CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DINNER PROVES A ROUSING SUCCESS

113 Diners Enjoy Splendid Dinner and Hear Some Inspiring and Instructive Talks—New Ideas in Vocational Education—Mayor Harvey Speaks

INDUSTRIAL EXHIBIT A FEATURE

The Newark Chamber of Commerce banquet held in Old College last Thursday evening was considered by all who were present as a most successful affair in every way. The meal was very tasty and served promptly, and the diners were always found to be in great good humor and the speakers were in good trim. Over 100 men were seated at the table when the dinner started shortly after seven o'clock. Prior to that time, the Continental Band, who were the guests of the Chamber at the dinner, entertained the surrounding neighborhood by some excellent music, played from the Old College steps.

Rev. H. Everett Hallman opened the dinner with the invocation. Soon after the meal started, J. C. Hastings rose on his feet calling for a song. The assemblage responded to some of the old tunes with great enthusiasm.

During the meal a series of stunts, mostly musical, were staged for the entertainment of the diners by two boys from the University, Charley Green and Kenneth Given. A good-natured thrust at Louis Hoffman caused a burst of laughter. Other stunts by the pair were very well received.

As soon as the tables were cleared and the diners had fired up their pipes, President George W. Griffin rose and in a few words, introduced the toastmaster of the evening, George J. Medill. Mr. Medill in turn, called upon Dean E. L. Smith, acting president of the University in the absence of Dr. Walter Hullahen. Dean Smith welcomed the business men of the town on behalf of the University.

Then the main speaker of the evening, Hon. E. T. Franks, arose for his address. A particularly graceful comment was paid Mr. Franks prior to his address, when the assemblage sang "My Old Kentucky Home," when someone heard he was a native of that State.

The speech delivered by Mr. Franks impressed the audience who heard that they are still talking about the dinner and in the stores of the town. Mr. Franks spoke on "The Great National Movement" and emphasized his remarks by some very apt examples. He possesses a strong voice and a very clear enunciation. Above all, however, Mr.

Franks knew his subject and delivered it in a manner that convinced his hearers that there is a man who believes in his work and is intent in driving the truths of his work home, forcibly and clearly. In this, Mr. Franks was eminently successful. In opening his address, he laid a few figures before the men of Newark which were somewhat of a surprise. He stated that production of corn, wheat, potatoes, fruit, everything but hay, had greatly fallen off in units per acre in the period from 1909 up to 1919.

That this falling off both in production and also in the gradual decrease of farmers throughout the country, one is led to believe, said Mr. Franks, that farming is becoming a lost art in some sections. Then he made the astounding statement that out of all the immense quota of farmers in this country today, only one per cent of them are "skillfully and technically trained farmers." The same goes for those engaged in manufacture.

The one way, according to Mr. Franks, in which the farming and manufacturing interests of this nation can be put on such a production basis that will allow us to compete with other countries, is Vocational Education. We can never hope to wrest the South American business away from Germany and other countries, with the enormous amount of unskilled labor in the United States today. Those young people who find the interior of a school room uninteresting and who feel that they are not getting what they want—to those older people who feel that without a more thorough course in their particular line of work, they will fall by the wayside in favor of a younger, more skillful man—to every one who wants to better himself without losing his means of a livelihood Vocational Training is the one remedy which the United States Government has to offer them.

Mr. Franks then touched upon, in closing, the rapid strides forward which have been taken by the Federal Board for Vocational Education, headed by Herbert Hoover. He spoke particularly of relation of this work to home building, the universal occupation.

TOWNSPEOPLE WITNESS GREATEST CELEBRATION IN YEARS

University Goes Wild Over Dickinson Victory. Mammoth Bonfire a Feature. Hundreds of Spectators Come to Witness Frolic

SEE BLAZE FOR MILES AROUND

The open campus below Wolf Hall was the scene Monday night of the greatest college celebration in recent years when the students and residents of the town as well as celebrated football victory over Dickinson by the largest bonfire seen here in many years. All day long the students gathered in the final from the campus, many housekeepers and general farmers in the immediate vicinity. By sundown the pile towered at least fifty feet in the air.

About nine o'clock in the evening, the mass meeting in Old College broke up and the hilarious students marched to the scene of the celebration. Members of the football team encircled the mass of wood, and after the lighting of the Alma Mater, started the flames shot high into the air, the joyousness of the throng could not be withheld, and a continual series of impromptu snake dances and stunts with the remnants of a band which had nailed around the flaming bonfire in the day, the Women's College was visited by the paraders in a body and without hesitation, the crowd joined in on the fun and lent their voices to help swell the noise. It was a celebration the like of which Newark has not seen in years.

"REST IN PIECES"

The above inscription adorns the "grave" of the Dickinson football team, which attracts so much attention to position on the campus before Old College. At the foot is another marble stone giving the score, while in the middle of the mound, three magnificent paper chrysanthemums lend color to the doleful scene. As one resident remarked, this is something to be thankful for.

and it is a singular coincidence that both the captain of the team and the coach are natives of this town. Both individuals gave their best towards the success of the team this year and Newark should be proud of Coach William McAvoy and of Captain Jack Williams.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS CLOSED

The Newark Public Schools will remain closed on Friday of this week in addition to tomorrow, Thanksgiving Day. Thus the kiddies will have three whole days in which to recover from their raids upon Old Man Turkey.

WALTER C. CURTIS SUCCUMBS TO HEART ATTACK

Prominent Resident Expires Suddenly Saturday. Shock to Relatives and Friends

FUNERAL HELD MONDAY

Mr. Walter C. Curtis, aged 67 years, died suddenly shortly after midnight Friday night, at his home on upper Main Street, death being directly due to a sudden attack of heart trouble. Mr. Curtis had shown no signs of illness of a serious nature and had attended the performance of "The Microbe of Love" at the Opera House earlier in the evening. Upon reaching his home, however, he complained of sharp pains. Dr. Walt H. Steel was immediately summoned but Mr. Curtis had collapsed before aid could be given. The members of his immediate family rushed to his bedside. The sick man failed to rally from the attack and died in a few hours.

