In this mad urban world, our lives are governed to a daily extent by traffic lights. If you live in Newark, the mere rite of driving to work becomes a daily adventure of stopping and starting at intersections, slaves to traffic lights. At a stop light several things can happen. The man or woman in front of you gets out a comb or brush and works frantically to accomplish a grooming in the brief span of time allotted to privacy. If you have been doing this or merely engaged in thought, and if you do not start the car moving the very moment the light changes, you inevitably hear an urgent "beep, beep, beep" from the car in back of you. The more impatient of these drivers are, invariable, young women driving small Japanese cars. They glare at you as though you have committed a mortal sin. If they can pass you they will do so, giving you a victorious beep on their horns. You play a game and try to guess what all these frantic motorists do for a living that motivates their peculiar behavior. Perhaps their cars provide the explanation or a guess. For example, the impatient young women are school teachers who in the morning are anxious to speed to school before the buses disgorge the kids. If you are a teacher, you are supposed to be at your desk when the little darlings file in and take their seats. To be late may lead to frowns from a supervisor and certainly by giggles from the small fry. The Newark area is Yuppy territory. Yuppies, to the uninitiated, are young professionals going onward and upward, principally in the business world. These "with it" people are identified by the make of cars they drive. More often than not, it will be an expensive low-slung job painted fire engine red that, when waiting at the traffic light, goes "varoom-varoom." When the light turns green, these monsters take off like projectiles and pass any other cars in their way. These are "busy and important people" and you are supposed to get out of their way. To older folks, these manifestations of our modern culture are either comical or exasperating... Depends upon how big a hurry you happen to be in, too.

S'gate woman slain

Boyfriend charged by city police

by Cathy Lucas

A pregnant 18-year-old woman was shot and killed in her Southgate apartment about 6:30 p.m. Friday, according to Newark police. Police identified the victim as Anita R. Null of 25 Marvin Drive, who had been living in the apartment with her boyfriend and another woman for just one month. Charged in the shotgun slaying was the boyfriend, who police identified as Richard Allen Stringer, 24. Police said Stringer was charged with one count of first degree murder and possession of a deadly weapon during commission of a felony. Stringer is being held without bail in Wilmington's Gander Hill Prison. Newark Police Chief William Brierley said Stringer allegedly shot Null in the head with a 12-gauge shotgun about 6:30 p.m. Friday, shortly after she returned home from an outing with a friend. "It was a contact shot, meaning the gun was right up against her head," Brierley said. The police chief said that after Null was shot, Stringer allegedly dragged her from the bedroom of the apartment and out the back door of the building to a wooded area about 150 feet from the complex. Brierley said Stringer was in the process of dragging the body back into the building when Newark police arrived and arrested him. Null was transported to Christiana Hospital, where she was pronounced dead. She was seven months pregnant and an infant boy was born at the hospital but died after 20 minutes. Brierley said charges in connection with the baby's death were considered, but were not filed on the advice of the

If you want to see Halley's Comet, your best bet is to get out a pair of binoculars sometime in the next two weeks. That's the advice of Dr. Harry Shipman of the University of Delaware. To get a good idea how to find the comet, you might drop by a free public lecture being presented by Shipman at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 9 in 115 Purnell Hall. Purnell is located at the corner of Amstel Avenue and Orchard Road. Shipman will discuss comets and even "cook up" a homemade version using ordinary household ingredients.

Jim Hall

West Virginian is city's first, only parks & rec director

"Two roads diverged in a wood, and I —
I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference."

—Robert Frost

by Neil Thomas

After two years at Marshall University in his home state of West Virginia, James F. Hall realized he simply wasn't comfortable with his chosen major of education.

The time had come when he had to make a decision about his future so Hall, a tall, soft-spoken native of Clarksburg, enlisted in the Army both to fulfill his service obligation and to take stock of his life.

As it turned out, enlisting was an action which has made all the difference for Hall, the City of Newark's first and only director of parks and recreation.

"It was while I was in the Army," said Hall, "that I met a Texan who had graduated in a field about which I knew nothing whatsoever — parks and recreation."

"I was immediately very interested, and we spent a lot of time together. I started going to the post library, reading up on the field and finding out which colleges offered it as part of their curriculum."

One which did offer recreation administration as a major was Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond, and Hall enrolled there after mustering out of the service.

An upon graduation he began searching for a job in the field through the National Parks and Recreation Association's placement service. The Association advertised a job as assistant director of an organization called the Greater Newark Recreation Association. Hall applied and got the job, moving to Newark in June 1984.

Hall said the GNRA was a private United Fund agency which served the territory of the old Newark Special School District.

It grew from community interest in parks and recreation which was first manifested when Newark residents went hand-in-hand to the community to provide programs for local youth just after the end of World War II.

By the mid-1950s, the organization was formalized as GNRA.

Soon after Hall came on board, United Fund decided to halt GNRA funding, arguing that what the organization was doing was in fact public responsibility. In other words, either the City of Newark or New Castle County were going to have to come up with a government program to keep local recreation opportunities going.

Newark officials were leery about going into the parks and recreation business, but in 1968 voters passed a $750,000 bond issue to acquire land for parks. GNRA had been providing recreation only; it had no parkland. The city, then led by Mayor Norma Handloff, agreed to start a department of parks and recreation and Hall was hired as director on Nov. 1, 1968.

The department, Hall said, "started out small but grew very quickly."

In 1968, parkland totaled just 85 acres, more than half of that coming when private citizens deeded 46-acre Rittenhouse Park to the city.

"It was pretty much me and one other professional, two clerk people, a foreman and one maintenance man," Hall said.

But the department quickly expanded, especially after adopting a philosophy in which residents were asked to pay fees to underwrite the leadership and materials of various recreational programs.

Today, the department has more than 200 acres in parkland and offers more than 100 recreational activities in winter, summer and fall sessions.

It has three major thrusts: parks, which are overseen by veteran foreman Bob Calhoun; recreation, for which department assistant director Charlie Emerson is largely responsible; and beautification, conducted by city horticulturalist Rick Colbert.

The department now has 12 full-time employees, six seasonal workers and scores of volunteers who help make the recreation program a success.

"We really utilize a lot of volunteers, especially in our leagues," Hall said. "We couldn't do a lot of the things we do without their help."

After nearly two decades as director, Hall has no complaints.

"It's been just an excellent experience working here in Newark," he said. "When you work in this community, it's very challenging. The people are knowledgeable and they've got a lot of different interests."

"And I like this job because you don't do the same thing every day. There are always new challenges and new priorities. And I like it because I'm not totally behind a desk. I'm able to get out and see our projects."

All in all, Hall said, it's been a road well worth the trip.

Council to meet

City to consider Sandy Brae industrial park annexation

Water, traffic and noise. Those are the three major concerns of residents whose homes are near the proposed 56.3 acre Sandy Brae Industrial Park in western Newark.

Residents are expected to air those concerns when Newark City Council holds a public hearing and takes final action Monday, Jan. 13 on a proposal to annex the land under general industrial (MI) zoning.

The Council meeting will begin at 8 p.m. and will be held in the Newark Municipal Building on Elkton Road.

The industrial park, located east of Sandy Brae Road and south of the CONRAIL Railroad right of way, would be one of the city's largest.

It has already received the endorsement of the Newark Planning Commission, which voted 4-0 on Nov. 5 to recommend approval by Council.

During that Commission meeting, residents of surrounding developments — including Anvil Park, Arbour Park and Summit View — expressed concerns about the proposed project.

Bob Hewlett, an Anvil Park resident and a member of the board of the New Castle County civic league, questioned the safety of the access road off Sandy Brae Road. He suggested consideration of an access road at the Christina Gateway end of the property, directly across from the back entrance to the Chrysler Corp. plant.

Joe Sherman, also an Anvil

Park resident, said the area is already plagued with poor drainage and feels development of the industrial park will worsen water problems.

Bill Forest of Arbour Park said he is concerned about noise, odor and drainage.

