SOYBEAN HAS HIGH PROTEIN VALUE

Canning And Preparation Advice Given By Nutritionist

A lot of gardeners have planted soybean varieties this year—and it is an excellent idea, too, since the food value of the soybean is exceptionally high. Miss Pearl MacDonell, nutritionist for the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service, says that soybean supplies good quantities of protein and other tissues. Its protein content ranks with that of milk, cheese, meat, fish, and eggs—in short, it can meet all the protein needs of the body, and in Oriental countries almost entirely replaces scarce meat in the diet of thousands of people.

There are several good ways to use soybeans, and in the United States relatively new food. The soybeans can be allowed to mature and be dried as other beans are, or they may be used fresh now like green peas or limas, or they may be canned for later use like green peas and limas.

Since green soybeans, like black-eyed peas, are difficult to shell, Miss MacDonell suggests that homemakers follow the method of the Chinese—drop the green beans in boiling water and parboil them for 2 or 3 minutes, and they can be shelled easily.

To can green soybeans, Miss MacDonell says to parboil them in the same way and shell them, then pre-cook 2 or 3 minutes; pack hot into jars (pints are recommended for soybeans), leaving 1-2 inch head space; add 1-2 teaspoon of salt to the pint jar, fill with boiling water, adjust covers; process 2 hours and 40 minutes for pints in the boiling water bath and 3 hours for quarts. In the pressure cooker, process 80 minutes for pints and 90 minutes for quarts.

Green soybeans are delicious prepared like new green peas. Boil in the shell for 2 or 3 minutes, shell, steam, or simmer beans in as little water as possible until tender, season with salt, pepper, and butter (or substitute), add a little top milk or cream.

Cooked green soybeans are also delicious in a mixed salad with equal parts of the cooked soybeans, chopped apple, raisins, chopped celery, and a few nut meats, served in shredded lettuce with salad dressing or mayonnaise.

MELON CROP IS DAMAGED BY APHIDS

No Satisfactory Control Measure Yet Found

Melon growers in Delaware have been experiencing a great deal of difficulty this year from a pest which ordinarily is not important. The melon aphid is usually considered only a minor pest in the State, but according to Dr. Paul L. Rice, entomologist for the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service, it has caused a great deal of damage during the current season.

The melon aphid is a sucking insect, and causes damage by removing the plant juices. It attacks cantaloupes, watermelons, squash, and related plants. Large clusters of the greenish-colored insects, commonly called plant lice, are found on the undersides of the leaves. Their feeding causes the foliage to curl and shrivel. A black, sooty fungus growth later appears on the leaves.

Control has been difficult because growers are not equipped to dust or spray their fields and also because nicotine sulphate, the most effective insecticide, has been scarce. A few growers have been able to apply the nicotine dust and have obtained satisfactory control. Many, however, have been unable to apply insecticides, and the aphids have caused damage ranging from insignificant amounts to total loss.

Either a three per cent nicotine dust or a nicotine spray made of one pint of 40 per cent nicotine sulphate and four pounds of laundry soap flakes per 100 gallons of water is the recommended control. These materials give satisfactory results if applied thoroughly before the leaves become curled. After the curling of the leaves control is much more difficult. The dust is more effective if applied with a power duster to which is attached a cloth trailer about 20 to 25 feet long which drags behind the dusting machine and confines the insecticide to the plants.

The reason for the sudden outbreak of the melon aphids this year is unknown, but Dr. Rice suggests that growers can be on the lookout for this pest next year and apply controls promptly.

William A. Adams' Ashes Scattered From Ascutney

The ashes of William Husey Adams, a former Newark resident, were cast to the winds from the top of Mt. Ascutney, Windsor, Vermont, on August 10 in a family ceremony which was a repetition of one performed on May 10, 1914 when the ashes of his father, George Daniel Adams, were cast into Lacey Brook from the same spot.

Mr. Adams, who died on October 26, 1942, was a former resident of Newark for several years having lived at 369 South College Avenue.