Deceased was a son of the late S. Minot Curtis and many years ago was connected with the Curtis & Brother Co., paper manufacturers. He retired from business probably 20 years ago. Until a few years ago he owned and lived at "The Knoll," Delaware and South College Avenues, which the University of Delaware bought as a home for the president of the institution. After selling his old home Mr. Curtis with his cousin, Miss Frances Hurd, who made her home with the Curtis family for many years, lived at Atlantic City for a time, but returned to Newark two years ago and bought a small property on Quality Hill, where he and Miss Hurd lived. Mr. Curtis was unmarried. A brother and sister died some years ago. Former Chancellor Charles M. Curtis, Alfred A. Curtis, Mrs. Annie M. Cooch, of Ivy, Va., Louis Curtis and Mrs. Delaware Clark are cousins of the deceased. He was a member of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church and a graduate of the University of Delaware. Mr. Curtis had many friends and while he had not been active in local affairs for years he took a keen interest in all matters pertaining to the town.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon, with services at St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, of which Mr. Curtis was a member. The funeral was attended by many relatives and close friends of the deceased. Interment was made in the adjoining cemetery and was private.

GLENN FRANK IN ON NEWARK DEC. 12th

Noted Editor and Author to Speak in Wolf Hall. First of a Series of Lectures

NO ADMISSION CHARGED

Mr. Glenn Frank, at present editor of the Century Magazine and an internationally known authority on diplomacy and politics, will deliver a series of lectures to the students of the University of Delaware and to the people of Newark this winter. The first of the series is scheduled for December 12th, at which date he will make two addresses, one to the combined student bodies of the University at 11.00 a. m. and the other to the residents of the town at 8.00 in the evening.

Those who heard Mr. Frank lecture before the Summer School at the University last summer will be delighted to have the chance of hearing him again. The subject of the first lecture has not as yet been announced but it will be of a vital nature and relating to some economic or political question of the day.

Mr. Frank became connected with the Century Magazine in 1919, and has contributed greatly towards its success ever since. He was one of the group, headed by ex-President Taft who drafted a covenant of the League of Nations which was brought up at the Peace Conference in Paris late in 1918. Up until he sprang into international affairs, Mr. Frank engaged in Lyceum work throughout the United States and Canada. He is the author of many valuable literary works, principally along lines of Political Science and Economics.

The residents of Newark will have this opportunity of hearing Mr. Frank free of charge.

PETITION FOR LIGHTS ON DEPOT ROAD

Sidewalks Also Wanted by Residents of Danger Zone. Chamber of Commerce to Help

APPEAL TO LEVY COURT

The residents of Depot Road between the Women's College and the P. B. & W. station are taking matters in their own hands relative to the dangerous situation on Depot road at night due to the total absence of lights along that highway. Tired of waiting and hoping for some one to remedy the trouble, the residents the latter part of last week headed by R. J. Colbert, prepared and circulated a petition to the effect that the conditions of the highway at night were of extreme danger to pedestrians and motorists alike and appealed to the Levy Court to continue lights from the town limits on down to the Pennsylvania Railroad station. The petition met with instant approval on the part of the residents of the section and every property holder affixed his name to the document.

At the Chamber of Commerce dinner on Thursday night, the issue was again brought up informally. Mr. Hastings moved that the Chamber bring pressure to bear upon the County or property holders to lay a walk along the lower Depot road. The motion was amended at the suggestion of Mr. Singles to include the provision for lights. At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce to be held at an early date, that body will act officially upon the matter.

With both the Chamber of Commerce and the citizens most effected by the dangerous state of affairs working hard for a remedy for the evil, there is no doubt but that the Levy Court will give the matter its immediate attention and some progress may be expected especially in the matter of lights in a very few weeks. The time has apparently come when there must be something done. The many and devious ways of the well known "red tape" have been exhausted. There is no chance of passing the buck now. Installation of lights and that soon is the only way to appease the long-suffering public who claim Depot Road as their abiding place.

PRETTY WEDDING IN TOWN TONIGHT

MacAllister - Cooch Nuptials Take Place at Six o'Clock

MANY GUESTS PRESENT

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Cooch, will be the scene of a pretty wedding, which will take place at six o'clock this evening, when Miss Gladys MacAllister and Mr. F. Allyn Cooch, Jr., will be joined in marriage by the Rev. Frank Herson, pastor of the M. E. Church.

The bride will wear a dress of platinum velvet, trimmed with silver fur; she will carry snap dragons and roses. The maid of honor, Miss Martha Wolliston will wear black velvet and carry pink roses and cynthrons. Best man, Mr. Joseph S. Wilson. The wedding march will be played by Miss Sara Lovett.

After a wedding trip the happy couple will reside on Delaware avenue. The house is beautifully decorated.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Cooch entertained the bridal party at dinner on Tuesday evening.

NIMRODS PLAN HUNTING TRIP

Next week H. Warner McNeal and Ernest B. Wright will spend several days on a ducking expedition to the wilds of the Eastern Shore. They will cast anchor along the Broad Water a few miles this side of Cape Charles and endeavor to do enough damage to the feathered game to bring back a few good duck dinners.

The same pair of hunters spent two days of the past week in the vicinity of Millsville, Del., on a similar excursion.

WEEKLY WEATHER OUTLOOK

Weather outlook for the period November 27 to December 2, inclusive, for Middle and North Atlantic States: Generally fair, with temperature below normal, until latter part of week, when the weather will become unsettled and warmer, with probably rains.

HELD WITHOUT BAIL FOR STEALING UNIVERSITY COMMONS PAYROLL

Robert Edmondson, Negro, Arrested Yesterday Morning and Taken to Wilmington for Third Degree—Expect Confession Today—Upwards of $180 Taken from Office

ALLEGES HE WON MONEY GAMBLING

Robert Edmondson, Negro, about 23 years old, and living on New London Avenue, was arrested about ten o'clock yesterday morning by Constable Ellison upon a warrant charging him with the theft of about $180 in cash and bankable checks from the office of Miss Huntley, in the University Commons. He is now resting in jail in Wilmington and will today be subjected to a thorough grilling in hopes he will make a complete confession and return part of the money.

