DR. HULLIHEN URGES ALUMNI TO AID U. OF D.

Suggests Formation of Comm. To Work for Full Appropriation for College
OVER 100 AT DINNER
Full Grant Would Be Used For Greater Approp. And Salary Cuts

The suggestion that alumni of the University of Delaware form a legislative committee to urge legislators to permit a full appropriation for the institution, was advanced by President Walter Hullihen before more than 100 members of the group in attendance at the mid-winter dinner of the organization held in Old College, Saturday night. The suggestion is an outgrowth of the need for greater appropriations and restoration of salary cuts of the faculty.

Dr. Sypherd Toastmaster
Dr. W. O. Sypherd acted as toastmaster for the dinner preceding the business meeting. Dr. Samuel Steinmetz, of St. Michael's Protestant Episcopal Church, of Trenton, N. J., also addressed the group.

Seated at the speaker's table were: Dr. Hullihen, Dr. George Harter, past president of the university; Charles E. Grubby, business administrator; Dean George E. Dutton and J. M. McVey, president of the alumni association.

The report of the nominating committee for the association's elections in June was presented as follows: Archie Dean, for president; Milton L. Draper and George P. Millington, for vice-president; C. E. Taylor, for secretary-treasurer; executive committee: Ernest S. Wilson, Harry V. Taylor, John J. Murray, Jr., Irving Reynolds, Edwin F. Mullin and Edgar P. Reese, Jr. The nominating committee included J. V. Postles, J. Pearce Cann, Frank Elise, L. H. Hawke, Alban P. Shaw, John J. DeLuca and Fred A. Price.

Makes Optimistic Picture
In his address, Dr. Hullihen presented to the alumni an optimistic picture of conditions at the university and touched on the many improvements made. He stressed the need of additions to the faculty in order that a broader educational program might be given to the University of Delaware students.

EMERGENCY CROP LOAN AVAILABLE

The emergency crop and feed loans which Congress authorized for 1937 are now available, according to information received from Washington by S. M. Thomson, Regional Manager of the Baltimore office of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Section.

In order that these loans may be facilitated, applications are being received at the office of County Agricultural Agent George M. Worrlow, 91 E. Main Street. J. K. Andrews, field supervisor, will be there each Wednesday from ten until two o'clock to aid interested farmers in filling out applications for the loan.

The opening date for the emergency loans to farmers is earlier by several weeks than in previous years and Mr. Thomson said the loan funds will be disbursed in plenty of time for early spring crops.

These loans will be made only to farmers who have no other source of credit. Farmers who can qualify for loans from Production Credit Associations will also be held ineligible.

Maximum Established
Four hundred dollars is the maximum loan this year to any one farmer, but it is pointed out that in each case a loan will be made only in the amount actually necessary to grow crops or maintain livestock until pastureage or forage crops are available. The interest rate this year is four per cent per annum.

The emergency crop and feed loans will be made in former years by field representatives assisted by local crop loan committees in the various counties of this district, under the supervision of the regional office in Baltimore.

ALICE SHELDON PRESIDES OVER YOUTH MEETING

Local Girl Conducts Annual Delmarva Youth Conference At Wilmington

DR. GUNBY SPEAKER

Confidence in the youth of America and other countries to develop into dependable leaders in the nation and church was expressed to a group of 400 young people Sunday night by the Rev. Walter E. Gunby, formerly of Newark, now superintendent of the Wilmington District M. E. Conference, at the opening of the seventh annual Delmarva Youth Conference in St. Paul's M. E. Church, Wilmington.

Miss Alice K. Sheldon, of Newark, a senior at the University of Delaware and president of the Youth Conference, was in charge of the three-day meeting which started Friday and was concluded on Sunday, when a farewell dinner was held at 1:00 o'clock.

Thirteen Delegates

Thirteen delegates from the Newark M. E. Church accompanied Miss Sheldon. Those who represented the local group were: William Wilson, Lawrence Hukill, Mary Wilson, Florence Stengle, Helen Register, Marian, Fletcher, Regina Taylor, Olive Lomax, Violette Leak, Betty White, James Robinson, Martha Moore, and Myra Hall.

Remarking that "these are days of despair and trial in many parts of the world," Dr. Gunby said he yet had confidence that, because of the quality of modern youth, better days will come in the next decade, or the next 15 or 20 years, "when you and others like you will be the leaders of state, nation and the church."

Dr. Gunby counseled them always to look to Christ for their patterns of life and work, stressing that Jesus "never divided men into rich or poor, class or color, but only into 'sheep and goats.'"

Miss Sheldon also attended the annual Maryland-Delaware Youth Conference held in Baltimore, Md., on Sunday and Monday, where she acted as leader in a discussion group.

Old Delaware Ledger Building To Be Razed, Unofficial Source Reveals

An old Newark construction, the building which housed the Delaware Ledger Company for many years, has been purchased by the University of Delaware and, from an unofficial but authoritative source, it was stated that the building would be razed in the near future.

The Delaware Ledger, weekly publication which was issued until 1933, was purchased from Egbert G. Handy in 1933. The plant was at that time located on the second floor of what was then known as the Exchange Building, over the room used for a postoffice. Stephen R. Choute was postmaster at the time.