DELAWARE FARM FRONT THIS WEEK

ODT Accepts Motor Truck Applications

Farmers cooperating with the Agricultural Adjustment Agency's 1944 program may now file their performance records with their county committees if they have completed all of their 1944 practices.

County Agricultural Conservation association offices are prepared to compute the farm performances and prepare applications for benefit payments which will partially defray the costs to the farmer of these practices for increasing war food yields and rebuilding soil fertility.

Cooperating farmers will report their own performances. Community committees of the AAA will assist them on request, and county ACA offices will make a spot check as a precaution against a general misinterpretation of instructions.

The ODT has resumed acceptance of applications for purchase of new light motor trucks for essential civilian use to dispose promptly of a small number of such vehicles in dealers' stocks. Last month the essential civilian pool of these trucks (below 9,000 pounds gross vehicle weight) was exhausted and acceptance of applications was discontinued, but since then government exempt agencies have relinquished claims on remaining light units and they have reverted to the pool.

A supplemental large truck and bus tire quota of 25,000 has been authorized by the Rubber Director for August rationing, says OPA, and additional tires of size 8.25 and larger will bring the August quota to 85,000. However, this is still far short of estimated replacement needs.

County goals for wheat for harvest in 1945 have been announced by the Delaware Agricultural Adjustment Agency. There are 29,000 acres for New Castle County, 27,000 acres for Kent County, and 9,000 acres for Sussex County.

Clarence E. Ocheltree, state chairman of the AAA, explained that these goals were based on the declared planting intentions of the farmers in the State and that they equal the state goals recommended for Delaware by the national war food and feed goals committee. The 1945 State goal is 3,000 acres above the 1944 goal but 3,000 acres below the actual 1944 acreage.

Wheat farmers in the State are urged against over-planting their farm goals on account of the large stocks on hand, the limited storage facilities, the importance of maintaining a balance between crops, the possibility of another bumper crop in 1945, and the resumption of wheat production in the liberated countries in Europe.

Production of nitrogenous fertilizer materials for use on American farms will be adversely affected by curtailment of industrial supplies of nitric acid now critically needed by ordnance plants, says the WPB. Although this action darkens the outlook on nitrogenous fertilizers for use in 1944-45, WPB officials say it will still be possible to offset the action at least in part if arrangements can be made for larger imports of Chilean nitrates for agricultural use.

Production of superphosphate fertilizers will also be adversely affected by industrial shortages of sulfuric acid caused by increased demands of the Army and the Petroleum Administration for War, and WFA has been notified that its requirements will not be fully met. According to current production rates, about 8,000,000 tons of superphosphate fertilizers will be available for farm use in 1944-45, compared to 6,800,000 tons available for 1943-44.

Newark, Delaware, Thursday, September 7, 1944

RABIES WARNING ISSUED

Late summer is frequently the time when rabies, or "mad dog", scares occur and, because of this, the State Board of Health issues a statement that if a dog bites a person, but is not known to be rabid, the animal should not be killed immediately but, instead, should be shut up securely and watched for symptoms of rabies. If the dog is normal, and appears so for 10 to 14 days, the possibility of rabies may be dismissed. There is no danger then from the bite except the danger of infection that is common to all wounds. If the dog dies while it is shut up, the head should be packed in ice and sent at once to the State Board of Health laboratory, State House, Dover, for examination.

As in all cases of animal bites, the wound of a bitten person should be cleaned out and cauterized by a physician as quickly as possible. If the animal is rabid (mad) the Pasteur treatment should follow.

In cases where a doctor is absolutely unavailable, the Board suggests that the only home remedy which will do the least bit of good against rabies is iodine. Work it deeply into the dog bite and the surrounding tissue BUT STILL GO TO A PHYSICIAN AS SOON AS POSSIBLE.

That the Pasteur treatment is widely known and used now for persons bitten by dogs probably accounts for the fact that only 2 people in Delaware have died from rabies within the last decade.