It was stated that Edmondson was among the last to leave the building Saturday afternoon. All the students were in Wilmington at the football game. Entrance was gained to the office desk by removing the casing around the door and picking the office desk with a hairpin. Suspicion was first cast upon Edmondson when it was learned that he boasted of having won a lot of money shooting crap and showed a large roll of bills to his associates Saturday evening. When he did not appear for work Monday, and when it was learned that he hired a car from a friend for $15 to go to Philadelphia, officials were almost certain that they had the thief.

Constable Ellison served the warrant upon Edmondson yesterday morning, and immediately took him to Wilmington, where he was arraigned before Attorney General Townsend. He was held without bail awaiting the results of the grilling. Misses Huntley and Skewis, C. A. Nutter, head waiter, and Mr. A. G. Wilkinson, testified at the hearing.

THANKSGIVING DINNER A GREAT SUCCESS

University Family Gathers at Fourth Annual Affair in Old College

MUSIC PLEASES

The fourth annual Thanksgiving dinner for the Faculty, students and friends of the University of Delaware took place last night and all present voted it the best yet given under the able leadership of A. G. Wilkinson.

Upwards of three hundred and fifty persons gathered at the long tables in Old College and gorged upon roast turkey and all the fixin' that go hand in hand with that noble bird. Then there was plenty of cigars and cigarettes to top off the big dinner. After William P. White started the singing he was relieved of further duties for a long time, for the crowd kept right on singing without a leader.

Among those who spoke to the assemblage after being introduced by Earl Brandt, President of the Student Council, were Dean E. L. Smith, H. Rodney Sharp, A. G. Wilkinson, business administrator, and Everett C. Johnson.

Mr. Sharp, who had been absent from these dinners for two years in which period he had travelled around the world, spoke briefly upon the outstanding features of his wonderful trip, in which he spent several hours with Bayard Carter, a Newark boy, now in Oxford University, England. Mr. Sharp stated, however, that he was delighted to be back with the boys and expressed his desire to continue to boost the University in every way possible.

Dean Smith spoke briefly upon the need of more American youth in the Universities of England and France, and hoped that Delaware would continue to be well on the map in this department as well as the other ones in years to come as she has in the past.

The absence of Dr. Hullahen was regretted by all the speakers, a telegram was sent to him by the student body wishing him a speedy recovery.

Later in the evening, several very charming musical numbers were given by Mrs. Clarence Killen, of Wilmington, and Professor Levine of the University faculty. Mrs. Killen played several old time airs upon the piano, and was accorded great applause. Prof. Levine proved to be an expert violinist and his splendid playing immediately won him the plaudits of the students in no small measure.

The College Orchestra furnished music throughout the dinner.

RUMMAGE SALE SUCCESSFUL

The Rummage Sale, conducted the latter part of last week by Teams 1 and 7 of the New Century Club, in the vacant store next to Brown's Drug Store, proved to be a great success. Many valuable garments and slightly used articles were disposed of at very low prices. The Sale resulted in upwards of $70 being realized for the Building Fund.

DR. HULLIHEN ABLE TO LEAVE HOSPITAL

Will Spend Several Days in Atlantic City Before Returning to Work

Dr. Walter Hullahen who was operated upon in Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, some three weeks ago, left that institution Monday afternoon. He will spend several days recuperating at Atlantic City before assuming his active work at the University. Although still a little shaky from his ordeal, he is looking forward to a complete recovery. Dr. Hullahen is accompanied by his wife and two daughters on the seashore visit.

FIRST STEPS TAKEN FOR NEW YEAR'S PARADE

Meeting in Armory Last Night Starts the Ball Rolling

The proposed New Year's Day parade to take place in Newark, received its initial push last evening at a meeting of interested citizens held in the Armory. There was no definite action taken until steps are taken to "feel out" the town and see how the proposition will go.

Temporary officers of a General Committee of over 25 men were chosen however. These men are Dr. George W. Rhodes, acting chairman, and William Tierney, secretary.

A committee, including Ira Kilmer, Francis B. Moore and Ira Shellenor, was appointed to lay plans for collecting money for prizes and expenses from the business men of the town. It is expected that the Chamber of Commerce will heartily endorse the plans at their next meeting.

Further plans and definite action will no doubt be taken at the next meeting, to be held on Tuesday evening of next week, at 7.30 o'clock.

GEORGE HYNSON COMING

Mr. George B. Hynson, for many years a professor of elocution at Delaware in the famous days of Poverty Row, and the class of '96, is to return to his old haunts. He will come down from his home in Philadelphia on December 11th and lecture before the University students and townspeople on that date. Mr. Hynson is well known by the older generation in town and his visit will be a welcome one. Incidentally he is composer of the song, "Our Delaware." A special invitation is extended to the students to hear one of the "old guard" talk.

NO CHORAL CLUB

PRACTICE MONDAY

Owing to the fact that Miss Dora Wilcox, Director, will be out of town on Monday next the Newark Choral Club will suspend its usual weekly rehearsal. There is still a scarcity of male voices in the chorus and it is hoped that the next few weeks will see more recruits to the worthy cause. Plans will soon be under way for the Christmas carol singing on Christmas eve.

WHAT DO WE MEAN BY THE WORD "SIKH"?

Brief Sketch of This Unusual Group of Natives Shows Many Strange Features

THEY ARE NOT MOHAMMEDANS

The following article applying principally to the influence of the Sikh in the disorders now raging in India, puts at rest the question as to whether the word "Sikh" means a religion or a race. A National Geographical bulletin is responsible for the following:

"Even today, when the Sikh commonwealth no longer exists, their religion sets Sikhs apart practically as a distinct people from the followers of the Hindu and Mohammedan religions who surround them.

