Red Cross Urges Need for Com- munity Nurses

Sends Speaker to Tell Seriousness of Situation

Miss Walsh Presents Subject to Appreciative Audience; Miss Stephens' Work Commended

Miss Elizabeth Walsh, who was sent here last Monday by the Pennsylvania Division of the Red Cross to present the needs and opportunities of public health nursing, spoke ably and convincingly to an interested group of women at Wolf Hall.

She declared the primal purpose of her speaking tour was especially to reach the mothers who discouraged their daughters from entering the nursing profession.

She reviewed the steps by which Americans realized what spend-thrifts they were of all their resources, especially of health. Not until the outbreak of the war was any sort of a survey made of the health of the people. The fact that one out of the three young men called for army service were rejected aroused national consciousness to the appalling health conditions that must exist among the civilian population of all ages.

She recounted the appalling fact that while 45,000 men were actually killed in battle during the recent war, 450,000 children under the age of 5 years died from preventable causes; while only 23 men died of typhoid fever in all of the camps in this country, 30,000 of the civilian population were victims of that disease in the same time. The urgent necessity of giving health instruction was urged as the most effective means of bettering the situation which this indicates. That given to the women in the different communities during and after the war and that given in the public schools have brought about much good where these have been done.

Many manufacturers realize that the best results can be produced by workers who are in good health. They therefore safeguard their employees by having one public health nurse for every 100 employed. Some states require by law that this be done.

The dangers of infection in traveling and in the ordinary occupations of life were pointed out vividly with entertaining personal anecdote and a plea made for more

EAST INDIAN SPEAKER DRAWS LARGE CROWD

Tells Thrilling Stories of Life and Customs in the Orient

Every available space was utilized on Sunday evening to accommodate the crowd from Newark and vicinity who assembled to hear the East Indian speaker, Dharma Sheik Shand, present the appalling situation that exists in the East today.

The speaker was in native costume and was assisted by nine young people, Misses Dorothy Hoffecker, Hannah Lindell, Dorothy Cooper, Marie Blackson; and Messrs. Harold Mote, William Bland, Leroy Crompton, William Jackson, and Wilkins Couch.

These were arrayed in the Indian costume affected by priests, Mayors, snake charmers, widows, women of North and of South India and other characters whose dress is distinctive.

The speaker described vividly, life in that benighted country, particularly the religious customs that prevail.

This he told from the standpoint of a European and Christian, he carefully explained not as a Buddhist or Mohammedan. He recounted many amusing personal experiences to illustrate his story. He told the pitiable condition of the children there, what has been accomplished through the aid of American Missions and American money and the wide field for service that still exists.

THIEVES ENTER TWO HOMES IN SOUTH NEWARK

Get Little Booty; Footprints Give
Clue to Culprits

Sneak thieves on Monday night entered the homes of J. P. Rose and W. J. Holton on Depot Road and made an ineffectual attempt to enter the residence of Henry Smith.

In the Rose home they secured a child's purse containing a little over one dollar in change, some cigars and eatables were taken from both places. Only the downstairs was ransacked, the burglars using matches for light and strewing the burnt ends about the floors. Clothing was ransacked in the hope of securing money but the small sum mentioned above constituted the haul.

In the rear of the Holton home foot-prints in a freshly dug plot disclosed the fact that the robberies were committed by two men, one of whom wore shoes with pointed toes; the other blunt-toed shoes. No attempt was made to reach the second story—a fact which practically places them in the amateur class.

The Marritz store and the depositions in that locality were attributed to boys but it is now thought that the same thieves operated in both places.

Officer Apsley examined the foot-prints and other evidence and arrests are likely to follow in a few days.

Extra Room at Primary School in Course of Construction

The material for the extra room added to relieve the congestion in the primary school has arrived and the building is now in the course of erection. The playground is being cleared of bricks, tin cans, and other rubbish and will be leveled and rolled to permit the erection of playground equipment. This work is being done under the direction of the boys in the Opportunity Class.

Prominent Philadelphia Divine To Preach Baccalaureate Sermon

Rev. William Halloway Main, of Philadelphia, will preach the Baccalaureate Sermon on the evening of Sunday, June 13, in Wolf Hall. Dr. Main is the pastor of the Memorial Baptist Church of Philadelphia, of which Mr. Walter T. Bradley, a former resident of Newark, and a particularly staunch friend of Delaware College, is a member.

Special significance and interest attaches to the Commencement exercises this year, since they mark the fiftieth anniversary of the reopening of the college after the Civil War. The Commencement exercises will open on Saturday with Class Day and the banquet of the Alumni. It is expected that the historic character of the Commencement will draw back to the college the Alumni from all parts of the country.

Big Congregation Hears Cantata "Our Living Lord"

A congregation which completely filled the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening enjoyed the cantata, "Our Living Lord" which was given under the direction of Miss Nellie B. Wilson, organist.

The selection was originally intended for the Easter celebration but illness and absence of some of the members at that time, made the postponement necessary.

The rendition was especially pleasing to the audience from the fact that all were furnished with printed texts containing the selections in full.

The cantata told the story of Passion Week, beginning with the triumphant entry into Jerusalem, recounting the story of the last supper, the crucifixion, the burial of Christ, the resurrection, the effect of the open tomb on the beholders, the adoration of the angelic host, the appearance of the risen Christ, and the expressions of joy among mortals at the certainty of the resurrection.

The choir was composed of the following: First sopranos, Mrs. J. Pearce Cann, Miss Martha Strahorn, Miss Stella Yearsley; Second sopranos, Misses Anna Ritz, and Florence Colbert.

Altos: Miss Jennie Frazer, Miss Rohr.

Tenors: Prof. R. W. Kirkbride and Mr. Johnson Rowan.
Bassos: Prof. C. E. Hancock and Prof. Harold N. Cummings.

NOTE—Advance notice of the above was sent to this office last week and reached here too late to guarantee publication.

Sunday School Officers And Teachers Hold Profitable Meeting

Mrs. C. B. Evans' class relinquished their room to the Primary Department. Different phases of the lessons for the two subsequent Sundays were discussed together with other matters of general interest to the Sunday School.