The fact that it takes a comparatively long time for rabies to develop (10 days or more) makes possible the prevention of the disease AFTER the virus enters the body. Doctors use the Pasteur treatment, a protective measure consisting of a series of inoculations with a special rabies vaccine. This prevents the development of the disease in the great majority of cases IF it is started soon enough after infection and is continued long enough to give adequate protection. The treatment is of no value after the symptoms of rabies appear.

Rabies is caused by a "virus" which attacks the brain and spinal cord. An animal suffering from rabies has the virus present in its saliva. If a person is bitten by a rabid ("mad") animal the saliva, loaded with virus, enters his body through the bite, or it may enter the body through any other wound in the skin which is exposed to the saliva.

The virus enters the brain along the nerves. The closer the wound is to the brain, the more quickly the virus will reach it. For example, rabies develop earlier after bites on the head and face than on the hand, arm or leg and treatment should be commenced more quickly.

Not everyone develops rabies after having been bitten by a rabid animal or after wound contact with its saliva. But no one who has once shown symptoms of rabies has ever recovered.

There are 2 types of rabies—the "furious", and the "dumb", or paralytic, type. A dog suffering from the "furious" type alternates periods of excitement with periods of repose. As the disease progresses the dog becomes vicious and bites anyone in its way.

A dog with the dumb type of rabies shows about the same symptoms as one which is choked, because its throat and tongue are paralyzed. Persons are warned not to examine the mouths and throats of dogs in this condition in case they should be rabid and the hands should be scraped on the animal's teeth.

If a dog is killed, or dies under observation, the State Board of Health asks that the head of the animal be packed in ice to preserve it and sent immediately to the Board's laboratory in the State House at Dover, in order that it may be tested to determine whether or not rabies are present.

If it is necessary to shoot an animal for the protection of people, it should NOT be shot through the head, since this may interfere with the laboratory examination of the brain.

So far this year, the laboratory of the Board has examined 3 dog and 3 cat heads, only one animal of which proved to have rabies. Another head had been kept a week before shipping and was too decomposed to examine.

NEWARK "Look Forward"

(Editor's Note: This is one of a series of articles on affairs of a civic nature submitted by the author.)

By C. A. Moore

Newark not only is an educational community and will see a boom because of that field, it is also an ideal community capable of absorbing any increase in population, industry, and business. One must lose sight of inconveniences we all have experienced as civilians due to the war, the winner of which is the only consideration of all of us, yet it is time for us to plan its future development and be ready and prepared for peace.

Newark is so situated that it's only a few hours from a half dozen Metropolitan cities by rail, bus or automobile. The same is true of its desire for recreation and sports, whether it's the mountains, sea-shore, or Chesapeake Bay, hunting and fishing, golf, etc., are just around the corner. Farming and all agricultural pursuits surround us.

Therefore, Newark should not only attract the veterans, who desire its educational advantages but also to the older veterans an opportunity to establish his home, engage in farming or some industrial pursuit. This is true also of many of the defense workers living in our midst, now working here or in the nearby war plants. It is to be hoped that many of our own young men and women returning will stay and settle here.

Surrounded as we are by two important railroad systems, other factories or industrial plants, because of Newark's close proximity to the various Eastern markets might be encouraged to locate here. We must be prepared for any contingency.

Our local industries, having already established their own national and international markets, have unquestionably made their plans of changing from war work to civilian goods, not only to produce their known commercial products but new products or uses for their goods, and they all have capable far-sighted managements to be already preparing for any change.

Undoubtedly many of our local business houses also have plans just as you and I have to make necessary repairs or replacements in our homes or the acquiring of new modern equipment, at present not available to us. If ever there was a time for a Chamber of Commerce, Board of Trade, and a Business Men's Committee to do Good Work, IT IS NOW.

Any plan must be broad and general in its character, with concrete suggestions applicable to the individual with, however, concerted cooperative action by all.

This committee or group should be able to advise and suggest activities and improvements; First, to our own local establishments; Second, to our municipal fathers who are the representatives of all of us who are taxpayers and residents of the town; Third, to list or catalogue necessary and worthwhile trades and so to be able to guide and assist veterans in settling here. For example, could Newark support a local modern laundry, does it need more painters and plumbers, additional stores, and what kind, the need if any for more doctors, dentists, chiropractors and other professions.