"Sikhism originated in the important plains country, of the Punjab in northeastern India, not far from the great Indus River and the mountains which form the boundary between India and Afghanistan; and this has remained the region of its greatest strength. It arose toward the close of the 15th century. The immediate cause for the birth of Sikhism seems to have been the need for a protest against the idolatry, caste system, and cruel practices of Hinduism, the fanaticism of Mohammedanism, and the subjection of women practiced by both those dominant religions.

"Nanak, the 'Guru' or Teacher, who founded Sikhism struck out boldly against abuses in the religions about him. He taught there is one God, though He may be called by many names. Simplicity was emphasized. Unlike Hindus, Sikhs could not eat meat, though beef was excepted.

"A phase of Sikhism far-reaching in its results, was its insistence on the observance of rules of health. In addition to eating what most Westerners regard as a more strengthening diet than the vegetarian fare of the Hindus, Sikhs were to ban alcoholic beverages and tobacco, were to bathe daily in cold water, and were not to make pilgrimages to Hindu holy places. The practice of making pilgrimages is considered an important factor in the spreading disease in India.

Good Works Insisted Upon

"The five great virtues stressed by the Sikh teachers were contentment, compassion, piety, patience and morality. The five deadly sins to be shunned were lust, anger, covetousness, worldly love, and pride. The Sikh faith could almost be condensed into the injunction: Love and your fellow man; keep a pure heart; lead a temperate, wholesome normal life. Because of these fundamentals it has been called the most occidental and the most pragmatic of Eastern religions.

"At first Sikhism developed peacefully. After several generations the Mohammedan Mogul emperors in control of northern India began to persecute the new sect. Under persecution the Sikhs were knitted together more firmly and finally about the close of the seventeenth century, after one of their Gurus was martyred, their future was changed by a new leader, Guru Gobind Singh, from a peaceful to a militant religion.

Baptism of the Sword

"All men who were willing to die for their religion were given this baptism, with holy water, sprinkled from a two-edged sword. These, the picked men of the Sikhs, were trained as soldiers, not for purposes of aggression or to extend their faith by force, but to protect their religion. After a while the Sikhs, in spite of their wonderful army, were driven from the Punjab plains by the Mohammedans; but hidden away in the hills and held together by their militant religion, they prospered. When the Mogul empire collapsed the Sikhs again took possession of the plains country and by about 1800 had built up a great Sikh commonwealth under the rule of a Sikh Maharaja with his capital at Lahore.

"In the early part of the nineteenth century the Sikhs came into collision with the British. After two wars, which constituted the most serious military opposition which the British encountered in India, the Sikhs were defeated and their territory was made a part of British India. The Sikhs then became adherents of the British, and thanks to military ability, their most valuable supporters among the Indian peoples. They remained loyal and assisted with their armies during the Indian Mutiny in 1857 and are credited with having saved India to Great Britain during that trying period."

Down on the Farm

FARM BUREAU MEETING AT MIDDLETOWN, DECEMBER 5TH

Mr. J. D. Reynolds, of Middletown, and H. C. Milliken, of Coeh, announce that the annual meeting of the New Castle County Farm Bureau will be held in the New Everett Theatre at Middletown, beginning at 10.00 o'clock, Tuesday, December 5th.

Mr. Howard W. Selby, Director of the Eastern States Farmers' Exchange, is unable to speak at the meeting, but the committee feels fortunate in being able to announce that Dr. Frank App, Secretary of the New Jersey Council of County Boards of Agriculture will deliver the main address. This organization corresponds to Delaware's State Federation of Farm Bureaus. Dr. App is reputed to be one of the outstanding Farm Bureau secretaries of the country, and the New Castle County Farm Bureau is fortunate in securing him to appear on its program.

President Frank F. Yearsley, of Marshallton, announces the following committees: Nominating Committee—John Nivin, of Newark; George Mathews, of Bear; Edward Walton, of Coeh; George C. Burge, of Middletown. Budget and Program of Work Committee—J. D. Reynolds, of Middletown; C. P. Dickey, of Stanton; and Frank H. Buckingham, of Newark.

County Agent R. O. Bauman and County Club Agent Agnes P. Medill will each make their annual report, covering the year's work. Dean C. A. McCue, of the University of Delaware, will also address the meeting.

This is the first time the annual meeting on the Farm Bureau has been held at Middletown, and President Yearsley is anticipating a record meeting.

DELAWARE CORN AT NATIONAL SHOW

That Delaware is becoming one of the prominent corn growing counties is evidenced in the fact that she will send ten samples of corn to the National Grain and Hay Show, held at Chicago the week ending December 9th. These samples will go into competition with exhibits from Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. The following New Castle County farmers have sent exhibits: J. T. Shallcross, of Middletown; A. S. Whitlock, of Odessa; Fred Trimble, of Hockessin; Wilson Pierson, of Hockessin; and John F. Braekin, of Marshallton.

Mr. A. D. Radebaugh, County Agent of Cecil County, Maryland, will attend the show at Chicago and has agreed to look after and arrange the Delaware and Maryland exhibits.

THE DELAWARE STATE CORN SHOW

In co-operation with the Dover Chamber of Commerce the Delaware Corn Growers' Association will hold their sixteenth annual State Corn Show in the Armory at Dover, January 3 to 5, 1923.

Special features as noted and the annual meeting including a special program promises to visitors and corn growers the biggest and best show ever held and the finest program.

The Association through the State Board of Agriculture by State appropriation offers $500 in cash prizes, for the best exhibits of corn, small grains, seeds and forage.

Officers and Executive Committee

President, Ralph Trimble, Hockessin; Vice-President: New Castle County, Harry W. B. Seemans, Middletown; Kent County, Dewey Sapp, Houston; Sussex County, James W. Hopkins, Lewes; Secretary-Treasurer, M. O. Pence, Newark.

RURAL SCHOOLS TO HOLD P.T. MEETINGS

State Parent-Teacher Association Will Soon Open Third Series in White and Colored Schools

The third series of meetings being given in rural schools of the State to demonstrate the program suggestions published each month by the State Parent-Teacher Association, will open at the colored school in Middletown on Monday evening, December 11. This will be followed by a meeting in the Lockwood colored school in Kent county on Tuesday, December 12, and at Frankford colored school, in Sussex county, on Wednesday, December 13th.