T. COLEMAN DU PONT DOUBLY HONORED BY STATE CONVENTION

Delegates in Resolution Commend
Good Work of Governor Townsend's Administration

Desiring T. Coleman duPont to be Republican leader in Delaware, the Republican state convention yesterday doubly honored the general by electing him delegate to the Republican national convention and insuring his re-election as the Delaware member of the Republican national committee for four years. Those honors will greatly please Will. H. Hays, Republican national chairman, who considers General duPont one of the most valuable members of the national committee.

Advocates of equal suffrage had a great demonstration on Dover Green, and "antis" devoted their time to distributing red roses. Highly pleasing to the former was a resolution adopted by the convention indorsing the enfranchisement of women and urging the Republican members of the Legislature to vote for the ratification of the constitutional amendment.

Delegates Not Instructed

The platform expressed no preference concerning candidates for President and Vice-President, and the national delegates were not instructed.

Bolshevism, increased housing facilities, high cost of living and national and state budgets were subjects touched on in the platform. Appeal was made to the people to give the Republican party opportunity to make a peace for this nation that will recognize all the obligations of the nation to the rest of the world.

The convention recognized the official prestige of L. Heisler Ball, United States senator, by electing him national delegate from New Castle county.

Because of factional strife in Sussex county, Governor John G. Townsend, Jr. candidate for national delegate from Sussex, was defeated in county caucus. Friends of the governor threatened to carry the fight to the convention floor, but he and General duPont would not consent.

Adopts Resolution Approving Ad- ministration

The convention particularly commended and approved all the efforts of the governor and his administration to improve the health and educational conditions of the state and for the great improvement of highways. It also commended Delaware's Republican representatives in Congress for patriotic performance of duty and the Legislature for appointing a commission to revise the school code.

Although he had complete control of the convention, General duPont deemed it wise not to interfere in the Sussex county fight, which was confined to county caucus. Otherwise, everything was harmonious.

The Delaware delegation to the National Convention will be as follows:

Wilmington—T. Coleman duPont
Rural New Castle County—United States Senator L. Heisler Ball
Kent—Alden R. Benson, James A. Hiron

Sussex—Ex-Governor Simeon S. Pennewill, Robert B. Elliott
Member of Republican National Committee—T. Coleman duPont.

WAVERLY CLUB PLANTS MEMORIAL TREE AT COLLEGE

Honors Young Hockessin Marine Who Made Supreme Sacrifice

A large delegation of Hockessin clubwomen and their friends braved the rain storm of Friday afternoon where they observed Arbor Day most fittingly by presenting to Women's College and planting with beautiful ceremony, a Linden tree in honor of Private William Brennan who made the supreme sacrifice in the world war.

The local clubwomen assisted Deap Robinson in receiving the guests and in serving tea after the tree planting was over. As the tree was planted near the Practice House, the participants and spectators stood under the portico. Mrs. J. L. Eastburn of the Waverly Club presided and introduced Mrs. Edward Sharpless who made the formal presentation speech.

Miss Lillian Butz, president of Student Government Association accepted on behalf of the college.

The students sang patriotic and college songs under the leadership of Miss Dora Wilcox, Miss Sara Eastburn read, "The Planting of the Tree," and R. G. Buckingham, a veteran of the Civil War spoke briefly. Students and faculty then escorted the guests to Residence Hall where tea was served and music furnished by Miss Wilcox and Miss Katherine Stevens.

Mrs. Sharpless presentation speech follows:

"In a few words we can leave our thoughts with you as we, the members of the Waverly club of Hockessin, this Arbor Day of 1920 dedicate this tree to the memory of William Norman Brennan, Co. C, 5th Regiment of Marines, who like many others made the supreme sacrifice that freedom, justice and truth might not perish from the earth, and that we and those that come after us may be free from autocracy, and we hope and believe, that in his prime of life it was not given in vain."

As we plant this tree we have in mind those graves of the heroes in France with the great American flag flying in a soft breeze over them.

Nature will, year by year, make it a larger, more attractive tribute to their memory. Yearly it will send its roots deeper, its crown higher, its branches wider; steadily it will grow in stature and strength and serve as a symbol not only of this generation's appreciation of the sacrifice made for the country, but keeping alive for future generations the memory of the lives offered to save for all time the Freedom which is America's birthright.

Mrs. Sharpless closed her speech by reciting very effectively Joyce Kilmer's beautiful poem "Trees" recalling the coincidence that the author, also gave his life in the great struggle for freedom.

Young Brennan was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brennan of Hockessin and was 21 years old. In May 1917 he volunteered for service and was assigned to Co. C, 5th Regiment, Marines. He was sent overseas early in the conflict and was in the thick of the fighting for several months. He was "over the top" six times and won six medals for bravery.

He was killed in action May 2, 1918.

Furnishings Procured For "The Lindens"

Under the direction of A. G. Wilkinson, Business Administrator plans are rapidly nearing completion for the accommodation of the first contingent of student-soldiers who are expected to arrive May 1. Furnishings have been purchased for "The Lindens," and arrangements made with Mr. and Mrs. Francis Moore to occupy the house as caretakers who will look after the comfort of the men.

Newark Man Analyzes Banking Power of the United States at Dover Gathering

Delivers Able Address Before DOLLINGS Investment Company

George L. Medill Gives Brief Summary Also of State Resources and Shows Bank Deposits in the Three Counties

George L. Medill, delivered before a meeting of the DOLLINGS Investment Co. of Dover last week an able address on "The Banking Power of the United States."

Mr. Medill, although a young man is an authority on banking affairs, a fact which was recognized by his recent appointment as Bank Examiner for the state.

The address in part follows:

Banking exercises a powerful influence upon the morals of society. It tends to produce honesty and punctuality in pecuniary engagements. Bankers, for their own interest, always have a rigid regard to the moral character of the party with whom they deal; they inquire whether he be honest or tricky, industrious or idle, prudent or speculative, thrifty or prodigal, and they will more readily make advances to a man of moderate property and good morals than to a man of large property but of inferior reputation. Thus the establishment of a bank in any place immediately advances the pecuniary value of good moral character.