First Used Hand Press

For the first several weeks, the Ledger was printed on a Washington hand press but was later taken to Elktion where it was run off by the Cecil Democrat's press. The Elktion paper was owned and edited at that time by George W. Creukahank.

A Campbell press was then installed and was in use when the paper was purchased by Edward Davis, of Wilmington. Under Mr. Davis, the paper was conducted under Republic

WILLIS' BARN DESTROYED BY $20,000 FIRE

Firemen Save Surrounding Buildings; Local Company First Arrival

LIVESTOCK IS SAVED

Heroic work by fourteen fire companies saved surrounding buildings as a wind-swept fire destroyed a milk house and part of a silo on the dairy farm of J. Wirt Willis near Glasgow Monday morning. Damage was estimated between $18,000 and $20,000.

The fire destroyed the milk house, sweeping through hay and alfalfa stored inside, after valuable Guernsey cows had been led to safety.

Henry Clements, herdsman, discovered the blaze in the milk shed about 10:30 o'clock. Arriving at the scene first, members of the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Co. found the blaze beyond control and confined their efforts to saving adjoining buildings. The fire was prevented from spreading by use of chemicals. With the water supply cut off, a small creek nearby was dammed and water pumped from the stream.

Several Companies Responded

Companies from Newark, Christiana, New Castle, Delaware City, Talleyville, Elsmere, Newport, Holloway Terrace, Five Points, Cranston Heights, Marshallton, Miquadale, all of Delaware, and Elktion and Chesapeake City, Maryland organizations, brought hose and chemicals to the scene.

Mr. Willis is president of the New Castle division of the Allied Kid Company, and a former director of Public Safety in Wilmington.

Cause of the blaze is undetermined but it is thought to have started through a short circuit.

The local company answered two calls Sunday, both chimney fires, one at the home of Warren Lamborn in the evening and the other at Masonic Hall, Cleveland Avenue, in the afternoon. Another small chimney fire was extinguished at a house on Park Street just off W. Main Street, Monday night.

State Engineer Appeals For Caution by Drivers

W. W. Mack, chief engineer of the State Highway Department, this week made a direct appeal to all motorists to cooperate with the department in using extreme care and to make every effort to drive slowly and cautiously over the temporary bridge which has been erected where traffic is being shunted over Silver Lake at Dover while a new and modern bridge is being erected.

At this particular point the traffic from Route 13 and the by-pass through Dover of Route 113 has converged for many years on the narrow bridge which is being replaced.

Captain John B. Noel, world famous photographer, will give an illustrated lecture at the University Hour scheduled for March 8 in Mitchell Hall, University of Delaware. The program will open at 8:15 o'clock.

The subject of the lecture will be "The Royal River," an illustrated story of England's famous Thames River, which has played such an important part in England's history.

Captain Noel was the official photographer and chronicler of the pioneer Mt. Everest expeditions. Recently he invented the "color dissolvograph," a new art in color pictures in which every color of nature is accurately reproduced.

Last Program of Year

The speaker originally scheduled for the program, Sir Wilmot Lewis, was forced to cancel the engagement due to illness. The forthcoming University Hour is the last one to be presented this year, except for Firmin Swinnen's organ recital on May 6.

As guests for the evening, the committee in charge will entertain parents of the Women's College students who will attend the Parent-Student banquet earlier in the evening.

Captain Noel has spent 16 years exploring and photographing interesting spots of the world; his skill has gained for him the reputation of being one of the most artistic and skillful nature photographers of the day.

LOCAL LEGION ADVANCES NEW TUNNEL PLANS

Proposed Underpass May Get Federal and State Funds, If Town Approves

COSTS TO BE DIVIDED

Baltimore and Ohio Company Cooperates with Post; May Go Before Legislature

Federal and state aid, providing the plan receives the approval of the Council of Newark, is likely for the proposed underpass to connect Center Street and Cleveland Avenue, it was announced this week by J. Q. Smith, commander of the J. Allison O'Daniel American Legion Post, sponsor of the project.

Five members of the local governing body, Smith stated, have signified approval of the proposition which bids indicate will cost $11,000 or less. Costs would be divided three ways with the federal government furnishing 50 percent of the funds, while the town and state will be expected to pay 25 percent each.

Plan Is Definite

While it is assumed that approval by the highway department as a safety measure will assure state funds, plans have been laid to place the matter before the Legislature if necessary. Everything hinges on the action of the local council, however.

Specifications have been drawn and approved by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad under whose tracks the pass will be constructed. Railroad engineers have been cooperating with a committee of Newark legionnaires for several months in working out plans for the proposal.

Property owners, Smith asserts, have been contacted and have expressed unanimous willingness to cooperate with the sponsors.

Tabled In September

Presented before the Council last September, the tunnel proposal was laid on the table when Mayor Collins intimated that the cost would be too great for the town to bear. He refused to saddle taxpayers with a special bond issue which he believed would have been necessary to defray construction expenses alone.

The mayor, it is thought, was basing his estimate on figures submitted by Merle E. Sigmund, when the latter was town engineer in 1933, for a thoroughfare under the railroad.