The program suggested for the January meetings will be presented and the subject for the month, "What the Home Should Do for the Child," will be discussed, in the colored centers, by Professor John M. Gandy, president of the Virginia Industrial and Normal Institute. Mr. Gandy was the speaker at the annual convention for the colored associations held in Harrington last April, when he left a very strong impression with all who heard him.

The meetings in the white schools of the State where the same program will be demonstrated, will begin on the 12th of December at the Ogleton School, Miss Jennie Smith, of Newark, teacher. Other meetings will be held at Frederica, in Kent county, and at Bethel and Lowes' Cross Roads in Sussex. The subject for the month will be presented at these meetings by Miss Alma L. Binzel, of the University of Minnesota. Miss Binzel's subjects at the university are "Child Psychology" and "Home Training." She will discuss in a popular way what the home should contribute to a child's education.

Special invitations are being issued by the State Association to representatives of adjoining associations to be present and observe the program.

Agricultural Courses In High Schools

There has been much criticism in the past, a part of which still exists, relative to the merits of teaching agriculture in our High Schools. Much of this criticism has been brought about as a result of a large number of town boys taking the course. This criticism has been justly placed.

However, the public should be informed about the growth of this department and its increasing popularity among farm boys. This is the fourth year in which agriculture has been taught in the Laurel High School. During the first year 13 boys took the course only 2 of whom were farm boys or 15 per cent. The second year the numbers were increased to 18, seven coming from the farm, or about 39 per cent. Last year a total of 23 finished the course, 48 per cent, or 11, being farm boys. This year the number of boys has reached a total of 26, being excelled in numbers by only one other school in the state. Of this total 23 are farmers, or about 88 per cent. The boys come from 20 different farms, some a distance of 10 miles from the school.

The elimination of town boys from the course has only recently been made possible and at the present time only those boys who are well qualified and especially interested in the work are permitted to take it.

Franklin Gordy, one of the town boys still in the work is an example of the type of town boy who should be permitted to study agriculture as a part of his high school work. He has just finished his project for last year in poultry raising during which time he not only cared for the laying flock, culling it and feeding good rations but raised about 20 chickens and increased the laying flock to over 100 birds. In addition to this he built a new poultry house 30 by 14 feet, doing a large part of the work himself. The net profits over and above labor on this project for one year amounted to $185.

The raising of pure bred stock as well as the use of pure seed is encouraged. Last year 6 pure bred brood sows were introduced to the boys' farms as a part of their projects and several more will be purchased this year.

Over one-half of the population of our country lives on farms and makes their living there. Is it not reasonable that boys should be taught in the schools about the industry which employs so many.

Willing to be Obliging

A British recruiting sergeant with an eye to business approached a smart-looking lad who was on a milk round in the neighborhood of Buckingham Palace.

"Well, my lad," he said, "and how would you like to serve the king?"

The lad had also an eye to business, and promptly replied:

"Fine, sir. How much does he take a day?"—Lynchburg Progress.

A RECORD LOAD

There have been many instances wherein trucks have been pressed into unusually hard service, but one day last week Edward Phillips, of Elkton, driving a big White truck, gave a mighty good example demonstrating the reason why shippers are turning to motor transportation rather than waiting for slow freight. Mr. Phillips hauled an 11,000 gallon iron tank from Balto. to Chesapeake City with ease and dispatch, and among experienced truckmen, that is no small feat. The huge tank was consigned to the pumping station at the latter place. It measured 22 ft. in length over all and was 10 ft. in diameter.

THE WORK FOR THE BLIND PROGRESSES

The industry of the blind shows great signs of activity. In the past three months half a score of new cases of blindness who lived in the black despond have seen the light, and have passed out of the gloom of indolence. Three men and a boy have been brought to the Blind Shop where they are making good progress towards a well-earned livelihood. One boy from Newark has been brought to the shop and sent to school during the day while he learns a trade after school hours, together with the embossed print of the blind. One blind girl who has been lately stricken has been taken by our teacher, Miss Burrows, and introduced to all vocations of the blind. She is bright and active and is a wonderful prospect for achievement in her new condition of life. She will be taught to read with her fingers, to study music and may be prepared to return to her sighted school to take her place among her normal fellows.

A gentleman of some degree, of Milford, has been visited by our field agent and taught the Braille alphabet. Here is the beautiful letter he writes, all in the revised Braille type for the blind. We have sent him plenty of books and begged him to come and see us.

Dear Mr. Van Trum

Just a few lines for I am not advanced quite enough in Braille to write more than a note, but I wish to thank you for the slate, it is appreciated and all other kindness that has been shown me through the Commission for the Blind. What I need now is speed in getting in touch and I hope through continued practice to soon be able to read a book. I think you were fortunate in securing such an able field worker as Mr. T. J. Hall. He is surely fitted for the work as he has both the ability and patience to teach the blind.

Respect yours,
Walter P. Graham.

The field worker has made further progress with the public school child at Stockley and entered another at the public school in Leipsic, where he will supervise her work and teach her the blind system of reading with the fingers and thus augmenting her education.

The concert for the blind will be given on Dec. 4, 1922. It will be the best ever. Our great pianist, Mr. E. A. Vogts, will be with us again with his wonderful interpretation of the old masters on the piano. We will then present a new feature in Miss Holterhoff now of New York but of transoceanic reputation. Our own talented pianist, Miss Marion Burrows, will play and we feel sure will show surprising improvement. Mr. Vogts will appear for the first time as a violinist. He will be accompanied by the new Mrs. Vogts. We feel sure that all will be amply repaid in a very high-grade musical presentation.

Through the kindness and interest of Mrs. duPont and Mr. W. W. Laird, a wireless station is being installed at The Blind Shop for the edification of idle hours of these industrious workers. It is very deeply regretted that the Commission records show the death of one of the oldest in term of service of all its industrious toilers. Carroll Day passed away on October 2, 1922, aged 38 years. He had been a faithful worker at The Blind Shop for twelve years. All his fellow workers joined in his obsequies.