Not knowing the present intentions of the Federal Government as to the final disposition of the numerous Defense homes, it might also be advisable that our local Banks consider their purchase, plant trees and make other minor improvements to them, and then offer them for sale at cost giving preference to our returned veterans who desire to settle here.

Yesterday was the BIG DAY for the children. After all the freedom of the summer months the school bells rang and BACK TO SCHOOL for the children. All shined up and with shoes and stockings on once more and with their hair slicked down (for the boys) and their hair slicked up (for the girls) they trudged away to the little school house, some with smiles on their faces and others looking not so happy.

Chief of Police William Cunningham was again on the job at the little box on the corner of Delaware Avenue and Academy Street. Chief Cunningham is never happier than when he is doing traffic at that corner taking care of the kids and having a word for each and everyone of them.

The boys and girls have one consolation about the school season that opened yesterday. Carlton E. Douglass, superintendent of Newark Schools has announced that FOOTBALL at the school is ASSURED. That means that Mr. Douglass is back of football and other school sports for all he is worth.

We are told that Professor Stanley Gibbs will be the mentor for the Yellowjacket team and if Stanley runs the team we can be sure that they will have a real bang-up outfit. All we need is to have a bunch of fellows out for the team. Newark High does have some fellows in the school that should turn out but some of the fellows seem to be too busy or it might be that some of them lack the old time school spirit.

The boys should really get out for this favorite sport. The boys in the service will get a kick out of reading that the Yellowjacket team is back on the school gridiron.

Andy Walp one of the former veterans of Newark high is home on a 21-day leave. Newark is glad to welcome this chap and help him to have a good time while on leave. We are glad every time any of the boys come home and all we hope and pray for is the day when they can come home for good.

Local beagles failed to secure honors at the first fall field trial held by the Eastern Beagle Club last Sunday. There were some really fine beagles at the trials but they just did not get in the money.

A certain fellow who thinks his dog is real hot was heard beefing off about why King of Walnut Hill did not win. The owner of that fine dog felt that he was jipped. Well, we don't always get the story from both sides. Possibly the other dog was good also.

Clyde Robinson had some of his dogs entered in the trials but they did not get in the money either. Clyde can't have everything—Two of his pigeons won first and second places in a pigeon race this past week and two other birds won first and second places the week before. It might be possible that a fellow should stick to the game he knows best.

We have been told that a lot of the local boys took their dogs over in Jersey where they expected to get some soft money. Not having heard from them I take it for granted that they did not do so well. Had they won they would have been around to get their names in the paper.

The Newark police department on orders of the town council have started a crusade to break up double parking and parking along the YELLOW lines that have been painted on the curbs at some of the intersections. This is an honest effort to make our town a safer place for nice people to live in and everyone is urged to cooperate.

One fellow stopped in to the magistrate's office and was sort of indignant about getting a tag. He said that someone must have moved the yellow line alongside his car. Another fellow stated that he parked alongside the white line and the fellow in back of him must have pushed him up to the yellow line.

Well, the membership in the DOLLAR club is growing all the time. The parking at the Deer Park Hotel has become much better and we are told that the council is trying to relieve the traffic congestion at the Diamond Ice Company and the A. & P. Store.

We read a story in the Wilmington paper the other day that someone was going to telephone all the women in Delaware and get them to join the WAC's or one of those female fighting groups. Now, where is there any sense in that. Don't the women have enough to do or do they want to get in the service so that the taxpayers will have to pay them for the rest of their lives. Possibly they will take over the whole army after a while, then the men can stay at home and nurse the baby and wash the dishes.

20 Held at Shibe Park In Alleged Gambling Ring

Private detectives hired by Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, and members of the Philadelphia police vice squad on Labor Day arrested 20 persons in the left field stands of Shibe Park as alleged operators of a gambling syndicate.

Landis, in a letter to Director of Public Safety James H. Malone, requested that action be taken to break the ring's activities "in view of the oncoming World Series and with the hope of preserving the honesty of baseball."