If the test of deservedness be made too acid, and the pessimism born of experience is not tempered by the optimism of hope and imagination, the banker will fall short of the full duty which his opportunities impose. It is the gift of imagination and the quality of constructive optimism that differentiate the banker from the money lender, and the greatness and influence of the late Pierpont Morgan lay chiefly in his ability to visualize the picture of the future upon the canvas of the present, and in his helpful belief in his fellow-men and his country.

"Banking Power Of The United States"

"Regarding the banking power of the United States, including both national and state institutions, Comptroller Williams says:

"Our country has now become the world's banker, and virtually all the nations on earth, large and small, are looking for credit or aid, of one kind or another, from us. We hold about one third or more of the world's supply of gold coin and bullion, according to the best available estimates, and the rest of the world owes to our Government and to our business men at this time, an amount represented by Government and other obligations equal to more than twice the total stock of gold in all other countries of the world, and with the balance of trade rolling up in our favor hundreds of millions of dollars month by month.

"The so-called 'Banking Power' of the United States in June, 1919, as expressed by the capital, surplus, profits, circulation, and deposits of all national banks and all reporting state banking institutions, including trust companies, together with the estimated amount of such funds in non-reporting state banks, plus the capital, surplus, Government and reserve deposits and circulation of the Federal Reserve Banks as of June 30, 1919, was $45,756,300,000. This represents an increase in the banking power of the United States over June 30, 1918, of $6,673,500,000.

"The banking power of our country at this time is three times as great as the total banking power of the entire world in 1890 as estimated by Mulhall at $15,585,000,000. The banking power of the United States according to Mulhall's estimate in 1890, was only $5,150,000,000. Our banking power is, therefore, today about nine times what it was just thirty years ago.

He gave a resume of statistics covering the operation of the 53 banks under state control in Delaware showing the total resources to be $102,648,710. The total deposits in state and national banks, he reported to be $79,000,000.

Phenomenal Growth In Past Three Years

Statistics show, he said, a growth of $10,000,000 each year for the last three years.

He made an interesting analysis of the resources by counties as follows: New Castle, $63,289,664; Kent, $5,389,822; Sussex, $10,665,183. The deposits by counties showed that deposits in New Castle Co. totaled $51,664,000; in Kent, $4,124,461; and in Sussex, $8,065,885.

When A Bank Invests In Securities

"A bank buys securities," he said, because it can find no other profitable investment during the recurring periods when business is quiescent for such of its surplus funds as it would otherwise employ in its regular channels.

When reserves become congested and the local demand for money is exhausted, neither the call money market in New York nor the masked rediscount of country bank paper, nor the availability through brokerage houses of the promissory paper of a limited number of widely known mercantile and industrial establishments will absorb the excess, and recourse is had to the bond market.

With the enlightening aid of bond houses the creditor class will do well to take as much pains in the investment of its wealth as in the acquisition of it. Buyers of corporation bonds should exercise as much care in the selection of a financial advisor as in the choice of a security. They should seek a investment house with a strong personality, strong convictions on investment matters, and the capital and equipment to back them up.

For The Homemaker's Eye

The advent of warmer weather lessens appreciably the usual appetite for meat. Good sense and prudence plus the high cost of meat helps also to suggest to the homemaker that less meat should be used.

The thought of "substitutes" brings a feeling of distaste, a hang-over from war times. Fish is not exactly in the class of substitutes as they were considered in the war sense, but has always been in most households, a staple article of diet used once or more every week regularly. With the advent of a greater number of varieties of fish in the spring it usually appears more frequently in the bill-of-fare.

The following hints about cooking fish may not be amiss:

Boiled Fish

Small fish, such as small cod and haddock, should be cooked whole in enough boiling water to cover, to which is added salt, lemon juice or vinegar. Sew the fish in a piece of muslin to keep it from breaking to pieces. Large fish should be cut in thick pieces.

Broiled Fish

Small cod, haddock and mackerel should be split down the back and broiled whole. Salmon and halibut should be cut in slices for broiling. Smelts and other small fish should be broiled whole without splitting.

Baked Fish

Bake on a greased fish sheet, or if you have not a fish sheet, two strips of muslin placed under the fish will answer the purpose. This will enable you to lift the fish from the pan when baked without breaking it.

Panned Fish

This method of cooking is suitable for any small fish or such as can be cut in slices. Have the fish well cleaned, seasoned with pepper and salt and dried with a little flour, or, better still, very fine bread-crumbs. Have a large frying-pan smoking hot with a little grease in it as will keep the fish from sticking. Drippings from good, sweet salt pork is the best, but any sweet drippings will do. When the fat begins to smoke blue lay in the fish and brown quickly on both sides, then cover closely and set back to cook more slowly, from ten to twenty minutes, according to the size of the fish. Bass in all its varieties is suitable to cook in this way; so are butterfish, cisco (lake herring), herring, perch, porgies, trout, weakfish, etc.

Fried Fish

Wipe the fish dry, sprinkle with salt, then dip in flour or crumbs, then dip in egg, and again in flour or crumbs, and fry in deep fat.

Saute Fish—Prepare your fish as for frying and cook in frying-pan with small amount of fat. Cod steaks and smelts should be cooked in this way.

Salt Fish

Very salt fish should be soaked several hours in three or four changes of warm water. Place the skin side up, so that salt crystals may fall away from the under or meat side. Wipe carefully and clean, then soak for an hour in very cold water.

Beef and Fish Hash

Chop finely three-quarters of a cupful of cooked fish and add an equal quantity of chopped cooked potatoes, two chopped cooked beets, a slice of minced onion and a tablespoonful of minced parsley. Season with half a teaspoonful of salt, a quarter of a teaspoonful of paprika and a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce. Mix well, moisten with a little thick cream and turn into a hot frying pan containing a tablespoonful of hot pork fat. Turn the hash rapidly until it is heated through, then pat into a cake and let it brown on the under side.

Jellied Chicken

Draw, pick and wash a chicken, cover with warm water and simmer until the meat slips from the bones and there remains of the water about a coffee cup full. Lift out the meat, and cut or shred into good sized pieces, throwing out all fat, bone and gristle. Skim the fat from the liquor, add pepper and salt to season very highly, then bring to a boil with half an ounce of gelatine, which has been dissolved in just enough cold water to cover it. Pour this over the shredded chicken, stir thoroughly and pack into a mold to form. Serve on a bed of lettuce and pass apple or crabapple jelly with it.