Sandy Brae Industrial Park is being proposed by Newark Developers, with John H. Presley and Urie Boulden as the principal partners.

The parcel would consist of 43 lots arranged on an access road from Sandy Brae Road.

The 56.3 acre parcel is already zoned industrial by New Castle County. The developers are seeking annexation to obtain city services.

Crash

Two hurt

Two men were injured — one seriously — in a two-car crash at the intersection of Orchard Avenue and West Park Place about 12:09 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 4.

Newark police said Roy Asa Hanshaw Jr. of New Castle remained in serious condition at Christiana Hospital Monday.

Daniel Yankowitz, 19, of Newark, was treated and released at Christiana Hospital, police said.

Police said a vehicle operated by Yankowitz was apparently heading southbound on Orchard Avenue and failed to stop for a flashing red signal when it struck a car operated by Hanshaw, who was westbound on Park Place.

Both vehicles came to rest about 100 feet from the intersection in the lawn of a home at 77 W. Park Place, police said.

Elections

Mayor, council

It's not too early for those Newark residents interested in running for mayor or council to be making plans to get their names on the city's 1988 election ballot.

All candidates must file a nominating petition in the Newark Municipal Building, 220 Elkton Rd., by 5 p.m., Monday, March 10 to be eligible for the election.

The city election will be held April 8.

Contested will be the mayoralty and council seats in districts three, five and six.

William Redd is the incumbent mayor. Incumbent councilmen whose seats will be contested are Betty L. Hutchinson, Third District; Ronald L. Gardner, Fifth District; and Olan R. Thomas, Sixth District.

To run for council, candidates must be a registered voter of the City of Newark and must have lived in the city for at least one year before the election.

Councilmen must live in the district they represent.

Newarkers who want to register to vote in the election may do so weekdays at the Municipal Building. In addition, special advertised Saturday registration sessions will be held in January, February and March.

Dr. Lodewijk van den Berg discusses his recent space travels.

Ground control

Individuals have power to make life on Earth heaven or hell, astronaut tells University of Delaware grads

by Bruce Johnson

In a tearful ending to his address to 344 University of Delaware graduates at winter commencement Sunday, keynote speaker Dr. Lodewijk van den Berg discussed his special perspective of space flight.

Van den Berg, a University of Delaware graduate, was one of the scientists selected to conduct experiments in Spacelab 3 during the 1985 spring flight of the NASA space shuttle "Challenger."

"While you are up there you can see the sky," said van den Berg, pausing a moment to control his emotions. "It does look impressive. All colors are gone. It's just black and white and it looks like an abstract painting. But what is important is when you look down. That's where life is, that's what it's all about — life, good or bad."

"You look for heaven above you and hell below but you don't see them because heaven and hell are on the ground. All your life you will have to make a choice — either it will be heaven or hell, it's your choice."

As van den Berg went back to his seat, the graduates, parents and faculty demonstrated their approval of his thoughts with a prolonged ovation.

Besides his thoughts on space travel, van den Berg told the graduates that the ending of their college years was not a high point of their lives but just a milestone with many possibilities for the future. He continued to say that the graduates had just completed a "mental bar mitzvah" in which they had come of age and were now faced with the problems of being responsible citizens.

"When people say 'be responsible,' they want you to be responsible like themselves and that's not right," he said. "You should develop your own responsibilities and go from that. The main responsibility is for yourself and when that works out, you can be responsible for others."

He also reassured the graduates that no matter what occupation they choose, they will have an impact "on life and other people."

Born in the Netherlands, Van den Berg received a master's degree in chemical engineering from Technical University in his native country. He then emigrated to the United States, where he attended the University of Delaware and earned his master's degree in Applied Science in 1972 and his doctorate in the same field in 1975.

Currently a scientific specialist with E G & C Energy Measurements Inc., he is also a member of the American Association of Crystal Growth and the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics. Van den Berg has conducted extensive research in the preparation of crystalline materials. He has broad experience in crystal growth, including vapor transport, solution and melt growth techniques. Today, he is an international authority on vapor growth techniques with emphasis on mercuric iodide crystals and their application in the nuclear industry as gamma ray detectors.

It was because of his expertise in this field, as well as his broad and extensive knowledge of science, that van den Berg was selected to conduct experiments aboard Spacelab 3.

On Saturday, van den Berg was awarded the University of Delaware Medal of Distinction at the annual meeting of the University of Delaware's research foundation. The medal is the highest non-degree award given by the university and it is presented to those individuals who have made significant contributions to the state, region or nation in professional or civic achievement.

Also receiving the university's Medal of Distinction was William M. Duffy Jr., who graduated from the University of Delaware in 1940 with a bachelor's degree in economics, was a member of the Delaware supreme court for ten years.

Duffy earned his law degree from the University of Pennsylvania and has spent 34 years in the legal profession. He has also been very active as a civic leader. He has actively supported the United Negro College Fund, the White House Conference on Children and Youth and the Big Brothers of Delaware.

Among civic and professional awards, Justice Duffy has received the James J. Hoey Award for interracial justice, the National Human Relations Award of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, and the First State Distinguished Service Award.

In 1980, he was voted the outstanding member of his university class at their 40th re-union.

Awards

JA students

Twenty-nine Delaware students involved in Junior Achievement — 10 of them from Newark area schools — have been awarded scholarships to the Dale Carnegie Course.

Students will be enrolled in the 14-week course which is designed to develop personal communications and human relations abilities. The scholarships are valued at $700 each.

Local students are: Tammy Bennett and Renee Lavallee, both of Christiana High School; Missy Brigandi, Elizabeth Dehel, Don Lloyd and Tracie Malloy, all of Glasgow High School; Anthony Avallone of Hodgson Vocational Technical School; and J. Benson, Bill Conrad and Sheila Dattoni, all of St. Mark's High School.

JA

Spring semester

Junior Achievement of Delaware will kick off the spring semester of programs beginning Friday, Feb. 14.

Programs will include the original JA night class for ninth through twelfth grades, Project Business for eighth and ninth grades, and Applied Economics for eleventh and twelfth grades and will be reaching 5,000 students in Delaware area schools.

Economic education for young people is Junior Achievement's primary goal and is achieved by establishing a partnership between area schools and local businesses. Located in the Delaware area for nearly 30 years, Junior Achievement is now serving 5,000 students in the region.

For information, call Junior Achievement at 654-4510.

UNIVERSITY

Bacchus Players

Dietz & Schwartz tribute will open Jan. 18

The Student Center Bacchus Players of the University of Delaware will open their winter session musical, "Something to Remember You By," at 8:15 p.m. Friday, in the Perkins Student Center on Academy Street.

Additional performances are scheduled for Jan. 18, Jan. 24-25, Jan. 31 and Feb. 1.

"Something to Remember You By" is a tribute to songwriters Howard Dietz and Arthur Schwartz, who became famous on Broadway commencing in 1929.

The Bacchus musical has songs and stories from these Dietz and Schwartz Broadway shows: "The Little Show" (1929), "The Second Little Show" (1930), "Three's a Crowd" (1930), "The Band Wagon" (1931), "Flying Colors" (1932), "Revenge With Music" (1934), "At Home Abroad" (1935), "Between the Devil" (1937), and a Hollywood film version of "The Band Wagon" (1953).

A 1930s musical revue, "Something to Remember You By" will feature such songs as the title song as well as "Body and Soul," "Moanin' Low," "Dancing in the Dark," "Love Is a Dancing Thing," "By Myself," "I See Your Face Before Me," "You and the Night and the Music," "That's Entertainment," and many others.

Featured in the cast are Bacchus Players Frank Baker, Ellie Forsberg Young, Tina Haw, Bonni Jones, Lou George, Derek Forsberg, Ashley Izard and a Bacchus newcomer, Bob Castro.

Danceteller, the modern dance-theatre ensemble in residence at the university for the winter session, will also be featured.

Jim Weber is the musical director, and the musical accompaniment for the show will be by pianists Jim Weber and Bill Young.

