Pa.; Newark, Del.; Baltimore, Frederick, Hagerstown, Md.; Winchester, Va.; Martinsburg, W. Va.; Cumberland, Md.; Grafton, Morgantown, Fairmont, Clarksburg, Parkersburg, W. Va.; Marietta, Athens, Chillicothe, Ohio; East St. Louis, Ill.; St. Louis, Mo.; Springfield, Ill.; Vincennes, Washington, Seymour, Ind.; Louisville, Ky.; Cincinnati, Hamilton, Dayton, Piqua, Lima, Ohio; Chicago, Ill.; Toledo, Sandusky, Cleveland, Akron, Youngstown, Ohio; Pittsburgh, Washington, Pa.; Wheeling, W. Va.; Cambridge, Zanesville, Newark, Columbus, and Chicago Junction, Ohio.

As an example of the enthusiasm with which the train was received, the mayor of Chicago Junction met the train at 5 a. m. and stated that he had distributed 15,000 posters in a radius of 12 miles from his city as a result the number visiting the train at this point was greater than the total population of the town.

During the early part of the trip the schools were in session and many of the scholars, accompanied by teachers, visited this train. The largest number passing through the train on any one day was about 9,000—on the second day at Columbus, Ohio.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Backers Of The Antis Discussed

1. The Liquor Men.

In the recent suffrage campaign in Pennsylvania, the liquor dealers expended thousands of dollars to back the antis. Of course, the reason is more than obvious. The coming of woman suffrage strikes the death-knell of the liquor traffic.

Now, I foresee one of the arguments of my opponents—"Oh, but visit the cabarets in the cities, night after night and see the women and young girls drinking at these places. It looks as if women would cut out 'booze dispensing' if they had the vote, doesn't it?" Not these women, no, nor yet, many of the antis. However, friends, have you ever considered what an infinitesimal percentage of our American women the cabaret frequenters represent? Exceedingly small when one considers the mothers of these same girls and the thousands and thousands of other mothers who would crush the liquor traffic, had they but the power so to do.

2. The "White Slaver"

How the "White Slavers" must chuckle when they hear of the performances of the "antis." My! We can almost hear them whispering (they never dare do aught but whisper) "Good! Good! Good! Hurrah for the 'antis.' One of their daughters may soon fall into my clutches but of course, they don't think so, and the fate of some other woman's daughter doesn't concern them in the least."

3. Exploiters of Women and Children.

Men like Senator Oliver of Pennsylvania, as bad as any slave driver. While paying his men employees the princely wage of from $1.00 to $1.50 per day, his fertile brain devised the plan of hiring women, at possibly 75 cents per day. Still later, not satisfied with accruing dividends, he needs must replace the women by girls, whom he probably pays 50 cents per day, while in addition, they revel in the luxurious sobriquet of "Greasy Olivers" because of the fact that their arms are covered with grease from shoulder to elbow, from operating the heavy machines, fit only for men to manipulate.

Now, my friends the Antis, do you wish to retain the distinction which you have already earned, of leading the cohorts of Booze, "White Slavers" and Child and Women Exploiters?

Were I an Anti I should loathe unutterably, executing any "coup d'etat," with a following of the be-mentioned monsters. Instead of cheers, I should expect hisses and to see at my side, in imagination, a ghostly procession of the victims of my followers. It wouldn't be

BOARD OF HEALTH ASKED TO RESIGN

Oct. 2, 1916, the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved that it is the sense of Council that should the Council order the 77 properties into the sewer that the Board of Health has recommended that it would be impossible for all these properties to connect within 30 days;

That it was the understanding of Council that the town would be divided into sections and that a reasonable number would be ordered in each month.

Be it further resolved that we ask the Board of Health to reconsider their action, and that when we adjourn to meet on Monday evening, Oct. 9 to receive their reply.

Attest

S. B. Herdman, Secy.
October 6, 1916

Council of Newark.

Gentlemen:

Upon consideration of your resolution of October 2, 1916, relative to reconsidering the 77 sewer connections the Newark Board of Health submitted to you for your approval and action, we deem it unwise at this time following the recent outbreak of fever to withdraw these names for sewer connections and the members of the Board of Health of Newark are undivided in their opinion that these properties are a menace to the public health and sewer connection should be ordered by Council in every instance.