Detectives reported that the arrests were made between games of the Phillies-Giants double header, and that between $15,000 and $18,000 were found on the men. One man was reported as having had $500 concealed in one of his socks.

The men taken into custody were charged with pool selling and book-making on baseball and with conspiracy to violate the state anti-gambling laws. All were given hearings on Tuesday.

NEWARK BOWLING CENTER TO OPEN

Open Play Begins Saturday; Leagues To Start Last Of Month

The Newark Bowling Center will officially open its 1944 fall season on Saturday afternoon, September 9 at 2 o'clock, it was stated this week by Hubert L. Melrath, manager and Dr. Russell Atchley, owner of the alleys, located on Main Street at the intersection of Haines Street.

Although no formal ceremonies are scheduled, local bowlers are expected to turn out in large numbers, eager to start the balls rolling down the alleys after the summer closing period.

The eight alleys have been completely overhauled and refinished by a representative of the Brunswick Bowling Alley Company. New ball racks have been installed and new pins are on hand for the opening day. Two tiers of lockers have also been installed and the alleys have been completely modernized.

It is expected that there will be a greater number of leagues rolling this year than in any previous year and officers of league teams are urged to contact Hubert L. Melrath, manager of the alleys as soon as possible for desirable spots on the schedules.

The eight alleys complete with facilities for both Ten-Pins and Duck-Pins is the most complete layout of its kind outside of Wilmington. Play and leagues are open to women as well as the men and boys and in the past there have been quite a number of women's teams rolling on the alleys.

It was stated this week that despite the expense of modernizing the alleys there will be no increase in the price of bowling.

A new feature this year will be the installation of a Lunch-Bar which will be operated by Miss Helen Atchley. Ice cream, soft drinks, candy, tobacco and sandwiches will be on sale.

Gradual Ending Seen By Bowlers For Rations

Instead of a sudden cessation of government controls, America will emerge "piecemeal" from rationing and price regulation as the supply of various commodities swings into balance with demand, Chester Bowles, OPA administrator, declared today.

He predicted as production of civilian goods is resumed, the Government will continue to exercise control lest there be a "period where prices would be absolutely terrific."

"As quickly as the edge comes off," he said, "the program will liquidate itself."

"The most powerful thing in the world is truth,"—Ralph McGill, editor, The Atlanta Constitution.

UNDEFEATED 2-YEARS OLDS MAY CLASH

Free-For-All And Pavot Slated To Meet In Belmont

If there ever was a perfect setup for the deciding of a turf championship, it is this year with John Marsch's Free For All and Walter M. Jeffords' Pavot coming down to the wire undefeated among the two-year-olds and slated to meet in the $75,000 Belmont Futurity a month hence.

Free For All chalked up his fifth straight triumph in taking the Washington Park Futurity in Chicago Saturday, and within the next few days will head East. Pavot ran his string of successive victories to seven on the same day by taking Saratoga's Hopeful Stakes at Belmont Park.

The Jeffords' home-bred a son of Case Ace, holds the advantage in money won—all in eastern stakes, the $51,850 he picked up with a half-length victory over William Ziegler, Jr.'s Esteem ran his earnings to $125,225. Free For All has won $109,875 of which $47,850 came from his Washington Futurity decision.

While his time of 1:13 1-5 for six furlongs was far from sensational, Free For All ran as if he would like the added distance of the Belmont Futurity, which is a six and three-quarter furlong dash down the straightaway course. He came from behind to score by one and one-quarter lengths.

Pavot brushed aside his early opposition and took a two-length lead going into the stretch of the six and one-half furlongs of the Hopeful. At the finish, however, it took one of George Woolf's greatest rides to stave off the challenge of Esteem—a big horse that has given every appearance of liking a distance of ground. Pavot was clocked in an ordinary 1:18 4-5.

When it comes to the breeding, there is little to choose. Free For All is by Questionnaire, one of the country's greatest route horses of the last 15 years. Pavot was sired by Case Ace, known chiefly for his sprinting ability, but his dam, Coquelicot, was a daughter of Man O' War and through that line he figures to be able to run over longer distances.