The concept for "Something to Remember You By" was developed by Jack Sturgell, who also wrote the narrative material with Betsy Turvene. Barbara Izard is the director.

DiVersity

January classes

DiVersity, a program of non-credit short courses, will be offered during Winter Session at the University of Delaware.

Classes will include the areas of physical fitness, self-improvement, psychic sciences and arts, crafts and hobbies. Most are one- or two-night sessions.

Course fees are nominal. Registration for DiVersity will be held through Jan. 9 from 11:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. in Room 107 of the Perkins Student Center on Academy Street in Newark. A free brochure is available.

For more information, call 451-1296.

Halley's

Lecture Thursday

Halley's Comet will be the topic of a free public lecture presented by Harry Shipman at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 9, in 115 Purnell Hall at the corner of Amstel Avenue and Orchard Road on the University of Delaware campus in Newark.

The talk will describe what comets are, what they look like in the sky, where to look to see Halley's comet, and what astronomers are doing about it.

Part of the talk will include a demonstration of what a comet really looks like, when Shipman "cooks up" a comet using orinary household ingredients. The talk will be illustrated with slides.

Austrian evening

European fare

An evening of Austrian food and entertainment will be presented on Friday, Jan. 10, in the Rodney Room of the Perkins Student Center on the University of Delaware campus in Newark.

The dinner will feature soup, tafelspitz (brisket of beef with cream horseradish sauce), vegetables, cucumber and dill salad, dessert crepe and beverage. Providing entertainment will be Ernie Volkstanzgruppe, a group of musicians and dancers.

The program will begin at 6:15 p.m., and cost is $12.50 per person. Tickets are available in Room 109 of the Perkins Student Center, located on Academy Street in Newark.

King

'Dream Deferred'

"A Dream Deferred," a program celebrating the birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., will be held at 8:30 p.m., Wednesday, Jan. 8, in the Rodney Room of the Perkins Student Center on the University of Delaware campus in Newark.

The program is free and open to the public.

Featured will be the University of Delaware Gospel Ensemble and Yolanda King, Dr. King's oldest daughter.

Active in the struggle for human rights, Ms. King has participated in numerous demonstrations and has spoken before several religious, educational, civic and human rights organizations.

Mozart

Concert Thursday

A performance of works by W.A. Mozart will be held at 8 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 9 in the Loudis Recital Hall of the University of Delaware's Amy E. du Pont Music Building at Arndel Avenue and Orchard Road.

Ensemble members featured will be: Francis Orval, horn; Peter Hill, clarinet; Lloyd Shorter, oboe; Timothy McGovern, bassoon, and Ruth Palmer, piano.

The event is offered to the public at no charge and is sponsored by the university's winter session office and music department.

Directed by Francis Orval, the concert is the final event of a Mozart master class and features the following selections: "Quintet K. 482," "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik," overture to "The Magic Flute," and "Bruder Reich Die Haudzum Bunde." Also on the program is Beethoven's "Quintet, Op. 16."

Orval is an internationally-known French horn soloist and recording artist. In the Mozart master class, he directed the study and interpretation of Mozart's Concerti and his other works with horn. Orval has recorded on such labels as Philips and Decca, and his most recent recording is Mozart's "Horn Concerti" with the Brussels Festival Orchestra on Pavane Records.

Parmentier

Harpichord recital

Edward Parmentier, a specialist in the harpichord music of J.S. Bach and the French clavecinistes, will give a recital at 3:30 p.m., Sunday, Jan. 12.

The recital will be held in the Loudis Recital Hall of the University of Delaware's Amy E. du Pont Music Building at Arndel Avenue and Orchard Road.

The event is sponsored by the university's winter session office and the music department.

The Jan. 12 recital will be a chamber music concert featuring Parmentier, with these guest artists from the university music faculty: Lloyd Shorter, oboe; Peter Hill, clarinet; Matthew Michelle, viola, and Douglas McNamee, cello.

Parmentier is currently on the faculty of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, where he directs the early music ensemble. He has performed widely throughout the U.S. and Europe, with recent appearances at Louisiana State University, Los Angeles for the L.A. Harpsichord Society, the Boston Early Music Festival, Interlochen Arts Academy, and with the Toledo Symphony.

Parmentier's conducting of the baroque orchestra Ars Musica in excerpts from Handel's "Messiah" was named "Critic's Choice" by High Fidelity magazine.

Danceteller

Recital Jan. 11

Danceteller, a modern dance theatre ensemble that will be in residence on the University of Delaware campus during Winter Session, will perform in recital at 8:15 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 11, in Mitchell Hall on South College Avenue in Newark.

At the free public program, the Philadelphia-based ensemble will present such works as "City Dance," with music by Blondie and Herbie Hancock, and "Ocean," with music by Hovhannes.

CHURCH FILE

HICA

Choirs to perform

The combined choirs of HICA (Churches of the general Hockessin area) will give a sacred concert at St. Mary of the Assumption Church, Lancaster Pike, Hockessin, at 4 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 19.

Several choirs will sing separate anthems and the combined choirs will end the program with "Hallelujah" from Handel's "Messiah."

An open house with refreshments will follow the program.

Aerobics

Ogletown Baptist

Winter session aerobics classes are under way at Ogletown Baptist Church, 316 Red Mill Rd., Newark.

Classes meet at 7 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays in the church, and are offered free of charge. Child care is available at $1 for the first child and 50 cents for each additional child.

Participants exercise to contemporary Christian music.

For information, call 737-2511.

Luncheon

Christian Women's Club

The Newark First Christian Women's Club will hold a "Live Wire Luncheon" at noon Monday, Jan. 13 in Clayton Hall on the University of Delaware's north campus in Newark.

Reservations must be made by 10 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 9. Call 239-0847 or 737-9365. Cost is $6.75.

Radio personality Bev Richards will speak. Music will be provided by vocalist and guitarist Joy Cerato.

Peter Schoettle

U.S. - Soviet relations

State Department official to speak at U.D.

Dr. Peter Schoettle of the U.S. Department of State will speak on "U.S.-Soviet Relations after the Geneva Summit" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 9 in Room 125 of Clayton Hall on the University of Delaware's north campus.

The lecture, part of the "Focus on Global Challenges" series sponsored by the university, will be free and open to the public.

Schoettle received his bachelor's degree from Claremont Men's College and his master's and doctoral degrees from Columbia University.

In 1975, he joined the U.S. Department of State as a foreign service officer and served in the Bureau of Political Military Affairs, dealing with arms control negotiations. He also has served as a staff assistant to the American Ambassador in Athens, Greece, and as political military affairs officer on the West German Desk.

From 1982-84, he was a political officer in the American Embassy in Warsaw, Poland.

Schoettle presently is working on various arms control measures and U.S.-Soviet relations with the Soviet Desk of the U.S. Department of State.

Speaking next in the series on Monday, Jan. 13, will be Debra Miller of Barnard College. She will speak on "U.S. Trade Protectionism: International Implications."

Lee named director of scholarships

Michael E. Lee of Wilmington has been named director of the Office of Scholarships and Student Financial Aid at the University of Delaware, effective Oct. 15.

In making the announcement, Stuart J. Sharkey, vice president for student affairs at the university, said, "Mr. Lee brings a great deal of knowledge to the position, and he will be able to provide excellent leadership. We are fortunate to have someone as experienced as he is in financial aid at the University of Delaware."

Lee replaces Dr. Douglas S. MacDonald, who now serves as director of the Maryland State Scholarship Board.

A member of the university staff since 1974, Lee has been senior assistant director for operations and programs coordinator in the Office of Scholarships and Student Financial Aid since 1983.

At the university, he has served as student employment coordinator, financial aid officer and assistant director of scholarships and student financial aid for operations and data process management.

From 1973-74, he was director of resident student living at York College of Pennsylvania.

A graduate of Milliken University in Decatur, Ill., Lee holds a master's degree from the University of Delaware.

He is active in the Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators and the College Scholarship Service.