The tunnel proposed by the American Legion interests, however, is for pedestrians only and includes a sidewalk running from Center Street to Cleveland Avenue.

STATE DAIRYMEN HAVE TOUR PLAN

Delaware dairymen and their families are invited to attend a dairy tour sponsored by the New Castle County Guernsey Breeders' Association on Thursday, March 11, according to an announcement by F. Ed. Hitchens, president, this week.

The tour will include a visit to the United States Dairy Experiment Station at the National Research Center, Beltsville, Md. County Agricultural Agent George M. Worrlow is assisting in arranging the educational features of the plan.

While details have not been completed, the visit at the Dairy Experiment Station will include the following phases of dairy education—pasture management, mastitis and abortion, milk secretion, nutrition of dairy cows and dairy cattle breeding experiments.

Trip of Value

Every dairyman in the state will find this a valuable trip and of great aid in carrying out dairy enterprises on individual farms. The experiments at the Beltsville station are comprehensive in their scope and Thomas W. Mosely, dairy husbandman in charge, has promised a very interesting day, Mr. Worrlow pointed out.

The tour will start from Newark at about 3:30 a. m. Farmers in New Castle County will receive the announcement of final and complete arrangements by mail.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for February 28

THE NEW COMMANDMENT

LESSON TEXT—John 12: 20-33; 13: 34, 35.
GOLDEN TEXT—A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another, even as I have loved you, that ye also love one another. John 13: 34.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A New Commandment.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Great Man's Way.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What the New Commandment Means.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Measure of Christian Love.

In the last week of our Lord's ministry on earth many important events took place, but we pass most of them in our present series of studies. The incident related in our lesson of today is of interest in and of itself, but it is of peculiar significance because it introduces a marvelously instructive discourse of our Lord.

Whatever had prompted their inquiry, we are delighted to note that the Greeks came with an earnest desire to see Jesus.

I. Seeking Jesus (12:20-22).

A man has progressed far on the road to blessing when he makes known his desire to see Jesus. Confiding to him means coming to the One who has the words of eternal life.

Note that the disciples were wise enough to bring the men to Jesus. The true function of every Christian worker is to bring men to him. On the back of the pulpit in one of America's greatest churches, directly where the preacher can see them as he arises to preach, are the words of our lesson, "Sir, we would see Jesus." Little wonder that a strong and true gospel is preached in that church.

II. Finding the Cross (vv. 23-33).

The reply of our Lord to the Greeks and to the disciples who brought them to him, seems a bit singular at first glance. Did he not wish to receive them? They had probably come to see the great religious leader, the King of the Jews—why does he talk about death—why is his soul troubled?

The words of our Lord are clear. Men do not need an example, a leader, a teacher, they need a Saviour. It is as a sacrifice for sin that Christ will draw all men unto himself (v. 32).

We need to relearn that lesson. Leaders of the church are earnestly seeking the explanation of the rapid decline in the influence of the Christian church. It is a good sign that some are beginning to realize that the difficulty is in the realm of the spiritual. The barrenness of so-called modern theology has become apparent to its leaders and they have begun to talk about a "spiritual revival." But unfortunately we soon find that they use the expression to stand for something entirely different from a real scriptural revival. "The voice is Jacob's voice but the hands are the hands of Esau" (Gen. 27:22).

Let us make no mistake about it, a real revival will center in the cross and will manifest itself in denial of self for the glory of God. One cannot forego mention of the fact that the last part of verse 26, "If any man serve me, him will my Father honor," was the motto of the late Dr. James M. Gray, whose life gloriously exemplified the truth of the passage. God is willing and ready to do as much for you and for me.

III. Loving One Another (John 13: 34, 35).

When these words were uttered our Lord was two days further in the last week before he was crucified. He was alone with his disciples in the upper room. What message does he have for them in that solemn hour? That they should love one another. That is a message that needs renewed emphasis in our day. The strife which fills the world has almost engulfed the church, and there is bitterness and strife where love should reign.

Let us observe carefully that it is as his disciples that we are able to love one another. There are two erroneous extremes to be avoided. First, we have the out and out conservative, who proclaims his belief in the Bible as God's Word, who is anxious that he be absolutely correct in doctrine, a really saved man, and who then becomes the kind of "fighting" fundamentalist who dismisses all God in the testimony referred to in these verses. On the other hand we have the liberal who has abandoned the scriptural basis of discipleship and who then boasts of his great love for his brethren. Love is no substitute for regeneration, and regeneration is no excuse for lack of love.

There is a courtesy of the heart, it is allied to love. From it springs the purest courtesy in the outward behavior.—Goethe.

Duty of Gratitude.
Gratitude is a duty none can be excused from, because it is always at our own disposal.—Charron.

The Fountain.
Look within—within is the fountain of good; and it will ever bubble up, if thou wilt ever dig.

"I'm one of the girls who make up the Telephone Directories. Accuracy—with a capital A—is the big aim on my job. There are millions of chances for errors in the spelling of all those names, initials, addresses and telephone numbers. But we're mighty careful in our effort to get every letter and figure exactly right because to us they're not just names and numbers—they're people and telephones. So every listing—name, address and telephone number—is checked and double checked. Then after the printer sets the type, each page is checked four separate times—by six experienced proof readers."