Peanut Loaf

Among the dishes made from cooked nuts, the following recipe for peanut loaf will be found economical and appetizing: Mix in a bowl one cup of ground peanuts, one cup of bread-crumbs, two cups of boiled rice, one-half cup of stewed tomatoes—or water may be substituted—one beaten egg, one chopped onion, salt and pepper. Mold into a loaf and bake for half an hour in a moderately hot oven.

Brown Betty

Pare and cut tart apples into quarters. Dry four slices of bread in the oven and when crisp, break into small pieces. Cover the bottom of a baking dish with a layer of bread, then a layer of apples and dust with granulated sugar. Continue these layers, having the bread last. Cut one tablespoonful of butter into small bits, and scatter them among the pieces of bread. Bake in a quick oven for thirty minutes.

WATER GLASS METHOD OF PRE- SERVING EGGS

Spring is the Time to Provide Against Winter High Prices

Egg prices are about as reasonable this month as they will be at any time and the wise home-maker will preserve them for winter use according to her favorite method. The water glass method commends itself in most cases for several reasons, chief of which are that it is satisfactory, and that it is inexpensive, and that it is easy.

Select fresh eggs, that are clean, but not washed. Use infertile eggs if possible. Take nine quarts of water that has been boiled and cooled, and add one quart of water-glass (sodium silicate). Place the mixture in a five-gallon crock or jar. This amount of liquid will preserve fifteen dozen eggs. For larger amounts, mix the solution in the same proportion. Clean the crock thoroughly before using.

Place the eggs in the solution. If the poultry yard has not supplied an adequate quantity of eggs for immediate use, they may be added from time to time. See that at least two inches of the solution covers the eggs at all times. Place the crock or jar in a cool, dry place, well covered to prevent evaporation. Wax-paper placed on and tied around the top of the jar will serve the desired end.

As a substitute for water-glass, this method has proved good: Dissolve two or three pounds of un-slacked lime in five gallons of water that has previously been boiled and allowed to cool. Let the mixture stand until the lime settles and the liquid is clear. Place clean, fresh eggs in an earthenware crock or jar and pour the clear lime-water into the vessel until the eggs are covered.

Earthenware crocks are good containers. They must be clean and sound. Scald them and let them cool completely before use.

A crock holding six gallons will accommodate eighteen dozens of eggs and about twenty-two pints of solution. Crock that are too large are not desirable. Eggs put in the crock first should be used first. Replace with cool boiled water any water that has evaporated.

They started even

Yes they started even but at six weeks the Purina Chicken Chowder fed chick weighed twice as much as the one raised on grain feed alone. Why?—because supplies the nutrients largely lacking in grain feeds—protein for blood, feathers and flesh, and mineral salts for bones. Your State Experiment Station will verify this. But you don't have to take anybody's word for it when you can buy Purina Chicken Chowder under an iron-bound guarantee of—

Double Development or Money Back

Vigorous growth now, means eggs next winter—slow growing chicks mean winter loafers. When you get your bag of Purina Chicken Chowder ask for the simple feeding directions and guarantee.

METHODS OF FEEDING

Regularity in feeding is one of the essentials of successful bottle feeding for babies. If it is not observed the evil results will soon make themselves apparent. The hours for feeding should be laid down specifically and adhered to always. Probably it will be found that the most convenient hours are as follows: for the first two months 6, 9, 12, 3, 6, 9, 12, 3 o'clock. After the first two or three months one feeding can be omitted during the night, making the hours, 6, 9, 12, 3, 6, 10, 2 o'clock. When feeding the baby, he should be slightly propped up on a pillow and left in that position for 15 or 20 minutes after feeding. It will, of course, be necessary to hold the bottle of the young baby for him while he is taking his food.

Watch him carefully. Do not let him take the milk too fast for this will cause vomiting, regurgitating (spitting up), and various other ills. Notice whether or not he appears to be satisfied after he has finished his feeding. Do not think that crying after feeding is always a sign of unsatisfied hunger. It may quite easily be that he has a pain in his stomach either because of eating too rapidly, eating too much, or some other discomforting condition. Notice the time it takes for the baby to take his food. It should never take more than 20 minutes and if it does something is wrong.

In bottle feeding, there is naturally more danger of digestive troubles than in breast feeding, therefore symptoms must be watched for more carefully.

Look closely at the color of the stools from the baby's bowels and if there is any change from the normal yellow, this is an alarming sign and you should consult your physician at once. The commonest trouble is caused probably by too much sugar and in this case the stools will be of a green color with bubbles and a strong odor and the baby will suffer from diarrhea. Too much fat is indicated by the presence in the stool of yellow lumps of fat. Too much protein is indicated by a stool of grayish color and the presence of curds.

In case any thing unusual in the stool is noticed, save the diaper and discontinue feedings until a doctor has been consulted. In case no doctor is immediately available cut down the food to the lowest amount possible.

In feeding pasteurized or boiled milk, some of the elements which are essential to good health are lacking, therefore something must be given which will make up this deficiency. For example, if fruit juices are not given a bottle fed baby, he is liable to develop scurvy. The recognized method of overcoming this condition is to give orange juice daily. One half to two ounces, according to the age of the child, should be given daily between morning feedings. It may be fed by bottle or by spoon, but be sure your baby receives the required amount each day.

Water should be given the baby several times a day, as milk will not at all times satisfy thirst. Boiled water should be used for this purpose.

Constipation is a frequent ailment among bottle fed babies. There are several means of overcoming this, one of the simplest of which is by the giving of prune juice. This is made up by boiling a handful of prunes in a pint of water (without sugar), straining and giving the baby a tablespoonful daily.

Inmates Of Work-house Play Ball

Immediately after his election, recently Mordecai S. Plummer, new warden of the New Castle County Workhouse, assumed charge of his duties. Leonard Crawford, temporary warden, officially turned the "command" over to his successor, but will remain at the workhouse about a week, until Warden Plummer is thoroughly familiar with his new duties. During the afternoon, Mr. Plummer went the rounds of the cells, greeting the prisoners, many of whom he had met during his long career in public life as a postal inspector.