NEWARK: PAST & PRESENT

by Bob Thomas

One of the many mills which operated on the banks of White Clay Creek in Newark was the Dean Woolen mill, which at one time stood on the current site of the National Vulcanized Fibre Co. plant off Paper Mill Road.

The original mill, first named Simonton's mill, was constructed about 1725. In 1777, the British army marched through Newark and attempted to render the mill useless to colonial troops by setting it into motion grinding nothing but air.

The mill, at the time renamed Tyson's grist mill, suffered a serious fire in 1831 and in 1845 it was purchased by Joseph Dean. Dean was the founder of the woolen industry in Newark.

Born in England in 1783, Dean moved to the United States in 1811, taking partnership in a mill in Philadelphia.

He bought Tyson's grist mill from Samuel Thomas of Bucks County, Pa. in 1845. The business prospered and in 1853 a four-story mill was erected.

As Dean's business continued to expand, he built a warehouse and a dye house on the site. He also constructed several houses for his employees on the hill between the mill and present-day Cleveland Avenue.

In 1847, Dean's son, William Dean, entered the thriving business as a full partner. The firm became known as Joseph Dean & Son.

Much of life in the village of Newark revolved around the mill, and William Dean was said to have been the community's most influential citizen.

The mill suffered a setback during the nationwide panic of 1857. Joseph Dean never recovered from the strain of those hard times, and he died in 1861 at the age of 77. Upon Dean's death, William took a new partner in John Pilling.

By 1882, the business was booming, so much so that it put Newark on the industrial map.

But just four years later, the business disappeared, consumed in the greatest disaster in Newark's history.

The mill caught fire on Christmas morning, 1886. Employees flocked to the scene to try to quell the flames, but all soon realized the cause was hopeless.

A strong northwest wind spread the flames to other buildings and in 45 minutes everything that was combustible was ablaze.

By noon that day, the oldest and best known mill works in the region had been destroyed. Local businesses suffered for many years when the wages of the mill's 272 employees — which totaled $8,000 monthly — were stricken from Newark's economy.

As a result of the disastrous fire, Newarkers realized the need for a dependable water supply.

That came to the town two years later in the form of a water works, once housed in the building which is now home to the Newark Senior Center.

Like his father, William Dean never recovered from the strain of the disaster. He died a few months after the fire in 1887, and was buried next to his father in the Newark Cemetery on New Street.

The mill was never rebuilt.

The NVF plant on White Clay Creek is on a site once occupied by a thriving mill.

Peace Fellowship

"Understanding Nonviolence: Violence in our Daily Lives," a course of experiential learning, will be presented by the Newark Peace Forum on Sunday afternoons, Jan. 12 and 26 and Feb. 2.

The program will be held 5 p.m. at the Newark Center for Creative Learning, 401 Phillips Ave., Newark.

Taught by Lynne Shivers, nationally known nonviolence trainer, author, and co-founder of the Movement for a New Society in Philadelphia, the course will address situations of conflict and violence at home, at school, on the job, and on the street.

It will explore responses to conflict that protect the protagonists, minimize unfairness, and do not harm or destroy others. Topics to be addressed include:

- The analysis of conflicts.
- Non-violent responses to conflict and violence.
- Facing our fears of violence and conflict.
- How to challenge structural violence (bureaucracies, power structures, etc.).

The cost for the entire course is $20 (students and senior citizens $15) or $6 per session. To register call Betsy Granda at 368-8250. Request child care if needed.

Hikes

Trail Club

The Wilmington Trail Club has scheduled a variety of tri-state outings this month. They include:

• Saturday, Jan. 11 — Sandy Lowry (764-8925) will lead a 14-mile hike from Wissahickon Park to Penn's Landing in Philadelphia. Hikers will meet at 7:30 a.m. behind the Delaware Trust Co. building in Fairfax Shopping Center.

• Sunday, Jan. 12 — A 10-mile hike through Valley Forge National Historical Park will be led by Babs Favre (215-687-2257) and Barbara Weaver (658-0376). Hikers will meet at 9:30 a.m. behind the Delaware Trust Co. building in Fairfax Shopping Center.

• Wednesday, Jan. 15 — Jim Mitchell (998-6371) will lead an easy five-mile circle through Delcastle and Brandywine Springs parks. Hikers will meet at 9:30 a.m. in the parking lot by the ball field in Delcastle Recreation Area off McKennans Church Road.

Story hour

Newark Library

The Newark Free Library has resumed its preschool story hour program following a holiday recess.

The program is for children ages 3½ through 5, and is offered at 10:30 a.m., 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. Tuesdays.

Three filmstrips will be shown during story hour on Tuesday, Jan. 14. They are "Bruno Munari's ABC's," "The Tale of Peter Rabbit," and "The Snowy Day."

For more information about story hour, call 731-7550 or inquire at the Newark Free Library, 750 Library Ave.

AAUW

Meeting Jan. 14

The Mill Creek Hundred Branch of the American Association of University Women will hold a mid-winter luncheon at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 14 at Limestone Presbyterian Church, 3201 Limestone Rd.

United States Bankruptcy District Court Judge Helen Balick will speak on bankruptcy and women's roles in the legal profession.

Cost of the light luncheon is $3.50. For reservations, call Sandra Dahn at 995-1349. The public is invited.

Classes

For handicapped

A variety of classes and activities for persons with disabilities are being offered by the New Castle County Department of Parks and Recreation.

Included are classes in acting, bowling, swimming, slimmastics and wheelchair sports.

For information, call the department's special populations section at 366-7799.

Vinny

Vinny needs Big Brother

Vinny, an energetic 10-year-old who lives in Newark with his mother and six-year-old sister, is one of 70 local boys awaiting a successful match with a Big Brother.

Vinny has been waiting two years. He was matched with a college student for a few months in 1983 but the association unfortunately ended because the volunteer was unable to spend time with him on a consistent basis.

Although Vinny is initially slow to warm up to new people, he is warm and friendly once you are in his good graces.

An outdoors type, Vinny enjoys fishing, camping, soccer, baseball and bicycling. When indoors, he likes video games.

Because Vinny can be hyperactive at times, he requires a Big Brother who is patient and can set some limits for him.

He also needs a Big Brother who can provide companionship and guidance and build self-esteem and confidence. While there is flexibility in the number of hours the volunteer should provide, there should be consistency in the relationship to help Vinny feel like a special person.

A Big Brother who is willing to spend a fair amount of time being a friend who cares is the ideal candidate for Vinny.

If you would like more information about becoming a Big Brother to Vinny, or any of the other 69 youths awaiting matches, call the Newark Big Brothers/Big Sisters office at 368-0202.

It's cookie time!

Newark area Girl Scouts to launch annual campaign

It's Girl Scout cookie time, and area Scouts will be going door-to-door raking orders from Jan. 11 through Jan. 26.

This year Sheehy Ford in Wilmington, Nucar Mazda in Dover, and Good News Oldsmobile-Cadillac GMC in Salisbury will help local Girl Scouts get as much mileage out of the cookie kick-off as possible.

Cars, filled with boxes of cookies, will be on display in the Christiana Mall Jan. 11-26; Dover Mall Jan. 17-26 and Salisbury Mall Jan. 11-26. Everyone will get a chance to guess how many boxes of Girl Scout cookies are in the cookie car and the winner in each mall will receive a $200 shopping spree in that mall.

The 1986 Girl Scout cookie line-up will bring back some old favorites, including the popular Samoa, the combination of vanilla cookie, caramel, coconut, and chocolate. The other six varieties being sold are: Do-Si-Dos (peanut butter sandwich), Trefoils (shortbread), Thin Mints (the top selling cookie), Chocolate Chunks, Peacan Shortees, and Tagalongs (peanut butter patties).

Cookies sell for $2 a box. The money raised accounts for 50 percent of the Chesapeake Bay Girl Scout Council's operating budget which is used for camperships and program scholarships sponsoring girl events, developing girl program with a special focus, providing materials and supplement troop program, maintaining program facilities and properties, and providing quality training for adults.