When things happen that you should know about; your name in the telephone book may be worth many times the small cost of telephone service. Business and social opportunities... new jobs... chances for extra work or extra sales... can find you without trouble if you're in the telephone directory. Millions of people refer to it daily. JULIUS CAESAR IN MODERN CLOTHES

Presented two weeks ago by W. P. A. Players in the Federal Theatre, Wilmington, William Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar," done in modern garb will be offered at Mitchell Hall next Tuesday evening.

With shouts of endangering peaceful relations between the United States and Italy and sounding dire warnings about creating international complications, Rev. J. Francis Tucker, pastor of St. Anthony's R. C. Church, Wilmington, attempted a one-man boycott against the play and those responsible for its appearance.

According to Father Tucker's complaint, the entire production is a not-too-complimentary satire on Premier Benito Mussolini and Fascist Italy. We hope it is. Not that we lack respect for Italians or their nation, but Mussolini, Hitler and their ilk cannot be paraded in too strong a light of disfavor to suit us, following, of course, the democratic conception of things.

Anent international complications, it might be foolish for Ethiopia or a similarly weak nation to attempt an uncomplimentary satire on Il Duce. He must realize, however, that League of Nations or no League of Nations, he'll find more difficulty along the Atlantic shores of North America than he encountered in the African wastes.

Yet Robert Schnitzer, director of the production in question, insists that Father Tucker is wrong in his opinion. All of which tends to place Newark in a favored position for viewing something that is "hot."

Dr. C. R. Kase and Major Donald L. Dutton, said to be responsible for bringing the piece here, are to be congratulated.

-Editor's Mail Bag-

Newark, Del.
February 22, 1937

Editor, The Newark Post
Newark, Delaware
Dear Mr. Editor:

In your column "Roamin' with Rutledge" it appears to me that you have taken a definite and decidedly partial side in the efforts of some of Newark's malcontents to unjustly criticize William K. Gillespie. If I may be permitted to do so in the columns of your most estimable paper, I would like to answer, at least in part, "Roamin' with Rutledge." (Permission granted.—Ed.)

Granted, that a reasonable request should be reasonably answered. A request by a private organization or association, regardless of its membership, that has no direct connection with the Newark School, for the use of the gymnasium floor, is anything but a reasonable request. In any case the request for that privilege should have been made to the School Board. It is the proper authority to grant such use. (We said so, too.—Ed.)

It seems to me that you have, without forethought aligned yourself with grumblers that are never satisfied, no matter what is done. Irresponsible youths who never learn a lesson regardless of how sudden or unexpected it comes. The kind of citizen that goes shouting to the housewives "there ought to be a law," yet never have the sportsmanship to live up to the law after they get it. ("We'll do it for you, too") is a lack of investigation on your part to get at the real foundation of certain complaints. Your duty is a neutral one until all the facts are in. Then, and only then, should you take sides, and of course, knowing you as I do, you will take the right side. But you cannot get those facts if you sit glued to your seat waiting for them to bang down on your desk. (That's why we go out looking for them.—Ed.)

It makes no difference that the request for the use of the gymnasium came from Alumni of the Newark School. Unless their basketball team is sponsored by the Alumni Association they have no right to use the gymnasium. The school is maintained and operated for the sole use of the children that attend the school, and not for those who have had their time and call themselves Alumni. A town basketball team adds nothing to the welfare of the present school children. (And the town has no connection with the school either, we might assume.—Ed.)

to use certain other players that were not members of the Newark Faculty. When you say, with certain reservations, that they would have finished a "miserable last," you are talking through your hat. Who are you to pass judgment on the classification of a basketball team. Sports writers, and there are many so-called, have too much ego. (But the Roamer almost called the shot. See Dec. 17, 1936, issue.—Ed.)

What do you mean the local team "couldn't take it?" That, I suppose is another cry of the malapert. The Faculty team could and did take it. They played like champions in the games that I saw. They dropped out of their league because they had more important and worthwhile things to do than to be "playboys." Each member of the Faculty team had a part in the play "Ladies of the Jury." They could not conscientiously give their time to the practice of basketball and at the same time do justice to the play. They rightly chose to devote their time to that which meant most to the school. Why don't you find out what is done with the proceeds from the Faculty plays? That would give you a real scoop for your paper. (Why should the Faculty (?) team have been started in the first place, since plays have been regular events on the calendar for years, we have discovered. Maybe the "malcontents" are correct in their opinions that the Faculty (?) team was formed with a "mean" and selfish forethought of preventing a town organization from getting a "break."—Ed.)

Bill Gillespie has given his time and energy towards amateur athletics in Newark to a greater extent than any ten men you or the cry-babies can name. Athletics are a part of his being. He would not do anything to hinder clean sports, or those sponsoring them. I have known Bill Gillespie for several years and have never known him to resort to "subterfuges." I think you owe him an apology for permitting yourself in a moment of weakness to bring forth such unfounded charges in the columns of your paper. No defense of Mr. Gillespie's honesty and integrity is needed, for those who really know him for what he is have nothing but the highest praise for him. (Then you have wasted a lot of time with this epistle.—Ed.)