The Board of Health fully recognizes the fact that it would be impossible to have everyone comply immediately.

The ordering of the 77 sewer connections would greatly assist the Board of Health in abating certain nuisances that exist and which we cannot touch until proper sewer connections are ordered or made. Ordering these sewer connections would in no way embarrass Council as when few connections were requested they have not seen fit to enforce the law in a single instance after the expiration of the 30 day limit.

We remain,

Respectfully yours,
Newark Board of Health,
H. J. Waston, Secy.

know from your reading that nation at the end of a year or two, has collapsed."

Mrs. Thompson referred to a recent visit to San Francisco and the meeting there of an old friend, now a resident of that city, "Come and take dinner with me," the friend said. "I should love to," the speaker had replied, "I have always wanted to dine in a real California home." "Oh, but we won't dine at home. No one has dinner at home in Frisco. It is the thing here to go in the evening to a restaurant." "And so it is in a suffrage state," the speaker declared. "The intimate evenings at home, the family life is gone; there is no helping the boy or girl with his lessons. In suffrage states we find divorce increasing all the time. In our little state of Delaware which has consistently refused woman suffrage for years we have only 16 divorces to every 100,000 inhabitants. In one suffrage state we find 158 divorces to every 100,000 population.

The speaker referred her hearers to the Bible—First Corinthians, eleventh chapter, and seventh verse: For man is the image and glory of God; but the woman is the glory of man." We cannot reverse the natural order of things. Woman is more valuable in the home than in politics. I ask all women to stand together and help us. Only this summer there has been formed a men's National Anti-Suffrage Association. Of the Delaware branch George Gray is president; George Elliott, vice-president. They intend to stand with us and help us."

A full account of Miss Price's talk will be given in next week's paper.

Eleven Potent Reasons Why Senator duPont Should Not Withdraw From the Republican Ticket; Five Potent Reasons Why Townsend, Reinhardt and Swain Should Withdraw, Without Further Delay, From the Party Wreckers' Ticket

(EDITORIAL)

tion action of the Republican State Committee and the four Republican district committees.

Every step he has taken has been marked by party loyalty and regularity. The suggestion that he withdraw is as insulting as it is unwarranted.

There is not one valid reason why Senator duPont should withdraw from the Republican ticket.

There are eleven good reasons why he should remain a candidate. They are:

First—He is a Republican.

Second—He has made an honorable record in Congress.

Third—He is the choice of the Republican electorate.

Fourth—He is the choice of the Republican caucus.

Fifth—He is the choice of the Republican State Convention.

Sixth—His candidacy has the ratification of the Republican State Committee and of the four district committees.

Seventh—His attitude towards all the other candidates on the Republican ticket is one of absolute loyalty.

Eighth—He has a valid right to expect and to demand from them the same measure of absolute loyalty toward himself, and his friends will insist that he receive it.

Ninth—The interests of our State and the country at large demand that Delaware shall return a Republican to the United States Senate to the end that that legislative body shall be in harmony with a Republican President and a Republican House, and Senator duPont is the only Republican Senatorial candidate in this State.

Tenth—He is entitled, by his record and by his renomination, to the support of every voter who deserves the name Republican, and also to the support of every lover of political fairplay and good government.

Eleventh—He was requested by influential Republicans and other friends to announce his candidacy for a renomination. It was at their solicitation that he did so. They stood by him in the Republican primary and in the Republican State Convention. They are standing by him today. They will stand by him through the campaign. It would be manifestly unfair to those loyal friends were he to entertain the thought of withdrawing from the ticket.

So much for the political status of Senator duPont. Now let us turn attention to an infinitely more serious phase of the Republican situation in this State. We refer to the fact that Colonel John G. Townsend, Jr., the Republican candidate for Governor; David J. Reinhardt, the Republican candidate for Attorney-General; and William J. Swain, the Republican candidate for State Treasurer, have been placed on the third ticket put in the field by the coterie of self-styled Republicans who are bent upon wrecking the Republican party and electing Democrats to office this Fall.