Although Girl Scouts have been selling cookies since Juliette Gordon Low brought the movement to the United States in 1912, the first sale of commercially baked cookies was in 1934. Today, four companies are licensed by Girl Scouts to manufacture cookies — Little Brownie Baker, Interbake Foods, Burry-I-a, and Salerno-Megowen Biscuit Company. The Chesapeake Bay Girl Scout Council participates in a cookie consortium with five other councils, and this year selected Little Brownie Baker as their manufacturer.

Jorene Jameson, executive director for Chesapeake Bay, said "enthusiasm is running high throughout the organization and the Council is looking forward to a successful sale."

Robert Goodier's painting of the ratification of the U.S. Constitution.

This is the fourth in the series about the five paintings which were commissioned by Bank of Delaware to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the ratification of the U.S. Constitution. Today the spotlight is on the ratification itself, and the scene is Dover.

This painting by Delaware-born artist Robert Goodier has, perhaps, the most interesting history and required some very lengthy, detailed research.

In May of 1787, a convention in Philadelphia assembled to amend the Articles of Confederation, which was later to become our Constitution. Delegates finished their work on Sept. 17 and the states then had to ratify their efforts.

The Delaware State Convention met in Battell's Tavern, Dover. It was made up of 30 delegates, ten from each county. Every member voted in favor, thus making Delaware "The First State" to ratify the Constitution.

The three-by-four foot canvas depicts eight of the delegates in the council room of the tavern. The man standing at the far left is Allan McLane. Seated next to him are Gunning Bedford Jr., James Latimer and Richard Bassett. The two men standing behind Bassett are Nicholas Ridgely and Gunning Bedford Sr. The man at the table to the right is Kensey Johns, the elder. The man with his back to us is James Sykes.

How did artist Goodier know what the men looked like? Research in the Delaware Archives produced portraits of the men at various ages and he worked from there. How about the furniture in the room? That was a problem!

In the depths of the archives, Bank of Delaware researcher and public affairs officer John Goodier, brother of the artist, came up with the chattel inventory of Elizabeth and French Battell, who ran the inn.

THE ARTS
by Phil Toman

Look carefully at the photo of the painting. There are no curtains on the windows and John Goodier has proof that at the time of the convention there were none there. How about the type of chair? Again, proof positive they were Windsor chairs. How about the map on the wall with "New Jersey" misspelled? John Goodier actually has a copy of the map and the artist worked from it.

I have enjoyed the arts for many years. I have enjoyed history, especially of my home state. I have never seen both art and history better combined to form that thing I love so much in the arts, an entity, as well as they are in these five paintings. They are something right now for all Delaware to see and enjoy. I believe that in just a short while, when the rest of the nation catches up with us to get ready for the Constitution's bicentennial, the paintings will be something for the country to see and enjoy.

You can see them now at the Bank of Delaware's main office, 300 Delaware Avenue, Wilmington.

Workshop

Dance improvisation

A dance improvisation workshop will be held 4-7 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 18 at the Newark New Century Club by Manfred Fischbeck.

Fischbeck is co-founder of Group Motion, a modern dance company centered in Philadelphia. He is also an instructor at the Philadelphia College of Performing Arts and the University of Pennsylvania.

The Jan. 18 workshop is designed to give participants new technical skills and lay the groundwork for extending individual awareness through movement.

Dancers and others interested in movement will find the workshop of benefit no matter what their level of experience. It will feature structured dance improvisations and live music.

The workshop is sponsored by the Dance Network and the New Dance Studio and will be held at the Newark New Century Club, located at East Delaware Avenue and Haines Street.

The fee is $15. To register or for information, call Linda Moores at 368-0365 by Monday, Jan. 13.

Tales

Grimm reality

The life, art and literary contributions of the Brothers Grimm will be considered in a Delaware Art Museum program which will run Feb. 9 through April 6.

The eight-part family program will meet at 2 p.m. Sundays in the Lecture Gallery of the museum, which is located at 2301 Kentmere Parkway in Wilmington.

Participants will explore, through film, readings and discussions, the major themes and ideas presented in the "Household Tales" of the Grimm Brothers.

During the program, participants will write, star in, and film their own version of the little-known tale, "The Bremen Town Musicians."

The free program is open to children, their parents, grandparents, and individuals of all ages. No previous acting, writing or filming experience is required.

The family adventure is designed so that each program builds upon the previous weeks. Thus, advance registration for the family is strongly recommended. Deadline for registration is Wednesday, Feb. 5.

To register, or for more information, call the museum's education department at 571-9594.

The program series has been made possible, in part, by a grant from the Delaware Humanities Forum, a state program of the National Endowment of the Humanities.

Classes

The Dance Network

The Dance Network, a modern dance ensemble centered in Newark, will be offering dance classes for children and adults at its rehearsal studio in Newark.

Classes will be offered in jazz, modern and ballet at beginning and intermediate levels.

Interested students should contact Linda Moores, artistic director of The Dance Network, at 368-0365.

New exhibit

Brandywine River

Two distinctively different artist-illustrators, each a master in his own style, are being featured at the Brandywine River Museum now through May 18.

Although Arthur Burdett Frost (1881-1928) and Joseph Pennell

(1857-1926) were contemporaries whose illustrations were published in some of the same magazines, their artistic approaches were quite dissimilar.

Pennell, an illustrator, etcher, and lithographer, specialized in urban industrial landscapes, while Frost was known for his humorous drawings of rural people and animals. Their work, exhibited separately, provides interesting contrasts of contemporaries and each is a fascinating show in its own right.

A walk through the Frost exhibition is, to a great extent, a walk through a fantasy world. A pot-bellied rabbit smokes a pipe in one drawing, while an arrogant rooster seems to be giving orders in another.

Frost's genius is partly evidenced by the fact that his animal characters are not silly but funny. Their faces and stances project human attitudes that are fun to laugh at, as are exaggerations of pride, for example.

Although best known for his creation, with writer Joel Chandler Harris, of Br'er Rabbit and Uncle Remus, Frost was also a popular sporting illustrator and contributor to leading magazines. In addition, he illustrated more than 90 books by distinguished authors, including Lewis Carroll, Charles Dickens, and Mark Twain.

Pennell also created illustrations for books and magazines, though his work was more serious in tone. Known primarily for renderings of street scenes, palaces, and cathedrals of America and Europe, he helped thousands of readers glimpse far-away places. In fact, he and his wife produced six travel books of their own.

Catalogues accompany these concurrent exhibitions, which are supported by a grant from The Mabel Pew Myrin Trust. The two catalogues are well illustrated and were also made possible by the Trust.

Open daily from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., the Brandywine River Museum is located on U.S. 1 in Chadds Ford, Pa. General admission is $2.50. Seniors, children 6-12, and students with identification are admitted for $1.25. Children younger than six are admitted free.

Is nothing sacred?
That is the question posed by one Newark resident after she learned that vandals had stolen the crucifix which adorned the entrance to St. Thomas Episcopal Church cemetery on Delaware Avenue.

To make matters worse, it was stolen during the Christmas holiday season.

She correctly pointed out that volunteers had gone to a lot of trouble to dress up the entranceway, adjacent to the old Newark Free Library building, and said it is a shame some unthinking soul had to destroy their hard work.

The crucifix, she said, served as a "very nice, peaceful symbol of stability and peace" in the community.

She hoped that by mentioning the loss, the wayward thief would perhaps return the crucifix to its rightful place.

We certainly hope that happens.

It's refreshing to see that a large number of Delawareans are keenly interested in automobile safety.

According to the results of a poll conducted among members of the Delaware Motor Club, 70 percent favor a mandatory seat belt law in the First State.

Twenty six percent oppose such a law while four percent had no opinion.

The Delaware Motor Club, which is affiliated with the American Automobile Association, also found that 69 percent of the members surveyed always buckle up.

Seventy-nine percent of those surveyed believe there should be a law in Delaware requiring motorcyclists to wear helmets.

POSTSCRIPT

by Neil Thomas

Why there isn't presently such a law is beyond reason; heads simply do not stand up well when bashed against pavement.