On making the rounds the new warden exchanged words with dozens of the prisoners. He expects to assemble the entire body within a short time, give them a "heart to heart" talk, to tell them what is expected of them, and what he expects to do for the prisoners in return.

"If I don't make good," the new warden said today, "it will be my own fault."

A novelty in the history of the grim institution at Green bank, will be a baseball game in the "stockade" Saturday afternoon, between the "Greenbank A. A." and a team composed of the employees of the duPont Company. This will be the first time an outside team has ever played a prison game, the prisoners heretofore playing only among themselves. Such is the novelty of the affair in this part of the country that the outcome is awaited with eagerness by those interested in prisoners and prison affairs.

Every prisoner, whether burglars, hold-up men or murderers, will be allowed to view this ball game, and during a continuance of good behavior in the future, will be allowed to witness all Saturday afternoon games.

"I can't imagine what is the matter with me, doctor. I'm continually thinking about myself."

"THE FATHER OF THE MAN"

THIS is "Jimmy," towheaded, with an eye that meets yours unswervingly and as winsome a laddie as ever knelt for bedtime prayers. Jimmy is one of more than 25,000 homeless or poor children yearly cared for by the Salvation Army in the United States, and he lives in one of the Army's many orphanages. "Send me a papa and mamma!" is the burden of "Jimmy's" nightly pleas. "And—and, God bless the Salvation Army!" he almost invariably adds. The Salvation insures and fully as much enjoyment in caring for "Jimmy" and his thousands of brothers and sisters as they did in frying doughnuts for doughboys and marines in France. If the child is father to the man, they argue, the father must have a good bringing up. And so the chain of fifty Salvation Army orphanages, day nurseries and children's hospitals that stretch from coast to coast.

H. RODNEY SHARP ADDRESSES DELAWARE COLLEGE STUDENTS

Discusses Informally the Future of Delaware; Suggests Open Forum

On Monday evening, April 19, Mr. H. Rodney Sharp delivered an intimate talk to an assemblage of students in Old College.

Mr. Sharp opened with an appreciation of the "Review" as an untiring agent of Delaware spirit and as a procreator of the College welfare.

Mr. Sharp is devoted to Delaware's future, and it was upon this topic only that he spoke. Some of the chief factors involved in the temporary lapse of "brick and mortar" expansion were discussed. Mr. Sharp made it clear that there has been and still is a very definite goal in view. The plan is to eventually have a college which will accommodate 400-500 students. The enrollment will be limited, then; and the element of selection of the best student-types will enter in.

A temporary halt in construction at Delaware College was called, so as to allow the elementary and secondary school systems in the state "catch up." Wonderful advancement has been made in these departments recently and the continuation of their high-grade of work will force very soon a material expansion at Delaware College.

Mr. Sharp spoke frankly of the weaknesses in the faculty and in the student body. In referring to some weaknesses in the faculty, he said that the same condition exists in colleges universally at this time, and that it is attributable to the exodus of professors to the better-paying fields of industry. The establishment of an endowment fund will be a great measure to overcome the difficulty and before long the faculty will have regained its former efficiency.

Dr. Mitchell was eulogized very warmly, and repeatedly. "The retiring President has done much for the well-being and advancement of Delaware—he has probably done more than any other man living to-day."

Mr. Sharp urged the students to be frank and honest in their demands upon the trustees. He warned against any reticence in the matter of making requests. "Use discretion," he said, "and ask honestly, if you do this, your demand will be complied with invariably."

At the suggestion of Mr. Carwell, the meeting was open for informal discussions. Mr. Sharp answered the questions addressed to him by some of the students. A point brought out here was one which has held the attention of the student body for several weeks—what type of man is held up by the trustees as an ideal future president of Delaware College?

Mr. Sharp described this ideal as a young man, full of enthusiasm, and thoroughly progressive—a man who should examine the problems at the college, and then work earnestly and energetically for its advancement.

In conclusion Mr. Sharp strongly advocated the establishment here of an "after-supper" open forum. The plan has worked admirably elsewhere.

State Board Asks For Suggestions Concerning Code Revision

Ample opportunity for suggestions regarding the School Code is offered to every citizen, every friend of education through the following letter addressed to: The County Boards of Education, Boards of Education of the Special Districts, Boards of School Trustees, Officers of the School System of Delaware. The Citizens of the State of Delaware.

Gentlemen: A commission has been appointed by the Legislature to consider revision and amendment of the Delaware School Code of 1919. In order that every part of the subject may be considered will you please write to Mr. George B. Miller, President of the State Board of Education, Equitable Building, Wilmington, Delaware, giving:—

1. Amendments or changes in the code recommended by you.
2. Amendments or changes in the code recommended by others.
3. Criticisms of the code which cannot be included in specific amendments.

As the time of the commission is limited please reply promptly.

Very truly yours,
GEO. B. MILLER,
President of the State Board of Education.

Wilmington Artist Loans Pictures To Women's College

Stanley M. Arthurs of Wilmington has loaned four oil paintings to the Women's College.

These are widely different in subject. One "La Crescenta" shows brilliant yellow autumn foliage against the distant blue of rugged canon walls. The whole is luminous and gives a fine impression of autumn glory. Another subject is "The Whaling Ship" and it just what the title suggests, a huge vessel tied up at the wharf, with its masts and rigging, and reflection of enormous hulk in the water making interesting patterns of dark and light. "Cuddychunk" shows rolling sand dunes, a winding road, with fishermen's cottages, and the blue waters beyond dotted with small sailing vessels, the whole flooded with sunshine. The fourth of the group, "Passion Jones," is an illustration for Cable's story of that name. Two lovely young girls, one in rose, the other in white, stand in a garden path. To the beauty of subject and composition, is added the interest of the story incident.

Two of the pictures are hung in the Practice House, and the others in Sussex Hall.

public health nurses. The opportunities for service are great. Nurses for this work must be teachers and scholastic preparation of high school equivalent is necessary.

The demand for nurses of this character has increased so enormously since the war and its revelations that an accession of 125,000 to the ranks is urgently needed. The normal previous number is entering the profession but this does not by any means meet the present demand.