Glen Riddle Employee Set Down For Touting

The New Jersey Racing Commission announced Saturday that it had revoked the license of Kenneth Smith, an employee of the Glen Riddle Farms' Stables at Garden State Park, on a charge of touting and has denied him privileges of all tracks under its jurisdiction.

The racing commission, through its secretary, said Smith touted horses by representing himself as one of the Farms' trainers.

He also attended the University of Delaware and was in his senior year when he entered the armed forces. In Delaware he was an advanced member of the R.O.T.C.

With few exceptions schools in the city and county put teams on the gridiron last season and all are expected to carry on again this year with Alex I. duPont High returning to the game after a year's absence.

The Kennett Pikers dropped football last season, but will return this year with Frank Garber as head coach. To date six games have been scheduled while effort will be made to arrange one or two more to round out a seven or eight game schedule.

A. I. duPont has already booked Claymont, Conrad, Newark, Dover, Boothwyn, Pa., and Tower Hill area games with other schools in this section will probably be added.

Of the 'Big Three' in Wilmington, Coach J. Harmer Donaldson of Wilmington High has announced a game card opening on Oct. 14 with Newark High at home and closing with the annual P. S. duPont High contest on Nov. 25.

Wilmington's card includes in addition, Brown Vocational on Oct. 2 at Alfred I. duPont Field, although it is Brown's home game; Oct. 28 Forest Park High of Baltimore, home; Nov. 4 Conrad High, away; Nov. 11, Chester High, home; Nov. 25, P. S. duPont.

P. S. duPont's schedule is practically the same as last year with the Dym opening the season at West Chester and following up with games against Newark, Conrad, Regional High 4 Penn's Grove, Brown Vocational at Wilmington High.

In addition to the schools in Newark, Claymont and Conrad, the public schools and Tower Hill, Friends, Archmere and Sanford private school ranks, are expected to have teams, although only Friends announced a complete schedule.

STANTON CIVIC ASSN. MET LAST THURSDAY

Red Cross To Eliminate Meeting On Tuesday

Sept. 7th — The Stanton Association met on Thursday in the School Building, with John Johnson, President, presiding. The group discussed contemplated by the By-Laws concerning the group will be held on Tuesday.

Lora Little, Principal of the School, announced that the school reopened for full session on Wednesday morning. All members of the faculty returned for the first day of the year.

Many volunteer workers are needed in this emergency, to make the Red Cross work. Members of the group will dispense with its meeting on Tuesday in the Stanton Church. They will, however, meet on Wednesday evening from 7 to 10 p. m. — as arranged.

The Stanton Methodist Church has changed its monthly meeting from Monday, due to the Labor Day Holiday, and will meet on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Emily Lucas. The nomination of officers will take place at this meeting.

Mrs. Alma D. Boulden, Postmaster of the Stanton Office, announces that residents of the area expecting to mail Christmas packages to service men overseas—should do so between Sept. 10th and October 15th, as after that date packages can only be mailed when special requests are in hand. The same regulations as last year apply as to size and weight of packages.

Pvt. Walter Pyle of Ft. Benning, Ga., is spending a furlough here with his wife Mrs. Pyle and family.

Pvt. Raymond Loege of Ft. Benning, Ga., is visiting here with his mother, Mrs. Mary Loege.

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Stanton Methodist Church will meet on Thursday evening in the basement of the Church. Mrs. Mabel Cox, President, will preside.

REPLACING OF DAIRY STOCK IS ESSENTIAL

Production Dependent On Good Feeding

Essential wartime needs for dairy products still demand full attention of all dairymen to the problem of reaching the highest possible production right now. But dairymen have to look to the future—do a little post-war planning—at the same time in order to be sure that they will be able to continue to produce for peace-time needs, and producing calves from their own herds for replacement stock is good insurance for that future production.