If you have a nose for the real TRUTH you will not be long getting the right side of the matter. (And who are you to pass judgment? The Roamer's identity is no secret. In search of real truth—who are you?—Ed.)

Yours for a square deal,
Citizen.

Gloria Swanson Returns to Screen

Twenty-one years ago, a diminutive 19-year-old brunette with a tip-tilted nose and blue eyes went to Hollywood from Chicago and reported to the old Triangle Studio and was given a one day job as an extra. Today, the same little lady is coming back to the screen in "Mazie Kenyon" for M-G-M. Much has happened to Gloria Swanson during the years between the "extra" job and her current starring vehicle. She has been married four times, had two children, adopted another, starred in 48 pictures, made and spent fortunes. She has been on the top and she has been shut out of studios with a "through" sign around her neck. Gloria says she is more than a little nervous at the prospect of facing the fans for what may be a new lease of life or a definite end to the only work she knows and enjoys.

"Mazie Kenyon," described as a mother sacrifice story is of the same dramatic calibre as "The Trespasser." Miss Swanson's first talkie (1930) in which she scored a great success.

State Theatre News Shorts

Friday and Saturday

Generally, screen actors who seriously object to being typed are motivated by two principal reasons.

First, if they always play a butler or a detective, the scope of their histrionic ability is definitely limited and secondly, if casting directors have their names categorized as such types their working time is definitely curtailed because of the limited number of roles for them. Lee Tracy, however, is an exception. He has established himself as the top exponent of the dynamic and crisp leading man perfectly content to be cast as such.

It is such a role, in which he uses his brilliance and cunning in the courtroom to "spring" clients of the questionable type that he appears in his latest film, "Criminal Lawyer." Tracy is cast with Margot Grahame, Betty Lawford, Erik Rhodes and Eduardo Ciannelli (of "Winterset" fame).

Tom Tyler in "Pinto Rustlers" will be the added feature for Saturday only.

Monday and Tuesday

As a result of hundreds of fan letters received by the studio Sylvia Sydney and Henry Fonda, the screen sweethearts of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," will be seen together again in "You Only Live Once." This film is the first Wanger release through United Artists Exchange. It's a starkly human drama of a woman whose boundless faith in the man she loved made her stick to him though the hand of every man was against him and he was hounded to the ends of the earth like a hunted animal. Barton MacLane, Jean Dixon, William Gargan and the late Charles "Chic" Sale are featured in the stars' support, while other important roles are played by Warren Hymer, Margaret Hamilton, Guinn "Big Boy" Williams and John Wray. The original story is from the pens of Gene Towne and Graham Baker.

Wednesday and Thursday

Who was the first person to inspire the dance marathon craze which has been a characteristic of America during the last two or three years? It might very well have been the Archduchess Maria Victoria, a prominent character of April Blossoms, a new musical romance based on the life and loves of Franz Schubert. The picture starring the world-famed tenor Richard will have its local showing these two evenings. Athens Seyler, who interpreted the role of the Archduchess in this film, had to literally dance with very little rest for two days while takes and retakes of the marathon were being filmed. This is one of the highlights of the picture.

Orville Mann, formerly connected with the Newark police force, now a special policeman at Coatesville, Pa., was assigned and completed the gruesome task of recovering the body of Helen Moyer, Coatesville High School student, from the well near Downingtown, into which she was thrown by Alexander Meyer, after he had run her down with a truck, attacked her, and thrown her into the pit. Mann was a member of the local force, 1931 to 1932. Meyer, aged nineteen, recently released from the Haddington, Pa., reformatory, is charged with first degree murder.

ROAMIN' WITH

Nice Work, Bill

Taking the bull by the horns as it were, Coach Bill Gillespie, sports mentor and principal of Newark High School, followed a common-sense idea last Saturday in a move to straighten out, once and for all, the mounting wave of misunderstanding that was beginning to darken the local basketball picture.

"THE ROAMER"

Representatives of the independent faction and the writer, bearing the tags, according to popular conception, of being flies in Gillespie's ointment, were entertained at a round-table discussion of the situation.

Everyone was granted the opportunity for spilling his piece and that being done, everyone felt better. The session, as such gatherings usually do, terminated in peace and accord. That's better for all concerned and it's better for basketball, too.

R-W-R

Can Aid - Hinder

A petition has been filed with the Board of Education requesting limited use of the high school gymnasium by a supervised group of independent basketball players gathered principally from graduates of the institution.

Action, for or against, has been requested by the next meeting of the body. Gillespie has signified that he has nothing against the independent faction and will do nothing to hinder the petition.

As principal of the school his attitude will be of fundamental importance, when and if the board gives the matter the requested attention. While not a member of the body, Gillespie deserves, through his position, every consideration when unusual arrangements are being pondered.

Public schools in numerous Delaware centers—Newport, Middletown, Dover, Dagsboro, to name a few—have been opened, with restrictions, as recreation centers for graduates and former students. We signed the petition for a like move in Newark and think, if granted, that it can be handled successfully.