Miss Walsh analyzed the reasons why mothers object to their own daughters entering the profession. Chief of these is the old-fashioned idea that the most disagreeable kind of mental work is required of students in the probation period. This was true in the past she said, but is no longer true in nurses' training schools of high character.

The second reason was the fear of contagion which, she said, modern science has practically eliminated. She outlined the courses briefly and clearly and the entrance requirements to training schools which prepare for this type of work.

She signified her willingness to answer questions and one with regard to the work now being done in Newark she referred to Miss Grace Stephens, public health nurse for this district with headquarters at Newark.

Miss Stephens told of her work with the school children and invited those present to visit the Health Centre in the Elliott Building any Wednesday, other days she is doing home visiting.

Miss Stephens' work was warmly commended by some of those present, who have observed the thoroughness and fidelity with which the local work is done.

Those interested in public health conservation implored Mrs. C. R. Evans who as head of the local Red Cross chapter, presided, that steps be taken to insure permanently the continuance of such service as Miss Stephens is rendering.

New Professor Of Military Science At Delaware College

Captain Carlton Coulter, Jr. has been detailed to New Hampshire College, and his successor Captain Ralph Dickinson has reached Delaware College and taken up his duties as Professor of Military Science and Tactics. Captain Dickinson comes from Stetson University, Florida, where he has been handling a large body of students in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps. Captain Dickinson is a graduate of West Point in the class of 1904. His roommate at West Point was Eugene B. Armstrong, formerly a student at Delaware College, who met with a fatal accident in playing polo on a Texas field. The Armstrong family at Cooch's Bridge have sent seven sons to Delaware College and now have a niece in the Women's College, a record of commendable loyalty. Captain Dickinson is a native of Louisiana County, Virginia. He is a man of admirable training and experience and upon his arrival addressed himself at once to the duties of his office.

Captain Coulter made many friends in Newark and in Wilmington during his residence at Delaware College.

Bake Given By Primary School A Success

The bake given by the children of the primary school last Saturday netted $65 which will be expended for playground equipment.

In spite of the rainy disagreeable weather, a great many of the parents and friends of the school viewed the exhibit handwork which was on display in the various rooms. They were agreeably surprised at the character of the work done and the amount accomplished this year. Much of the work on display has been exhibited at Wilmington, Middletown and Dover to groups of teachers and school officials.

The poster work done in colors and in cut-outs made a very remarkable and highly creditable showing.

The sewing display in Miss Harriet Wilson's room received much favorable comment; the borders done in color drawings, and applied above the blackboards were very effective; and the cut-outs on display were remarkable for children of those grades.

Dr. Elizabeth Kemper Adams to be Speaker at W. C. D. Commencement

Plans for Commencement at Women's College are under consideration. The buildings are being painted, the grounds beautified and the program outlined.

Dr. Elizabeth Kemper Adams has been secured to deliver the annual address.

Dr. Adams is the author of an article on "Woman's Education" in Monroe's Encyclopedia of Education and is now having published her latest work "The Professional Woman in Business." She gained her degree of Doctor of Philosophy at Chicago University and was Professor of Education at Smith College until the needs of the war caused her to take up the work of directing the vocational guidance of Women from her Washington headquarters.

Aside from being a woman of vast intellectual endowment and practical experience, Dr. Adams has an attractive personality and will make an ideal commencement speaker.

Friends Accompany Local Representatives to Declamation Contest

Misses Mildred Major and Helen Pillsbury, the local contestants for state honors in the declamation contest held at Dover, Friday evening under the direction of the State Board of Education, did very creditable work. The judges awarded the prizes as follows: First, Miss Helen Scott, of Salisbury, five war stamps; second prize, Herbert Lank, of Seaford, three war stamps, and third prize, Miss Eliza Cook, Smyrna, two war stamps.

The proceeds of the recent carnival were formally turned over to St. Thomas' Guild of the Episcopal Church on Saturday evening at a social given at the Parish House in honor of the prize winners, the press, the committee, and the Minnehaha Band.

George Carter, chairman of the general committee, presided and in his usual happy manner awarded the prizes in the popularity contest to Miss Lillie Getty and Michael McNally of the Austin Construction Co. The latter was unable to be present whereupon D. Lee Rose accepted in his behalf with appropriate remarks.

A vote of thanks was tendered the Y. M. C. A. for the use of their building; the Minnehaha Band for music; Mr. and Mrs. John Jex for loan of decorations, A. G. Wilkinson, A. L. Beals and E. C. Wilson for help in plans and construction; H. Warner McNeal for lumber; Delaware College for trestles; Miller Bros. the Brand Co.; Roger Lovett; Goldey Bros. the Lippincott Co. and others for prize donations; and to Governor John G. Townsend, Everett C. Johnson and others for cash donations.

The teams were commended for their excellent work, the public for their cordial support and the newspapers for publicity.

The prize to be awarded to the booth turning in the most money had to be drawn by lot. Three booths, candy, fancy work and donation, making approximately equal sums. Mrs. W. D. Dean, Mrs. George Carter, and Mrs. Sprugel drew and Mrs. Sprugel won a handsome cut glass bowl.

The proceeds about $1,250 was turned over by A. L. Beals, carnival treasurer to Miss Getty, Guild treasurer, thus closing up the affair. Minnehaha Band played several selections and they with the press representatives and the general committee were invited to the banquet table which was bountifully spread with good things.

After all present had been abundantly supplied with ice cream, cake, coffee, crullers, etc., the young people danced to music furnished by the band.

Handsome Is That Handsome Does

The old fashioned maxim holds good in the world of furniture as well as that of men, and solid worth is what counts in the long run. But there is no reason for sacrificing beauty to worth when the two can be combined.

The furniture we sell proves this to be true. Constructed on the best and most durable lines, it not only proclaims from every curve that it is handsome, but will verify its claims by doing handsomely.

It is the great test of the good furniture maker to produce pieces which combine lightness and delicacy of design with solidity and durability. Our furniture is made by masters of the trade.

We should be delighted to show you our stock at any time.