His Excellency the Governor of the State paid The Blind Shop a visit on the 5th inst., with J. Hall Anderson, Esq., secretary of The Delaware State Board of Charities. Our distinguished guests seemed to be much interested in our blind friends and their efforts to rise above their handicap and earn their living.

The operations of The Blind Shop were as follows: Six large rugs, 576 small rugs, 490 chairs and 2 couches recaned and 48 chairs repaired, 52 basket handles repaired and 9 baskets made, 136 dozen brooms made, 11 pianos tuned. The total amount paid to the blind was $1,686.30.—The Delaware Commission for the Blind.

Peter, famous war dog, although only a little Boston bull, is dead at the home of his mistress, Mrs. R. H. Duce, of Los Angeles, Cal.

Peter was credited with having raised a $9000 war fund in Victoria, B. C., during the World War by sitting on a table every day for three years and "speaking" for contributions.

Thanksgiving

"Whatever things are true, whatever things are honorable, whatever things are just, whatever things are pure, whatever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think of these things."

Thanksgiving is an American Institution. It is the day when man, at his best, recognizes the Gift bestowed by God and Nature. This Community has been graciously and generously blessed. We have had a year of prosperity, of work, of health and of play. In recognition of this and these, we can truly render grateful appreciation. Whether at fireside, in the pew or afield in the Great Outdoor, Thanksgiving is ours indeed.

Then, tomorrow eve as shadows come and firelight flickers, let us remember that with true Thanksgiving comes a responsibility for the morrow. So with our Thanks rendered for the blessings of yesterday may we revive our Determination to make the coming years, in very fact, what, in our dreams, we most desire.

Value of Peace

Hudson Maxim thinks an armistice truce for five years would save about a billion dollars a year to this country alone. And that we could build 25,000 miles of concrete roads, construct an intercoastal ship canal from Boston to Florida, dredge the Mississippi and Missouri for ocean liners to go up to Kansas City, develop a great electrical power system from Boston to Washington, build a line of canals from the Great Lakes to the St. Lawrence, and by irrigation reclaim six million acres of land. "Give me the money that has been spent in war," says Charles Sumner, "and I will clothe every man, woman and child in an attire of which kings and queens would be proud. I will build a schoolhouse in every valley over the whole earth, I will crown every hillside with a place of worship consecrated to the gospel of peace."

Chamber of Commerce Dinner

The Dinner given by the Chamber of Commerce was a success. Every one enjoyed it. The Dinner by Wilkinson, the Speaking arranged by the Committee, the singing, the vaudeville by students, the music by the Continental Band—all were great. The meeting and rubbing shoulders with our fellows did us all good. Those directing the affair are deserving and are receiving generous praise for the work. The exhibit of Newark Products, a last minute flash thought was interesting not only to our guests but to all present. That Newark is approaching a new day is a matter of general admission. Growing and advancing for years in spite of herself, she is now being recognized by her citizens. A full realization of her possibilities means a busy Chamber of Commerce, a Greater Newark and an increased joy in Citizenship. Congratulations to officers and all those who are making such meetings possible.

Glory for Mac and Football

No word we can say will add aught to the honor and joy of Coach McAvoy. Without doubt, he is the hero of the hour—and every one is talking of it and glad. "I am glad not only for Delaware but for Mac" is a thought expressed on every side. And all the congratulations and fine expressions are deserved. He is a Sportsman, born, bred and trained. In years of observation, we have yet to see him, in word or practice, take other advantage than is recognized on fields of Sports and Honor.

So glad we are that work, co-operation of Alumni and students, and good wishes of all who knew him, have made possible this great season of Foot Ball and Fair Play. Mention should be made of the Delaware team and Rooters, too. But this is the province of the "Sporting Ticker." May we add our cheers to his praise and

"The thought of the race for the first time in history is monistic—we are all one. We are part and particle of each other. To injure another is to injure yourself, is becoming fixed in the race instinct. This is the dominant idea of our time—reciprocity. In business, the transaction where only one side prospers is immoral. Mutuality is the watchword in all of man's relation with man. Government exists only for the increased happiness of the governed—he that is greatest among you shall be your servant."

Rank In Business

Rank in Business organization, Formality of Dress by Public officials, Side Arms of Military officers, Spectacular Insignia of Place and Position are fast falling into disrepute. They are relics of the Museum depicting an age of Aristocracy. They are of the Old World and un-American. Just run over the last quarter century in American dress and custom. The President, a Governor, a Senator, a few years ago were "His Excellency," with him trying by dress or otherwise to be set apart. The General of today attracts less Gold braid attention than a Lieutenant of a few years ago. Today, minister, professional, business man are men without pomp and ceremony. Business organization has undergone the same change. "The Boss" is today almost an epithet. The modern business man resents the designation. Once considered a term of superiority, it now smacks of slave-driving days or the old Gang foreman.

Mutuality, Co-operation, absence of class distinction are the big terms today. Rank between Shop and Office are unknown in Successful Plants. One is as essential as the other and has perhaps the equal brains. Each, of course, has its separate and particular functions, authorities and jurisdictions. But if success or joy in the work is to be attained, there must be a cordial relationship between the various departments. All the brains of any Industry are not in the office nor are those who work with their hands out in the plant to be considered of lower rank. There is just as much brain required to work at the lathe, the tub or the press as there is with the pencil, the typewriter or the filing case. Office salaries are no more dignified than shop wages and "Hired Help" is a term used ignorantly, unkindly or snobbishly. Rank in business today is acquired, position is attained, salaries are raised, services rendered by co-operation. The Insignia of the rank is the smile of honest work, the joy of serving with one's fellows and the happiness that comes from service worth while.

Several years ago, a Labor Inspector asked the girls out in the Shop at Kells if they were permitted to share the courtesies extended to those who worked in the office. The official received her reply in no uncertain terms. The question, while unintentional, was almost an insult to Kells. It was directly contrary to both the Ideal and Practice. For at Kells there is no rank, as such. Loyalty, Good Cheer, Playing the Game, Interest in Success, Love of Work, are the dominating policies. With these, a band of boys and girls are carrying the Spirit of Kells abroad. With these, new friends are coming and old friends are friends still. With this absence of Rank, Bossism, Drive, Sweat Shop, Hired Help, Officials, have given way to Co-operation which means increasing Success. Kells, by the love, thought and energy of these girls and boys is growing. To them comes the credit and the increasing smiles and joys of doing their work well.