JACKETS REGISTER 32-30 VICTORY
OVER SENATORS IN CLOSE CONTEST

Third-Period Uprising Set Off by Presence of Carty Douglass;
Butts Tallies 21 Points; P. S. du Pont Hands Locals
Setback; New Castle Entertains Newarkers

By "The Roamer"

Spurred by the presence of their star center, Carty Douglass, who literally rushed from the blankets of a sick bed as a third-period substitute to give them the tap when it was most needed, the Newark High School basketball warriors atoned for an otherwise poor season by defeating Dover, 32-30, last Friday night on the Academy Street stage.

The reverse ended a 21-game winning streak rolled up by the Capital City passers and came when the visitors were within three games of completing their second straight campaign without defeat.

Butts Leads Attack

Paced by "Ciggy" Butts, high scoring forward, who registered 21 points for the fracas, the Jackets uncorked a rally in the third quarter that gave them a 28-20 advantage entering the stretch. Dover led 7-5 at the end of the first period and held a 17-12 lead at halftime.

Ken East's proteges staged a counter-rally in the final stanza and shaved Newark's margin to 28-24 before Bob Ewing dropped a one-handed shot from the side to interrupt the threat.

From there to the finish the teams matched points, with the Jackets more than holding their own.

Ringgold Tops Dover

Ringgold excelled for the visitors, scoring ten points, doing a great job on the defense and turning in a bang-up floor game. Both Hollowell and Ehringer, Dover forwards, turned in creditable exhibitions.

While close throughout and freely sprinkled with tense moments, the contest was ragged. Each team was guilty of poor ball handling, while Dover's passwork when within scoring distance was little short of atrocious.

Losing by a 25-22 count at Dover some weeks ago, the Jackets were determined to end the visitors' enviable streak. They came through with plenty of fight and outgamed their foes in tight spots.

Dynamiters Triumph

P. S. duPont stopped the Jackets, 37-24, for the second time this year when the teams clashed at Wilmington Tuesday night. Superior work from the foul mark which gave them 15 points out of 22 tosses, decided the issue in the Dynamiters' favor.

Butts with ten points again led Newark while Carl Orth counted 11 for the duPont quintet.

The Jackets journey to New Castle Friday night for a return engagement with Johnny Roman's improved team.

SCORING PLAYS FOR GUARDS
(Twelfth in the Series)

The common opinion concerning a basketball team is that the forwards, being nearest the basket, do the scoring, and the guards the defending. This is, of course, the fundamental intention. It is often effective, however, to work in guards as scoring eyes on set-plays. Such a design must not be attempted, though, unless your center is sure of controlling the tap, for, with your guard cutting along the baseline, a tap by the opposing center would give the free forward an open path to the basket. Even when you have control of the center tap, and do use the guard as a point-guard, a team mate should be trained to fall back into the place vacated by that guard.

O-OFFENSIVE MEN D-DEFENSIVE MEN
--- PASS --- DRIBBLE --- RUN

The most simple play of the kind is illustrated in diagram "A": 0-1 at center taps the ball to 0-2 who, in turn, taps it to guard 0-4 cutting down the left side of the court. 0-4, given a free path by the fact that 0-3 has drawn his own defensive man toward the right baseline, dribbles in for the score. It should be noted particularly that forward 0-2, after tapping the ball to 0-4, has fallen back into a defensive position.

Variation of Play

Diagram "B" shows a variation of this play: after 0-1 has tapped the ball he backs up and takes a pass from 0-2 who received the tap. 0-4 cuts down the court, as in play "A," and receives a long pass from 0-1 for the shot.

Now let's give the other guard a chance: in diagram "C," 0-1 taps the ball to 0-2 who, in turn, taps it to 0-4 near the right sideline. 0-4 dribbles a few feet, and then snaps a pass to 0-5 who has gone down the right side of the court. In this play 0-3 draws his man into the left corner, while 0-1 and 0-2 both take up defensive positions.

By mixing in these three with your regular set-plays you will have a five-man scoring threat to worry opposing teams.

Next week—Out-of-bounds plays.

ENTERTAINED CRITICS

Newark High School's principal and coach greeted critics and a press representative at a meeting last Saturday to iron out differences of opinion relating to the basketball situation in Newark. The session was called by Mr. Gillespie.

COURT TROUBLES
BEFORE MEETINGSchool Head Grants Hearing
Formal Request Goes To
Board of Education

An armistice was declared in Newark's basketball "war" last Saturday following a meeting in the office of Carleton E. Douglass, superintendent of schools.

Called by William K. Gillespie, principal of Newark High School and head coach of athletics, the session served to straighten out a number of misunderstandings and provided the independent court faction, represented by Harry B. Williamson and Oscar Morris, with an opportunity to air their complaints—real and fancied.

Ralph O'Connell, assistant coach under Gillespie, and Charles H. Rutledge were "neutral" delegates.

Request Is Filed

While an amicable termination marked the meeting, the independent representatives this week filed a formal request with the Board of Education for occasional use of the high school gymnasium.

The request was made in the form of a letter to the five members of the board with an appeal emphasized for the personal appearance of delegates to plead the cause before the next meeting of the body.

Gillespie made it plain that he is not opposed to an independent team in Newark, although he did register complaint over the use of high school players during the institution's season. He made direct reference to the case of Robert (Bones) Egnor, who was ruled ineligible at the school for playing with the independent dribblers.