APPEARANCE OF A TOWN ITS MOST POTENT ADVERTISEMENT

Visitors and Travelers Carry Away Definite Picture of Any Place

The condition of its streets and alleys is the most effective advertisement any town can have. Cleanliness in any town is always a visible evidence of prosperity; slovenliness is the poorest advertisement any town can have. The streets and alleys always need cleaning in the spring. We may resent this statement but it is nevertheless true. If we can't see that it's true, there is only one explanation of that phenomenon—we are so accustomed to seeing them littered that we do not realize how dirty they are.

Strangers from towns where clean streets and alleys are normal notice the difference and comment on it. They notice cleanliness too and their comments elsewhere are the best advertising a town can get.

Streets are not all that should be kept clean. The visitor does not get much opportunity to see the alleys, but that is no reason why they should be permitted to be dirty and unsanitary. The public health is an even higher consideration than a reputation for cleanliness and beauty.

No matter what the town government does toward keeping the town clean, it cannot do the job alone. Gradually refuse accumulates and too many wait passively for the town authorities to clear it up. There is only one way to make a complete clean-up and that is through the citizens themselves. Every club, every lodge, every organization should be united in one great effort to create a state of cleanliness and preserve that condition. The town that always keeps clean, also likewise keeps growing. What most towns need is the travail of strong growing pains produced by shovels, rakes, brooms, soap, water, dump carts, scrub and paint brushes, axes, hatchets. Low places should be filled up or oiled early to prevent mosquito breeding. Trees should be trimmed, litter carted away and vacant lots kept clear by some definite plan backed up by united public opinion.

Here's hoping that those who pass through Newark this spring will carry away with them the impression of a clean, prosperous town—for the two terms are almost invariably synonymous.

The Secret Of The Curve In Baseball

The ambition of 90% of the dwellers in Boydom is to become a good baseball player, and 50% of this number, it is safe to say, aspire to be great pitchers, the keymen upon whose prowess depends the winning or losing of the game. The secret of the curve has always been a baffling thing in the acquisition of control. A writer in Boys' Life, gives the following explanation of the mystery:

There are many scientific explanations to account for the curve of a baseball. It is generally agreed that the rotary motion of the ball after it leaves the pitcher's hand so affects the resistance of the air that it is deflected from its original course. A fascinating experiment may be made by spinning a marble in water. The resistance of the water being much greater than that of the air, the effect is exaggerated. The marble should be dropped in water two feet or more deep. By spinning it fast or slow and in various directions the curve of the most skillful pitcher can be reproduced.

Home Economics Instructors Hold Meeting At Middletown

The April Professional Improvement Conference for Home Economics Instructors was held at Middletown on Saturday. The meeting was held in the Home Economics department which consists of one medium sized room over the printing house. The room has been put in excellent condition for the beginning year. The walls and woodwork have been painted white, shades and curtains provided and the necessary equipment consisting of tables, range, oil stove, cupboard, sinks and laundry tubs have been installed.

Professor Cora F. Winchell of Teachers' College, Columbia University was the principal speaker. She gave an address on "Home Economics as a Preparation for Citizenship." The need for real homes was emphasized and the preparation that women should have for the responsibility of caring for a home and the members of a family were well brought out. Mrs. Warner, President of State Federation of Women's Clubs, also gave an admirable address, outlining the activities of the clubs. A number of instructors gave a ten minute address and each instructor brought some helpful illustrative material. Several instructors brought their bulletin boards, which contained current event articles brought in by each pupil each week, the weekly and daily schedules and the class motto, etc. The bulletin boards have served as a splendid source of inspiration and information for each of the Home Economics departments. The women's club of Middletown opened up their club house for the luncheon for the Home Economics instructors and a very hospitable welcoming about the friendly open fire was greatly enjoyed by all. The Extension and Girl's Club workers were also guests at the meeting and expressed their appreciation of the content of the program as being very helpful. Mr. Smith, Principal of the Middletown school, gave a welcoming address and made each one have a desire to return to Middletown. The meeting was one of the best that has been held this year.

In the Middletown and Smyrna departments of vocational agriculture the students are very much interested in their animal industry work. Dairy practices have been studied very thoroughly, feeding rations have been compiled which furnish the maximum food requirements at the minimum cost and the costs at a lower figure than prepared feeds purchased on the open market. Each student has learned to test milk by the Babcock method in order to determine its butter fat content and also the methods used in determining adulteration and degree of adulteration of milk and milk products.

Are You A Pillar Or A Leaner?

Some people always seem looking for something to lean on. If they are standing they back up against a piece of furniture, or rest an elbow on the piano or the mantel. If they are seated they lose no time in leaning against the back of the chair. Their manner suggests that something is wrong with their backbone, that sitting or standing they need a prop.

It is good practice to learn to stand erect, without swaying or leaning, without awkwardness or discomfort, to stand lightly and yet firmly as if you had a right to the space under your feet, and were master of your own body. For whether it is quite a fair inference or not, it is almost impossible to keep from suspecting that the people who seem in danger of toppling over, unless they have something to lean against, are less resolute, less determined, than they should be, that their minds as well as their bodies need a prop.

National Guard of Delaware to be Reorganized

It is desired to reorganize the National Guard of Delaware on lines acceptable to those who will give it their active support and to form a unit that will preserve the identity of the State of Delaware, and to this end an expression of opinion from those interested is requested on the blank form below as indicated. The importance of the National Guard as a State force is recognized by all, and the part the National Guard of the United States took in the late war shows conclusively its value as a National Military Asset.

Drill and instruction average one night per week, also two weeks field training each year.

Fill out form below, sign it, cut out, and mail to Box No. 107, Wilmington, Delaware.

I prefer the branch of service marked and will enlist in this branch if it can be organized under the regulations prescribed for the National Guard of Delaware.

AMERICANS BIGGEST USERS OF RAILROADS; SERVICE HERE FAR OUTSTRIPS EUROPE

The railways of the United States in point of actual railway service lead the world. Americans buy more railway service, and a greater amount of transportation is supplied and used in the United States than in any other country.

According to statistics prepared by the Bureau of Railway Economics, the ton miles per capita carried by United States railroads in 1913 were almost five times the ton miles per capita carried by Germany, which was second to the United States in this respect. The ton miles per capita carried by the United States railroads in 1913 were 3,101. In Germany the ton miles per capita carried by the railroads were 631.