The survey found further that 82 percent of the respondents favor mandatory jail sentences for anyone convicted of vehicular homicide as a result of drunk driving.

It's hard to believe that a community like Newark, which is home to so many giving individuals, has a waiting list of more than 70 boys in search of Big Brothers.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters is an extremely valuable program, one which builds the self-esteem of our nation's most valuable natural resource — it's children.

If you have some time to spare, please give the program's Newark office a call at 368-0202.

'Jackets swarm Delcastle

by Bruce Johnson

It has been said that all wins bear equal weight in the "W" column. But for Newark High School basketball coach Jim Doody, last Friday night's 70-47 victory over powerful Delcastle held a bit more significance than any other victory this season.

"(Delcastle) was a crucial game for us and I never thought we'd be up by 30 points with two minutes left to play," said Doody, whose team is now 4-3.

After consecutive losses to Seaford and Sanford, a loss to the Cougars on Friday would have dropped the Yellowjackets' season record below .500. "More importantly, Doody said, a loss would have had a dire emotional effect on the Newark team.

"Basketball's a mental game and a loss to Delcastle would have been disastrous," he said. "It would have set us back emotionally and would have given other teams confidence. They would have seen the score and taken advantage of it by believing that they could beat Newark. Hopefully we sent a message to those teams."

With the win, the message is crystal clear. Newark is a team that is getting better each time it hits the floor. As the players grow accustomed to their roles and gain more confidence with each other, Newark will reach the potential that was attributed them early in the season.

"We just weren't a basketball team against Seaford and Cape (Henlopen)," said Doody. "Although we looked better against Tatnall, we didn't put together the whole package until Delcastle."

Against Delcastle, the 'Jackets started slowly but gained some first quarter momentum when Kevin Gardner converted a three point play. Gardner sank a spectacular basket while falling backwards after being fouled. The basket and ensuing free throw sparked Newark to a 14-10 first quarter lead.

In the second quarter, Newark's full court pressing defenses proved to be too much for the taller, less mobile Cougars and the 'Jackets were able to open up a 20 point halftime lead. In the second half, the 'Jackets coasted to victory.

"The single most important thing in the game was the ability of our press to force turnovers," said Doody. "We've had some time to work together and when we come together as a team, the press allows our athletes to do the things that make them such great athletes."

Donny Wright led all scorers with 24 and, according to Doody, Wright has made the adjustment from football to basketball after several dismal performances.

"He carried us in the second half," said Doody of his 6'4" junior or guard. "The first three games of the season Donny hardly looked like a basketball player, but he's turning it on now."

But Wright is not the only 'Jacket who is playing well. Gardner has provided steady play at Glasgow athletic director Bill Conley is optimistic about the future.

Glasgow resurgent

Dragon athletic programs source of pride for students

by Bruce Johnson

There is an unfamiliar but welcome feeling wandering the halls and classrooms of Glasgow High School. It is called school spirit, and it brings with it a new found sense of pride and self-respect.

For years, these things had been absent and the result was a negative atmosphere in the school and a poor reputation for Glasgow throughout the area.

But all that is changing, and according to Glasgow athletic director Bill Conley it is due to a resurgent athletic program.

This fall, the Dragons placed three teams in state tournament competition with the football team being the most visibly successful. The success of these programs has created a new sense of worth and self-esteem in the students at Glasgow.

"I really believe the pride that now exists in Glasgow is a direct result of the accomplishments of the athletic programs," said Conley. "You can measure that pride in the number of kids who want to wear Glasgow jackets, sweat-shirts, letters and school colors.

The kids want to go into the community and say, 'We're Glasgow Dragons and we're proud of it.'"

But pride is not the only benefit the school has received as a result of athletic success on the playing fields. It has also had a positive impact in the classroom. Conley, who is also the disruptive youth counselor at Glasgow, has noticed the change in direction that the kids are taking.

"The ramifications for Glasgow since the program began to build can be seen in the student body of 1,400," he said. "These kids (athletes) tend to be your leaders and role models on and off the field. The pride they exhibit in the classroom and hallways rubs off on the kids who are not natural leaders and they follow that lead."

"If your role models are hoodlums, then that rubs off those students, but I think we have it headed in the right direction and sports is a major reason."

Conley, who has been involved with Glasgow's athletic programs as a coach and athletic director for more than 13 years, understands the impact that athletics can have on an individual athlete who is in the maturing process of adolescence. He realizes that the teen-age years can be the most influential in creating a direction that will be either advantageous or detrimental to the youth. Conley strongly believes that sports can be a positive influence on students and does his best to get Glasgow students involved.

"Our goal at this point is to reach some of the same plateaus that Newark has reached..."

— Bill Conley

"We want our kids to be winners," he said. "Although it's not everything, you can't avoid the question or underscore its importance. Those who win on the athletic fields are going to be winners in life. We want them to be winners with the style of sportsmanship, team spirit and self-discipline but we also want them to have the winning attitude."

One of Conley's major concerns this season was the Dragon football team.

Although the team had developed a winning attitude, at times it displayed some unsportsmanlike characteristics. Unfortunately, the reputation took precedence over the fine talent and accomplishments of the team. Both Conley and head football coach Rennie Clements spent time with the players discussing team character, dignity and sportsmanship.

By the end of the season, the Dragons displayed a new and heightened sense of maturity on and off the field. Even though they lost to archrival Newark in the state championship game, the players received a great deal of respect from the community for their sportsmanship.

"I think a lot of good will come out after that football game," said Conley. "I think the Glasgow team grew in many areas over the course of the season, as they learned to deal with victory and the pride of being a championship contender."

St. Mark's wins

Spartans overcome stubborn Delcastle squad

by Bruce Johnson

The St. Mark's High School wrestling team survived a scare from neighborhood rival Delcastle coming from behind to defeat the Cougars 34-27.

Delcastle had taken a 10-0 lead after Joe Paoli won a major decision in the 100 pound weight class and Mark Jenkins overcame an 18-4 deficit to pin highly-touted and previously unbeaten St. Mark's freshman Paul Collier.

But the Spartans were then able to get consecutive wins from David Wallace (140), John McColgan (147), Eddie Mendez (157) and Brandon Little (167) to seal a victory.

Spartan wrestlers Shawn Thomas (114) and Mark Stimmel (121) also recorded key wins.

Despite the closeness of the match, Spartan head coach Steve Bastianelli was not concerned.

"To me, this is the dead part of the season," he said. "In the beginning of the season, with the tournaments, everyone is pumped up. But after Christmas, it starts to drag. We were just flat.

"We do this every year. We start out strong and then we lose some of that edge, so I'm not worried. In fact, I'd be worried if they were still sky high. You can only be up for so long, but they'll recover that edge by state tournament time."

Regarding the surprising upset of Collier by Jenkins, who Collier beat handily in the Yellowjacket Invitational Tournament last month, Bastianelli attributed the loss to the common wrestling problem of making weight.

"He didn't watch his weight and he started getting leg cramps and he just ran out of gas, Bastianelli said. "He only needed one more point for the match, but he was put on his back and when your concentration is on other things, like the legs, then these things happen."

In other action, Christiana pounced on Howard, ripping the Wildcats 55-9 in a non-conference match.

Recording pins for the Vikings were Jim Straub (107), Jeff Katris (121), Scott Tinney (140), Dave Simpson (169), Arnie Dunn (187) and Martin Emery (heavyweight).

Glasgow also recorded a resounding victory over A.I. duPont, 47-13, to boost its record to 2-1.

Glasgow wrestlers recorded five pins, those by Chip Hill (107), Mike Annand (114), John Copes (128), Rich Liebried (157) and Keith Truitt (187).

Newark was not so fortunate, losing to a talented Smyrna team 56-4. Newark pulled within six points of the Eagles after five matches but lost the remaining seven bouts. Newark's Steve Fierro and Kurt Howell recorded victories in the defeat.

Brandon Little helps St. Mark's lock up win over Delcastle.