To Enter Tourney

Pending the Board of Education's decision, Williamson's team is going ahead with a conditioning program with an eye on the annual Y.M.C.A. tournament scheduled to start in Wilmington about March 17.

Strengthened by the addition of George (Shorty) Chalmers and O'Connell, both of whom will be eligible for tourney play through the dropping of the 6-game rule heretofore in vogue, the independent five will engage the Continental-Diamond Fibre array at Bridgeport, Pa., next Tuesday and will swing into action against the Speakman team of the Wilmington Industrial League at the Y.M.C.A. there next Wednesday.

Negotiations are being carried on for other games as conditioners. The destruction caused by foxes to keepers of poultry is a financial hardship to our people; also many game birds such as quail, pheasant and partridge are being destroyed, and prompt legislative action is imperatively demanded.

BROWN DEFEATS HANNA

By "Cue Keeley"

Idle during the week, Jimmy Martin, Newark, saw his lead lengthened in the Tri-State Pocket Billiards League race when his closest foe, Tommy Riale, Rising Sun artist, was drubbed, 125-55, by Chess Huss at Oxford last Friday.

As a result of the setback, Riale tumbled into a four-way tie for second place with Brown, Ringler and Huss.

Following three straight defeats, Brown, defending champion, snapped out of his slump at the expense of Tip Hanna, Rising Sun, in a match at Port Deposit on Thursday of last week. Brown took a 125-81 decision.

Important Matches

Providing he hurdles Fossett at the State on Thursday, Martin will be sure to hold an edge in the standings when he faces Riale at Rising Sun on March 4 in what stacks up as the most crucial meeting on the slate.

Even a triumph in that match, however, will not assure the local star of the title, since his two last games, both at home, are with the dangerous Oxford pair.

Huss, off to a poor start, is closing with a rush and is finally demonstrating the form expected by his partisans. The manner in which he crushed Riale indicates that he will be dangerous for the balance of the rapidly waning campaign.

Bi-State League Meets
Sunday at Rising Sun

The Bi-State Baseball League's second organization meeting of 1937 will take place Sunday afternoon at the Rising Sun, Md., fire house.

With four teams—Newark, Perryville, Havre de Grace and Providence—expressing partial readiness for opening another season, invitations have been extended to Middletown, Cranston Heights, Port DuPont, Elk Mills, North East, the Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Bel Air and Joppa to round out a 6-club loop.

YER OUT!

By BILL MCGOWAN
American League Umpire

THE NEWARK POST is especially happy to be able to present to you in this column a series of articles by Bill McGowan, umpire employed by the American League.

ARTICLE I

What It Takes

Baseball fans have asked on occasion what it takes to become a big league umpire. Usually, my reply is blunt and to the point. "It takes lots of courage, plenty of patience and lots of grief."

Umpiring at best isn't a bed of roses. Many thorns are encountered and there are many hardships on the way up.

As Billy Evans, famous umpire, once remarked, "It's all jeers and no cheers for the umpire."

Mob scenes and violence are commonplace in the life of an umpire. Being mobbed, mobbed, jibed and jeered by the crowds is merely a trade mark of the profession. Without these humiliating circumstances an umpire couldn't possibly hope to reach the top. It carries a stamp of approval and serves as a high recommendation.

YER OUT!

Must Stand Gaff

The successful umpire must go through this fire. It is the acid test. In nine cases out of ten, the men in blue who have failed were invariably those who checked out because they couldn't stand the gaff.

It is the most thankless job in the world. You can't snap judgment every, especially where snap judgment is the rule.

It is the ball players who make or break an umpire. Once they are convinced you are absolutely calling "em you see 'em," that you do not fear the threats of the home team's followers, and have the courage of your convictions, you are made. Give the boys an inkling that you weaken under pressure brought to bear by howls of the home team, or its manager or fans, and you are stamped as a "home." "Homers have never made good in the umpiring profession."

Odd though it seems, major league players seldom make good as umpires in the big show. This is due to the fact, they lack experience in the art of umpiring. Scores have tried and tossed it up as a bad job, but notable cases being that of Johnny Wallace, a star with the St. Louis Browns 20 years ago; "Big" Walsh, greatest spit-ball pitcher of all time; and Fred (Firro) Marry, the greatest relief pitcher in history. A year at calling decisions is enough for these three great diamond stars.

YER OUT!

There are two exceptions, Bill Dineen, who pitched and won the 1903 World Series for the Boston Red Sox, and the Pittsburgh Pirates. Dineen started his 27th year as umpire in the American League in April, 1936. Moriarty who played two years at the hot corner for Detroit, worked 18 seasons on the American League staff and is still going strong.

The system used today is for the league player to put in a few years in the minors as an umpire before trying to crash the gate of the majors.

Young umpires starting out can make in salary from a Class D salary of $200 per month. The International American Association, and other leagues, stepping stones to the big tent, offer in the neighborhood of $60 per month to their new men. Majors start 'em around $5,000 a year and tops is about $11,500 traveling expenses.

YER OUT!

Umpire Is High

The course of a regular nine game in either the National or American League, the umpire about three decisions per game, milking balls and strikes. The number of decisions made in a game is 350. A very high mark.