Rank in business at Kells is not recognized and its policy of Equality has been so proven that we shall so continue. The "Devil" in a Printing Plant is not confined to the Shop—for this Squib was written in the office by

THE OLD MAN.

A Good Slogan

"Thine is a task of blood; discharge that task
With mercy; let thy victim know
No pain, but let the sudden blow
Bring death, such death as thou would'st ask."

The above is carved over a Slaughter House in Dresden. There, the law for killing of animals for food is founded on mercy and the life taken that others may live is without pain.

Here is a thought for those who legislate—this motto. Investigation would show, too, sanitary conditions in the preparation of animal food as practiced in many countries far surpasses ours. America is progressing, yes. But, withal, we can grow.

AVOID ENTANGLEMENTS IN EUROPE

Pershing Warns America of Menace in Racial and Religious Quarrels of Europe and Poison of Foreign Propaganda in This Country

A comment based on observation and facts without sectional personal or political prejudice that should be read by every citizen of America.

General Pershing in an Armistice Day address before the National Civic Federation emphasized the wisdom of America's remaining free from foreign entanglements and stressed the necessity of the reconsecration of all citizens to American ideals and American institutions. General Pershing denounced the doctrine of internationalism which is being preached by so many in this country and voiced the warning that if this nation is to remain a strong and vigorous representative government the "priceless heritage of American nationalism" must be maintained at all hazards.

General Pershing's observations followed his review of conditions in Europe and Asia. He called attention to the fact that the Near East has been in continuous warfare since 1914. This is inevitable because it is the cross-roads of three continents, the point where the Orient and the Occident meet. At this point the diverse races and conflicting religions of civilization, as well as prejudice and hatreds handed down for thousands of years, meet and inevitably clash. General Pershing said:

"The developments which have taken place in the Near East sufficiently indicate the danger which America runs of becoming involved in the tangled meshes of this racial, religious and political situation."

Again, in central Europe, General Pershing said, as the result of fiscal and political conditions growing out of the war there is bankruptcy, disintegration and minor armed conflicts. All Europe is in a ferment. It was at this point that General Pershing gave his warning that the United States should remain free from these quarrels and wars. His language was as follows:

"If I have considered it pertinent to indicate that we cannot regard with indifference developments taking place around these great storm centers, I have done so only with a view of emphasizing the close attention which they should receive that we may clearly understand the issues at stake and thus avoid entanglements adverse to our own peaceful purposes. We can be assured against such involvement only through a clear consciousness on our own part of our own national aims, the development of truly American ideals, and through strong and courageous leadership."

"Here at home we must so shape and direct our national life that we cannot become a battleground for conflicting foreign interests, nor an objective for the infiltration of disintegrating propaganda that might ultimately disrupt our social fabric and destroy the hope of maintaining our national unity. While I have faith that such things cannot happen, we must ever be watchful and alert against such a possibility."

"As in the World War we declined to allow our army to lose its identity or to be submerged in the commands of other nations, so should we now resist all efforts to have our strength and influence used for ulterior purposes foreign to our own ideals. As we then insisted upon one American army, upon an American front under the American flag, so should we now insist in world affairs that all America's strength be consecrated to service under the will of our own citizens and for the maintenance of our conception of American destiny."

"But it is often difficult to determine the will of our citizens. Local issues too often fill the minds of our representatives in official positions and of our own people to the exclusion of both national and international problems. Strange theories and panaceas have been suggested to the confusion of the public mind. The doctrine of internationalism has found far too many advocates in our midst, and not alone among those who come to us with ulterior purpose, but among many of our own people. It is in opposition to fallacious theories that threaten our national life that thoughtful men are bound by the closest ties."

"While eagerly wishing to associate ourselves in any clear understanding to promote peace and good relations with every other nation, it is vital that we always maintain the priceless heritage of American nationalism, guaranteed by our forefathers when they framed the Constitution, and for which so many of our countrymen have fought and died. If we are to keep the faith of our fathers we cannot rest secure alone in the certainty that the heart of the nation is sound, for security depends upon a rational policy of national defense as the only means whereby we can preserve the things for which we stand. The courage to strike for our ideals is from the heart, but it is the arm that strikes the blow."

JES' MY DOG

He hasn't any pedigree.
He isn't much on looks.
You'd never find a dog like him
In any story books:
He's jes' my dog.

In color he's as yellow
As the curliest yellow eye,
But when I think o' his devious
It fills my eyes with blue:
He's jes' my dog.

He wouldn't bring a dollar
If I wish'd ter see him solo.
But every single yellow hair
To me is purest gold:
He's jes' my dog.

Talk about Ball in Mill Creek
Hundred at the last election,
I wasn't a circumstance to believe were Ball on Harlan Field two Saturday.

The game between Hoots and Delaware reminded me of the upsetting of usual scores in Mill Creek Hundred at the recent election—except that the Saturday game was more of a surprise.

Where are the Heroes of Yesterday? of Politics, we are speaking. Not a Gunner who left for Salt River has returned, to tell why the gun didn't go off. Our guess is that it was caused by Damp Powder and those who did it had charge of the Magazine.

Front Page Heroes—McAvoy and Clemenceau. Even McElmoyle is pushed off the scene—temporarily.

Now that Foot Ball Season is closing, we can take up Politics, Congress and our new Legislature.

What is worrying us just now is what we are going to do with all the money the Democrats are going to save for us. But where there is a will and a majority, there is always a way. They will probably provide.

Our Chamber of Commerce is a real organization. There are opportunities just around the corner. Let's go get 'em.

Bon Fires, Microbes of Love, Social Crap, Moslem Lectures, Jazz, Teething Rings, Glenn Frank Lectures—who said Life wasn't worth living?