SPORTS

Newark girls learn lesson from Delcastle

by Bruce Johnson

The open state tournament for girls basketball has created many changes in the outlook of coaches regarding season play. Because all teams make the tournament, even a loss in conference holds little significance to a team's future.

Such was the attitude of Newark High School head coach John Holland after Delcastle handed the Yellowjackets their second consecutive loss, 62-33.

"We take each game as a learning experience because of the open tournament," said Holland after the game. "We'll learn from the game and work on our mistakes and become a better team for it."

With the game as a learning experience and the court as the classroom, Delcastle was an admirable teacher. Employing a full court press on defense, the Cougars were able to cause numerous turnovers and convert them into easy points taking a 26-16 halftime lead.

In the second half, the 'Jackets were instructed on the fine art of rebounding. The Cougars controlled both the offensive and defensive backboards and held Newark to only seven total rebounds, outscoring them 36-17.

Cougar center Violet Dummett had 15 points and 17 rebounds while strong forward Sherri Griswold totaled 13. But it was the fine play of guards Deanna Merrill and Dionna Harris who each scored 15 points and caused numerous turnovers on defense that proved the difference.

"They're a good team," said Holland. "That (Harris) is just a super athlete. We had to concentrate on her and that left (Merrill) open. She went wild in the corner."

Although the 'Jackets were more disciplined against the Cougar press in the second half, Holland admitted that it was the key to the game.

"You can't attack a press to beat a press. You have to go after it as a scoring opportunity," said Holland. "We didn't do that in the first half and we got hurt. In the second half, the kids knew their roles and played much better."

After consecutive losses to Padua and Delcastle, Holland hopes that the 'Jackets (5-2) do not lose confidence in themselves. "We're a good team and we've got to gain some confidence," he said.

"The girls have to realize how good they really are. We've got a lot of young girls out there, and this is going to happen. They'll learn and get better with experience."

"We'll keep getting better and when we meet them (Delcastle) again, we'll give them a better game."

Tawana Williams led Newark with 12 points.

In other local girls basketball action, St. Mark's fell to Ursuline 49-24, Christiana was crushed by McKean 56-12 and William Penn outshot Glasgow 69-30.

The Spartans lost their opening Catholic Conference game to a talented Ursuline team and fell to 4-3 on the year. The Spartans were led by Lois Bukowski's 13 points.

The Vikings were unable to defeat unbeaten McKean, which boosted its record to 6-0. The Vikings fell to 1-6. Jennifer Boland accounted for five points in the loss.

Glasgow was unable to upend powerful William Penn in their Blue Hen Conference Flight A conference opener. The Dragons were led by Kelly Kane and Michelle Brock, who each tallied ten points. Glasgow's record dropped to 2-4.

Newark coach John Holland schools his squad, which has been faltering a bit after a hot start.

Vikings set sail

Christiana off to fast start thanks to teamwork

by Bruce Johnson

Christiana High School continues to mount an impressive boys basketball campaign. The vikings (6-1) have raided opponents for 77 points a game and all five starters have scoring averages in double figures.

"We're playing together as a unit," said head coach Ron Hollis. "Everyone's looking for the open man instead of playing one-on-one basketball. That's an important ingredient for today's basketball, and the kids believe and understand that's the way they have to play to win."

Against Blue Hen Conference foe McKean, the Vikings displayed their non-selfish style of play, defeating the highlanders 81-57. David Chittum led all scorers with 31 points, and Aaron Mack contributed 14.

The Vikings' only loss came at the hands of Dickinson, 58-56, on Dec. 13. According to Hollis, it was the only time the Vikings showed signs of selfish play. After the game, the team had a meeting and the problems were ironed out.

"I didn't do anything," he said. "They worked it out themselves and the players that had been selfish apologized to the team. It was a real growth factor for the team. Since that time, they've been playing excellent basketball and it's hard to single out just one player."

Lacking a big man in the middle, the Vikings rely heavily on team quickness. They employ various pressure defenses to force the action to their advantage.

"Everyone has a big guy and you just can't let them set up so we're trying to force opponents into a running game," said Hollis. "We run a lot of pressure, either man-to-man or a half-court traps. We want to create an up-tempo game and force them to run and take bad shots. We have to because we're not a tall team."

In other action, St. Mark's looked very impressive in a 77-29 thrashing of Holy Cross. The Spartans (4-2) took a 42-14 halftime lead and never looked back. Mark Lynch paced the Spartans with 19 and Craig Bilinski contributed 12. Neil Lehane and Chuck Fisher both tallied nine.

Glasgow was not as fortunate, losing to defending Blue Hen Conference Flight A champion William Penn 55-47 in a conference opener for both teams. Three Glasgow players scored in double figures but it was not enough as the Dragons fell to 2-4 over and 0-1 in conference play.

Mike Mills paced the Dragons with 12, while Derrick Duncan tallied 11 and Keith Leatherbury totaled 10.

Indoors outdoor events

Don't let winter chill ice your interest

by Eric Burnley

Looking for something to do during the winter that keeps you in touch with the outdoors but lets you stay comfortable? Several local and regional events will help you accomplish this objective.

First is a salt water fishing workshop that will be held at the New Castle Ramada Inn beginning on Tuesday evening, Feb. 4. The six classes will run from 7:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. each Tuesday until March 11.

Covered will be everything about salt water fishing from the bays to the ocean.

Special sessions on catching sea trout, bluefish, flounder, sharks, marlin, tuna and bottom fish will be held. Anglers can learn how to rig boats, operate electronics and maintain tackle. Methods such as chumming, surfcasting, live bait fishing, trolling, rigging lures and baits plus an in-depth study of tides, weather and fish behavior will be covered.

Each night organizers will award door prizes including rods, reels, tackle boxes, lures and tee shirts. Guest speakers from the tackle and electronic industry will be featured.

The cost for these six nights of fishing fun and information is $35 with children under 16 and ladies admitted for $20. For more information and pre-registration call (301) 398-0782.

The Delaware Sportfishing Show will be held this year at the Nur Temple on U.S. 13 in New Castle Jan. 31 through Feb. 2. There will be many displays by local businesses, including tackle shops and charter boats. A full slate of seminars and movies will provide education and entertainment.

Boat shows are becoming bigger and more numerous each year. One of the biggest in our area is the Chesapeake Boat Show at the Convention Center in Baltimore. This year they will feature a full exhibition of bass boats said to be the largest such display ever assembled. The show opens on Jan. 11 and runs until Jan. 18.

Bass fishermen will also find plenty to do and see at the Bassarama Show in Richmond, Va. from Jan. 24 through Jan. 26 and the Maryland Bass Show at the State Fairgrounds in Timonium from Jan. 31 through Feb. 2. Nationally known bass fishing experts will appear at each of these events.

The Philadelphia Boat Show will be at the Civic Center from Feb. 1 through Feb. 9. They usually have the best selection of salt water fishing boats from dealers in Delaware and New Jersey.

A very popular show through the years has been Fish Expo held in the Ocean City, Md. Convention Center from March 7-9. The Assateague Mobile Surf Fishermen sponsor this event and they schedule speakers from all over the country to share their knowledge.

Most of these shows have low admission fees for children so the whole family can attend without destroying the budget. It is always a lot of fun to talk about boating and fishing, especially during the winter when you can only plan and dream until spring.

Editor's note: Veteran outdoorsman Eric Burnley will host the local salt water fishing workshop in New Castle.

NEWARK/ from 1b

the point guard position, replacing injured Kenny Chandler.

"Kevin has been our most consistent athlete so far this year," said Doody. "His play has enabled us to put Abdul (Bey) on the wing to compensate for everyone double teaming Abdul. Kevin's shooting well and taking all the right shots, and he's just not making any mistakes. We always knew he had talent, we just didn't have any place to put him."

Besides Gardner, Doody has also been impressed with 6'5" strong forward-cnter Derrick May. Against Delcastle, May held highly-touted Mark Considine to only eight points and denied the seven footer offensive rebounds.