Umpire must have a good eye, good judgment in handling situations, are spots whereby the argument isn't covered in the life must have tact, to wiggle through holes and still maintain his position. To be firm too autocratic. A strong sense of justice and ability to handle play-excellent outlet for excess energy to those who are blessed with an over-supply of calories.

University officials have, in the past, extended every courtesy in permitting the use of the college courts. There is little reason to think that this permission will be discontinued and the four courts available to citizens of this town are big obstacles hurled toward the formation of the club.

THERE'S NO AGE LIMIT—if you're straining your lungs through four high-powered, double convex lenses, or if you're sitting on Mother's lap having this article read to you (we hope your mother reads it)—then grab your tennis racket and come to the meeting in your wheel chair or baby carriage.

DESPITE THE FACT that predictions have backfired with booming reverberations that have wrecked havoc with our auditory canals, we'll go on record as prophesying University of Delaware tank victories on Saturday when the Blue Hens oppose St. Joseph's and on Tuesday, March 9, when they churn against Tempel.

Conclusions were reached by comparing the times necessary for coping events in the dual meet staged between the two scheduled opponents which was won by St. Joe's. A decided edge over both teams was revealed and barring back slaps from hidden powers, the Hen fish should take both contests.

While I have tried to paint this word picture of the Umpire it has been for the most part, the hard side of the life. There is some consolation in the old-time umpire's retort, "You can't beat him hours, 3 to 5."

O. R. M. Most of Mrs. Cooch's material was taken from the personal diary of Washington, and gave many intimate glimpses of the Father of Our Country and the conditions of travel in his day.

Ultramodern Foxden Farm and Noted Breidablik Consolidate

View of Milking Parlor at Foxden Farm as Seen from Visitors Gallery

That there is something new under the sun is proven at the ultramodern Foxden Farm, specializing in dairy products, which has been developed, with a constant eye to improved methods, within the last year.

Covering a 260-acre tract of rich land in the rolling hills of Mill Creek Hundred, a bare three miles from Newark, lying between Millford Cross Roads and Polly Drummond's Hill, the farm unfolds a veritable panorama of startling, last-minute developments in dairy science.

Regarded as the most modern establishment of its kind in the entire East, it is likely that it has no equal—surely no superior—on the whole continent. A long step has been taken from the days when cows were milked in boggy barnyards and the pinnacle of perfection seems to have been attained at Foxden.

85 Cows In Herd

The farm is the dream come true for Dr. C. M. A. Stine, owner, and Louis T. Staats, manager and developer. Born in Wilmington, Mr. Staats spent a good portion of his boyhood in Mill Creek Hundred. It was then that he visioned, many years ago, "a perfect dairy farm."

Producing only grade A milk from a herd of 85 pure bred Guernsey cows that have been tested for tuberculosis, Bang's disease and mastitis, Foxden Farm, following a recent consolidation with Breidablik Farm, one of the foremost establishments of its kind in the state, will distribute milk in Newark, Wilmington, and environs starting March 1.

That milk, all in a raw state, will be handled by a highly trained group of nine workmen. Pasteurized milk will be furnished customers from the modern plant at Breidablik.

Three Milking Periods

Cows are milked three times in every 24 hours—at 4 a. m., 12 noon and 8 p. m. From a barn that is spotless, the animals are washed by pairs in a unique "bath room." They are then led into individual stalls in the "milking parlor," where four are milked at one time.

The milk passes into sterilized glass jars for weighing, is carried through stainless steel pipe to a stationary cooling plant where it is bottled. No human hand touches the milk at any point of the process.

As a final safeguard against other than the purest of milk, a last-minute "cup" test is made immediately before the milking machines are attached to the cows.

Observation Quarters

One of the more unique features of the plant is a glass-enclosed gallery for visitors. From one side of the gallery the milking operations can be viewed, the cooling and bottling room is adjacent at the end of the gallery, while a rolling panorama of improved pasture land is afforded from the "rear" side.

Planned and designed entirely by Dr. Stine and Mr. Staats, Foxden Farm is not only modern in every respect, but is unique throughout. Visitors are entertained daily and, when furniture for the observation gallery, now on order, is delivered, groups of sightseers will be received.

Heavell desires all members to turn out so that the team may be in good shape for their visit to Little Bear Tribe on March 18, when they will perform the ceremonies for the Adoption of Governor McMullen.

Kenmore Bingo Party

The Alumni Association of Kenmore High school, Providence, Md., will hold a bingo party in the school building on Wednesday evening, March 10.

Dance and Bingo Party

Following a public dance at Ray's Restaurant, 136 E. Main St., on Friday evening, a card and bingo party will be staged on Monday evening, March 1. Two door prizes will be awarded at the latter affair. The Nardo Trio will furnish music for the dance on Friday.

Federal Players to Show

At Mitchell Hall Tuesday

William Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar," in modern clothes, will be presented by the Federal Theatre of Delaware in Mitchell Hall, University of Delaware, on Tuesday evening, March 2, at 8.30 o'clock.

The presentation is being sponsored jointly by the University of Delaware and the University Drama Group. No admission will be charged to the performance and an open invitation is extended to the public. Children, however, will not be admitted unless accompanied by their parents.