The increase alone since 1913 in ton miles per capita (freight tons carried one mile for every one of the population) on American railways was more than the total of any of the next leading countries for 1913, the last year for which comparative data is available.

He has just asked her to marry him and she has consented. It's lovely! What does the artist call the picture? The young man eyed nearer and eyed a little closer on the frame. "I see!" he cried. PYTHIANS HAVE HIGH IDEALS OF AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP

Have Brilliant War Record; Run Life Insurance Department

The Pythian Order in Newark has stood many years for the highest ideals in American citizenship, patriotic devotion to the country and loyalty to the civic welfare of the community. During the years the Pythian Lodge has been operated in this town, its Castle Hall has been the meeting place of men inspired to perform a service for their fellowmen and to aid in all that would tend toward the development of a well regulated community. To be a Pythian in this town means that you are alive to the social welfare of the community, that you are loyal to the fraternal conception of life and that you have enlisted in the cause of the development of brotherhood and fraternal fellowship of men. Perhaps no other fraternal society has performed a greater service to the community than has the Knights of Pythias during the last few years.

More than 720,000 men of the United States and Canada are members of the order. There are fifty-four grand domains and over 7,500 lodges. The Order has proved itself loyal to country. More than 60,000 young men of the Order crossed the seas or were ready for embarkation when the armistice was signed.

The Pythian Order was the first to write into its Ritual the flag ceremony; it was the first American fraternity to enforce the sole of rituals printed in English; it was the first to disbar from membership men engaged in the liquor traffic. It has made war on all things not safe and sane and does everything possible for making the world better.

The war record of the members of this Order is second to none. Besides sending a large number of members into the service, those who remained at home, aided by their wives, mothers and sisters, contributed much to building up the morale of the community and in supplying the needs of the Government at a time when the service of every citizen was demanded. Upon the record the Lodge has made in this community, the members of the Lodge solicit the consideration of all men who love their country and who are interested in building up a fraternal conception of life.

In 1877, under direction of the Supreme Lodge, the Insurance Department was established and placed in charge of a Board of Control. Since that time the Department has paid $46,295,560 to widows and orphans of members. Even with the war losses and those of the great epidemic of last year, this Department has returned nearly $2,500,000 in waived payments. It has a legal reserve and ledger assets amounting to over $10,700,000 invested in American securities. During the last year, it paid $4.38 every minute to aid in maintaining the Pythian household, or an equivalent of $6,312 for every day in the year.

Other auxiliaries are the Uniform Rank which gave 10,000 men and officers in the world war; the Knights of Khorassan, the "playground of Pythianism;" and the Pythian Sisters with over 200,000 members, whose war record and altruistic work has made the organization one of the most effective.

Martin Doordan of Newark who was one of three corn club champions who won the Charles Warner prize, a trip to Washington has written a letter describing his trip. This letter is given below.

Paul Skewis of Milford and Dewey Sapp of Houston were the other winners. They were accompanied to Washington by State Club Leader and Mrs. T. T. Martin and in company with club champions from other state enjoyed visiting points of interest at the National Capital.

The boys visited the Senate and the House of Representatives and met several prominent men and women of the government departments; they observed with interest the various processes used in manufacturing paper money, bonds and postage stamps at the Bureau of Engraving; they were more than pleased with their visits to the Corcoran Art Gallery, the Congressional Library, the National Museum and the Smithsonian Institute; they never grew tired of viewing the Washington Monument, the White House and the Capital from all points in the city; but out of all their experiences they were most deeply impressed with their visit to Mt. Vernon, the home of George Washington.

The following letter tells something of the trip as it impressed the local representative:

At the end of Club Week at Delaware College there was held a corn judging contest. The Charles Warner Company supplied the money for the three best corn judges to get a trip to Washington, D. C.

The winners were Dewey Sapp of Houston, Paul Skewis of Milford and myself from Newark.

I left Newark, Delaware with our State Club Leader on an early train Friday afternoon, April 2nd. We went to Wilmington where we met the other Delaware boys. From there we went to Washington, D. C.

Friday evening we met Mr. Knowles of New Jersey, Mr. Jenkins of Maryland, Mr. Stanley of New York, the club leaders and their club members for the other eastern states.

Saturday morning we were ready to go to see the sights.

We walked around the White House, not being allowed to go in on account of the President not being well. Then we walked around Washington's Monument.

We were then taken through the Agriculture Department. There we met Mr. Danziger of the Club Office, North and West, and Mr. Hill of the Southern Club Office. Then we met Mrs. Johnson and Mr. True, Chief of the States Relations Service. Mr. Meredith, the new secretary of agriculture, was away but we were taken through his office.

From there we were taken through the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. There we had a very interesting time, seeing money and postage stamps made.

In the afternoon we went to Mount Vernon. There we saw the relics of Washington and the family. We saw the tomb of Washington while there.

When we came back from Mount Vernon we went to the house where Lincoln was shot and where he died, and saw the Lincoln collection.

Sunday morning we went to church which took up most of the morning. In the afternoon we went through the Corcoran Art Gallery. From there we went through the New National Museum.

In the evening we went through Congressional Library which was beautiful in the night time.

Monday morning we went through the Smithsonian Institution. Before we left we saw several other buildings of interest, one was the Pan American building and its sunken gardens.

A little before noon Monday we went through the Capitol. At twelve we went to the House of the Senate and saw the Senators assemble. Then we went to the House of Representatives. There we heard some of them discussing public questions.

We Delaware boys left Washington in the afternoon. Our leader staying there on business. I arrived home safely Monday evening.

Continental Band and Mandolin Club to go to Cecilton

The Continental Fibre Co. Band and Mandolin Club will go to Cecilton, Md. tomorrow evening where they will assist the band of that place in giving a musicale.

This organization which is less than a year old has made an enviable record for itself and is in great demand for out-of-town affairs, applications are constantly coming in for summer engagements and from all indications they will have as many as they can conveniently fill. They have been giving their services without remuneration, a fact which the public sincerely appreciates. The dues paid by each member cover only the cost of music. Funds for other expenses must be raised by other means. The Band has given two successful dances at the last of which they cleared over $100. They are planning for a third dance to be given at the Century Club on Monday, May 3.