"Derrick did a nice job with the boards and making contact with Considine every where he went, but Derrick is also our most improved player from last year," Doody said. He has turned into an offensive player which gives us an added dimension in an inside game which I didn't think we'd have this year."

Although Doody is pleased with the team's improvement, he still has several problems. Kenny Chandler will be out for approximately five weeks due to ligament damage in his knee and Craig Callahan has a floating chip in his right knee and will most likely miss three weeks of the season, although his status is questionable.

DRAGONS/from 1b

Conley said Glasgow's "morale" problems started back in 1981-82, in the midst of desegregation when widespread layoffs occurred. Being the youngest school in the New Castle County, and having teachers with the least seniority, Glasgow lost much of its staff. In one department alone, only two teachers of 13 remained. As the teachers departed for other schools, so did the coaches who had built or were in the process of building sports programs.

The next few years brought inconsistency and a "revolving door" on the coaching positions at Glasgow. There was no continuity or progress. Only recently has that turmoil been quieted due. New coaches have been hired who have determination and a commitment to excellence.

"It was a real negative period in the evolution of Glasgow," said Conley. "The kids want to be part of a program. If it's losing, fine, but just as long as it's building for the future. But the kids were conscious of the fact that they were caught in that revolving door which had no consistency and no future potential."

During that period of the early 1980s, pride and self-respect reached an all-time low at Glasgow and that had a ripple effect on student apathy, discipline problems and school reputation. It is a problem that Conley feels is now behind the school.

"When you look at what we've done, considering what we had to live with since 1981, then you can see that our accomplishments are unbelievable. The attitude has changed. The kids are committed to excellence and they know they can be competitive."

Conley is not the only one who notices the change in student behavior.

"My sister came here before me and she said that they never had school spirit like we have," said volleyball star Carla Krammes. "Before you never saw people come out and watch athletics, but this year people really got into it."

Glasgow is not about to rest on its laurels. The school will continue to strive for excellence, using the example of a neighborhood rival as a standard.

"Our goal at this point is to reach some of the same plateaus that Newark has reached in the district," said Conley of the Yellowjacket program.

"I respect and admire their program and we want to reach the same success they have, and I think it would be super to have two schools in the district that were contenders across the board."

LIFESTYLE

We all know about IQ, or intelligence quotient, which is the supposed measurement of a person's intellectual ability. In recent years IQ testing and scores have come under fire because many feel the test is biased and inaccurate. Although I think the critics are correct, that is not the issue for today. The issue for today is common sense which is much more valuable than a high IQ.

What needs to be developed is a CSQ. That's right, a common sense quotient. I believe that intelligence and common sense are not necessarily or even directly related. In fact, they may be inversely related — especially in adolescents. Of course, there is a separate issue of whether or not adolescents have either intelligence or common sense, but for the purpose of this column, let's give them the benefit of the doubt.

The world seems to assume that intelligent people will get us out of our current problems, whether they be the energy crisis, nuclear disarmament or cellulite. I contend that it is the intelligent people who got us into these messes, and there is no way that they can do anything but make them worse. If we do survive, it will be courtesy of those who have a high CSQ. It was probably the resident genius in a group of cave people who invented the wheel after wondering how to get things across the savannah quickly and with less effort. Where, may I ask, have wheels gotten us? Into carpools, morning rush hours, the oil embargo, and gridlock.

I am sure there was a person of eminent common sense, probably a woman, who said to the high IQ person, "Leave well enough alone. What's wrong with staying where we are?"

It was an intelligent person who invented the telephone so that we can be harassed by people selling magazines, relatives calling to give helpful advice, and teenagers who only converse on the telephone, never face-to-face, especially with parents.

Don't you just know that Alexander Graham Bell's commonsensical younger sister said, "Oh for heaven's sake, Alex, no one is ever going to have a moment's privacy from now on, particularly when they are taking a shower. There will be all kinds of consequences if you continue with this. Gossips and self-important people will want to have your invention in their buggies, and then there will be carriage crashes because the drivers will be talking to the operator instead of paying attention to what they are doing. Let things stay the way they are. What's wrong with writing letters? You know, Alexander, your invention will probably force the Post Office to raise the price of stamps."

by Dorothy Hall

And what about washing machines? They had to have been invented by someone who had no common sense — most likely a man. Before there were washing machines, things were sent to the laundry. Now all of us spend hours each week feeding and emptying voracious washers in damp and dreary basements, frantically trying to prevent the machine from devouring socks when we could be doing much more interesting things like savoring bonbons and reading True Confessions.

I do know of one situation, however, where common sense prevailed. Not so many years ago, a very high IQ physician found what he thought was the perfect solution to help women stay youthful and beautiful. The solution was to keep them fertile into their seventies and beyond. Since nothing more has been heard from him, we can safely assume that a high CSQ female approached the learned gentleman and reasoned with him. If reasoning didn't work, I am sure she found another way to convince him. There are hundreds of common sense solutions to that problem — only the last is murder.

Nursing Mothers

Breast feeding class

Nursing Mothers Inc. will present "Breastfeeding Your Baby" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 16.

The class for expectant and breastfeeding parents is free, and will be held in Pomeroy's Community Room at Concord Mall.

Trained members of Nursing Mothers will discuss advantages of breastfeeding, getting started, the father's role, pumping and storing milk, and working while nursing.

Nursing Mothers is celebrating its 20th anniversary of service to the community this year. It is a non-profit organization which offers support and non-medical advice for those mothers who choose to breastfeed their babies.

The organization is composed of 19 area groups which meet monthly in Delaware and nearby areas of Pennsylvania and Maryland.

Aetna

Stop, drop, roll!

All clothing can burn and some clothing burns more easily than others. Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Co. of Newark recommends that if your clothing catches fire, stop, drop and roll to put out the flames.

Don't run or keep standing. Running will only fan the flames and make them higher. Standing up straight will make the fire burn faster. Stop and drop down to the floor or ground. Roll or rock back and forth to smother the flames. Smothering the fire cuts off its supply of oxygen, so it cannot burn. If possible, roll or rock in a rug, blanket or coat to smother the fire faster.

When the fire is out, cool the burn with water and call the fire department or rescue squad. Do not remove the burned clothing if it is stuck to the skin. Keep the victim quiet and warm until help arrives.

The fatal mistake people make in a clothing fire is to panic and run. Seconds count. The smothering action must be automatic. A trained, immediate response of stop, drop and roll is extremely important. The running response occurs in all age groups, but it is prevalent in younger children. Scared children run to find parents or mistakenly think that only water can put out a fire and they run to find it.

Everyone, especially children, must be taught to stop, drop and roll. Parents and teachers should encourage children to practice by making a weekly game of it. Make sure that they understand when and where to use this technique.

Most clothing fires are carelessness accidents and can be prevented. Follow these simple rules:

- Use caution when using or working with any heat sources or flames.
- Keep children away from heat sources such as candles, stoves, cigarettes, outdoor grills, matches, portable heaters, etc.
- Do not wear loose fitting clothing while cooking or near heat sources.
- Purchase flame retardant clothing for children (available in sizes to 6X).

We are SORRY!

CARMAN LINCOLN-MERCURY CANNOT OFFER ANY OF THE FOLLOWING!

- (1) WE CANNOT finance everybody (including elephants & insects).
- (2) WE CANNOT offer "Push, Pull or Drag It". (Your trade may be worth nothing).
- (3) WE CANNOT offer "coupons" worth $2000 off. (We do not put additional dealer profit on any new car or van.)
- (4) WE CANNOT advertise lease payments disguised as a purchase. (You would only be mad when you learned the truth.)
- (5) WE CANNOT advertise dealer "Buy Down" Interest Rates (Someone has to pay the difference, guess who?)
- (6) WE CANNOT offer free or "included" TV's, trips or etc. (Someone has to pay the difference, guess who?)
- (7) WE CANNOT advertise "going out of business, liquidation sale" (because we're not.)

BUT WE CAN OFFER GREAT SAVINGS ON ANY NEW '86 LINCOLN OR MERCURY