The Old Gray Mare is just what she used to be—and her name is McAvoy.

Who said that the "Come Back" was no longer possible. Though the Lane may be long, true sportsmanship comes around the bend sooner or later.

The speaker at the Commerce Dinner gave it all away—Mayor Frazer loves his job because he is "technically and skillfully trained."

Wilmington at last admits that there is a University of Delaware.

WILD ANIMALS I HAVE NEVER MET

I have never met a beast
Who decked itself in the skin of its fellow-creature.

Who did not prefer pure fresh water to any other drink.

Who fawned upon me while planning to destroy me.

Who ate unnatural and highly seasoned food concoctions.

Who deliberately destroyed her unborn offspring.

Who assumed a "holier than thou" air with his fellows.

Who boasted of his pedigree, or bored me with stories of his prowess.

I have never met a "lower" animal who would not become my real friend in return for kindnesses shown him.—From Dumb Animals.

His System

He was the most down-and-out looking specimen of a tramp that had ever applied at the back door of the little country farmhouse.

The farmer's wife viewed him with disgust.

"My goodness," she cried. "I don't believe you have washed yourself for a year."

"Just about that," agreed the tramp, not in the least abashed. "You see, I only washes afore I eats."—Farm Life.

Proficiency

A city business man was very keen on having proficient clerks in his employ. Before a clerk could enter his office he was required to pass a written examination on his knowledge of business.

At one examination one of the questions was: "Who formed the first company?"

A certain bright youth was a little puzzled at this, but was not to be flustered. He wrote:

"Noah successfully floated a company while the rest of the world was in liquidation."

He passed.—London Answers.

DEMONSTRATION CLASSES IN SESSION FOR NEW CASTLE COUNTY TEACHERS

Newark Schools to Hold Regular Sessions on December 9th to Give Rural Teachers
Opportunity to Study New Methods

At the request of Miss Ina G. Barnes and Miss Ruby Miller, Rural Supervisors of New Castle County, the demonstration classes of the Newark Schools will hold regular sessions on Saturday morning, December 9. This is the second time the local school has contributed to the interests of Education in the State in this way. Last year the school was opened on Saturday to give opportunity to the teachers of New Castle County to see and study the methods used in the demonstration classes. The teachers felt that last year the morning was so profitable that they requested Miss Barnes and Miss Miller to make similar arrangements this year. Superintendent J. Herbert Owens, Miss Agnes Snyder, Director of Student Teaching; the teachers of the demonstration classes, and the children are working together to make the morning of value to the visitors.

The program will be arranged in two sessions: 9.10 to 9.50 and 10 to 10.50. This will give each teacher opportunity to see work in two classrooms. An interesting feature will be the supervised play from 10 to 10.15, conducted as it has been conducted daily this fall. All the children of the primary grades assemble on the primary school grounds while the children of the grammar grades assemble on their grounds. They then work for a few minutes in formal corrective gymnastics after which they divide into groups for games. This work is under the direction of Miss Marion Parkhurst, Physical Director of the Women's College, assisted by student teachers. After the demonstration lessons the teachers gather in the classrooms in which they have observed for discussion of the work they have seen.

The demonstration program is as follows:

CAESAR RODNEY RELICS ARE BOUGHT BY HEARST

Valuable historical relics of Caesar A. Rodney were sold last week in Philadelphia, where William Randolph Hearst, of New York, was the most successful bidder.

From the estate of Caesar A. Rodney, former attorney-general of the United States, Mr. Hearst purchased a mahogany high-case clock for $260, a mahogany tall mantel clock for $45, a carved mahogany console table for $190 and an antique English St. Domingo mahogany secretary bookcase for $320, the top price of the sale.

AT THE PLAYHOUSE

Mr. Neil and his fun-makers will be in Wilmington shortly, which means, in other words, that the date set for the appearance of the Neil O'Brien Minstrels is Thursday, November 30th, at the Playhouse.

This organization, which started in a small way and, in not such a small way either, has rapidly grown in popularity until now it is recognized as a great American institution, and its coming is hailed with delight by all lovers of this form of entertainment. O'Brien has secured an imposing list of comedians for this year's show. Among them are Jay Clay, Jake (Smoke) Gray, Tommy Wiggins, Frank (Cracker) Quinn, Fred Miller, Stephen Ondek, Jack Overholt and Allan Karle. The engagement is for Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights and matinees on Thanksgiving Day and Saturday.

Mr. Green was wandering down a country road, when he saw a man watching a dog. The dog was sitting beside a hedge, crying piteously.

PLAY FIVE POINTS TOMORROW HERE

Tomorrow afternoon, Newark will face the strong Five Points team, one of the best among the suburbs of the city. A large crowd is expected at the struggle. Kick-off on High School Field at 2.30.

A NEIGHBOR CRABS THE ACT

With consummate ease, Walter stalked his dinner and when close enough slammed the unsuspecting duck a terrible wallop on the point of its noble head. Needless to say, the duck expired without a murmur.

Enter the Villain

Now there isn't a bit of feeling between the two neighbors. As far as is known, the mighty hunter failed to recognize the fact that no self-respecting wild duck that's really wild would ever permit a man to crawl up behind it and deliver a knockout punch like that.

Mr. Pence took charge of the remains, Walter is still in the depths of despair, the old duck is still dead, and harmony still reigns over the house tops of Park Place. Thus endeth a story which rightfully should be entitled "Mistaken Identity," or "The Nimrod's Lament."

Outplay First Year Men by Wide Margin Despite Varsity Men

FORWARDS SUCCESSFUL

The University of Delaware Freshmen proved no match for the High School football team yesterday afternoon on Frazer Field, and the High School walked off with the long end of the score 12-0. The victory surprised the large crowd of students and friends of both teams who were present, and the comment on the sidelines showed that the aggressive playing of the school boys completely fooled the talent and their victory was a popular one.

The Freshmen were strengthened by the addition of two Varsity men

High School scored both touchdowns as the result of forward passes. M. Hopkins caught both of them, the first one just on the goal line and the