"Raise only thrifty production-bred calves that show a better-than-average prospect of improving the herd," advises G. M. Worrlow, secretary of the Delaware Dairy Production Committee and associate director of the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service. "Then you can replace your present herd with even better stocks."

While dairymen must give these calves proper feed to keep them healthy so that they will become efficient producers, they must also conserve feed supplies for herds in production now. Mr. Worrlow emphasizes the following points for consideration in balancing use of feed for growing replacement stock and for producing dairy cows:

Young calves should be kept off pasture until they are six months old, since the younger stock will eat too much grass and become less efficient users of feed. They should be pastured separately from the cows at six months.

Calves should be fed a minimum amount of milk so that as much as possible can go to market to help meet present needs for dairy products. At the age of one month the calves can be changed over entirely to a palatable grain ration and good quality hay.

Yearling heifers may be given plenty of good quality pasture and hay and a minimum of grain, in order to save supplies, from one year of age to 30 days before freshening.

A handsome Reo bus has recently been purchased by A. C. Stiltz and is a prime favorite with Depot Road travelers.

To Have Annual Home Coming

A committee of Red Men from Wilmington and the county are rapidly completing plans for the annual Home Coming day to be held on Saturday, August 30.

The occasion as planned will be a record breaking one for many Red Men who have been in the service of their country and have not returned to civilian life will be present.

It is highly probable that a patriotic demonstration of some sort will take place to welcome the returned warriors. Tribesmen from all over the state make it a gala day, bringing their families and enjoying the entertainment provided on the spacious grounds of the Red Men's Fraternal Home.

The committee in charge of arrangements includes members from each of the tribes and from the Degree of Pocahontas.

Sidewalk for Depot Road

The committee delegated to make arrangements for placing a sidewalk along Depot Road had planned a conference with Engineer Grubb yesterday. This, however, was necessarily postponed until the first of the week when the ground will be thoroughly gone over and the work mapped out.

To Hold Important Meeting

Ivy Castle No. 23, Knights of the Golden Eagle will have some important matters to consider at a meeting to be held on Saturday evening. All of the brothers are urged to be present.

School Goes to Augustine Beach

The weather man evidently disapproves of picnics. He chose to send a driving rain on the day set for the Methodist and Presbyterian picnics who were compelled to postpone their dates. He was none too generous on the later date but they managed to have a splendid time.

St. John's chose today for their annual picnic to St. Augustine Beach and were uncertain whether to go or not. They took the chance of it clearing, however, and many assembled this morning and left at 10:30.

Harvest Home at Ebenezer

Tomorrow is the date chosen for the annual Harvest Home Festival at Ebenezer M. E. Church. Preparations have been made to have an unusually interesting program. Prominent speakers will include: Mr. Benton Mackaye of Washington, D. C. and Prof. W. J. King of Annapolis. Music and special features will be provided and food served on the grounds at reasonable prices.

Head of Industrial Education Resigns
J. T. Ryan who for about a year has been director of industrial education at Delaware College has resigned. He was appointed during the time that the S.A.T.C. was in operation and has recently conducted classes in several of the large industrial plants in Wilmington.

Engagement Announced

Mrs. Anna Slack has announced the engagement of her daughter, Helen, to Frederick Strickland. The wedding will probably take place in the early spring.

New Bell Blessed on Sunday

The new bell for St. Thomas' Episcopal Church was blessed on Sunday. A large congregation assembled to witness the ceremony which included tolling three times in the name of the Trinity during the service. It was given its first ringing after the service when it was tolled for nearly ten minutes. The tone is especially pleasing and will be heard to better advantage after some minor changes are made to the belfry.

First Wheat Crop

Threshers this morning turned out a fine lot of wheat for G. W. Russell, farmer at the Red Men's home. The crop was one of the few in this neighborhood under cover during the recent disastrous wet spell. The yield averaged 28 bushels to the acre.

Y.M.C.A. Workers Return

Miss Alice Evans who has been in the Y.M.C.A. service in the "leave areas" overseas arrived home on the Mongolia Saturday and reached Newark Monday evening.

She has many interesting experiences to relate and is happy to be home again.