The seriousness of the situation is found not in the fact that they have been put on that party-wreckers' ticket, but in the fact that they have permitted their names to remain there, notwithstanding their knowledge that that ticket has been set up for the express purpose of wrecking the Republican party and defeating Colonel Henry A. duPont, the Republican candidate for United States Senator; Thomas W. Miller, the Republican candidate for Representative in Congress; George M. Fisher, the Republican candidate for Lieutenant-Governor; Charles J. Luff, the Republican candidate for State Auditor of Accounts, and Amos A. Watson, the Republican candidate for State Insurance Commissioner.

Surely Colonel Townsend, Mr. Reinhardt and Mr. Swain are not so lost to an intelligent understanding of the situation as to imagine for an instant that the friends of Senator duPont, Representative Miller, Mr. Fisher, Mr. Luff and Mr. Watson will condone or tolerate the act of party and associate disloyalty that would be symbolized by them continuing as candidates on that party-wreckers' ticket.

Political magnanimity is not an unknown quantity in Delaware, but it never yet has reached the stage of shouting approval of men who seek to climb into official place over the wreckage of the party that nominated them and over the bodies of their associates on a regularly-constituted ticket.

The question that now confronts Colonel Townsend, Mr. Reinhardt and Mr. Swain is whether, in this election, they prefer party wreckers' support to Republican support, or Republican support to party wreckers' support. They must realize that they "cannot have both the milk and the meat."

We have given eleven reasons why Senator duPont should not withdraw from the Republican ticket. We shall now give five potent reasons why Colonel Townsend, Mr. Reinhardt and Mr. Swain should withdraw from the party wreckers' ticket. They are:

First—They have been nominated by the Republican party for high and important office, and in the belief that they will do everything possible to promote the principles and policies of that party and to elect its representatives to office.

Second—The third ticket upon which they also have been nominated has been set up not to conserve the Republican party, but to wreck it; not to promote the principles and policies of that party, but to injure or destroy them, and not to elect representatives of that party to office, but to defeat them.

Third—The party wreckers' ticket represents no political impulse that recommends it to the favorable consideration of any loyal Republican or any lover of good government.

Fourth—Republican control of the next Congress may depend upon the re-election of Colonel duPont to the Senate and Representative Miller to the House. The failure of Colonel Townsend, Mr. Reinhardt and Mr. Swain to withdraw from the party wreckers' ticket is not only interfering with the proper and aggressive conduct of the Republican campaign but making possible a continuance of Democratic control of both branches of Congress.

Fifth—The Republican voters of Delaware will not support any man who strikes hands with or lends encouragement to a movement which has personal enmity for its chief impulse and the wrecking of the Republican party and the defeat of a majority of the candidates on the Republican ticket for its chief objects.

In view of the foregoing, and of the approach of the general election, it will be well for those men who have been scheming to get Senator duPont off the Republican ticket and to keep Colonel Townsend, Mr. Reinhardt and Mr. Swain on the party wreckers' ticket to abandon their impractical and impossible projects and to settle down to the legitimate enterprise of electing the Republican ticket that was nominated in Dover on August 22—and when we say "electing the Republican ticket," we mean electing all of it and not part of it.

No candidate on that ticket is so spineless as to permit himself to be used by any other candidate as a sacrifice for a Republican party wreckers' holiday. It will be better for those who are planning for that party wreckers' holiday to give heed to that fact now, when they have time to change their policy, than to ignore it until it is too late for them to do so. But, whatever they may decide to do, let them not lose sight of three material facts. One is that Senator duPont will remain on the Republican ticket until the polls close on November 7 and that the same public favor which won him the nomination will win him the election. Another is that it is not likely that Colonel Townsend, Mr. Reinhardt and Mr. Swain will so far forget themselves as to remain on the party wreckers' ticket. The third is that the Republican friends of Senator duPont, Representative Miller, George M. Fisher, Charles J. Luff and Amos A. Watson will not stand by and see them sacrificed on the altar of the Malodorous Order of the Political Double Cross for the benefit of any Republican candidate who is so indiscreet as to linger in the ante-room of the Order.

The friends of duPont, Miller, Fisher, Luff and Watson demand a square deal from and for every candidate on the Republican ticket. They want nothing less; they want nothing more, and they will know how to deal with those men who refuse to give it.
